The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1875. NO. 2.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

AUGUSTA, ME., Dec. 30.—The statistics of the workings of the prohibitory law in Maine during the past year show that $50,000 in fines were imposed and collected for the violation of the law. There have been two hundred and seventy-six convictions, in the Supreme Court, of rum-sellers, and forty-one commitments to jail, a larger number than in any similar period previously. Crime has decreased, the number of convicts being twenty-five per cent. less than ten years since.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Considerable excitement prevails here on account of the determination of the proprietors of the Corvell watch factory to employ Chinese in all departments of the works. Seventy operatives from Chicago protested against the measure, and several of them were discharged to-day. A general strike is threatened, but the proprietors are firm, and promise to adhere to the new plan. The company propose to employ about five hundred persons.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 1.—A special to the Appeal from Helena, Arkansas, of this date, says: "The steamer John B. Maude struck an old sunken barge last night about midnight, while at or near what is known as O K Landing, forty miles above Helena, and sunk in about twelve feet of water. No lives lost. The Maude left this port last evening about six o'clock, with eight hundred bales of cotton and a good list of passengers. All her passengers were brought back to this point by the steamer Phil. Allen. It is believed the boat and cargo will not prove a total loss, but the river is rising so fast at this point that she is in great danger unless speedily raised."

MONTGOMERY, January 2.—Judge Abram Martin, the oldest lawyer at this bar, died last night.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The Evening Post to-day says the employment of the Federal army yesterday in the organization of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana appears to be absolutely unjustifiable.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—The ice gorged at Caroudelet, six miles below here, to-day, and the river has risen about a foot here by its breaking up. Ice in the harbor moves very sluggishly, and if cold weather continues a few days the river opposite the city will be closed and navigation by ferry stopped. This is the coldest day of the season.

FOREIGN.

MADRID, Dec. 30.—General Martinez Campas pronounced in favor of Prince Alfonso, son of ex-Queen Isabella, and with two battalions of soldiers is at Murredro, in the province of Valencia. A portion of the Republican army of the center has been withdrawn from the pursuit of the Carlists to march against him.

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—The circular note of Bismarck of May 14, as read in the secret session of the Von Arnim trial, stated that the new Pope, if not recognized by the majority of European sovereigns, would cease to be a Pope, but would stand in the same position as a bishop appointed without the consent or approval of his government.

SANTANDER, Dec. 31.—The Governor of Santander has resigned. The town is quiet. The navy is favorable to Prince Alfonso. Marshal Serrano has gone to Madrid.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Ex-Queen Isabella has received the following dispatches:

"All towns have responded enthusiastically to the proclamation.

PRIMO DE RIVERA,
Captain General of Madrid."

"We pray your majesty to transmit news to your son. We congratulate you on this triumph achieved without bloodshed."

This telegram is signed by General Primo de Rivera and Conovas del Castillo.

The ships in the harbor of Santander have hoisted the royal flag. Marshal Serrano is acquiescing.

The minister of the interior has sent the following dispatch to the Governors: "Alfonso the Twelfth has been unanimously proclaimed King by the nation, army and ministry. A regency has been formed under the presidency of Conovas del Castillo, without a portfolio. We hope your patriotism will induce you to firmly maintain the great interests confided to you."

The Alfonsists consider that Carlism has received a death-blow.

LONNON, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Motley, wife of J. Lathrop Motley, the American historian, is dead.

A special dispatch from Madrid to the London Times says: "General Prime de Rivera some time since informed Marshal Serrano that he intended to have Alfonso proclaimed King, and persisted in this intention despite offers of Serrano to him of the most elevated positions in his gift, including that of Captain General of Cuba. Marshal Serrano was unable to supersede Rivera, as he alone had the disposal of the military forces in Madrid."

Special dispatches to the London papers agree that the European powers will recognize King Alfonso as soon as his representatives are accredited to the various courts.

"SIR," said the astonished landlady to a traveler who had sent his cup forward for the seventh time, "you must be very fond of coffee." "Yes, madam, I am," he replied, "or I should never have drank so much water to get a little."

From the Work.

ST. LANDRY CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.—Mr. Editor: Since June last, with occasional intervals for rest, we have either been conducting revivals on our own work or assisting others. We have held four on this circuit with great success. The Lord was with us all the time, reviving his church, and convicting and converting sinners. Some have been awakened and brought into the church on nearly every Sabbath during the past three or four months. Thanks be unto God. For this Conference year we sum up as follows: Baptized seventy, received into church fellowship one hundred and thirty—many of them converted. To God be all the glory.

ROBT. S. ISBELL, P. C.

OPELOUSAS CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.—Mr. Editor: The Lord has graciously visited us at Opelousas, whereof we are glad. We have recently concluded our second protracted meeting, at which there were twenty-nine accessions to the church, and a good many found peace in believing. Ten adults and four infants were baptized. The membership was greatly revived and encouraged, and lasting impressions were made upon the minds of large numbers who daily attended our meetings. Family worship has been introduced into households where it was unknown heretofore. The standard of piety has been elevated, old animosities have given way, and love cements the whole. The brethren who came to our aid have our warmest thanks. God's name has been glorified, and to him we ascribe all the praise.

R. S. TRIPPETT.

DECEMBER 4, 1874.

WHISTLER STATION, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—Mr. Editor: We have the power to make each other feel comfortable without any great inconvenience to ourselves. Especially a stranger may be, to a great extent, relieved by little attentions from those about him. But a Methodist itinerant preacher, going into a new field of labor, among total strangers, is prepared, perhaps the best of all others, to appreciate deeds of kindness.

I wish you to allow me to say, through the ADVOCATE, that the brethren and friends here have given me and my family a warm reception—quite a warm reception and a hearty welcome. They have fixed up well for us, and already we feel quite at home, and among friends and brethren. I take these acts of kindness as having been done for our "work's sake." Thanks, many thanks to this people, and devout thanks unto our Master.

W. M. WINN, P. C.

DECEMBER 29, 1874.

PROTRACTED MEETING AT BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA.—Mr. Editor: You will rejoice to learn that the protracted meeting which you, as our presiding elder, commenced at this place in connection with your fourth Quarterly Conference appointment, has resulted in a real time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. The weather interrupted our services in part, and political meetings affected our congregations in part; but nevertheless our morning prayer meetings and evening preaching services were profitable occasions with many. We have had eight or nine conversions, and we shall have about eleven accessions to the church. A good work of grace goes on among the scholars of the Sabbath school. And we have had unmistakably a gracious revival of religion among the larger portion of our membership. The prayer meetings and class meetings have had new life infused into them.

The blessed influences of the revival with which the church at Baton Rouge was so graciously visited during the memorable session of the Annual Conference, held here last January, still linger among the people and in the church. It is good to be here as a pastor. It is delightful employment to cultivate this part of Immanuel's land.

J. W.

DECEMBER 4, 1874.

GOVERNOR HOUSTON, the recently elected Governor of Alabama, says the Independent, in his inaugural message said:

"With a firm determination to respect and maintain my oath of office, which shall be a seal to my conscience, I unhesitatingly undertake to perform such duties as it imposes, and will regard it as one of my highest and most sacred obligations to see that the laws are faithfully executed and the rights of all citizens, without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude, duly guarded and protected."

This sounds the keynote for the solution of the Southern problem, whether in Republican or Democratic hands. It is the business of the States themselves, in obedience to the constitution, to solve this problem of equal rights as between the two races, and no less so at the South than at the North. Let the States do their duty as the constitution requires, and the general government will have nothing to do and no right to interfere with their local administrations. It is only when they fail that it has any right of action at all. It is best for both races that, so far as individual offenses are concerned, over which Congress has no jurisdiction, the protection of equal rights should be left to the States themselves. It is high time for the general government to stop all attempts to administer their police powers.

English Letter.

Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet on the Vatican decrees, as they relate to civil allegiance, has called forth numerous responses from Romish ecclesiastics of high and mediocre degree, and also from lay noblemen of the same communion. The responses not only vary, they even contradict each other, and some of the replies of the laymen are likely to receive condemnatory recognition of a penal kind. Lords Acton and Camoys, both of whom agree with Mr. Gladstone in the main, will be required to recant and formally accept the dogma of the Pope's infallibility, or else be excommunicated. If the Inquisition were in force, and the Pope were as powerful as were some of his predecessors in military and secular resources, the two noblemen already named would experience the tender mercies of popery, and be made to feel that it is not pleasant to question any of its doctrines, however at variance with the genius of freedom, and a lofty and intelligent patriotism. A large Roman Catholic congress is soon to convene in London, to enforce the dogma upon the acceptance and faith of Englishmen, with all the authority and dogmatic orncularity which such a council can command. It is feared that quite a number of English Roman Catholics, of high social position, wealth and influence, are like Lord Camoys, who says "history, common sense and my early instruction forbid me to accept the astounding and novel doctrine of the personal infallibility of the Pope." Such independence and dissent cannot be tolerated for a moment in any one, and means have been forthwith adopted to squelch it, and to prevent it from cropping out again, to the reproach of the boasted unity of the church. Rome cannot tolerate freedom of inquiry and independence of opinion. To do so would be suicidal. Let these things prevail and her influence would at once wane, and her ghostly and despotic domination over the conscience and intellect at once come to an end. She is too wise and crafty, and too much alive to her own interests, and what is necessary to their conservation and advancement, to do so. Intolerance and exclusiveness are necessary to the very existence of the system.

There are Old Catholics in England, and one of these writes to the London Times thus regarding the Vatican decrees: "However loth they may be to appear in open opposition to the authority of their church, there are many who watch with anxiety, not unmingled with regret, the reckless and irrational proceedings of the Ultramontane party—a party seeking to impose upon the world, with all the means of powerful combination at its command, the astounding claims issuing from the Vatican—claims and pretensions long since supposed to have been extinct—which now in their resuscitation are tending to open hostility with modern progress, and to collision with every civil authority in Europe." The writer, Mr. Petre, asserts that the doctrines recently promulgated are new and novel. He avers that he was himself educated in the strictest school of the Jesuits, and never learned there the doctrines which modern Ultramontanism proclaims to be cardinal and binding. He says the only reply that a Catholic could give to Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet would be to reverse Dr. Manning's motto: "A Catholic first, an Englishman after." The battle rages, and will. It has only begun. The principles and issues involved are too vital and momentous to allow any shelving of the question. It has opened the eyes of Englishmen to the real character of Ultramontanism; and let the nation become truly stirred up, and the insolent aggressiveness of Dr. Manning & Co. will receive a rebuke that will induce succumbment to the pressure of a situation which they themselves provoked. It is possible for toleration to be too tolerant.

Moody and Sankey have been the means of awakening a spirit of religious inquiry and concern in Scotland and Ireland which must result in great and permanent good. They spent several weeks in Belfast, and the whole town is stirred up on the result, and hundreds, especially young men, have been converted. From Belfast they proceeded to Dublin, and the effects of their visit there were more marked and marvelous. Thousands, for five weeks, flocked daily to their meetings, and the records are truly wonderful. The rich and the poor, the learned and the illiterate, the titled noble and the fashion-clad peasant, the wealthy merchant and the humble clerk, met together on equal terms, and mingled their voices of prayer and praise to him who is the common Father of all. Cardinal Cullen felt constrained to warn his flock against attendance at the services—no equivocal testimony to their genuineness. Numbers of Romanists have been hopefully converted; and the work in both cities proceeds with unabated interest. The two evangelists will visit London early in the new year. Great preparations are being made for them there, and expectation is on tiptoe.

The Queen has given great offense to High Church clergymen for receiving the communion in a Presbyterian church, and they are equally troubled over the probability that the primate of all England was never properly baptized.

The life of William Shaw, the distinguished African missionary, has just been written by the Rev. William B. Boyce, one of the secretaries at the London Wesleyan Mission House, and it is expected that the life of Gideon Ouseley, the distinguished Irish Wesleyan missionary of other days, will soon appear. William Arthur is the writer.

OBSERVER.

DECEMBER 1 1874.

Letter from California.

MR. EDITOR: Numerous inquiries respecting southern California reach us, chiefly from the regions where the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE has the widest circulation. We beg leave, therefore, to occupy a short space in your columns.

The country, its soil, climate and productions, are well enough understood; but as this is an extensive land, bordering the Pacific ocean for hundreds of miles, it is desirable to specify localities. We deem Los Angeles both the commercial center and finest country anywhere in southern California. Other smaller valleys are to be found; but here is one, capable of sustaining itself as a commonwealth, equal to several of our smaller States. Los Angeles, a rapidly growing city of ten or fifteen thousand inhabitants, and already the center of four railroads, is the coming city of this broad, beautiful land.

But the Eastern man would know something of society, church and school privileges. To these questions we would answer, severally, that society, if not equal to older sections, is fast improving, and will in time, we have no doubt, be equal to other places. Schools are kept up all over the land by the State affording a common education; and our own Methodist Episcopal Church South is to her utmost moving in the direction of a higher education. At this place we have a school property, under church control, valued at $7,000, and an academic education is offered at lower rates of board and tuition than in our schools East. Rev. S. M. Adams, assisted by two competent lady teachers, has kept this institution in successful operation the past year. Here, at the distance of twelve miles from Los Angeles, and within one mile of Nietos, on the Los Angeles and Anaheim railroad, and situated in the midst of a fertile and populous section, it occupies the most promising locality for future prosperity as an institution known to us, or indeed as can be found in this part of the State. Those seeking homes where a religious education is desirable would do well to visit this vicinity. Of this locality, with all its advantages as a home for Methodists, or indeed for good men of any name, we can hardly say too much. But lest we be considered extravagant in its commendation, we would refer the inquirer to the perhaps more sober conclusions of our Bishops and visiting brethren, who have sojourned with us for a few days and seen the outlook before us.

This section is fast filling up, and enterprise is awake. In a few years, when the Texas Pacific railroad is completed, we shall be connected with the East and North everywhere, and it requires no great sagacity to predict a brilliant future; and not the least of all its glories, we hope to see her schools, academies and colleges dotting the fair face of our beautiful land.

Of churches we may say, as of schools, we are in our infancy, and both have their difficulties to encounter and overcome. Infidelity of various types is to be met and overthrown. The church has moved with more laggard steps than worldly enterprises. She has gained in numbers and material strength, but not so fast as to keep pace with our growth otherwise. The Los Angeles Conference comprises the country south of the thirty-sixth parallel, and numbers over eight hundred members and about eighteen traveling preachers. It is or should be missionary ground, and yet no section promises more to the Church South. The Southern people chiefly seek this section of our State.

I have already claimed too much of your space. Should any one wish more definite information let them address some acquaintance known or relied upon.

A. ADAMS.

MONSIGNOR CAPEL is frank enough to say, in his reply to Mr. Gladstone and the Liberal Catholic peers, "that the ecclesiastical power is superior to the civil, and defines the limit of one and the other." This is an express admission of what Mr. Fitzjames Stephen asserted, and what Archbishop Manning would have been glad enough to deny in their recent controversy. It is an unqualified statement of the supremacy of the Church over the State. The State, it is admitted, has a certain jurisdiction as well as the Church, and within its own realm each is supreme; but the Church alone has the right to decide what are the limits of the jurisdiction of each, and the State must accept the decision. A and B possess and occupy a certain field. It is admitted by both that A owns one side of it, and that B owns the other side; but the boundary is not fixed, and A insists that to him alone belongs the right of determining where the line runs, and how much of the field he shall cultivate. This exactly illustrates the relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the State, according to Monsignor Capel's doctrine. The issue thus presented was raised by the Vatican council, and every government in Christendom is now forced to meet it. It is quite true that the occupants of such a field may exercise so much forbearance that no conflict shall arise between them; but that is not the ordinary course of human nature.—Independent.

Letter from Winchester, Texas.

WINCHESTER, FAYETTE CO., TEXAS, December 7, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: My letter in the ADVOCATE of November —— has called forth a number of letters of inquiry, and I ask a small space that I may give such information as may be desirable.

Texas has great advantages to offer to the industrious, economical, persevering laborer. Such a man will find plenty to do, and his labor will be rewarded. Ten miles from here is Seabin, a German community, called the "colony;" settled some twelve or fifteen years ago by very poor people; lands poor—post oak. Now they are well-to-do farmers—have good farms, under good cultivation, and money at interest; have two fine churches—one cost about $12,000; support well their own preachers; secret of their success, industry, economy and perseverance. So will it be in every case where a similar course is pursued. Our society is mixed—I might say good, bad and indifferent—not near enough of the good. We need much more of that element. In wet years we have a good deal of sickness, principally chills and bilious fever. In seasonable years, without too much rain, it is healthy, and physicians have but little to do. We have schools in almost every community, at least four months in the year, supported by a tax, but there is a great chance for improvement. Teachers get from $60 to $100 per month in currency. In many cases these teachers ought to be displaced and new ones put in their place. Preachers are not well paid, except in cities. We need here (Winchester) a good local preacher, who can rent plenty of good land and make a good living, aid us in our Sabbath school, and, if he have children, send to the day school. Besides, he can preach in destitute places within reach of home. No local preacher on this circuit. We need four or five local preachers on the Cedar Creek circuit. We want industrious, thorough-going men, who are willing to preach on Sunday, co-operate with the circuit preacher, and aid in holding protracted meetings, etc. We have lost this year much for the want of ministerial help. Who will come, not simply to better their temporal circumstances, but to do good, and bring souls to Christ?

There is much land to be rented next year in this vicinity and on the Cedar Creek circuit. Men who have children big enough to work could get good situations by applying immediately. Persons coming to Cedar Creek circuit by public conveyance should come to Galveston, and there take railroad for Maynard, in Travis county. If coming here by private conveyance to Webberville, get directions for Cedar Creek circuit. Call on B. F. Caldwell, John Craft or Robert Hill. Stop at Giddings, in Lee county, on the Austin road. I will answer any letters sent to me for information, only requesting the writer to inclose a three-cent stamp.

L. ERCANBRACK.

Letter from Bishop Lane.

TRENTON, LA., Dec. 4, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: As I promised to let the readers of your paper know how the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America is getting along, I now try to fulfill that promise.

I have traveled extensively over the State of Texas, and find the colored people favor our church, and many are ready to join us if it were not for the preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who are buying preachers with the promise of missionary money. They also teach that our church "is not the right church," that it is a "rebel church," and that we are endeavoring to get the colored people back into slavery. But it is known to all, even the Methodist Episcopal Church, that our church has nothing to do with the question of slavery or politics. We profess to try to keep the church clear of politics of any kind. On my way to Texas I called to see you at your office. I remember with gratitude your kindness to me during my sojourn in your city.

I was told that it was dangerous to travel in Texas, for the white people were killing all the leading colored men there. Now let me speak for Texas and myself. I never was treated more kindly in my life. The white people were as kind to me as they could possibly be. The brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church South in some places gave me money to help me on my way.

I organized the Texas Conference, at Hempstead, Texas, November 4, with four preachers and about two hundred and fifty members, and from there I went to the Northwest Texas Conference, which met at Fort Worth on the eleventh of November. This Conference is small, but doing well. I then went to the East Texas Conference, which met at Sherman. We had a good time. The white brethren loaned us their church, and gave us all the aid we asked for; also contributed $51.50 to our high school. Let me say to my white brethren and friends: The church that you organized for us is doing well. I am now holding the Louisiana Conference, which will close next Sunday night.

Yours truly, ISAAC LANE.

AN Irish monk once called on his congregation to thank God that he had placed death at the end of life, instead of in the middle.

What Rome Would Do If She Dared.

The meaning which Romanists attach to the teaching of their church concerning the supremacy of the Pope, as augmented by the decree of infallibility, has been betrayed by a writer in a recent number of the Dublin Review, a journal which, as our readers know, is a representative Roman Catholic organ, and is not wont to speak ignorantly on any subject connected with the hierarchy or its claims. In the course of an article a writer in the Review said: "The Pope, in virtue of his ecclesiastical office, has the power of deposing any sovereign whose government he may consider injurious to the spiritual welfare of that country." This is the whole of the case in a nutshell. Nothing that the bitterest opponent of Rome could say by way of characterization of the presumptuous pretensions of the Pope could be more to the point or more condemnatory. It amounts to just this: Any government that he—i. e., the Pope—may consider injurious to the spiritual welfare of a country may be deposed by him and another substituted. What, then, let Americans ask themselves, would become of the government of every Protestant country—of England or of the United States, for instance—if this asserted power to overturn governments and override their constitutional forms resided in the hands of the Pope? The publication of such an ascription of power to the Pope, by a leading Romish periodical, indicates the undercurrent of Roman Catholic opinion, and betrays its secret wishes and intentions. Every man must feel that the reservation to himself by the Pope of such a power, to be asserted whensoever a propitious occasion arises, constitutes him the public enemy of mankind—the universal foe of civil government, of the allegiance of peoples, of patriotism, and of law and order.

What Rome would do to all nations, if she dared and saw her way clear, is exemplified by what her representatives are in fact now doing in a country where the civil arm is weak, the people ignorant and unstable, and superstition rife. We refer to the republic of Chili, in South America. In that country three of the principal dignitaries of the Romish Church have publicly excommunicated the President of the republic, the ministry, the Council of State and the Chamber of Deputies, the object being to coerce these officials and all others who refuse to subordinate the constitution and laws of the land to the demands of the church. Three bishops have issued a pastoral, which is an echo of the time in Europe when Rome dominated the world and assumed to hold it in bondage. It is also a warning of the policy that she would again pursue everywhere if she could bring the nations to her feet. By the terms of this pastoral, whoever refuses obedience to the mandates of the church, whatever may be his rank or station, is condemned to "eternal perdition," and especially those, as declared by the Pope himself, "who dictate laws or decrees against the liberty or rights of the church."

Romish bishops have not yet presumed for any reason to condemn to "eternal perdition" the President of the United States and his cabinet, the Senate and the House of Representatives; and if they should have the audacity to do so, their sentence would be the merest brutum fulmen in the present condition of the country and state of public opinion among our people. But if the case were different—if the United States were weak or rent by dissensions, its people dominated by Romish superstition, and Rome had us "on the hip," as she has Chili—who could doubt but that her impudent ecclesiastics would apply the lash to us, just as they are now doing in Chili, at the risk of revolution and anarchy Christian Intelligencer.

Thoughtful Kindness.

SUGGSVILLE, ALA., Dec. 22, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: On yesterday we were placed under a lasting debt of gratitude by the good people of this charge. Our store-room received valuable additions of fresh meats, groceries and presents for the children, accompanied with a kind note of welcome and cheer to another year's pastorate. We are entering upon our third year with this kind people, from whom we have received many tokens of kindness and sympathy. Pressed by misfortune and straightened in material resources as they have been, many of them have always evinced a deep interest in the preacher, and have divided their meager incomes to supply the wants of his family. Inadequate as has been our support, we cannot find it in our heart to complain of the noble men and women who have thus striven to maintain a living ministry. Such acts of kindness strengthen our heart to suffer and labor. May this generous and considerate people forever share in the benefactions of the great Giver, finding their reward both in this world and in that which is to come.

Fraternally yours,

E. M. TURNER.

"WILLIAM," said one Quaker to another, "thee knows I never call anybody names; but, William, if the Governor of the State should come to me and say, 'Joshua, I want thee to find me the biggest liar in the State of New York,' I would come to thee and say: 'William, the Governor wants to see thee particularly.'"

TO PERSEVERE in one's duty and be silent is the best answer to calumny.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1875.

TWO ROBBERS.

When Death from some fair face
Is stealing life away,
All weep save she, the grace
That earth shall lose to-day.

When Time from some fair face
Steals beauty year by year,
For her slow-fading grace
Who sheds, save she, a tear?

And Death not often dares
To wake the world's distress;
While Time, the cunning, mars
Surely all loveliness.

Yet though by breath and breath
Fades all our fairest prime,
Men shrink from cruel Death,
But honor crafty Time.

Every Saturday.

The Baptist Church.

INFORMATION WANTED.—MR. CALLAWAY'S REPLY EXAMINED.

MR. EDITOR: In the ADVOCATE of November 5, 1874, you published a communication from me, in which I called upon the Rev. P. M. Callaway for information "in reference to the church that John the Baptist organized," etc. I also called upon him to "tell me how it was and is that the Missionary Baptist of to-day has come down from the John the Baptist Church of the first part of the first century, and whether the church retained the name Baptist all along, or did she take other names? If so, why?" etc.

In the ADVOCATE of December 3 Mr. Callaway appears with the following caption: "The Baptist Church.—Reply to Mr. Dowling." From the announcement of his communication it would be just to infer that he proposed to give the "information wanted." But when I read his "reply" I was somewhat amused at his superior art of dodging. He rushes from point to point, and then falls to "guessing," and then resumes. However, in all this he had an object in view, and that was to conceal from public attention the origin and history of the Baptist Church. His dexterity in this matter reminds me of the conduct of the partridge when she suspects danger to her young—she flutters, falls and quivers till she thinks her little ones are safe, and then she escapes. But I shall endeavor to prevent his final escape until some questions can be examined.

In answer to my inquiry about the church that John the Baptist organized, he says that John never "presumed to organize a church at all." Further on he says: "Again, I stated further that the Missionary Baptists did not claim to be Protestants from the Church of Rome, but claimed to be descendants of those who always rejected the Roman Church, and all her usurpations and unscriptural dogmas; and that such a Christian people had (has) always existed from the days of John the Baptist till now." Also: "Mark then at once introduces the ministry of John as that beginning." The "beginning" was by John the Baptist; yet John never "presumed to organize a church;" and yet the Missionary Baptists descended from those of that beginning! Therefore the Missionary Baptists have never been an organized church! The sentence, "Such a Christian people had always existed from the days of John the Baptist till now," needs further attention. A Baptist writer in the Christian Review of January, 1855, says: "Though Baptists, * * * * we must yet say that we know of no assumption more arrogant, and more destitute of proper historic support, than that which claims to be able to trace the distinct and unbroken existence of a church substantially Baptist from the time of the apostles down to our own." Again: "It should be remarked," says Elder Haynes, "that in forming the connection between the New Testament Baptists and the Montanists, a period of only fifty years is unprovided for, as the Montanists appear about the middle of the second century."—Baptist Denomination, page 41, as quoted in "Baptist Pretensions to Antiquity," pages 299, 304. Now see how these two Baptist witnesses agree with Rev. Pitt M. Callaway, the moderator of the Newton Association!

Mr. Callaway further says, in the quotation above: "The Missionary Baptists did not claim to be Protestants from the Church of Rome," etc. In the succession of the Baptist Church Novatian is the second link from John the Baptist. Of him Mr. Jones, a Baptist writer, says: "Novatian was the first instance of those who withdrew from the Church of Rome."—Church History, pages 151, 152. Concerning this same man, Mosheim says, in volume 1, page 96: "This turbulent man, being thus excommunicated, erected a new society, of which he was the first bishop." He had been a member of the Church of Rome, and a presbyter in that church, and was expelled because he was turbulent. Now what becomes of the historical correctness of the moderator. Once more: "It was observed that in the early period of the Reformation certain of the disciples of Luther, and particularly one of the name of Muncer, adopted opinions in some instances apparently replete with enthusiasm, and on some occasions proceeded to the disturbance of the public tranquillity. From these reformers proceeded the sect of the Anabaptists. The most remarkable of their religious tenets related to the sacrament of baptism," etc.—Ruter's Gregory, page 345. Speaking of these Anabaptists, Orchard's editor, quoting from D'Aubigne's History of the Reformation, says: "One point it seems necessary to guard against misapprehension. Some persons imagine that the Anabaptists of the Reformation and the Baptists of our day are the same. But they are as different as possible."—Orchard's History of Baptists, page 17. Upon these last quotations comment is unnecessary.

But, Mr. Editor, there is one feature in the "reply" of Mr. Callaway which deserves attention before I proceed any further. I refer to his attack upon Mr. Wesley and the Methodist Church. To say the least of it, this did not look courteous. He asked permission to publish his "reply" in the columns of a Methodist ADVOCATE, and in that asked permission to attack the dead and slander the living! Can the Pope of Rome beat that? I trow not. Speaking of John Wesley, the moderator says: "For instance, he brought with him from the Episcopal Church, firmly imbedded in his religious principles, that Romish dogma, 'baptismal regeneration,' and insisted upon the baptism of children, laying down as a predicate that, 'as original sin cleaves to every child of man, infants were proper subjects of baptism, seeing that in the ordinary way they cannot be saved unless this be washed away in baptism, and that without it they would be liable to eternal damnation.'" In support of this "onslaught" he gives neither book nor page. Why did he not give some clew to his authority? Echo answers: Why? One portion of his statement I pronounce a fabrication of his own! That portion is: "He (Wesley) brought with him from the Episcopal Church." Did John Wesley ever leave the Episcopal Church? Where is the proof, Mr. Moderator? Now don't answer by major guess, minor guess and conclusion guess! The whole of the other portion of the statement and the quotation are false as regards Wesley, the founder of the Methodist churches, both in England and America. Now for my proof. "But after the metanvia took place in him (Wesley,) these views passed away. He struck out the dark and damning clause which suspended 'God's wrath and damnation' over the infant world, and laid aside forever the dogma of 'baptismal justification,' as he called it, from which that awful clause flows as a logical consequence or corollary. All these old things passed away, and the religion of Christ wore a new face. The veil fell from before his eyes. Instead of 'baptismal justification,' which had obscured his vision, he beheld, in the writings of St. Paul, the great doctrine of justification by faith alone as clearly as he beheld the sun in the heavens at noonday. * * * It was useless for one of his old companions of the High Church school to reason with him with a view to his re-conversion; for, from the evidence of his own experience, and in the clear light of his own consciousness, he could not but say: Whereas I was blind, now I see. Nor did he reason with them nor battle texts of Scripture; on the contrary, he just went on preaching the glad gospel of 'justification by faith alone,' by which he opened the eyes of the blind, and kindled afresh the decaying Christian consciousness of the eighteenth century."—Southern Review, volume 11, number 30, pages 362, 363.

The change mentioned in the above, by the Greek "metanvia," took place on the evening of May 24, 1738; and Mr. Wesley never organized the "Society in London," which was the first, till 1739. Mr. Wesley had been a preacher eight years when converted, and had been fully enlightened by the Spirit of adoption one year before he organized the society. In the light of the above great truth we see the mind of Wesley in compiling Articles of Religion from the Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England. Now turn to "Article 16. Of Sin After Baptism.—Not every deadly sin willingly committed after baptism is sin against the Holy Ghost, and unpardonable. Wherefore the grant of repentance is not to be denied to such as fall into sin after baptism. After we have received the Holy Ghost we may depart from grace given, and fall into sin," etc. In this article baptism and the Holy Ghost are interchanged, and therefore may teach "baptismal justification." Now turn to the Articles of Religion in the Discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and open at "Article 12. Of Sin After Justification.—Not every sin willingly committed after justification is the sin against the Holy Ghost, and unpardonable," etc. This twelfth in our Articles of Religion is compiled out of sixteenth of the Articles of Religion of the Church of England. In this Mr. Wesley was careful to remove the word "baptism," and thereby free the article from the appearance of teaching "baptismal regeneration." In his sermon upon "The New Birth" he holds the following language as conveying the sense of his mind, independent of the teaching of the Church of England: "And, first, it follows that baptism is not the new birth; they are not one and the same thing. Many indeed seem to imagine that they are just the same." But further on in the same sermon, when he refers to the view of his church—that is, the Church of England—he speaks thus: "It is certain our church supposes that all who are baptized in their infancy are at the same time born again," etc. As strange as this language may appear to some, it does not indicate belief in the dogma of "baptismal regeneration," for it simply declares a supposition. But we will allow Wesley to testify once more upon this important subject. In a volume before me, "On Original Sin," written A. D. 1756—eighteen years after his conversion—he makes the following quotation: "But with regard to parents and their posterity, God assures us, 'children shall not die for the iniquity of their fathers,'" and then adds: "No, not eternally. I believe none ever did or ever will die eternally, merely for the sin of our first father." If this language cannot free him from the spleen of some of the would be great of modern times, it is well-nigh useless to make any further quotations of his own words for his vindication.

With all the above, and even more, open for the investigation of Mr. Callaway, I am astonished at his barefaced temerity in alleging that Mr. Wesley "brought with him from the Episcopal Church, firmly imbedded in his religious principles, that Romish dogma, 'baptismal regeneration;'" and am left to believe that the moderator made the statement either in ignorance of the truth and facts in the case, or else he willfully perverted the truth.

While upon the subject of "baptismal regeneration" it may not be amiss to look into the history of the Baptist Church and see how she stands, and see whether or not the moderator has any right to throw stones at anybody.

The first recorded objection to infant baptism was offered on the ground that baptism procured the pardon of all previously committed sins, and should therefore be delayed as long as possible. This objection was offered by Tertullian—and Elder Haynes claims him as a Baptist. "It is proper to state that Tertullian had fallen into the most grievous errors concerning the efficacy of the water of baptism. He believed that when the Spirit hovered over the great deep in the beginning, he imparted to water a divine element, and that when the body came in contact with water in baptism it absorbed, in some mysterious way, this divine element. Hence, in his opinion, the water of baptism did of itself cleanse away all pollution. As a matter, therefore, of safety he advised the delay of baptism of all persons until the most dangerous periods of life were passed, lest if they should fall into grievous sins after baptism there should be no hope for them, as baptism could not be readministered."—Infant Baptism, Miller, pages 35, 36. It must be borne in mind that Tertullian joined the Montanists, and that the Montanists constitute the first link in the Baptist chain from John the Baptist. Therefore the first link in the chain held the Baptist dogma of "baptismal regeneration." If the fountain be corrupt, what of the stream? The Novatians constitute the second link in the Baptist chain. They assumed such sanctity and holiness as to take the title Cathari, or the Pure. They held the Baptist dogma of "baptismal regeneration." They believed and taught that if baptism was administered by others than themselves it was "absolutely divested of the power of imparting the remission of sins."—Mosheim, volume 1, page 96. Here are two links in the chain which will help the moderator in his work in this country! But let's leave distant lands and dates, and come nearer home—come to the American country. Benedict, in his History of Baptists, page 286, thus essays: "Baptismal Regeneration.—This doctrine is the ne plus ultra, the very summum bonum of the baptismal rite. This theory makes it amount to something worth contending for. It clothes the ceremony with an importance which is calculated to give life and energy to the efforts of all who sincerely believe it, to have it applied to the largest possible number of the ruined race of man. A ceremony which, by its mysterious power, in an instant changes the destiny of an immortal being for time and eternity, and brings him, whether old or young, from the ruins of the fall into the glorious liberty of the sons of God, is certainly of a momentous character, and should by no means be neglected by those who have this view of its sacramental efficacy and saving power."—Baptist Pretensions to Antiquity, page 161. Can any Pope surpass the doctrine of the above? Well, if I believed the above Baptist dogma of "baptismal regeneration," and were authorized to administer the "plunge," I would get two of those Virginia cows, of which the moderator spoke in his sermon at Pleasant Ridge, and I would get a strong dray and would put a large box thereon, and would fill it with water, and would clothe myself with a long black gown, such as the moderator sometimes wears, and would hitch my cows to the dray and would "circumambulate" the whole country, and would administer the "summum bonum" "of the rite" "to the largest possible number!"

But, really and truly, have the Baptists come down from John the Baptist, or from the days of John? When we look at their history upon the American continent it is as clear as noonday that they simply sprung up, without any connection with the past whatever. Roger Williams, the founder of the "first Baptist church in America," was baptized by a lay man. This occurred in the year 1639. However, the Baptists of to-day try to avoid this historical fact by saying that John Clarke founded their churches in America. But history shows beyond all doubt that Clarke organized his church in the year 1644—five years after Williams. So much for the succession of the Baptists in America. But how in England? About the same. A small company withdrew from the Episcopal Church and "first formed themselves into a church, and then appointed two of their number (perhaps Mr. Smyth and Mr. Helwisse) to baptize each other, and afterward to baptize all the rest." Where is the succession in this case? This occurred about 1608.

When looked at from a Baptist standpoint, I ask, in all candor and honesty: Did not John Wesley have as much right to organize a church as Roger Williams, John Smyth or John Matthias, or any other Baptist John? And while John Wesley regarded "the succession as a fable," yet he was in as good succession as the English and American Baptists, for they both once belonged to the Church of England. And what about the Missionary Baptists of our country? How old are they? When and where did they start? The Missionary Baptist Church is of very modern origin—has not lived long enough to make one link, much less a chain!

In support of the proposition that John's ministry and baptism belonged to the gospel dispensation, the moderator says that he "did not propose to prove that the Pope of Rome resided in Ozark." Perhaps it would be difficult to make the proof, even were he to make the effort. But we can help him a little, and may take some burden from his hands, by proving that the resemblance of the Pope resides at Newton.

It is said the Pope sometimes wears a long black gown. Whoever wears a long black gown resembles the Pope. Rev. P. M. Callaway sometimes wears a long black gown; therefore Rev. P. M. Callaway sometimes resembles the Pope.

Just now it may not be amiss to disabuse the mind of the moderator in reference to the word "onslaught," upon which he seems to gloat with peculiar delight. When I employed the word in my former communication it was to convey the idea of "attack," which is its first meaning. However, he seems to believe, as expressed in his "reply," that he had well-nigh destroyed the Methodist Church! Hear him: "It would be rather too egotistical for me (?) to presume that the 'onslaught' was so desperate that there is not a greasy spot left!" No, not even where you struck—nor even a lymphatic one? The effects of the onslaught are shaken from Mr. Wesley and from us, as "the lion shakes to air the mists shed on his mane."

Mr. Callaway approaches the close of his "reply" with a most singular announcement. He says: "I rejoice to know, through the indomitable energy of our Baptist forefather, that we have a country—nominally at least—of religious liberty." This is the first time that I ever knew any one to declare that "energy" was a medium of knowledge. What Mr. Callaway learned "through the energy" of his "Baptist forefather" I learned in books. May he he has the art of reading his "Baptist forefather!"

In conclusion he desires "the privilege of worshiping God under my (his) own vine and fig-tree unmolested." Of course this will be most cheerfully accorded him by everybody. And hereafter, it is to be hoped, he will not molest others under "their vine and fig-tree," and particularly let Methodist girls and boys alone, and cease his efforts to proselyte them.

I would humbly suggest to the moderator that when he writes again, to give a little more attention to grammar, rhetoric, history and logic.

ANGUS DOWLING.

OZARK, ALA., Dec. 24, 1874.

Scatter Sunbeams.

Some retrospection of recorded history proves the assertion that "man was made to mourn." Following the tenor even of our own obscure and uneventful life, we can but acknowledge there is truth in the idea presented. Life in itself would be naught were it not for the coloring—the tints thrown on it by necessary occurrences and incidents. Look at mother earth! What would she be without the light thrown upon her surface by the bright orbs that "rule the day and night?" Then shall our imagination be clouded by the ugly counterfeits of darkened skies of sorrow, or shall we enshrine in our hearts only bright stars, and the gathered rays of the sun, which will lighten up the innermost recesses, and bring sweet peace and comfort? It is only where there is a basis of innate good—where the heart is pure and filled with divine love—that a store of sunshine can be garnered, whose radiance may bless and cheer our fellow-creatures. The rude, rough heart has no sympathy with his kind, but sets himself up in defiance, while all those holy influences that should shed a halo around him are buried up in self-love and its attendant evils. A sweet smile will sometimes encourage a fainting heart to renewed action. A gentle tear shed in sympathy will often soothe the sharp pang of mental suffering. A kind word spoken in season—how much good it may do! These are sunbeams that require no trouble or expense to scatter upon our fellow-creatures around us. The bestowal of such gifts should be our chief aim, and let naught in life's unwritten page dampen our zeal in such a lovely cause as this, and then,

"Like pearl-strung lute in moonlit stream,
Deep takes night's lamps revealing,
With heaven-born light gild each bright dream,
Each golden thought and feeling.

"Then will our wealth of thought and love,
Our life star-crowned, like even,
A priceless boon and blessing prove
To us and earth and heaven."

EMMIE K. BAILEY.

MR. EDITOR: Having never given the public a scratch of my pen, I feel somewhat timid in offering my first; but seeing little or nothing said about our itinerant preachers' poverty—their faith-trying condition at the present—I wish to call the attention of our people, and especially the stewards of our church, to the fact that when we get our preachers for 1875 the greater part of them will come to us without a penny, altogether dependent upon us then. It is high time we were thinking about this while we are selling the last cotton and preparing for the new year, which is almost here. The stewards for 1874 are now making a final settlement with their preachers, and it is sad to think how little some of them have collected. It may be that the stewards are to blame, and it may be the people are to blame. Very likely both are very much to blame. Brothers and sisters, and stewards in particular, what are we going to do if we live and enjoy the blessings of God another year? Are we going to get their labor and see our pastors in need, and shut up our bowels of compassion from them? What think ye? The Lord help us to think and act right upon this and all other subjects. M.

HIGH HILL, LEAKE CO., MISS., Dec. 6, 1874.

Obituaries.

NINNIE TAYLOR, daughter of Patrick H. and Ann E. Booth, died of croup, at their residence in Suggsville, Alabama, on the eleventh of November, 1874, aged one year, eleven months and twenty-three days.

E. M. TURNER.

MRS. EVA LANHON, daughter of Augustus and Lucretia Sadler, and wife of Reuben E. Lanhon, died in Madison county, Mississippi, November 9, 1874, in the twenty-ninth year of her age. She was a native of Greene county, Alabama. When she was but a small child her parents moved to and settled in Madison county, Mississippi, where she was brought up under the teachings and influence of the gospel. She was of good mind and well educated—a graduate of Mount Herman Institute, under the presidency of Prof. T. G. Rice—well read in a sound literature, pleasant and instructive in conversation. She was a kind and affectionate wife, a devoted mother and stepmother.

In 1868 she accepted Christ as her Savior, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and was a consistent, devoted Christian all the remainder of her life. She was uniform, quiet, firm—always acting from a high and holy principle.

For some weeks, when her health seemed very good, she was impressed with the idea that she would soon be called to leave her loved ones. She spoke of this to her sister, and requested her to take charge of her two little boys, and bring them up in the Christian faith and principles of the Methodist Church. Her end was quiet and peaceful—passing away with the bright prospect of eternal life in heaven. May the blessings of our kind heavenly Father ever be with those so greatly bereaved. H. H. MONTGOMERY.

The Texas Christian Advocate will please copy.

DIED, at Pearlington, Mississippi, December 11, at three o'clock A. M., of diphtheria, ROBIN ROLFE STOCKER, youngest son of the late W. T. Stocker, of New Orleans, Louisiana, aged seven years, six months and ten days.

Robin leaves a family of devoted brothers and sisters to mourn his loss—an aching void in several hearts, which time alone can fill; a vacant seat in the Sabbath school, of which he has long been a faithful member, and a large circle of playmates and friends, who will be pained to part with him.

"I take these little lambs," said he,
"And lay them in my breast;
Protection they shall find in me,
In me be ever blest."

B.

CARRIE BOOTH, daughter of Albert and Mary Booth, was born in Autauga county, Alabama, November 20, 1864, and died in Chicot county, Arkansas, November 1, 1874.

Sweetly and gently did little Carrie fall asleep, expressing to her devoted mother a willingness to die, and, after taking an affectionate leave of mother, brothers and sisters, gently laid her head on Jesus' breast and breathed her life out sweetly there. Gone to be an angel! How cheering the thought! Gone to bloom in the garden of God's love! Weep not, fond parents, as those who have no hope. In the home of the pure and the good you will find your treasure, tuning her harp to the praise of her Savior. Think of her as a light in the window of heaven to lead you to the mansions above.

W. WOOLTON.

AT A regular meeting of Eureka Lodge, No. 202, I. O. G. T., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, God, in his all-wise providence, on the twelfth day of November, 1874, saw fit to call our worthy and much-beloved sister, L. C. HUNDLEY, from a world of sin and misery to another and better, eternal in the heavens, where the wicked cease from troubling and sorrows are unknown; therefore,

Resolved, That while we meekly submit to the will of an all-wise God, we feel that we have lost a good and zealous member, the husband a fond and devoted wife, the children a kind and cherished mother.

Resolved, That we let the vail of forgetfulness be thrown over the foibles of the dear departed, and cherish only those virtues with which she was so abundantly blessed.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathies in the sad hour of this great affliction, and remind them that they may ever find among us friends.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication, and a copy of the paper sent to the family of the deceased.

'Tis finished, 'tis done; the spirit is fled,
The prisoner is gone, the Christian is dead;
The Christian is living through Jesus' love,
And gladly receiving a kingdom above.

M. BELLE MCCONNELL,
M. R. CRAWFORD,
N. J. MCCONNELL,
Committee.

LOWER PEACHTREE, ALA., Dec. 7, 1874.

JAMES M. MARTIN.

Our friend departed this life at Jackson, Mississippi, November 22, A. D. 1874. He was born at Washington, Mississippi, on the fifteenth of October, A. D. 1808. He was married to Martha D. Chandler, of Georgia, at Grand Gulf, on the eighteenth of April, 1842. He raised three children—a son and two daughters. His daughters have died within a year—Louisa, the youngest, on the tenth of December, 1873, and Fannie on the fourteenth of March, 1874. He was a printer by trade, learning his profession at the old Courier office, at Natchez, under that excellent man, the late William P. Mellen, Esq., long publisher and editor of that journal. He was devoted to his trade, and assisted to establish Typographical Unions in New Orleans, Vicksburg and Jackson, and was among the oldest printers in the South.

He was a member of the Methodist Church in his youth, and maintained his integrity and faithfulness, and found the consolations of religion the only true source of happiness in this life, and the way of salvation in the life to come. Our friend was unknown to fame in this life, but he is now an heir of the mansions which our Savior has gone to prepare for all of his true disciples.

We would console his dear wife and beloved son by pointing them to that precious Savior as the true Comforter that knows our sorrows, and can pour into our wounded spirits "the oil of joy for mourning, and the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

THOMAS REED.

MRS. ANN WILKINSON died at the residence of Dr. J. H. Gibbs, Meridian, Mississippi, on the eleventh day of November, 1874.

The deceased was the stepmother of Mrs. Dr. Gibbs. She was long a resident of Mobile, Alabama. With Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs she had made her home for many years. Having been for four years a friend and frequent visitor of Mrs. Wilkinson—three years her pastor—I knew her well. With pleasure I put it on record, as her due, that she was one of the best of women. With the solid virtues she combined the delicate feelings and elegant bearing of the refined Christian woman. Her faith was strong, uniform, cheerful. Her spirit was meek. Her demeanor was gentle. She was kind. While the faults of others gave her pain, she was charitable toward the erring. One of her intimate associates remarked that she never heard Sister Wilkinson speak evil of any one. She loved goodness. She was full of goodness. Averse to bigotry, she was devoted to the Methodist Church, of which she was a member for more than forty years. She relished the services of the sanctuary, where her devout presence will be greatly missed by the pastor and members at Meridian. With her, in daily life, religion was a reality. Beautiful in her Christian example, she was happy in her experience. Less demonstrative than many, she enjoyed the comfort of the Holy Ghost.

God was with her in her last illness. Not a tremor disturbed the tranquil trust of her faithful soul. All was well. Her spirit was calm. She was the Lord's, and his will was hers. She entered into rest. Heaven is enhanced by the accession of such a spirit.

The best medical attention was given her, with the assiduous care of Dr. Gibbs' family and kind services of devoted friends.

JOHN A. ELLIS.

MRS. LOUISA TAYLOR, wife of Hendereon Taylor, Esq., died at Markeville, Louisiana, November 9, 1874.

Sister Taylor was the daughter of Hon. Seth Lewis, so long and well known as one of the early settlers of the Attakapas region of this State, and the sister of Thomas H. and W. B. Lewis, both well-known and distinguished lawyers. She was eminently of Methodist descent, her father's house being for many years the headquarters of Methodism in that portion of the State. Many of the early pioneers of our church found a welcome home and a preaching-place in his house. The venerable Seth Lewis died, I believe, in 1848, leaving all his children settled in life, and in the church of their father.

The subject of this notice was born at or near Natchez, Mississippi, on the ninth of September, 1809. In her infancy her father removed to St. Martin, and soon after to St. Landry parish, in this State. On the fourteenth of April, 1825, she was married to Henderson Taylor, Esq., and the same year she joined the Methodist Church. Mr. Taylor lived in Opelousas several years, and then finally settled in Marksville, Avoyelles parish, Louisiana, where Sister Taylor died, in the maturity of Christian experience and in manifest meetness for the inheritance of the saints in light. I cannot, in a brief obituary notice, worthily embalm the memory of this noble woman, who for nearly fifty years so well sustained the relations of wife, mother and Christian. She was endowed with a large order of mind, and early devoted herself to reading, and continued to be a great reader up to the time of her severe affliction, which began about three years before her death. Sister Taylor read our standard works extensively, and was familiar with the doctrines of Christianity and the history of the church. This rendered her at once entertaining and instructive to the many preachers of the gospel and Christian people who always found a cordial welcome and a generous hospitality at her comfortable home. Never can the writer forget how much he is indebted to her wise and Christian converse, so frequently enjoyed in his early ministry. She was devoted to the church, and, I believe, according to her ability and means, was ever ready to meet any sacrifice or service that might arise in the path of duty. She was particularly jealous of the honor of the church, and the purity and integrity of God's ministers. Her position was firmly taken on the Lord's side, and her commanding character made all who knew her shrink from any irreverence or ridicule of religion in her presence. Her sympathy with suffering humanity, and her readiness to relieve the distresses of the poor and the afflicted, was also a marked feature of her character.

Sister Taylor was strong to endure as well as to do the will of God. She raised a family of five children, three of whom preceded her to the spirit world. About three years ago her last severe affliction began, and from that time to her death she suffered much, finally becoming totally blind. I saw her once during this last fiery ordeal; and while Christian friends sung and talked of the heavenly world and the Christian's hope, it seemed a place "honored above the common walks of men, quite on the verge of heaven." Her eyes were bandaged and all was darkness around her, but her faith's enrapturing vision of that heavenly home inspired her tongue, and she exulted at the thought of an early release from the sufferings of the present life and the glory that should follow. So, I am informed, she continued to become meet for heaven till God sent his angels to bear her spirit away to its immortal home. She leaves a devoted husband and two children to mourn her loss. I trust they may have grace to follow her in the regeneration, and that they may stand with her at last among the redeemed of the Lord. A. E. GOODWYN.

WHO SAYS angels must be all young and splendid? Will there not be some comforting ones, whose radiance does not dazzle nor bewilder—whose faces are worn, perhaps, while their stars shine with a gentle, tremulous light, more soothing to our aching, earth-bound hearts than the glorious radiance of brighter spirits?—Miss Thackeray.

"I AM missionary in my nursery," once observed a Christian mother. "Six pairs of little eyes are daily watching mamma's looks as well as listening to her words; and I wish my children never to see in me that which they may not imitate."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1875.

A TEMPERANCE CURIOSITY.

In view of the attention now directed to the temperance question, the following curious doggorel may be read with some interest:

Ye friends of moderation,
Who think a reformation
Or moral renovation
Would benefit our nation;
Who deem intoxication,
With all its dissipation,
In every rank and station,
The cause of degradation,
Of which your observation
Gives daily demonstration;
Who see the ruination,
Distress and desolation,
The open violation
Of moral obligation,
The wretched habitation,
Without accommodation,
Or any regulation
For common sustentation;
A scene of deprivation
Unequaled in creation,
The frequent desecration
Of Sabbath ordination,
The crime and depredation,
Defying legislation;
The awful profanation
Of common conversation,
The mental aberration
And dire infatuation,
With every sad gradation,
To maniac desperation;
Ye who, with consternation,
Behold this devastation
And utter condemnation
Of all inebriation,
Why sanction its duration,
Or show disapprobation
Of any combination
For its extermination?
We deem a declaration,
That offers no temptation
By any palliation
Of this abomination,
The only sure foundation,
And, under this persuasion,
Heed no communication
With noxious emanation
Of brewers' fermentation,
Nor any vain libation
Producing stimulation.
To this determination
We call consideration,
And without hesitation
Invite co-operation.
Not doubting invitation
Will raise your estimation,
And by continuation
Afford you consolation;
For in participation
With this association
You may, by meditation,
Insure the preservation
Of a future generation
From all contamination.
And may each indication
Of such regeneration
Be the theme of exultation
Till its final consummation.

Some Remarks

ON NORTHERN METHODIST MISSIONARY APPROPRIATIONS.

There was given lately, in this paper, a detailed account of these appropriations for the ensuing year. We are glad to know that our co-religionists, whose numerical and financial strength exceeds our own, can also exceed the amount we are able to command for the cause of missions in the regions beyond. The appropriations authorized by their missionary committee for 1875 are $720,000; the reduction from the past year $120,000. To Mexico they appropriate about what we do—$22,000. Their foreign field in Asia and Europe is a grand one, and well cultivated. They are doing, and have done, a great work among the Scandinavian populations in Europe, and in the West and Northwest of the United States. Among the Germans of the same region they have had gratifying success. We could wish, for the sake of peace and "fraternity," that they would allow our German work in the South and Southwest to rest from the proselyting efforts which those can indulge who have a richer treasury than ours. The Germans of Louisiana and Texas are convenient to us—attached to us—and have shown every token of religious thrift and prosperity under our organization. But the "bids," and proselyting overtures that have characterized Northern Methodist agents in those parts, have been a serious drawback to our work. Some chapters could be written on this subject that would be well sustained by facts, and not pleasant to read.

Since they succeeded so well in those fields which we are not able to reach, and where they do not come in collision with us, and since a wide door in many other directions is open to them, it is surprising, when all the facts of the case are considered, how they wedge and push into the Southern States, and at so great an outlay. Under the head of Domestic Missions in American Conferences there are interesting items. The New England Conference draws only $2,100—where free love and Theodore Parkerism originated. The Conference of Western New York, where spirit-rappings began, and where spiritualism and other isms abound, needs only $800 of missionary money. Even the grasshopper Conferences of the far West are trimmed close. Nevada has only $3,000. But liberality abounds toward the fields occupied by us. The Southern States are objects of special regard, where altar is to be erected against altar. A stranger would suppose, if no other source of information or inference were before him than this list of appropriations, that genuine Wesleyan Episcopal Methodism was a new growth at the South, and had taken but feeble root in the soil, and but small hold on its people. Let us compare and contrast some of the items:

For Bombay and Bengal they appropriate $1,200. For Baltimore, $5,000—where American Methodism was organized in 1784. For Virginia, $9,000—whence Jesse Lee went forth as a missionary to plant Methodism in New England. This suggests to the unbiased, thoughtful reader, acquainted with our church history, that there is an abnormal movement here—a factious, schismatic, pragmatic scheme forcing itself upon an unsympathizing people. But to continue quotations: Arizona, $3,000; Alabama $8,500; Arkansas, $5,500. The "fraternal" reader is informed hereby that Southern Methodism has two flourishing Annual Conferences in Alabama, embracing 60,000 members, and three in Arkansas, aggregating a membership of more than 35,000.

Here is more of it: South America, $9,000; South Carolina, $8,000. Well done for South America! Just $1,000 more needed there than in South Carolina, where Bishop Asbury made his winter home and headquarters before this century came in, and where much of his valuable labor was expended, and where many of his dearest friends lived, and whence those letters were written that figure so finely in "fraternal greetings."

Here is more of it: Bulgaria, $9,600; Georgia, $8,500; Mississippi, $8,000. Please find Bulgaria on the map, and see how far it is from Constantinople and the Turks.

Again: Central China (Kiukiang,) $8,815; Texas, $6,000; West Texas, $6,000—where Martin Ruter labored before central China was opened to Christian missions—Texas, where Southern Methodism has five Annual Conferences and over 50,000 members.

Still further: Liberia, $9,000; Louisiana, $8,000; Tennessee, $8,000—where the bones of McKendree lie. Holston, $7,500; Kentucky, $7,000—where Dr. John P. Durbin, their eminent missionary secretary, was born and brought up and converted. To their Lexington (Kentucky) Conference they appropriate $2,500, making in all for Kentucky $9,500. Yet to their Illinois Conference only $600; to Central Illinois, $600; to Southern Illinois, $800. In all for Illinois, just across the Ohio river, $2,000. Kentucky was the scene of Jonathan Stamper's labors, and Gunn's, and Bascom's, and Cronch's, and Lindsey's, and Valentine Cook's, when Illinois was an unbroken prairie. And to Illinois Kentucky sent a large proportion of its best Christian settlers! Be it remembered that we have in Kentucky at least 55,000 members, served by 240 faithful pastors.

Once more: East Oregon and Washington Territory, $3,000; Florida, $4,000; Denmark, $8,400; North Carolina, $7,500. Our church occupies North Carolina with about 180 travelling preachers and 56,000 members.

It is interesting to conjecture what meaning the historian of Methodism will draw from these figures, and how he will explain them, when the mist and clouds of to-day's fanaticism, and party rancor, and sectional strife, and ecclesiastical ambition, shall have been swept away. Perhaps the mere economist will say: "It is well. It is a good thing. That money circulates among our people. Although it flows from an unfriendly motive, the South, stripped and robbed in so many ways, is thus getting back something. Let them appropriate money and send on men to spend it here—it gets into the channels of trade and helps us. Let them buy up such of our own seedy and needy brethren as will take the price and do their work—it relieves us of them, and gives them a living."

We wish that congratulations might be exchanged among our people, even on so low a plane as this; it would be some compensation for the spectacle exhibited before the world. But the net gain, even in a commercial point of view, is doubtful.

When the programme of the intrusionists was being planned at the close of the war, one of their leading organs said this in substance, and almost in words: that their missionaries would keep a watch on the ex-rebels; and their projects and temper, and especially their dealings with the freedmen, could thus be truthfully reported to the people of the North and to the government. How well they have done this part of their work is matter of history. They have systematically stirred up bad blood between the two races. They have bred a distrust and alienation on the part of the negroes toward the whites, which goes far to account for our troubles, and the shameful misgovernment that has impoverished and afflicted our land. They have inflamed the minds of the dominant party of the North by exaggerated and often entirely false accounts of disorders in the South. They have given aid and comfort to the army of carpet-baggers that has preyed upon us—a set now happily everywhere in disgrace.

One of the great wants of our section has been an inflow of capital and skilled labor. For this, emigration bureaus have been organized by our people, and agents have been sent abroad. But the "missionaries" supported by these appropriations have done more to keep capital and skilled labor away from us than all our immigration schemes and societies have been able to counteract. Take the following instance:

"An Englishman," sojourning temporarily in Alabama, writes to the Montgomery Advertiser a communication, in which he gives a forcible idea of the positive damage to Southern character, credit and prosperity by misrepresentations and slanders about the disordered and violent condition of society in the Southern States. He says:

"When, last April, I left England for the express purpose of visiting this and some neighboring States, my friends were as much astonished as if I had decided to go to Timbuctoo, and very gravely remonstrated. My attorney advised me to 'look to my will' and to 'settle all my affairs, as my return was highly problematical,' and three different insurance companies, in which my life is insured, flatly refused their consent, but afterward relaxed on special conditions. Not that there was any objection to my crossing the Atlantic, nor to my traveling in the Northern States, but the frightful stories of 'Southern outrages,' of Kuklux and other hobgoblins had been widely spread, and it was deemed impossible there could be so much smoke without a good deal of real fire. This was confirmed on my arrival in New York, for several gentlemen, usually well informed, gravely shook their heads and shrugged their shoulders when they heard my destination.

"Notwithstanding all these sagacious friends, early in May I was in Alabama. Since then I have traveled on its railways by day and by night, on horseback and on foot have traversed its mountains and forests. I have met every grade of society, from the loftiest to the humblest, have conversed with men of every shade of political opinion, and not only have I never been annoyed or insulted, but on the contrary have had the greatest consideration and kindness offered to me. More than this, I have never seen the least symptom of outrage or public disorder."

Let any one rise up from the perusal of Bishop Haven's letters to the Independent or Zion's Herald, or the letters liberally supplied to the Northern press by his co-laborers of less note in our midst, and there is no surprise at this candid Englishman's impressions. Multitudes of weaker nerve have been turned away from us, and have never ventured to see and judge for themselves.

With these facts in view, we can hardly be thankful for these liberal appropriations to be expended here. They cost more than they come to—so far as the South is concerned. The money is largely the pay of informers. Their missionaries have come, and kept away better citizens. For every dollar they bring for their support they turn off hundreds for useful investment.

The unpleasant conclusion is that the strange moral aspect of this subject is not much relieved by the economical.

Having remarked on a few points in this list of appropriations, we now prophesy a little. Our prediction is that the late elections will lead to a modification of these figures. The Southern outrage business, in which our Northern Methodism dealt so largely, has been overdone. The nation is disgusted after having been much deceived. The occupation of many of the most active missionaries is gone. Well known it is that they were political partisans of approved zeal. They were eminent in loyal leagues. They manipulated the negro vote, and led it up solidly to the polls. This paid so long as Governors could be elected thereby, and State Legislatures, and Congressmen and senators at Washington. Hereafter it will not pay in Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and Arkansas—if these States maintain decidedly their present political attitude. Men in the North and East will not give missionary money to be used in the South for controlling local and municipal elections, who yet were willing to promote a national political ascendency in that way. After a few spasmodic struggles to regain political power in these States, the missionary funds devoted to them will fall off. Meantime those peaceful commonwealths—South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana—may expect a continuance of favor. There Northern Methodism has achieved its greatest triumphs—there is their stronghold of negro followers. Governor Moses entertained their bishops and visiting dignitaries and resident D. D.s with Conference dinner. They hobnobbed with Moses. Kellogg was a pet of theirs. They winter in Florida. They are a power in Mississippi. Those States are worth saving to the party. To their present highly prosperous condition Northern Methodist missionaries have notably contributed, and possibly a field worth cultivating may be found in them for some time to come. Just now it may not be deemed expedient to cut off re-enforcements and the sinews of war. Such allies may be needed, all over the South, in the approaching presidential election; and these may be counted on in that critical campaign.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

The Principle and the Facts

DEVELOPED IN THE GLADSTONE-PAPAL CONTROVERSY.

The careful readers of the numerous issues between Archbishop Manning and his associates on the one hand, and Mr. Gladstone on the other hand, will note that most of the controversy turns on questions of historic fact. Here, of course, there are always two sides; and as Gladstone, like the knights of old, stands with his back to the rock, beating off, alone, the light-armed foes that now swarm around him, it would be strange indeed if some unguarded point of successful attack were not found. The vital questions of principle, however, are few, and if kept distinctly in view they may greatly aid to a right judgment in the long and heated controversy which both sides in the debate predict as now imminent.

The questions are to what extent the Roman Church, now represented by the sovereign pontiff, claims authority in the domain of civil authority; whence does that church profess to derive that authority; and how do they hope, in this age, to maintain that authority in Europe and the United States?

Gladstone avers, and his opponents admit, that the Pope claims authority in all that relates to "morals." Moral duty, embodied in civil laws and constitutions, is learned by "individual conscience," which is the foundation of "natural law," and is embodied in the moral codes of the Old and New Testaments. It is to be noted that in all this controversy the question of the rightful field for the exercise of "subjective conscience" and of "objective law" is debated—the one, of course, being the right of the individual, the other of the State. It is here a main point of consideration that the keeper and arbiter of "individual conscience"—as is tacitly claimed by Roman writers—is the church, represented by the Pope. As truly as he is declared to be the only authorized interpreter of the inspired Scriptures, so is he to be regarded the authority in questions of civil law and constitutions. Yet again, the rights of "family," as distinct from those of "the State," are constantly set forth. It is to be observed that "marriage," including all family duty, is claimed as the province of the church; and of course all laws coming under the "Tenth Commandment" are transferred from the realm of civil to that of ecclesiastical law. If this be granted, of course authority as to the fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth commandments—in fact the entire province of civil laws and constitutions also—must be allowed to come within the pontiff's sovereignty; for all these are embraced in the field of "morals."

The source of authority under which this claim for the Roman pontiff is asserted is stated to be "canon law," recognized, first, in Peter's claim before the Jewish Sanhedrim; and second, by concessions from Christian States, as set forth in the following statement of Mgr. Capell: "The relations of the church to the State engaged attention at a very early period, and the respect paid to her by emperors—even by some who afterward lapsed into heresy—is plainly indicated by various passages in the code of Justinian. The relations of the church to the State have been since so often determined by compact, formal definition and theological commentary as to have provided for almost every contingency that can arise."

As the Scripture authority, Peter's words are cited: "Whether it be right to hearken unto God more than unto you, judge ye." As to this citation and its application, these facts are to be noted: First. It is the protest of Peter, who, with Romanists, ought to have weight against ecclesiastical rather than civil authority; and it is the claim made now by the people of Christendom for freedom of individual conscience against ecclesiastical domination.—Second. It is the claim of natural right as to duty to God rather than to man. As Daniel was so faithful to duty under the Persian civil law that no charge against him could be brought, so Peter, as Paul afterward, had the Roman civil law on his side in making his claim to preach the new religion of Christ; and this civil right, in accord with individual conscience, he was claiming. Third. This very citation is in keeping with Peter's subsequent teaching as to civil allegiance and in condemnation of ecclesiastical domination; when, unlike his professed successors, he taught: "The elders among you, I, who am also an elder, exhort * * * be not lords over God's heritage;" "fear God, honor the king;" "submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake."—First Peter ii, 13-17, and v, 1-3.

As to the professed concessions of civil governments, from the time of Justinian down, these facts are to be noted. The Justinian code referred to was digested under the following circumstances: Under Theodosius the First, from A. D. 375 to 395, while the empire of the West and East was still united, the last struggle with paganism against Christianity led to laws called forth by a necessity of national existence, kindred to the late German laws restricting the authority of the papal priesthood. Under Theodosius the Second, who ruled in the East after the division of the empire, from A. D. 408 to 450, the famed Theodosian code, which made special provisions for the priesthood and its authority, was prepared and promulgated. When Justinian the First came to the throne, A. D. 527, the spirit of the Eastern church revolted from the intolerance of the Roman priesthood, whose authority under the Gothic rule, beginning A. D. 476, had given to Christian ecclesiastics the arbitrary power which Tacitus describes as exercised by the Druids of Gaul, Germany and Britain. In a hasty revision of Roman law, with a codification of the edicts of Christian emperors from Constantine, hurriedly completed in two years, and promulgated A. D. 529, many features of the Theodosian code, giving authority to priests, were incorporated. In four years this code was set aside in the Eastern empire, being superseded by the Institutes of Justinian, from which every vestige of ecclesiastical authority in State affairs was eradicated. The Roman ecclesiastics have, however, imposed this code on princes whom they have controlled; out of its features grew the "canon law," whose main provisions exempt the priesthood and property they may accumulate from the sway of civil law, while it also gives the church entire authority, under the claim that marriage is a sacrament, over family as distinct from State obligations.

The use which the Ultramontane party wish to make of this claim is to be inferred from past history. That the claim is made in unabated form, even when Italy, Austria and Spain have virtually abrogated the authority of the canon law, is certainly illustrative of Mr. Gladstone's main position. That the same play on words is now resorted to which for a time deceived the French democracy—when the right of "subjective conscience" was set up against that of "objective law," or established civil constitutions; while, nevertheless, the fact was concealed that the church held a claim over conscience that was denied to the State—this repeated deception is an indication that the whole field of old controversies is to be gone over again in republican America as well as monarchical Europe. To the calm student it may be made clear that our American fathers did not err when they made these distinctions: In all that relates to spiritual worship and service of the divine Being, the individual conscience is responsible only to God; in all the relations of man to his fellow-man, civil government has authority, while in man's spiritual relations and interests ecclesiastical, officers have only that moral authority which one mind may, by argument and persuasion, gain over another.—New York Observer.

IN THE ruins of Pompeii there was found a petrified woman who, instead of trying to fly from the destroyed city, had spent her time in trying to gather up her jewels. There are multitudes making the same mistake. In trying to get earth and heaven they lose both. "We cannot serve God and mammon." Be one thing or the other.

"HE's a grand preacher!" whispered an old spinster to her sister, on hearing a young minister for the first time. "Whilst, Bell," was the reply, "he's reading." "Reading, is he?" said the eulogist; changing her tone: "Filthy fallow! we'll gang hame, Jenny, and read our book."

THE knowledge of God is gained as a knowledge of man is gained—by living much with him. If we only come across a man occasionally and in public, and see nothing of him in his private and domestic life, we cannot be said to know him.

Religious Intelligence.

THE Mercantile Library of New York and the Public Library of Baltimore have concluded to close their doors on Sunday.

ANOTHER "expeditionary force" of Catholic priests is to leave Rome soon for this country as missionaries among the freedmen of the South.

THE editor of the Evangelical Review, of Calcutta, India, states that 5,000 converts were baptized in India during 1873, and 1,000 in Burmah.

BISHOP CUMMINS, of the Reformed Episcopal Church, purposes making Baltimore his home for the winter, principally on account of family considerations.

AMONG the offerings of a New Zealand native congregation for the support of its native ministers during last year were half a ton of potatoes and a horse.

THE London Weekly Review says the American Presbyterians are accomplishing great things in Damascus. The Arabs are remarkably interested in hearing the gospel.

THE Turks who murdered the Montenegrin Christians have been sentenced to only twenty years' imprisonment, which leniency has created dissatisfaction in Montenegro.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.—A missionary in India says that he regards the conversion of one woman as equal to the conversion of twenty men, so far as their influence in the propagation of Christianity in that country is concerned.

THE Moravian missionary churches in Antigua, West Indies, have received during the past century 6,101 adult members and 3,921 boys and girls. They have now 464 communicants and 884 candidates and baptized children.

THE first evangelical church was dedicated at Trieste, Illyria, on the first of November. It is a large, fine Gothic building, and, beside the Illyrian-Oriental church, is the most noteworthy church edifice in that Catholic city.

DUPANLOUP, Bishop of Orleans, has ordered prayers for the French National Assembly. He promises in his pastoral letter that the prayers of the pilgrims, who are more numerous at the present time than in the middle ages, will not be without effect.

REV. ALBERT WILLIAMS organized the first Presbyterian church in California in 1849. Having no church edifice at the time, the organization took place under a tent. Now there are in California 110 Presbyterian ministers, 108 churches and 6,500 communicants.

THE Vicar General DeLorenzi, of Treves, was some time since sentenced to a fine of two hundred thalers for filling a vacant parsonage in opposition to the State laws. The Court of Appeals discharged the case; but the Ober-tribunal at Berlin confirmed the first sentence.

MR. GREEN, of the Japanese mission of the American Board, writes to the Missionary Herald that the Gospels of Matthew, Mark and John have been translated and published in Japanese, and Luke will soon be ready, and Genesis, and the Epistles to the Romans, Ephesians and Hebrews have been translated.

THE Italian journal, Voce della Verita, is railing about an Ultramontane paper, which spoke of the holy father as a model of submission and resignation. The Voce proves, by his letters and otherwise, that he steadily continues to condemn and curse anybody who attempts to deprive him of his privileges or his property.

THE Reformed Episcopal Church is showing its liberality. Dr. Cheney, one of the new bishops, lately said, in a public discourse in Washington, that during the two Sabbaths of his absence from his church in Chicago he had arranged to have his pulpit supplied on the first Sabbath by a Baptist, and on the second Sabbath by a Presbyterian minister.

AT THE annual meeting of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, which was recently held, the amount realized from the sales of lots was stated to be $30,000, and the receipts from other sources $10,000. The property in tents, buildings, etc., is valued at $60,000. There remain 300 lots unsold, together with an unsurveyed tract of land worth $150,000. The liabilities of the association are $6,000.

THE Ultramontane journal, Germania, writes that Countess Stolberg, at Ruckelwitz (kingdom of Saxony,) is collecting money for a magnificent German national flag, which is to be painted and presented to the Virgin at Lourdes, the celebrated place to which the French Catholics make their pilgrimages. A well-known Rhenish artist has been ordered to sketch the figures for the flag, consisting of the Virgin, St. Boniface and St. Elizabeth.

THE Methodist says of the movement toward Presbyterian confederation: "When the one hundred millions of the Protestant world shall be able to speak with one voice for the right of every man to go directly to God, for freedom of conscience and worship, the world will move on faster toward a better condition than it moves to-day. These federations of churches that hold a common creed are helps toward the great end."

GOING TO WORK.—The Southern Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, as our readers may remember, determined to enter upon the foreign mission work, and appointed Rev. Mr. Wilson their missionary. Mr. Wilson felt constrained, by the feeble health of his parents, to decline the appointment. Miss Mary E. Galloway, of Due West, South Carolina, unexpectedly offered herself for the work, and she will probably leave for Egypt, in company with some missionaries of the United Presbyterian Church, in January or February. Another illustration of the fact that woman is often first in good works.

DEAN STANLEY, following up the action taken by him last year in inviting a distinguished layman to lecture in Westminster Abbey on the occasion of the intercessionary services for foreign missions, this year invited Principal Caird, of Glasgow University, to lecture in the Abbey. The subject was "Christian Missions," and the very unusual scene of a great Presbyterian divine lecturing in an Episcopal cathedral was the occasion for the gathering of a congregation which filled about two-thirds of the nave of the Abbey.

EVER since the imprisonment of Archbishop Ledochowski, of Posen, the German government has been unable to find out the name of the papal delegate who has taken his place. The decrees of the delegate constantly appear in a Posen paper, the Kuryer Poznanski, in the form of editorials, by which means the penalties of the law are evaded. Dean Tomasyewski, who had just undergone a month's imprisonment for refusing to disclose the secret, has been condemned to six months' imprisonment for persisting in his refusal.

ACCORDING to Archbishop Manning, "whoever does not in his heart receive and believe the doctrine of the immaculate conception and the doctrine of the infallibility of the vicar of Jesus Christ, as they have been defined by the supreme authority of the church, does by that very fact cease to be a Catholic." And he warns all such skeptics that by going to confession and holy communion they deceive the clergy and commit a sacrilege to their own greater condemnation. This must rule out more than one good Catholic who has inward misgivings about the infallibility dogma.

PASTEUR BERSIER'S new Protestant church in Paris was opened recently, the first services being attended by a crowded house, owing partly to the preacher's popularity and partly to the introduction of a liturgical service entirely new to Protestant church forms in France. It was somewhat on the Episcopal order. An able sermon was preached on the occasion by M. Bersier, in which he declared, what Protestants outside of France have long observed, that her two great enemies were incredulity and Ultramontanism. The need of France was faith to remove these mountains. This movement, the new service, is an individual departure of Bersier's, and if successful may be encouraged in other churches.

THE Fiji Islanders, now, by annexation, made British colonist citizens, were formerly a very hard class of people. When the Wesleyan missionaries visited them, forty years ago, they found them the most degraded sort of cannibals, indulging in the lowest varieties of vice. They strangled widows and children, buried alive the helpless and aged people, and drank blood out of skulls. One chief boasted of having eaten 900 people. But among these degraded savages there are now 110,000 converts to Christianity. The Wesleyans have 25,000 members meeting in class, 2,000 day schools, 900 catechumens, 2,000 Sunday schools, with 53,000 scholars, 63 native assistant missionaries, 1,000 local preachers, while upward of 100,000 persons sit under their ministry.

RUSSIAN DISSENTERS.—The Berlin correspondent of the London Times writes: "The dissenting sects of the Russian empire are, for the first time in history, recognized by the State, and supplied with the means of contracting marriages valid in the eye of the law. Henceforth the births, deaths and marriages of dissenters will be registered by public officers; henceforth their wives will be wives, not concubines; henceforth their sons will be sons, not bastards, liable to be disinherited by those officers of the crown not choosing to wink at the irregular transmission of property. The importance of the law will be fully understood when it is considered that its blessings extend to something like fifteen millions of people, who either have no priests at all, or whose priests are not recognized by the State. Most of these dissenters acknowledge the orthodox creed, and differ from the Established Church of the country only in liturgy and ceremony."

THE American Board has recently sent forth a young Japanese convert to labor in connection with the Japan mission. Rev. Joseph Neesima grew up in the city of Tokio without any knowledge of Christianity, but with the conviction that he needed help, such as the pagan systems around him could not give. In this state of mind he received from a friend a little book entitled "Story of the Bible," from which he learned, in a dim way, to worship a divine Creator. An account of this country, written in Chinese, by Dr. Bridgeman, gave him a strong desire to visit America. His father forbade it; but, having escaped from the port of Hakodaki, the young man reached Boston, where he was kindly received by the Christian owner of the vessel. Having, through this merchant's generosity, pursued a course of study at Phillips Academy, Amherst College and Andover Seminary, Mr. Neesima was ordained at the Mount Vernon church, Boston, September 24, and has since returned to Japan.

REV. DR. CASWELL, late the president of Brown University, one of the brightest, ablest and wisest of the scholars and divines in the Baptist denomination, has published, in the Baptist Watchman, a letter to Dr. Church, upholding the views of Dr. Church, repudiating the close communion doctrine, and saying: "I knew personally all the venerable fathers and leaders of the Baptist Church whom you name, and to these I may add the names of Lucius Bolles, Jonathan Going, Irah Chase, James D. Knowles, Robert W. Cushman and Baron Stow, all personally, and most of them intimately known to me. Every one of them, I am sure, would have granted all that I have claimed in the way of personal Christian liberty. In asking and claiming this much, I am asking nothing new; I am only pleading for the good old usages of our Baptist fathers. I feel confidence in affirming, upon historical grounds, that this concession to individual Christian liberty has been the general usage of the Baptist Church since the great London Council in 1689."

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. BUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE has been ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keepers, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

Pastor and People.

The word pastor does not occur, we believe, in our Book of Discipline. The office is there, however, under the title of preacher in charge, and all pastoral duties are required of those who hold this position. Our pastoral term is for one year, subject to extension annually to the fourth year, at the discretion of the Bishop. Neither the preacher nor the people have a legally recognized voice in the establishment or dissolution of the pastoral relation, but it is, notwithstanding, usually harmonious, and attended by such ties of friendship and affection as to make it a mutual trial when the relation is broken. The effect of the itinerancy, however, is to enlarge the circle of attachments and personal interests rather than to weaken them. The new pastor is not altogether a stranger to his flock, and he is soon as much at home as if he had spent a lifetime among them. For better or worse, the relation is established for the year at least, and they are pastor and people, with all the obligations and duties which this may imply. Dissatisfaction is sometimes mutual at the outset, but a wise pastor will keep his feelings to himself, scarcely breathing them to the ear of his wife; and the people, if considerate, intelligent and spiritual, will rather conceal than utter their discontent. Remonstrances and representations made to the Bishop are in order until the appointment is announced. After that loyal Methodists will accept the situation in good faith, and do their utmost for the comfort and usefulness of their preacher, and for the building up of the church.

The duties and obligations are, of course, mutual. The flock are entitled to the pastor's best service. His studies and labors are for their welfare and for the salvation of the people. He is to be their shepherd, to guide, instruct, console and warn, and to give them the very best preaching of which he is capable. On the other hand, the people are to co-operate heartily in all church work, in the prayer meeting, the Sunday school, and in the visitation of the sick and the relief of the poor. The pastor needs the prayers and sympathy of his people, and when he has them he will be strong and efficient in his ministrations. His temporal support should, as far as possible, be made secure and ample. There is nothing more distracting and disheartening to the preacher than straitness and uncertainty in the means of living. With monthly bills unpaid, an empty larder, and wife and children at home because unable to appear decently at church, how is he to put heart and soul into his sermons? Some may rise above such depressing influences; but for the most it is impossible. If the people would have a wholesome and effective ministry, and if they would enjoy the highest and best results of a pastor's service, they must relieve his mind of pain and anxiety about his support, they must see to it that he has a comfortable home, a house big enough to afford him a cheerful and quiet study, and that his family be able to appear in society without embarrassment or humiliation. An inadequate support, where the condition of the people could afford a good one, is always keenly felt, and its tendency is to weaken and impair the pastor's usefulness. By withholding in carnal the people are largely losers in spiritual things. The blame may rest in incompetent stewards and defective measures, but if each member for himself will do his part, without waiting for measures or plans, the trouble will be remedied at once.

The pastor should visit his people, see them in their homes, and socially and religiously mingle with them as much as possible. He who neglects this duty neither can nor deserves to succeed. He cannot blame the people for their indifference, and for his lack of popularity among them. It is not uncommon, however, for people to be too exacting in their demands in this direction. Good sermons do not spring out of the dust, and no preaching can be permanently profitable that is not backed up by constant study. The lawyer or the doctor who ceases to read soon becomes an incompetent practitioner. The office and the library, much frequented and well used, are important conditions of eminence and of patronage in these professions. Pettifoggers and quacks they may be without study, but lawyers and doctors never. Wesley required his helpers to spend at least five hours a day in reading. The demands of station work in these times, where two or three sermons a week are to be prepared for the same congregation, can scarcely be met by even five hours of daily work in the library. But do our people consider this? Do they not too often base their estimate of a preacher's labors upon the supposition that he has nothing else to do during the week but visit from house to house? Let us assure our lay readers that the main labor of preaching is in the preparation. The real work is not in the pulpit, but before the preacher gets there. The forty minutes' sermon, delivered with apparent readiness and ease, has cost days of prayerful premeditation. The pastor's time is encroached upon by funerals, by attendance at the sick-bed, by domestic affairs, and by attention to every interest of the church. He should visit much, habitually and constantly, but there is a limit. He has something else to do. In the profitable performance of this duty the people can help him. They can receive him as their pastor, they can ask him to pray with them, and so order the occasion that it may be a religious visit, and not one of mere gossip or courtesy.

The pastoral relation affects character in both the parties. The character of the people is not without marked results upon that of the pastor. His development as a preacher and as a Christian is colored and shaped more or less by the people whom he serves. Intelligence, spirituality, prayerfulness, and largeness and breadth of view, will tell upon him favorably; while the contrary qualities will considerably neutralize his better nature, if they do not sadly warp and pervert it. In the formative stage of a young preacher's ministry, the congregation is putting a stamp upon him which may never be effaced. While it is the pastor's business to teach and train his people, to enlighten, to elevate in piety, and to present every man perfect in Christ Jesus, they are also training him and making him the preacher and the man that he is. There is this mutual influence, action and reaction. The fact suggests carefulness on both sides. There should be helpfulness on the part of both. Both should be strong and positive for good, and there is abundant occasion for meekness, charity and considerateness all around.

In the new pastorate it takes a little time to get everything adjusted. The new preacher is different from the old in mental structure, personal characteristics, style of preaching; and to him the people may differ much from his old charge. There must be thoughtful adaptation, prudence and patience, lest there be wasteful and harmful friction. The first half of the year is often lost before things get to running smoothly, and sometimes the entire term is rendered abortive of good for the want of proper care and reflection. Let the new pastor hear nothing but good of him who retires. What they say of the old pastor will probably be said of him when his successor comes. Let him frown upon all such indirect flattery to himself, and let him guard against the very appearance of unfavorable reflections upon the previous administration. Pastor and people should be united in love. The stronger and deeper the affection the better, so that it is purified and held subordinate to the love of Christ and the principles of the gospel. While the people are to guard against worshiping the man, and of making their religion a personal dependence upon his ministry, the pastor must not so intrude himself as to leave his flock alienated from Christ and disloyal to the church.

Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.

We little thought, when we parted with Dr. Hamilton at his room in Opelika, that he had but three or four days more to live. He was then feeble, suffering some, and he looked like a man whose race was almost run, but we did not think that it was his last sickness. His face was luminous and cheerful, his spirit tender and hopeful. He remarked especially upon the many promising young men in the Conference, and, as we imagined, with the unexpressed feeling that they were coming forward in good time to fill the places which he and others had so long occupied. Dr. Hamilton was at the Seashore camp meeting last summer, and preached four or five times. He had then, we believe, about entered his seventieth year. There were indications of abating strength in the delivery of his sermons, but they were masterly, edifying and powerful. His appearance, as the preacher of the hour, was always hailed with delight by the multitude in attendance. In common with hundreds of others, we now recur to the occasion with thankfulness that we were privileged to enjoy so much of the latest ministry of this truly great and gifted preacher.

We estimate him as one of the very best preachers of our church. Nearly twenty years ago we heard one of our Bishops declare that he was among the greatest preachers in America. His appeals to the conscience were especially pungent and irresistible. As a pastor he was a model. The most untiring, vigilant, sympathetic and sagacious of men who was in the performance of this duty. For one year, probably in 1837, he was appointed to New Orleans, and some of our older people here remember his faithful and devoted labors. He was wise to win souls, and was ever completely absorbed in this one work. There was nothing secular or worldly about him. He always stood apart, given up and consecrated to the one business of the Christian ministry, always aflame with zeal for Christ, and intent on the advancement of his cause. He was a man of peace, of love, of good will, of unselfish spirit.

We quote as follows from the Nashville Christian Advocate:

But this is not the time, and ours is not the pen, to write the life of Dr. Hamilton. We may just say that Jefferson Hamilton was born in Ward, Worcester county, Massachusetts. He was educated at Wilbraham, under the Rev. Dr. Wilbur Fisk, for whom he ever retained, as well he might, the highest veneration. He joined the itinerancy in the New England Conference in May, 1831. He was transferred to the Mississippi Conference in 1837, and stationed in New Orleans; but at the close of the year he was transferred to the Alabama Conference. We made his acquaintance at Mobile in 1842 or 1843, when, with his customary kindness, he assisted us in our efforts to raise money for our churches in Texas. In 1844 we joined the same Conference. From that time we have ever loved and respected him as an elder brother; and have sought every opportunity to enjoy his company and counsel. And now "we cannot make him dead!" But he is dead! Ah! how will his family mourn their sad bereavement, though the sympathies of thousands will be tendered to them, and prayers offered for them. But surely if Dr. Hamilton could have had a choice as to the time of death, he would have preferred to die, as he did die, in the presence of the brethren with whom he was so closely associated in the work of the ministry, and to whom he was so devotedly attached, and by whom he was so tenderly loved.

How beautiful it is for man to die
Upon the walls of Zion! to be called,
Like a watch-worn and weary sentinel,
To put his armor off, and rest in heaven!

Our glorified friend has joined his sainted daughter, who preceded him to paradise the present year. He leaves a sorrowing widow, and one daughter and three sons—all married, except the youngest, who bears his name, and who must be some seventeen or eighteen years of age, as we remember baptizing him in Nashville, as he was born while the doctor was tract secretary. May they all imitate the virtues of their honored sire, and rejoin him in the skies!

Since writing the foregoing we have received the following interesting letter from the Rev. James O. Andrew, son of the late Bishop, whose name he bears, dated Opelika, Alabama, December 17:

"When I left you at the train yesterday morning I returned to Dr. Hamilton's room, and found him sinking. He asked the doctor soon after I got in if he saw any change in his condition. The doctor replied that he was sinking. Said he: 'Do you think it will result in death?' The doctor replied he thought it would. Up to that time he had not thought there was any probability of his dying. But the announcement never caused a muscle to quiver. He merely remarked, 'It is good,' in the same calm, collected tone that he would have used in speaking of any ordinary event. His mind had been wandering for some time, but it cleared up, and he conversed for some time of his trust in God and his hope in Christ. He sent messages to his children and friends, left directions in regard to his business, till he became too weak to talk much. He continued to grow weaker, but his mind continued perfectly clear, and he seemed to be patiently waiting his change. There was no triumph, but a calm, unruffled confidence. As the air grew chill with the beating of the grim messenger's wings, he seemed to wrap his spirit in the folds of God's protecting love, and reposed with confidence on the bosom of Jesus. He inquired for you, and I gave him your farewell. He lingered till the adjournment of Conference, and breathed his last as the Bishop finished reading the appointments. It was a sad termination to a pleasant session; but it was a fit time and place for such a man to die. He has taken a transfer from the field of his labors to the rest that remains for the people of God, and earth is the poorer by his loss. His last thoughts were with the church, and the work to which his life was devoted. I do not attempt to describe his death; it was a grand and glorious end of a grand and glorious life. It was just such a death as you, who knew his life, would have expected him to die. I write this to fulfill my promise, as I doubt not fuller particulars will be furnished by others."

LETTER FROM DR. MITCHELL.

"I drop you a line simply to record the fact that 'a prince and a great man hath fallen this day in Israel.' Jefferson Hamilton breathed his last in Opelika, the seat of the Conference, December 16, 1874, at half-past twelve o'clock in the day, about five minutes after the Conference closed its session. When the Bishop came to his name, reading out the appointments, he paused, and said he had assigned him to work, but he should not announce the appointment, as the great Head of the church had taken him out of his hands and given him a better appointment. Jacob said, 'Me have ye bereaved of my children,' but the Alabama Conference may say, with emphasis, we have been bereaved of our father, for Dr. Hamilton was eminently the father of the Conference. His hand was in everything, and his heart full of everything, pertaining to the interest and weal of the church.

"My heart is too full for a long article, nor have I the facts or dates for an extensive obituary. This undertaking, I trust, will fall into abler hands. I propose to give simply the facts and circumstances of his happy and triumphant death. We met in Montgomery, on Tuesday morning, on our way to Opelika. The doctor looked, I thought, about as well as usual, though he complained somewhat, having been up and traveling all night. When we reached the Conference we were assigned to the same house, and, of course, I was with him during the time of his sickness, and saw much of his last and dying hours. On Wednesday morning he went into the Conference and answered to his name, as he had been accustomed to do for almost half a century. He was in his place and attended to business as usual throughout the day. On Thursday morning again he was in his place, but before the morning session closed he was compelled to withdraw; went to his room, took his bed, and it proved to be his last and dying bed. The physician, Dr. Barnett, was immediately called in, and he waited on him with the greatest assiduity and skill to the last moment. We did not consider him sicker than he had been a hundred times before, but on Monday some of his Mobile friends thought it prudent to dispatch to his wife, and on Tuesday night she arrived, and, knowing him as she did, she saw at once that his end had come, and without any alarm or excitement she approached him on the subject. It seemed rather to astonish than alarm him. He called the physician, who told him plainly he could do nothing for him. He then seemed to turn his attention to some matters of business; told his wife all about them, how he wished them arranged very specifically, and then commenced sending messages to his children, calling them by name, and leaving each one his dying charge, and then seemed to sum up the whole in one general charge: 'Tell my children,' said he, 'and my grandchildren, never to do anything that would dishonor the church; cleave to the church,' said he—'I mean the Methodist Church, for this is the form of religion which is to redeem and save the world, and from her pale will come up, purified and saved, multiplied thousands to swell the ranks of the heavenly hosts.' After pausing a little, and recovering his strength, he commenced again, with great emphasis: 'I have never been a boastful Christian, but I do profess to have a clear and strong view of the doctrine of salvation by faith, and a conscious experience of the power of grace to save, and that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin. In this faith I have lived, and in it I am willing to die.' He then turned to me, for I was right by his side, and said: 'Doctor, we have been long meeting at Conferences, in boards of trustees and socially; we have had long and pleasant greetings on these occasions, but they are all over now; hereafter you will miss me.'

"Bishop Doggett came in early that morning, talked a little with him, and offered prayer; on his way to the Conference-room he called in again to take his final leave: 'Farewell, my brother,' said the Bishop, 'God bless you!' In reply to this the doctor said, with peculiar emphasis: 'We shall meet again.' The Conference closed at half-past twelve o'clock. Dr. Andrew hastened down to see the last of his dying friend; found him still breathing. I called on him to join in prayer; we kneeled in prayer, and when we arose there was a gasp, a slight twinge of the face, and all was over—the spirit had fled! He died without a struggle. Most men would like to die at home in the bosom of their family, but I don't know if it was not exceedingly appropriate for such a man to die at the Conference, in the midst of his brethren. Bro. DuBose, Bro. J. O. Andrew, Bro. Rush and others had been with him, and nursed him with much care and delight. There, too, was the wife of his bosom, together with a few other precious women, who had known him long and honored him as a father. Bro. McNamee also, with his wife and aged mother, ready to rise at all hours of the night, conspired to smooth the pathway of the dying pilgrim. I reckon Jefferson Hamilton died at the right time and at the right place.

"We came on to Montgomery with the corpse on Thursday morning, when I was compelled to leave the company on their way to Mobile, where the funeral is appointed for to-day, Friday, the service to be according to the ritual of the church, the Masonic fraternity uniting and participating.

A. H. MITCHELL.

SUMMERFIELD, Dec. 17, 1874."

What Monsignor Capel Means.

The London Times reviews Monsignor Capel's letter thus: "The church, he says, has always held four principles. The first two are generalities—that all power, civil or ecclesiastical, emanates from God, and that both are consequently to be honored and obeyed. But the two remaining principles involve the practical point at issue, and they are stated with unmistakable definiteness. His church also holds 'that the ecclesiastical power is superior to the civil, and defines the limit of one and the other,' and 'that where the civil power passes its proper province, then has the church the right to raise her voice and condemn it.' Let us translate these principles into a concrete form, and they amount to this: that the Pope's power is superior to that of Queen Victoria, and defines the limit within which she may be obeyed, and that if the Legislature passes the province which the Pope defines as 'proper' for it, he has the right to condemn it, and consequently to exact from all Roman Catholics obedience to himself and disobedience to the law. There is no possible escape from this simple translation of Monsignor Capel's propositions. It can no longer be denied, since the proclamation of the Pope's infallibility, that 'the ecclesiastical power' means simply the Pope. A foreign ecclesiastic thus claims the right of defining the limits of Parliamentary and royal authority in England, and if the allegiance of a man who admits this be not divided, there would seem no meaning in words. . . . It has been the obvious effect of the Vatican decree to render this intrusion of an external authority between the Queen and her subjects more visible, palpable and undeniable than ever. It is not a little perplexing, indeed, that Roman Catholic apologists should labor so energetically to convince us that nothing was really altered by the Vatican decree. If not, why was it ever made? . . . . As long as infallibility was invested, as Monsignor Capel expresses it, in the 'teaching body of the church united to the Pope, either dispersed in daily teaching or united in a general council,' it was comparatively harmless, for it could scarce be exercised at all. But now that it is concentrated in the breast of a single man, it is a thunderbolt which may be launched at any time. Allegiance to a church 'dispersed' was simply a theoretical inconsistency with English loyalty. But allegiance to a Pope may at any moment come into direct conflict with allegiance to a Queen. That there is any practical danger to English political life from such principles we do not believe, for the Roman Catholic body, as is apparent, are divided on the subject. But that the Roman Catholic Church has brought itself into direct and visible antagonism with civil allegiance throughout the world has now become unquestionable to all but that portion of Roman Catholics who are content to believe without reasoning."

THE Southern Christian Advocate says of the South Georgia Conference, recently in session at Savannah:

The attendance was large, and the presidency of Bishop Pierce—always popular and efficient—pre-eminently so here. The venerable Dr. Pierce addressed the Conference feelingly, saying, in the course of his personal references, that while with advancing age his religious experience might exhibit less body and top, it was steadily sending its tap-root deeper and deeper into the rich soil of gospel truth. He also dwelt largely upon the importance of the additional legislation on the subject of ministerial efficiency, which, at his suggestion, was incorporated in the Discipline by the last General Conference. The examination of character was conducted with reference to these enactments, and, though rigid and searching, none failed to stand the test. The condition of the church bears most favorable comparison with former years, and shows that the zeal of the ministry and membership has been abundantly blessed of God. Financial reports indicate improvement, notwithstanding the general depression of the country. The business of the Conference was conducted with deliberation, and with due regard to the claims of every interest. The temperance amendment received a decided majority; but, as we were compelled to leave before the adjournment, we will have to refer our readers to the reported proceedings for the exact figures. The session was not without those inevitable concomitants of Methodist assemblies—collections—and very reputable sums were raised to aid Rev. T. R. Pierce in rebuilding his church in Pueblo, Colorado, and for the too long-delayed purpose of erecting a monument over the grave of Bishop Andrew, at Oxford.

A noticeable fact in connection with both the Conferences we have lately attended has been the reticence observed by both Bishops and presiding elders with reference to the appointments. The cabinet kept their secrets, and the ardent desire to obtain information in advance of the official announcement was resolutely disappointed. This is right; and at whatever cost to our personal curiosity, we should be glad to see the most rigid secrecy observed by the Bishops and their counselors. A departure from this course almost invariably creates trouble that would otherwise have been avoided.

Church Suits Finally Decided.

The suits of the Methodist Episcopal Church South vs. the Methodist Episcopal Church, for the recovery of the church at Greenville, Tennessee, and of the parsonage property at Johnson City, Tennessee, having come before the Supreme Court of Tennessee, on appeal from the lower courts, have finally been decided in favor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South—that is, the decisions of the lower courts have been confirmed. The Holston Methodist says:

"These cases settle that by the separation of the Methodist Church in 1848, in pursuance of the Plan of Separation adopted by the General Conference of 1844, the Methodist Episcopal Church South became a separate and independent ecclesiastical body, and that by the ninth article of the Plan of Separation the Northern portion of the Church, as originally composed, released to the Southern portion all interest in the church property within the territory of the slave States, and by this means the beneficial interest was fixed exclusively in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and after that time the legal title was held by the trustees for the use and benefit of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. In the language of the court: 'The ninth article operated as an effectual estopple against the Methodist Episcopal Church as to any further claim. This consequence is in no way affected by the fact that a large portion, even a majority of the members of the church who worship on the premises, withdrew from the Methodist Episcopal Church South and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, nor by the fact that three of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church South withdrew and became trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The effect of such withdrawal was to lose all interest as beneficiaries of the property.'"

Rev. J. B. Walker, D. D.

It will be seen by the appointments of the Texas Conference, says the Galveston Christian Advocate, that Dr. Walker has transferred to the Louisiana Conference. The assurance that a wise sense of duty on his part demanded this step does not render the hour of separation less painful to his charge and to his brethren in the Texas Conference; nor does it lighten the loss our church in Texas experiences by this removal from its field one of the ablest preachers and most efficient pastors in our connection. Could the affection of his congregation have retained him longer, he would have still occupied the pulpit of St John's; and in his new field, wherever it may be, he will share a place in their memory and prayers.

We, perhaps more than any one, shall feel the void occasioned by his departure. Intimately associated in labors and counsel for the past four years, we feel a deep sensation of loneliness as we re-enter the office so long lightened in its labors by his aid, and enlivened by his cheering words and ever hopeful spirit. For four years past that intimate association which exists between brethren devoted to one common and hallowed work has been unruffled by even a thought of coldness; and now, while separated from him we shall cherish as a blessed heritage the memory of a friendship cemented by Christian confidence and love. May the richest blessings of providence and grace rest upon our brother and his loved ones wherever their lots may be cast; and in years to come, as in days gone by, but more abundantly, may his labors in the pulpit and the pastoral field be crowned with precious souls won from the world to the cross.

THE Nashville Christian Advocate of December 5 says: "The Tennessee Conference of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church has just closed a pleasant and profitable session at Capers chapel, Nashville. In company with Dr. McFerrin we looked in on the brethren, and were pleased to see Bishop Miles occupy the chair in a manner so truly episcopal. He keeps them well to the record. The missionary secretary and the editor, by request, made a few remarks to the brethren, which were courteously recognized by a kind resolution. They do everything in true Methodistic style. The Bishop's sermon on Sunday afternoon—when we, with others of our complexion, had the pleasure of being present—was evangelical and earnest. It elicited many an approving response. A collection followed for the school of the prophets, which promises to be a success. We hope all our friends everywhere will help them in this commendable enterprise. In the morning the deacons were ordained, and the elders at night. The Conference was well attended and well supported."

BISHOP PAINE reached New Orleans on Friday, January 1, in good health, and left in company with Bishop Keenor and a number of preachers on Saturday evening for Alexandria, the seat of the Louisiana Conference. The Conference met on the sixth of January.

THE canonization of Joan of Arc proceeds slowly, and she has not yet been pronounced saintly, nor, as for that matter, have the priests who were prominent in her execution been canonized. Why not make saints of them all in one batch?

Diphtheria.

This critical disease is prevailing in many places in the South. The following, by Ezra M. Hunt, D. D., is published in the Christian at Work. We reproduce it in our columns, as it may be useful at this time.

Diphtheria has been epidemic in New York city for a whole year, and the last two weeks place it next to consumption in the bill of mortality. It has come to be a name significant of terror, and many a group of little ones is sternly broken in upon by its quick invasion. There are some points in respect to it, a knowledge of which is valuable to the laity as well as to the medical profession as aiding to guard against its causes or to suspect occasion for anxiety, so as to secure timely medical advice.

1. It belongs to the group of zymotic diseases—i.e., of diseases caused by the "products of animal or vegetable decomposition, or specific emanations from the body in a state of disease." They are also called fermentive and foul air diseases. "It is found," says the report of the New York Board of Health, "that with few exceptions the which favor the propagation of any of the zymotic diseases likewise are of the zymotic diseases likewise favor all." We know not the specific germ, but we do know the conditions of its propagation. It springs into activity amid putrescent or excremental matter. From such a nucleus it may indeed invade homes of elegant cleanliness, but as a rule has its selections as to these. It is much more apt to seize upon those in which semi-annual house-cleaning is imperfectly done, or where defective sewer-traps or imperfect ventilation secure foul air. Everywhere attacking those outside of its incubating nest, its intensity is usually much mitigated if only the surroundings are good. When such a disease is prevalent, the first thing for a householder or head of the family to do is to look well to the condition of his house. See to it that the yard, sub-cellar and basement are in proper state. Look well to sewer-traps and water-closets, and see that no foul air is escaping. See to it that the furnace which distributes heat is not distributing impure air as well. Sometimes, when the furnace air is obtained from outside, the cellar air is so heated by the furnace as to rise through the floors, and so, if impure, contaminate the house. It is to have a little chloride of lime or carbolic acid solution in those rooms especially exposed to impurity of air. A single pound of chloride of lime will go a good way if kept dry in a close-stoppered bottle, a half tablespoonful being placed every other day in a saucer near places exposed to foul air. In damp days it will, with occasional stirring, moisten itself, or it may be sprinkled with a little water. A thirty-cent quart bottle of Squibb's carbolic solution, which comes with directions, will answer a similar purpose. Each day is demonstrating to medical men the grand scope of preventive treatment, and much of this must necessarily depend upon the intelligence of unprofessional men. The sanitary management of his household is a study for the parent next in importance to its moral and social management. The prevention of disease is a much greater economy than its after-treatment. Add to faith virtue, which includes cleanliness. Next, the laity need to know the approach of diphtheria. The insidious nature of the disease is one of the chief sources of its danger. It constantly occurs to physicians to be called to see cases which have made such headway as to be utterly hopeless, and yet the friends have seen no alarming symptoms. I shall never forget a New Year's morning when I saw the minister's little girl of eight summers, playing with interest with her presents, when I knew that before sunset she would slip away. It is not strange, when the disease has progressed, that we fail to reach it. The blood has ceased to be a vitalizing fluid. It has undergone radical changes. The deposit in the throat is but a sign-board. We have seen it early in the disease, at other distant points, showing how fully it is a blood disease. Taken in time, there are few diseases over which treatment is so sure to triumph. We say treatment (not medicine,) although medicine has its noble sphere, yet the doctor is to regulate food and surroundings as much as to prescribe. Hence the importance of early attention.

LOCAL FILTHINESS AND NEGLECT

A GOOD PRECAUTION

HOW TO RECOGNIZE

IF YOUR CHILD IS UNWELL

when diphtheria is prevailing, take it to a strong light, have it open the mouth wide and depress the tongue. If you can see the back of the throat well, you will know whether there is the least white deposit upon it. Or if you will gently depress the tongue with the handle of a spoon, you are quite sure to get a view almost as easily as the doctor, of whom the child is more fearful. Any outside swelling should early attract attention. We have no faith in the ability of persons to treat the disease themselves, even to a preliminary extent. The doctor himself often needs to vary his treatment by circumstances. The use of a drachm of chlorate of potash dissolved in an ounce (or two tablespoonfuls) of warm water, and given in teaspoonful doses every three hours to a child three or more years old, will be very well. If your doctor is delayed in his arrival, as is sometimes the case in the country. A piece of salt pork sprinkled with a little mustard, or a liniment such as the hartshorn liniment, will do well for counter-irritation on the outside, until you receive further directions. It often happens to the physician to in a family and save all the rest, just because the first is left too long, or he is not able quickly enough to change surroundings so as to reach it. Other children should always be kept away from a diphtheric child. It is not as contagious as smallpox, and is seldom carried, but it can no longer be doubted that it is communicable under some circumstances. The utmost cleanliness is required as to all garments and bedding and expectoration. It has been my lot to meet several epidemics of the disease, and I know dozens of physicians whom I believe would save four-fifths of those who die if only they had charge of the house five days before the attack, or even if only seeing the patient at the onset, and able fully to regulate care and surroundings. In fact the success of its real treatment is one of the advances of science, and even its exceptional cases of intense malignity are being watched and studied most thoroughly.

LOSE THE FIRST CASE

Periodicals.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE FOR 1875. After its successful career of over thirty years the Living Age seems more vigorous and prosperous than ever before. Always the chief, it is now (since its absorption of "Every Saturday") the only eclectic weekly of the country. What distinguishes it is the fact that it presents inexpensively, considering its three and a quarter thousand large pages of reading matter a year, with freshness, owing to the frequency of its issue, and with a satisfactory completeness attempted by no other publication whatever, the ablest essays and reviews, the best serial and short stories, the finest sketches and poems, and the most valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign periodical literature. The subscription price is $8 a year, which is cheap for the amount of reading furnished; or, for those desiring the cream of both home and foreign literature, the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz.: to send postage prepaid on both periodicals) the Living Age and either one of the American $4 monthlies, or weeklies, a year for $10 50. With the Living Age, and one or other of our leading American monthlies, a subscriber will, at remarkably small cost, be in possession of the best which the current literature of the world affords. The volume begins January 1. Littell & Gay, publishers, Boston.

ST. NICHOLAS for January is a very fine number. It is filled with holiday articles and interesting pictures. We know of nothing in its line which approaches the St. Nicholas.

A GENTLEMAN traveling on a steamer, one day at dinner was making way with a large pudding close by, when he was told by a servant that it was dessert. "It matters not to me," said he; "I would eat it if it were a wilderness."

THOSE who are the loudest in their threats are always the weakest in the execution of them.

MARRIED.

PALMER—BARGANIER.—December 24, 1874, by Rev. H. M. Moss, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. George T. Palmer to Miss Genie Barganier, all of Lowndes county, Alabama.

BRANNIN—VAN HOUSEN.—By Rev. B. F. Alexander, on the first of January, 1875, at the residence of Hon. E. L. Whitney, in the parish of Tensas, Louisiana, Mr. Robert E. Brannin, of Franklin parish, Louisiana, to Miss Kate C. Van Housen, of Tensas parish, Louisiana.

HOLT—REEVES.—By Rev. B. F. Alexander, on the twenty fourth of December, 1874, at the residence of Colonel L. V. Reeves, in the parish of Tensas, Louisiana, Mr. John P. Holt to Miss Helen Louise Reeves, both of Tensas parish, Louisiana.

COTTON—FLOWERS.—At the residence of the bride's sister, Centerville, Catahoula parish, Louisiana, December 17, 1874, by Rev. E. W. Yancey, Mr. E. Lat. Cotton to Miss Laura Flowers.

SWAYZE—DAVIS.—At the residence of Mrs. Martha A. Davis, Centerville, Catahoula parish, Louisiana, on the evening of December 23, 1874, by the Rev. E. W Yancey, Mr. James A. Swayze to Miss Melissa J. Davis.

HOLLAND—BAKER.—December 29, 1874, at the residence of Mr. J. T. Holland, by Rev. W. W. Graham, Mr. Harry H. Holland to Miss Lura B. Baker, all of Lee county, Alabama.

Publisher's Department.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS ON REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits, otherwise it will be at their own risk.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO., WEST MERIDEN, CONN.—This widely-known and justly celebrated silver-plating company is fully represented by our esteemed friend, Major Allen Hill, No. 107 Baronne street, New Orleans. Mr. Hill is one of our oldest and most reliable merchants, and those purchasing silver-plated tableware may rely upon getting the very best plated goods made by this company. Mr. Hill makes a specialty of these goods, and sells no other. We refer our readers to his advertisement.

WE WOULD call the attention of those afflicted with diseases of the throat or lungs to the advertisement, on this page, of Dr. Hunter Dr. Hunter treats these diseases by inhalation, and refers to a number of persons who have been under his treatment in proof of the efficacy of his process. His office is at 165 Canal street, where he can be seen daily during office hours.

SAMUEL E. MOORE, at 55 Camp street, has in store a splendid assortment of crockery, China and glassware. This is one of the largest and most complete establishments of the kind in the city, and any one wishing to buy would be consulting his own interest by going there. See advertisement for particulars.

THE New Louisiana Remedy is advertised in to-day's paper.

READ the advertisement of Levy Bros.' dry goods house.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Jan. 2, 1875.

A—S M Akin, American Tract Society, D Appleton & Co, N W Ayer & Son $13.20, William T Ashford $1.25, J B Ashley $21, Advocate Publishing Company.

B—O R Bine $1, George W Brown, J W Bryan, J Bayes $1.25, H F Boyles, C W Britt, Henry Barnbridge & Co, Mrs Kate Border $4.40, James J Billingsley.

C—J T Connell $6, Robert Carter & Bros, A J Coleman, Thomas R Curtis $1.25, S C Collins, Andrew Cline, Mrs Callie 21 cents, D B Cargill $2.50, Cassell & Baughn $36, Edward Carley.

D—Mrs H B Daves $2, Charles H Dilson & Co, Logan D Dameron two letters, S W Douglass, Dixon Donley two letters $320, F A Densler, P H Diffenwierth, Mrs A F Davis, M H Dishrow, Donaldson & Co three letters $100, A M L Douglass, Mrs M F Draughn $2.

E—J F Evans $2, L Ercanbrack, W A Edwards, W H Ellison, Charles F Evans.

F—M B Franklin & Co, M R Falford, R W Freeman.

G—J H Gerdine $11.50, Joseph Gillott & Sons, J J Grace, J C Giddens, Malcolm M Graham, A E Garrison $1.

H—T W Hines, S Halle, W J Hilton $6.50, John W Hinsdale, Felix G Hocuit $57, Mrs E Hawes $2, Charles L Harris $1.75, James H Houston, Mrs M A Hutchinson 20 cents, A R Hines $7.00, J W Harris $2.

I—Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.

J—John A B Jones, E J Jones, J M Johnston.

K—Mrs N M Knight, Mrs S B Kent $2, W P Kildare.

L—A W Laogley two letters, N M Lowery two letters $12, W H Lewis, J B Lippincott & Co, Thos Long, R B Long Jr $70 50, E J Long, W B Lewis two letters, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, Allen Lewis & Co, John B Lewis $5, George R Lynch $2 95, Mrs M L Lauremer 25 cents, Lyon Sewing Machine Company.

M—W W Mitchell, A Millspaugh, M E Mosby & Co, William D Mathews, J Arthurs Murphy & Co, A V Montgomery $2, S R McCutcheon $16.25, Albert Mason $15, O M Marsh $6, A H Moss, W H Morris, Edward F Morris, Henry F Montgomery, Eugene Miller, P A F Martin 75 cents, J Gorton Miller $5, R McPherson, J M Maxwell, J W Martin $30, W Monk, W B May, W H Martin 20 cents.

N—W G Nichols $1, R D Norsworthy, Joseph Nicholson.

O—James Ormond.

P—Thomas Price, R V Pierce, E G Pioe $2.25, W I Powers $10, Porter & Coates, Powers Paper Company two letters, M S Park, Mrs Mollie J Phillips $1.75, John L Powers $1, E F Powell $1, R T Parish.

R—A H Redford agent four letters, J M Renns, A D F Randolph, John P Rhodes $5, Rhodes & Graham $10, J K Randall, J B Ramsay, Miss Annie Roddy $2, Rowell & Chesman, W E Rivers $5.

S—W A Snmpey, H R Singleton, C S Stewart two letters, R F Shelton $6, Still & Lacey, George S Schofield.

T—M J Templeton, Jonathan Thomas $1.20, R S Trippett, H S Thrall, J L Thompson $79, George F Thompson.

U—Thomas J Upton.

W—James H Winn, N A Wells $1.15, Doo A T Woods, Thomas S West, J L Williams, A C Waters, E W Wailes, Alva M Wynne, Anson West $6.25, M H Wells, G R Wilson $100, Jerr S Willinns, Wimberly & Co, J E Wilkinson $1, J Weaver & Co, W Wooten, George H Wells, Thomas Ward White, J W Whitten.

IT IS with pleasure we call attention to the advertisement of A. W. Hyatt, stationer, printer, lithographer, and blank-book manufacturer. Colonel Hyatt has been in this business for a number of years past, and by his assiduous attention to all the details of his establishment has made for himself a reputation second to none in his business. We cord ally recommend his house to any of our friends in the city or country.

READ Dr. Warrington's advertisement in another column.

SEE advertisement of the C. O. D. Hat store.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

AVOID CONSUMPTION.—No enemy to the human race is more to be dreaded and is more insidious in its approaches than the too fatal destroyer of the health and happiness of myriads—"consumption in its ghastly form." The duty of all is to guard against its first advances. This may be done by the timely use of Dr. Tutt's Expectorant. ja7 3t

I HAVE used Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator in my family for Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, and regard it as an invaluable remedy in these attacks. It has not failed to give relief in any instance.

REV. W. F. EASTERLING, ja7 1t Florida Conference.

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 1y

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by L. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de10 1y

DR. HUNTER

ON

THE INFLUENCE OF COLD

IN THE PRODUCTION OF

DISEASE OF THE LUNGS,

AND ON

THE COMPARATIVE MERITS OF THE DIFFERENT PLANS OF TREATMENT.

The state of the atmosphere impresses itself directly on the mucous lining of the nasal passages, throat, windpipe, bronchial tubes, and air cells of the lungs. Sudden changes in the temperature of the air are immediately felt over the whole of this extended surface. Coldness and humidity render the air irritating to the mucous membrane. Irritation ends in Congestion, and Congestion is the first stage of inflammation—the parent of all those chronic catarrhal affections of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes which ultimately end in Consumption.

Nearly eighty per cent. of the cases of consumption begin by congestion of the mucous membrane of the nasal passages, throat and bronchial tubes, produced by colds. To that extent, therefore, consumption springs directly from the damp and changeable weather of autumn and winter. It is inflammatory and purely local in its early stage—quite as much so as inflammation of the eye or quinsy of the throat, and must be treated in the same direct manner.

It is a rule of medical practice, established by ages of experience, that every disease which is local—that is to say, has its seat in any one organ or part of the body—requires for its cure the direct application of remedies to such organ or part. When this can be done the disease is generally curable, and when it cannot be done it is, if serious, generally fatal. The same mucous membrane is spread over the globe of the eye, lines the tear passages and internal surface of the nose, covers the throat, passes down the windpipe, and becomes the lining of the delicate and intermirable air cells of the lungs. When cold produces inflammation of the eye in one person and acute catarrh of the nose in another, the cause, the disease and the membrane affected are alike in every respect. When cold produces a sore throat in one person and congestion of the lungs in another, there is no difference to the disease, action in the two cases, or in the principles of treatment required for their cure. It is the mucous membrane that is involved in both cases.

But look at the practice generally pursued. Physicians treat these similar diseases of the same membrane widely different, and, as a consequence, cure one and utterly fail to cure the other. To the eye they apply eye-washes and ointments directly to the inflamed parts, and are generally successful. In the nose they apply nothing to the diseased parts, and catarrh becomes seated and is thought to be incurable. For an inflamed throat they prescribe gargles and applications directly to the throat, and generally cure. For the same disease a little lower down—in the windpipe and bronchial tubes—they make no direct applications, but straightway begin to dose the patient's stomach, and, as a consequence, seldom cure a case. Would it not be gross quackery for any physician to pretend to be able to cure an inflamed eye or a sore throat by dosing the stomach? Well, it is just as great quackery for him to treat and pretend to be able to cure catarrh and diseases of the air passages of the lungs by dosing the stomach, and yet this is precisely what most general physicians do.

They desert a principle which they know to be true, not because they regard direct medication as inapplicable in bronchial and lung cases, but solely because they cannot incorporate it into the routine of general practice. They know that direct application to the air passages and lungs can only be made by inhalation—a method of treatment in which they have had no instruction and are wholly inexperienced. To recommend it, while they are themselves unable to apply it, would necessitate their giving up the treatment of all such cases.

The fatality of lung diseases is not due, as many people suppose, to the malignity of their nature or the importance of the breathing organs. It is the inevitable result of bad treatment, and gross neglect of the means of cure within the reach of all. Properly treated by direct medication, lung diseases are as curable as other maladies, but no disease is ever cured by a false treatment such as is generally employed.

If any satisfactory results were attained by the course of treatment pursued by general physicians in lung cases—if they cured any considerable proportion of such cases—it might reasonably be doubted whether the direct treatment by inhalation could accomplish better results. But the fact is, they do no good whatever. Even in hospitals, where the diet, exercise and general habits, as well as their medical treatment, are entirely under the control of physicians, not one case of well-defined disease of the lungs can be shown to have been cured by the stomach treatment out of every thousand cases so treated! It has been so uniformly unsuccessful that most people have come to regard Consumption as equivalent to the hand of Death! In giving it up, therefore, those having lung diseases abandon nothing save the certainty of an early grave for a hope of life and health. Now look at the results attained by the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation. In all ordinary cases of Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma improvement immediately takes place, and they go on to complete cure. In Consumption the disease is more obstinate, but most cases ultimately get well. Even in desperate cases benefits always result from inhalation, and I can point to hundreds of such cases which were given over to die and pronounced hopeless, and yet recovered and are now living. These facts are easily verified, and invite investigation. Such are the comparatives of these different modes of treatment.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

K. R. HUNTER, M. D.,
Physician for Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Stomach.

Office—165 CANAL STREET, New Orleans, La.

Office hours, 9 to 3½ daily (except Sunday,) and in the evenings from 6½ to 7½.

To country patients who are unable to come to the city a list of questions will be sent on application.

We will be pleased to refer to former patients in the city and all parts of the country, if desired.

DR. HUNTER'S PRACTICE.

The following notice, commending the practice of Drs. R. & K. R. Hunter, is taken from the editorial columns of the Herald and Presbyter:

DR. HUNTER.

We have been publishing, from time to time, letters on Catarrh and diseases of the Lungs, by Dr. Hunter, and we have published a number of testimonials of cures by his method of treatment. We also have seen letters from various persons, including some of our ministers, testifying to the efficacy of Dr. Hunter's treatment. Below is an editorial article from the pen of the Rev. Jesse B. Berry, an assistant editor of the American Christian Review:

"I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to the gentleman and physician whose name introduces this article. I regard him as one of the few whose professed mission is 'to cure the ills which human flesh is heir to,' whose skill and remedies are all that is claimed for them.

"For about one year I had been suffering from an affection of the throat, which at first was annoying, and afterward developed symptoms which I considered dangerous. The voice grew rough and husky, the palate and mucous lining of the throat became inflamed and at times painful, and I feared at one time that I would be compelled to cease speaking in public. Remedies were tried, some of which gave partial and temporary relief, while others did not seem to influence the disease in the least. When Dr. Hunter began the publication of his interesting letters in the Review I commenced to read them. They seemed to be so much common sense in his statements that I was induced to apply to him. I obtained his 'inhalator' and remedies, and by following a few simple directions, as I have learned of the result they have either been cured or are rapidly improving. In a letter before me, a professor in one of our colleges, and who was afflicted with throat disease for years, and who has been using the 'Inhalator,' says: 'All traces of the disease have left me, and I am a well man.'

"In these days of quackery and deception, to know that there are physicians in whose ability and integrity we can have confidence is no small matter. This statement respecting Dr. Hunter is cheerfully on our part. We commend him to the afflicted readers of the Review.

JESSE B. BERRY."

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, from personal experience, take pleasure in recommending the treatment employed by Drs. R. & K. B. HUNTER, of 165 Canal street, in affections of the Head, Chest and STOMACH:

O. V. FERNANDEZ, 291 Chartres street.
W. C. NEAL, 32 Conti street.
M. R. FERNANDEZ, corner Royal and Customhouse streets.
CHARLES MOREL, corner Claiborne and Elysian Fields streets.
F. VILLAVASO, 76 Old Levee street.
JOSEPH TORRES, corner Melpomene and Magnolia streets.
L. ROSSI, 653 St. Claude street.
OSCAR PEYRONNIN, Morales street, between Congress and Independence.
R. LAMOTTE, 291 Chartres street.
Mrs. E. TALZIN, 87 St. Bernard street.
H. LAMOTTE, 231 Esplanade street.
A. BERTIN, St. Bernard and Robertson streets.
R. E. ALLEN, Clerk Lizzie Hopkins.
J. G. ECKLIN, 34 Carondelet street.
R. B. KENNEDY, 325 Conti street.
J. B. PALLIER, 159 Canal street.
EDGAR GUILLOT, 111 Elysian Fields street.
C. DIAZ, 256 Claiborne street.
J. B. McCARTHY, 371 St. Andrew street.
JAMES BUCKNER, 87 Bernard street.
F. W. CATONNET, 610 Goodchildren street.

Any desired number of names in cases, successfully treated in this city and State will be given to inter-ested persons on application. ja7 1t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A. W. HYATT,
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38 .....CAMP STREET.....38
P. O. Box 508. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

SILVER-PLATED TABLEWARE.

Just received, some new and elegant SILVER-PLATED GOODS for table use, from our factory at Meriden, Connecticut. Only the best Plating sold, and at precisely the same prices as these goods are sold at the Commission store, 540 Broadway, New York.

ALLEN HILL, Sole Southern Depot, ja7 1t 107 Baronne street, New Orleans.

$1,000 REWARD.—In the ADVOCATE of December 24 appeared an article from the Christian Union, containing this language. It is safe to assert that every one of the syrups, etc., advertised as a boon for babies, etc., contains opium, etc. The NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY for Coughs contains no opium or any other recognized poison, and a reward of $1,000 will be given to any one detecting any such poison in it. Depot—108 CAMP ST., New Orleans. ja7 1t

FOR ANY Books, Stationery or Sunday School Requisites WRITE J. W. McIntyre, No. 4 South Fifth St., St. Louis. Established 17 years. Catalogues free. ja7 1t

HEADQUARTERS SANTA CLAUS.

W. KURTEN,

Cor. Magazine and Josephine Sts.

For fine GOLD WATCHES, JEWELRY, Clocks, Holiday Presents, and the largest stock of new Toys, at low prices, call at Headquarters. de17 1m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

mo8 1y

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. ja7 1y

SACRED MUSIC BOOKS

FOR 1875.

River of Life! (35 cents.) A most beautiful Sunday School Book. H. S. Perkins and W. W. Bentley.

Leader! ($1.38.) Full collection of Metrical Tunes, Anthems, etc., with Singing School Course. H. R. Palmer and L. O. Emerson.

Thomas' Quartets & Anthems! ($2.50.) Perfect music, of the best class, for Quartet Choirs. J. R. Thomas.

Danks' Anthem Services! ($2.50.) —Anthem music of excellent quality for all the services of the Episcopal Church. H. P. Danks.

Perkins' Anthem Book! ($1.50.) —Fifty Anthems. Very full, good and already popular collection. H. S. Perkins.

Song Monarch! (75 cents.) For Singing Schools. Not much Sacred Music, but an admirable preparatory course, with a large quantity of secular music for practice. H. R. Palmer and L. O. Emerson.

☞ All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
ja18 1y Boston.

PUT YOUR HOUSES IN ORDER.

M. A. WHEELAHAN,

W. J. GOLDEN, MANAGER,

119.....Common St.....110

IMPORTER AND DEALER,

Has just received an Elegant Stock of

Window Shades and Wall Papers

Of the latest designs and patterns.

Also a full assortment of PAINTS, OILS, Glass, Varnishes, Brushes and Artists' Materials.

Purchasers will find our stock reliable in quality and prices lower than ever. de31 1m

A. GEIGER,

33.....CHARTRES ST.....33

Corner of Customhouse,

DEALER IN

BLACK AND COLORED CLOTHS,

Doeskins, Fancy Cassimeres, Silk, Worsted and Velvet Vestings, Linings and Trimmings of all descriptions, suitable for Tailors and Dressmakers. Also on hand Army and Navy Cloths, Military Buttons, Billiard Cloths, Attakapas Cottonades, Corduroys, Shears, etc., etc. All goods sold at retail. de24 1m5p

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S LUXURIOUS EAR PREPARATION does for the body what the rain does for the earth (the body is earth.) It gives coverage to the head and trunk, removing all obstructions and plugging from the system. It cleanses the Lungs, Heart and Liver, brooks up the worst cold, and does wonders for the entire body. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $3 $1 50 and 50 cents per bottle. ☞ The Ear Preparation is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery, which cures Deafness, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, etc. oc5 1y5ow

JOHN McMAINS,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCER,
Dealer in Groceries, Teas, etc.,
Nos. 572 and 574 Magazine Street,
Opposite Magazine Market, and
NO. 540 WASHINGTON ST., COR. FULTON,
NEW ORLEANS.
Goods delivered free of drayage. de21 1m

CAKES—CHRISTMAS CAKES.

JAMES WEBSTER, BAKERY,

620.....Magazine St.....620

I respectfully inform my friends and the public in general that I will have on hand, during the Holidays, a splendid assortment of all kinds of Cakes and Candies, Scotch Short Bread, Selkirk and Piteaithly Bannocks, all of the finest quality, at rates to suit the times. de21 1t

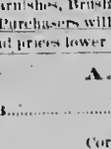
HENRY ERBEN & CO.,

ORGAN MANUFACTURERS,

235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-Third St.,

Bet. Second and Third Aves., NEW YORK.

There are seventeen Organs in this city of our make, among them the largest. au27 1y6ow



MRS. M. G. BROWN'S DESIRABLE SCALP RENOVATOR requires only a trial to convince that it Removes Dandruff, Prevents Hair from Falling, Lengthens and Strengthens the Hair, Cools the Head, and Prevents Neuralgia. Observe its operating operations in your system. It is the most sure and Gentle Cathartic in the world. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $1, 50 cents and 25 cents per bottle. ☞ The Scalp Renovator is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery. The Life of the World is in the use of the Metaphysical Discovery. oc15 1y6ow

ANDERSON'S
PHOTOGRAPHIC STUDIO,
No. 151 Canal Street, New Orleans.

where will be found all the latest improvements in the Photographic Art. With close personal attention and the best assistants and Artists, we promise the finest work that has ever been done in this city, at uniform and moderate prices. Children taken from ten A. M. to two P. M. The Sun Pearl and Crayon Photo a specialty. All work guaranteed. de30 1m

MEDICAL.

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion,

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. no19 1y5ptc

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the

THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Inulin Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

B. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields st., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. oc29 3m5p

CARD.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.

I am using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in the laundry department of my hotel, and consider it a very valuable acquisition. I would not dispense with the use of it for four times its value.

R. S. MORSE,
Proprietor City Hotel.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.

We have been using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in our laundry for more than three months past, and can say that it is decidedly the best article for the purposes for which it is recommended that we have ever used. We believe we have used everything of the kind in the market.

W. W. FREEMAN,
Manager Crescent City Steam Laundry Co.

MANUFACTURED BY

WILLIAM H. SHEPARD & CO.

OFFICE—106 CAMP STREET,

de21 1m New Orleans

HOUSEKEEPERS, ATTENTION!

CARPETS BELOW COST.

Being determined to close out this department, we have made a

Still Further Reduction in Price.

For evidence of same call on

E. C. PALMER & CO.,
de17 1m 97 Camp street.

NEW LEATHER STORE.

A. F. RICAU,

IMPORTER AND DEALER IN

French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,

Shoe Findings, etc.,

80 CUSTOMHOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.

Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

INSURANCE NOTICE.

OFFICE LOUISIANA EQUITABLE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
New Orleans, Dec. 8, 1874.

Extract from Minutes of Board Meeting.

Resolved, unanimously, That policies written by this company on persons who lost their lives in consequence of the events of the fourteenth of September, 1874, be paid.

WILLIAM HENDERSON,
de7 1m Secretary.

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

The Child's Corner.

THE LITTLE BOY'S WATCH.

Dear little Dick, curled up by the fire,
Sat watching the shadows come and go,
As the dancing flames leaped higher and higher,
Flooding the room with a mellow glow.

His chubby hand on his side was pressed,
And he turned for a moment a listening ear:
"Mother!" cried he, "I've got a watch!
I can feel it ticking right under here!"

"Yes, Dick; 'tis a watch that God has made
To mark your hours as they fly away;
He holds the key in his mighty hand,
And keeps it in order night and day.

"Should he put aside the mystic key,
Or lay his hand on the tiny spring,
The wheels would stop and your watch run down,
And lie in your bosom a lifeless thing."

He crept to my side, and whispered soft,
While his baby voice had an awestruck sound:
"I wish you would ask him, mother dear,
To be sure and remember to keep it wound!"

Apples of Gold.

Letter from a Little Reader.

FORT SMITH, ARK., Dec. 8, 1874.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: I have never written to you before, but my mother has, and I thought I would too. I am a little girl ten years old, and my name is Annie Granade. I have just been reading the piece in your paper about the little girl that prayed so earnestly and received such a direct answer. I am so glad that you are never so crowded in your paper that you cannot give the children a merl.

I would like much to see you and talk with you. The last session of the Arkansas Conference, which was held here, was very pleasant indeed. On Sunday evening of the Conference we had a children's meeting. Addresses were delivered by Bishop Kavanaugh and Dr. Winfield.

I have become very much attached to the ADVOCATE, and would miss it very much if we did not take it. I have often heard my father and mother speak of Bishop Keener, and you will give my love to him. I remember seeing him at the Arkansas Conference, held at Clarksville. I would like to see him again. My father is gone a great deal, and is just now gone out to see a family near by.

Well, I must close; so I remain your loving little friend,

ANNIE GRANADE.

(Glad to hear from our little friend Annie. We shall be glad to hear from her again, and from other of our young readers.—ED. ADVOCATE.)

Silk-Worms and Silk-Making.

BY MRS. R. H. WOOD.

In my last I told the "little readers" about the silk-worm and the white moth or miller into which the worm is changed while lying in its pretty cocoon, and now I propose to tell them something about silk-making.

As soon as the worms have finished their cocoons the boys and girls, and indeed all the family, take down the bushes and pull off the cocoons and throw them into a heated oven to bake. The object in doing this is to kill the grub or miller, to prevent it from eating a hole through the pointed end, which would spoil the cocoon for silk-making. Only a few millers are allowed to come out and lay their eggs—just enough to furnish as many eggs as are needed for another year.

Then they take the balls and begin to pull off the coarse, strong silk, which forms the outside covering of the house which the worm has made to protect it while it lays itself down to sleep. This coarse silk they call silk tow. This is spun into yarn, and knit into stockings, or woven into a coarse cloth which is made into dresses for home wear.

After pulling off this outside covering the balls are thrown into kettles of scalding water, which unglues the ends of the fine silk. These are caught up and fastened to a reel, which, being turned, unwinds the fine thread composing the firm, close, inner coverings of the little snug house; and the dead worm floats on the water. This, which is now wound on the reel, is called raw silk. This is taken from the reel and again dipped in warm water, to soak out the remaining gum, and then it is stretched on winders, or a turning reel, and spun out still finer, and twisted for sewing-silk, and colored; and finally it is carried to the looms and woven into cloth and ribbons.

It is very interesting to watch the worms and notice their growth from day to day, and also the rapid putting forth of the green silky leaves of the mulberry-trees upon which they feed. God provides leaves for the crawling worms even, just when they require them; and has taught them to build for their own protection, and man to make their buildings very useful to himself.

It is God that makes the crawling worm to spin its silken web, and the busy bee to lay by its store of honeyed sweetness, that man may wear silken robes and drink the sweetest nectar.

Shall I tell the little readers what I thought when I saw the worms winding themselves in their cocoons, and then curling themselves up to sleep, and that while sleeping they would be changed, and, bursting their balls, would come forth beautiful white-winged millers? I thought of men and women and children, having done their work and lying down in the grave, their bodies sleeping and changing, and that by and by they too will burst their narrow house and come forth more beautiful and lovely than when laid away to rest. O how happy you, dear children, and I shall be if, bursting from the tomb, we shall have a beautiful body like Christ's glorified body, so glorious and bright that we cannot look upon it with these weak eyes of ours. God teaches that he will change these bodies and make them heavenly and glorious.—Zion's Herald.

I'M A TEMPERANCE BOY.—Charles B. is a boy of fifteen, living in a Western town. He made his first journey to New York, and visits his relatives, many of whom he had never seen. In the house of one of his uncles he sat at a Sunday dinner where wine was drank by all—the parents, children and visitors. When it was presented to Charlie he said:

"No, I thank you."

"What," said his uncle, "won't you drink wine with your Cousin Nellie, who is so soon to leave us for a home of her own."

"No, sir," said Charlie; "I'm a temperance boy."

That was true bravery. Charlie was among those he had been accustomed to respect, and the temptation would have been very great to many boys. His mother heard it, and said: "Charlie, I am proud of you."

Which of you would have done as Charlie did? You must learn to say no to everything that would lead you into harm. Better to say no to those who ask you to drink even wine, for drinking wine gives a taste for stronger drink, and then a boy runs rapidly to ruin.

See that noble-looking young man, handsome, educated, gentlemanly, the son of good Christian parents, with a good business, and everything to make him respectable, beloved and useful. What is the matter with him? His face is red and bloated, and he totters as he walks. Ah! he did not learn to say no when tempted, and he has fallen a victim to the great vice of the day.—Christian Guardian.

The Leaf and the Wind.

Once on a time a little leaf was heard to sigh and cry, as leaves often do when a gentle wind is about. And the twig said: "What is the matter, little leaf?"

"The wind," said the leaf, "just told me that one day it would pull me off and throw me down to the ground to die."

The twig told it to the branch on which it grew, and the branch told it to the tree. When the tree heard it it rustled all over, and sent back word to the leaf: "Do not be afraid; hold on tightly, and you shall not go till you want to."

So the leaf stopped sighing, and went on nestling and singing; and so it grew all summer long, till October. When the bright days of autumn came the little leaf saw the leaves around becoming very beautiful. Some were scarlet, some yellow, and some were striped with both colors. Then it asked the tree what it meant; and the tree said: "All these leaves are getting ready to fly away, and they have put on these beautiful colors because of joy."

Then the little leaf began to want to go, and grew very beautiful in thinking of it; and when it was very gay in colors, it saw that the branches of the tree had no color in them, so the leaf said: "O branch, why are you lead-colored and we golden?"

"We must keep on our work-clothes," said the tree, "for our life is not done yet; but your clothes are for a holiday, because your task is over."

Just then a little puff of wind came, and the leaf let go without thinking of it; and the wind took it up, and turned it over and over, and then whirled it like a spark of fire in the air, and let it fall gently down under the edge of the fence, among hundreds of leaves; and it fell into a dream, and never woke up to tell what it dreamed about.

GRAPES FROM THORNS.—He who takes his boys to the beer shop, and trusts that they will grow up sober, puts his coffee-pot on the fire, and expects it to look as bright as new tin. Men cannot be in their senses when they brew with bad malt and expect good beer, or set a wicked example and expect to raise a respectable family. You may hope and hope till your heart grows sick, but when you send your boy up the chimney, he will come down black for all your hoping. Teach a child to lie, and then hope he will grow up honest; better put a wasp in a tar barrel, and then wait until he makes you honey.

As to the next world, it is a great pity that men do not take a little more care when they speak of it. If a man dies drunk somebody or other is sure to say: "I hope he has gone to heaven." It is all very well to wish it, but to hope it is another thing. Men turn their faces to hell and expect to get to heaven; why don't they walk into the horse-pond and expect to be dry? Hopes of heaven are solemn things, and should be tried by the word of God. A man might as well hope, as the Lord says, to gather grapes off thorns, or figs off thistles, as to look for a happy hereafter at the end of a bad life. There is only one Rock to build hopes on, and that is not Peter, as the Pope says, neither is it sacraments, but the merits of the Lord Jesus.

There John Ploughman rests, and he is not afraid, for this is a firm footing, which neither life nor death can shake; but I must not turn preacher, so please remember that presumption is a ladder which will break the mounter's neck, and don't try it as you love your soul.—Spurgeon's Almanac.

HAVE FATHER AND MOTHER WITH YOU.—In boyhood an aged aunt said to the writer of this: "When you grow to be a man, I advise you, if possible, to have your father and mother live with you. The blessing of God always rests upon a man who is the support of his parents. I never saw an exception to this, and never heard of one, and I am certain there never was an exception to this law of God." Well, that was thirty years ago, and so deep was the impression left upon my mind that I have ever since been looking for the exception, but have never seen nor heard of it. Remember, men and women whose parents have been spared to you, that God's arm is round every man or woman who honors father or mother, to support and to bless. If you would be prosperous, happy, and have the very best that God can give, hold on to the old people, and honor and obey them to the best of your ability.—Interior.

IF A MAN really wants to find out what's in him, let him go to sea.

BACHELORIC exclamation—A lass!

Farm, Garden and Household.

A New Duck.

The Imperial Pekin duck is a new importation from China, in the spring of 1873. The stock was selected with great care, and is remarkable for its snowy-white plumage and its great size. They were at first mistaken by the importer for small-sized geese. They have long bodies, quite long necks, and carry their tails erect when startled. A large number were brought on shipboard, mostly young birds, but only a very few survived the passage. The importer saved a drake and three ducks, and has bred from them a few handsome birds. As they arrived in poor condition, he has had no fair opportunity to test the weight of a full-grown pair. They are, without much doubt, a larger bird than the Rouen, and for their beauty and size promise to be a great acquisition to our poultry stock. The bills are yellow, and the legs are a reddish or orange yellow. The wings are short, and, as they cannot fly well, it will be quite easy to keep them in small inclosures. They are very prolific. Two of the imported ducks laid about one hundred and twenty eggs each from the last of March to about the first of August.

I procured a few eggs from the importer, and have watched the growth of the young birds from their birth to the age of two months, and am more pleased with them than any duck I have ever raised. The eggs are about the size of the Rouen, and of much lighter color. When the young first come out of the shell they look a third larger than the Rouens, and have steadily kept ahead of them for two months. I have to-day weighed individuals of the two flocks hatched the same day, and now just two months old. One of the Pekins weighed four pounds, and the Rouen three and a half pounds. They have had just good ordinary care, and been fed three times a day, and have had the run of a large yard for the most of the time. More frequent feeding would probably have pushed them along faster, but the growth has been very satisfactory. If the introduction of this large Chinese duck shall do for our ducks what the Asiatics have done for our hens, it will mark a new era in poultry-raising.—William Clift, in the Poultry World.

THE MARECHEL NEIL ROSE AS A GREENHOUSE CLIMBER.—When this rose was introduced, several years ago, the commendations were unanimous and oftentimes extravagant. Its bud is really one of the most lovely that ever graced a rose, and we observe that the Scottish Farmer gives to it the credit of being "the grandest tea-scented rose ever introduced." We also quote other remarks of the Farmer concerning it:

"It is a giant in respect of its size and fullness of flower, and it is a giant too in growth. It won't live on the Manetti stock. It makes an effort when in young state; but it is so gross a feeder that the supplies which the Manetti send up are quite insufficient to keep up the system of the scion. It does much better on the brier. There the nourishment is less stinted, and it accommodates itself to the foreign stock. Whenever it gets a chance, however, away it goes on its own account, sending forth roots at the junction, and reveling in good loamy soil wherever it is placed within root reach. We saw a remarkable instance of this in the British Botanic Gardens. A plant had been budded on brier and was planted in a conservatory, in a tub full of good soil. The Marechel grew and grew, until it quite astonished the curator, who found that it had run right away from the stock and was living principally upon its own resources. The upshot was that in May there were over two hundred blossoms fully expanded at one time—a glorious sight in flora. It was quite a wonder, covering many yards of the roof of the house with its great, full, fine yellow blossems."

TRAVELING ON THE FARM.—Did any of your readers, says a correspondent of the American Rural Home, ever think of the amount of travel it takes to raise a crop of corn? I never saw an illustration in print, and I thought I would give you one. I have a twenty-acre field, forty by eighty rods. To break this up would take one hundred and sixty-six miles. Harrowing it, about forty miles. Furrowing out, ninety miles. Planting, forty-five miles, if with a planter; and if chopped and then covered, ninety miles. And for each plowing of two furrows in a row, ninety miles, or five plowings, four hundred and fifty miles. Thus you will see it takes about eight or nine hundred miles of travel to raise twenty acres of corn, not counting going to and returning from the field. Besides, there is some replanting, thinning, rolling, etc.

APPLES PACKED IN PLASTER.—A year or two since the Rural New Yorker gave the experience of one of its correspondents in keeping apples in gypsum or plaster. With reference thereto the Utica Herald of April 1 has the following paragraph: The Rev. Mr. Pettingill, of Holland Patent, brings us specimens of apples which he has preserved in plaster since last fall. A layer of apples is put into the barrel, and a layer of plaster over them, then another layer of apples, and so on. Mr. Pettingill claims for the method quality of keeping, and the preserving of peculiar fresh flavor in the fruit, and these are apparent in the specimens we have examined. The plaster method insulates the fruit, so that the decay of one, if that should occur, cannot be communicated to the other in the barrel.

SHEEP pay twice—once in their fleece, and again in their pelts and carcasses: Clover also pays twice—once in value as forage, and again in its power of ameliorating the soil, in bringing up from the depths of the soil renewed sources of fertility.

MAIDENLY exclamation—"Ah! men!"

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☜ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au12 1yep

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6mnrm

MISCELLANEOUS.

MANUALS OF MATHEMATICAL INSTRUMENTS,

MICROSCOPES, MAGIC LANTERNS,

METEOROLOGICAL INSTRUMENTS,

PHYSICAL APPARATUS,

Profusely illustrated and priced, mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents each.

JAS. W. QUEEN & CO., Opticians,
601 Broadway, New York, and 924 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
oc8 3m

E. O. DORMAN. J. R. BRUCKETT.

R. O. DORMAN & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

FINE LIGHT FAMILY CARRIAGES,

NOS. 71 AND 73 COFFE STREET, se10 4m New Haven, Conn.

CHAMBERS'

STERLING PIANOS.

"SPECIAL SAFE OFFER."

☞ READ! MARK! WRITE! ☜

Before you buy, send for information, circulars and price list. Guarantee unlimited. Pianos sent for approval, and satisfaction assured by our "Special Safe Offer." Address CHAMBERS PIANO FACTORY, 306 Fourth Ave., New York. de31 6m

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1832.

A. BALDWIN, C. KUSTIS. } C. A. SLOCOMB, A. D. SLOCOMB, } In commendam.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Gins, Coats' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. oc29 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. oc26 1y

STOVES.....STOVES.....STOVES.

The Cheapest and the "Best."

The "BEST" and the "COTTAGE" COOKING STOVES, to which I call particular attention, are unsurpassed by any in this market for economy, durability and most perfect BAKING. They carry a uniform heat in the oven, and can be adapted to burning COAL, COKE or WOOD, without any additional cost. Every one sold under a full guarantee to do as they are represented or the money will be refunded.

Also a variety of other COOKING STOVES of every grade and price, from $15 upward.

HEATING STOVES.

A very large and complete assortment, suitable for Offices, Parlors, Churches, School-Rooms, etc., all of which are offered at very low prices to suit the times. Also dealer in

TINWARE OF EVERY KIND

and description, to suit the country and city trade, which is offered at UNPRECEDENTEDLY LOW PRICES FOR CASH. Also Sole Agent for the manufacture and sale of the Steam Washer, or Woman's Friend.

Will cleanse your clothes WITHOUT RUBBING. Every one sold is FULLY WARRANTED. It saves labor, wear and tear, and the annoyance of wash-day. It is truly a labor and clothes-saving invention. Three hundred thousand have been sold already through the States since 1871.

☞ State and County Rights for sale.

Call and see at NO. 34 MAGAZINE STREET, New Orleans.

ja29 1y G. W. W. GOODWYN.

MISCELLANEOUS.

UPPER CITY

BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,

keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

Under the Control of J. Phillips, formerly with Glynn & Wintz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to.

de10 1y LOUIS GIMBEL, Agent.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO

FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

de17 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GEO. A. PRINCE & CO.

ORGANS AND MELODEONS.

The Oldest, Largest and Most Perfect Manufactory in the United States.

☞ 54,000! ☜

Now in use.

No other Musical Instrument ever obtained the same Popularity.

☞ Send for Price Lists. Address

de17 4t BUFFALO, N. Y.

STAINED GLASS

—AND—

Decorative Art Establishment,

GIBSON'S BUILDING,

Broadway & Thirteenth St., New York.

Established in 1833.

The Designs of Architects and Amateurs artistically carried out. Designs for Memorial Windows a specialty. (au27 1y) WM. GIBSON.

S. S. MARSHALL & BRO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STAINED GLASS,

62 Cedar Avenue, Corner Second Street,

ALLEGHENY, PA.

Specimens sent to all parts of the country on application. oc15 1y

HOME MANUFACTURE.

Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder.

EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.

Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers.

de17 1m THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer, 341 Common street, corner Robertson.

H. FEHSENFELD,

194.....CANAL STREET.....194

Bet. Rampart and Dryades Sts.,

would respectfully announce to the Ladies that he has just received, and will constantly receive, a fresh supply of Millinery Goods, Bonnets, Hats, Feathers, Flowers, Ribbons, etc., belonging to the Millinery line. Also a large and select assortment of Fancy Goods. All at prices to suit the times. de17 1m

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.

HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. 6os1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY,

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.

Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union,

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.

7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.

207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. 6os6m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
Hiwassee College, East Tenn.
je4 1y

Soule's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

The Commercial Atheneum of the South corner Camp and Common streets (Story Building.) Mercantile and Banking offices are connected with this institution, daily lectures given, and all branches of a business education practically, scientifically and philosophically taught. An English Department for boys, twelve to eighteen years of age, is a special feature of this institution. French and Spanish are also taught.

GEO. SOULE, Principal.

N. B.—Soule's Philosophic Commercial and Exchange Calculator, 880 octavo pages, the great arithmetical work of the age, is for sale at the College office. ja22 1y

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 121 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS

PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOORIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOORIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.

Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe19 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandeaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

MONUMENTAL

MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT.—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week warranted. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample sent free. Address, with six-cent return stamp, C. ROSS, Williamsburg, New York. no3 1y

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,

Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies, Top Buggies, Turn-Out-Seat Buggies, Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets, Barouches, Rockaways, etc.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

☞ HARNESS at low prices.

Consult Economy and send for catalogue and price list. (no12 3m

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,

NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se5 6m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER,

82 Beekman Street, New York.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au6 1y

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

Scientific.

M. HENRI ROBERT claims to be the original inventor of a curious clock, which consists simply of a transparent glass dial suspended by two cords from points in its border. It has the two usual hands, but these are apparently free from any machinery to carry them. If either be moved and then let go, it returns to its former position after a few oscillations. The hands are really moved by mechanism within them, by means of which their center of gravity is continually displaced.

A CURIOUS growth is described in one of the daily journals, as follows: "In digging at the rear of a dwelling in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, a root, evidently that of a cherry-tree, was taken up. About seven inches from the trunk it was encased in a series of six vertebral bones of some animal, the wood completely filling the narrow channel through which the spinal cord once passed. The bones, which measured from three-quarters of an inch to a full inch in length, have the appearance of caudal vertebrae, and resemble most closely those of an opossum."

A CURIOUS crystal of diamond, in the Imperial Museum at Vienna, has been recently studied by Dr. Schrauf. It is a twin octahedron, possessing remarkable optical properties. In fact some of the faces behave like those of an optically-uniaxial crystal. This anomaly in a substance belonging to the cubic system may probably be explained by the peculiar structure of the diamond. It appears that a pale brown diamond is inclosed within the colorless external crystal, and the pressure of the inclosure has induced a state of tension in parts of the envelope, thus producing the optical irregularity.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Toledo Blade, writing from Antwerp, Ohio, says: "Last week some bridge builders who are building a bridge between Charloc and St. Andrews, in digging for a solid foundation for one of their abutments, came across the skeleton of an Indian of gigantic size. They measured the bone of the foreleg by that of the tallest man among the party, but it outmeasured his by about five inches. The skull was large and well preserved. With the skeleton were buried two knives, a spear-head and a very handsome pipe carved from red and white stone, and perfectly preserved."

A NEW employment for womanly energy has recently been initiated in England that seems to be admirably adapted to feminine ingenuity, activity and taste. Four ladies of good social position in London have adopted the profession of home decorative artists. They undertake the whole interior embellishment of a dwelling, including the selection of furniture, attention to the upholstering, and the tasteful selection and arrangement of all the ornamental appendages of a well-ordered home. They are said to be excellent artists in their profession, and have already met with marked success. But they have reached this result by serving a regular apprenticeship.

THERE is a bright side to even the most disheartening circumstances of the church. It is our duty to consider these first, and take courage.—Poor.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD
OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL
AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.
One vol., extra cloth, $2.50; Half calf, $5.00,
Three vols., ... $6.00; $12.00,
Six vols., ... $12.00; ... ... $24.00.
ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se3 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

AGENTS WANTED—ACT AT ONCE.—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of
LIVINGSTONE.
His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa; the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!
FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:
YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.
Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything
(Count the number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined. 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our ground
COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.
Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is
THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.
The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR
THE LIFE OF JESUS,
For Young People.
A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address
H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se21 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

CANVASSERS, send No. of your Lodge, and name this paper. We will convince you agents with our superb Home Pictures for Masons Odd-Fellows, Knights Pythias Orangers, Red-men, Mechanics, etc., are making double they could any other way; work pleasanter. J. HALE POWERS & CO., Fraternity & Fine Art Pubs., Cincinnati, O.
Ja29 1y

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!
Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of
Cast Steel and Wrought Plows
at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Some Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of four or more are ordered no additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at JOHN W. NORRIS',
de17 2m 27 Canal street.

$72 EACH WEEK.
AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

BUSINESS CARDS.

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12.....Dumaine St.....12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in HUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

H. P. BUCKLEY,
8.....CAMP STREET.....8
has for sale, at low prices, Fine Gold and Silver WATCHES, American, English and Swiss; Fine JEWELRY, Sterling SILVERWARE, Gold, Silver and Steel SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES. Particular attention to repairing all kinds of Clocks and Watches. Diamonds remounted and Jewelry repaired. de24 1m

MICHAEL HACKETT,
DEALER IN
FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,
Cor. Dryades and Thalia Sts.,
de24 1m New Orleans.

JOHN U. ADAMS,
C. O. D. HAT STORE,
26.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....26
Near Common.
Fresh goods. Low prices. de24 1m

E. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 99 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

T. W. BOTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58.....ROYAL STREET.....58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. de17 1m

RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38.....BOURBON ST.....38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BERO, Agent.

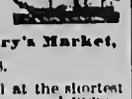
LADIES' HAIR EMPORIUM.
JUST OPENED.
142.....Canal St.....142
Imported HUMAN HAIR worked in every conceivable style. Wigs manufactured to order. Ladies' Hair Combed in the most fashionable styles at very reasonable charges.
JULES DELAUNAY, Agent,
de3 2m No. 142 Canal street.

DELGADO & GOLDTHWAITE,
FAMILY GROCERS,
643.....MAGAZINE STREET.....643
Corner of Jackson, New Orleans.
Goods delivered free of charge to any part of the city. no26 1f

H. HUNSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
103.....Calliope Street.....103
Between Magazine and Constance,
no26 2m New Orleans.

MISS M. HAYES,
FASHIONABLE MILLINERY,
DRESSMAKING AND FANCY GOODS,
139.....Royal Street.....139
Orders promptly attended to. no12 2m

LOUIS TIEMANN,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
Choice Imported and Domestic Cigars,
Chewing and Smoking Tobacco, Smokers' Articles and Fancy Goods,
CRESCENT CITY CIGAR STORE,
No. 9 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Goods warranted. Country orders promptly attended to. oc22 3m

J. DUBARRY,
BUTCHER,


Stalls Nos. 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market,
NEW ORLEANS.
Ships, Steamboats, etc., supplied at the shortest notice. de10 2m

ISIDORE LEVI,
Formerly of the firms of Levi, Navra & Co., and George D. Wolf & Levi, is now with
A. PEISER & CO.,
21.....MAGAZINE ST.....21
Cheapest House in the Southwest.
Glassware, Crockery, China, Cutlery, House-Furnishing Goods, etc. Original packages for Country Trade. no19 2m

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
AND LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590.....MAGAZINE ST.....590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m F. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y

PIANOS, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, ETC.
807 Magazine Street, near Sixth.
MRS. G. VOM HOFE,
MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
Pianos for sale, to rent, repaired and tuned, or taken in exchange. Church Organs of all kinds tuned. A. G. GARNEAU, Tuner. Music neatly bound. de17 1m

J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
162 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. nth5 1y

WOOD.....COAL.....WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 282 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (no12 3m) SAM. SMITH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64.....Baronne Street.....66
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM HOGAN,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS,
VALISES AND BAGS.
SEWING MACHINES.—Agents for Empire and Gold Medal.
Nos. 99 and 101 Canal Street.
de3 2m New Orleans.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

MATTHEW HENRICK,
CISTERN-MAKER,
Corner Franklin and Erato Sts.,
no19 2m NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS (over Brunselman & Adams') wish to inform the community that they are in constant receipt of the LATEST FASHIONS. Their style and fit cannot be rivaled, and their punctuality can be testified by their customers. Ladies would do well to call early with their Holiday Dresses, in order to have ample time to display their skill in producing something elegant and tasty. Prices always moderate.
no12 2m MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS.

JACOB FREIDHOF,
DEALER IN
FIRE-WOOD, PITTSBURG COAL AND CHARCOAL,
58 and 60 Burgundy St., New Orleans.
Wood Sawed to order. Country orders promptly attended to. no19 2m

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
46 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL.....COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
9.....CARONDELET ST.....9
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.
oc29 3m H. & C. TYLER.

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78.....MAGAZINE ST.....78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79.....Carondelet St.....79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. Jy2 1y

J. B. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine cleaned Moss. Je4 10m

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
201, 203, 205 and 207 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. Je11 1y

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115.....Canal Street.....115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plateware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN BOIS,
fe26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

THOMAS HANAM,
LUMBER.
CABINS MADE TO ORDER.
Every description of LUMBER always on hand. Sash, Blinds, etc.
Mills and Yard—Corner CEDAR AND JULIA streets (New Basin,) New Orleans. Ja15 1y

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce,
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE,)
Je1 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS,
TRADE-MARKS, COPYRIGHTS, ETC.,
Procured by
mh26 10m H. N. JENKINS,
No. 27 Commercial Place, New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. HEDRICK,
my21 1y 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COELON,
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37.....Camp Street.....37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 1f

T. WHINEY CARTER,
ARCHITECT,
47.....POLYMNIA STREET.....47
Ja15 1y New Orleans.

GAS FIXTURES.
GAS COOKING STOVES
AND PLUMBING MATERIALS
At New York Prices,
BY P. H. QUINLAN, 280 CAMP STREET.
Stores, Offices and Dwellings fitted up for Gas, Steam and Water in the most approved style. Country orders solicited. mh26 10m

F. J. KUHNHOLZ,
BOOK-BINDER,
112.....GRAVIER ST.....112
Near Camp, New Orleans.
Blank-Books ruled and bound to order. All other books, such as Magazines, Music, Law-Books, etc., bound with care and neatness, and at moderate prices. Ja22 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—No. 48 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper.
Cash Orders Solicited.

ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.

BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second-hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

JEWELRY, WATCHES AND CLOCKS.
65.....ROYAL ST.....65
A. BONNET,
DEALER IN
Fine Jewelry, Watches and Clocks, has recently largely increased his stock by French, English and American importations. The public is respectfully invited to call and examine the goods before purchasing elsewhere. Jewelry and Watches neatly repaired. de17 1m

FRANCIS LAUER,
IMPORTER OF AND DEALER IN
China, Earthen and Glassware,
Silver-Plated and Table Cutlery, Coal Oil Lamps, Chimneys, House-Furnishing Goods, etc.,
616 MAGAZINE STREET,
de24 1m Cor. Josephine, New Orleans.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
165 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

T. B. HONOR,
MANUFACTURER AND REPAIRER OF
Hair, Feather and Moss Mattresses,
NO. 230 MAGAZINE STREET,
Bet. St. Joseph and Delord, New Orleans.
Steamships, Steamboats, Hotels and Boarding-Houses supplied at short notice and at the lowest rates. Country orders solicited and promptly attended to. de24 1m mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—536 ROYAL STREET.
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. L. TUCKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
160.....COMMON STREET.....160
de24 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....Julia Street.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anesthetics administered. de17 1y

J. A. & E. J. DeHART,
DENTISTS,
185.....CANAL ST.....185
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

GEORGE J. FRIEDRICHS,
DENTIST,
155.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....155
de10 1m NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je29 1f

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
Ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS.
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
70 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1398.
PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.

POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use, working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty-four sizes, from 5¾ to 90 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.

Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Ehaugh's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
Send for Circulars. se3 6m

STAR IRON WORKS.
WALTON, HEMLER & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
IRON RAILINGS,
SAFES AND BANK VAULTS,
JAIL CELLS, IRON STAIRS, DOORS AND SHUTTERS, Awning Frames, Gratings, Bolts, Stirrups, Verandas, Balconies, Patent Sidewalk and Sky-Lights, and all kinds of Iron Work for buildings.
Nos. 231 and 236 West Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. oc23 3m

WIRE RAILING
AND ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.

DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati
mh5 1y B. J. WEST, Agent,
115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, DURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

JAMES N. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28.....Beekman Street.....28
nh13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

J. W. HART.
Engraver
ON WOOD
258 RACE ST. CIN. O.
oc29 9m

CARPET WAREHOUSE.
17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17
A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Stop Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. FELTON & CO., 119 Nassau street, New York.
au13 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES.

The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne,)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
Jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

PLOWS, IMPLEMENTS, ETC.
PLOWS
AND ALL IMPROVED
Agricultural Implements.
PLANTATION HARDWARE.
Steam Engines, Saw and Grist Mills.
PUMPS, SHAFTING, ETC.,
AT LOW PRICES FOR CASH.
B. J. WEST,
115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans,
MANUFACTURERS' AGENT.
mh19 10m

CRESCENT MACHINE SHOP.
JOSEPH WALKER,
Machinist, Engineer, Blacksmithing,
ETC., ETC.,
CORNER ST. JOSEPH AND CONSTANCE STS.
New Orleans.
Plantation Machinery manufactured and repaired. Jobbing promptly attended to. fe5 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM GREGG MRS. ADA GREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 131 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA GREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
je18 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
Jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
519.....MAGAZINE STREET.....519
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 10m

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO. Portland, Maine. te5 1y

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 14 feet 8 inches below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the first instant:

Mississippi river and bayous	5,155
Red river	6,458
Ouachita river	1,368
Railroads	7,643
Lake	20
Mobile	2,974
Texas	497
Florida	3
Total	24,615

On Saturday, with no cotton reports from New York or Liverpool, the market opened inanimate. There was, nevertheless, a fair inquiry, but the movement during the morning was checked by factors being more stringent in their pretensions, while buyers either refused to pay any stiffer rates or claimed concessions. Later in the day, however, parties came together more freely, and quite an active movement ensued, swelling the business to 8,230 bales. On Monday, under the favorable influence of an improvement of 1-16d. at Liverpool, where the sales embraced 15,000 bales, and of ⅛c. at New York, the movement commenced with more stringent pretensions on the part of factors, who claimed an advance of 1/16@⅛c., which buyers were unwilling to admit. The operations during the morning were consequently of limited extent, partly at previous rates and partly at an advance of ⅛c., after which buyers came forward more freely, until later in the day, when the reaction in gold had a depressing effect on foreign exchange, and rather checked operations, restricting the business to 5,500 bales. Low middling was generally held at 13¾c., and middling at 14¼c. On Tuesday the movement was quite active, resulting in sales of 9,500 bales, partly at previous rates, but mostly at an advance of ⅛c., and in some cases at figures indicating an improvement of ⅛c.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 23,230 bales, against 20,200 for the corresponding time last week and 17,300 the week before. The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 582,781 bales, against 599,-669 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 221,991 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 183,312 bales to Great Britain, of 12,795 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 32,926 to France. We quote:

Ordinary	11¾ @ 12⅛
Strict ordinary	12¼ @ 12⅜
Good ordinary	12⅝ @ 12⅞
Strict good ordinary	13⅛ @ 13⅜
Low middling	13¾ @ 14
Strict low middling	14 @ 14⅛
Middling	14¼ @ 14⅜
Strict middling	14½ @ 14⅝
Good middling	14⅞ @ 15
Middling fair	15¼ @ 15½
Fair	16 @ 16½

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	24,615
Arrived previously	655,362—	679,977
		695,930
Exported past three days	14,515
Exported previously	408,245—	422,760
Stock on hand and on shipboard		273,170

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 2,806 hhds., which were mostly sold at 4⅛@5¼c. for inferior, 5½@6c. for common, 6⅝@6¾c. for good common to fair, 6¾@7⅛c. for fair to good fair, 7⅛@7½c. for fully fair, 7¾c. for prime, 8c. for strictly prime, 8¼c. for choice, 8@8⅜c. for low to choice seconds, 7⅞@8¼c. for centrifugal, 8⅛@8⅜c. for gray clarified, 8½@8¾c. for yellow clarified, 9@9½c. for off-white clarified, and 9¾@10c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—On Tuesday 1,159 bbls. and 8 half bbls. were received. The supplies were mostly sold at 40c. for inferior fermenting and 52c for strictly prime fermenting, 48@50c. for fair not fermenting, 53@54c. for prime, 55@58c. for strictly prime, and 60c. for choice.

CORN.—On Monday 3,500 sacks sold at 90c. for yellow mixed and 90@92c. for choice white. The Exchange quoted mixed at 86@88c. ₱ bushel.

OATS.—On Tuesday 1,050 sacks sold at 74@75c. ₱ bushel.

BRAN.—On Tuesday 200 sacks sold on 'Change on private terms, and 200 on the landing at $1.25 ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday 200 bbls. mess sold in two lots at $21 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday 5 casks shoulders sold at 9¼c., and 5 do clear sides of 12¾c. ₱ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—On Monday 41 casks shoulders sold at 7¾c., and 20,000 lbs. clear rib sides, loose, at 9¾c. ₱ lb.

HAMS.—On Tuesday 25 tierces choice new sugar-cured sold on private terms, and 15 at 14¼@15c. ₱ lb.

LARD.—On Tuesday 250 kegs sold on private terms, 25 kegs kettle at 15c., and 10 tierces steam-rendered at 14c. ₱ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 111⅞@112¼, against 111⅞ at New York, and after a fair business closed at 111⅞@112, against 112⅛ at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver. It is quoted at 106@108⅞ for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97@97⅝ gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTUAAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	5 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	16 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	225 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BAGGING, ₱ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
Eagle firs	45 00	47 50
American firs	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₱ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₱ lb.:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₱ lb.:
Mexican	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₱ dozen:
Western	25	28
FERTILIZERS, ₱ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₱ bbl.:
Double extra	— —	5 25
Superfine	— —	5 00
Fine	— —	— —
GLASS, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₱ ton:
Prime	— —	24 00
Choice	26 00	27 00
IRON, ₱ ton:
English, ₱ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7½	6
Hoop	6	9
Sheet	5¼	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	5
LEATHER, ₱ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₱ dozen	35 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	26
LIME, ₱ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	18 00	20 00
Flooring, rough	— —	15 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₱ M	— —	3 25
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₱ gallon	1 10	1 15
Coal oil, in barrels	17	20
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₱ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¼
TEAS, ₱ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	65	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Pouchong	80	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim. skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 5, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$40 00 @ 46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₱ head	30 00 @ 35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₱ head	20 00 @ 25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₱ head	— — @ 15 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	— — @ — —
Sheep, first quality ₱ head	4 00 @ 5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₱ head	3 00 @ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00 @ 100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	35 00 @ 40 00
Calves, ₱ head	7 00 @ 8 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	5 00 @ 9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year for want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
J. Hale Powers, Cincinnati, Ohio.
George Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Architects.
T. Whitney Carter, 47 Polymnia street, New Orleans.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Belting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Book-Binder.
F. J. Kohnholz, 112 Gravier street.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Ditson & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
J. Hickling & Co., 72 Broadway, New York.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. S. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John F. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
James W. Queen & Co., 601 Broadway, New York.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
William Hogan, 99 and 101 Canal street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Butchers.
J. Dubarry, Stalls 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market.

Carpets.
A. Broussean & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 168 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
R. O. Dorman & Co., 71 and 73 Goffe street, New Haven, Conn.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Snell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockeryware.
Francis Lauer, 616 Magazine street.
Isidore Levi, with A. Pesner & Co., 21 Magazine street.
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Cisterns-Makers.
M. Henrick, corner Franklin and Ernto streets.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Cloths.
A. Geiger, 33 Chartres street.

Coal and Wood.
J. Chandler, corner Tchoupitoulas and Phillip streets.
Jacob Freidhof, 38 and 40 Burgundy street.
H. H. Hassman, 102 Calliope street.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
William Velden, corner Prytania and Phillip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Hero, 38 Bourbon street.
Home Lunch Saloon, 71 Camp street.
F. Trolle, 599 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
F. A. LeBlanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
H. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
J. A. & E. J. DeHart, 183 Canal street.
George J. Friedrichs, 155 St. Charles street.

Dry Goods.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hiwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Soule's Commercial College, corner Camp and Common streets.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hart, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Baronne street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. B. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clinton st.

Furniture.
John Bols, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Gas Fixtures.
P. H. Quinlan, 280 Camp street.

Glass Staining.
Belcher & Povey, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
William Bobe, 484 St. Charles street.
J. J. Brown, 78 Magazine street.
Delgado & Goldthwaite, 643 and 645 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.
Michael Hackett, corner Dryades and Thalia streets.
John McMains, 572 and 574 Magazine street.
C. W. Roth, corner Carondelet and Poydras streets.

Hair Goods.
Jules Demanny, agent, 142 Canal street.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street, New Orleans.

Hats.
John U. Adams, 26 St. Charles street.
Robert E. Lee Hat Store, corner Royal and St. Louis streets.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Insurance.
Louisiana Equitable Life Insurance Company, William Henderson, secretary.

Iron Manufactories.
Walton, Hemler & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Leather.
A. F. Ricau, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Thomas Hasam, cor. Cedar and Jolia streets.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 694 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. Walker, cor. St. Joseph and Constance sts.
Well-Anger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.
B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Hall & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cincho Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Duane street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Laplace, 21 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Menophysical Discovery, Mrs. M. O. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Optima Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Upham's Asthma Cure.
Dr. C. B. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Millinery.
H. Felsenfeld, 194 Canal street.
Mrs. Fricke & Williams, 586 Magazine street.
Miss M. Hayes, 131 Royal street.

Mineral Waters.
Frederickson & Harte, 139 Canal street.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
George A. Prince & Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
Mrs. G. Vom Hofe, 807 Magazine street.
Horace Waters & Son, 481 Broadway, New York.
Philip Werlein, 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
L. J. Marcy, 1360 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.
Dr. Van Holm, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Patents.
H. N. Jenkins, 27 Commercial place

Pens.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York:

Photographic.
Anderson's Photographic Studio, 151 Canal street.

Plows.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
A. L. Tocker, attorney at law, 160 Common street.

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Dumaine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soaps.
J. R. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Starch Gloss.
William H. Shepard & Co., 106 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
G. W. W. Goodwyn, 34 Magazine street.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
Louis Tiemann, 9 Camp street, New Orleans.

Undertaker.
T. W. Bothick, 271 Camp street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.
T. B. Honor, 230 Magazine street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Boltel, 58 Royal street.
A. Boonet, 65 Royal street.
H. P. Buckley, 8 Camp street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
W. Kurten, corner Magazine and Josephine streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Window Shades.
M. A. Wilhelmi, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dufur & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

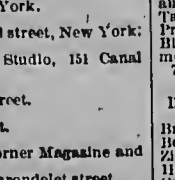
Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!

Restore your Sight!

THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,



By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.

WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to

DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957.)
No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.
no26 1y

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

PRATTVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Prattville station	Jan. 2, 3
Lowndesboro circuit, at Lowndesboro	9, 10
Georgiana circuit, at Georgiana	16, 17
Monterey circuit, at Liberty	23, 24
Evergreen circuit, at Evergreen	30, 31
Sepulga circuit, at Asbury	Feb. 6, 7
Pineville circuit, at Pineville	13, 14
Camden circuit, at Camden	20, 21
Monroeville circuit, at Monroeville	27, 28
Brewton mission, at Castleberry	Mar. 6, 7
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Pleasant Hill	13, 14
Randolph circuit	20, 21
Autaugaville circuit at Autaugaville	27, 28
Clanton mission, at Bethel	Apr. 3, 4

A full attendance is earnestly solicited.

J. W. SHORES, P. E.
7 Georgiana, Ala. (M. and M. R. R.)

EUFAULA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Eufaula	Jan. 16, 17
Enon and Midway	23, 24
Clayton and Louisville	30, 31
Pea River mission	Feb. 6, 7
Vinin	13, 14
White Pond	20, 21
Henry	27, 28
Glennville	Mar. 6, 7
Beulah	13, 14

The district stewards will meet at Eufaula, January 16.

7 W. H. ELLISON, P. E.

MONTGOMERY DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Tuskegee	Jan. 3, 4
Auburn	9, 10
Opelika	16, 17
Wetumpka	23, 24
Elmore	30, 31
Tallassee	Feb. 1, 2
Montgomery	6, 7
Tuskegee circuit	13, 14
Notasulga	20, 21
Salem	27, 28
Crawford	Mar. 6, 7
Hurtville	13, 14

The district stewards will meet at Auburn, March 16, at eleven A. M.

31 WM. A. MCCARTY, P. E.

MOBILE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

St. Paul's	Jan. 2, 3
Franklin street and City mission	9, 10
St. Francis street	16, 17
Citronelle	23, 24
Mount Pleasant	30, 31
Grand Bay	Feb. 6, 7
Eastern Shore	13, 14
Pensacola and Navy Yard	20, 21
Milton and Yellow River mission	27, 28
Pollard and Black Water mission	Mar. 6, 7
St. Stephen's	13, 14
Bladon Springs	20, 21

Will the preachers in charge of circuits inform me where their first Quarterly Conferences are to be held, and the most convenient routes to them? My address is Citronelle (Mobile and Ohio railroad,) Alabama.

31 S. H. COX, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Livingston	Jan. 2, 3
Eutaw	9, 10
Greene circuit, at Salem	16, 17
Belmont, at Brewersville	23, 24
Gainesville circuit, at Gainesville	30, 31
Greensboro	Feb. 6, 7
Havana circuit, at Havana	13, 14
Demopolis	20, 21
Forkland circuit, at Forkland	27, 28
Cuba circuit, at Chestnut Grove	Mar. 6, 7
Gaston circuit, at Christopher chapel	13, 14
Butler circuit, at Mount Sterling	20, 21

The preachers on the several appointments will please inform me, at Summerfield, how I am to get to their quarterly meetings—where I am to leave the railroad, etc.

24 A. H. MITCHELL, P. E.

SELMA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Summerfield and Perryville, at Summerfield	Jan. 2, 3
Newbern circuit, at Newbern	9, 10
Brush Creek circuit, at New Providence	16, 17
Marion station	23, 24
Grove Hill circuit, at Grove Hill	30, 31
Suggsville circuit, at Gosport	Feb. 6, 7
East Selma and Benton, at Selma	13, 14
Choctaw Corner and Bigbee mission, at Payne chapel	20, 21
Pescahree circuit, at Liberty	27, 28
Sehon station	Mar. 6, 7
Rembert Hills, at Hampden	13, 14
Orrville circuit, at Orrville	20, 21
Uniontown and Cedar Grove, at Uniontown	27, 28
Dayton circuit, at Spring Hill	Apr. 3, 4

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Spring Hill, April 3. My address is Summerfield.

24 ANDREW J. BRIGGS, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waynesboro circuit, at Waynesboro	Jan. 9, 10
Enterprise station	16, 17
Shubuta circuit and Ellisville mission, at Shubuta	23, 24
Chunkey circuit, at Chunkey	30, 31
Enterprise circuit, at Sageville	Feb. 6, 7
Spring Hill circuit, at Bethel	13, 14
DeKalb circuit, at Pleasant Ridge	20, 21
Paulding circuit, at Paulding	27, 28
Meridian station	Mar. 6, 7
DeSoto circuit, at DeSoto	13, 14
Wayne circuit, at Andrew chapel	20, 21
Marion circuit, at Marion	27, 28

The district stewards are called to meet in the Methodist church at Meridian on Wednesday, January 27, at ten o'clock A. M. No other body is authorized to do the work of this meeting. Let the brethren therefore, at the time and place above, answer to their names—G. D. McCormick, Angus Taylor, J. H. Cochran, Daniel McInnis, Joseph Price, Dr. James Webb, Dr. C. R. Rencher, T. Z. Blanks, J. D. Pendleton, J. A. Lewis, and two to me unknown.

7 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Brookhaven station	Jan. 16, 17
Beauregard circuit, at Beauregard	23, 24
Zion mission, at Bethel	30, 31
Hazlehurst station	Feb. 6, 7
Crystal Springs station	13, 14
Raymond circuit, at Clinton	20, 21
Georgetown circuit, at Pleasant Grove	27, 28
Spring Ridge circuit, at Terry	Mar. 6, 7
Providence circuit, at New Hope	13, 14
Brandywine circuit, at Pisgah	20, 21
Scotland circuit, at Caseyville	27, 28

The district stewards will please to meet me at Hazlehurst on Saturday, February 6, 1875, at ten A. M. They are: S. R. Ricketts, G. Ellis, I. V. Enochs, E. L. Normon, Jesse Thompson, T. I. Hunter, H. M. Millsaps, A. Fortner, Willis Barns, John Beazley.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.,
31 Sharon, Mississippi.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Faunin circuit, at Union	Jan. 9, 10
Morton circuit, at Zion Grove	16, 17
Lake and Forest circuit, at Lake	23, 24
Trenton circuit and Stony River mission, at Caney Creek	30, 31
Raleigh circuit, at Raleigh	Feb. 6, 7
Garlandsville circuit, at Newton	13, 14
Brandon station, at Brandon	20, 21
Philadelphia circuit, at Mars Hill	27, 28
Walnut Grove circuit, at Scotland chapel	Mar. 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Hillsboro	13, 14
Centerville circuit and Decatur mission, at Holland's store	20, 21

It is earnestly desired and requested that the official members of these Quarterly Conferences be promptly on the ground on Saturday, at eleven o'clock A. M.

The district stewards (E. A. Martin, W. T. Robinson, J. C. Harper, R. A. Tills, Benjamin Thompson, J. Watts, R. Lowry, W. J. Seale, I. Miller, M. H. Lock and L. M. Horton) will please meet me at Lake station on the twenty-second day of January, 1875, to estimate the presiding elder's salary and divide it out among the circuits and stations. Let all the stewards labor earnestly to make a good start this new year for their preachers, and expect the blessing of God upon their labors.

31 WILLIAM B. HINES, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kingston	Jan. 9, 10
Natchez	16, 17
Fayette, at Bethel	23, 24
South Warren, at Red Bone	30, 31
Cayuga, at Rives' chapel	Feb. 6, 7
Mount Olivet, at Stiloh	13, 14
Vicksburg and Grove street	20-22
Rolling Fork	27, 28
Clover Hill	Mar. 6, 7
Rocky Springs, at Rocky Springs	13, 14
Port Gibson	20, 21
North Warren, at Oak Ridge	27, 28

The district stewards will please meet me in Vicksburg, February 20.

31 F. M. FEATHERSTUN, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Jackson station	Jan. 9, 10
Madison circuit, at Livingston	16, 17
Sharon circuit, at Sharon	23, 24
Camden and Soule chapel, at Soule chapel	30, 31
Canton station	Feb. 6, 7
Brownsville circuit, at Queen's Hill	13, 14
Vernon mission, at Kennedy's	20, 21
Dover circuit, at Fletcher chapel	27, 28
Yazoo City station	Mar. 6, 7
Yazoo circuit, at Tranquil	13, 14
Silver Creek circuit, at Palmetto	21, 22
Thomastown circuit, at Forest Grove	27, 28
Cortinge circuit, at Goshen	Apr. 3, 4

The district stewards will meet at Canton, February 6, to make the opportunities for the presiding elder, Bishops, Conference fund and missionary collection.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.,
31 Hazlehurst, Miss.

SUMMIT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Magnolia circuit, at Magnolia	Jan. 2, 3
Amite City circuit, at Amite City	9, 10
St. Helens, at Day's church	16, 17
Amite circuit	23, 24
Franklinton, at Franklinton	30, 31
East Baton Rouge	Feb. 6, 7
Union circuit, at Pipkin's chapel	13, 14
Meadville circuit	20, 21
Homochitto circuit	27, 28
Hammond circuit, at James' chapel	Mar. 6, 7
Covington, at Covington	13, 14
China Grove, at China Grove	20, 21
Monticello	27, 28

There are several circuits now in the district of which I am not advised of the place of holding the first quarterly meetings. The preachers will please let me know of their earliest convenience. My address is Summit, Mississippi.

31 A. B. NICHOLSON, P. E.

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS, TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS, TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS, SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for $15 00
to wit:
12 Dinner Plates, 1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates, 1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates, 1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates, 2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates, 2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers, 4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers, 2 Pickle Shells.

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above $18 00
A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces 30 00
Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from ..... $30 up.
White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00
White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces 4 00
French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces 6 50
French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces 7 50
Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

A

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1875. NO. 3.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 6.—The great powers have authorized their representatives at Madrid to enter into semi-official relations with the new government.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The sales of Plymouth church pews aggregate $70,000, against $58,000 last year; highest price, $550; lowest, $10.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—A meeting of citizens last night adopted a memorial to Congress, urging the importance of a system of improvements such as will make the Ohio navigable at all stages of water, and asking for the improvement of the month of the Mississippi, in view of the great and rapidly increasing traffic of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 7.—The municipal election passed off quietly to-day, the Democratic-Conservative party generally successful.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The New York express, hence at nine P. M. yesterday, collided with a freight train. The mail and express cars, with the mail agent, Flumin, were burned. No passengers were seriously hurt. The entire Northern mail from Washington, including the accumulated day's mails from the South, excepting one pouch and canvas for Baltimore, was destroyed by the burning of the postal car.

OMAHA, Jan. 9.—The extreme cold weather here and beyond Cheyenne continues. Thermometer here last night reached twenty-one degrees below zero. To-day there is a slight moderation, but very cold yet. A school girl was so frozen yesterday that she died to-day.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The indignation meeting over Louisiana, at Cooper Institute to-night, was remarkable in point of numbers and enthusiasm. The doors were opened a half hour before the usual time, and at a quarter-past seven the hall was packed. The platform was soon thronged, and only a small space was left around the chair. Prominent among the gentlemen on the platform were Messrs. William Cullen Bryant and Peter Cooper.

The Sun says great alarm exists among the people of the mining towns in Pennsylvania, owing to the turbulent disposition of the miners now on a strike. More than twenty thousand men are penniless and idle, with starvation staring them in the face. At a miners' meeting on Thursday a resolution was passed calling on the men to arm and help themselves to bread.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A Herald special from London says Don Carlos has issued a proclamation, dated headquarters, Vara, January 6, in which he declares, as head of the Spanish Bourbons, he contemplates with profound sorrow the attitude of his cousin Alfonso, whose inexperience has led him to consent to being the instrument of the same persons who expelled him and his mother. Notwithstanding, he makes no protest; the dignity of himself and army is the only protest he can offer. He avers he will remain faithful to his holy mission and keep the flag unstained.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 12.—Ex-Governor Bramlette died at his residence in this city this afternoon, after an illness of several weeks. He was Governor of Kentucky during the closing years of the war, but has not since taken an active part in politics. He was regarded as one of the ablest and most prominent lawyers at the bar, and a short time since acted temporarily as judge of the Federal court, during the absence of Judge Ballard. He died of rheumatism of the heart.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Globe says: "Correspondence is in progress between the governments of England and the United States in relation to some territory in British North America, which England claims, but has never formally annexed."

A dispatch to the Telegraph says: Castelar is preparing to quit Spain before Alfonso's arrival.

Two Protestant newspapers have been suppressed in Madrid.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 7.—A deputation from the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce was received by the President and entertained with high festivities.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The Post's Berlin special says a lively correspondence is in progress between the German and Spanish governments in regard to the outrage by the Carlists on the German vessel Gustav. It is rumored the German corvettes Victoria and Louisa have been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to chastise the Carlists, if necessary.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Times has reason to believe that Bismarck has intimated to Spain that the German government will defer recognition of Alfonso until the decree suspending two Protestant newspapers, and closing the Protestant chapel in Cadiz, is repealed.

"NO' A DAY FOR WHISTLIN'."—The late Dr. Macadam used to tell of a tipsy Scotchman making his way home upon a bright Sunday morning, when the good people were wending their way to the kirk. A little dog pulled the ribbon from the hand of a lady who was leading it, and as it ran away from her she appealed to the first passer-by, asking him to whistle for her poodle. "Woman," he retorted, with a solemnity of visage which only a drunken man can assume, "woman, this is no' a day for whistlin'?"

Felling the Redwood-Trees.

We extract from the Oakland Real Estate Reporter a few paragraphs from an interesting article, entitled "Logging in the Redwoods of California."

The choppers especially must be men of intelligence and experience. A great deal more than mere strength to swing the ax for eleven hours a day is required to make a good chopper. After the tree is selected the ground needs careful looking after, as a stump or fallen tree, or any inequality of the earth would, as a gentleman of the profession remarked, "knock the biggest on 'em into smithereens." It is a peculiarity of redwood to split into long and profitless thin strips upon small provocation, and the inexperienced eye, glancing over the ground that bristles with all sorts of obstacles, sees little hope of any tree escaping destruction. And it is only the extreme skill of the choppers that makes the disaster uncommon.

Felling a seven or eight-foot tree is half a day's work for three men. The choppers stand some six or eight feet from the ground, each on a narrow bit of board, one end of which is thrust into a notch in the bark, and this unsteady footing is all they have while they hack away with their long axes hour after hour. When a ten or fifteen-footer is encountered, a platform of bark, with the standing boards for support, is built, and an extra chopper put on. Two cuts are made in the tree; that on the side on which the monster is to fall being much larger and somewhat lower than the one on the other side. Thus the weight of the tree is made to serve for its own overthrow. It is tremendously hard work, and wears the strongest man out in from three to four years.

When the tree begins to "complain," as the shrill, vibrating, cracking noise is aptly called, the choppers give a long, warning wail that sends all the workmen in the neighborhood scampering to a safe distance. A second cry tells that the tree is wavering, and the choppers themselves leap from their perches and run from it. The giant yields slowly and with a mighty grumbling. Then, in spite of himself, he leans over painfully, and with a frightsome booming and crackling sweeps to the trembling earth, the foliage whistling and screaming like the rigging of a ship in a hurricane. The shock is terrific, and resembles nothing so much as an earthquake. Every branch is snapped off and broken to splinters. The thud is heard and felt miles away.

HAIR, HATS AND HIDEOUSNESS.—We begin to despair of ever again seeing—in public—the natural beauty of woman's head. When unadorned, this pre-eminently is adorned the most. Nothing can exceed the sweet gracefulness of the curve lines which contour many and many female faces and figures when left to themselves, to be as God made them to be; or when treated simply, and in that most exquisite of all tastes, which neither neutralizes nor overrides, but just suits and heightens every natural trait, and beautifies all inborn and characteristic seemliness, without introducing any alien gaud or glare. How refreshing it is now and then to come upon some woman who has wit and culture enough to know that nothing can make her so beautiful as to part her hair naturally, and sweep it back from her forehead either in loosely-flowing simplicity or coiled and twisted in careless grace into one of those honest knots which painters love; and courage enough to do as she likes with her hair and her head, whatever others may think, say or do.

It would be bad for those who trade in dead locks, and in those pitiable shams of them, which some women besides our Irish female fellow-citizens are wont to tie or tack, in greasy, nasty heaps, upon the back part of the head; but what a gain it will be to cleanliness and comeliness alike when the wind of fashion changes, and it is no longer "the style" for a woman thus to overload and disfigure herself.—The Congregationalist.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Christian Advocate, of New York, has been asking several Methodist ministers how many hymns they used in public worship. Here are some of the replies:

"Two hundred hymns will include all that our congregations sing in a lifetime."

"I aim never to repeat a hymn, believing that our collection contains enough good hymns to last through an ordinary pastorate without repetitions."

"A prominent church in this city (Brooklyn) confines itself to forty-five for its regular services."

"In a ministry of fourteen years I have not used one-half of our hymns."

"My study copy (of the hymn-book) has two hundred and twenty-four hymns crossed with a pencil, which I pass over in making selections. Five or six hundred would be enough in all."

"My variety of hymns used is much wider than most preachers. I study my hymns as I do my sermons, carefully searching for hymns to correspond to the subject. I have found that I can read better, and hold my congregation to the hymn better, by this course. I have used about three hundred and fifty hymns in six years."

"Mourn not for those whom Christ has folded,
Safe from earth's weary strife;
'Tis ours by conflict to be molded,
Theirs to inherit life."

Roman Catholics and Science.

In the dogmatic constitution of the Vatican Council, quoted by Monsignor Capel to prove the liberty of opinion allowed to Roman Catholics on scientific subjects, the following passage occurs:

"All faithful Christians are not only forbidden to defend as legitimate conclusions of science such opinions as are known to be contrary to the doctrines of faith, especially if they have been condemned by the church, but are altogether bound to account them as errors which put on the fallacious appearance of truth."

It is desirable, while the matter is under discussion, that both Roman Catholics and Protestants should be reminded of the most remarkable example on record illustrative of this requirement of the Church of Rome. Prefixed to the third book of Newton's "Principia," in the edition and commentary published at Rome in 1842 by the Jesuit fathers, Thomas Le Seur and Francis Jacquier, is this declaration in their name:

"Newtonus in hoc Tertio Libro telluris motæ hypothesim assumit. Auctoria propositiones aliter explicari non poterant, nisi eadem quoque facta hypothesi. Hinc alienum conati summus gerere personam. Cæterum latis a summis Pontificibus contra telluris motum Decretis nos obsequi profitemur."

Hoping to give no offense to learned readers by offering a translation, or by the translation offered, I venture to supply the following as the English equivalent of the above:

"Newton in this third book assumes the hypothesis of the motion of the earth. The author's propositions could not be explained otherwise than by making the same hypothesis. Hence we have been compelled to appear in a fictitious character. However, we declare that we yield assent to the decrees passed by the sovereign pontiffs which deny the motion of the earth."

This proves two things: First, that successive Popes have, by their infallible authority, contradicted the fact of the earth's motion; and second, that all Roman Catholics are bound to submit to their authority, and to profess to disbelieve this most certain fact. There is no escape for them. No Roman Catholic in the world can pretend to be a better judge than these two learned men of what is required of him as a Roman Catholic. This is the dilemma: If the Popes are infallible, the earth neither turns on its axis nor moves round the sun. If the earth does so turn and move, the Popes are not infallible. But no person can be a true and sincere Roman Catholic now who does not believe in the infallibility of every Pope when he makes and publishes a solemn decree. How are these acknowledged decrees, which compelled Newton's chief disciples to abjure his system of astronomy, consistent with the declaration of the present Pope, that the decrees of the sovereign pontiffs do not fetter the progress of science? In saying this, has not the infallible Pope stated a manifest falsehood?

Monsignor Capel must have forgotten several articles of the Pope's Syllabus, as well as the above declaration of Newton's Roman Catholic editors, or he would not be "at a loss to understand why his Protestant countrymen will persistently hold that reason is hampered, mind enervated, and science dwarfed by the church" (of Rome.)—London Record.

Double-Tongued.

Never was there a more striking illustration, says the New York Observer, of the double-tongnedness of the Roman Catholic religion than is given by the speech of Archbishop Manning on Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet, and his letter the next day to the newspapers. We have already spoken of both, but the following sentences are more than a volume to show what Romish professions are worth:

FROM THE ADDRESS.

"The other questions which he invited their most serious consideration to, were the infallibility of the holy father, his right to temporal as well as spiritual authority, and, amid all the conflicting opinions of the world, the ultimate necessity of acknowledging civil allegiance to him as their only safety. They must not fear to declare to England and to the world the sovereign pontiff's right to temporal power, and the duty of the nations of the earth to return to their allegiance to him."

FROM THE LETTER.

"The civil allegiance of every Christian man in England is limited by conscience and the law of God; and the civil allegiance of Catholics is limited neither less nor more. * * * My desire and my duty, as an Englishman, as a Catholic, and as a pastor, is to claim, for my flock and for myself, a civil allegiance as pure, as true and as loyal as is rendered by the distinguished author of the pamphlet, or by any subject of the British empire."

"Civil allegiance" is the term employed in both passages; in the first it is pronounced to be due to the Pope of Rome; in the second to the Queen of England. We may well ask: "Under which king, Bezonian?"

WOMAN suffrage has been badly defeated in the Oregon Legislature. A bill granting the right to vote irrespective of sex was allowed to go to a third reading, but upon the final vote was lost by 46 noes to 13 ayes.

Letter from Bishop Pierce.

MR. EDITOR: Skipping over the scenes and objects of interest on the way, we will hail for supper at Ogden, and take the cars for Salt Lake City. Soon after leaving the station we come into full view of that wonderful sheet of water—Salt Lake. The lake is said to be one hundred miles in length and from forty to sixty miles wide. Mountains rise from its bosom, and from some points of observation the rocks and crags resemble houses and castles, and some of them are of such fantastic shape as to suggest the idea of genii presiding over this mystery of nature. I asked a Mormon lady, sitting near me, if they made salt from the water. "Oh, yes," said she; "awful lots of it."

On our way down, at a little station, the cars were invaded by a crowd of young people, all "merry as a marriage bell." In the scramble for seats an old lady seated by Dr. McFerrin and myself, and seemed quite disposed to make herself agreeable. I asked "what all these people were about?" She answered that "they came in the morning from the city for a little jollification, and were now returning." "How have you spent the day?" "Mostly in dancing." "What, do you Mormons dance?" "Yes, sir; but we always open and close with prayer, and we behave ourselves?" "Do you let the Gentiles dance with you?" "Yes, if they behave well." "Are you Mormons all polygamists?" "No, we believe in it—think it right—but do not require a man to have more than one wife; we can do as we please about that. I came here eleven years ago from England; I was a widow then, and I am a widow yet." So we chatted on, and I picked up many scraps of information about this strange people.

On our arrival we went to a hotel and found it a first-class house. Early in the morning we went forth to see, and make our observations. The town is regularly laid out, the streets are at right angles with each other, and by the curbstones on either side there runs a beautiful stream of clear, cold water. Along the sidewalks trees have been planted; on every open lot fruit-trees abound, and the trees and the water give to the whole place a peculiar charm—an air of coolness, comfort and repose. The public buildings are imposing as to size and style—some beautiful private residences—but the common habitations of the people are of a very humble description.

"The Tabernacle" is a wonderful structure—a model auditorium. An ellipse, with an egg-shaped roof, doors of entrance at each end, and on either side; two hundred and fifty feet in length, one hundred and fifty feet in width; a wide gallery nearly around the entire circuit; two pulpits, the first on a low, narrow platform; the second two steps higher, of more elaborate workmanship; in the rear of it an organ made of Utah material and by Utah artisans, at a cost of one hundred thousand dollars; on the right and left, numerous seats for the choir. The whole building will comfortably seat thirteen thousand people. Dr. McFerrin stood in the pulpit, and I went back to the last pew, and we carried on a conversation in a common colloquial tone, each hearing distinctly. The breastwork of the gallery is paneled, and on each panel there is a motto. These mottoes are a fair exponent of the Mormon religion, a curious amalgam of heaven and earth, of truth and error, the divine and the human. I give you a few of them:

"Obedience is better than sacrifice."

"Brigham, our leader and friend."

"The kingdom of God or nothing."

"Honor thy father and thy mother."

"Utah's best crop—children."

"Our crucified Savior."

"Our martyred Prophet."

Quotations from the Bible, American maxims, Mormon ideas, all strangely mingled.

The Sabbath morning is devoted to the Sunday school—the afternoon to public service. The Tabernacle is closed at night. The city is divided into four wards, and over each a bishop presides; and he, with his subordinate officers, holds religious meetings on Sunday night, and sometimes during the week. The officers of these Latter-Day Saints are patriarchs, prophets, apostles, evangelists and priests; their rank, relations and functions I did not learn.

We called on Brigham Young, and were courteously received. He is a nice, clean, good-looking, well-dressed man—seventy-four years of age. He looked fresh and strong, erect and active. He lives in royal style as to the forms and etiquette with which he surrounds himself. He has his hours and his porter, and his reception-room, and is approached through many formalities. Once in his presence, however, he is affable, easy in manner, intelligent in conversation. I take him to be a man of moderate mind, pretty well posted, by reading and contact with strangers, in the current facts of State and of the churches. His position is largely an accident, and his influence the sequence of the ignorance and superstition of his people—investing him with a sacred character. He has been shrewd enough to make a good thing financially out of his prophetic office. Fabulous statements are made as to his personal fortune. I know nothing—I judge by what is visible. All his buildings are plain, and, all things considered, humble. When he located here they were doubtless accounted fine in contrast with the rest about him, but the town has improved, and superior structures outshine him. He has forty acres inclosed with a high stone wall (concrete,) and within he has his printing office, apartments for himself and his employes, and several private residences—gardens, orchards and vineyards—a right royal domain. On the opposite side of the street he is erecting (now about complete) an elegant mansion for his favorite wife. The story is that the house and the outfit are to exceed any private arrangement on the continent. Such a retreat will be very pleasant for an old man, burdened with nineteen wives and forty-nine children, especially as the intended occupant will stand to him in closer celestial affinity than any houri of all the harem.

The Temple is on the same lot with the Tabernacle. It is not finished, and possibly never will be. The design is grand. It is to be built of the finest granite—two hundred feet long, one hundred feet wide, three stories high. It is for the ceremonies—the arcana of the church—and is not to be open for the public. I asked the gentleman who very politely showed us the buildings: "How do you and your people get money for such a magnificent structure as this?" "Oh, very easily," he said. "Our treasury is never empty." "Well, how do you manage that?" "Every Mormon," he replied, "pays the tenth of his income to the church. If he makes one hundred bushels of wheat, the church gets ten. Unless Providence and the seasons and the earth all fail, our treasury will never be empty." Let Gentile Christians ponder that statement. This Mormon fact rebukes our Methodism. How our missions would multiply, our colleges flourish, our orphans rejoice, if the church could command the tenth of the income of her people!

Salt Lake City contains a population of about twenty thousand. In walking the streets it is easy to identify the Mormons, both men and women, especially the latter. They all have a sad, downcast, hopeless look all about them. Their gait, dress and manners indicate dependence, servitude, oppression. The heart is dead, or suffering an agony which none but a woman can know or feel, and all effort is prompted by physical want or goaded on by the exacting selfishness of a human brute who claims to be her husband. It is doubtless some relief to these poor women, called wives, that they are not doomed to live together. If the husband is able, he furnishes a home to each, far apart, if in town, or some in different portions of the city, and some in the country, one on this ranch, another on that, and they never mingle. Many of these scoundrel "saints" multiply their wives to increase their income, accumulated by the wages of these women, hired and compelled to menial service. There never was such a social and religious monstrosity since the world began. I picked up this item: One of the leading men, meeting an acquaintance of other days, dilated largely on the glory of Mormonism, especially the domestic features, the household harmony and bliss, and invited his friend to dine with him. He went, and at the table, in his simplicity, congratulated the lady upon the happiness of her lot. But, alas for the husband! she dashed the glowing picture by the bold, outspoken declaration: "If there be a hell in the universe worse than this, I don't want to go there."

I am happy to say that in my judgment "the church of the Latter-Day Saints" is on its last legs. It cannot live in contact with Christian civilization. It may, perhaps will, survive the death of Brigham, but not long. The struggle for the succession, combined with other causes, will hasten its downfall. The work of disintegration has already begun. Apostasies are open and frequent. The system has the dry rot—gradually sapping its life. Active hostile agencies are undermining it. The word from Brigham's mouth has lost its potent spell. On the train a lady said to me: "Once, if Brigham Young said to a Mormon, Go, he walked; but now we think if a man has a head on his shoulders he should do some thinking and willing for himself." The last experiment of the old prophet and leader upon the credulity and obsequiousness of his people culminated while I was there, and was a failure—a complete backdown. To keep out the Gentiles he instituted what is called "The Order of Enoch," and called upon the faithful to join. One of the articles required every member to transfer the title of his land to the church. One object was to prevent the sale of land to the Gentiles, and thus stay the tide which threatens to overwhelm their institutions; and another to increase the power of the church to compel obedience to the lordly will of the prophet. But the people rebelled, and the scepter departed from the hand palsied by this first defeat. The decree was withdrawn. To have urged it would have precipitated the explosion which is bound to come.

Other churches have established missions in Utah. The Northern Methodists have a church and a pastor in Salt Lake City. There is a Gentile paper (the Tribune) which daily bombards Brigham in his fortress. New ideas are riding on the winds, and whispering dissent and rebellion as they go. The railroad and the telegraph have invaded the land of Deseret, and combustible elements multiply on every hand. Immigration, drawn here by the soil, by the mines, by the physical attractions of the country, is pouring in, and this alien, hostile element will soon be in the ascendant. Adverse legislation by Congress, civil courts enforcing the laws and usages of Christendom—all these causes, and more, are at work to purge the country of this social curse, this selfish, lustful, grinding despotism, miscalled a church. Let it perish—the sooner the better. Not by persecution or violent intervention, but by the force of moral causes, working in their natural order, independent of external influences. The essential rottenness of the system will breed worms enough to devour it, either dead or alive.

Utah is a beautiful country—rich in soil, water fine, productions varied and abundant. The people seem industrious and thrifty. I judge the climate is delightful. With Salt Lake on one side and the Wahsatch mountains, crowned with perpetual snow, on the other, an Arab would call Salt Lake City the American Damascus.

G. F. PIERCE.

SPARTANBURG, November 25, 1874.

Southern Christian Advocate.

Homer College.

MR. EDITOR: The board of trustees of Homer College have unanimously elected Dr. T. B. Gordon to the presidency of said institution. Dr. Gordon is a man of experience and ability, whose fame as an instructor and disciplinarian extends from Georgia to Texas. A sufficient and competent faculty has also been provided for.

At the meeting of the board on the seventeenth instant it was also determined to continue to provide gratuitous tuition to all the students in the college.

Ample arrangements have been made for board, in the best families, at $15 per month, including washing, fuel and lights. By actual experiment it has been found that good board cannot be furnished for less while provisions remain at present figures.

THOS. J. UPTON,
Fin. Sec. Homer College.

P. S.—Students on their arrival will please inquire for the president of the college or myself.

T. J. U.

HOMER, LA., Dec. 28, 1874.

Preachers' Aid Society, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: Permit me to say through the ADVOCATE, to the parties interested, that Dr. Hamilton was the former treasurer of the Preachers' Aid Society, and when he left the Alabama Conference, and was stationed at Tuskaloosa, I was appointed by the Conference treasurer in his place. But there were various interests connected with the society which I requested the doctor still to attend to for me as the treasurer of the society. The severity of the doctor's illness and his sudden death prevented my obtaining any information relative to those interests. It is the order of the Conference that the treasurer collect all the notes and accounts belonging to the society. My address is Greenville, Alabama. S. P. RICHARDSON.

P. S.—A certain amount was handed me by Sister Hamilton, collected for the Preachers' Aid Society, without the name of the party paying it. Please say if you paid to Dr. Hamilton, and how much. S. P. R.

DEATH OF VENERABLE BEDE.—For nearly thirty years this earnest and holy scholar seems to have been occupied with a history of the Church of England, of which he was known as one of the fathers. This being finished, he was engaged on a translation of the gospel of St. John into the Anglo-Saxon. On the night before he died, growing feebler fast, the aged saint was told by his amanuensis: "You seem very weak, sir, but there remains one chapter more." "Take your pen," said Bede, "dip into the ink, write as fast as you can." Just before the last sentence was whispered he was silent, and seemed to be gone. Reviving once more, he said: "Write quickly;" and then added: "It is finished," Consummatum est. Having requested to be placed where he had been accustomed to kneel, his lips moved in prayer, and they that leaned above him heard those words of the Ascension Sabbath Collect, a liturgic gift from a still remoter and more venerable past: "O God, thou King of glory, who hath exalted thine only Son Jesus Christ with great triumph unto thy kingdom in heaven, we beseech thee leave us not comfortless, but send us thy Holy Ghost to comfort us, and exalt us into the same place whither our Savior Christ is gone before; who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end." Then he said: "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost!" and "so peacefully died."

THE plain advice given by a colored preacher in Richmond to his congregation may not be needful in our religious meetings, but we have been in gatherings where some such direction was decidedly called for: "De fore part ob de church will please sit down, so de hind part ob de church can see de fore part, for de hind part can't see de fore part ef de fore part persist in standin' before de hind part, to de utter exclusion ob de hind part by de fore part."

LORD BACON says: "I am of opinion that, unless you could bray Christianity in a mortar, and mold it into a new paste, there is no possibility of a holy war."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1875.

THE INFIDEL AND HIS DAUGHTER.

The damps of death are coming fast,
My father, o'er my brow;
The past, with all its scenes, has fled,
And I must turn me now
To that dim future that in vain
My feeble eyes descry;
Tell me, my father, in this hour,
In whose stern faith to die.

In thine? I've watched the scornful smile,
And heard thy withering tone,
Whene'er the Christian's humble hope
Was placed above thine own;
I've heard thee speak of coming death
Without a shade of gloom,
And laugh at all the childish fears
That cluster round the tomb.

Or is it in my mother's faith?
How fondly do I trace,
Through many a weary year long past,
That calm and saintly face!
How often do I call to mind,
Now she is 'neath the sod,
The place, the hour, in which she drew
My early thoughts to God!

'Twas when she took this sacred book,
And from its burning page
Read how its truths support the soul
In youth and failing age;
And bade me in its precepts live,
And by its precepts die,
That I might share a home of love
In worlds beyond the sky.

My father, shall I look above,
Amid this gathering gloom,
To him whose promises of love
Extend beyond the tomb?
Or curse the Being who has blessed
This chequered path of mine,
And promises eternal rest,
And die, my sire, in thine?

The frown upon that warrior brow
Passed, like a cloud, away,
And tears coursed down the rugged cheek,
That flowed not till that day.
"No, pity mine," with choking voice
The skeptic made reply;
"But in thy mother's holy faith,
My daughter, mayst thou die."

Episcopal Recorder.

Was Adam Created Holy?

MR. EDITOR: Notwithstanding the caution contained in the last sentence of Bro. Richardson's article, in the ADVOCATE of December 17, I venture again to launch out into the profound depths of this profound subject—if such it be. The waters may be rather deep, and I may be venturing rather far from shore; but I do not think I need have much fear of foundering, since I am in company with Moses and Paul, Wesley and Watson, and Methodist writers generally, including our own Dr. Summers. All who have paid any attention to Methodist theology know that, from beginning to end, it teaches the theory I advocate on this subject. But we should keep to the subject in hand, which is: the moral state of Adam at his creation, and not man's present condition and his possible attainments—though the latter may be used to elucidate the former, and I intend so to use it. Bro. Richardson complains of being misunderstood. Why is he misunderstood? A writer of his ability ought to write so as to make it impossible to be misunderstood by men of any thought. But he is not misunderstood—his theory is perfectly clear. It is that though Adam was free from actual sin, as well as from the inward principle of depravity from which actual sin proceeds, yet he was not actually and positively holy; he was not in a holy state; his will did not have an actual bias toward virtue. Now this latter theory is the one to which I hold, and which is an integral part of Methodist theology. Man was holy in heart before he exercised holy volitions or performed holy actions.

It is necessary for me now to notice some of the points made by Bro. Richardson. He says I "quote from Mr. Watson, not on holiness, but on depravity." The quotations I make from Mr. Watson are on the moral state of Adam at his creation, and I believe the Bible teaches that God did not make Adam in a state of depravity; there is not one word about depravity in the extracts I have made. He then quotes Watson as saying that "holiness in creatures is conformity to the will of God, as revealed in his law." Watson says, "expressed in his law." Using the word "revealed" seems to make a revelation of God's will necessary before there could be conformity to that will. But there might be, and our theology supposes there was, a conformity of the heart—of the moral nature—to the will of God, to the eternal principles of moral rectitude, before there was any actual expression or revelation of that will and of those principles.

Bro. Richardson next illustrates his position by speaking of the moon as reflecting the light of the sun. He says it "is the image of the sun, not the sun." His illustration is not perfect. The moon simply reflects the light of the sun, as a mirror reflects the image of a man who stands before it, without having its own nature changed by that light. But when the light of the Sun of Righteousness falls upon the soul, and the soul, in the exercise of its free agency, aided by preventing grace, allows the light to enter, it is not merely reflected, as light is reflected by the moon or a mirror, but it penetrates and permeates and transforms the entire moral nature, so that the soul, as it were, becomes self-luminous; it is assimilated to the divine likeness, becomes a partaker of the divine nature. Holiness is "relative," it is true; but there can be no relative holiness without an actual, positive holiness.

Again, Bro. Richardson goes on to say: "If Adam was created holy, then he would have been holiness itself; then natural to him; and if natural, then necessary; and if necessary, then not holiness in any moral sense of conformity of will to the will of God, but natural obedience." I answered this in my former article, but will do so again. By saying that Adam was created holy we do not mean that holiness was an essential part of his nature, as intellectuality is, for instance. It was not a natural element of his being—not something without which he would not have been man—not something necessary, and inseparable from his nature. It was an endowment superadded, imparted to his moral nature, and might be retained or lost, as the possessor willed. This is the view given by Watson.

Bro. Richardson then speaks of the impossibility of God's making a man holy against his will. Taking man as he now is, of course this is all true. God will not, cannot force man's will. Still, when he first created man he could make him with a will already possessed of virtuous tendencies. And so he must have made him; otherwise he would not have been a perfect moral being—he would not have been capable of answering the ends of his creation, of rendering obedience to the moral law. Watson and other writers quoted by him show most conclusively that Adam could not have exercised right volitions and performed good actions unless his nature had been already holy; he could not conform his life to God's law unless his heart were already conformed thereto. The volitions and actions must be like the principles from which they flow, just as the stream is precisely like the fountain from which it flows. If the fountain be tasteless, the stream will be tasteless; so if Adam's moral nature was destitute of the principle of holiness, his volitions and actions must necessarily be destitute of the nature of holiness. I do not indorse the Calvinistic doctrine that a man must be converted before he can repent; yet Bro. Richardson, as a good Arminian, must admit that man cannot repent, or exercise faith, or even will to do so, except in so far as he is aided, and the depravity of his nature is counteracted, by preventing grace.

And now I will try to show how the conversion of a soul, under the gospel dispensation, illustrates the condition of Adam at his creation. When a man is converted he is said to be "created anew in Christ Jesus," to be "renewed in the spirit of his mind," to be made "a new creature; old things are passed away, and all things have become new." These and numerous other similar passages do not mean simply that the man has been made negatively good—that he is free from actual sin and the inclination thereto; but that there has been such a renewal, such a renovation of his nature that he is positively good—that there is an actual inclination of his nature toward God and virtue. He has been "born again" and made a "partaker of the divine nature." Now this new creation is represented as simply a restoration of that image of God in which Adam was created—only bringing man back into his pristine condition, as far as his moral nature is concerned. True, the work of renovation is not complete at the moment of conversion; but it is begun, every power of the soul is partially renewed, and if the man is faithful to the grace imparted he will continue to grow until the work will be complete. Now, if the work of grace in the heart produces such a renewal of man's nature as not only to eliminate sin from it, but to make it actually holy, to implant in it the principle of holiness, to confer upon it the "attributo of holiness," as Dr. Bledsoe has it, and if this renewal is simply a restoration of the original image of God, then Adam's moral state was not merely one of freedom from depravity, but one of actual holiness. He did love, trust and adore God. Of course he deserved no credit for this holiness—it was not voluntary, it was not a holiness developed by himself; yet, having received it as a gift from God, he was responsible for the continued possession and exercise of it. When Moses tells us that God created man in his own image and likeness he certainly does not intend to say there was no resemblance to God's moral nature; and it is impossible to conceive of God's moral nature apart from the holiness of that nature.

Bro. Richardson quotes me as saying: "I admire Dr. Bledsoe, but his views should be received with allowance." I say some of his views, and so I say still. He says: "Pity but the General Conference had known it." Would Bro. Richardson throw away an apple because of one little rotten speck in it, the rest of it being sound and luscious? So the General Conference could very well condone a venial fault now and then in the Review, in order that our church might enjoy the rich treasures it contains. W. A. MONTGOMERY.

DECEMBER 23, 1874.

The Real Condition of One-Third of the Preachers in Alabama.

All is not gold that glitters. The days of miracles are past, but the time of ministerial suffering and privation continues. The trials of many preachers and their families are as deep and broad as they can bear under the ordinary gifts of the grace of God. St. Paul was put out of the synagogue by the Jews, and imprisoned and scourged by the Gentiles. Many preachers are now suffering—not in the same way—all that true manhood and religion can bear. God only knows what some area and women are now bearing in parts of Alabama for the cause of Christ.

Take one case as an example out of many, very many: The preacher last year received a very scanty support, and less the year before; left the circuit in debt, after all the economy his poor wife could use. The merchant who credited him in good faith, because he was a preacher, is damaged in his confidence of ministerial character and the truth of Christianity. The preacher has barely money enough left to get to Conference and pay his way to his next appointment; wife and children thinly clad. He is obliged to force himself on brethren uninvited, because he is not able to pay his way. "Hope springs eternal in the breast." He reaches his circuit; no one comes to meet him; no parsonage, bed, chair or table; no meeting of the board of stewards. He does not know where to go. It is night; wife tired, children cold and hungry. The day has been rainy and cold. Five or six hundred members on the circuit, and a gracious revival last year. He calls up at a brother's house. Here stay he must, amidst a storm of complaints. The good sister declares the circuit ought to have a parsonage. Cannot board with Bro. B.; he boarded the preacher last year, and got nothing for it, and threatened to quit the church on account of it. Cannot rent a house, for they have rented Bro. R.'s for two years and never paid for it, and he says he has paid his last quarterage until that rent is paid. Out of money, no place to board, no house or furniture, already in debt, his wife and children at Bro. B.'s, where they are not wanted, and feel more keenly every day that they are in the way. The stewards are mad because their half-starved preacher and his family were not returned. Now if a man of cultivation and refined feelings can be placed in circumstances that can more fully test his manhood and religion, where can they be found? I have been on sinking ships, I have been in two wars, I have been in the midst of cholera—I declare I would prefer any of these conditions to the one I have truthfully described of the poor preacher. I have never had a fight with wild beasts, nor spent a whole night in a den of lions, but I would prefer that if I was sure I would not be torn to pieces.

There are now, while I am writing, many poor preachers and their wives suffering martyrdom alive all over Alabama, while the saints are enjoying Christmas. Now if there was any reason why circuits numbering from three to six hundred members should leave their pastors, sent to them by God and the authorities of the church, to suffer, then I would say: "Suffer on, ye braves. I would like to have your crown, if not your sufferings." But there is no cause for such martyrdom of preachers and their wives. They are laboring under a false issue and may get a crown, but I will not envy the stars in it. Five hundred such church members would not make one star.

But you say, Mr. Editor, I am exaggerating. I am not. Here are the average figures of two quarterly meetings: First quarter, before all the money got out of the country—How much raised this quarter for the support of the ministry? Fifteen dollars out of about five hundred members, and disposed of as follows: presiding elder, one-sixth—two dollars and a half; twelve and a half to the preacher in charge. Fifteen dollars to support, for three months, two preachers and their wives and ten children! Another circuit—How much collected? Seven dollars. The preacher, a wife and five children! Cost the presiding elder three dollars and a half to get to the Conference. The brethren complain bitterly about supporting the elder, and look upon it as a useless office. Some of the brethren talk of going off to the Primitives or Congregational Methodists to get rid of paying the elder.

Now, Mr. Editor, you say: Where is the remedy? There is but one. All others have been tried for many long years. Christ's gospel must be preached to the people in truth and righteousness until the people are convicted for sin, and repent and get a change of heart—a heart that loves the Lord and his cause, and will make sacrifices to support it. St. Paul tried preaching for nothing and finding himself. For this wrong, he says, forgive me—the only apology he ever made. A gospel that costs a man nothing is worth nothing to him. Sacrifice that costs nothing is not sacrifice. There must be a change in many places on this financial question, or many of our honest and best men will have to locate. They are in debt for bread. Their own means are exhausted under the hope that the church would do better. The preachers make nearly all the sacrifices in many places. The members generally make none. They do not even know anything about how their preachers live. True, the preachers are some to blame for not preaching the true gospel on this vital question. TRUTH.

HARD TIMES, Dec. 26, 1874.

A Capital Book.

THE INTERIOR LIFE, BY UPHAM.

In chapter 2 Mr. Upham says: "The gospel evidently contemplates, in every individual, a progress from the incipient condition of mere forgiveness and acceptance, immensely important as it is, to the higher state of interior renovation and sanctification throughout." The question is then asked: "What course shall we pursue that we may rise above the mere initiatory principles and feelings of the gospel life, and enjoy the delightful privilege of walking in close and uninterrupted communion with God?" The obvious answer is that we must be holy before we can be in full harmony with the will of God. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Holiness, then, is not to be sought as an end, but as a means—a means of bringing us fully into favor and friendship with God, that thus we may be fitted for life, for death and for heaven. "Be ye holy, for I am holy." "How can two walk together unless they be agreed?"

But is holiness, in any strict and proper sense, attainable in the present life? A firm belief that it is is absolutely necessary to its attainment. We must believe in the possibility of going up from the position of servants to that of sons—from justification and regeneration, as experienced by the young convert, to entire sanctification.

At this point another question arises: What is the nature of holiness? It does not imply perfection of the physical system. The body will always be liable to disease and death; there is no exemption from pain and infirmities. It does not necessarily imply perfection of the intellect. This depends, to a considerable extent, on the perfection of physical action, which, as we have seen, cannot be expected. In the respect of intellect or knowledge Adamic perfection is not to be looked for; for, although our first parents were not omniscient, yet we may suppose that, as far as they were permitted to know, they knew perfectly. Here "we see through a glass darkly."

Holiness in this life does not differ in its nature from the sanctification to be experienced in heaven, but there is some difference in the matter of accessories or incidents. There there will be no possibility whatever of any interruption or suspension of our communion with God; no physical infirmity, no weariness or perplexity, no possibility of transgression or unfaithfulness. There there will be no temptation—the contest has ended forever, and the joys of victory are ceaseless and eternal. While it is our privilege to live in this world without committing sin, yet the spiritual warfare continues to the close of life. The adversary, although he may be cast out of the heart, is yet continually around the citadel, ready to take it by storm or siege, should our unfaithfulness render its capture possible.

What, then, positively speaking, is that holiness which is attainable in the present life? The Savior himself replies: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." "Love is the fulfilling of the law."

He, therefore, who loves God with his whole heart, and his neighbor as himself, is, in the gospel sense of the term, a holy or sanctified person. He has that love which is the fulfilling of the law. He bears the image of Christ. He is obedient in all things: "If a man love me, he will keep my words, and my Father will love him, and we will come and make our abode with him."

The interior or hidden life, constant communion and fellowship with God, salvation from all slavish fear, and a meetness for heaven, are the legitimate and necessary effects of holiness of heart and life.

The momentous question, How may we become holy? now presents itself. How may we advance from a weak and vacillating love to perfection in love?—from partial holiness to a state of entire sanctification?

The first prerequisite is belief in its attainableness—now. We must believe that a thing is possible before we can feel under obligation to undertake its accomplishment. No man can put forth a volition or entertain a purpose to do that which is impracticable. We are, then, to go to the Bible with a single eye, in the spirit of humble prayer, to see if the Lord does not require us to be wholly his in the assurance of faith and perfect love, and whether or not he has made ample provision for this blessed result.

The second step in the attainment of holiness is the act of entire personal consecration to God. We must not confound this act of consecration with holiness; the one is the antecedent, the other the consequent. To consecrate ourselves to God is to form a fixed purpose—a purpose which we are determined shall be unalterable—to break off from every human sin, and to do our whole duty in all things. There must, then, be immediate and uniform action in accordance with this purpose. This consecration, extending to all that we are and all that we have, is indispensably necessary, and is our own act put forth under the guidance and aid of the Holy Spirit.

Without this we cannot fully believe in the divine promises. The experience of most Christians is to the effect that they do not believe as they should. We cannot have full faith in God as a Friend and Father so long as we are conscious of voluntarily sinning against him.

"How can ye believe who receive honor one of another, and seek not the honor that cometh from God only?" It is impossible for us to believe that a man against whom we sin, and whom we injure, has full confidence in us and unrestrained love for us. Adam and Eve distrusted God as soon as they sinned against him. "Beloved, if our hearts condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God." He will not sanctify us without the full consent of the will; and, inasmuch as he has already done so much for believers, he expects and requires this full consecration, which is made with an earnest and sincere desire for the attainment of holiness.

Finally, there must be full belief, entire reliance upon God as it regards the fulfillment of his promises. Having believed that holiness is now attainable, and that for this God has made ample provision, and having fully consecrated ourselves to him in all things, we are now to have faith in him that he will do what he has promised, and make us fully and entirely his. This is a crisis in the Christian's religious history. Blessed are they who believe that God does now accept the consecration which is made! This full faith in the atonement is the connecting link between consecration and entire sanctification. This faith implies not only that we will now and forever abstain from sin, but also a casting of ourselves fully upon the merits of Christ, in the full confidence that he is true to his promises and now receives us. Thus we renounce absolutely and entirely all trust in our own strength, and with child-like simplicity we leave ourselves entirely in the Lord's hands. Now God necessarily receives the believer who passes, as it were, out of himself into God.

Professor of religion! the faithful following of the foregoing directions will certainly bring you into the happy estate of perfect love, into the full assurance of faith. Let not the greatness of the blessing nor the simplicity of the means cause you to doubt. You are, we will suppose, daily growing in grace. Advance to entire consecration and full faith in the Redeemer. "Let there be a fixedness of determination which will not be discouraged by any obstacles; an inflexible will, which, with God's blessing, will continue steadfast to the end." A. G. STACY.

AUSTIN FEMALE COLLEGE, Austin, Texas.

THE husbandman considereth not only his labor and travail, and what tempest and mischance of weather may fortune; but forasmuch as he trusteth and hopeth that the fruit shall wax and come forth when the time is, therefore he laboreth stoutly and with a good will; even so in the spiritual vineyard, under the yoke of the Lord, the hope and trust of honor and reward maketh men patient and willing, and giveth them courage. If we hope for that thing which we see not, we wait for it through patience (Romans viii.)—Coverdale.

Obituaries.

JAMES FRANKLIN JAYROE died April 16, 1874, aged four years, four months and six days. Our Savior said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." While youth fades on earth it blooms in heaven. But now he is dead. Wherefore should I fast? I cannot bring him back again. I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.

A FRIEND.

SISTER MARY WILLIAM WILLIS, the wife of John A. Willis, "is dead." She was the daughter of Rev. James Tahor, formerly of Prattville, Alabama. In 1847 she came to Caddo parish, and in July of that year was married. Sister Willis, under the tutelage of pious parents, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1853, at Friendship church, as a probationer. In 1864 she experienced a change of heart. Being justified by faith, she was enabled clearly, knowingly, heartily to say: "I know that my Redeemer lives." Her urbanity, sociability and boundless charity, with her Christian deportment at home, with husband, children, friends, constituted her a truly representative Christian lady and a model companion.

Sister Willis most ardently loved the church, as Asbury and McKendree bequeathed it to the world. She regarded class meetings as a moral legacy. Love feasts she always enjoyed. To preaching she gave regular attendance. Nor was she more identified with Methodism in all these walks than with her household. She kept up intercourse with God at home, living, talking and training husband, children and servants for God and glory. She finished her labor of love on the twenty-eighth of November, as she had lived—full of "joy and peace in the Holy Ghost." With a mind cloudless till death, she was unwavering in faith, giving glory to God. While struggling among the cold waves, with family and friends weeping and shouting, we heard her say: "I will fear no evil, for thou art with me." Even when the tongue failed, her husband asked: "Mary, are you yet happy?" She held up her finger as a victor. W. CRAWFORD.

BRIGHT STAR, LAFAYETTE CO., ARK., December 16, 1874.

TO MY SISTER.

The following is a tribute to the memory of Mrs. LOUISA KENNON RICHARDSON, wife of Prof. W. G. Richardson, of the Central University, and youngest daughter of the late Rev. Dr. R. L. Kennon, of the Alabama Conference. She died in Richmond, Kentucky, September 13, 1874.

Sweet sister, they tell me thou art gone—
Thine, the joyous child and nursling of our fold
When our dear father died.
And can it be that all thy heaven-born gifts
Had not the talismanic power to stay
The avenger's hand?
With pride we watched thy budding womanhood,
And when in youth's full beauteous bloom our hearts
Were full of joy to see first honors given
To thee by thy loved alma mater.
A few more years and thou wast a happy bride;
Thou and the object of thy heart's devotion
Launching love's bark, with silken sails,
Upon life's sea; the melody of hearts
Made happy, we rejoiced in harmony.

Again we were glad, in after years, to know
Our Father's gifts to thee were so bright, fair
And promising. So fondly did we hope
They would, like olive plants around thy board,
Crown thy declining years with happiness.
But, alas! the reaper came.
"Shall I have naught that's fair?" saith he;
"Have naught but the bearded grain?
Though the breath of these flowers is sweet to me,
I'll give them all back again."
Sterling, dear and little Johnnie thus were Early garnered from winter's blighting frosts.

Life is a poem marked by golden hours,
And often leaden clouds—
A tissue of bright dreams, sad fears, high hopes,
Ambitious schemes; without the soul's anchor,
"Faith," another thread is woven in; 'tis
Woe—the shipwreck of the soul. We thank God
Our precious lost had that faith that failed them not,
Even on the shadowy shore.

We listen in the midnight, when the stars,
Attuned to silent melody, God's praises
Hymns, to catch one note of songs seraphic,
Made sweeter by thy new-born song of love.

In agony I cry: "Shall I hear thy voice
No more? Be still, sad heart! In thy chambers
Faithfully her songs may be enshrined,
And on thy tablets her smiles are ever
Photographed, that they die not."
God grant her gentle spirit may vigils
Nightly keep round her helpless little ones,
Her husband dear, aged mother, and her sisters two.

Kind stranger hands did close those precious eyes;
But loving angels, on their snowy wings,
Bore thy freed spirit home, the home prepared.
The dear Savior in his boundless love filled
For each a home prepare, that we might be Forever in his glorious presence.

O that I might lay me down and weep upon
Thy lonely grave! Might water that dear spot
With tears—tears that will not exhaustlessly!
Tears are nature's heritage! Had I no
Tears to weep, no cleft-ed rock in which to Hide me, how could I bear life's crushing woes?

J. J.

ALICE WHITSON BAHIN died in Natchez, Mississippi, December 15, 1874, aged about five years.

Gently beloved in her life, little Alice's death brings no ordinary sorrow to many hearts. To all the attractive characteristics of innocent childhood she added such Christian virtues as timely instruction could develop in one of her tender years. From the age of three and a half she had been a regular attendant at Sunday school, and at four years old was awarded a prize banner for reciting the entire catechism, missing only two answers. Though knowing neither letters nor figures, she could readily find, by some mysterious art, any of her favorite pieces in the Amaranth.

Having received baptism at the hands of her pastor in July last, she regarded herself as a member of the Methodist Church, and endeavored, we think, to live according to the requirements of such a relation. Her affection for her minister and his wife was one of the most remarkable and beautiful features of her life, and was manifested in many such winning little ways as make her absence a felt loss to them. Indeed her removal has left a painful void in many hearts whose affections wander in vain in search of an object equally dear about which to twine.

Of sprightly mind and active limb, she was like a joy-bearing sunbeam wherever she went. An only daughter, she was of course the sweetest ornament of the home circle. But this opening flower of loveliest bloom has been taken to adorn the mansion on high. He who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," has claimed her as his own. Father, mother, little brothers, grandmamma, and all who miss little Alice here, may think of her as in the bosom of him who sits at the Father's right hand.

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a special meeting of the Maternal Association, convened October 28, 1874, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our heavenly Father to suddenly remove from our midst our beloved sister-member, Mrs. MARGARET SANDERS, wife of Colonel John A. Crooker, of Summit, Mississippi; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we recognize with feelings of sadness the inroads of death upon our little circle; a sable cloud broods over our bereaved hearts that a mother, in the very noontide of life and usefulness, has been suddenly hurried to the grave; that our sorrow in resigning her, at the call of Providence, to the cold arms of death, and the unbroken slumbers of the tomb, is softened by the joy of the assurance that she has gone "to be with Christ."

Resolved, That we will cherish with grateful remembrance her active service in the Redeemer's cause, in the bosom of her family and in the Maternal Association, and would perpetuate the savor of her good name in the hearts of her circle of friends, and hold up her example to our members as worthy of imitation as far as she followed Christ.

Resolved, That we offer to the aged and stricken parents, to our bereft husband and children of our deceased sister, our sincere condolence, and pray that the sundering of this cord may be the means of fitting us for our remaining labors and "the rest that remaineth for the people of God."

Resolved, That these resolutions be published and copied into the minutes of this association.

MRS. C. J. MATHEWS,
MRS. M. V. HOOVER,
MRS. A. B. QUIN,
MRS. F. SAMPLE,
Committee.

ELIZABETH JANE CAMERON, wife of Daniel Cameron, was born in Sumter district, South Carolina. She died December 7, 1874. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South for forty-eight years. Her husband, who was a member of the same church, preceded her to the spirit land about fourteen years. Our sainted mother in Israel is gone to join him in the church triumphant, with a son who died in the late war, for it is said of him that he was a Christian. So three of the family have gone over the dark river to the home above. Five sons and one daughter are left behind in mourning and sadness. Never were children more heart-stricken than they, and none perhaps more devoted to a mother. One of them remarked to the writer: "It was for her I lived." They all loved their mother, and did what they could to administer to her comfort and happiness; and this reflection, now in their painful bereavement, is a source of comfort to them. But, thank God, they sorrow not as those having no hope.

A short time prior to her sickness she attended a protracted meeting, held by the writer, at Reed's chapel, where she had been a member for some years, and in the same church some of her children were converted. She took a peculiar interest in the meeting—attended it and spoke of it as being a great blessing to her. It was her last meeting on earth, and she left for the great meeting-time above. Her language, just before her death, seemed at times almost like inspiration. At one time she exclaimed: "O God, kindle the flame that burns my breast till my soul is wafted to thee;" and again: "My vision is dark, but beyond it all is bright and heavenly." She desired that all her children should meet her in heaven. When the last trial wave came, and her happy spirit plumed itself for its flight for the glory land, she said, "I am nearly across the river," closed her eyes and landed on the other shore, where all is brightness and peace.

GEORGE BANCROFT.

THOMSURA, MISS., December 9, 1874.

O GOD, our everlasting hope, who holdest us in life, and orderest our lot, we ask not for any prosperity that would tempt us to forget thee. As disciples of One who had not where to lay his head, may we freely welcome the toils and sufferings of our humanity, and seek only strength to glorify the cross thou layest on us. Every work of our hand may we do as unto thee; in every trouble, trace some lights of thine; and let no blessing fall on dry and thankless hearts. Redeeming the time, may we fill every waking hour with faithful duty and well-ordered affections as the sacrifice which thou hast provided. Strip us, O Lord, of every proud thought; fill us with patient tenderness for others, seeing that we also are in the same case before thee; and make us ready to help and quick to forgive. And then fix every grace, compose every fear, by a steady trust in thine eternal realities, behind the changes of time and the delusions of men. Thou art our Rock; we rest on thee.—Martineau.

IF YOU stand upon the mountain, you may see the sun shining long after it is dark in the valley. Try to live up high! Escape, if you can, the malarious damps of the lowlands. Make an upward path for your feet. Though your spirit may be destined to live isolated, you cannot be alone, for God is there. Your best strivings of soul are there! Your standard-ground should be there! Live upward! The cedar is always developing its branches toward the top, while the lower ones are dropping away. Let your soul-life be so! Upward! Upward!

"WELL, Bridget, if I engage you I shall want you to stay at home whenever I shall wish to go out." "Well, ma'am, I have no objections, providing you do the same when I wish to go out."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1875.

A HELPING HAND.

Oh! if it be that sweet success has crowned,
Thine efforts, and that fame
Has traced upon her consecrated ground
The record of thy name,

Be not unmindful of the cheerless fate
Of those who, toiling still,
Have missed the path, or found it all too late
To hope they can fulfill

The promise of their golden days of youth,
When all seemed fair and bright,
And naught was wanting—save the ray of truth
To guide their footsteps right.

And when thou canst a wandering brother guide,
Or help him on his way,
Let nothing turn the noble act aside,
Or cause thee to delay.

For toil is hard, and perseverance rare,
And failure frequent too;
And those who would succeed have much to dare
As well as much to do.

And help from those who stand aloft, secure,
Is ever doubly blest,
Enabling those who win—not, to endure,
And leave to God the rest.

The Month.

Interior of a Russian Dwelling.

There is something very peculiar in the appearance of a Russian anteroom. Pelisses hanging from the rack, with their limp sleeves, and straight, heavy folds, vaguely suggest the human figure; the overshoes placed beneath, simulate feet; the general effect of all these furry objects, seen by the uncertain light of a small lamp suspended from the ceiling, is fantastic in the extreme. Achim von Arnim would discern with his imaginative eye the outside garments of M. Peau d'Ours, paying a visit within; Hoffman would ensconse grotesque phantoms of archivists or of antic councilors behind their mysterious folds. I, who am but a Frenchman, and reduced to Perrault's tales, only see therein the seven wives of Bluebeard in the black closet! Hanging in this way near the stove, these fur garments become impregnated with heat, which they retain for an hour or two in the outside air. The servants have a marvelous instinct for identifying them; even when the number of guests is so great that the anteroom looks like Michel's of Zimmerman's shop, they never mistake, and lay upon the shoulders of each man the garment which belongs to him.

A comfortable suit of rooms at St. Petersburg gathers all the luxuries of English and of French civilization. At the first glance you would think yourself in the West End, or the Faubourg St. Honore; soon, however, the local character betrays itself by a multitude of curious details. First of all, the Byzantine Madonna and Child—the brown face and hands shewing through apertures cut in the veneering of silver or silver-gilt, which represents drapery—glitters in the light of an ever-burning lamp, and notifies you that you are neither in Paris nor in London, but in orthodox Russia—in holy Russia! Occasionally an image of Christ takes the place of the Virgin, and frequently a saint is to be seen—the patron saint of the master or mistress of the house—covered with plates of gold or silver, like a tortoise in its shell, and having a golden halo about the head.

The rooms are larger and higher than in Paris. Our architects—so ingenious in modelling cells for the human bee—would cut a whole suite, and frequently a second story, out of one St. Petersburg drawing-room. As all the rooms are hermetically sealed against the out-door air, and even the common halls and stairways are heated, the temperature never falls below 66° or 68°, so that ladies can be clad in muslins and have their arms and shoulders bare. The great copper months of the caloriferes emit heat without cessation, by night as well as by day, and their hot-air pipes, and also huge porcelain stoves, white or painted in colors, and reaching to the ceiling, diffuse a steady, even warmth in places where openings cannot conveniently be made for the caloriferes themselves. Open fireplaces are rare; when they do exist they are used only in spring and autumn. In winter they would carry off heat and actually reduce the temperature of the room. They are closed and filled with flowers—flowers, which are a truly Russian luxury! The houses overflow with them; flowers receive you at the door and go with you up the stairway; Irish ivies festoon the bannisters, jardinieres adorn the landings on every floor. In the embrasure of the windows bananas spread out their broad, silken leaves; talipot palms, magnolias, camelias growing like trees, mingle their blossoms with the gilded volutes of the cornices; orchids hover like butterflies around lamp-shades of crystal, porcelain and curiously wrought terra-cotta. From hora-shaped vases of Japanese porcelain or of Bohemian glass, placed in the center of a table or at the corner of a sideboard, spring sheaves of superb exotics; and all this flora splendor thrives as in a hot-house. In truth, every Russian apartment is a hot-house—in the street you are at the pole; within doors you might believe yourself in the tropics.

In regard to furniture, it is much like our own, only larger, more ample, as becomes the size of the room; but one thing completely Russian is this little boudoir of delicate and costly wood, carved in open work, like the sticks of a fan, which occupies a corner of the drawing-room, festooned with the rarest climbing plants—a kind of confessional for confidential talk—furnished with divans where the mistress of the house, isolating herself from the crowd of visitors while yet remaining among them, may receive three or four guests of special distinction. Sometimes it is of tinted glass covered with engravings etched by fluoric acid, and mounted in panels of gilded copper. Nor is it rare to see, standing among the sofas, the bergeres, the des-a-dos, a huge white bear, suitably stuffed and arranged, offering to visitors a commodious seat; and sometimes little black cubs serving as footstools or ottomans. And so we are recalled, amid all the elegance of modern life, to the icebergs of the Northern ocean, to the vast steppes covered with snow, and to the deep pine forests, the true Russia, which, at St. Petersburg, one is so tempted to forget!

The sleeping-rooms do not present, in general, the luxury and elegance which characterize them in France. Behind a folding screen, or in one of those carved boudoirs of which I spoke just now, a little, low bed is hidden—a camp bed or a divan it might be called; the Russians are of Oriental origin, and, even in the higher classes, care little for luxuriously appointed bed-rooms; they sleep wherever they happen to be, a little everywhere, like the Turk, often wrapped in a pelisse on one of their large green leather sofas. The idea of making a sort of sanctuary of one's bed-room never occurs to them; their ancient customs of the tent seem to have followed them into the very heart of civilized life, all whose corruptions and all whose elegancies, however, they perfectly understand.

Rich hangings adorn the walls; and if the master of the house prides himself on being an amateur, without fail, from the red India damask, from the brocatelle with its dull gold embroidery, stands out conspicuous, lighted by powerful reflectors and set in the most expensive of frames, a Horace Vernet, a Gudin, a Calame, a Koekock, sometimes a Leys, a Madou, a Tenkate; or, if he will prove his patriotism, a Brulov or an Aivasovsky. These are the painters most in fashion; our modern school does not seem to have reached them as yet. I have, however, met two or three Meissoniers and as many Troyons. The style of our painters does not appear sufficiently finished to the Russians.

The interior which I have been describing is not that of a palace, but of a house—not bourgeoise; that word has hardly any meaning in Russia—but of a house comme il faut. St. Petersburg is crowded with the elegant residences of men of rank and with palaces, of which I hope later to give the reader some description.—Theophile Gautier.

Execution of Mary Queen of Scots.

The end had come. She had long professed to expect it, but the clearest expectation is not certainty. The scene for which she had affected to prepare she was to encounter in its dread reality, and all her busy schemes, her dreams of vengeance, her visions of revolution, with herself ascending out of the convulsion and seating herself on her rival's throne—all were gone. She had played deep, and the dice had gone against her.

Her last night was a busy one. As she said herself, there was much to be done and the time was short. A few lines to the King of France were dated two hours after midnight. They were to insist, for the last time, that she was innocent of the conspiracy, that she was dying for religion, and for having asserted her right to the crown; and to beg that out of the sum which he owed her her servants' wages might be paid, and masses provided for her soul. After this she slept for three or four hours, then rose, and with the most elaborate care prepared to encounter her end.

At eight in the morning the provost marshal knocked at the outer door, which communicated with the suit of apartments. It was locked and no one answered, and he went back in some trepidation lest the fears might prove true which had been entertained the preceding evening. On his returning with the sheriff, however, a few minutes later, the door was open, and they were confronted with the tall, majestic figure of Mary Stuart standing before them in splendor. The plain gray dress had been exchanged for a robe of black satin; her jacket was of black satin also, looped and slashed and trimmed with velvet. Her false hair was arranged studiously with a coif, and over her head and falling down over her back was a white vail of delicate lawn. A crucifix of gold hung from her neck. In her hand she held a crucifix of ivory, and a number of jeweled paternosters were attached to her girdle. Led by two of Paulet's gentlemen, the sheriff walking before her, she passed to the chamber of presence in which she had been tried, where Shrewsbury, Kent, Paulet, Drury and others were waiting to receive her. Andrew Melville, Sir Robert's brother, who had been master of her household, was kneeling in tears. "Melville," she said, "you should rather rejoice than weep that the end of my troubles is come. Tell my friends I die a true Catholic. Commend me to my son. Tell him I have done nothing to prejudice his kingdom of Scotland; and so, good Melville, farewell." She kissed him, and, turning, asked for her chaplain.

"Let us go," she then said, and passing out attended by the earls, and leaning on the arm of an officer of the guard, she descended the great staircase to the hall. The news was spread far through the country. Thousands of people were collected outside the walls. About three hundred knights and gentlemen of the country had been admitted to witness the execution. The tables and forms had been removed, and a great wood fire was blazing in the chimney. At the upper end of the hall, above the fireplace, but near it, stood the scaffold, twelve feet square and two feet and a half high. It was covered with black cloth; a low rail ran round it covered with black cloth also, and the sheriff's guard of halberdiers were ranged on the floor below on the four sides to keep off the crowd. On the scaffold was the block, black like the rest; a square black cushion was placed behind it, and behind the cushion a black chair; on the right were two other chairs for the earls. The ax leaned against the rail, and two masked figures stood like mutes on either side at the back. The Queen of Scots, as she swept in, seemed as if coming to take part in some solemn pageant. Not a muscle of her face could be seen to quiver; she ascended the scaffold with absolute composure, looked round her smiling, and sat down. Shrewsbury and Kent followed and took their places, the sheriff stood at her left hand, and Beale then mounted a platform and read the warrant aloud.

In all the assembly Mary Stuart appeared the person least interested in the words which were consigning her to death.

"Madam," said Lord Shrewsbury to her when the reading was ended, "you hear what we are commanded to do."

"You will do your duty," she answered, and rose as if to kneel and pray.

* * * * * *

She laid her crucifix on her chair. The chief executioner took it as a perquisite, but was ordered instantly to lay it down. The lawn vail was lifted carefully off, not to disturb the hair, and was hung upon the rail. The black robe was next removed. Below it was a petticoat of crimson velvet. The black jacket followed, and under the jacket was a body of crimson satin. One of her ladies handed her a pair of crimson sleeves, with which she hastily covered her arms; and thus she stood on the black scaffold with the black figures all around her, blood-red from head to foot.

Her reasons for adopting so extraordinary a costume must be left to conjecture. It is only certain that it must have been carefully studied, and that the pictorial effect must have been appalling.

The women, whose firmness had hitherto borne the trial, began now to give way, spasmodic sobs bursting from them which they could not check. "Ne crier vous," she said, "j'ay promis pour vous." Struggling bravely, they crossed their breasts again and again, she crossing them in turn and bidding them pray for her. Then she knelt on the cushion. Barbara Mowbray bound her eyes with a handkerchief. "Adieu," she said, smiling for the last time and waving her hand to them; "adieu, au revoir."—They stepped back from off the scaffold and left her alone. On her knees she repeated the psalm: "In te, Domine, confido"—"In thee, O Lord, have I put my trust."

When the psalm was finished she felt for the block, and, laying down her head, muttered: "In manus, Domine tuas, commendo animam meam." The hard wood seemed to hurt, for she placed her hands under her neck; the executioners gently removed them, lest they should deaden the blow, and then one of them holding her slightly, the other raised the ax and struck. The scene had been too trying even for the practiced headsman of the tower. His arm wandered. The blow fell on the knot of the handkerchief, and scarcely broke the skin. She neither spoke nor moved. He struck again, this time effectively. The head hung by a shred of skin, which he divided without withdrawing the ax; and at once a metamorphosis was witnessed strange as was ever wrought by wand of fabled enchanter. The coif fell off and the false plaits—the labored illusion vanished. The lady who had knelt before the block was in the maturity of grace and loveliness; the executioner, when he raised the head, as usual, to show it to the crowd, exposed the withered features of a grizzled, wrinkled old woman.—J. A. Froude.

The Royal Mint.

The Royal Mint, London, is situated near the Old Tower. This is the place where the current coins of the United Kingdom and of several of the colonies are struck. The mint was formerly within the walls of the tower. The present buildings were erected about 1805. The cost of them and the machinery up to the present time is about $1,500,000.

The head of the establishment, till recently, was a man of mark in political affairs, but of late years the office was awarded to men of high scientific attainments. Sir Isaac Newton held the appointment, so did Sir John Herschel. The last man of note was Thomas Graham, Esq., the eminent chemist, and on his death the office was abolished. The machines used are of very ingenious construction, and it is said that such is the efficiency that if $250,000 worth of gold be sent to the place one day, the coins will be struck and ready for delivery the next day. Of late years so great has been the influx of gold from Australia and other places, and such the extension of the commerce of Great Britain, that the work executed here has been astonishingly great. The following numbers struck at the mint during the past ten years will show its magnitude: Sovereigns, 41,293,645; half sovereigns, 13,000,000; florins, 11,252,330; shillings, 36,520,600; sixpences, 21,328,560; threepences, 20,000,000; other coins, 610,000,000.

The precious metal to be coined is first alloyed, and then cast into small bars, which are passed through rollers in order to be reduced to the exact thickness required. The sheets are then subjected to the action of the punching machines, which cut out circular pieces. The blanks, as these are called, are separately tested for weight and soundness. After the rim has been raised they are taken to the coining presses, which nick the edges and change both sides at the same stroke, all the time feeding itself with blanks. A single press will coin from 4,000 to 5,000 pieces in an hour. It is supposed that at the present time there are in circulation British coins as follows: Gold coins—sovereigns and half sovereigns, about one hundred millions. Silver coins—crowns, 2,320,000; half crowns, 37,500,000; florins, 20,000,000; shillings, 112,555,000; sixpences, 76,132,000; threepences, 40,000,000. Of copper coins there are about five hundred millions in circulation, which would weigh about 6,000 tons.

GOOD PREACHING.—The effects of good preaching on a Sabbath are well illustrated by the following: Two chaps (we'll call them that for want of a better name) set off one Sabbath morning to go to church. The road, which was a footpath, led through a farm, and as they had lingered on the way they were much too late for the morning service, and moreover, as was his custom, the farmer and all his household with him were off at church. While our two friends were passing through the corn-yard a number of splendid fat ducks attracted their attention. In a short conversation which followed it was agreed to capture the best they could lay hands on. Accordingly it was, after an exciting chase, got, and duly bagged in the great-coat inside pocket of one of them, and the journey resumed to church. The psalms were over and the first prayer begun when they entered to the afternoon service, so that at the very outset they made themselves conspicuous. The minister's text was the three words, "I see it," and he expounded on them so well, and so often cast his head in the direction of the two worthies, that the one without the duck commenced nudging the other in the side, and whispering every now and then, white with fear: "Shov't in, man; shov't in! He sees't, he sees't! Keep it down, man; for onysake keep it down!" And so he went on for some time, until between his neighbor's exclamations to "keep it down" and the minister's continually reiterating "I see it," the one with the duck got into such a flurry that he took hold of the bird in his pocket by the legs, and, drawing it out, made it describe several circles round his head; and then threw it off in the direction of the good man's pate, exclaiming, as he did so: "When ye're sae sure ye see't, tak' it there and keep it." And, so saying, he made as fast as possible an exit to the door, followed at the heels by his neighbor.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.—About 1807 a poor woman with two children, one at the breast, stole from inside a shop door a piece of linen worth some seven or eight shillings. She, however, had not proceeded far when she repented of her crime, and was returning to the shop with it when she was arrested. She was tried at the Old Bailey, convicted and condemned to death. The jury and the prosecutor unanimously recommended the woman to mercy, on account of her husband having been pressed as a sailor, her starving condition at the time, and her previous unblemished character. But all in vain. The judge refused to indorse the application, and the woman was executed at Tyburn, the child being taken from her breast at the foot of the gallows. In the minds of a large majority of the public this execution created great indignation, and a bill was brought into Parliament to abolish the punishment of death for stealing in a shop to the value of five shillings. This bill was at first thrown out in the House of Peers, the judges being against it. The bill subsequently passed into law. On the introduction into the House of Lords of a bill for the abolition of the punishment of death for stealing in a dwelling-house to the value of forty shillings, the majority of the judges were against it. Lord Ellenborough was particularly energetic in his opposition, arguing that as the law stood it worked well, and why, then, should it be altered? One of the peers was so struck with the validity of the learned Lord's arguments that he said: "We shall not be able to place our heads with safety on our pillows if that bill passes into law!" In the thirty years from 1799 to 1829, for offenses against the bank act alone, six hundred and twenty-nine men were capitally convicted and one thousand one hundred and sixty-one were transported; yet, till public opinion became too strong to be disregarded, the judges offered little opposition to such atrocious cruelty.—Saturday Journal.

ARCHBISHOP WHATELY well says, "Why should private friendship interfere with universal benevolence in heaven, more than it does on earth? I am convinced, on the contrary, that the extension and perfection of friendship will constitute a great part of the future happiness of the blest; and that those who have been the dearest friends on earth, when admitted to that happy state, will continue to be so, with full knowledge and recollection of their former friendship." And so, in Second Corinthians i, 14, Paul anticipates the meeting with his children in the Lord: "As also ye have acknowledged us in part, that we are your rejoicing, even as ye also are ours," or will be ours, "in the day of the Lord Jesus." And again in First Thessalonians ii, 19, he exclaims: "For what is our hope or joy or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?"—that is, Paul anticipates, with great joy, seeing those beloved converts face to face in the presence of Christ, and spending an eternity with them before the throne; and so again in First Thessalonians iv, 13, 14, in those sweet, comforting words to the afflicted: "I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." Now what is the comfort in these words? Why, that the parting is only for a little season, and that there is to be a mutual recognition by and by, for when the Lord shall come then those loved ones will come with him, and the glad, eternal reunion will begin.

EAT GRAPES.—The New York Evening Post earnestly advises everybody now to eat grapes. In a long editorial article on their value it says: "Emphatically we say that grapes are strong food; that in them we have not only the most healthful and the only naturally adapted sugar, called by chemists grape sugar, infinitely superior to that chiefly exotic product, cane sugar, being more digestible, more natural and more healthful, especially for sedentary persons in temperate climates, but we have also the healthful acids and a notable amount of those nitrogenous essentials which are blood-makers, not to speak of the various salts which also become necessary constituents of the blood."

Religious Intelligence.

THE new Presbyterian church at Canton, China, is a handsome building.

IT IS SAID that the Swedenborgian Church is on the decline in most parts of the United States.

THE Maharajah of Cashmere has given 10,000 rupees toward the erection of a new Christian church at Lahore.

THE Methodists have about one-fourth of the 240 regularly incorporated Protestant churches in New York city.

BISHOPS JANES, Simpson and Peck, with other ministers, officiated at the dedication of a church in Philadelphia recently.

THE American Home Missionary Society received in October $20,000, an excess of $5,000 over the receipts of October, 1873.

THE late Mr. Havemeyer, mayor of New York city, was for twenty years a trustee of Central Methodist Episcopal church in that city.

THE Baptists of Ohio now number 600 churches, 390 ordained ministers, and a membership of about 43,000. They also have one well-endowed college.

THE Rev. Dr. Gillespie, of Ann Arbor, has been elected Bishop of the newly-organized Western Michigan diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

THE presbytery of Oregon, which met recently at Corvallis, has the names of twenty-six ministers upon its roll. Three of its largest churches are among the Nez Perces Indians.

MORE than 300 persons have united with the Methodist missions in Sweden since the late annual meeting in August last past. It is reported that the government will recognize ours as an independent church.

THE Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions report their receipts for the first six months of their present year to have fallen off $37,211 from those of the corresponding period last year, and ask the churches to help them.

ACCORDING to the Catholic World there are at least 350,000 girls in the schools presided over by nuns of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, and that at least 60,000 of these are poor children, educated free of charge.

TWO DESERTIONS.—Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Summerville, South Carolina, and Rev. M. Postlethwaite, rector of the Church of the Intercession, at Washington Heights, near New York city, have joined the Reformed Episcopal Church.

THE number of baptized Kols in the Chota Nagpore, India, is estimated at 26,000. About three-fourths of these belong to the German Gossner mission, and the remainder to the Ritualistic Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

A FEW weeks since a converted Chinaman was admitted as a communicant of the Bethel church in Honolulu, of which Rev. Dr. Damon is pastor. This makes the third Chinaman now belonging to that church, all of whom are reported as sincere converts to the Christian faith.

THE Wesleyans in England are greatly exercised over their liturgy, because they have discovered germs of Ritualism in it. A committee was appointed at the late Conference to consider the revision of their liturgy, and to remove all expressions that can be construed into Ritualistic form or meaning.

THE Wesleyan Methodist Commercial Record and Year-Book gives the number of Methodist members throughout the world at 3,692,768, those on trial not included, nor the large number of hearers, Sunday school scholars and communicants, who are not members. The number of ministers is given at 23,514.

OUR NEW YEAR'S WORK.—The Indian Evangelical Review, after collecting statistics, says the actual number of converts made from the heathen in India, during 1873, is about 6,000, not including Burmah and Ceylon. The average increase during the eleven years, ending with 1861, was 983 annually, and during the next ten years, 2,782 annually.

A MEMORABLE DAY.—The Presbyterian mission in Canton, China, dedicated, August 16, a new and beautiful church, sixty by forty feet, airy and well lighted, accommodating comfortably 500 persons. An audience of over 400 were present, of whom 200 were women and girls, an unusual sight in China. During the last twenty months 65 have professed their faith in Christ.

THE National Baptist states the statistics of the Baptist Church in Philadelphia to be as follows: Number of churches, 51; number of mission chapels and stations, 13; total membership, 16,507; number of Sunday schools, 61, with 1,497 teachers, and 16,395 scholars. The money raised during the present year for religious purposes amounted to $403,556.

THE semi-centennial of the New York Tract Society was celebrated on Sunday evening, December 13, at the Brick church, New York, with addresses by the Hon. Wm. E. Dodge, who presided, the Rev. Drs. Tyng and Clapp, of New York, and Secretary Hallock. During the last year 141,000,000 tracts (pages?) were issued by the society, and $50,000 was employed in sending out colporteurs.

THE French pilgrimage to the tomb of Saint Martin of Tours, which Mgr. Frenchland, the Archbishop of Tours, was arranging at the time of his death, commenced November 10, and continued eight days. Fifty thousand pilgrims are stated to have visited Tours. The Archbishops of Paris and Bourges, and a number of bishops, took part in the religious ceremonies.

MORE BISHOPS.—Rev. George D. Gillespie, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, has been elected Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Weslin, and Rev. Dr. Henry C. Potter, of Grace church, New York, having been elected to the bishopric of Iowa, and telegraphed his declinature of the office, Rev. Dr. Huntingdon, of Worcester, Massachusetts, was chosen by a small majority vote to the position. Bishops are becoming almost as common in the Episcopal Church as they are in our Presbyterian. Well, this would be as it should be.

THE Methodist Episcopal Church South at Parkersburg, West Virginia, has organized "The Young Preachers' Educational Aid Society" as an auxiliary to the parent society at Ashland, Kentucky. Dr. Frank Follansbee (the son of Rev. Dr. Follansbee, of the Baltimore Conference) was elected president. It is difficult to realize that the merry little Frank we knew so well in Texas is president! He deserves the honor.

THE London Missionary Society recently dedicated the South Memorial Church of Madagascar. It is erected near a precipice where, twenty-five years ago, 18 native Christians were burned, and in other ways put to death. According to the latest statistics of this mission it has now in Madagascar 31 English missionaries, 50 native pastors, 3,170 native teachers, 67,000 church members and 280,000 native adherents. It has also 864 stations and 576 schools.

WESTERN MEXICO.—The Missionary Herald publishes recent accounts from western Mexico. The outbreak of Romish violence, which cost Rev. Mr. Stephens his life, still hangs in thick darkness over the work of the missionary. Roman Catholic newspapers advise the assassination of ministers and missionaries, and boast of the good accomplished in the death of Mr. Stephens. One professor in the Roman Catholic theological seminary told his students that "when Stephens was killed the church had one enemy and the world one thief less."

THE Pacific, published at San Francisco, gives these statistics of the Episcopal Church in California: Number of Episcopal churches in the State, 38, with a membership of 6,000 persons; Sunday school pupils, 5,000; total of the revenues for all purposes, about $114,000. The value of church property is estimated at $225,000. One of the largest and wealthiest churches in San Francisco is the Church of the Advent, belonging to this denomination. Its members number 514 adults and 419 children; its yearly revenue is about $25,000, and the property is valued at $50,000.

IT IS affirmed in the Sunday School Journal that in "one of the most religious States in our country" out of $200,000 raised in its various Sunday schools, $145,000 is paid out for the running expenses of those schools—less than one-quarter of all the reported schools receiving their support from the churches to which they belong. Does not this throw a little light on the absence of the children from "the regular church services?" Why should a church expect the attendance of children whose religious teaching it refuses or neglects to provide for?

THE last General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church organized its Chinese missionaries into a presbytery. The missionaries themselves, however, while at first in favor, are now opposed to this step. They find that it does not work well in the northern presbytery in Hang Chan. In this body they say that the Chinese presbyters form two-thirds of the body and are now the senior members. Grace does not entirely overcome race, and the result sometimes is that the Chinese will stand as a body on the one side and the foreigners in a body on the other side. It is also urged that a fusion of Chinese and foreigners would tend to perpetuate home differences which are not essential, and would create English, Scotch, Northern and Southern presbyteries, instead of a single Presbyterian Church. They would have the missionaries retain their original character as evangelists, and, by being merely advisory members of the native church, maintain its harmony and independence of action. Independent.

A YEAR'S PROGRESS.—Bishop Cheney, of the Reformed Episcopal Church, in his first anniversary sermon in Chicago, said that Bishop Cummins left the Episcopal Church with no one pledged to his support, and declared that "no more heroic act has been done in the church of God since the days of Luther." In the sermon he spoke of the past and present of the Reformed Church as follows: "A year ago seven ministers met to lay the foundation of this church. The meeting was little. We had not one organized congregation in the land. But what has God wrought in a single short year? There are now in the Reformed Church 40 ministers, all former members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, 36 organized churches and 3,000 communicants, and untold thousands being reached by the simple gospel of the Redeemer, as preached with a simple liturgical service. The work is going on all over the land and across the ocean. Bishop Cummins writes me that Bermuda is calling for a church, and the resident Bishop of the English Church writes that God is daily extending its work."

A SCHISM has been made in the French Protestant Church, the question, "What is to be the future of the divided parties?—which of these is to be recognized as the Protestant Church of France?" causing much discussion and some dissension. The Church of the Huguenots has always been evangelical, and adhered; during the greater part of its history, most tenaciously to Calvinistic theology, reaffirming its faith in it whenever opportunity offered. For over two centuries no synod of the French Protestant Church has been allowed to meet, and when one was called to meet lately, by permission of President Thiers, it was found that Rationalism had made great inroads into the life of the church. A stormy contention arose in the synod between the two parties, but the evangelical party, with the great statesman Guizot as its leader, passed resolutions which pledged the church to strong adherence to the doctrines of the evangelical faith. The Rationalistic party are working desperately against this, and ask the French government not to give effect to these resolutions, but to leave the Infidel party strong and safe in the bosom of the church.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. BUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GONFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE has been ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keepers, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

Shining More and More.

The path of the just, in a worldly sense, often grows darker as time passes on. Misfortunes and disappointments thicken around him. Death is a door opportunity opened through which he escapes from earthly trouble. It is not the lot of the good to be eminently prosperous, nor is success in temporal affairs the sure sign and seal of divine favor. But in the spiritual sphere it is true that the path of the just shines "more and more unto the perfect day." Even in trouble and affliction there is a steadier and brighter light. These are better understood, and are sanctified, and there is greater strength and consolation attending them.

In no other respect is there more progress in the good man's life of faith than in the light which is shed upon his trials. Once they nearly overwhelmed him, staggered his confidence in God, and led him to think that he was mistaken in his religious experience. All was wrapped in mystery, and he walked in the darkness with a fearful heart and with trembling steps. The pathway of sorrow is no longer one of gloom and despair. The cloud has become luminous, and the Father's voice is heard speaking out of it in tones of assurance and love.

Things that in the earlier experience gave much anxiety, and disturbed the repose of the soul, are no longer sources of uneasiness and distrust. As the stream grows deeper it is less easily ruffled by the passing storm, and less easily turned from its course by the obstacles which oppose its progress.

There is growth in this respect: that the religious life is more uniform under the pressure of temptation, and that the peace of the heart has become too profound to be shaken by outward conditions and circumstances. It has come to be that peace which flows as a river, even the peace of God, which passeth all understanding. When the affections have been set on things above, earthly things have lost their power to absorb and enslave, and also to bring anxiety and perturbation of spirit. The mature Christian looks back with wonder upon his earlier years, and the many needless distractions to which he yielded.

In the substantial elements of religious enjoyment there is the growing brightness of truth and assurance. This is connected with a broader intelligence, with a more accurate knowledge of the word of God, and with a juster comprehension of the nature and reason of doctrine and experience. The Christian should become happier in his religion as he grows older in years. If converted in his youth, there were then no worldly cares, and many phases of temptation were unknown. As time wears on, occupation, contact with the world, the struggle for success in business, a dependent family, and accumulating labors and afflictions all come to test the faith. The conditions are different in the outward life, but the inward power of grace is stronger than ever, and the path, however environed with earthly shadows and responsibilities, is in reality shining more and more.

The struggle with temptation is marked by increase of power over solicitations to evil. Instead of humiliation and defeat there is victory. The temper is brought under control, the appetites are mastered, the affections are completely purified, and communion with God is close and habitual. There is a perfect day to the believing soul in this world—a progress which is unto it. Not the perfect day of heaven, but the perfect day of love—a heavenly-mindedness and a surpassing spirituality, a maturity of all the plants of grace, and a sky of faith serene and cloudless.

This is as it should be, as it may be. It is so with the faithful disciple of the Savior. Christ is the light of the world, and if any man follow him "he shall not walk in darkness" Wrongdoing, neglect of duty, worldly-mindedness, may darken the path. Shadows projected by unbelief, deepened and perpetuated by sinful indulgence, may obscure the way which was once delightful and joyous. The darkness will grow thicker unless the cause be speedily removed. There is progress both ways—toward the perfect day, and also toward the rayless night, unto the perfection of happiness or the depths of misery. One way or the other are we tending. It is well for us to pause and consider, to examine our reckonings, and to take the sun. Is our religious life waxing or waning, onward and vigorous, or is it halting and feeble? Are we in the path that shines more and more, or are we in the road that thickens with gloom at every step? Religion begins with light and ends in light—bright at first, it shines more and more.

The East Texas Conference.

DECEMBER 3, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: Two nights and half a day by rail brought me from Gonzales to Marshall, the seat of the Conference. The International railway is one of the best roads in all its appointments, if not the very best, I have seen in the United States. The cars are elegant, spacious and easy. The road itself is as smooth as the fish-back joint and a seventy-pound rail can make it. The steam-brake, relieved of its heavy, stifled thing, and a spark-catcher that catches all the fine cinder, add to the safety and comfort of the traveler.

Marshall has grown much during the past two years, and has become one of the most desirable places for residence in Texas. It has an excellent school, presided over by our brother, the Rev. Charles B. Stuart, former president of Mansfield Female College. The Conference-room was the spacious Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Napoleon Thomas Burks and Milton H. Jones were received on trial. The number of members for this year is 10,970 and 107 local preachers, being an increase over that of last year of 1,888 and one local preacher. The Conference pays about sixty-six per cent. upon its widows' and orphans' claims. It raised $1,193.16 for missions. The anniversary yielded $400. The sum raised for missions will be seen to average something over ten cents per member. Yet out of this small yield four presiding elders' districts of the five receive a considerable subsidy. But I think things are turning for the better, and that next year will show a great improvement in these collections. We all instituted a financial experiment, of which nothing more will be said until it succeeds.

East Texas is the pitch and turpentine part of the State, and has an immense wealth in her forests, and a very large customer in the stock-raising prairies of the West. If an opposition railway, narrow gauge, could be had to bring down freights, this wealth would be available to the land owners; whereas now a great deal of it goes into the pockets of the railroad company. Yet one would suppose, to hear the reports from some of the old circuits in this Conference, that timber was as scarce as in Greenland—not a single church that could be called our own!—though preaching had been done in schoolhouses and union frames for fifteen or twenty years consecutively. As a matter of course, in this state of things Sabbath schools rise and fall like Jonah's gourd. The falling off this year in scholars, teachers, etc., was fully twenty-five per cent. The explanation, which satisfied the Conference, was that they had "gone into winter quarters," the session being about three weeks later than that of last year. This territory receives a considerable strength annually from the stream of immigrants from the East, which sets in as regularly as the flight of ducks or the run of herring. It is a source of repair which greatly deceives the church as to its actual growth, though extensive and gracious revivals were reported during the past year from many circuits of this Conference.

The temperance question was taken up and disposed of—24 yeas to 20 nays—without discussion. I suppose that this cutting off debate throughout the Conferences has lost to the cause at least two hundred first-rate anecdotes. It would have taken a little time to go into the merits of the case, but there the minority would at least have had the satisfaction of free speech. One of the objects of Conferences and legislative assemblies and all conventions is to furnish an opportunity to utter opinions—all, in fact, that many people care for, and no small safety-valve to Church and State. I should not be surprised if this question comes up again, for I am well persuaded that all these undelivered speeches cannot be reabsorbed.

I am convinced that specific legislation deprives the preacher of his best hold upon dram-sellers; for whenever we legislate specially we abandon the strong ground of the general principles which cover a case. Let men be brought up as for any other destructive practice, and the higher church courts will sustain the action. The present temperance clause is found in a general manifesto of Methodism, and is no more specific legislation than is the clause against "reading those books which do not tend to the knowledge or love of God."

The appointments of this Conference you have already published. Its next session is to be held at Carthage.

THE TEXAS CONFERENCE.

A night and half a day by rail brought me back to Houston. On the next morning the Conference was convened in Shearn's chapel. The house had just been repaired from floor to roof, and looked cheerful and modern—in marked contrast with the forlorn room of one year ago. Old places and features are cherished by some conservative minds as if the old were better than the new; but to be ordinarily devotional, does not one of these weather-stained houses require a warmth of temperament and hopefulness which most people do not possess? I confess that I like a clean church, with not the least pretense in its furniture, yet with lights, seats and pulpit suggestive of the atmosphere one expects to breathe in God's house.

The body has a larger proportion of veterans in its ranks than is usual in frontier Conferences. Here are men who breasted the northers long years ago, when first scattering over these prairies the good seed which has since yielded many an immortal harvest. They still love to go forth as husbandmen, that they may be first partakers of the fruit. Scarcely one admits the pressure of time, and yet this itinerant work must have and demands the elasticity and robustness of manhood in its prime. The voice is usually the last stronghold of the aged minister, and so long as that maintains its integrity he is slow to realize the decaying powers of the outer man, especially as the inner is being renewed day by day. It is well for the wisdom and moral force of a body when such as have gone in and out before the people blameless for nearly half a century are to be found mingling in its counsels.

Thomas R. Curtis, from Alabama, George H. Phair, and Carl Chanquist, a Swede, were admitted on trial. The number of members for the year, 6,715; of local preachers, 66, being an increase of ——.

The temperance question was taken without debate: Yeas, 24; nays, 22.

The Conference paid seventy per cent. on its widows' and orphans' claims.

The missionary collections were less than $1,000, I believe, as I have not had as yet the accurate report of the treasurer. The Bishops' collection was minus some $95. In fact all the Texas Conferences, excepting the German Mission, were deficient at this point. The anniversary missionary meeting yielded $500.

The territory of this Conference is compact and very well laced with railways. It is favorable to a high state of cultivation. And I believe with much effort, and some example, it could be made a model of systematic beneficence. It has resolved to attempt noble things for the cause of foreign missions the coming year. A layman offered in the Conference a suit of clothes, from head to foot, to the preacher bringing up the largest foreign missions collection at the next session; a Spanish doubloon, which had been given to the Mexican mission, was added to the suit. A new style of zeal, to be sure, is thereby invoked; but the prophet allowed a mule-load of earth to the Syrian noble, who contemplated some great thing expressive of his gratitude; and surely a little may not be refused to those who wish to achieve some good thing for the cause of missions. It is certain something is needed—earth or fire—to build a better altar and make a better offering.

The next session of the Conference is to be at Brenham.

THE GERMAN MISSION CONFERENCE FOR TEXAS AND LOUISIANA also began its existence in Houston. Its sessions were held on the afternoon of each day during the same week with the Texas.

The German preachers of the Texas and the Louisiana Conferences composed three presiding elders' districts—the New Braunfels, the Houston and the New Orleans. We have some tried men in this Conference, who have breasted a different style of Norther from those which make their way from the summits and spurs of the Rocky mountains to the fertile plains of Louisiana and Texas. In every circuit and station, no matter how narrow or obscure the settlement, they have met Northern Methodist German missionaries, who seem to be not so much in search of sinners as of Southern Methodist fields. A principle of opposition, something more than a noble Christian emulation, has guided the policy of those who control these movements. The German settlements in Texas are increasing in numbers and wealth. The people are quite ignorant of Methodism, excepting as they have been taught by our preachers. In some places societies have, by the incisive force of this Northern fraternity, been divided, and the church-house has passed out of our hands. Last year the former cultivated editor of the Apologist paid a visit to these Texas fields, and it is to be hoped that he added no fuel to this conflict among the churches. One would suppose that the ample breadth of the Northwest would give room and verge enough to the zeal of these holy men. But no; fighting the devil is a tame business by itself; in this superabundance of their faith they must needs attack the faithful. That a man should come down upon you at full speed, his lance aloise, with pennant fluttering at its point, inscribed "Only peace," was reserved for the knight errantry of this Christian period.

Two were admitted on trial. The Bishops' claim ($100) was paid in full, and on Saturday night the missionary anniversary yielded something over $500—surpassing the American Conference. The German church at Houston leads off in the cause of missions, and stands at the head of all the congregations in Texas.

The entire outlook of this Conference is promising. It has two district school enterprises under way. It is building churches and parsonages. It has an Advocate and Sunday school paper, self-supporting and ably edited.

The coming together as a distinct organization gave to our German preachers that esprit du corps which they needed for full development. The preaching and social meetings were refreshing to those who attended the Conference. The German Methodists and friends were hearty in their entertainment. Its next session is at Galveston. The temperance question was a one-sided affair, all voting yea—15; nay, 0.

Texas evidently feels the financial stringency of the East; but with plenty of stock, and not many idle negroes to consume the land or to invite the more rapacious carpet-bagger, it can stand as much as any other section of the country.

With all the increase of numbers, I am not satisfied that our people are keeping up with the increased population of the State in churches and schools. The temptation for every man to take care of himself is fully as great as the necessity, and our ministry is largely involved in secular cares. Consequently churches are not as rich as they should be in the grace of liberality, and there are not so many young men offering themselves to the work of preaching Christ as we have a right to expect.

Truly yours, J. C. KEENER.

THE GOOD NEWS.—During the past two weeks we notice that there have been reported in our church papers, and otherwise, a large number of revivals, and summing up the number of conversions we find 3,916—3,103 of whom are reported to have joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South.—Episcopal Methodist.

LET US ask ourselves seriously and honestly: What do I believe, after all? What manner of man am I, after all? What sort of show should I make, after all, if the people round me knew my heart and all my secret thoughts? What sort of show, then, do I already make in the sight of almighty God, who sees every man exactly as he is.—Kingsley.

Fasting and Music.—No. I.

Grace usually begins its transforming work in the region of the intellect—works down through the sensibilities and the will till it reaches the sensuous nature. The whole nature must be permeated by and subjected to the dominion of grace. The spirits of just men are made perfect—glorified while the body is yet under corruption. This order in glorification seems to have its parallel in the redeeming work on earth. The sensuous nature is the last to experience the power of redemption. The question arises: Have we any special instrument for this last specific work? Faith is the instrument of justification, and of regeneration or incipient sanctification; for sanctification is simply the regenerating work carried on to completion. From beginning to end faith is the instrument—the only instrument. We are sanctified, as we are justified, by faith only. Yet no one can believe unto justification who has not done the preparatory work of repentance. Some degree of faith must precede repentance, so that we may say repentance is a work of faith. But that degree of faith which justifies necessarily implies the preparatory work of repentance. Repentance is a prerequisite of justifying faith. So in order to complete the work of faith in the sanctification of our sensuous nature we have two other preliminary helps—fasting and music. The constant, unremitting mortification of the sensuous nature by fasting has led to asceticism. While we mortify by fasting, we need music to cultivate and refine. Faith must use these as servants, not as masters.

Fasting mortifies the appetites and weakens the sensuous nature. Many say they cannot fast because it makes them feel weak and sickly. But really this is its design—the good there is in it. Take this effect out of it and it would be of no value. Hear the word of the Lord: "Is it such a fast as I have chosen?—for a man to afflict his soul?" Fasting can only afflict the soul by first afflicting the body. The disciples inquire of the Master why they could not cast out a devil. "And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief; for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove; * * * and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." Christ was God incarnated in humanity. As the devil by the magicians imitated the wonders that Moses did before Pharaoh, so did he imitate God by incarnating himself in humanity. He must be cast out; but this faith goeth not out but by prayer and fasting. It was probably through the sin of sensuality that the devil incarnated himself in humanity. If so, fasting seems a fit instrument to help to the faith that should cast him out—out of others or out of ourselves. By parity of reasoning we should infer that fasting is a good prescription for all sensual sin.

In addition to this we have music. Through all the ages music has ministered mostly to evil purposes. I charge that music has been a siren, luring by her enchantments mostly to evil practices, contrary to the laws of God, and the dignity and weal of humanity. I prove the charge by the facts of history, and account for them on sound philosophic principles.

Musical instruments were invented and first used by the ungodly posterity of Cain. The first recorded song is a song of hatred and murder. Music has been employed to heighten the excitement of drunkenness. This is so now, as it was thousands of years ago, when the pious psalmist complainingly said: "I was the song of the drunkard." It has constituted the charm of bacchanalian feast, and of giddy, sensual dance and revelry; has played a part more potent and conspicuous than even alcoholic stimuli in screwing up man's brutal courage for deeds of violence—for war and bloodshed. It is from the knowledge of this last fact that Milton makes it a chief instrument in stirring up the hatred of the rebel angels to God. It is also on the assumption of this fact that the trumpeter, in the fable, is declared guiltier than those who shed the blood. He stirred others to the strife. Moreover, I have never read or heard or known of a dancing-master who had any moral worth, or who was of any value in society. Indeed in the course of my life I did hear of two who were reported to be of some worth. On closer inquiry, however, I found one was a drunkard and gambler, and the other a spendthrift and defaulter. I have known a man to sell whisky—mean whisky—whisky watered by his own hand—and yet to come out and make a man. Now and then I have heard of a liar, even a liar, such as the immortal dreamer, who reformed and developed into a noble Christian man. But in the history of the world, so far as my reading and observation extend, there is no recorded instance of a dancing-master ever being or becoming a man of any worth in society. Such facts are wonderful, significant.

The key to unlock the wonder is found in the fact that music is wholly sensuous. The dancing-master plays, dances and teaches music, lives, moves and has his being in music. Thus ignoring his mental nature, it shrinks and perishes, while the sensuous nature, by constant culture, grows and strengthens. The mental nature being subordinated to the sensuous, manhood is lost, and the animal nature reigns supreme. In the seller of whisky, even in the liar, there may be a residual quantity of manhood left that can be tempted out and built on; but in the dancing-master the man is swallowed up and lost in the animal. Thus the Circean fable is realized. The fact erects itself into a Pharos that shines out on many dangers that lie along life's stormy sea. If there be those who think the logic of our conclusion needs to be buttressed by authority, we produce a name whose utterance ought to pass for gospel with all who delight in revelings—Henry Fielding, the author of Tom Jones. A dancing-master, he says, is a man who cultivates his heels at the expense of his head.

John Milton intermeddled with all learning. He made considerable attainments in music. He understood its influence perhaps as well as any man in all the ages. He says:

"Eloquence the soul, song charms the sense."

Take the lowest note in music; sound it; question it; there is not an idea in it. Now take the highest note; there is not an idea in it. Sound all the intermediate notes; you have not reached an idea yet. You cannot find an idea in the elements of music. Now mingle the sounds so as to produce harmony—music. You have not reached an idea yet. Take that familiar tune, "Old Hundred;" hum it, whistle it, play it on an instrument. You are unable by any means to get an idea out of it. The reason is, music can only produce sensations. Come near the fire in cold weather—there is produced an agreeable sensation. The brutish beast gets the same sensation from the fire, and knows as well as you do how near to come. The reason is that the nature in you and in him is the same—the sensuous. The beast eats his food because it produces agreeable sensations. He could not by any process of reasoning be induced to seek better food. But put food before him that produces more agreeable sensations, and he will leave the food he had for that. So if music arrest his attention he may, has been known to, leave his food to listen, because the music produces more agreeable sensations.

We have known a lunatic to hold crowds entranced by the "concord of sweet sounds." Blind Tom is an idiot. He "wants discourse of reason," and yet he discourses sweetest music. He is a musical prodigy. Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Locke, Bacon, Hume, Spencer, Homer, Virgil, Milton, Shakespeare—the greatest philosophers or the greatest poets are no match for him in music. If it were a question of mental endowment, think you this blind idiot could outshine so many stars of the first magnitude?

The nightingals will discourse sweeter music than many a scientist or philosopher, or man of the most massive mental powers. The Eolian harp gives out sweet musical sounds as it is swept by the rhythmic but brainless winds.

WM. A. MCCARTY.

THE Catholic disputants in England, says the Independent, are coming to close quarters. Just before leaving England for a visit to Rome, Archbishop Manning prepared a circular to be read in all the Catholic churches, including, first, a certificate from Cardinal Antonelli that the Vatican decrees were regularly published after their adoption; and, secondly, a solemn statement from the archbishop himself that persons who do not heartily assent to these decrees by that refusal cease to be Catholics, and commit sacrilege if they attempt to receive the sacraments of the church. This is intended to be not an expliait but a virtual excommunication of Lords Acton and Camoys, Mr. Archer Shee, Mr. Petre, and the rest of the anti-Infallibilists in England. This archbishop hesitates to mention these gentlemen by name, but he means that they shall consider themselves cast out of the church. It is not likely, however, that the Old Catholics will heed this polite notice to quit. They do not agree with the archbishop as to the binding force of the dogma. Mr. Shee, for instance, insists that, though the dogma was voted by the council and properly posted, as Autonelli contends, in the churches of Rome, it was never regularly proclaimed to the Catholic world by the council itself as a binding dogma. The objection is extremely technical, but it serves the objector's conscience. Lord Acton goes further than this, and charges that the council was not properly constituted and that its deliberations were not free. For these and other reasons the Old Catholics decline to submit to the Vatican decrees, and they will regard the proclamation of Archbishop Manning as extra-judicial and of no binding force. There is a little difficulty of discipline here which is not so easily settled; but we suppose that the noble and honorable dissenters will find some way out of it. It looks, however, as though, in Mr. Gladstone's phrase, Rome has "refurbished" the rusty tool of excommunication and means to make vigorous use of it. The Pall Mall Gazette has had a controversy with the London Tablet, in which the Catholic journal makes a significant admission. "Suppose," said the Gazette, in substance, "that France should make war upon Italy for the restoration of the temporal powers; suppose that England should side with Italy and send a fleet to Rome to prevent the landing of the French army; and then suppose that the Pope should declare that Rome belongs to him, and should forbid English Catholic sailors to fight the French—what ought they to do?" After quibbling a little, the Tablet frankly owns that in such a case the Pope, and not the Queen, must be obeyed. That this is the logical result of the Vatican dogma no man can deny.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Religious Herald, of Richmond, asks the following question:

"What right has a minister to take liberties that in others would be resented? Why should he, more than another, ever give a pressure of the hand, an embrace, a kiss or a term of endearment to any woman outside of his own family? Is such laying on of hands as this either scriptural or decorous? If we find any other man in the habit of attempting such familiarities we at once stamp as bad his taste and breeding, and distrust his honor."

FAME is an undertaker that pays but little attention to the living, but bedizens the dead, furnishes out their funerals, and follows them to the grave.

Memorial Services in Honor of Rev. Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.

At the hour of eleven o'clock A. M. on Sunday, December 27, the members of various churches in the city of Tuskuloosa assembled in the Methodist church to testify their respect and love for the memory of the great preacher whose recent death in Opelika, at the close of the Conference, sent such a thrill of sorrow throughout our land.

The services were opened with the singing of an affecting hymn by the choir of the Methodist church. Then followed an appropriate prayer, full of sympathy and pathos, by Rev. C. A. Stillman, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church in Tuskaloosa, after which the choir sang another suitable hymn.

Rev. J. M. Boland, pastor of the Methodist church in Tuskaloosa, then delivered a very impressive eulogy upon the life and character of Dr. Jefferson Hamilton, from Acts xx, 24. He acknowledged the deceased as his father in the gospel, and recognized the marked influence of his example and counsels in many emergencies of the speaker's ministerial career. He presented, in brief outline, the life of this noble servant of God, who had thus fallen with his armor on, in the very midst of the battle, and surrounded by a large company of tried veterans who had been his faithful companions through the toils and sacrifices of a life-long campaign. He then presented some of the incidents of his death-bed rehearsal of his dying counsels, and ended by repeating the appropriate stanzas with which Dr. Mitchell closed his communication to the Nashville Christian Advocate.

After another hymn by the choir followed a prayer by Rev. B. F. Larrabee, at the close of which the pastor announced that a church meeting would be held immediately, without dismissing the congregation, for the purpose of taking some action suitable to the occasion.

Captain John S. Kennedy then came forward and nominated Alfred Battle as president of the meeting, and Dr. James Guild, Sr., as secretary, who were accordingly elected and took their seats. Rev. B. F. Larrabee then introduced the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, The mournful event which the church has long endeavored, perhaps with some success, to delay by prayer and supplication, now, under the providence of God, has come to pass, and stands before us a solemn verity—the death of Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.; And whereas, The members of the church in Tuskaloosa participate in the universal sense of loss that pervades the whole Christian community on account of this sad bereavement, but feels a still deeper and sharper grief because of the former close and endearing relationship to the deceased; it is therefore

Resolved, That as a church we will prayerfully endeavor so to receive and use this affliction that it may stimulate us to greater zeal and fidelity in Christian life, of which our late pastor was so pure and illustrious an example.

Resolved, That we make this event an occasion for special prayer, that the memory of the eminently pious and useful life of this distinguished gospel minister may long linger with the church, and be blessed to the conversion of sinners and the spiritual edification of believers throughout our Zion.

Resolved, That while we so deeply lament our own loss and that of the church in general, we cannot and would not forget the overwhelming calamity that has thus befallen his beloved and worthy family, with whom we mingle our tears and to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That a brief account of this memorial service and copies of these resolutions be furnished to the family of Dr. Hamilton, and to the Nashville and New Orleans Christian Advocates, and our city papers, for publication.

The resolutions were seconded by Captain Kennedy, and after a glowing tribute by Dr. Stillman, and some remarks by the venerable Mr. Battle, whose warm personal friend the deceased had been for many years, the resolutions were unanimously passed, and the meeting adjourned with the benediction.

JAMES GUILD, SR., Sec.

Periodicals.

APPLETON'S JOURNAL.—A rumor maliciously started by some unfriendly person, asserting that Appleton's Journal would be discontinued at the end of the year, has gained general currency. Those of our cotemporaries who have mentioned this report are respectfully requested to authoritatively contradict it. Appleton's Journal, instead of being discontinued, will begin the new year with renewed spirit. A new novel, entitled "Ralph Wilton's Weird," by the author of "The Wooing O't"—a novel that was among the marked successes of last year—will be commenced in the first number for January. A series of illustrated papers on the industrial arts will be a feature of the year. Christian Reid will contribute a series of papers, illustrated, descriptive of "Southern By-Ways." A new novel by Rhoda Broughton is promised. Travel, adventure, exploration, natural history, social themes, the arts, fiction, literature, current topics, will each have large place in its plan.

THE government of India has determined to perpetuate the memory of Dr. Stoliczka, the distinguished naturalist, who met his death on the return journey from Yarkand, by erecting, at the public expense, a tomb over his remains at Leh, and a tablet in the new Indian Museum, Calcutta.

AMONG the gifts of a bride was a broom, with the following:

"This trifling gift accept of me;
Its use I would commend;
In sunshine use the brushy part,
In storms, the other end."

SERMON MONGERS.—Our heading probably suggests no idea to most Americans. However many our sins, there is one we know little about. But in England one effect of the establishment is to put into the sacred office men wholly unfit for it. If a person may buy a fat church living, why not buy ready-made sermons? The trade in manuscript sermons is a thriving one. Says the London Baptist:

In the columns of a recent number of the Ecclesiastical Gazette there appeared no less than thirteen distinct advertisements proclaiming all the blandishments of "sound doctrine," "pure elocution," "moderate views," "legible handwriting," and "the strictest confidence," etc., in the shape of ready-made manuscript sermons for the relief of ordained incapables. These manuscript sermon mongers appear to drive a thriving trade among the High Church priests, and now and then they "borrow a sermon from the other school of thought in the same sense in which the Israelites borrowed of the Egyptians." The proposition of one "short-hand writer" may possibly fall within the letter of the law, and at all events it is manifestly a very questionable scheme, and rather hard upon the original composer. "A short-hand writer would sell unpublished sermons which he has taken down on delivery!" The Rock thinks the matter of sufficient importance to devote a caustic article to it, and strangely enough it points its moral by an anecdote, which was originally contributed to our columns, of the worthy Baptist brother who was able to give the retort courteous to a clergyman whose purchased sermons had strayed in the post. We wonder whether the enterprising reporter whose announcement we have quoted ever visits our chapels on his rounds!

Mississippi Conference.

W. H. WATKINS, TREASUBER,

In account with the Mississippi Annual Conference Missionary Society, M. E. Church South.

DR.

Collected at anniversary, December, 1873	$97 00
Reported from Brandon district, Dec. 16, 1874:
Vicksburg	167 80
" Jackson	282 75
" Woodville	493 30
" Summit	171 30
" Brookhaven	87 55
" Meridian	274 85
" Seashore	235 50
Collected at anniversary, December 19, 1874	102 50
	166 00
Total	$2,000 75

CR.

By per centage to parent society	$756 32
Appropriation to Rogue Chitto mission, J. W. Sandell	95 00
Appropriation to Homo Chitto mission, P. S. Petty	95 00
Appropriation to Taylorsville mission, L. Carley	142 50
Appropriation to Chickasaha mission, H. W. Davidson	142 50
Appropriation to Toomsuba and Marion mission, A. L. McBride	95 00
Appropriation to Big Creek mission, S. R. Hyde	95 00
Appropriation to McComb City mission, E. R. Strickland	142 50
Appropriation to Seashore district, C. F. Gillespie	190 00
Appropriation to Summit district, A. H. Nicholson	142 50
By excess paid in error, and allowed by Missionary Board	52 00
By amount paid superintendent of Mexican missions, December, 1873	17 00
By special contribution for China	5 00
By special contribution for Indian missions	5 00
By special contribution for Mexican missions	6 00
Balance due missions this date	19 43
Total	$2,000 75

W. H. WATKINS, Treasurer.

HAZLEHURST, Miss., Dec. 19, 1874.

MARRIED.

HUMPHRESS—GODFREY.—At the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. C. R. Godfrey, Mr. William F. Humphress to Miss Almira Jones Godfrey, both of Caldwell parish, Louisiana.

GUICE—MATTINGLY.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in the city of Natchez, Mississippi, on the twenty-third of December, 1874, by Rev. J. H. Strattun, D. D., Rev. John A. Guice and Miss Mary H. Mattingly.

STRICKLAND—RICHARDSON.—By the Rev. Thomas Price, December 31, 1874, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. M. A. Strickland to Miss Victoria A. Richardson, all of St. Helena parish, Louisiana.

Publisher's Department.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS IN REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

AS WILL be seen in our advertising columns, Mr. W. R. Shearer has purchased the stock of Dr. Dellenneville, at 101 Camp street, and after entirely refitting the store and improving the stock, is prepared to offer to his customers new and reliable drugs, medicines and toilet articles.

WE REFER those interested among our readers to the advertisement of John P. Haspard, dealer in cigars and tobacco, at 135 Decatur street. Mr Haspard is confident he can give satisfaction, and solicits a call.

IN ANOTHER COLUMN will be found the card of Dr. Henry Smith. His office is at 130 Canal street, over Eyrich's book store. The doctor is well known in this community as a skillful physician and surgeon.

AMONG our advertisements this week will be found that of Mr. E. Bourgeois, commission merchant. Mr. Bourgeois is also agent for the Grand Point Perique tobacco. His office is 19 Conti street.

SEE ADVERTISEMENT of New Louisiana Remedy.

READ Dr. Warrington's advertisement.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Jan. 9, 1875.

A—Robert W Allen $11, American Sunday School Union, American News Company, T A S Adams $32, Advocate Publishing Company, Mrs W H Atkinson, C G Andrews, T Y Abernathy.

B—A S Barnes & Co, James A Bethune $1, Robert W Burton $2, O J Bowen, Brewer & Tileston, W W Brooks 30 cents, J Lane Borden, Bulton & Co, J H Brunner $25, B F Blow.

C—Dr Ben H Catching two letters $3.50, C Coleman 25 cents, A H Connor, Sheldon Collins & Co, Robert Carter & Bros, Howard Challon, Leander C Calhoun, John Church & Co, D C B Connerly, Dr P Chew, J G Calloway $4.

D—J J Davis $13, W H Dixon, J M Dunn, Mrs A H Dunklin, Charles A Devall $5.70, E F Dunn, Henry Deal $1.50, J H Douglass, Duquereron & Co, A W Dennison.

E—John D Emack, Eagle Pencil Company, Chas G P Erkhardt $2.50, John H Evans.

F—E A Fulford $5, M C Field $50.

G—Thomas Green, Joseph Gillott & Sons $30, J D Gafford, J W Glenn, James Guild, James M Oann, James S Glasgow $1, C R Godfrey $40, Gould & Lincoln $22.60.

H—George B Harper $2.50, J R Hodge $2, W L C Hunnicutt $2.75, John P Haney Jr $1, A C Hundley, Charles L Harris two letters, J E Hopkins, R C Hendrick, A S Helmick $84, W A Horton $4, Bythell Haynes, Josiah Haigler $2.15, Harrison & Cage.

J—H F Johnson two letters $163.58, B Jones.

K—A S Kendrick $1, Julia A Knigler $11.50, Edwin D King, J L Kennard $2.

L—J B Langford $2, J B Lippincott & Co two letters, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, John W Love $6, A J Lamar $1.25.

M—Mrs S D Miles, H P McMurray 50 cents, V E Maugat 25 cents, John S Moore $1, A H McLeod, W A Montgomery two letters $2.50, John McKay, J Z T Morris, J O Mobley $5, John Marshall $6, S Moyer $2.50.

N—N G Nye, New England Valentine Company, Thomas Nelson & Sons, J Nicholson, C J Nugent.

O—James Ormond, J W Odom.

P—J McC Perkins & Co, S N E Parker, T M J Porter $2, Powers Paper Company, J M Pugh, Dow Perry $1, W J Persell.

R—S P Richardson, Thomas D Rowan, A H Redford agent, J K Randall two letters, W A D Ramsay, B S Rickelts $2.50, Robinson & Withers $67.69, M O Ronaldson, Ira R Robertson, Mrs M F Robinson 25 cents, George P Rowell & Co.

S—E P Shute, Green F Seals $10.56, C S Stewart $14, J E Surratt $2.50, W A Skinner $2, John H Smyth $2, H R Singleton, O H Stuckey $1, J Scott Smith $2.50, J W Solomon, Scribner, Armstrong & Co, Scribner, Welford & Co, William Shields $2, S Stowe 10 cents, C W Schofield & Co.

W—Mrs Annie Watson 50 cents, D C Wells two letters, J C Welch, G W Wailes, J W Whitten, Charles E Wurhurton, Whitheriey & Rea, R W Wells, George W Wade, John F Witherspoon $20.20, E Wadsworth, Betsy Williams, William Wood & Co, E H Wiggull $1.

THE SOUTHERN BANK.—This institution is so well and favorably known as to need no comment from us. We will simply call attention to the names of the gentlemen elected to serve as directors for the current year, for which see advertisement on this page.

J. M. JUSTINIANI advertises a large assortment of domestic and Havana cigars, at his manufactory, 311 Burgundy street. His Havana cigars are made from tobacco imported by himself and are warranted pure.

SEE the advertisement of Messrs. Barnett & Cammack, brokers, and dealers in stocks, bonds and securities. They will also give their attention to the settlement of taxes and licenses.

ON THIS PAGE will be found an interesting letter from Dr. Hunter on the treatment of consumption.

SEE advertisement of the C. O. D. Hat store.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel.
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

IF YOU travel East, West, North or South, take a package of Simmons' Liver Regulator. Prepared only by J. H. Zeilin & Co., Macon, Georgia. ja14 ft

AVOID CONSUMPTION.—No enemy to the human race is more to be dreaded and is more insidious in its approaches than the too fatal destroyer of the health and happiness of myriads—"consumption in its ghastly form." The duty of all is to guard against its first advances. This may be done by the timely use of Dr. Tutt's Expectorant. ja7 3t

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 ty

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspeptic, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by T. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de6 ty

DR. HUNTER ON CONSUMPTION.

Having explained the nature of "Catarrh," "Granular Throat" and "Chronic Bronchitis," I now come to speak of Consumption, in which they invariably end when neglected.

Consumption is little understood by the people, and yet is the most common disease known to man. Because of this want of knowledge, and the fearful prevalence and fatality of this disease, it appears more strongly to the physician for help than any other in the long catalogue of bodily afflictions. The bills of mortality prove that in this climate fully one-fourth of the entire population above the age of fifteen years fall a sacrifice to this form of lung disease. The question of prevention and treatment, therefore, is of the importance of life itself to one-fourth of the people of New Orleans. Unless they are saved through the adoption of some improved method of medication their doom is sealed, and the only question is whether they will be called upon to render up their lives to the insatiate destroyer this year or the next, or in following years.

The total inefficiency of all means hitherto employed through the stomach is sufficient to demonstrate that the disease cannot be cured in that way. So long as the same ideas prevail, and the same course of treatment is followed which has resulted in disastrous failure in the past, no benefit will follow the administrations of the physician. The disease will continue, as it has been—equivalent to the hand of death, and physicians will go on prescribing, without knowledge and without hope.

Such is the ignorance of Consumption among general physicians that there cannot be said to be any established or recognized theory of its nature. Each has a kind of vague conception, but it is rarely indeed to find one whose mind is fixed. In the early stages they generally mistake and treat it for some other and less serious malady, and later, when its real nature is revealed, they abandon all hope, and merely seek to palliate the more urgent symptoms.

Except in a very limited number of cases, the disease is not detected until it is firmly established, and consequently no effort is made to prevent its development at a time when the best results might be expected to attend treatment. When there is loss of flesh, cough, purulent expectoration and splitting of blood; when the stethoscope reveals the presence of a cavity in the lungs, and percussion demonstrates that a considerable portion had become solid by tubercles, the merest tyro in the profession knows that the patient is far advanced in Consumption, and yet such is the condition of most cases before any treatment is employed.

These are not the early symptoms of Consumption. They are, in fact, the symptoms of the confirmed disease. Now what is to be done? Are we, after listening and percussing, percussing and listening again, to shake our heads and say: "My good sir, you are in Consumption and nothing can be done to save you?" God forbid! The physician who intimates as much, though he does not say it in so many words, utters a libel on his art; for although in such a case there is great danger, still much may be done, and much ought to be done. How? Not by selling out with the impression that the patient's disease is incurable, and that temporary ease is all that we can promise him; not by prescribing potion after potion with the view only of allaying some troublesome symptom; not by merely opening the bowels when they are confined, or confining them when they are open; not by increasing expectoration when too scanty, or checking it when too great; these, though they constitute nearly the whole of the present mode of treating Consumption, could be accomplished by the veriest greenhorn who had spent but six months in a doctor's dispensary almost as well as the doctor himself. They are all well enough as far as they go, inasmuch as they relieve the patient's discomfort, but as curative means they are utterly worthless, nay, more, they are cruel, because this very relief lulls the patient into a false security, and induces him to think he is being treated for the cure of his disease when he is rapidly approaching his end under a wretched course of palliation. No, we must take up arms boldly against the great cause. We must attack the disease in the lungs and through the lungs by direct medication. We must reach the tubercles in the lungs and the carbon in the blood, and we can never do that through the stomach.

In this climate most cases of Consumption take their rise in some form of chronic disease of the air-passages which lead to the lungs—catarrh, granular throat or bronchitis. If people would but realize that the lungs become diseased in the great majority of instances only after long continuance of these affections, and is, in fact, but the sequel or consequence of neglecting them, and could in all such cases be prevented, Consumption would lose half its terrors. But here again we are met by another difficulty. Because washing out the nose with "salt and water," and snuffing up a few bottles of quack nostrums—sold as "catarrh remedies"—will not cure catarrh, they are fast coming to the conclusion that it too is incurable. So little is done to prevent Consumption, and still less to cure it after it is established.

Who can wonder that one-fourth of the people die in hopeless misery when such suicidal ideas prevail? Instead of going to work like rational beings to protect the lungs from irritation by a proper treatment of catarrh, under which every case can be cured, they fritter away precious time, waiting for the lungs to become diseased, and, when they have actually produced Consumption by their folly, abandon all hope of cure, and commit their lives to a miserable course of palliation which never yet saved a case.

Without courage and perseverance nothing is curable. But with these, aided by proper and skillful treatment, Consumption can generally be arrested, even after the lungs are extensively diseased.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

K. B. HUNTER, M. D.,
165 Canal street, New Orleans, La.

DR. HUNTER'S PRACTICE.

The following notice, commending the practice of Drs. R. & K. B. Hunter, is taken from the editorial columns of the Herald and Presbyter:

DR. HUNTER.

We have been publishing, from time to time, letters on Catarrh and diseases of the Lungs, by Dr. Hunter, and we have published a number of testimonials of cures by his method of treatment. We also have seen letters from various persons, including some of our ministers, testifying to the efficacy of Dr. Hunter's treatment. Below is an editorial article from the pen of the Rev. Jesse H. Berry, an assistant editor of the American Christian Review:

"I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to the gentleman and physician whose name introduces this article. I regard him as one of the few whose professed mission is 'to cure the ills which human flesh is heir to,' whose skill and remedies are all that is claimed for them.

"For about one year I had been suffering from an affection of the throat, which at first was annoying, and afterward developed symptoms which I considered dangerous. The voice grew rough and husky, the palate and mucous lining of the throat became inflamed and at times painful, and I feared at one time that I would be compelled to cease speaking in public. Remedies were tried, some of which gave partial and temporary relief, while others did not seem to influence the disease in the least. When Dr. Hunter began the publication of his interesting letters in the Review I commenced to read them. There seemed to be so much common sense in his statements that I was induced to apply to him. I obtained his 'Inhalator' and remedies, and by following a few simple directions an entire and, I think, permanent cure was effected in the short space of three months. My throat is well, and I am in the enjoyment of most vigorous, robust health. Several personal friends who were similarly afflicted were induced to try Dr. Hunter's remedies, and so far as I have learned of them, have either been cured or are rapidly [illegible]. In a letter before me, a professor in one of our colleges, and who was afflicted with throat disease for years, and who has been using the 'Inhalator,' says: 'All traces of the disease have left me, and I am a well man.'

"In these days of quackery and deception, to know that there are physicians in whose ability and integrity we can have confidence is no small matter. This statement respecting Dr. Hunter is refreshing to our part. We commend him to the afflicted readers of the Review.

JESSE H. BERRY."

DR. HUNTER'S PRACTICE.

NOTICE TO INVALIDS.

It appears that many who have desired to become our patients have encountered difficulty in finding our office when they came to the city to consult with us. In order, as far as possible, to do away with this hinderance, we give the following card of address:

Our office has been for years and still is located at 165 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

Our practice is confined exclusively to the investigation and treatment of Affections of the Head, Throat, Lungs and Stomach—Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Chronic Catarrh, etc.

Our method of treatment, as is now very generally understood, and has been fully explained, and illustrated by the record of successful cases in the pages of our Journal, consists in the local and direct application of remedies by inhalation or breathing—the use of artificial atmospheres, both as regards their chemical composition and density—by which means the diseased structures are reached in the most direct and natural manner while the blood is acted upon through the channel established by nature for its purification.

Our hours for consultation are from 9 to 3½ daily, except Sunday, and in the evenings from 6½ to 7½.

To patients in the country, who are unable to come to New Orleans for a personal consultation, a printed list of questions will be sent on application.

To invalids who will send us their address we shall also be pleased to send, without charge, a copy of the extra number of our Medical Specialist and Journal of Diseases of the Chest.

Address all letters to DRS. R. & K. B. HUNTER,

165 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
P. O. Lock Box 1239. ja14

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NORTH AND SOUTH.

I will exchange for Louisiana property 312½ ACRES OF FINE LAND, adjoining the corporation of Grand Junction, Tennessee, lying on and between the Memphis and Charleston and the New Orleans and Chicago Railroads. One hundred and fifty acres are in cultivation. Six Tenant settlements; also a nice Residence within one hundred yards of the depot.

I am compelled to go South for my health. Any person wishing a trade of this kind can address me.

D. C. WELLS,
ja14 2t Grand Junction, Tennessee.

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

And Agent for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)

PERIQUE TOBACCO,

19.....CONTI STREET.....19
ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

THE NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY for Coughs, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Blood-Spitting, Scrofula, Consumption, etc., is everywhere creating a sensation. More than Forty Testimonials and Nine Pages of Names at the Depot, 106 CAMP STREET, New Orleans. Splendid for the voice and for children. It contains NO POISON, and a reward of $1,000 will be given to any one who will detect any in it. Sold by Druggists. ja14 1t

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,

135.....DECATUR STREET.....135

Between St. Louis and Toulouse.

Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.

ja14 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. SHEPARD & CO., 801 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ja14 3m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI,
ja14 1m Proprietor.

SOUTHERN BANK,

NEW ORLEANS, January 2, 1875.

At the election held on the ninth ultimo the following-named gentlemen were unanimously elected Directors of this Bank for the ensuing year, viz.:

Thomas Layton,	Wm. C. C. Claiborne,
John T. Moore,	Bradish Johnson,
B. H. Stanley,	Wm. C. C. Claiborne, Jr.

And at the meeting of the Board this day THOS. LAYTON, Esq., was unanimously re-elected President.

ja14 2t J. GARR, Cashier.

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by DR. J. DELLENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. R. SHEARER,
ja14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Poydras.

DR. HENRY SMITH,

130.....CANAL STREET.....130

Over Eyrich's Book Store.

Consultation hours—10½ to 2 o'clock.

Residence—565 St. Charles street, near Philip. Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 4 and 7 P. M. ja14 1y

BARNETT & CAMMACK,

BROKERS,

12.....CARONDELET STREET.....12

(Front Office.)

Stocks, Bonds and Securities bought and sold. Money loaned on securities. Taxes and Licenses settled. ja14 1m

SACRED MUSIC BOOKS

FOR 1875.

River of Life! ($5 cents.) A most beautiful Sunday School Book, H. S. Perkins and W. W. Bentley.

Leader! ($1.38.) Full collection of Metrical Tunes, Anthems, etc., with Singing School Course. H. R. Palmer and L. O. Emerson.

Thomas' Quartets & Anthems! ($2.50.) Perfect music, of the best class, for Quartet Choirs. J. R. Thomas.

Danks' Anthem Services! ($2.50.) Anthem music of excellent quality for all the services of the Episcopal Church. H. P. Danks.

Perkins' Anthem Book! ($1.50.) Easy Anthems. Very full, good and already popular collection. H. O. Perkins.

Song Monarch! (75 cents.) For Singing Schools. Not much Sacred Music, but an admirable preparatory course, with a large quantity of secular music for practice. H. R. Palmer and L. O. Emerson.

☞ All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
ja14 1y Boston.

A. GEIGER,

33.....CHARTRES ST.....33

Corner of Custom-house.

DEALER IN

BLACK AND COLORED CLOTHS,

Doeskins, Fancy Cassimeres, Silk, Worsted and Velvet Vestings, Linings and Trimmings of all descriptions, suitable for Tailors and Dressmakers. Also on hand Army and Navy Cloths, Military Buttons, Billiard Cloths, Alnakapus Cottonades, Corduroys, Shears, etc., etc. All goods sold at retail. de24 1m5p

A. W. HYATT,

STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER

And Blank-Book Manufacturer,

38.....CAMP STREET.....38

P. O. Box 508. New Orleans, La.

Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

JOHN McMAINS,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCER,

Dealer in Groceries, Teas, etc.,

Nos. 372 and 374 Magazine Street,

Opposite Magazine Market, and

NO. 40 WASHINGTON ST., COR. FULTON, NEW ORLEANS.

Goods delivered free of drayage. de21 1m

WHITNEY & HOLMES

ORGANS.

FIFTY ELEGANT STYLES, with Valuable Improvements; New and Beautiful Solo Stops. Over One Thousand Organists and Musicians Indorse these Organs, and recommend them as Strictly First-class in Tone, Mechanism and Durability. Warranted for five years. Send for price lists.

WHITNEY & HOLMES ORGAN CO.,
an27 13eow Quincy, Illinois.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S Celebrated POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER prevents and cures CATARRH, and keeps back all Fevers. Send ten cents, or thirty cents for the Pamphlet or Magazine, to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, that you may learn what Poor Richard's Eye-Water will do for Blind, Sunken, Inflamed and Weak Eyes; also for the entire constitution. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $2, $1 and 25 cents. ☞ The Eye-Water is one of the three parts of the METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY, which kills the Itch of all Disease. oc8 1yeow

FINE-TONED, LOW-PRICED, WARranted against breakage. Catalogues, containing full particulars, prices, etc., sent free.

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO.,
ap9 1yeow Cincinnati, Ohio.

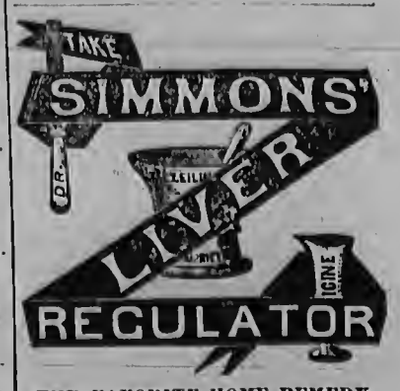
OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's well known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE for or Treatment until cured. Call on or address

DR. J. C. BECK,
112 John Street, CINCINNATI, OHIO
jy23 1yeow

ROGERS' EFFERVESCING CITRATE OF MAGNESIA,

in six-ounce bottles, in powder. This Magnesia is a mild purgative and aperient, very acceptable to the stomach for Sick Headache, Sour or Sick Stomach, and all Febrile cases. Used for all seasons of the year. Prepared by ARTHUR ROGERS, 193 Spring St., N. Y. For sale by all druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans. au27 1yeow

MEDICAL.



THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom, and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. no19 1y5pic

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURITATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. HAVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

R. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields st., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. Dullose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. oc29 3m5p

CARD.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.

I am using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in the laundry department of my hotel, and consider it a very valuable acquisition. I would not dispense with the use of it for four times its value.

R. S. MURSE,
Proprietor City Hotel.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.

We have been using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in our laundry for more than three months past, and can say that it is decidedly the best article for the purposes for which it is recommended that we have ever used. We believe we have used everything of the kind in the market.

W. W. FREEMAN,
Manager Crescent City Steam Laundry Co.

MANUFACTURED BY

WILLIAM H. SHEPARD & CO.

OFFICE—106 CAMP STREET,

de21 1m New Orleans

HOUSEKEEPERS, ATTENTION!

CARPETS BELOW COST.

Being determined to close out this department, we have made a

Still Further Reduction in Price.

For evidence of same call on

E. C. PALMER & CO.,
de17 1m 97 Camp street.

NEW LEATHER STORE.

A. F. RICAU,

IMPORTER AND DEALER IN

French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,

Shoe Findings, etc.,

80 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.

Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

INSURANCE NOTICE.

OFFICE LOUISIANA EQUITABLE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
New Orleans, Dec. 8, 1874.

Extract from Minutes of Board Meeting.

Resolved, unanimously—That policies written by this company on persons who lost their lives in consequence of the events of the fourteenth of September, 1874, be paid.

WILLIAM HENDERSON,
de17 1m Secretary.

IF YOU WANT THE DEVIL (the "Roaring Lion") kept out of your house, send for The Metaphysician! the greatest Magazine of the age. Every family is socially dying without it. Published by the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York. Edited by Mrs. M. G. Brown and her daughter, Elizabeth. Price, $1 a year. Single numbers, thirty cents. Sold by booksellers and Newsdealers everywhere. Two Rare Presents to each Subscriber. oc8 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL OF THE GAZETTEER UNITED STATES. Showing the grand results of one first 100 Years. Everybody buys it, and agents make from $100 to $200 a month. Send for circular. ZEIGLER & McCURDY, St. Lou

The Child's Corner.

MERRY WORKERS.

Tell me what the mill doth say,
Clitter, clatter, night and day;
When we sleep and when we wake,
Clitter, clatter it doth make.
Never idle, never still,
What a worker is the mill!

Hearken what the rill doth say,
As it journeys every day;
Sweet as skylark on the wing,
Ripple, dipple, it doth sing.
Never idle, never still,
What a worker is the rill!

Listen to the honey-bee,
As it dances merrily
To the little fairy's drum,
Humming, drumming, drumming drum.
Never idle, never still,
Humming, drumming, hum it will.

Like the mill, the rill, the bee,
I would never idle be.
What says cock-a-doodle-doo?
Up—there's work enough for you.
If I work then, with a will,
It will be but playing still;
Ever merry, never weary,
It will be but playing still.

Ned's Grievance.

Opening the door of a friend's house one day, I made my way through the entry to the small back court, where Ned, the only son, was crying bitterly.

"Ah, Ned, what is the matter?"

"Mother won't let me go fishing. Harry and Tom are going down to the harbor, and I want to go." Here Ned kicked his toes angrily against the post, to the great danger of his new boots.

"Whose little dog is this?" I asked, as a brown spaniel came bounding up the garden walk.

"It is mine," cried Ned in an altered tone. "Did you not know I had one?"

"No, indeed. What a fine little fellow. Where did you get him, Ned?"

"Father bought him for me. He is so knowing, and I teach him many things. See him find my knife"—and Ned, wiping away his tears, threw his knife in the clover. "There, Wag," said he, "now go and find my knife."

Wag plunged into the grass, and after a great deal of smelling and wagging he came triumphantly forth, and brought the knife to his young master.

"Give it to him," said Ned, pointing to me; and Wag laid it at my feet.

"This is a knife worth having," said I; "four blades."

"'Tis a real good one," said Ned; "father gave it to me on my birthday; and he gave me a splendid box of tools too." Ned looked up brightly, and quite forgot his crying.

"Let me think," said I. "Was it this knife that you hurt your foot so with?"

"Oh, no," cried Ned; "that was done with an ax; but I've got well now."

"I was afraid you would be laid up all the spring."

"Well, it was mother's nursing, the doctor says. Mother and father took very great care of me. It was lonely staying in the house so; but mother used to leave her work and read to me, and father often stayed with me."

"I should think you had very kind parents, Ned." The boy looked down on the floor, and a slight pout puckered his lips.

"I suppose there are none who have your interest and happiness so much at heart."

"But I want to go fishing," muttered Ned.

"And can't you trust them, Ned, and willingly agree to their wishes? You may not, indeed, know the reason why they object to your going; but from all your experience of their kindness and wisdom, are you not sure that they would not cross your wishes without good reasons for doing so? And surrounded, as you are, by so many proofs of their love, will you sit there and murmur and cry, and fill your heart with anger and stubborn thoughts against them because of this one little denial of your wants? Is not this a poor and ungrateful return for all their kindness? It is little enough that a child can do for a parent, but that little he ought to do most cheerfully."—Presbyterian.

Thistle Crop.

One fine morning in spring Farmer Jackson, who was no very early riser, tumbled himself out of bed, tumbled on his clothes, tumbled down to his breakfast-table, tumbled his breakfast down his throat, and then tumbled out upon his farm. We say "tumbled" to all this, because the word fairly describes Farmer Jackson's general lazy manner of doing everything he was obliged to do, or took into his head to do. If he went to market he tumbled on to his horse's back, tumbled into the market-room when he reached the end of his journey, tumbled on his horse late at night, and, we must add, sometimes tumbled off before reaching home again.

On this day, when he was fairly out upon his land, he was met by a neighbor.

"You have got a nice crop coming on, Jackson," said he.

Mr. Jackson (looking about him, and seeing nothing in particular)—A nice crop, neighbor! What do you mean?

Neighbor (pointing with his stick to a clump of young thistles growing between the rows of wheat)—These things, I mean.

Mr. Jackson—Oh! ah! thistles; I see.

Neighbor—And I see too. Why, Jackson, you must have been sowing thistle seed, I should think.

Mr. Jackson—No, I haven't. I am not such a fool, either. But if the things will grow, who is to hinder them?

Neighbor—You and I may do something to hinder them. They come from seed, don't they?

Mr. Jackson—Seed! Well, of course they do.

Neighbor—Do you remember my telling you last autumn how it would be when—

Mr. Jackson (impatiently)—Pooh, pooh! It was too late then; the seed were all blowing about. It could not be helped.

Neighbor—It might have been hindered, though, if you had had the thistles rooted up before they came to seed. Don't you see that, Jackson?

Mr. Jackson—What's the use of telling me that now?

Neighbor—Well, just to give you a hint. All these thistle plants will have seed by and by.

Mr. Jackson (more impatiently)—There's no harm in them now, at any rate.

Neighbor—Pardon me. There is a little harm now, for they draw away the strength of the soil from your wheat.

Mr. Jackson—And if they do, that's my lookout!

Neighbor—Not entirely, I think. At any rate, it would be a kindness, and a duty too, to your neighbors to set a man—

Mr. Jackson (in wrath)—I don't want to be told my duty, neighbor!

And so the thistles grew and grew, flowered and seeded; and the consequence was that for more years than we can tell (for the end is not yet) not only Mr. Jackson's land, but that of all his neighbors on every side of him, has been plagued with thistles.

Are anything like thistles growing in your heart? Will you seek for grace, that you may pull them out before the crop grows large and spreads more widely?

Which?—"Yes, mother, I know; but then you see my good feelings only last half a jiffy."

So said my boy to me one evening, in answer to my appeal.

"I know it, Henry," said I; "but how long does it take to switch off a locomotive on to the wrong track? Once started on the wrong track, no matter how smoothly and swiftly it may run, it is running to destruction. On the other hand, a moment only, and the switch-tender will have put the locomotive on the right track, and the cars will go on safely.

"So with the heart. It takes only a moment to pray sincerely: 'Lord, save me.' It takes only a moment to say: 'Keep me from this sin, O Lord.' It takes only a moment to say from the heart: 'Lord, give me thy Holy Spirit; make me thy child; do not leave me; let me not leave thee.'

"On the other hand, it takes but a moment to say: 'Pshaw! what's the use? I don't care.' It takes but a moment to say: 'I'm not going to be laughed at for being a Christian, I know.' It takes but a moment to drive the Spirit of God away, by simply diverting the mind, which may be done in many ways.

"And so the soul may be switched on to the right track or on to the wrong track in a moment of time, and either run safely to the end of life by God's grace, or run swiftly and surely to destruction." Is my soul on the right or wrong track?—Christian at Work.

KEEP YOUR PROMISE.—A boy borrowed a tool from a carpenter, promising to return it at night. Before evening he was sent away on an errand, and did not return until late. Before he went he was told that his brother should see the article returned.

After he had come home and gone to bed he inquired and found that the tool had not been sent to its owner. He was much distressed to think his promise had not been kept, and was persuaded to go to sleep, and rise early and carry it home the next morning.

By daylight he was up, and nowhere was the tool to be found. After a long and fruitless search he set off for his neighbor's in great distress to acknowledge his fault. But how great was his surprise to find the tool on his neighbor's door-stone! And then it appeared, from the print of his little bare feet in the mud, that he had got up in his sleep and carried the tool home, and gone to bed again without knowing it.

Of course a boy who was prompt in his sleep was prompt when awake. He lived respected, had the confidence of his neighbors, and was placed in many offices of trust and profit.

If all the grown folk felt as this boy did, there would be a great many tracks of bare feet found some of these bright mornings; and what piles of tools and books would be found lying at their owner's doors! Phrenological Journal.

THE BABY MONKEY.—He was a little bit of a fellow, about as large as a kitten, and had a tail as long as his mother's, but he looked very old in the face. When I first went to see him, the monkey was holding him in her arms, but presently he crawled to the floor, then out through the bars and upon me. I thought strange that the mother was not afraid of losing it; but when I moved my hand to stroke it, back went the little monkey, swift as a dart, into his mother's arms. Pretty soon he crawled away again, and then I saw that the mother monkey had hold of the tip of his tail with her fingers, and as the little one crawled away from her she let him go far as she could reach, but never let go his tail; and when anybody moved a hand to touch him, she pulled him back into the cage. She never seemed to relax this hold, by day or by night, till the little fellow was two months old. Then she let him go. But her mother instincts were very marked even then. The cage contained a "happy family" of dogs, cats, monkeys and guinea pigs, sleeping in one box together; so when the little monkey crept out of his mother's arms, she would reach down into the box and take up a little puppy or kitten or guinea pig, and nurse and fondle it just as though it were her own. She did not seem quite contented without some sort of a young thing in her motherly arms.

AN IRISHMAN on board a ship was ordered by one of the officers to go below and fetch a jug of water just as the ship was about to sail. The man hesitated to go, because, as he said, the vessel being about to sail, he was afraid he should be left behind.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Poultry in Small Yards.

I live in a small town and have fenced off as a poultry-yard a little corner of my vegetable garden, making a space of about sixteen by five feet, and have it inclosed by a slight fence of plastering lath, in which I have also a small sliding gate, to put in fresh water to the chickens. At one end are, of course, a few boards put up for a roof, and under it a couple of poles to roost on. A box on the ground projecting outside, with a lid to lift up, but having the opening within the yard, constitutes the laying apartment, with three divisions, in each of which is a porcelain nest-egg. The arrangement cost, including labor, about $2.75.

In this simple poultry establishment I have four Leghorn hens, which on some days lay me four eggs, on some days three, and for the past four months have averaged eighteen eggs per week. When I first put them in, one wing was slightly shortened, and after one or two attempts at first there has been no effort since to fly out, and they seem entirely happy and contented in their small domain.

I thought it might be useful to some of your readers, similarly situated in small towns or city lots, to know how easy it is to have a supply of fresh eggs without much trouble or expense. When the yard is mown the grass is thrown in to them. I supply them also with the egg-shells, broken bone, gravel, scraps of meat, the refuse of the kitchen, fresh water two or three times a day, and consider they pay me well for all trouble. Corn is dispensed to them occasionally, but the principal food is scraps. They require also occasionally green food, for which the refuse of the garden also answers well, such as superfluous beets, imperfect cabbage-heads, pea haulm, grass and weeds. Some of the large green worms which infest tomatoes are thrown in to them and devoured with the greatest zest. It will thus be observed that my poultry establishment utilizes many things which would otherwise be a nuisance, and by gathering up the fragments which remain, so that nothing is lost, I reap my reward in plenty of nice fresh eggs.—Levi Hinkson, in Practical Farmer and Journal of the Farm.

OLIVE CULTURE.—One chief objection that has been argued against the culture of the olive on our Gulf coast region is the length of time it takes the trees to come into bearing. The following items in relation to some olive plantations in California are taken from the Pacific Rural Press, and will serve to disabuse the uninformed of any errors they may labor under upon this subject:

"The trees are of only two years' growth from cuttings, and yet they have already begun to bear. Another year will give quite a good crop; and each succeeding year the yield will increase until the trees have attained full maturity. The prevailing impression has been that the olive will not bear until ten years old, this being the ordinary time for bearing in other portions of the world, with most of the varieties cultivated. But in California, with the varieties here planted, the case is different. Colonel Hollister's extensive orchard, four miles back from the coast, at Santa Barbara, was in bearing three years after planting. The Kimball Brothers also have two-year old trees full of fruit, on their lands at National City, upon the Bay of San Diego."

MILK DIET IN DYSENTERY.—Dr. Barret states in the Archives de Medicine Navale that he has used milk in chronic dysentery among soldiers and sailors returning from China. He considers a milk diet superior to all other treatment in such cases. The milk must be pure, unmixed with water, as fresh as possible, and not boiled. Sufficient milk was given to a patient, but nothing else allowed to pass his lips. Diarrhea, if it appears, lasts but a few days. No change of diet is to be made, and no medicine given. If the physician fears the persistence of diarrhea, a small quantity of bismuth must be prescribed. If the milk pass through the bowels undigested, pepsin will remedy the defect in the digestive process. After a time the feces become solid, the patient thinks himself cured, and craves other food. This is the dangerous period, for too early relaxation of the diet may cause a relapse. White of eggs, rice, cream, and the lightest possible things are to be admitted sparingly; and when the patient feels convalescent, and will endure the restrictions no longer, he is to return by the slowest degrees to his former diet.

HOW TO CLEAN MARBLE.—Marble of any kind, alabaster, any hard stone or glass may be repolished by rubbing it with a linen cloth dressed with oxide of tin (sold under the name of putty powder.) For this purpose a couple or more folds of linen should be fastened tight over a piece of wood, flat or otherwise, according to the form of the stone. To repolish a mantelpiece, it should first be perfectly cleaned. This is best done by making a paste of lime, soda and water, wetting well the marble, and applying the paste. Then let it remain for a day or so, keeping it moist during the interval. When this paste has been removed the polishing may begin. Chips in the marble should be rubbed out first with emery and water. At every stage of polishing the linen and putty powder must be kept constantly wet. Glass, such as jewelers' show counter cases, which become scratched, may be polished in the same way.

BLACK ALPACAS may be restored almost to their first beauty by using a thimbleful of borax dissolved in a pint of warm water and put on with a nail-brush.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL superintendent recently said: "I think if any one could look into my heart he would see a little Sunday school there."

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☜ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises, Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Dunne Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au12 1y6p

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dispute—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration; Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6mnrm

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO

FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

del7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!

Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of

Cast Steel and Wrought Plows

at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Same Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of ten or more are ordered an additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at

JOHN W. NORRIS',
del7 2m 27 Canal street.

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1822.

A. BALDWIN, C. A. SLOCOMB, } In com-
C. EUSTIS. A. B. SLOCOMB, } mendam.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Gins, Cnals' Hotter Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. oc29 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

in the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

STOVES.....STOVES.....STOVES.

The Cheapest and the "Best."

The "BEST" and the "COTTAGE" COOKING STOVES, to which I call particular attention, are unsurpassed by any in this market for economy, durability and most perfect BAKING. They carry a uniform heat in the oven, and can be adapted to burning COAL, COKE or WOOD, without any additional cost. Every one sold under a full guarantee to do as they are represented or the money will be refunded.

Also a variety of other COOKING STOVES of every grade and price, from $15 upward.

HEATING STOVES.

A very large and complete assortment, suitable for Offices, Parlors, Churches, School-Rooms, etc., all of which are offered at very low prices to suit the times. Also dealer in

TINWARE OF EVERY KIND

and description, to suit the country and city trade, which is offered at UNPRECEDENTEDLY LOW PRICES FOR CASH. Also Sole Agent for the manufacture and sale of the Steam Washer, or Woman's Friend.

Will cleanse your clothes WITHOUT RUBBING. Every one sold is FULLY WARRANTED. It saves labor, wear and tear, and the annoyance of wash-day. It is truly a labor and clothes-saving invention. Three hundred thousand have been sold already through the States since 1871.

☞ State and County Rights for sale.

Call and see at NO. 34 MAGAZINE STREET, New Orleans.

ja29 1y G. W. W. GOODWYN.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD

OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.

One vol., extra cloth, $2.50; Half calf, $5.00.
Three vols., ... $6.00; ... ... $12.00.
Six vols., ... $12.00; ... ... $24.00.

ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se3 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

AGENTS WANTED!—ACT AT ONCE.—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of

LIVINGSTONE.

His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa; the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (bona fide number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our grand

COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.

Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is

THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.

The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles, Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR

THE LIFE OF JESUS,

For Young People.

A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address

H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se24 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

CANVASSERS send No. of your Lodge, and name this paper. We will convince you agents with our superb Home Pictures for Masons Odd-Fellows, Knights Pythias Grangers, Red-men, Mechanics, etc., are making double they could any other way; work pleasanter. J. HALE POWERS & CO., Fraternity & Fine Art Pubs., Cincinnati, O. ja29 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

UPPER CITY

BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,

keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantees satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

Under the Control of J. Phillips,

formerly with Glynn & Winiz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to.

del4 1y LOUIS GIMMEL, Agent.

H. FEHSENFELD,

194.....CANAL STREET.....194

Bet. Rampart and Dryades Sts.,

would respectfully announce to the Ladies that he has just received, and will constantly receive, a fresh supply of Millinery Goods, Bonnets, Hats, Feathers, Flowers, Ribbons, etc., belonging to the Millinery line. Also a large and select assortment of Fancy Goods. All at prices to suit the times. del7 1m

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.

HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $20, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.

Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1 25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union.

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
Je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

Soule's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

The Commercial Athenæum of the South, corner Camp and Common streets (Story Building.) Mercantile and Banking offices are connected with this institution, daily lectures given, and all branches of a business education practically, scientifically and philosophically taught. An English Department for boys, twelve to eighteen years of age, is a special feature of this institution. French and Spanish are also taught.

GEO. SOULE, Principal.

N. B.—Soule's Philosophic Commercial and Exchange Calculator, 88 octavo pages, the great arithmetical work of the age, is for sale at the College office. ja22 1y

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
Je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS

PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.

Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe19 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandeaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

MONUMENTAL

MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

MULTUM IN PARVO

MARCY'S SCIOPTICON

WITH GREAT IMPROVED SELF CONDENSING GAS CYLINDERS.

NEW SLIDES & EFFECTS.

CIRCULAR FREE. MANUAL DESCRIBING ALL 50 Cts

L. J. MARCY 1236 Chestnut St. Philada.

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT.—At home, Male or Female. $33 a week warranted. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample sent free. Address, with six-cent return stamp, C. ROSS, Williamsburg, New York. no5 13t

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,

Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies,
Top Buggies, Turn-Out-Seat Buggies,
Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets,
Hurouches, Rockaways, etc.,

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

☞ HARNESS at low prices.

Consult Economy and send for catalogue and price list. (no12 3m

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,
NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se3 6m

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER

82 Beekman Street, New York.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au6 1y

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

Scientific.

DR. HILGENDORF, a German, now in Japan, has found, in his studies of Japanese crania, that the cheek bone, instead of being a single structure, is frequently divided by a suture into two distinct elements. Dr. Hilgendorf considers this so characteristic that he has called the additional bone the os japonicum.

DR. D. BRAUNS, of Halic, has contributed to Giebel's Zeitschrift a paper "On the Measurement of Temperatures at Great Depths, with Special Reference to Observations Made in the Sperenberg Boring." This bore-hole has reached the exceptional depth of four thousand Rhenish feet. The author discusses the bearing of these observations upon theoretical questions respecting the interior of the earth.

THE French astronomer Janssen has invented an ingenious apparatus for ascertaining the precise instant of contact of the planet Venus with the limb of the sun at the transit on December 10. A movable disk, having toward its edge equi-distant round openings, turns before a second disk covered with sensitive paper. By means of clockwork the outer disk is made to move every second over a distance equal to the diameter of one of its openings. Hence every second there is a new plate exposed, and a new picture taken. By examining each picture it is possible to determine exactly the time of contact.

SINGULAR SUBSTITUTE FOR THE COMPASS.—The Great Dismal Swamp is partly in North Carolina and partly in Virginia. It is forty miles long and fifteen to twenty miles wide. Prof. Webster, at the late meeting of the American Association, told the story of a party that divided in the swamp, one portion of the party having no compass. The latter portion of the party was lost, and after long wandering found their way out by a singular expedient. They made use of the insect for which fine tooth combs were invented. Putting the insect on a flat piece of wood, and leaving it to its own devices, it invariably began to move in a certain direction. This direction was followed out by the party, and they were thus led out to the northward. It is supposed that this instinctive movement of the insect is due to its seeking the way toward the greatest light.

THE FIRST GAS LIGHT.—Prof. Silliman has discovered, in a "Journal of Travels in England, Holland and Scotland," in 1805, published by his distinguished father, a memorandum of what is probably the first public use of street gas in London. Hitherto the date of the first public exhibition in that city has been put in 1807, when Mr. Winsor lighted Pall Mall. But on the fourth of July, 1805, the elder Silliman stopped in Piccadilly to see "an object of some curiosity," which he describes as follows: "An ingenious apothecary and chemist has contrived to light his shop in a very beautiful manner, by means of the inflammable gas obtained from fossil coal. It is the same thing with the thermo-lamp, of which you have heard much in America. Every new thing by which money can be made is, of course, kept secret in London, as well as everywhere else. I took the liberty, however, of asking the owner of the shop to permit me to see his apparatus. He refused at first, but on my assuring him I was not a commercial or trading man, and was actuated solely by curiosity, he consented, and took me down into the cellar."—The Galaxy.

AN ACCURATE method for measuring high temperatures is still a desideratum. The best pyrometer in use probably is that of Siemens, which depends on the fact that the resistance of a wire of platinum to the passage of the electric current is a function of the temperature. By measuring the resistance of the wire in the usual way, therefore, the temperature to which the wire is exposed may be calculated. An exceedingly able committee of the British Association, composed of Profs. Williamson, Maxwell, William Thomson and Foster, have recently reported decidedly in its favor. They say that changes of resistance amounting to about one-ten-thousandth of the quantity of heat to be measured can be detected without much difficulty. Repeated measurements of the same pyrometer without intermediate heating give almost identical results if they are made within a few days of each other; but that measurements made after an interval of a few months sometimes differed slightly from the results previously found. These changes they think are probably the result of alteration of the unsoldered connections of the conducting wires.

A PAPYROGRAPH, an ingenious apparatus for copying letters and other writings, was exhibited at the International Exhibition in London. It is described as follows: The document to be copied is written in an alkaline ink, on a prepared waterproof paper. This ink corrodes away the water-proofing material (which is applied only on one side,) and consequently when the ink is washed away the part with the writing is left plain, while the surrounding paper is waterproof as before. There is thus, therefore, a sort of stencil-plate formed of porous paper and waterproof paper. This sheet is then laid on a pad saturated with a certain chemical salt, and on the top of it is laid a sheet of paper saturated with another salt; pressure is applied, and the two salts being able to unite through the porous part of the intervening stencil-plate, (as it may be termed,) they there form a coloring matter, which is deposited on the upper sheet in absolute fac-simile of the original writing on the stencil. This is accomplished by means of a frame, in which the pad, the stencil-paper and the saturated sheet are held in proper position, and an ordinary copying press. About three hundred impressions can be taken from each original, and these can be worked at an average rate of five a minute. The first impression can be obtained in less than ten minutes from the writing of the manuscript.

BUSINESS CARDS.

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12 ..... Dumaine St. 12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in HUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

H. P. BUCKLEY,
8 ..... CAMP STREET 8
has for sale, at low prices, Fine Gold and Silver WATCHES, American, English and Swiss; Fine JEWELRY, Sterling SILVERWARE, Gold, Silver and Steel SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES. Particular attention to repairing all kinds of Clocks and Watches. Diamonds remounted and Jewelry repaired. de24 1m

MICHAEL HACKETT,
DEALER IN
FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,
Cor. Dryades and Thalia Sts.,
de24 1m New Orleans.

JOHN U. ADAMS,
C. O. D. HAT STORE,
26 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 26
Near Common.
Fresh goods. Low prices. de24 1m

E. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 90 Camp Street,
no26 1y. New Orleans.

T. W. ROTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58 ..... ROYAL STREET 58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. de17 1m

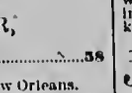
RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38 ..... BOURBON ST. 38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BERO, Agent.

LADIES' HAIR EMPORIUM.
JUST OPENED.
142 ..... Canal St. 142
Imported HUMAN HAIR worked in every conceivable style. Wigs manufactured to order. Ladies' Hair Combed in the most fashionable styles at very reasonable charges.
JULES DELAUNAY, Agent,
de3 2m No. 142 Canal street.

DELGADO & GOLDTHWAITE,
FAMILY GROCERS,
643 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 643
Corner of Jackson, New Orleans.
Goods delivered free of charge to any part of the city. no28 tf

H. H. HUSSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
102 ..... Calliope Street 102
Between Magazine and Constance,
no26 2m New Orleans.

LOUIS TIEMANN,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
Choice Imported and Domestic Cigars,
Chewing and Smoking Tobacco, Smokers' Articles and Fancy Goods,
CRESCENT CITY CIGAR STORE,
No. 0 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Goods warranted. Country orders promptly attended to. oc22 3m

J. DURARBY,


BUTCHER,
Stalls Nos. 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market,
NEW ORLEANS.
Ships, Steamboats, etc., supplied at the shortest notice. de10 2m

ISIDORE LEVI,
Formerly of the firms of Levi, Navra & Co., and George G. Wolf & Levi, is now with
A. PEISER & CO.,
21 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 21
Cheapest House in the Southwest.
Glassware, Crockery, China, Cutlery, House-Furnishing Goods, etc. Original packages for Country Trade. no19 2m

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
AND LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m F. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y

PIANOS, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, ETC.
807 Magazine Street, near Sixth.
MRS. G. VOM HOFE,
MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
Pianos for sale, to rent, repaired and tuned, or taken in exchange. Church Organs of all kinds tuned. A. G. GARDNER, Tuner. Music neatly bound. de17 1m

J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
103 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. mh5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1303.
PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 1m

WOOD ..... COAL ..... WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 262 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (no12 3m) SAM. SMITH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
61 ..... Baronne Street 66
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM HOGAN,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS,
VALISES AND BAGS.
SEWING MACHINES.—Agents for Empire and Gold Medal.
Nos. 99 and 101 Canal Street,
de3 2m New Orleans.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

MATTHEW HENRICK,
CISTERN-MAKER,
Corner Franklin and Erato Sts.,
no19 2m NEW ORLEANS.

JACOB FREIDHOF,
DEALER IN
FIRE-WOOD, PITTSBURG COAL AND CHARCOAL,
38 and 40 Burgundy St., New Orleans.
Wood Sawed to order. Country orders promptly attended to. no19 2m

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
46 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL ..... COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
9 ..... CARONDELET ST. 9
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.
oc29 3m H. & C. TYLER.

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79 ..... Carondelet St. 79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. Jy2 1y

FRANCIS LAUER,
IMPORTER OF AND DEALER IN
China, Earthen and Glassware,
Silver-Plated and Table Cutlery, Coal Oil Lamps, Chimneys, House-Furnishing Goods, etc.,
616 MAGAZINE STREET,
de24 1m Cor. Josephine, New Orleans.

J. B. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Custom house, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. je4 10m

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. je11 1y

COAL ..... COAL ..... COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115 ..... Canal Street 115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated-ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN BOIS,
fe26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

THOMAS HASAM,
LUMBER,
CABINS MADE TO ORDER.
Every description of LUMBER always on hand. Sash, Blinds, etc.
Mills and Yard—Corner CEDAR AND JULIA streets (New Basin,) New Orleans. Ja15 1y

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce.
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE.)
je4 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS,
TRADE-MARKS, COPYRIGHTS, ETC.,
Procured by
mh26 10m H. N. JENKINS,
No. 27 Commercial Place, New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. HEDRICK,
my21 1y 183 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COULON,
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37 ..... Camp Street 37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 1f

T. WHINREY CARTER,
ARCHITECT,
47 ..... POLYMNIA STREET 47
ja15 1y New Orleans.

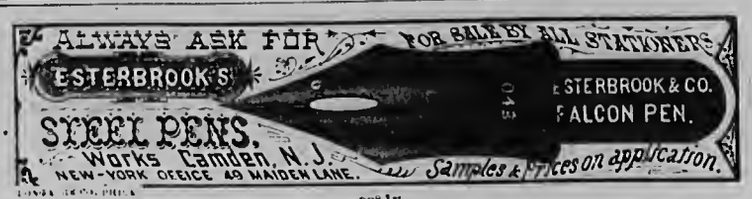
GAS FIXTURES.
GAS COOKING STOVES
AND PLUMBING MATERIALS
At New York Prices,
BY P. H. QUINLAN, 280 CAMP STREET.
Stores, Offices and Dwellings fitted up for Gas, Steam and Water in the most approved style. Country orders solicited. mh26 10m

F. J. KUHNHOLZ,
BOOK-BINDER,
112 ..... GRAVIER ST. 112
Near Camp, New Orleans.
Blank-Books ruled and bound to order. All other books, such as Magazines, Music, Law-Books, etc., bound with care and neatness, and at moderate prices. ja22 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.
JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 42 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper.
Cash Orders Solicited.
de17 1y

BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second-hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Esley's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

JEWELRY, WATCHES AND CLOCKS.
65 ..... ROYAL ST. 65
A. BONNET,
DEALER IN
Fine Jewelry, Watches and Clocks,
has recently largely increased his stock by French, English and American importations. The public is respectfully invited to call and examine the goods before purchasing elsewhere. Jewelry and Watches neatly repaired. de7 1m

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

HOME MANUFACTURE.
Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder.
EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.
Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers. THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer, de17 1m 341 Common street, corner Robertson.

T. H. HONOR,
MANUFACTURER AND REPAIRER OF
Hair, Feather and Moss Matiresses,
No. 230 MAGAZINE STREET,
Bet. St. Joseph and Delord, New Orleans.
Steamships, Steamboats, Hotels and Boarding-Houses supplied at short notice and at the lowest rates. Country orders solicited and promptly attended to. de24 1m

mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—536 ROYAL STREET.
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. L. TUCKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
160 ..... COMMON STREET 160
de24 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152 ..... Julia Street 152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. de17 1y

J. A. & E. J. DeHART,
DENTISTS,
183 ..... CANAL ST. 183
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je29 1f

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. BACK. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
ap25 NEW ORLEANS.

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS, manufacturer, (ja6 1y)
76 Fourth street ..... LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street ..... CINCINNATI, O.

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.

POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use, working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty-four sizes, from 5½ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.
Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Blanch's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
Send for Circulars. se1 6m

STAR IRON WORKS.
WALTON, HEMLER & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
IRON RAILINGS,
SAFES AND BANK VAULTS,
JAIL CELLS, IRON STAIRS, DOORS AND SHUTTERS, Awning Frames, Gratings, Bolts, Stirrups, Verandas, Balconies, Patent Sidewalk and Sky-Lights, and all kinds of Iron Work for buildings.
Nos. 231 and 236 West Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. oc29 3m

WIRE RAILING
AND

ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.
DUFUR & CO.,
No. 86 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati
mh5 1y B. J. WEST, Agent, 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, BURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

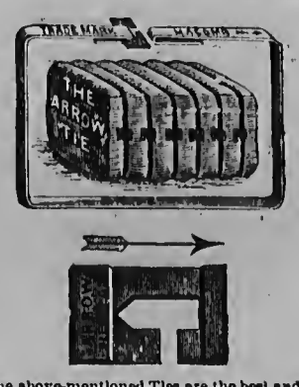
JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28 ..... Beekman Street 28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

J. W. HART.
Engraver
ON WOOD
258 RACE ST. CIN. O.
oc29 9m

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. FELTON & CO., 119 Nassau street, New York, au13 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES.



The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne,)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

PLOWS, IMPLEMENTS, ETC.
PLOWS
AND ALL IMPROVED
Agricultural Implements.
PLANTATION HARDWARE.
Steam Engines, Saw and Grist Mills.
PUMPS, SHAFTING, ETC.,
AT LOW PRICES FOR CASH.
B. J. WEST,
115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans,
MANUFACTURERS' AGENT.
mh19 10m

CRESCENT MACHINE SHOP.
JOSEPH WALKER,
Machinist, Engineer, Blacksmithing,
ETC., ETC.,
CORNER ST. JOSEPH AND CONSTANCE STS.
New Orleans.
Plantation Machinery manufactured and repaired. Jobbing promptly attended to. fe8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM GREGG. MRS. ADA GREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 151 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA GREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
je18 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE,
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
510 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 510
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 10m

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO., Portland Maine. fe5 1y

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 11 feet 4 inches below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the eighth instant:

Mississippi river and bayous	6,524
Red river	4,177
Arkansas river	2,114
Ouachita river	4,437
Railroads	4,248
Lake	32
Mobile	1,605
Texas	191
Total	23,331

On Saturday the market opened with a fair inquiry, and although the movement was checked by leading factors adhering to their previous pretensions, and refusing the ruling rates, yet about 2,000 bales changed hands during the morning, after which there was but little change, and the entire sales summed up 5,550 bales. On Monday the movement was checked by protracted rainy weather throughout the day, but there was, nevertheless, a fair inquiry, resulting in sales of 4,300 bales. Although without any quotable variation, prices exhibited some irregularity, dry and other desirable kinds commanding full prices, while poorer descriptions were offered freely, and occasionally sold at easier rates. Even-running lists of the higher grades were held above quotations. Strict low middling sold at 14 5-16c., and good middling to middling fair at 15¼c. On Tuesday, under some prospect of a return of fine weather, the market opened with a good inquiry, but operations being restricted by more stringent pretensions on the part of factors, the sales during the morning were confined to 1,300 bales, after which the movement became more animated, and the entire business summed up 4,850 bales. Prices exhibited some irregularity; factors offered the general run of the supply at previous rates, but for dry lots and otherwise desirable lists, especially of middling and the better qualities, asked higher figures.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 14,700 bales, against 21,250 for the corresponding time last week and 20,240 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 612,773 bales, against 838,945 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 181,291 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 146,775 bales to Great Britain, of 3,976 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 25,644 to France. We quote:

Ordinary	12	@ 12½
Strict ordinary	12⅝	@ 12¾
Good ordinary	12⅞	@ 13⅛
Strict good ordinary	13⅛	@ 13⅜
Low middling	14	@ 14⅛
Strict low middling	14¼	@ 14⅜
Middling	14⅝	@ 14⅞
Strict middling	14⅞	@ 15
Good middling	15⅛	@ 15¼
Middling fair	15⅞	@ 16
Fair	16⅛	@ 16¼

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	23,331
Arrived previously	689,576—	712,907
		728,860
Exported past three days	16,458
Exported previously	437,902—	454,360
Stock on hand and on shipboard		274,500

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday were confined to 1,586 hhds., which were mostly sold at 4⅛@5¼c. for inferior, 6¼@6¾c. for common, 6¾@6¾c. for fair, 6¾@7⅛c. for good fair, 7⅛@7¼c. for fully fair, 7¾c. for prime, 8c. for strictly prime, 8¼c. for choice, 6@8¾c. for low to choice seconds, 7⅛@8¼c. for centrifugal, 8¼@8¾c. for gray clarified, 8¼@8¾c. for yellow clarified, 9@9¼c. for off-white clarified, and 9¾@10⅜c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday were confined to 1,618 hhds. and 36 half hhds., which were sold at 30@35c. for inferior, 35@45c. for centrifugal, 48@50c. for fair and cistern-bottom, 55@56c. for prime, and 60c. for strictly prime.

CORN.—On Tuesday 3,000 sacks sold at 85@86c. for mixed, yellow mixed and white, and 85@88c. for white and choice white.

OATS.—On Tuesday 750 sacks sold in lots at 73c. ₩ bushel.

BRAN.—On Tuesday a car load, comprising 125 sacks, sold at $1.30, and 200 sacks on the landing at $1.30 ₩ 100 lbs.

PORK.—The market is dull and mess is quoted at $20.50 ₩ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday 5 casks shoulders sold at 9¼c., and 10 do. clear sides at 12¼c. ₩ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—On Saturday 40 boxes shoulders sold on the spot at 7¾c., and 8 casks clear sides at 10¾c. ₩ lb.

HAMS.—On Saturday a lot of 15 tierces choice new sugar-cured sold on the landing at 14½c. ₩ lb. On Tuesday 5 tierces sold at 14¾c., and 5 at 15c. ₩ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 112½@112¾, against 112¾ at New York, and after a fair business closed at 112½@112⅝, against 112⅝ at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver. It is quoted at 108@108½ for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97@97½ gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	16 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn mills, Colemao's	120 00	425 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BRICKS, ₩ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₩ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₩ lb.:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₩ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₩ lb.:
Marion	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₩ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₩ dozen:
Western	27	30
FERTILIZERS, ₩ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₩ bbl.:
Double extra	— —	5 25
Superfine	— —	— —
Fine	— —	— —
GLASS, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	1 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	24 00
Choice	— —	26 50
IRON, ₩ ton:
English, ₩ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7½	8
Hoop	6	9
Sheet	5½	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	6
LEATHER, ₩ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₩ dozen	36 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₩ lb	24	26
LIME, ₩ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	18 00	20 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₩ M	— —	3 25
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 10	1 15
Coal oil, in barrels	17	21
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₩ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₩ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	65	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Ponchong	30	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim. skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110.00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₩ head	$40 00	@	44 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₩ head	30 00	@	35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₩ head	20 00	@	25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₩ head	— —	@	15 00
Western beeves, ₩ lb. net	— —	@	— —
Sheep, first quality ₩ head	4 00	@	5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₩ head	3 00	@	4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₩ head	80 00	@	100 00
Milch cows, ₩ head	35 00	@	40 00
Calves, ₩ head	7 00	@	9 00
Yearlings, ₩ head	5 00	@	9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year to want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
J. Hale Powers, Cincinnati, Ohio.
George Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Architects.
T. Whinrey Carter, 47 Polymnia street, New Orleans.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Belting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Book-Binder.
F. J. Kuhnholz, 112 Gravier street.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Ditson & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, 11.8, Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
William Hogun, 99 and 101 Canal street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Butchers.
J. Dibarry, Stalls 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market.

Carpets.
A. Brousseau & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 168 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Snell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockeryware.
Francis Lauer, 618 Magazine street.
Isidore Levi, with A. Peiser & Co., 24 Magazine street.
Samuel E. Moore, 55 Camp street.
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Cistern-Makers.
M. Henrick, corner Franklin and Erato streets.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Cloths.
A. Geiger, 33 Chartres street.

Coal and Wood.
Jacob Freidhof, 38 and 40 Burgundy street.
H. H. Hussman, 102 Calliope street.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
William Volden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Bero, 38 Bourbon street.
F. Trolle, 590 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
P. A. Leblanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
R. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
J. A. & E. J. Dellart, 183 Canal street.

Dry Goods.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hiwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Soule's Commercial College, corner Camp and Common streets.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hart, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Baronne street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. B. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clintou st.

Furniture.
John Bois, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Gas Fixtures.
P. H. Quinlan, 280 Camp street.

Glass Staining.
Belcher & Povey, 18 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
William Bobe, 484 St. Charles street.
J. J. Bruwn, 78 Magazine street.
Delgado & Goldthwaite, 643 and 645 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.
Michael Hackett, corner Dryades and Thalia streets.
John McMains, 572 and 574 Magazine street.

Hair Goods.
Jules Demunay, agent, 142 Canal street.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street, New Orleans.

Hats.
John U. Adams, 26 St. Charles street.
Robert E. Lee Hat Store, corner Royal and St Louis streets.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Insurance.
Louisiana Equitable Life Insurance Company, William Henderson, secretary.

Iron Manufactories.
Walton, Hemler & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lumber.
A. F. Ricau, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Thomas Hasam, cor. Cedar and Julia streets.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 694 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. Walker, cor. St. Joseph and Constance sts.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.
B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Ball & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cincho Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hoffmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Duane street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Laplace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York.
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. B. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Millinery.
H. Felsenfeld, 194 Canal street.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Mrs. G. Voni Hofe, 807 Magazine street.
Horace Waters & Son, 481 Broadway, New York.
Phillip Werlein, 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
L. J. Marcy, 1340 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.
Dr. Van Holm, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Patents.
H. N. Jenkins, 27 Commercial place

Pens.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Pianos.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 109 Common street.

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Dumaine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M'f'g, Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soap.
J. H. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Starch Gloss.
William H. Shepard & Co., 106 Camp street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 38 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
G. W. W. Goodwyn, 34 Magazine street.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
Louis Tiemann, 9 Camp street, New Orleans.

Undertaker.
T. W. Bothick, 271 Camp street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.
T. B. Honor, 230 Magazine street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Boltel, 58 Royal street.
A. Bonnet, 65 Royal street.
H. P. Buckley, 8 Camp street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
W. Kurten, corner Magazine and Josephine streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Window Shades.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dufur & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

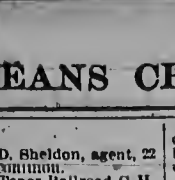
Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!

Restore your Sight!

THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,



By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.

WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957.) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.

no26 1y

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

PRATTVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Prattville station	Jan. 2, 3
Lowndesboro circuit, at Lowndesboro	9, 10
Georgiana circuit, at Georgiana	16, 17
Monterey circuit, at Liberty	23, 24
Evergreen circuit, at Evergreen	30, 31
Sepulga circuit, at Ashury	Feb. 6, 7
Pineville circuit, at Pineville	13, 14
Camden circuit, at Camden	20, 21
Monroeville circuit, at Monroeville	27, 28
Brewton mission, at Castleberry	Mar. 6, 7
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Pleasant Hill	13, 14
Randolph circuit	20, 21
Autaugaville circuit, at Autaugaville	27, 28
Clanton mission, at Bethel	Apr. 3, 4

A full attendance is earnestly solicited.

J. W. STOKES, P. E.,
7 Georgiana, Ala. (M. and M. R. R.)

EUFAULA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Eufaula	Jan. 16, 17
Enon and Midway	23, 24
Clayton and Louisville	30, 31
Pea River mission	Feb. 6, 7
Vinnin	13, 14
White Pond	20, 21
Henry	27, 28
Gleanville	Mar. 6, 7
Beriah	13, 14

The district stewards will meet at Eufania, January 16.

W. H. ELLISON, P. E.
7

MONTGOMERY DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Tuskegee	Jan. 3, 4
Auburn	9, 10
Opelika	16, 17
Wetumpka	23, 24
Elmore	30, 31
Tallassee	Feb. 1, 2
Montgomery	6, 7
Tuskegee circuit	13, 14
Notasulga	20, 21
Salem	27, 28
Crawford	Mar. 6, 7
Hurtville	13, 14

The district stewards will meet at Auburn, March 16, at eleven A. M.

WM. A. MCCARTY, P. E.
31

MOBILE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

St. Paul's	Jan. 2, 3
Franklin street and City mission	9, 10
St. Francis street	16, 17
Citronelle	23, 24
Mount Pleasant	30, 31
Grand Bay	Feb. 6, 7
Eastern Shore	13, 14
Pensacola and Navy Yard	20, 21
Milton and Yellow River mission	27, 28
Pollard and Black Water mission	Mar. 6, 7
St. Stephen's	13, 14
Bladon Springs	20, 21

Will the preachers in charge of circuits inform me where their first Quarterly Conferences are to be held, and the most convenient routes to them? My address is Citronelle (Mobile and Ohio railroad,) Alabama.

S. H. COX, P. E.
31

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Clinton station, at Clinton	Jan. 16, 17
Woodville station, at Woodville	23, 24
Jackson and Pipkin's chapel, at Jackson	30, 31
East Feliciana, at Pine Grove	Feb. 6, 7
Bayou Sara, at Concord	20, 21
Wilkinson, at Bethel	27, 28
Buffalo	Mar. 6, 7

The meeting of the district stewards will be held at Jackson, Louisiana, January 30.

C. G. ANDREWS, P. E.,
14 Jackson, La.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waynesboro circuit, at Waynesboro	Jan. 9, 10
Enterprise station	16, 17
Shubuta circuit and Ellisville mission, at Shubuta	23, 24
Chunkey circuit, at Chunkey	30, 31
Enterprise circuit, at Sogeville	Feb. 6, 7
Spring Hill circuit, at Bethel	13, 14
DeKalb circuit, at Pleasant Ridge	20, 21
Paulding circuit, at Paulding	27, 28
Meridian station	Mar. 6, 7
DeSoto circuit, at DeSoto	13, 14
Wayne circuit, at Andrew chapel	20, 21
Morton circuit, at Marion	27, 28

The district stewards are called to meet in the Methodist church at Meridian on Wednesday, January 27, at ten o'clock A. M. No other body is authorized to do the work of this meeting. Let the brethren therefore, at the time and place above, answer to their names—G. D. McCorbuick, Angus Taylor, J. H. Cochran, Daniel McInnis, Joseph Price, Dr. James Webb, Dr. C. R. Reugher, T. Z. Blanks, J. D. Pendleton, J. A. Lewis, and two to me unknown.

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.
7

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Brookhaven station	Jan. 16, 17
Beauregard circuit, at Beauregard	23, 24
Zion mission, at Bethel	30, 31
Hazlehurst station	Feb. 6, 7
Crystal Springs station	13, 14
Raymond circuit, at Clinton	20, 21
Georgetown circuit, at Pleasant Grove	27, 28
Spring Ridge circuit, at Terry	Mar. 6, 7
Providence circuit, at New Hope	13, 14
Brandywine circuit, at Pisgah	20, 21
Scotland circuit, at Caseyville	27, 28

The district stewards will please to meet me at Hazlehurst on Saturday, February 6, 1875, at ten A. M. They are: S. R. Ricketts, G. Ellis, I. V. Enochs, E. L. Normon, Jesse Thompson, T. I. Hunter, H. M. Millsaps, A. Fortner, Willis Barns; John Beazley.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.,
31 Sharon, Mississippi.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Funnin circuit, at Union	Jan. 9, 10
Morton circuit, at Zion Grove	16, 17
Lake and Forest circuit, at Lake	23, 24
Trenton circuit and stony River mission, at Caney Creek	30, 31
Raleigh circuit, at Raleigh	Feb. 6, 7
Garlandsville circuit, at Newton	13, 14
Brandon station, at Brandon	20, 21
Philadelphia circuit, at Murs Hill	27, 28
Walnut Grove circuit, at Scotland chapel	Mar. 6, 7
Hillsboro circuit, at Hillsboro	13, 14
Centerville circuit and Decatur mission, at Holland's store	20, 21

It is earnestly desired and requested that the official members of these Quarterly Conferences be promptly on the ground on Saturday, at eleven o'clock A. M.

The district stewards (E. A. Martin, W. T. Robinson, J. C. Harper, R. A. Tills, Benjamin Thompson, J. C. Watts, R. Lowry, W. J. Senle, I. Miller, M. H. Lack and L. M. Horton) will please meet me at Lake station on the twenty-second day of January, 1875, to estimate the presiding elder's salary and divide it out among the circuits and missions. Let all the stewards labor earnestly to make a good start this new year for their preachers, and expect the blessing of God upon their labors.

WILLIAM B. HINES, P. E.
31

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kingston	Jan. 9, 10
Natchez	16, 17
Fayette, at Bethel	23, 24
South Warren, at Red Bone	30, 31
Cayuga, at Hiver' chapel	Feb. 6, 7
Mount Olivet, at Shiloh	13, 14
Vicksburg and Grove street	20-22
Rolling Fork	27, 28
Clover Hill	Mar. 6, 7
Rocky Springs, at Rocky Springs	13, 14
Port Gibson	20, 21
North Warren, at Oak Ridge	27, 28

The district stewards will please meet me in Vicksburg, February 20.

F. M. FEATHERSTON, P. E.
31

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Jackson station	Jan. 9, 10
Madison circuit, at Livingston	16, 17
Sharon circuit, at Sharon	23, 24
Camden and Soule chapel, at Soule chapel	30, 31
Canton station	Feb. 6, 7
Brownsville circuit, at Queen's Hill	13, 14
Vernon mission, at Kennedy's	20, 21
Dover circuit, at Fletcher chapel	27, 28
Vazoo City station	Mar. 6, 7
Vazoo circuit, at Trunquil	13, 14
Silver Creek circuit, at Palmetto	21, 22
Thomastown circuit, at Forest Grove	27, 28
Carthage circuit, at Goshen	Apr. 3, 4

The district stewards will meet at Canton, February 6, to make the apportionments for the presiding elder, Bishops, Conference fund and missionary collection.

W. E. M. LINFIELD, P. E.,
31 Hazlehurst, Miss.

SUMMIT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Magnolia circuit, at Magnolia	Jan. 2, 3
Amite City circuit, at Amite City	9, 10
St. Helena, at Day's church	16, 17
Amite circuit	23, 24
Franklinton, at Franklinton	30, 31
East Baton Rouge	Feb. 6, 7
Union circuit, at Pipkin's chapel	13, 14
Merrilville circuit	20, 21
Homerdditto circuit	27, 28
Hammond circuit, at James' chapel	Mar. 6, 7
Covington, at Covington	13, 14
China Grove, at China Grove	20, 21
Monticello	27, 28

There are several circuits now in the district of which I am not advised of the place of holding the first quarterly meetings. The preachers will please let me know at their earliest convenience. My address is Summit, Mississippi.

A. B. NICHOLSON, P. E.
31

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS,	TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS,	TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS,	SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for $15 00
to wit:
12 Dinner Plates, 1 Soup Tureen,
12 Ten Plates, 1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates, 1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates, 2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates, 2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers, 4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers, 2 Pickle Shells.

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above $18 00

A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces 30 00

Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from ..... $30 up.

White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00

White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces 4 00

French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces 6 50

French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces 7 50

Good Table OOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,

No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street,

de17 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Floor Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. jn7 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Step Covers, etc.

de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

STAINED GLASS.

WM. NELSON, 23 Market street, Pittsburg, Pa. Send for circulars. o

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1875. NO. 4.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

MOBILE, ALA., Jan. 13.—The grand jury in the United States Circuit Court, in session here since December 28, were discharged to-day. They found no indictment against Sumter county prisoners, nor against those arrested in Mobile, charged with killing negroes on election day. The jury consisted of twenty-three men from the body of the district, and the majority of them were Radicals, and five of the majority were blacks.

OMAHA, Jan. 13.—The extreme cold weather continues throughout the West. Thermometer here to-day ranged from twenty-two to fourteen degrees below zero; Cheyenne, twenty-three to one below zero; Denver, twelve to seventeen below zero; Fort Laramie, thirty-five below zero; Virginia City, Montana, forty-four below zero. There are twenty-seven inches of snow on Laramie plains.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—A mass meeting in Faneuil Hall, to protest against the military interference in Louisiana, was held to-day. About three thousand persons were packed in the building, all parties, classes and conditions being represented. The meeting was very orderly, and great sympathy was manifested in the object of the call, though occasional dissents from a speaker betokened the presence of widely differing political elements.

Hon. William Gray made an address denouncing the great outrage committed against the people of Louisiana in the recent act of the United States troops. He said it was the duty of the government to intrust its power to clear-sighted, cool-headed officers; and if such were not selected, the people had a right to hold the chief executive responsible. His remarks were frequently cheered, and, when alluding to General Sheridan, hissed.

Resolutions expressive of indignation at the course of the military in removing members of the Legislature, and severely denouncing Belknap for his telegram of approval, were vociferously applauded.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 15.—An immense indignation mass meeting was held at the Masonic Hall to-night to protest against the usurpation in Louisiana.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson delivered an address seriously criticising the telegrams of Belknap and Sheridan, and charging that the full responsibility of what has occurred rests upon the President.

Resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting were adopted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The following is a London Times editorial:

"In the gloom surrounding us, one thing is perceptible—all men are arming. Germany is arming en masse, and surrounding nations, the best part of the world, cannot do otherwise. The momentary dreams of peace have fled away. Germany recognizes the stern necessity. What she won by arms she can only hold by arms, and while arms are in her hands." The Times confesses that Germany cannot raise a third army; her hopes are in her navy.

Vice President Wilson publishes to-day, in the Springfield Republican, a letter upon the state of the country.

He will say that "the Republican party must change its policy, and bring to the front good men in the South who accept the results of the war, but by reason of the corruption of the party will not co-operate with it; that the first step toward this result must be to repudiate the bad men who have disgraced the Republican name."

He treats at length of the Southern situation, and is most generous in his suggestions of policy toward the South. His defection, as it is called by the administration senators, is the talk here to-day, and causes much sensation. He is supported in his sentiments by Blaine, in whose interest the letter is said to be written.

VICKSBURG, Jan. 18.—This morning a squad of Federal soldiers, under charge of Major George E. Head, the officer in command of the troops stationed here, acting under orders from General Emory, at New Orleans, entered the sheriff's office here with fixed bayonets and forcibly ejected Sheriff A. J. Flanagan, who was in possession under a recent election, about the validity of which there is a constitutional question.

His right to the office has not, however, been questioned by any legal proceedings, and the military acted upon army orders alone, and not in pursuance of the judgment of any court. The Chancery Court was in session in a room adjacent to the sheriff's office, and Major Head reported his action to Chancellor Hill, the Republican chancellor, who, on the opening of his court two weeks ago, adjourned until to-day, in order to determine what course he would take in reference to the sheriffalty, and by whom the action of the military was countenanced and seemingly approved.

Sheriff Flanagan also reported the facts to him, and appealed to the court to protect him in the discharge of his duties, but was refused. The members of the bar present protest against the court's allowing and apparently approving military interference with its affairs, in violation of all law and destructive of civil government.

The chancellor appointed as sheriff pro tem. W. H. McGhee, a white Republican, who was deputy to the late negro Sheriff Crosby, and he was placed in possession of the office by Major Head and his soldiers. It is understood that orders to do this business were sent to Major Head by Governor Ames on Saturday, but the former refused to obey until required to do so by orders direct from General Emory.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Secretary of War sent to the House to-day the report of the board of engineers appointed to prepare plans and estimates for the deepening of one or more of the natural outlets of the Mississippi river, and also for a canal from the river to the gulf.

After a thorough examination of the entire subject, they say there is no doubt a designated point of South Pass would be best, as it would give an unobstructed water way to commerce in place of a narrow and obstructed one. If the question of cost and maintenance be considered, there is for the St. Philip canal the estimated sum of $11,514,200; against $7,942,110 for the pass. While the board are of the opinion the canal can be built at the estimated cost, they recommend the South Pass of the Mississippi be improved by the plan which they submit.

They further recommend that if Congress decides to open up the passes of the river, the entire sum necessary to accomplish the work be appropriated at once, or in some way be made available. If the mouth of the river is to be improved by jetties, the work, when begun, should be pushed as rapidly as possible to its entire completion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The following is a verbal abstract of the President's speech to the committee headed by Alcorn, regarding the saving of the alluvial lands of the Mississippi valley: He had not received the report; would give it careful consideration; he was kindly disposed toward assisting in rebuilding the material prosperity of the South; regretted that the people of Shreveport should be disposed to lawlessness so soon after they had been relieved by the bounty of the government during yellow fever, and thought they would get less sympathy in Congress.

The Democrats have reconsidered their resolution to take no part in the new committee to investigate the Louisiana affair. Judge Marshall leaves to-night. The sub-committee will consist of four. Pinchback will undoubtedly be seated after a more prolonged contest than that which will oust him. Pardee's defeat seems conceded. The Chronicle says: "As already stated, there exists so much dissatisfaction with the manner in which the Foster sub-committee acquitted themselves in the late investigation that it was resolved that the remaining members of the committee shall continue the investigation."

In consonance with this design, Messrs. Hoar, Frye and Wheeler left for New Orleans yesterday to pursue the inquiry. It is the intention of these gentlemen to examine personally those sections afflicted with the League, and not rest content in New Orleans with the assertions of the representative Democrats that no such organizations existed for harmful purpose.

Since the astonishing report of the sub-committee was printed the Republican members have received numerous telegrams expressing surprise at the tenor of the document, denying its statements that no outrages are committed. Of course the Foster sub-committee declined to return to New Orleans.

HOW TO GUIDE.—Dr. Payson, says the Watchman and Reflector, was a master in Israel. His method of dealing with the awakened may aid other spiritual guides. He would have such act as fellow-workers with the divine Spirit; insist principally on those truths of which he first convinces them, and endeavor to bring them to the same point to which he aims to bring them, viz.: to complete self-despair, and thus to hope in Christ. He says:

"I therefore aim, in the first place, to increase their convictions of sin, especially of the great damning sin of unbelief. If they ask, What shall we do? I never dare give them any other answer than that given by Christ and his apostles: 'Repent and believe the gospel.' I insist much on the character of God, the strictness, extent and spirituality of his law; the various artifices, deceptions and excuses of the heart; the false hopes of sinners and hypocrites, the nature of true and false conversion, and the great danger of being deceived. I also frequently warn them of the dreadful consequences of delaying repentance, grieving the Spirit, losing their convictions, or resting on false hopes, like the stony-ground hearers. I labor to convince them that all the difficulties which oppose their salvation lie in their own hearts; that Christ is willing to save them, but they are unwilling to be saved in his way, and are therefore without excuse. This is a very important point. I have seen none go back who appeared to be truly convinced of this. In addition to this, I say much of the glory, beauty and sufficiency of Christ, and of the perfect freeness of the blessings which he offers, and endeavor to show them the horrid pride, ingratitude, etc., of neglecting to accept of them. These are some of the principal subjects on which I preach to inquirers."

UNQUIETNESS is the greatest evil that can come to the soul excepting sin. For as seditions and civil discords of a commonwealth ruin it entirely, and disable it to resist a stranger, so our heart, being troubled and disquieted in itself, loseth strength to maintain the virtues which it had gained.

Nine Weeks in Gilead.

We have more than once told our readers of the rich field of discovery awaiting explorers on the east of the Jordan. We have told them something of the work begun in that region by the American Palestine Exploration Society, and of the first fruits of its labors in the survey of the region about Mounts Nebo and Pisgah, the detailed report of which is now in press.

Another expedition, conducted this last summer by Prof. J. H. Paine, of this society, appears to have produced larger results in the identification of Bible sites than any other since Dr. Robinson's first journey through Palestine. With as small a party as possible, comprising only an interpreter, a cook and three muleteers, and avoiding with the utmost care all display, Prof. Paine spent nine weeks going forward and backward over the whole land of Gilead, a region almost utterly unvisited by previous travelers, examining every point of any possible archeological interest. It was not an easy trip nor a safe one, and more than once was the explorer's life in imminent danger from the Arabs, who were quite unfriendly; but the numerous places of interest to be searched for made it worth while to run considerable risk of life.

This is not the place to give a complete account of the discoveries made, and, indeed, Prof. Paine, who has just returned to this country, will require two months to prepare a full report. But we may anticipate his report so far as to indicate a portion of his results.

The main summit of Mount Gilead itself, called Jaila, he carefully examined, and found on it scattered remains of the old cypress forest, which he was told had been finally destroyed within a few years by those who had cut down the trees for the purpose of distilling from the wood in the form of a tar the resin which exudes in great abundance from it. He found remains of the kilns that were used for this purpose. This tar or resin is used as a salve or ointment, mainly for cattle, and is with little doubt the Balm of Gilead. Ashteroth-Karnaim, or Ashteroth of the two peaks, where the Rephaim dwelt in the time of Chedorlaomer, is identified on the eastern border of Gilead with extensive ruins of immense basaltic blocks on a double ridge called El Birah, in front of which lies the plain of Asherah, as that portion of the Zerqa bottom is called. In the vicinity of Mount Gilead, Mizpeh of Jephthah and Mizpeh of Gilead, Pella (Dahama) may be added.

The Jabbok river Prof. Paine fails to identify, as other writers have done, with the Zerqa, as there is nothing in the region to correspond with Mahanaim, Betonim and Penuel. He therefore was compelled to identify it with the Wady Yabis, about thirteen miles further north. On a tributary of the Yabis, in its upper portion, was found a ruin, Mahana, corresponding in name and position to Mahanaim. Tishbi, the home of Elijah, appears to be Listib, overhung by a monastery, which bears the name of Mar Elyas, St. Elijah. An old Roman road from Mahana goes northwestward to the only ford of the Yabis along the way taken by Jacob after Laban had left him and when he went to meet his brother Esau. A short distance across the ford Kefre-Abil must be the Penuel that Jacob reached at sunrise, after wrestling with the angel. The Seir of the narrative, to which Jacob sent to find Esau, can hardly be Mount Seir, and may have been in the vicinity of the ruin Khirbet Sir, within sight of Penuel. We might also mention that Tabbaqat Fahil (Robinson's suggested Pella) is probably Succoth; Qurqama is Karkor; Mahathah is Abel Meholah; Taibeth is Debir; Tuba is Tabbah; that Shabeh is Shaveh or the King's Dale; and that Afena is Rafena of the Decapolis. Among the places identified south of Gilead may be mentioned Jazer (Yajuz) and Jogbehah (Jubaihah.) Including sites mentioned in the Bible, the Apocrypha and Josephus, about forty places in all have been identified more or less certainly, making a brilliant contribution to sacred archeology.—Independent.

THE PASTOR'S WIFE.—Let your pastor's wife alone. Do not make her the subject of criticism. Find no fault if she does not work in the Sunday school, or does not spend all her afternoons in visiting the families of the parish. Do not forget that she has household cares that are as important to her as yours are to you; that the interests of her family demand her presence at home, and that if these home interests prevent her from doing work as a Sunday school teacher, it is very unjust as well as unkind to sit in judgment against her. As to her visiting, she is not your pastor, but your pastor's help and companion. His interests, and the family interests, and the wife's personal interests are to govern the use of time, and not the exorbitant demands of the parish. Her duties are responsible and arduous. Visit her to cheer and comfort her, not to criticise her. And, when she visits you, treat her with such confidence and kindness as will secure for yourselves a place in her heart of hearts, and will bring down blessings upon your own soul.—New York Observer.

THE slightest sorrow for sin is sufficient if it produce amendment—the greatest is insufficient if it do not.

Letter from Oregon.

CORVALLIS, OREGON, Dec. 31, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: I have just returned home—been absent nearly a week. Our beautiful new church at Harrisburg was dedicated last Sunday. We protracted several days and nights, with several additions to the church and quite an awakening among the people. Harrisburg is a town of five or six hundred inhabitants, on the Willamette, twenty-three miles above here, and on the Oregon and California railroad. It is a place of considerable importance as a grain-shipping point, possessing, as it does, river and railroad advantages. Two or three of us conceived the idea of building a church at that point. It soon grew into a determination. It was made a matter of prayer and effort, and the result is that we have a beautiful church-house all complete, inside and out. I think it is one of the prettiest churches I have seen in the valley. We raised enough last Sunday to liquidate the balance owing on it. Thank God! I take courage. Another house for the Lord! Sunday was a heyday with us.

Harrisburg is on the Brownsville circuit—Bro. Bradley's. That circuit has had no pastor for about eighteen months. Bro. Bradley now has a neat church, unencumbered, at this most important point on his circuit. Bro. Bradley was not present at the dedication (I understand he had a sick child,) nor have I met him since his arrival. I hear, however, that he is pleased and pleasing. May it be a year of great ingathering!

I have passed through Bro. Skipworth's work, and had the pleasure of spending a few delightful hours with him and his excellent family. He is addressing himself earnestly to his work. Would like to have a few more such brethren as these for this work. I have two or three places unsupplied yet, and east and north of Willamette valley there is a vast field waving, ready for the reaper.

Our winter is very mild thus far. No snow in the valley. The distant mountains that skirt the horizon are mantled in white. Our country is enjoying peace and plenty—the greatest abundance everywhere. How my heart is pained at your continued troubles and suffering. How long, O how long? God bless you all. Remember me in Christian affection to all the brethren. I have but little time to write.

Affectionately in Christ,

T. B. WHITE.

Southern University, Greensboro, Alabama.

MR. EDITOR: Our portion of Alabama has been very much depressed for a few years past by reason of repeated failures in crops and the evils of Radical oppression. Our people are more hopeful since the election, and we believe that better times are coming, both for Church and State. The Southern University, located at this place, is feeling the pressure of the times, but it is still doing a noble work for the church. We have about seventy pupils, among whom are about fifteen young men preparing for the ministry. The young men have made an arrangement for boarding themselves in the college building, by which they are able to reduce the expense for meals, lights, fires and washing to about $10 per month. The plan which they have adopted is this: They select one of their number to manage the whole thing, for which service he receives his board. The rest have no more trouble than if they were at a regular boarding-house. All that they have to do is to report when the bell announces that the meals are ready. This is decidedly the most popular boarding-house in town. Twenty-five are now living in this way, and everything moves on with the order and propriety of a well-regulated family. The young men meet once a day for family worship, which service is conducted by one of their own number. This is in addition to the regular exercises of public worship, which are held every day in the chapel by one of the professors. The accommodations in this department are limited, but there is still room for six or eight more.

Our institution is a necessity to the church in Alabama; and we can live through these hard times if the Methodist people of our neighboring Conferences will aid us by their patronage. Brethren, will you help us?

Very truly yours,

JOHN S. MOORE.

GREENSBORO, ALA., Jan. 1, 1875.

THE new oath of office is now to be taken by every person in New Jersey who has been elected to any official position. It is remarkable for reading thus:

"And I do further solemnly swear that I have not directly or indirectly paid, offered or promised to pay, contributed or offered or promised to contribute, any money or other valuable thing as a consideration or reward for the giving or withholding a vote at the election at which I was elected to said office, and have not made any promise to influence the giving or withholding any such vote."

In some States the necessity of taking such an oath as this would leave a great many places without men to fill them.

MR. EDITOR: Since the session of the North Mississippi Conference I have been changed by Bishop Doggett, and stationed at Water Valley. All communications sent to me will be directed to this place.

Fraternally, S. M. THAMES.

Northwest Texas Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I find distance and time does not cut the cord of affection for the dear NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Eight years ago to-day I cut cable and took shipping from dear old Mississippi, the home of my youth, the abiding-place of all my relatives, most of my friends, and the final resting-place of the loved ones cold and dead; for in this far-off sunset land your paper, like the face of a dear old father full of smiles, gladdens our family circle weekly with hands full of letters from old friends fondly remembered by us. Your paper is gaining ground all over Texas, and it holds all it gains.

My heart leaps with joy as I see the young men of the two Mississippi Conferences growing up to full manhood, while the older ones maintain the ground long since gained. I can but rejoice in the hope that they live together as fond fathers and loving sons. When I left Mississippi I supposed that such men as Revs. H. F. Johnson and C. G. Andrews were well-nigh grown; but they have gone on to the highest places your Conference holds educationally, and are filling them with credit to themselves and honor to our church. As representative men from your Conference to the General Conference they did their part well.

Well, I am about to forget that I am in Texas, and that I sat down to talk about Texas.

We have five Conferences in the State. Ours is but eight years old. I transferred from the Texas to this at the close of the first year of its existence. We then had about thirty preachers; now about one hundred. Numerically we are the strongest in the State. Our territory continues to open up to us. The organization of this Conference was the pebble thrown into the sea, that produced the wave that shall lash the shores of California's golden sands, and the empire of papal Mexico, which is just now beginning to bud, and must soon blossom as the rose. Educationally we have gone a little ahead of caution, at least in some instances. While I write I feel more like weeping over lost ground than writing of some of our misfortunes.

The greater part of Texas was blessed, this year, with good crops, yet finances are hard, very hard. Corn is brought to market in our town and sold, when purchasers can be found, at fifty cents per bushel; flour at $4 per hundred; pork $7 and $8 per hundred. Horses, such as I have sold in Mississippi for from $100 to $150, are sold at from $30 to $50. Railroads are filling our lands, while emigration is pouring in from every quarter by thousands. Our political status is good. O how I weep for downtrodden Mississippi.

Our Conference is over. It convened at Weatherford, in my district. Ours was a delightful session. I am returned again to the same district, this being my third year. I am looking for a glorious year. The preachers have all entered upon their work in fine spirits, and I trust fully consecrated to their work. In looking over the field in my district I find myself surrounded with the following brethren from Mississippi: Revs. William Price, J. N. Reeves, M. D. Fly, A. K. Miller, S. D. Akin, J. J. Shirley and John Powell, all of whom are in the prime of life except Bro. Powell, who occupies the place of a supernumerary. We built several new churches last year, and are hopeful of several this year. We greatly need and are building some parsonages.

We received quite a number of transfers this year, and I think some fine material. We are working hard and living on short rations, believing that night is passing away and daylight is dawning upon us, and with its coming shall be a glorious day, with brilliant sun. I intend, if time and circumstances justify, to write again.

My address will remain, for the present, Waxahachie, Texas—lock box 119. T. W. HINES.

DECEMBER 27, 1874.

DEATH OF PROF. TISCHENDORFF. The great critic of the biblical text, Herr von Tischendorff, the professor of theology at Leipsic University, has recently died in his fifty-ninth year. Few men have done so much for the investigation and collection of manuscripts, and the comparison of readings as he, though his theories have been severely canvassed. It was he who discovered the Codex Sinaiticus, which he regarded as an older manuscript than that of the Vatican. From his early youth he took an interest in the subject, the pursuit of which afterward became a passion with him. He had made himself so well known as a biblical critic that in his twenty-ninth year he was sent out by the Saxon government to travel in search of manuscripts. He went through Egypt, Syria and Asia Minor, and came back laden with precious vellums. By their aid he has published several volumes giving the text of the New Testament. Some time ago he undertook to examine the English Bible, and to compare it with the three oldest manuscripts—the Alexandrine, which is in the British Museum, the Codex Vaticanus, under the papal key at Rome, and the Sinaitic, which he himself discovered. His work is now given to us in the most complete form by one of the Tauchnitz publications.—The Churchman.

AFFLICTIONS may buzz and hum about the believer, like bees that have lost their sting, but they can never hurt him.

How the Preacher was Received.

MR. EDITOR: Cacoethes scribendi is not a constitutional weakness with me, nor have I brought it on by long indulgence in the habit of scribbling. But suppose, Mr. Editor, you had been returned to the same charge, and should drive up, with your family, to the parsonage after a ride of thirty miles through the rain, and should find fires lighted in all the rooms, a warm supper prepared, and kindly smiles and cheerful voices to bid you welcome; and suppose, after an hour or two, other friends should drop in, each one bringing some token of kindly regard; and suppose that in the verdancy of a new and untried experience you had signally failed to meet the demands of the occasion in your expression of appreciation; then suppose that your people, in addition to their other recommendations, added this also: that they were friends and subscribers to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE—I ask you, sir, if you would not obey the impulse which prompted you to avail yourself of its columns as a medium for the communication of your grateful acknowledgments? That is just how it was with me, and I therefore ask a little space. We came across from Pollard through the rain, and when, late in the afternoon, we came in sight of the parsonage it looked home-like and comfortable to see smoke curling up from the chimneys. It was pleasant to be met at the gate by a group of ladies, and to be invited in to a cheerful fire and a warm supper. Then after ten other friends dropped in, and each one deposited in the hall some article, useful or ornamental, and we spent a delightful evening. It is no small relief to a preacher's pocket to find a month's supply of wood piled in his yard, the pantry stocked with needful supplies, and various additions made to his family wardrobe. But the intrinsic value of these things is slight when compared with that which they possess as evidences of a generous sympathy in the donors.

I begin the work of the new year with renewed strength and courage, and with the earnest prayer that the year may close as profitably as it was pleasantly begun. My reception will always be a bright spot in my experience, upon which Memory, in her flights over the past, will love to rest. I would stop just here, but for the possibility that some of your readers might construe this generous welcome on the part of Milton's people into a tribute of hush-money paid to conscience for past delinquencies in collections. To prevent such a mistake, I will just remark that Milton doesn't get behind. Last year was the hardest we have had since the war, yet she came up to the last cent of her assessments. We have a "live" board of stewards over here, and the religion of the people reaches the pocket. But I will trespass no further on your space. Pray for us, that God may grant us an outpouring of his Spirit and a revival of his work.

J. O. ANDREW.

MILTON, FLA., January 8, 1875.

HISTORY OF THE ROMAN CHURCH. Apostasy is like the descent of heavy bodies—it proceeds with ever-accelerating velocity. First, lamps were lighted at the tombs of the martyrs; next, the supper was celebrated beside their graves; next, prayers were offered for them and to them; next, paintings and images began to disfigure the walls, and corpses to pollute the floors of the churches. Baptism, which apostles required water only to dispense, could not be celebrated without white robes and chrism, milk, honey and salt. Then came a crowd of church officers, whose names and numbers are in striking contrast to the few and simple orders of men who were employed in the first propagation of Christianity. There were sub-deacons, acolytes, exorcists, readers, choristers and porters; and, as work must be found for this motley host of laborers, there came to be fasts and exorcisms; there were lamps to be lighted, altars to be arranged and churches to be consecrated; there was the eucharist to be carried to the dying; and there were the dead to be buried, for which a special order of men were set apart. When one looked back to the simplicity of early times, it could not but amaze him to think what a cumbrous array of curious machinery and costly furniture was now needed for the service of Christianity. Not more stinging than true was the remark that "when the church had golden chalices she had wooden priests."—Cassell's History of Protestantism.

THE POPULATION OF CHINA.—Abbe David, who has recently devoted some years to the exploration of Chinese territory and the study of the people, says that the estimate of statisticians that the total population of the Chinese empire is but 100,000,000 souls is entirely incorrect. The error is due to the terrible ravages made in certain small political divisions, which have rebelled at times, and in which wholesale massacres have reduced the inhabitants to one-half and in some cases one-fifth their former numerical strength. The province of Kiangsi is, however, the least populated, and the average of each canton therein is 4,000 people. There are 4,315 cantons, making an approximate total of 17,380,000 inhabitants. Among the 18 provinces of the empire, it is certain that several largely exceed Kiangsi in population; but taking the above given aggregate as a unit, there must be at least 300,000,000 individuals in the country.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1875.

HE DIED FOR ME.

After Dr. Bethune's death the following beautiful hymn, which was evidently written only the day previous, was found in his portfolio. Its devout simplicity and exquisite tenderness give it a fitting place beside such as Toplady's "Rock of Ages" and Charles Wesley's "Jesus, lover of my soul."

When the time seems short, and death is near,
And I am pressed by doubt and fear,
And sins, an overflowing tide,
Assail my peace on every side,
This thought my refuge still shall be:
I know my Savior died for me.

His name is Jesus, and he died—
For guilty sinners crucified;
Content to die, that he might win
Their ransom from the death of sin.
No sinner worse than I can be;
Therefore I know he died for me.

If grace were bought, I could not buy;
If grace were coined, no wealth have I;
By grace alone I draw my breath,
Held up from everlasting death.
Yet since I know his grace is free,
I know the Savior died for me.

I read God's holy word, and find
Great truths which far transcend my mind;
And still do I know beside
Of thought so high and deep and wide.
This is my best theology:
I know the Savior died for me.

My faith is weak, but 'tis thy gift;
Then canst my helpless soul uplift
And say: "Thy bonds of death are riven,
Thy sins by love are all forgiven,
And thou shalt live, from guilt set free,
For I, thy Savior, died for thee."

A Capital Book.

THE INTERIOR LIFE, BY UPHAM.

Consecration—Necessity, Extent, Duration.—Without a full consecration of ourselves to God we cannot hope to make very great advancement in the divine life; and our author very emphatically remarks that this consecration must be made deliberately. There must be calm reflection—we must be fully aware of the solemnity and importance of the act, and thoughtfully, and yet not without emotion, we are to devote our all to God.

This consecration must be for all coming time. God's claims upon us can never be less than they now are. His benefactions are bounteous and continuous. Our weight of obligation to him is ever increasing, and there is every reason why we should give ourselves to him forever. Any purpose to withdraw, at any future time, any portion of that which is now surrendered, must be fatal to the success of the offering. What if your child should cherish a secret purpose not to love you, at some time yet to come, as he now loves you? Would he be a good subject who should foster the intention of belug, to some extent, disobedient in years to come?

This consecration must be complete—altogether without reserve. It must include both body and soul, our possessions as well as our persons, all we are and all we have, all we can do and all we can suffer. It is not sufficient to give up much; we must give up all. Doing this, we know that God will give us back, or rather will allow us to retain and use for our subsistence and comfort, all that is needful, we holding it and using it in strict subordination to his will.

Finally, the consecration must be made in reliance upon divine strength. We must recognize, on the one hand, our own utter insufficiency, and at the same time our heavenly Father's willingness and ability to give us all the aid we need.

Such a consecration necessarily brings us into the most intimate and delightful relationship with God. The conditions necessary to secure the unrestrained love of our heavenly Father—his full and constant aid and guidance—are now completely met, and he will assuredly pour out upon this soul, so dedicated to him, the "riches of his grace." It is recommended that this consecration be definite in express words, and many pious divines have recommended that it be made in writing.

Our author gives the form of consecration adopted and written out by Dr. Doddridge. It covers two pages of the book, and is entirely in accordance with the directions contained in the foregoing paragraphs. It is a noble chapter in the biography of a good man.

In chapter 5 our author treats particularly of appropriating faith. He distinguishes this from a merely historical belief in the fact that such a being as Jesus Christ once lived upon the earth, and that he died for sinners. A faith of this kind is dead. Living, saving faith is that which can speak in the first person—that which can say: "I have sinned; I have need of this salvation; Christ died for me; I accept him as my Savior." It was thus that the patriarchs, prophets and apostles believed. Hear the psalmist: "I will love thee, O Lord, my strength. The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower."

In the Lord's Prayer it is said: "Our Father." It is in connection with this personal, appropriating, realizing faith that complete victory is gained over sin, and the interior life promoted. Luther has remarked that the marrow of the gospel is to be found in the meum and nostrum as they refer to Christ—my and our.

Dr. Upham says: "Faith is better to us, far better, than mere intellectual illumination; better than any strength of joyous emotion; better than anything and everything else, except holy love, of which it is the true parent." It was their failure to maintain perfect confidence in God—complete reliance upon him—that caused the angels who kept not their first estate to fall, and which, through our first parents, "brought death into the world and all our woe." "On the other hand, an implicit confidence in God—a perfect self-abandonment into his hands—ever has been and ever must be the fountain of all other internal good, the life of all other life in the soul."

In the same spirit of reliance on God, says Dr. Upham, we must also believe that all is accepted. "What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." "And this is the confidence we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us." "And if we know that he heareth us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him"—that is, in consecrating ourselves to God, and in praying sincerely that he will accept the offering, we may be certain he does hear and accept us—that he does grant to us all that we ask, we believing and doubting not.

After a general description of saving faith, the author speaks of the faith of acceptance, which should always follow the act of consecration. It is not enough that we offer all—we must believe that all is accepted. Here the quotations already made are in point, such as: "This is the confidence we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us." Consecrating ourselves fully to God, and praying for those things which we know to be agreeable to his will, such as our sanctification and those Christian graces which it implies, we may be certain that they will be given to us, and that they are now given to us. If we have no doubt in his word. The certainty of the result, when the condition on which it depends is fulfilled, involves the veracity of God. We rest upon his everlasting truth by a specific act of faith, without which the desired blessings cannot be bestowed. Without this faith there is of necessity a separation between him and our souls—the promises are made with the direct requirement of implicit faith. "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe in his name." Exercising this faith, we feel the purifying energy of the Holy Ghost; our contests and strivings end in glorious victory, and our triumph will continue to be complete so long as our faith is unshaken.

From the foregoing it is inferred that no great mental excitement, no long period of sighing and lamentation, is an essential prerequisite to entire sanctification. We are simply to lay all upon God's altar, and believe that he accepts the offering. How true are the words of Jesus: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The general principle here developed is, of course, applicable in particular cases. For example, if I need especial wisdom and prudence appropriate to a particularly trying crisis, I must ask God for it, just as I did when I sought to be made holy. Here we are to have no disposition to make new terms with God—we are to ask no sign or visible manifestation, no audible voice. None of these should be desired "as a prop for our faith." It must rest upon the word of God alone. The Scriptures are exceedingly emphatic in the statement that the life of God in the soul must be a life of simple faith. Let there be really no failure in the consecration and the faith, and, in accordance with the uniform experience of believers, there will be no failure in God to answer our prayers.

A. G. STACY.

AUSTIN FEMALE COLLEGE, Austin, Texas.

Observance of the Sabbath.—No. II.

3. I have already shown that this law is contained in both revelation and nature. It may also be recognized in providence. God often declares his will by special providences. When men will not be instructed by the word, or yield to the manifest laws of nature, the rod of providence is often resorted to, that they may thus be schooled to obedience.

It is not less reasonable that this should be done in reference to the Sabbath law than to any other. Many instances are on record of the profitlessness of Sabbath labor. God does not send the blight and the mildew merely to afflict, but for correction and reproof. He has promised mercies to the obedient, and when we do not experience these we may know that his law has been disregarded. How often now may God reply to our murmurings under our calamities: "Ye have not kept my Sabbaths."

4. Finally, we have a reason for the obligation of the Sabbath in the moral effects of its observance. The atmosphere of the Sabbath is holy where it is properly observed. The exchange of the working dress for one more cleanly has its moral benefits. It is a time of repose, and freedom from those sordid influences which the constant labor and push of life involve. It is a time for turning the thoughts inward in inquiry after the welfare of the soul, and for moral cultivation—by reading and meditation. But, above all, it is a time of public worship, when we are brought within range of the sanctifying influences of the sanctuary. Of course all these influences may fail of the designed effect, but that will be the fault of the individual, and not of the means furnished. God designed the Sabbath to be a moral institution. Its original intention, as is declared, was that it should be "a sign" between God and man, that the latter might know that God is the Lord who doth sanctify him. It was for the sanctification of man's nature that its observance was ordered. And we have seen how this is effected. Its willful neglect may be as positive indication of a vicious life as any other violation of the divine law. Men cannot trample upon God's laws with impunity. What he has commanded is best. A man becomes vicious as soon as he begins to transgress; and, breaking the law in one point, he becomes guilty of the whole.

One or two thoughts as to the manner of observing the Sabbath, and I will close.

1. It should be observed as a day of rest. "Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates." This entire precept is yet in force. We are not responsible for carrying out the details of it which were peculiar to the Jewish theocracy, because they are not applicable to the Christian system. But its spirit must be obeyed. Customary pursuits must not be followed; no work should be done, by either man or beast, that is not absolutely required for either physical or moral welfare. Excuses are often made for Sabbath-breaking when none exist. This making it "fit" right to break the Sabbath is as culpable as any other kind of wrong doing. It is a shame "that the only day which God has reserved to himself should be grudged to him, and trenched upon by every petty excuse of convenience, interest or sloth, and pared down, and negotiated for, in the spirit of one who seeks to overreach another."

2. The Sabbath should also be a day sanctified to holy uses. Nothing of an ordinary business character should occupy us on that day except what is indispensable. Even works of charity are to be placed in this category. They are to be performed on the Sabbath, like other common duties, only when they require immediate attention. Such worldly amusements as visiting, reading irreligious books, and playing innocent games, are wrong, because they trench upon those duties that are positively required, and produce in us a spirit out of accord with the sanctity of the day. The day must be employed in spiritual exercises. Private and public devotions, self-examination, and the use of all means for moral and religious cultivation, are the duties appropriate to the Sabbath. Thus, while there is no abuse of the time, there is no waste of it. Nor need this order of observance be gloomy. Real sanctity is anything else but gloomy. It is life and cheerfulness. Such the Sabbath was intended to foster. It is to be a day of spiritual feasting. It should be a day when every beast is sunny, because on it the "Sun of Righteousness" arose from the night of death.

M.

Saving Faith.—What Is It?

MR. EDITOR: I cannot receive the Christian faith of "Veritas" as the gospel standard of saving faith. And why? Because it lacks the essential element of saving faith—namely, the witness of the Holy Spirit. Without this witness there is no genuine saving faith that saves a man from his sins. The faith of "Veritas" has not this witness, and therefore it is not genuine saving faith. And this we will prove by his own Christian experience, published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, to the church and to the world, in July, 1874.

Well, now for the proof. Here it is, in his own words: 1. We will give his faith. "He knew that he believed God. He took him at his word," and "trusted in his bare word for salvation." And, "believing this in our heart, we must believe that we are justified." What? Believe we are justified without the witness of the Holy Spirit? Yes; God "absolutely requires only that amount of faith which will induce man to take his bare word, and rely implicitly upon his promises as those of a kind father, independent of any peculiar manifestation or feeling." His faith is independent of any peculiar manifestation or feeling of the Holy Spirit, for he says: "We are saved by faith, not by feeling." As if a living faith had no feeling! A dead faith without the Holy Spirit has no peculiar manifestation or feeling, but a living faith has both—a peculiar manifestation of God's power to save, and of his love shed abroad in the soul, by the Holy Ghost, given to the man that exercises it; and this produces a happy feeling which the dead faith of the world knows nothing of.

Again, he says: All "a poor sin-burdened and doubting soul" has to do is "to believe that he has only to take Christ at his word, and rely implicitly upon what he says, and he is saved." This I did long before I was converted to God, and it did not save me from my sins. Neither can this degree of faith save any man or woman on earth from their sins. It may convert an infidel to Christianity or a pagan to Christianity, but it cannot save from sin.

2. We will give the effects his faith produced in his own soul when he believed he was justified. After stating his Christian experience, and the faith by which he was justified, he asks the following questions: "Now how were we affected by this? Did we have any particular ebullition of feeling? Not at all. Did we have that peace that floweth like a river? We had not. We think we hear some good brother say: 'Well, what on earth did you have?' We had this: We felt satisfied that we had surmounted the difficulty that had troubled us so long. We knew that we believed God." It seems that the difficulty that troubled "Veritas" so long was his infidelity, and, if so, his faith converted him from his infidelity to Christianity, just like the faith of the nobleman at Capernaum saved him from heathenism, for they are parallel cases. The former was saved from infidelity, the latter from idolatry. This is all their faith did for them; and yet "Veritas" would have the church and the whole world believe that their faith is the true gospel standard of saving faith, and that all higher degrees of faith enjoyed by Christians are exceptions to this general rule of saving faith. This is true. They are exceptions in this way: they know their sins forgiven; but "Veritas" did not; they have the witness of the Spirit of God, bearing witness with their spirit that they are the children of God and heirs of heaven, but "Veritas" had no such evidence; he only knew that he was converted from infidelity to Christianity. This gospel standard of saving faith set up by "Veritas" will do very well for pagans and infidels to pattern after, but it will not do for Christians "saved by grace through faith," because they have experienced more in their own souls than "Veritas" speaks of, or his faith and Christian experience know. They have "the love of God shed abroad in their souls by the Holy Ghost given unto them." But there is no Holy Ghost in the Christian experience of "Veritas," no knowledge of sins forgiven, no spiritual birth, no witness of God's Spirit, no fruits of the Spirit—love, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost—no "peace that floweth like a river," no "particular ebullition of feeling." And hence it is very certain that such Christians as these, who enjoy saving, Holy Ghost religion, will never give up their religion for a religion that has no feeling nor Holy Ghost in it. A penitent sinner would not give one cent for a kind of religion that had no feeling in it.

These articles written by "Veritas" will cause all true Christians that read them to believe that "Veritas" is as ignorant of the spiritual birth as Nicodemus was when he came to our Lord by night; and they may do much harm by making the sinner believe that because he believes the Bible he is justified by faith, when he is not, and cause him to lose his soul. It seems that "Veritas" believes in a religion that produces no religious excitement. I do not want such religion as that. I would not have it if a man could give it to me, for it is dead and worthless. The world can have its excitement, the flesh can have its excitement, and the devil has his excitement, but the religion of Jesus Christ must have no excitement. I am sorry to see so many of our own church advocating the absurd doctrine that religion has no feeling; and hence a man can get religion and not know it, for religion has no feeling. When the Methodist Church loses all her religious feeling she will be filled with something that has feeling—namely, the world, the flesh and the devil.

JAMES SHANKS.

An Indexed Bible.

MR. EDITOR: A short time ago I overheard a child at Sunday school ask a teacher where she could find the story of Dives and Lazarus. The teacher took her Bible and began a search for the passage, which occupied probably a quarter of an hour.

If this had occurred under other circumstances it would not have attracted attention. As it was, however, it set me thinking; for the teacher was an educated man, a member of the church and a reader of the Scriptures.

Why are not our Bibles—the New Testament at least—indexed? If one familiar with the Scriptures and educated under Christian influences has so much difficulty in finding a particular passage, what must not be the condition of those to whom the Bible is comparatively new and strange?

The concordance will not do for the ordinary reader. If all were as well acquainted with Scripture as they ought to be, of course there could be no need of either index or concordance. But people generally do not take time, if they have the inclination, to become thoroughly versed in the Bible. It strikes me that much of the monotony of family prayer might be avoided by the publication of such a book as I have mentioned. Among the greatest bores of my childhood was having to sit stiff and quiet while some visiting brother searched for his tardy chapter and read its unheeded lesson to children who were too tired to listen to anything but the amen.

Moreover, many poor people have not the means to purchase a concordance. Many, indeed, do not know that there is such a thing; many more would not know how to use one if they had it. And these are the people to whom the Bible is emphatically the book—often the only book, except an almanac, that they have.

To the laboring man an Indexed Bible would be truly a Godsend. Occasionally one of this class may be found who has an extraordinary memory for names and places. Such an one may get on very well in the old way. But the average day-laborer, who wishes to keep up family worship, who comes in at night tired from work, will too often take the first chapter he turns to and read probably a vision of Ezekiel or a song of Solomon to a family that is hungry for that true word of life that only the Master knew how to speak for all men and for every day.

I might mention other classes to whom an Indexed Bible would be truly a blessing, and whom it might encourage to a more constant reading of the Scriptures; but I forbear. If to the index could be added a harmony, simple, short, suggestive, the necessity would be more fully met.

Is there such a Bible? If not, cannot our Publishing House supply this need? Not for my asking, perhaps; but will not you, Mr. Editor, and others who are known, suggest this matter to the powers at Nashville? I am sure I have not overrated its importance.

PIERRE.

THE MEASURE OF A NATION'S CULTURE.—In no way can the intellectual status of a nation be more justly estimated than by indicating the extent of certain industries. Hence it is that the American reader will find in the following statistical statement of the state of the paper trade of the world, and the relative extent of the demand for it, a just cause for congratulation. Throughout the world there are 3,960 paper manufactories, employing 80,000 men, 180,000 women, besides 100,000 persons employed in procuring rags or growing plants. The annual production is 1,809,000,000 pounds of paper. One-half of the paper is used by newspaper proprietors and publishers, one-sixth for writing papers, and the rest chiefly for packing purposes. The annual consumption of paper in the so-called civilized nations is computed as follows: United States, 17 pounds per person; Great Britain, 12 pounds; Germany, 8 pounds; France, 7 pounds; Italy, 3½ pounds; Spain, 1½ pounds; Russia, 1 pound.

THERE is a floating idea in the minds of most of us that great perils and great trials work a sort of charmed change in our lives. This is seldom more than a delusion. The lessons of life are, for the most part, slowly learned. The page is often carelessly turned and hurriedly passed by, on which our great Father has written much that he would fain have us study with patient and prayerful earnestness.

John the Baptist and Christ.

To this preaching, to this baptism, in the thirtieth year of his age, came Jesus from Galilee. John was his kinsman by birth, but the circumstances of their life had entirely separated them. John as a child, in the house of the blameless priest, his father, had lived at Juttah, in the far south of the tribe of Judah, and not far from Hebron. Jesus had lived in the deep seclusion of the carpenter shop in the valley of Galilee. When he first came to the banks of the Jordan, the great forerunner, according to his own emphatic and twice-repeated testimony, "knew him not." Though Jesus was not yet revealed as the Messiah to his great herald-prophet, there was something in his look, something in the sinless beauty of his ways, something in the solemn majesty of his aspect, which at once overawed and captivated the soul of John. To others he was the uncompromising prophet; kings he could confront with rebuke; Pharisees he could unmask with indignation; but before this presence all his lofty bearing falls. As when some unknown dread checks the flight of the eagle, and makes him settle with hushed scream and drooping plumage on the ground, so before the purity of sinless life, the wild prophet of the desert becomes like a submissive and timid child. The battle-brunt which legionaries could not daunt—the lofty manhood before which hierarchs trembled and princes grew pale—resigns itself, submits, adores, before moral force which is weak in every external attribute, and armed only in an invisible mail.

John bowed to the simple, stainless manhood before he had been inspired to recognize the divine commission. He earnestly tried to forbid the purposes of Jesus. He who had received the confessions of all others now reverently and humbly makes his own: "I have need to be baptized of thee; and comest thou to me?" The response contains the second recorded utterance of Jesus, and the first word of his public ministry: "Suffer it to be so now, for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."—Farrar's Life of Christ.

Obituaries.

MISS C. V. ADLEY was born in 1849, on Kisatchie, Natchitoches parish, Louisiana; married Mr. James Bush in 1864, and departed this life August 19, 1874. Sister Bush attached herself to the Methodist Episcopal Church South at the age of sixteen, and lived a consistent member until her death. She was taken with a violent attack of fever, which preyed upon her for fifteen days, unyielding to kind treatment, until it could work its purpose. But during her illness she possessed a hope which gives light through the thickest gloom. Her pure spirit was released and wafted to its home in the skies, to greet her little sainted boy, who preceded her but a short time. When I visited her she was shouting praises to God, exhorting her friends to be faithful to Christ and they would receive their reward. Thus died one of the sweetest-spirited women, and one that attracted much admiration and was dearly beloved by all who knew her. She was a faithful Christian, a loving wife and an affectionate mother. May God comfort the mourners and help us to submit to his will.

F. G. H.

DIED, near Magnolia, Mississippi, September 11, 1874, POLLY ANN PREWETT, wife of Harrison Prewett, and daughter of A. J. Vaughn, in the twenty-eighth year of her age. She was brought up under religious influences, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at the age of fifteen, and continued a member until her death. She was married, in 1861, to Mr. Prewett. She had six children; two of them have gone before her, and four remain to mourn her loss. Polly Ann was one of twin sisters who passed their childhood and youth sweetly and pleasantly together, and they resembled each other so much in their youthful days that it was difficult to distinguish them. The surviving sister doubtless feels deeply the sad bereavement. The deceased was kind and gentle in her deportment, and patient and submissive in trials and afflictions. That fatal disease, consumption, preyed upon her for months, but she bore her suffering with Christian fortitude, without complaining and without murmuring. She was resigned to the will of God, and on her death-bed she exhorted her loved ones to meet her in heaven.

J. W. SANDELL.

MARY ELLEN RULEFF was reared in the nurture of a pure hearthstone and of Methodist Christianity. She has just died—on Tuesday, the twenty-ninth ultimo—at the early age of twenty-one years. Her habits, spirit and tastes were ever those of piety. Accustomed in her childhood to the house of God, it was second nature for her in riper years to attend the Sunday school, and the Sunday and week-day services of the church, as regularly as they occurred. She knew the Lord from her earliest youth, and her brief life on earth may be regarded as a mark of his special favor toward her. She lived here just long enough to pass her individual probation, and be saved by faith for personal immortality. It is over and it is well. Her declining health shocked her graces but to stir them for rapid maturity. She learned obedience by the things which she suffered. Her cheerful, unmurmuring trust in God was evident in all my conversations with her.

May the Lord bind up and bless this fresh wound in a family already much scarred by bereavement! They have seen "Chick" depart in peace to be with Jesus.

W. V. TUDOR.

JANUARY 5, 1875.

BURNED TO DEATH, at the residence of N. H. Collins, five miles from Ruyville, Richland parish, Louisiana, on the ninth of December, MINNIE CURRIE PACE. I took little Minnie when only three years old, during the year 1861, thinking to balm my oft-bleeding heart in ministering to an orphan's woes. She was the daily companion and comforter of Mrs. Delia Selser Currie until the last year of her life, when, discovering the existence of a half brother, she accompanied him to his home near Midway, and from thence went to the home of her half sister, Mrs. N. H. Collins, where her sad death was occasioned. The comforter is now comforted; and though I sigh to think of her painful shroud (of flames,) I am rejoiced to know that she cannot longer suffer, and that she may now share the caresses of my own sainted mother; and I pray to imitate her generosity, bravery, patience and charity. Though I have lost a child, I feel that heaven has gained one more! Minnie Currie was in the bloom of health and usefulness, and I trust that I prayerfully celebrate her sixteenth birthday, as I write her obituary on the first day of the new year.

Her mamma,

MRS. DELIA SELSER CURRIE.

BRO. JOSEPH MARTIN departed this life August 24, 1874, at the residence of his son, John Martin, seven miles east of Natchitoches, Natchitoches parish, Louisiana. He was born in Wayne county, North Carolina, in 1805. He emigrated to Burke county, Georgia, in 1823, where he was married. He moved to Louisiana in 1838. In the following year he professed religion and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Bro. Martin manifested great faith in Christ by his long obedience to the office of class-leader, which he filled successively for twenty odd years. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity for twenty years, and also a justice of the peace for eighteen years. Bro. Martin lived a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South for thirty years. He was a kind and affectionate husband, a loving father, a good neighbor and a true friend, with few enemies, but many long-standing friends. His house was a home for the preachers during their stay in his community, and he was ever ready to support the great cause that he professed. His disease was long and tiresome, but he bore it with patience. As he was living near by his church, he would repair there each day for prayer. He remarked that he was waiting the Lord's time, and when the messenger came he calmly and quietly committed himself to the care of Jesus. Such traits as are in the character of Bro. Martin are enough to encourage the loneliest wanderer here. Bro. Martin has joined his sainted wife, who preceded him but a short time to that bright world beyond, shouting back to him as she moved out into the cold stream of death, bidding him to come on, for bright heaven was in view. We greatly mourn our loss, both to the church and the community.

F. G. H.

HENRY T. WILKINSON was born January 6, 1792, and died in Geneva county, Alabama, January 20, 1874, aged eighty-two years and fourteen days.

He was one of the oldest settlers in this part of the State. He was noted for good health and energy. He seemed never to tire. Often he has ridden on horseback from Eufaula to his house in one day—a distance of seventy miles. He has ridden from Montgomery home during the day and a part of the night—a distance of ninety miles. By reason of his great energy and industry he made considerable property, much of which, however, was swept away by the late war. But still he had an ample competency left; and by strict frugality and laudable perseverance he increased this to the day of his death. Perhaps he had not a superior in the State for activity and endurance, for one of his age. He could ride as far and manage business as well when he was eighty-two as when he was forty-two years of age. His death was caused by a young horse falling backward upon him while in the saddle. From this, however, he did not die for several days, and then by pneumonia superinduced.

In the evening of life he professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in which he served faithfully as steward during his last years.

He had all his temporal matters settled up, and was ready at any time, in this respect, for the messenger of death. "When the angel summoned him, on the morn of the twentieth of January, 1874, his lamp was trimmed and burning. He said: 'Do not weep for me. God has called me. I am ready to go.'" He leaves a wife (his third,) two daughters and one son (W. W. Wilkinson, of Greenville, Alabama,) grandchildren and countless friends to mourn his departure. His funeral sermon was preached by his long-tried and faithful old friend, Rev. Zaccheus Dowling, on the second Sabbath in August, 1874.

A. DOWLING.

God is Alpha and Omega in the great world; endeavor to make him so in the little world; make him thy evening epilogue, and thy morning prologue; practice to make him thy last thought at night when thou sleepest, and thy first thought in the morning when thou awakest; so shall thy fancy be sanctified in the night, and thy understanding be rectified in the day. So shall thy rest be peaceful, thy labor prosperous, thy life pious and thy death glorious. Quarles.

AGE AND YOUTH.—The more we sink into the infirmities of age the nearer we are to immortal youth. All people are young in the other world. That state is an eternal spring, ever fresh and flourishing. Now, to pass from midnight into noon on the sudden, to be decrepit one minute, and all spirit and activity the next, must be a most desirable change. To call this dying is an abuse of language.—Theo. Cuyler.

THE London Adventists have just started a paper called the Watchman's Cry; and, though we are told the world is coming to an end in a month, the editor wants everybody's subscription for a year.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1875.

WHEN YOU WERE SEVENTEEN.

When the hay was mown, Maggie,
In the years long ago,
And while the western sky was rich
With sunset's rosy glow,
Then hand in hand close linked we passed
The dewy ricks between,
And I was one-and-twenty, Mag,
And you were seventeen.

Your voice was low and sweet, Maggie,
Your wavy hair was brown,
Your cheek was like the wild red rose
That showered its petals down;
Your eyes were like the blue speedwell,
With dewy moisture sheen,
When I was one and-twenty, Mag,
And you were seventeen.

The spring was in our hearts, Maggie,
And all its hopes were ours;
And we were children in the fields,
Among the opening flowers.
Aye, life was like a summer day
Amid the woodlands green,
For I was one-and-twenty, Mag,
And you were seventeen.

The years have come and gone, Maggie,
With sunshine and with shade,
And silvered is the silken hair
That o'er your shoulders strayed
In many a soft and wayward tress—
The fairest ever seen—
When I was one-and-twenty, Mag,
And you were seventeen.

Though gently changing Time, Maggie,
Has touched you in his flight,
Your voice has still the old sweet tone,
Your eye the old love light;
And years can never, never change
The heart you gave, I ween,
When I was one-and-twenty, Mag,
And you were seventeen.

Hearth and Home.

Schliemann's Discoveries in the Troad.

BY JOHN L. S. PHILLIPS, BALLSTON SPA, NEW YORK.

Of the many excavations made on the sites of ancient cities within the last thirty years in the prosecution of archæological researches, none is more remarkable in its history or results than that which has been carried on at intervals during the past five years in the plain of Troy by Dr. Schliemann, a brief account of which was recently given by Bayard Taylor in the New York Tribune.

A poor German boy, without education, Dr. Schliemann became, through the leadings of Providence and his own vigorous exertions, a wealthy merchant and practically acquainted with several modern languages before reaching middle age. He then retired from business and devoted himself to the study of the Greek language, for which he had always felt an ardent longing. Entering through the door of Modern Greek, he soon became familiar with Homer. Becoming enamored of the grand old poet, he visited Greece, explored the scenes of the Iliad, pitched upon the spot once occupied by Novum Ilium—an important Greek city founded about 700 B. C.—as the site of ancient Ilium (regarding it as the only place which meets the conditions required by the poet,) and with characteristic ardor proceeded to dig for remains.

These he found in abundance. (1) The relics of the Greco-Roman city, which seems to have been destroyed in the time of Constans the Second. At least no coins later than his time were discovered, while many coins of the earlier Roman emperors were found, together with specimens of Greek pottery, sculpture and architecture, marked by the elegance of form and perfection of finish characteristic of that art-loving race. These ceased at the depth of six feet, and there appeared (2) the remains of a much ruder and more barbarous race—a race that dwelt in poor huts of earth and loose stones, and subsisted largely by hunting and fishing, using, for the most part, stone implements and coarse earthenware. These continued through a stratum some seventeen feet in thickness, when they were succeeded by (3) tokens of a very different and more highly civilized race, such as the foundations and lower walls of solid stone houses, stuccoed within and colored, wide streets paved with large, smooth stones, strong city walls with massive towers and gates—one double gate twenty feet in depth, answering to the famous Scæan gates of Homer; besides a multitude of objects of use or ornament, such as bronze armor, helmets with the skulls of the warriors still in them, round copper shields, drinking cups of solid gold—one double-handled and double-lipped, perhaps the amphikupellon of Homer—plates and jars and vases of elegant shape and pattern, many of the latter owl-headed with the breasts of a woman, supposed to represent the owl-eyed goddess Athene, the tutelary deity of the city—rings, bracelets and various jewels of gold and silver. These remains occupied a stratum ten feet in thickness, and the evidence of the final destruction of the city by fire was incontestable.

But the native rock had not yet been reached, though the trench had been sunk to a depth of thirty-three feet, and the eager explorer, although he deemed it certain that he had already uncovered a part of the city and the house of Priam, resolved to continue his explorations. He sank his trench fifteen feet deeper, till he came to the rock, and was surprised to find (4) the debris of a city yet earlier than the city of Priam, and relics of a people not only earlier, but plainly more civilized, than the people of Priam. Their plates and vases were of superior workmanship as well as more elegant in pattern. From some of the designs they were judged to belong to the Aryan race. In all, more than a hundred thousand different objects were obtained through these most fortunate diggings, and the value of the articles in silver and gold, by weight, is estimated at $20,000. They form a collection unique, and of unequaled value to the archæologist. They can be rivaled in antiquity only by the Egyptian collections, while by furnishing a constant and clearly-marked succession of objects from the faintest dawn of history down to a time comparatively modern and well known, they reveal the varying condition and quality of the inhabitants at one point upon the earth's surface, and render important help to a better understanding of some matters much vexed in literary and scientific, and, we may add, religious circles. To those who put no faith in the Trojan war as an event in history, or in Homer as a narrator of it, but regard the whole story as a myth of the first magnitude, and the name of its reputed historian as a convenient collective term to designate various authors who constructed the epic out of their own consciousness, it may be of interest to observe what one who did believe in Homer, and acted on the belief, has found; and in case they decline to revise their judgments, to attempt an explanation of these discoveries. For those who have been searching the caves of the Pyrenees and the shallow lakes of Switzerland as for hid treasure to find stone implements, rude pottery and other supposed proofs of the lowest and earliest stage of humanity when it had but just emerged from the brute creation—a pre-historic and a pre-Adamic race—it may be an interesting puzzle to find the identical stone and earthen articles, with other indications of a similar style of life, occurring between the Trojan civilization and that of the Greco-Roman period. And in general, all who hold that the primitive state of the race was savage may find it worth their while to ask themselves how it happens that the earliest discovered relics of the race are so superior in design and workmanship.

Health of Clergymen.

Dr. Beard, of this city, has made very extended inquiries into the records of the ages to which men of different pursuits attain. The remarkable facts which he has developed, and the figures forbid any doubt as to the correctness of his conclusions, will astonish many who have not given attention to the subject. He reaches these facts:

1. That the brain-working classes—clergymen, lawyers, physicians, merchants, scientists and men of letters—live very much longer than the muscle-working classes.

2. That those who follow occupations that call both muscle and brain into exercise are longer-lived than those who live in occupations purely manual.

3. That the greatest and hardest brain-workers of history have lived longer on the average than brain-workers of ordinary ability and industry.

4. That clergymen are longer-lived than any other great class of brain-workers.

He examined the history of five hundred of the greatest brain-workers whose lives are on record. It included, therefore, some who died young. But the average age at death was 64.20.

The average age at the present period of the world, of all classes taken together, who live over twenty years, is about fifty. Therefore the great brain-workers live fourteen years beyond the average. Dr. Beard selected the one hundred men whom he regarded the most eminent, and their average age was over seventy years. Madden, in his very interesting work, "The Infirmities of Genius," gives a list of two hundred and forty illustrious names, with their ages at death. The average is sixty-six and a fraction. In view of these facts, it may be regarded as established that "the world's hardest workers and noblest benefactors" have usually been very long-lived, which is just the reverse of what Mr. Thomas Hughes said in his life of "Alfred the Great." A Berlin physician has been collecting statistics in the same direction, and he produces the results as follows: The average age attained is: physicians 56, lawyers 58, clerks and farmers 61, merchants 62, and clergymen 65!

The clergy of the United States and of England live longer than any other class of men. The average is about 64 years. Dr. Beard accounts for this fact by saying: 1. Their calling admits of a wide variety of toil. 2. Their comparative freedom from financial anxiety. This will amuse many of the ministers when they read it. But Dr. Beard says: "The average income of pastors of churches (including salary, house rent, wedding fees, donations, etc.) is between $800 and $1,000, which is probably not very much smaller than the net income of all other professional classes. Further, the income of clergymen in active service is collected and paid with greater certainty and regularity, and less labor of collection on their part, than the income of any other class except government officials. Then, again, their income, whether small or great, comes at once, as soon as they enter their profession, and is not, as with other callings, built up by slow growth. Worry is the one great shortener of life under civilization; and of all forms of worry, financial is the most frequent, and for ordinary minds the most distressing. Merchants now make, always have made, and probably always will make, most of the money of the world; but business is attended with so much risk and uncertainty, and consequent worry, that merchants die sooner than clergymen, and several years sooner than physicians and lawyers. By what I here say I do not mean to give the impression that clergymen are properly paid; for it is thoroughly true, as was once remarked by a certain political economist: 'We pay best—1. Those who destroy us—generals. 2. Those who cheat us—politicians and quacks. 3. Those who amuse us—actors and singers; and least of all, those who instruct us.'

"The average income of all classes in this country is small—about $700 a year—and for the laboring classes not more than half that sum; and if the same efforts were made to obtain the details of the financial history of every family in the land, as has been done in the case of clergymen, there would be some very dreary reading."

4. "Their superior temperance and morality." It would have been just as well to say their "superior morality," for intemperance in anything is immorality.

To these four reasons of Dr. Beard we would add one that he has perhaps included in the third and fourth, but has not expressed, viz.: Their superior faith, which gives peace of mind under trials, financial or other, and prevents that worry which kills others of less trust in God. The result of this study shows that ministers of the gospel, obeying the obvious laws of health, may expect long life, and we have no doubt that, taken as a class, they are the most cheerful, contented, happy and useful men in the world, and therefore, as a general thing, live to a good old age.—New York Observer.

The Light of Coming Days.

The light of other days—practical, not poetical—was the tallow-dip, and, further back, a bunch of moss in a dish of grease. The advance from the primitive illuminator to the gas jet covers a most important stage in the progress of domestic economy. To make the illuminating material distribute itself was a capital stroke of policy. By most people it is regarded as the final stroke in the conflict with the shades of night. But it falls very far short of it.

Before we can truly say that our streets and houses are lighted scientifically, another and more important advance must be made. We must get rid of the offensive and poisonous products, the heat and flickering, the sharp contrasts of light and shade, the needless expense and frequent fires, and the thousand other disadvantages attending the distribution and local combustion of our illuminating material, by distributing instead pure light.

The problem is simple and easily solved. What we want in our rooms is a clean, white light, like diffused daylight. The popular mistake lies in supposing that the light must necessarily be generated where it is used. The remoteness of our natural illuminators ought to teach us the absurdity of such a position.

Every tyro in optics knows that light is the most tractable of material effects. It is obedient to the last degree. You can send it where you will, to any distance through the crookedest channels, through the darkest passages, and it will emerge undimmed, ready to be absorbed or dispersed as the operator may wish.

It is well known also that there are many ways of producing a brilliant light much more easily and economically than by carbon combustion in small and scattered flames. Yet curiously this familiar knowledge does not appear to have ever been put to practical use in producing a simple, wholesome, agreeable, scientific illumination for public and private buildings. To our children the old-fashioned candle snuffers are unknown, or known only as relics of an antiquated system of domestic economy. It is possible that to their children gas-pipes may be equally as obsolete as articles of household use—light-tubes furnished with reflectors and terminal radiators taking their place.

The working of the predicted system can be sketched in few words. Given say a large hotel to be furnished with artificial light. Instead of having a network of gas-pipes leading to the different rooms and to burners in each room, according to the present method, the light for the entire building would be generated in one place, say in the main ventilating shaft for the utilizing of the surplus heat. The distribution of the light would be effected by means of reflectors, each throwing into its appropriate tube a bundle of rays (made parallel by lens) sufficiently intense to flood the room to which they were directed with a pure white radiance, which could be turned on or off, or graduated, by simply pressing a knob or turning a key. In size the light-tubes need be no greater than ordinary gas-pipes. Indeed they might be much smaller, since all the light required for the largest room might be transmitted to the reflector as an extremely slender stream. The terminal lenses would close the tube against smoke and dust, which would dim the reflectors at the angles; and by keeping the inclosed air pure and dry, the absorption of light would be inappreciable.

The advantages of this method of illumination are many and obvious. There would be no poisoning of the atmosphere by local combustion; no scattered flames to occasion fires; no circulation of combustibles to encourage fire, should it happen to break out; children and careless servants would have nothing to handle that could possibly do damage; there would be no misplaced heat; no smoke or odor to sicken or annoy; no cross-lights or flickerings to hurt the eyes. Besides, the lighting of a house would help to purify its atmosphere, instead of vitiating it, as now, if the source of light were placed, as we have suggested, in the ventilating shaft, and very likely the economy of the light would be sure that means for the instantaneous illumination of the entire house could be maintained at all hours of the night without costing more than our present imperfect and partial lighting does.

For churches and other public places of resort this method of lighting is specially available and inviting. The source of light should be in an absolutely fire-proof vault or chamber, or in a separate building, so that the danger of accidental fires, with their evils, would be reduced to the minimum. For mines, especially coal mines, it is unapproachable for simplicity and safety. Smoky torches and treacherous "safety lamps" might be entirely abolished, and the deposit pits be flooded with white light, without flame or the shadow of a risk of explosion.—Scientific American.

TRIBULATION may come as a flood into the church; we may be disappointed even in the brethren; but those who have the eye fixed on Christ "hold on their way;" the word which they have heard and which they keep is a strong link binding them to him, who is more than all else to them.

DIVINE Providence afforded Israel a daily supply of manna for the subsistence of the body, and divine grace will and does grant daily competency of spiritual food to sustain and strengthen and promote the growth of spiritual life in the godly man.

Germany.

Germany extends across the map of Europe from the French frontier to that of Russia, nearly 900 miles east and west. At its narrowest part, on a line drawn north and south through Stettin, Berlin and Dresden, it does not much exceed 200 miles in width; while farther east or farther west it is nearly twice that broad.

The Germans nearly clothe themselves from their domestic wools. They sell enough fine woolen cloths and fabrics of wool to purchase all the wools and cottons they are obliged to buy. They manufacture from their own ores and coals nearly as much iron and steel as they consume, and sell enough coal and cutlery, machinery and implements, to pay for whatever hardware they purchase abroad. Their product of native wine so nearly satisfies the domestic demand that their sales of white wine pay for all the red and other brands of wine they import from France. The whisky they drink is but little, and that little is supplied from the distillation of apples, potatoes and rye of their own growing. Beer is the commoner and almost universal beverage of the people. The quantity manufactured for home consumption is about one barrel per inhabitant—or more than 41,000,000 barrels per annum; and they export enough beer to pay for all the brandy, gin and other distilled liquors purchased.

The production of coal in Germany has vastly increased within recent years. The total quantity mined last year exceeded 40,000,000 tons, of which 85 per cent. was consumed within the empire, and 15 per cent. exported, from which latter was realized $50,000,000. Including cost of transportation within Germany. There are 1,140 smelting works and foundries in Germany engaged in the manufacture of pig iron, wrought iron and steel, and 225 others in lead, zinc, copper, brass and other metals, giving employment to 160,000 operatives, and producing metals of the value of $230,000,000 per annum.

There are 15,000 miles of the most perfectly built railway lines in the world in Germany, and at a period not far removed they will all be owned by the government and constitute a great source of revenue. The government now dictates freight and passenger rates.

Germany is the lightest taxed country in Europe. The taxes are hardly half as high as in France Austria or Italy. The budget for the empire for 1874 is fixed at $111,150,000. Of this sum $71,500,000 will be expended for the support of the imperial army of 407,000, which seems like a very small sum compared with what it costs to maintain the 30,000 troops in the United States; but then the purchasing power of money in Germany is much greater than in America, and the army of the latter is scattered over the vast uninhabited regions of the far West. But the French army of equal numbers under arms costs one-third more than the German, showing the difference in the economy of administration in the two countries. The largest source of imperial revenue is from the tariff, which yields about $50,000,000, with duties averaging about ten per cent. and a large free list. One reason why the German imperial expenditures are so light is that the national debt is insignificant, the annual interest charge being less than two millions of dollars. But most of the States of the confederation have debts, generally incurred in the construction of State railroads.

We understand something of Bismarck's ecclesiastical policy when we know that the salaries of all the German clergy, Catholic as well as Protestant, including the Jewish rabbis, are paid by the State governments. Thus the Prussian government expended last year about $9,500,000 for the support of the clergy. There are in all Germany 16,000 Protestant pastors, ministering to 28,000,000 of Protestant population, and 26,000 Catholic priests doing the same thing for 14,000,000 of Catholic inhabitants.

There are upward of 100,000 teachers in the public schools of Germany and the number of scholars enrolled, between the ages of six and fourteen, exceeds 6,000,000. The number attending private primary schools is about 500,000, while those who attend the higher schools, academies, gymnasia, technical schools and universities exceeds 500,000. Thus there are seven millions of scholars attending all the schools of Germany.—Our Church Paper.

REPRODUCTION OF OLD THOUGHTS. Nothing is more strange than the incessant reproduction of old thoughts under the guise of new and advanced opinions. It would seem as if the human mind, with all its restless activity, were destined to revolve in an endless circle. Its progress is marked by many changes and discoveries; it sees and understands far more clearly the facts that lie along the line of its route, and the modes or laws under which these facts occur; but this route, in its higher levels, always returns upon itself. Nature and all its secrets become better known, and the powers of nature are brought more under human control; but the sources of nature and life and thought—all the ultimate problems of being—never become more clearly intelligible. Not only so, but the last efforts of human reasoning on these subjects are even as the first. Differing in form, and even sometimes not greatly in form, they are in substance the same. Bold as the course of scientific adventure has seemed for a time, it ends very much as it began; and men of the nineteenth century look over the same abysses of speculation as did their forefathers thousands of years before. No philosophy of theism can be said to have advanced beyond the book of Job; and Prof. Tyndall, addressing the world from the throne of modern science—which the chair of the British Association ought to be—repeats the thoughts of Democritus and Epicurus as the last guesses of the modern scientific mind.—Blackwood.

Religious Intelligence.

WE ARE told that a member of the junior class of Dartmouth College is a clergyman fifty years old and married.

MONSEIGNEUR GEAULETTE, Bishop of Valence, has resigned. The Holy See thinks him too liberal in his opinions.

IT IS claimed that there is not a single Universalist church edifice or church organization in all the State of Texas.

THE Ober tribunal, in a libel suit, has declared that the Old Catholics must be regarded as a part of the Catholic Church.

IT IS affirmed that 136 degrees of doctor of divinity have been conferred by the colleges in the United States within the last year.

THERE have been serious troubles in the Russian State Church, on account of which the priest Satkanik has been banished to Siberia.

THE American Tract Society is to have a semi-centennial jubilee. In May, 1875, it will be half a century old, which event it is proposed to celebrate.

THE Archbishop of Cologne, immediately after being discharged from jail, has been requested to appoint priests for 599 vacant places, or to pay 29,500 thalers.

THE West Jersey Baptist Association includes 50 churches, the oldest having been organized in 1690, and the youngest during the present year. The membership is 5,795.

TEN Carmelite nuns, among them the abbess, Countess Wichorska, and Princess Czartoryska, have left the town of Posen, Prussia, having been banished by the government. They have gone to Galicia.

THE Baptist Theological Seminary at Chicago has opened the year with 39 students, and others are expected. The University, in opening for the year, enrolls some 200 names in its several classes, preparatory and collegiate.

ANTIGUA.—The Moravian missionary churches in Antigua, West Indies, have received, during the past century, 6,101 adult members and 3,921 boys and girls. They have now 904 communicants and 884 candidates and baptized children.

THE Khedive of Egypt is searching the mosques and monasteries of his dominions for manuscripts to form a library at Cairo. He is said to have obtained 30 different manuscripts of the Koran, and among them one computed to be 1,150 years old.

"THE DEVIL'S DELIGHT" is the new title suggested by the Christian Register for a library made up of Sunday school books of a designated class. Yet the very books thus ostracised by one critic would be accepted by others as the standard for a good Sunday school library.

CATHOLIC priests in Chicago are engaged in circulating among the workmen of their congregations pledges not merely to refrain from the use of liquor, but from the temptation. The pledge binds the signer to avoid going into a saloon or place where liquor is sold on any pretense.

MISSIONARY REVENUES.—There are 50 missionary associations in the United States, whose annual expenditures reach the large sum of $6,000,000. Of this amount the Methodist Church contributes $700,000, the Presbyterian $500,000, and the Episcopal and Congregational Churches about $300,000 each.

THE Methodist Episcopal mission in Mexico is established at 12 stations, 5 of them being in the capital. The average attendance in these Mexican congregations is nearly 400. A small beginning has also been made with day and Sunday schools. Eleven native preachers aid the work, and English preaching is kept up at four places.

A VIGOROUS protest by Secretary Hartley, in the London Sunday School Chronicle, against the misuse of time by the superintendent in a general address at the close of the school session has provoked no little discussion in the columns of that journal. Good will come of it. Secretary Hartley is right, and the best workers are sure to agree with him sooner or later.

THE Cincinnati Women's Christian Association recently celebrated its sixth anniversary. Its objects are similar to those of the association in New York. Its principal work is the rendering of assistance to young women of the industrial classes. The receipts for the year ending October 14 were $6,661; the expenditure was $5,803, the chief part of which was for the support of the Home for Young Women.

STATISTICS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH FOR 1875.—The new Methodist Almanac for 1875, just about being issued by Nelson & Phillips, book agents at New York, gives the following general summaries:

	For 1874	Increase.
Bishops	12
Annual Conferences	80	4
Itinerant preachers	10,815	270
Local preachers	12,706	445
Total preachers	23,551	719
Lay members	1,345,089	56,385
Members on probation	218,432	33,049
Total lay members	1,563,521	90,494
Deaths	18,105	705
Baptisms of children	58,018	1,730
Baptisms of adults	71,918	15,755
Total baptisms	129,936	20,486
Church edifices	14,969	460
Value of church edifices	$69,049,523	$2,716,913
Parsonages	4,980	311
Value of parsonages	$3,467,170	$224,616
Total value of churches and parsonages	$78,516,693	$2,611,529
Sunday schools	18,958	927
Sunday school officers and teachers	208,161	16,229
Sunday school scholars	1,383,227	64,624
Total teachers and scholars	1,586,636	74,853

GERMAN METHODISTS IN AMERICA.—H. Selbmart writes for the Northern Christian Advocate, showing that since the organization of German Conferences in 1864 the increase of Methodism among the Germans has been much greater in proportion than it was before. In ten years the number of traveling preachers has increased from 233 to 471. The number of members has increased during the same time from 22,088 to 36,178; number of parsonages from 130 to 254. Missionary collections increased from $14,701.25 to $22,053.51; and all other interests in proportion. This is a good showing, and argues well for the future.

THE Welsh Calvinistic Methodists have for about thirty years supported a mission in northeastern Bengal, among the Khassi tribes. Their operations are understood to have been quite successful, although little is known of them outside of Wales, as the proceedings of the society are published in the Welsh language only. The Friend of India reports a recent valuable addition to this mission in the conversion of U. Borsing Sim, the heir apparent of Cherrapongee, his wife and family. He is a man much respected by the native community for his sincerity and wise counsels, and takes an active interest in the church at Mongsawila, which has a congregation of about 250. The chiefs of these petty hill tribes cannot certainly be compared with the native magnates in other parts of India; but the conversion of U. Borsing Sim is comparatively of equal importance in the Khassi country.

BRAZIL.—The following extract from a letter written by a Methodist lady at Santa Barbara, Brazil, which we copy from an exchange, gives some idea of the promising nature of Brazil as a mission-field, and the earnestness of our ministers: "The missionaries are doing a great work among the Brazilians—indeed they are overworked. Miss N. was very ill recently from overwork, and when I remonstrated with her for overtaxing her strength, she replied: 'Some of us will have to die from overwork before our people at home will believe in the work, and it would be as well for me to die as any other.' A native Brazilian is living with E. for the purpose of learning the English language and something about the Protestant religion. He has such an inquiring mind, and observes so closely, that I am anxious and watchful all the time lest something may be said or done that will mislead him. To use his own expression, the Brazilians are hungry for the light. I have just come home from prayer meeting. We have kept up this prayer meeting for more than a year, and a gracious influence has flowed out from it like a majestic river, deep and smooth. Ask the church there to pray for us, that it may widen and deepen to the overflowing of all this land. The missionaries distribute Bibles wherever they go. Not long since the wife of a wealthy Brazilian was converted by reading a Bible which a missionary had left with her. When her husband found it out he declared his purpose to kill the missionary if he ever entered his house again; and the good woman only saved the missionary's life by giving him warning from an upstairs window. Now the husband is converted, and the whole family—which is a large one—are diligently studying the Bible."

Success in Life.

The world's greatest workers are not always rewarded according to their merits; and experience confirms the truth of the saying that "the race is not to the swift, or the battle to the strong." We see the fool rolling in riches, while a wise man wears out a wretched existence in a single-handed fight with adversity. We see quackery parading in purple and fine linen, and honesty struggling manfully for bread. As long as men are differently constituted there will be riches and poverty. Children will be born to inherit wealth, while others will come into the world amid destitution; and this arrangement is in accordance with human nature, and teaches that the rewards of merit are almost as eccentric as the accidents of birth. There are men who seem to make money out of everything they take in hand, while others remain poor in spite of industry and attention. Behold a hero going forth, with the help of little save his own strong will and the good hand of his God upon him, to grapple, in the deadly climate of Africa, with ignorance, barbarism and the accursed slave traffic of that vast region. Through all obstacles and dangers he unfolded the banner of the truth, and taught true humanity by his simple and self-denying life. Yet so inadequately was he aided in his efforts by the nation that when his own countrymen failed to find him, that honor was reserved for a stranger. After more than thirty years of noble toil he fell a martyr in his devotion to the well-being of his fellow-men. Change the scene to another part of the same continent. A general is sent out on a warlike expedition, supported by the flower of the British army. No trouble or expense is spared to make it a success, and every comfort is furnished in profusion for the troops. Including the voyage out and home the Ashantee expedition was over in less than five months. It cost the country about a million sterling; and the commander, for doing his duty, received the thanks of Parliament, the plaudits of the nation, and a large grant of public money. Was, then, the object of Livingstone's ambition but a dream, and the great end of his labors only a delusion? Surely no! In a vast tract of country hitherto unexplored he was the pioneer of Christianity and progress, giving persistently and consistently, in his extensive travels, an example to the native races of what a true man could dare and suffer for a great idea, which in its results will be incomparably more beneficial than the triumphs of any warlike conqueror.—Tinsley's Magazine.

THERE is a spurious Christianity which affects lofty piety, discourses much of its spirituality, keeps telling of its inward experiences, but goes no further. It meditates, but does nothing; prays, but obeys not; preaches to others, but is itself without performance. Fine sentiments are well, but will not compare with good deeds. True religion is marked by good fruits.

MORALITY without religion is only a kind of dead reckoning—an endeavor to navigate a cloudy sea by measuring the distance we have to run, but without observation of the heavenly bodies.—Longfellow.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor,
ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. RUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE has been ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keepers, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local; and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

Louisiana Annual Conference.

On Saturday evening, January 2, we left New Orleans for Alexandria, in company with Bishops Paine, Keener and other brethren, on the Maria Louise—a delightful boat to travel on. On Sunday at eleven A. M. we had divine service and an appropriate sermon by Dr. J. B. Walker. On Monday morning, soon after breakfast, we reached our destination. Our Conference company were met at the landing by the pastor, Rev. Christian Keener, and all were introduced to their temporary homes in due time.

Alexandria is on the right bank of Red river, and Pineville on the left. The latter has grown to be a considerable town, in which the energetic young pastor has built a tasteful and comfortable church within the last two years. Alexandria still bears the marks of the war, and the ruins of the conflagration which Banks' army left behind them on their memorable retreat are painfully conspicuous. A good church and parsonage were burnt at that time. The parsonage has been rebuilt during the past year, but we have no church as yet. A steam ferry plies between the two places, and the homes of the members of the Conference were about equally assigned to Alexandria and Pineville. From all we heard the most favorable reports of the manner in which they were entertained. In all its history the Conference has never been better provided for, and the thanks voted to the people were well deserved and most heartily tendered.

The Conference sessions were held in the courthouse in Alexandria—a place every way convenient and most comfortable. The weather was freezing cold most of the time, but the big stove was kept as red as a cherry, and the house was well warmed. Conference opened on Wednesday morning, January 6, the roll-call indicating a number absent, the most of them, however, reporting themselves on Thursday. Bishop Paine was in his place at the hour, and presided throughout with admirable patience and entire acceptability. His talks to the Conference, on the reception of the class into full connection, and at other times, were fatherly, wise and emphatic. His golden words will be long treasured and remembered. Bishop Keener's visit to the Conference was most welcome, and his services in the chair, the pulpit and on the platform were highly appreciated. John Wilkinson was elected secretary, Samuel H. Schroeder, assistant. The regular minute business went on smoothly, and on Monday at seven P. M. the appointments were read.

The preachers read their reports in full as their names were called. Many accessions and conversions were reported, and a good degree of spiritual prosperity has attended the labors of the ministry during the year, but the footing up shows a decrease of members as compared with the previous year. The setting off of our German appointments into a separate Conference has taken away about 350 members, but besides this there must have been a heavy emigration from the State. The total membership is 12,341; local preachers, 90. Baptisms—infants, 845; adults, 835. Collected for missions, $2,057.90. Amount necessary for widows, orphans and superannuated preachers, $3,560; collected, $1,711.20. Bishops' fund—amount of claim, $800; collected, $662.35.

The support of the preachers in Louisiana was never so meager as during the past year. It has been a year of great hardship with these devoted men. How they have lived at all on what they have received is more than we can tell. In former years this Conference was in the lead in the support of the ministry and in the payment of its claimants. The present falling off is not due to the want of faithfulness on the part of the preachers, nor to the lack of liberality on the part of the people. The explanation is to be found in the floods of last spring, and in the political situation. There is no confidence, business is paralyzed, the people are exhausted with taxation, unsettled in their homes, and many of them fleeing from the oppression and tyranny to which they are subjected. The condition of the State, as represented by the preachers and their reports, is dismal enough. In the stationing-room it was found that the Conference was full, not so much for the lack of territory to be occupied, but for the reason that sections heretofore rich and prosperous promised no support for the preacher. We suspect that the reported fullness of several of our Southern Conferences is due to this fact.

Admitted on trial: John F. Patterson, Abel Hoffpauir, George T. Freeman. Admitted into full connection: James S. White, Jacob D. Harper, Thomas S. Randle, J. J. Billingsley, William Hart, Thomas Mullett, John W. Hearne, Robert S. Isbell, Felix G. Hocutt. Readmitted: Nathan S. Cornell, William D. Shea. Received by transfer: J. M. Johnson, from the Alabama Conference; Joshua F. Scurlock, from the Southwest Missouri Conference; Joseph B. Walker, from the Texas Conference. Deacons ordained: Traveling—Alfred E. Clay, John T. Sawyer, James S. White, Thomas S. Randle, J. J. Billingsley, William Hart, John W. Hearne; local—Abel Hoffpauir, William H. Pilley. Elders ordained: Traveling—Robert S. Isbell, Philip Allen; local—W. A. Broddy.

The absence of our German brethren from this Conference was felt and regretted. It was, no doubt, a wise step to set off the German work of Louisiana and Texas into a separate Conference; but while we bid them Godspeed, we can assure Bro. Ahrens and his associates that they were missed. Their presence among us was always helpful and most welcome, and we hardly know how to get along without them. May blessings attend them, and ever rest upon the German Mission Conference!

During the session there was preaching at night on both sides of the river. On Sunday, the coldest day we have felt in Louisiana for many a year, Bishop Paine preached in the church at Pineville at eleven o'clock, and ordained the deacons. The sermon was capital, in spite of the weather, and heard by a house full of people. In the afternoon the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was substituted for the sermon, and the elders were ordained at the close of a most impressive and tender communion. Bishop Keener preached in Alexandria at eleven o'clock A. M. to a good congregation. On Sunday night the missionary anniversary was held in Alexandria, Bishop Keener making the address; collection, $150. On the Pineville side Bro. John Mathews preached and took up a missionary collection amounting to $150, the double anniversary thus footing up $300.

On Monday night, after thanks to the people, the steamboats, the ferryman, the Conference fire-maker, and a good talk from Bishop Paine, the last question was asked, the appointments were read, and Conference adjourned with the doxology and benediction.

Next Conference to be held in New Orleans.

APPOINTMENTS.

New Orleans District.—Joseph B. Walker, P. E. Carondelet street, John Mathews; Felicity street, Jos. B. Walker; Moreau street, J. T. Sawyer; Cadiz street and Carrollton, James A. Ivy; Louisiana avenue, Linus Parker; Algiers, to be supplied by Lewis A. Reed;) Brashear and Lafourche, to be supplied; Baton Rouge, John Wilkinson, A. G. Miller, supernumerary; Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, Jacob D. Harper; editor NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, Linus Parker; New Orleans Depository, R. J. Harp; Institution for the Blind, Baton Rouge, Patrick Lynch.

Delhi District.—C. W. Carter, P. E. Monroe, R. S. Trippett; Trenton, H. O. White; Bastrop, W. P. Owen; Lind Grove, Thomas S. Randle; Oak Ridge, James L. Wright; Boeuf River circuit, George T. Freeman; Winnsboro, Albert M. Wailes; Waterproof and St. Joseph, Baxter Clegg; Tensas circuit, William Hart; Delhi circuit, Benjamin F. Alexander; Lake Providence and Pecan Grove, Nathan S. Cornell; Floyd, Thomas H. McClendon; Cothron mission, to be supplied (by William Kellar;) superintendent of Mexican mission, Joel T. Davis.

Homer District.—John A. Miller, P. E. Homer, Whitmel P. Kimball; Lisbon, to be supplied (by John L. Williams;) Haynesville circuit, Thos. J. Upton; Minden, Marcus C. Manley; Sparta, J. W. Hearne; Arcadia, John C. Read; Vernon, James M. McKee; Castor, Felix G. Hocutt; Louisville, Alfred E. Clay; Downsville, Robert T. Parish; Farmerville, Robert Parvin.

Shreveport District.—S. S. Scott, P. E. Shreveport, A. E. Goodwyn; Caddo, Richard H. Adair; DeSoto, John Pipes; Mansfield and Pleasant Hill, J. M. Brown; Natchitoches circuit, James S. White; Manny and Beulah, James M. Franklin; Anacoco and Leesville, supplied by William A. Broddy and James Knox; Springville, Philip Allen, Jesse Fulton, supernumerary; Webster, John F. Patterson; North Bossier, Robert Randle; South Bossier, George M. Liverman.

Alexandria District.—Joseph H. Stone, P. E. Alexandria and Pineville, Christian Keener; Rapides and Mission, Thomas Mullett; Montgomery, to be supplied; Harrisonburg and Sicily Island, Samuel H. Schroeder; Centerville, William R. Whatley; Trinity, to be supplied (by D. L. Mitchell;) Little River mission, to be supplied (by Pearce Shepard;) Columbia circuit, John F. Wynn; Caldwell, George Jackson; Dugdamona, C. R. Godfrey.

Opelousas District.—Jas. E. Cobb, P. E. Opelousas, Joshua F. Scurlock; Washington and Plaquemine Brule, R. S. Isbell; Chicot and Ville Platte, Fred. White; Vermilionville, J. V. Pointer; Abbeville, Abel Hoffpauir; New Iberia, Benjamin F. White; Franklin, Joseph W. Medlock; Pattersonville and Brashear, Robert A. Davis; Lake Charles, James J. Billingsley; Grand Chenier, Silas H. Cooper; Sugartown, to be supplied (by W. B. Pilley;) Spring Creek, William V. Taylor; Evergreen and Big Cane, J. M. Johnson.

Superannuated.—H. C. Thweatt, Philo M. Goodwyn, Joel Saunders, William E. Doty, John S. Davis, Edwin W. Yancey, Philip H. Dieffenwerth.

Located.—Wm. D. Stayton, Fisher T. Rawson, J. Lane Borden.

Transferred.—R. W. Flournoy, to Northwest Texas Conference; Charles F. Evans, to Little Rock Conference; N. M. Skipworth and James E. Bradley, to Columbia Conference; William V. Tudor, to St. Louis Conference; William D. Shea, to North Texas Conference.

J. Gorton Miller, withdrawn.

Enos B. Foust, left without an appointment, and his case referred to the presiding elder of the New Orleans district.

THANKS TO THE STEAMBOATS.—All the boats conveying preachers to the Louisiana Conference at Alexandria, we believe, charged only half fare. The Maria Louise, the Texas, the Colonel Kouns and the Selma were especially mentioned in the resolution of thanks passed by the Conference. Our personal lot was to go and return on the Maria Louise. There was a large company of preachers on board, and the testimony of all was that they had never traveled on a boat with greater comfort and satisfaction. All the appointments were excellent, the state-rooms spacious, the fare good, servants polite and attentive. Captain H. J. Brinker, and the gentlemanly clerk, Mr. J. J. Dodd, were most courteous and considerate. We wish these gentlemen every good, and we can most sincerely commend their fine boat to all who wish a comfortable and agreeable trip.

OUR CONFERENCE HOME in Alexandria was under the hospitable roof of Robert J. Bowman, Esq. To him and his accomplished wife we owe a large debt of gratitude for kindness shown. Bishop Paine and other brethren were also entertained by Bro. Bowman, and we speak for them as well as for ourselves when we express our sense of obligation for the generous entertainment received. Bro. Bowman was a lay member of the Conference, and took an active part in its proceedings. He should by all means attend our sessions hereafter. Such men as he and William H. Foster, of New Orleans, should go to Conference as regularly as their pastors.

THE Galveston Christian Advocate dons a new form and a beautiful dress with the opening of the new year. It is now a handsome eight-page paper, and, as heretofore, edited with taste and ability. It has our warmest wishes for success and prosperity. The editor, Rev. I. G. John, is doing hard but most important service for our common Methodism.

STRONG as our passions are, they may be starved into submission, and conquered without being killed.

Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.

Rev. Jefferson Hamilton, D. D., was born in Ward, Worcester county, Massachusetts, August 23, 1805, and died in Opelika, Alabama, December 17, 1874.

Reared on a farm and doing the work of a farmer's boy, he attended school only as occasion permitted. When about twenty years of age, through the instrumentality of his godly mother, he was converted and joined the church. This took place in Brookfield. Soon afterward he began to exhort, and at twenty-two received license to preach. In those days there were often marvelous manifestations of the presence of God in the conviction and conversion of souls, men under the power of the Spirit falling down as dead, and otherwise exercised. His own early ministry was sometimes sealed with such signs and wonders. Notwithstanding this, however, he greatly felt the need of better personal qualification for the work assigned him by Providence; and, to fit himself more perfectly for doing it, entered the Methodist school at Wilbraham, presided over at the time by Dr. Wilbur Fisk. Here, by diligent application, a fair knowledge of the elements of Latin, Greek, Hebrew and the sciences was gained, as well as a general outline of systematic theology. While at this school Richard Watson wrote his Theological Institutes, which work Dr. Fisk recommended to the young preachers in the highest terms as the most correct statement and exhaustive discussion of Methodistic doctrine then published. This book young Hamilton carefully studied and fully indorsed. Though he scrupulously performed the tasks given by his masters, yet he was neither indifferent to his ministerial call nor inactive in ministerial work; for, on Sundays he went into the neighboring towns and villages, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God. During the school vacations he also preached, and at the same time taught, that he might obtain money to pay his way through the succeeding sessions, without coming under pecuniary obligations to any friend or kinsman.

Upon quitting school he was received into the New England Conference, and stationed the first year at Hull, the second at Randolph, the third at Salem, the fourth and fifth at Boston. In this last place he was severely attacked with measles, which left him with asthma—the fearful disease that, with unrelenting violence, pursued him to the very hour of his death. So feeble did he become, and so firmly seated was the disease, that it was thought impossible for him to live in that climate, and so he determined to come South for relief. In 1836 he landed in Charleston, South Carolina, where he met Dr. William Capers (afterward Bishop Capers,) and with him went to the seat of the Georgia Conference. Here he became acquainted with Hon. H. W. Hilliard, who induced him to come to Alabama, with the purpose of making it his home. On his arrival at the seat of the Alabama Conference, to his great surprise, the Bishop appointed him to Poydras Street church, New Orleans. This church he served in 1837 and 1838. At the close of this term he was transferred to Alabama, and stationed the next two years (1839-40) in Mobile. From that time to the day the Master called him to his reward he was thoroughly identified with all the interests of the church in the Alabama Conference, was a leader in all its enterprises, filled its most conspicuous appointments, and was perhaps the most prominent and influential member of the body. His talents as a man, his fidelity as a Christian, his eloquence as a preacher, won the admiration and confidence of the church, and his brethren delighted to honor him with positions of trust and dignity. He was placed upon committees of examination and boards of education, was sent to represent the Conference at the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and always elected a delegate to the General Conference.

With a mind by nature easily impressed, and very tenacious of its impressions, the circumstances of his early life and ministry were just such as to give his character most or all of the elements of strength and durability. Poverty taught him the value of personal economy and obedience to authority. The difficulties to be overcome in the way to his education taught him the necessity of patience, industry and self-reliance. The high standard of intelligence he found in the person of Dr. Fisk, whom he regarded as a model, made him believe that mediocrity was not merely the proof of laziness, but a positive sin against one's self. The wonderful conversions which took place in the meetings of his youthful ministry convinced him that God was immediately and personally in the church, hearing and answering the prayer of faith; and the gospel, rightly preached, was the power of God unto the salvation of every one that believes. His own repentance and conversion was to his heart a divine demonstration of the absolute truth of the schemo of salvation. And the purpose of the church to carry the gospel into all the world, as he saw it working in itinerant preachers and Bishops traversing this continent, and in missionaries—men of his own acquaintance, as Melville Cox, Rufus Spaulding, Osgood Wright, and their wives, crossing the ocean to plant the cross on heathen shores—enabled him to realize, while yet young, the vastness of God's designs, and to catch the true spirit of the commission of a preacher of the gospel.

In his estimation sin was the darkest, most appalling fact in the universe, and the gospel of Jesus was its sovereign and its only remedy. The differences between all preachers is exactly determined by the measure of importance they each put upon these two facts. In the mind of Dr. Hamilton they were immeasurably more important than all others; and hence he studied the Scriptures not for the purpose of displaying his talents, but to convict and instruct and comfort the souls of men, and was as tender as love itself with a soul struggling for deliverance. While no man was more severe in denouncing a life of self-righteousness or defiant rebellion, yet no man was more gentle with a spirit awakened and seeking the Savior. He would rebuke, at the peril of life, the royal sinner on his throne, telling him: "Thou art the man;" or go, at the peril of reputation, into a brothel to rescue a penitent, weeping Magdalene. His business was to save souls, and to do this he would not hesitate to face men or devils, to encounter the pestilence of darkness or the destruction of noonday. Hence as a pastor he was vigilant, industrious and impartial, skillfully applying the gospel to the peculiarities of individual life and character. As a preacher he was evangelical, thoroughly Wesleyan; was well read in the Protestant theology and philosophy of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and kept up with the current thought and history of the church, both in Europe and America. His sermons, always carefully prepared, were rich in thought and illustration. He was a hard student to the end of life. In the pulpit his countenance was spiritual, his action earnest but graceful, his language pure, his voice solemn, and his elocution excellent. Those who listened to him in the vigor of his manhood set him down as one of the most eloquent and impressive preachers they ever heard. Multitudes have hung upon his words with delight, and hundreds upon hundreds have been brought to salvation by his sermons. Discourses delivered years ago are still remembered. Impressions then made still live. "He, being dead, yet speaketh." But extensive as were some of the revival meetings he held, and important and elevating as were their results, valuable as were his counsels in boards of trustees and other business bodies, and powerful as were his sermons at commencements, yet it may be that the most valuable and permanent services of his life were the impressions made on the minds of young preachers at Conference. Large and correct views of the doctrines, morals and church of the New Testament, of ministerial propriety, obligation and labor, came out in his sermons, in his speeches on the Conference floor, in the measures he advocated and in his examinations of the undergraduates. These all made lasting impressions upon the younger men, and they went forth to embody them in their characters and practice them in their lives. And besides, they discovered in his conduct only the dignity and politeness of a true gentleman—nothing mean or coarse or clownish. He was a model of propriety and purity. The influence of such a man upon such men in these conditions shows itself in the remotest corners of the Conference, and slowly but surely produces a purer style of preaching, and a higher type of personal character. Because he was naturally reserved, and found no excuse for stupidity and idleness, and had no windy sentimentalism to waste on a careless, half-formed character, some thought he was destitute of sympathy for his brethren; but his life for more than thirty years shows that no man thought and sacrificed more for the temporal comfort and spiritual and intellectual improvement of the Conference. He may have made mistakes, for he was not infallible; but be it so, and yet he was the greatest blessing God ever gave in the person of a preacher to the church in Alabama.

He was a man of great physical suffering. The asthma was a fearful foe, yet it could not break his spirit or force him into silence. Duty was his watchword; and so strong was his sense of it that he frequently worked when most men would have been at home. Only last year, while on the Mobile district, at the age of nearly seventy, he slept out of doors and never complained. Wheezing and coughing, and emaciated, he went at the call of duty to attend the work assigned him. He wound up the year's work by preaching twice on Sunday, in Franklin Street church, Mobile, and giving the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to the people who loved him best. He left Mobile, to meet the Conference in Opelika, with a cold which developed into pneumonia. There he was with the brethren but two days before he was forced to take his bed. During his sickness the care of the church was on his mind, and the care of himself he put on the Lord. The morning before he died, knowing his hour was at hand, and in full possession of all his intellect, he gave a clear, distinct testimony to the power of the gospel to save the soul; delivered charges to several of the young preachers; sent to the Conference, the message: "Hail and farewell!" sent messages of love to his children and grandchildren, and some favorite brethren of Mobile; commended his wife, who sat beside him, to the merciful protection of God and the care of the church; thanked the family for their hospitality and kind nursing, and after a brief period of intense suffering his pains all seemed to leave him, and he died in peace. His breath left him only a few moments after Bishop Doggett adjourned the Conference by reading the appointments. It was a fitting place for such a man to depart this life. His brethren went to their homes and their works—he went to his home and reward.

The church in Opelika inclosed his body in a beautiful coffin, and we carried him to his home, and buried him from Franklin Street church on the nineteenth of December, beside his loved daughter, who but a few months had preceded him to the better land. J. W. RUSH.

PRATTVILLE, ALA., Jan. 5, 1875.

WE NOTE a change of owners and editors in the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist. The paper is now published by Johnson & Co., and the Rev. John Polsal, D. D., has resumed his seat as editor in chief. We welcome him to the fraternity and wish him great success.

THE will of D'Arcy Paul, of Petersburg, Virginia, leaves a fine store on Sycamore street to the Methodist Asylum, and $5,000 to the Washington Street Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Fasting and Music.

A learned musical friend objects to the position that music only produces sensations. He says an educated musician can read music. Yes; he employs his mind about music. But does he obtain an idea from music? He objects again because the musician can, on his instrument, imitate sounds. A mocking bird or a monkey has the capacity to imitate. It is said, moreover, that music makes us feel solemn or gay, sad or joyful. So may alcohol or opium. Let any one read the "Confessions of an Opium-Eater," and he will be satisfied that music never produced more rapturous feelings. A lady declares that music has on her a refining, elevating influence, making her feel like striving to be better. I do not doubt but that such may and ought to be its influence. Under proper conditions such will be its influence. This does not prove that it can, except by reflex action, reach higher than the sensuous nature. It is still impossible to get an idea out of it.

But the question is asked: Is not music beautiful, sometimes sublime? And is there no idea to be obtained from the beautiful? Formless beauty would be a solecism—a sheer, unmitigated absurdity. We do, indeed, speak of moral beauty, but by this we can only mean that moral qualities, when perceived, produce sensations analogous to those produced by beautiful objects. Now if we could predicate form of sound (as Hickok seems to do,) still sound is not music. You might have any number of sounds, and yet not have music. Music is the harmony of sound. We must therefore predicate form of harmony (which is impossible) in order to get beauty out of music. It follows therefore that when we say music is beautiful we can only mean that it produces sensations analogous to those produced by beautiful objects.

Music is merely sensuous. Hence we perceive why it has been employed hitherto mostly for evil purposes. The sensuous is a blind, wild, and therefore dangerous power. Give it supremacy, turn it loose unbridled, and immense, incalculable mischief will be the result. Thus to turn music loose upon the sensuous nature is like turning a cloud burdened with cyclone and thunders upon a tropical forest—the wreck must be fearful, might be utter.

In this view of the question it is not surprising that one who ranks high as authority in the musical world, himself a professed Christian, should oppose the use of music in the church. But we do not share this opposition. As to music, in the abstract, we do agree that it has been and must ever be of evil tendency. But we do not propose to turn it loose to run its random course in the church. We propose to put bit and bridle into the mouth of the wild steed. We propose to throw double reins over his neck. We have in connection with church music psalm and hymn, sentiment and poetry. Poetry is neither in the rhyme nor in the rhythm, but in the tone, flavor or harmony of the sentiment. It mingles with the flavor of all soul food, or heart melody, or what we call, for want of a better expression, ideal beauty. Some subjects are not poetic in themselves; others are brim full of it. Death is an instance of the first. Death is an ugly, ghastly, horrible fiend. Revelation takes death up into the Mount of Transfiguration. His dark raiment glistens with the light of supernal glory. Thus he becomes "the gate to endless joy," and also the angel porter who opens the gates of the celestial city. This transfiguring, transforming power is poetry. Other subjects are poetic in themselves. Such is the subject of a superintending Providence. The great Teacher sweetens and beautifies this idea by a poetic illustration: "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; and yet I say unto you that even Solomon, in all his glory, was not arrayed like unto one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you?" We mingle with the music the sentiment and poetry of the psalm or hymn. Thus we hold under the dominion of mind this wild, sensuous power. "We sing with the understanding." We bind and direct it to its special work—the cultivation of the sensuous nature. We do more. Holding it to its specific work, by reflex action, it reaches man's higher nature, while the sentiment and poetry, mingling with it, come down by reflex action also into the sensuous nature, so that at one and the same time, by these united influences, we cultivate and ennoble man's entire nature. Thus, while at first we may seem to disparage music, in the end we glorify it by making it an instrument for a special and necessary work.

From the foregoing and from Scripture we conclude that the spirit and sentiment are of immense, indispensable importance in the worship of music. The lazy drawl that murders a miserable tune in "Sleepy Hollow" is as great an offense to the spirit of worship as it is to good taste. That which costs nothing is worth nothing here, as everywhere. Whoever stops learning had as well stop singing, stop preaching, cease calling himself a disciple. If the congregation or the choir sing so as to obscure the words, or if the organ drown the words, instead of edification, there will be mischief. Mr. Wesley may not have comprehended the philosophy of the question, but his keen, observant eye saw the facts; hence he exhorted preachers to be careful that congregations should understand the singing. St. Paul comprehended the whole question when he declared: "I will sing with the spirit, and with the understanding also."

The service of music and song in the church ought to be religious. Scripture, foreseeing the great danger that this part of worship should be merely sensuous, insists with great emphasis on the necessity that it should be spiritualized. It is to be a "new song." This song, from Psalms to Revelations, is a "new song," proceeding from a new nature. It will not do that there be merely the melody of the lips or of the instrument. There must be "grace" in the heart, "melody in the heart." All short of this is children "playing 'possum"—is mere "make believe," is "the abomination of desolation, standing where it ought not," is playing the heaven-affronting role of tomfoolery in the courts of the living God, is "stealing the livery of heaven to serve the devil in." "Procul! oh, procul! este profani." And yet we have known infidels and sinners of every hue, grafting down to the dancing-master, to lead the service of music and song in the church. In one of our churches a wild, godless youth, who ran away with the circus, was chosen organist. In another of our churches the organist was a pronounced infidel. Another, when he had performed his part, was accustomed to lean back and read novels till his time came round again in order. I have known choirs to whisper and giggle through the whole service of prayer. Would it not be as well to put these scandalous sinners to lend the service of prayer or preaching? Ought not the service of music and song to be as much a divine worship as either prayer or preaching?

Music in the church is for the culture of the sensuous nature—an aid to faith for the sanctification of the body. You have a man in the church who professed to be converted. He did run well for a season. His sensuous nature hindered him. He got drunk. He is sorry—repents. You bear with him—wind him up again. Anon he scandalizes the church by another fall. What is to be done? There was grace in his soul, but his sensuous nature is the trouble; his appetites are not sufficiently under the dominion of grace. Is there not grace enough in heaven to save him? Let him fast and pray. The faith to eject this sensual devil goeth not out but by prayer and fasting. But fasting and prayer alone might lend to asceticism. That the proper equilibrium may be preserved, there is another instrumentality—music and song. Mortify and subjugate, and then cultivate and refine the sensuous nature. This lower nature needs discipline, like all other nature, even chastisement; but, while the rod is in one hand, hold a strengthening cordial in the other. "That the body may be a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God." St. Paul seems to have had this idea when he said: "Be not drunk with wine wherein is excess, but be ye filled with the Spirit; admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your hearts unto the Lord." At all events, let a man not despair or give over the struggle till he has used all means for the sanctification of the sensuous nature. What we have said of the drunkard is merely an instance for illustration. Let all who are in danger of sensuality use diligently all the means of grace vouchsafed unto them, especially the means that may act specifically on the case. WM. A. MCCARTY.

To the Preachers and Members of the M. E. Church South.

DEAR BRETHREN: As you are aware, the Conference season has nearly closed, and we have the returns of the missionary collections from the treasurers of the Annual Conference Boards. These, when compared with the appropriations made last spring at the annual meeting of the Board of Missions, will show that we will not have on hand, after the drafts of the past year shall all have been paid, more than money enough to meet the drafts for the first quarter of the current year. Now the question is: What shall be done? We must have means to meet the second quarter's drafts, or the missionaries will suffer, and the work will have to be suspended. There never has been a time since the organization of our church when there has been so great a demand upon us for men and means, and there never has been so much to encourage us in our work, especially in the foreign department. In the great West the fields are white unto the harvest. The work among the Indian tribes, and our opportunity for doing missionary work in China, is becoming more and more interesting; and the work in Mexico, as you will see from our church publications, is almost miraculous.

And now, on the one hand, we see the "effectual door" that God opens before us; on the other, an empty treasury. The great Head of the church tests our faith and love in this providential appeal which he makes to our gratitude and liberality. Let us show our appreciation of the gospel that has saved us, by enlarged contribution to the glorious work of converting those who are still sitting in the valley and shadow of death.

According to the new plan of conducting our missionary enterprise, the collections for the board at Nashville are to be kept separate from those made for domestic missions in the various Annual Conferences. Now we suggest and urge that brethren go to work early and raise their assessments for foreign missions, and remit the amount collected to the treasurer or secretaries at once, and a receipt will be sent in return, which will be a voucher at the meeting of the Annual Conference for the amount forwarded to Nashville.

Now, brethren, please to heed this call, for unless collections are made and forwarded it will be impossible to meet the drafts already drawn for our work in foreign fields.

And we appeal also to individual members and friends of our church, and the friends of missions, and ask them to send to us what they are willing to give to sustain the cause for which Jesus gave his life. O ye lovers of the Savior, come to our help; and while Christ opens the door, let us step in and do the Master's work. We must let no man take our crown! Who will respond?

Brethren in the ministry, we beseech you, be prompt, and do not suffer the cause to fail for want of the amount you can raise in your respective charges.

We repeat what we have already said in another connection: "The amounts assessed to the Annual Conferences must be raised. It is a simple necessity. There is no margin for failure. If we fail, our plans will be thwarted and our missionaries afflicted. If we fail, enlargement becomes impossible. If we fail, contraction is inevitable—and farther contraction will be death. The amounts named in these assessments do not represent our conception of the duty of the church, but our estimate of the very least amount with which we can, for the current year, conduct the mission work committed to us. It should be a point of sacred honor with each pastoral charge in our connection not to fall below its assessment, and of sacred ambition to go beyond it."

J. B. MCFERRIN,
A. G. HAYGOOD,
Secretaries.

MISSION-ROOM, Nashville, Jan. 3, 1875.

So Many Cabbages.

Those public speakers who are afraid to venture before an audience without notes will find encouragement in the following story told of a poor country priest who preached such excellent sermons that the fame of them came to the ears of the cardinal archbishop of the diocese, who felt his curiosity excited, and determined to go and hear for himself. He accordingly set out one Sunday morning, he and his suite—chaplain, vicar general and secretary—and, arrayed in full canonicals, invaded the small village church filled with wondering bumpkins. The poor priest had not counted on such goodly company, but the sight of the cardinal seemed to have very little effect upon him. He went through the service in his usual simple manner, and afterward preached a sermon of such impressive eloquence that the cardinal felt moved, and followed him into the vestry when mass was over to compliment him. Probably his eminence was not more exempt than other folk from the occasional failing of snobbishness; for, after having offered his praises, he could not resist the temptation of adding: "I congratulate you the more, sir, that I was afraid my presence might perhaps render you nervous, and prevent you from speaking with your ordinary excellence." "O no, my lord," answered the priest, with a mild look at the cardinal's scarlet robes; "I make it a point in preaching to look upon my congregation as so many cabbages; and a red cabbage more or less makes not the slightest difference." We are not told that the priest was promoted to a richer benefice after this retort, but it cannot have mattered much in his case; for a man who could have found such an answer was sure to make his way in life.—New York Observer.

RUSKIN says: "Speaking the truth is like writing fair, and comes only by practice. It is less a matter of will than of habit, and I doubt if any occasion can be trivial which permits the practice and formation of such habit."

THE true past departs not; no truth or goodness realized by man ever dies or can die; but all is still here, and, recognized or not, lives and works through endless changes. Carlyle.

MARRIED.

MASSIE—HARPER.—By Rev. J. H. Shelton, at the residence of the bride's father, on the 27th of January, 1875, Mr. James P. Massie, of Hempstead, Texas, to Miss Ann T. Harper, of Jefferson county, Mississippi.

Lynchburg papers please copy.

DAVIS—BOYD.—At the residence of the bride, Marion Station, Lauderdale county, Mississippi, December 27, 1874, by Rev. J. C. Brogan, Rev. John H. Davis, of Fayette county, Alabama, to Mrs. Virginia A. Boyd.

POWELL—MARTIN.—December 10, 1874, at the residence of the bride's father, F. A. Martin, near Magnolia, Mississippi, by Rev. J. W. Sandel, Mr. Joseph W. Powell to Miss Eliza R. Martin.

DICKINSON—ORR. By Rev. W. A. Dodge, at the residence of the bride's father, in Athens, Georgia, November 24, 1874, Rev. Walter P. Dickinson, of Elmore county, Alabama, to Miss Virginia Orr.

DEVAN—GOLSON.—At the residence of Mrs. L. P. Golson, the bride's mother, on the sixth instant by Rev. R. S. Woodward, Mr. W. O. Devan, of Hampden, to Miss Ida C. Golson, of Summerfield Alabama.

CLAY—HALL.—On the night of January 31, 1875, by Rev. A. L. McIlwyle, Mr. R. P. Clay and Miss Ella Hall, both of Cuba, Alabama.

STURRS—MOODY.—By the Rev. H. H. Cottrell, December 23, 1874, at Linden, Marengo county Alabama, Mr. James W. Stubbs to Miss Willie H. Moody, both of said county.

SMITH—RESTEIER.—By the Rev. H. H. Cottrell, December 24, 1874, at Jefferson, Marengo county, Alabama, Mr. Henry T. Smith, of Choctaw county, to Miss Wesley A. Resteier, of Jefferson.

WILLIAMS—RAWLS.—By the Rev. H. H. Cottrell, January 4, 1875, near Spring Hill, Marengo county, Alabama, Mr. Silon Williams to Mrs. Martha J. Rawls, both of said county.

HOOD—GEALDING.—January 12, 1875, at the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. R. W. Coons, Mr. William Hood, of Walker county, Alabama, to Miss Vallanta Gealding, of Blount county, Alabama.

COOPER—DEBARDELAREN.—December 14, 1874, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Warren DeBardelaben, by Rev. W. A. Montgomery, Mr. John D. Cooper, of Georgia, and Miss Callie Lee DeBardelaben, of Autauga county, Alabama.

GOLSAN—TYUS.—By the same, December 21, 1874, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Randolph Tyus, of Autauga county, Alabama, Mr. B. F. Golsan and Miss Estelle Tyus.

SIMPSON—PAIN.—January 6, 1875, at the residence of the bride's mother, near Newport, Mississippi, by the Rev. S. D. Terry, Mr. C. A. Simpson to Miss M. J. Pain.

WARE—SIMMONS.—By the same, January 10, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, near Newport, Mississippi, Mr. J. R. W. Ware to Miss Martha E. Simmons.

PARVIN—HENDERSON.—At the residence of the bride's sister, by Rev. J. M. McKee, on the seventh of December, 1874, Rev. Robert Parvin, of the Farmerville circuit, Louisiana Conference, to Mrs. Sarah Henderson, of Lincoln parish, Louisiana.

JONES—SMITH.—By the Rev. E. M. Turner, at the residence of the bride, Gainestown, Alabama on the tenth instant, Mr. James S. Jones, of Texas, formerly of Clarke county, Alabama, to Mrs. D. Dorlisku Smith.

DAHLBERG—STRINGER.—On the fourteenth instant, by the Rev. E. M. Turner, at the residence of Mr. Walter Taylor, Jackson, Alabama, Mr. F. W. Dahlberg to Miss Lemar Stringer, all of Clarke county, Alabama.

PARKER—TAYLOR.—By the same, at same the time and place, Mr. W. S. Parker to Miss Amelia Taylor, all of Clarke county, Alabama.

Mission Drafts.

Those persons who hold mission drafts on the treasurer, at Nashville, for the first and second quarters of the current year, will please send them direct to A. H. Redford, treasurer, or J. B. McFerrin, secretary of the Board of Missions, and not send them through banks, nor transfer them to merchants or others. There are imperative reasons for this request.

THOS. O. SUMMERS, Pres.
J. B. MCFERRIN, Sec.
A. G. HAYGOOD, Sec.
A. H. REDFORD, Treas.

REV. E. L. JANES, twin-brother of Bishop Janes, says the New York Christian Advocate, and long one of the best-known and most devoted and highly esteemed members of the Philadelphia, New York and New York East Conferences, died at his residence in Flushing, on Sunday morning. His health has been failing for the last two years. His closing illness was for about four weeks. At first he was able to be about the house, but during the last fortnight was confined to his bed, his disease assuming an acute and violent form. During his illness his religious enjoyment was very great, and his end full of hope. His age was sixty-seven.

CONVEY thy love to thy friend as an arrow to the mark, to stick there, not as a ball against the wall to rebound back to you. That friendship will not continue to the end that is begun for an end.—Enchiridion.

Publisher's Department.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL.

For the Week Ending Jan. 16, 1875.

A—John Anderson $2, C O Andrews, Edwin Alden two letters $1, D Ayers, Daniel Appleton & Co, S A Alston $6, H C Armstrong.

B—Mrs M A Bomer, J Lane Borden, H A Beason $5, L S Borden, G J Babin, H F Bowen, T C Bradford, Barnes & Wilkinson, Boorum & Pease, H Bainbridge & Co.

C—Henry Connor $1, Cassell, Petter & Galpin, William G Cocke, H H Chandler & Co $8, John F Cook $13, C S Cozine $2, C M Connolly $4, Thomas Cotton, R W Coons, H B Cottrell $1, B T Chapman $10.

D—L D Dameron four letters, Dixon Doniy two letters, R H Drummond & Co, John H Denton Charles H Ditson & Co, G W Dadison, W L Ditto, Donaldson & Co.

E—E Edmunds, W G Elder, Eastland & Co $45, J S Ellis, John D Emack.

F—J L Farrell, Mrs M B Fuller $2.50, J K Funk, Charles J Fluker, E N Freshman, E A Folford, H Farrelly, French & Co.

G—W W Graham, William W Gamble, H Grammer & Bro. two letters $1.50, Malcolm M Graham, Elias George, R J Guthrie, A J Gibson, Ed T Goodwin, Louisa R Griffith $2.

H—Harney & Washington $23.25, H E Hamilton, A W Howlin, E N Haughwout & Co, Charles S Harris, T N Hornsby $2.25, P H Howsen, W F Hamilton, D M Hudson, H C Hunter, Simon Hall.

J—H F Johnson, W H Johnson, K A Jones, W W Jared, P A Johnson $9.40, W J Joyce $12.70.

K—Theodore E Kelly, W B King $3.90.

L—J B Lippincott & Co, Miss Fannie H Lloyd $2.50, E A Lanier $2.50, E H Lengsfield $5, Miss Lizzie P Larkins $5.50, F Edgar Lindsay, Sarah H Langston, Lee, Shepard & Dilllingham, Aquile Lane $1, Will H Leith $11.50.

M—W N Maddox, J G Mitchell, J E Mason two letters $1.75, I Z T Morris, Morgan Envelope Company, F T Matthews, D L McCauley, Moody & Jameson $3.60, G & C Merriam, W A Montgomery, E A Morse $2.50.

N—V H Nelson, John W Newman $5, J D Newsom $37.75, H T Nabors $3.00, J Nicholson, Newark Portable Book Rest Company.

O—Oatis & Worrell $11.40, J M Owens $2.

P—W H Posey $5, Pope Bros. & Engeman, J L Peters, Porter & Bainbridge, Elias Phillips, J G Penn $180.93, W C Pipkin $2.

R—B H Reynolds, George P Rowell & Co two letters $5.75, R G Ragan, J W Rosh, A H Redford agent two letters, Robinson & Co, George Routledge & Co, Reed & Lathrop $100, J M Roddy $ 6.50, J M Roberts $2.

S—Smith & Boatner, St Louis Advertising and Publishing Company two letters $4, R A Sidney, E G Selchow, J H Shelton, Abram Smith $4, Still & Lacey, Samuel Smith $2.50, M L Stebbins, W T Simpson, Mrs Mary Sale, Seay & Seay $50, Thomas M Smith, B L Selman.

T—Taylor & Myers, A T Tidwell.

U—S C Upham $15.

W—Mrs M O Walrath $6, Mary S Wall $4, Wimberly & Rea, Mrs M C Washington $2, George R Welson, J K Ward $1, Willy Wallach two letters, B S Walkley $6, Alfred White, David Wallace.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS ON REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

GOLD PENS.—The popularity of the pen depot of A. M. Hill, 86 St. Charles street, has been rapidly and continually increasing, and his business increasing in the same ratio. There is no doubt in our minds as to the excellency of the pens he sells. He keeps also other articles of jewelry.

WOOD AND COAL.—See advertisement of the steam wood yard of Mr. W. N. Packard, corner of Ursulines and Rampart streets, who will deliver wood, coal and charcoal promptly at short notice, and sawed, if desired.

YEAST POWDERS.—Egan's Louisiana yeast powders are guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. See advertisement and call on Thos. Egan, manufacturer, 34 Common street.

ARCHITECT.—Those needing the services of an architect will find in Mr. T. Wildrey Carter, at 47 Polymnia street, a man who is reported to be thoroughly competent.

THE New Louisiana Remedy for throat and lung diseases is represented among our advertisements. It has been highly recommended by many who have used it.

PLANTERS and gardeners should read the advertisement of R. Maitre, Esq., seedsman and florist, No. 602 Magazine street, New Orleans.

MESSRS. LEVY BROS., 580 Magazine street, have on hand a well selected stock of dry goods. Purchasers would do well to give them a call.

READ advertisement of the C. O. D. Hat store.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT.—The old and popular gun depot of F. Charleville is in liquidation under the management of Mr. R. Rhodes, with the assistance of Mr. Folsom, a gentleman of much experience in filling orders and well known in connection with the business, to assist him in serving country customers. Mr. Rhodes is sure that he can meet the views of merchants and country custom—if they will call at 55 St. Charles street, or address him at post-office box 1509, New Orleans.

WATCHMAKER.—We have known Mr. A. Hoitel, 58 Royal street, for many years, and have had work done by him repeatedly, and take pleasure in saying that he has never failed to give satisfaction; and while this is the fact in relation to his work, we can say that we have never found any cause to complain of his charges.

THE FOUR SEASONS has long been a quiet, cheap and well-conducted eating-place. The cooking is good, the place orderly and quiet, and we think the fare equal to that found at many places where the rates are more than double. To those who are interested we would say: Call at 111 Chartres street and try it.

TEETH.—Dr. G. A. Betancourt advertises the materials, use and methods of his work, and invites customers to call at 173 St. Joseph street, where he is prepared to attend to any and everything in his line, and, as will be seen by his advertisement, at very reasonable rates.

CARPETS BELOW COST.—Messrs. E. C. Palmer & Co. certainly have a stock of superb carpets, which they propose to sell below cost. There can be no doubt of the excellence and genuineness of their goods. Call and see for yourselves at 97 Camp street.

A. BONNET, at 65 Royal street, has recently increased his stock of Jewelry and watches, and invites an inspection by the public.

THE advertisement of Dr. Warrington will be found in another column.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

WILBOR'S COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.—Persons who have been taking Cod Liver Oil will be pleased to learn that Dr. Wilbor has succeeded, from directions of several professional gentlemen, in combining the pure oil and lime in such a manner that it is pleasant to the taste, and its effects in lung complaints are truly wonderful. Very many persons whose cases were pronounced hopeless, and who had taken the clear oil for a long time without marked effect, have been entirely cured by using this preparation. Be sure and get the genuine. Manufactured only by A. B. Wilbor, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists. ja21 1t

AVOID CONSUMPTION.—No enemy to the human race is more to be dreaded and is more insidious in its approaches than the too fatal destroyer of the health and happiness of myriads—"Consumption in its ghastly form." The duty of all is to guard against its first advances. This may be done by the timely use of Dr. Tott's Expectorant. ja7 3t

CALOMEL at a discount. Defiance to Southern Fevers. Good digestion is to be secured by using Simmons' Liver Regulator. ja14 1t

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Spaulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. ath5 1y

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hops cures Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by T. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. dc6 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

R. MAITRE.
SEEDSMAN AND FLORIST.
602 ... MAGAZINE ST ... 602

Dealer in Landreth's, Vilmorin's, Henry's and Hippe Bros' Garden and Flower Seeds Greenhouse Plants, Evergreens and Roses. Fruit Trees, and a variety of fancy and ornamental goods for the use of Florists and Bouquet-makers. Catalogues and Almanacs sent on application. A liberal discount to country dealers. ja21 3m

FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—JOHN ROSSO, proprietor of this old and favorite house, announces to his friends that he has removed to No. 111 Charles street, between St. Louis and Conti streets, where, with enlarged premises and increased facilities, he will give them the best the market affords, at the same low prices as heretofore. Private Dining-Rooms up stairs. Also comfortably furnished rooms at reasonable rates. Thankful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him in the past, he asks for a continuance of the same favors. ja21 3m

INFORMATION WANTED.

A tall young man, aged, if living, about twenty-five years, named THOMAS MUNDELL, son of Peter Mundell, Esq., of Scotland, has been lost to his friends for four years. In 1870 he was engaged as second overseer on the estate of the Southern Express Company; afterward he was an overseer on Mrs. Hill's place (care of Judge Watts, Tickfaw Station, Jackson Railroad, Louisiana). In January, 1871, he wrote from Amite City Hotel, Louisiana, George H. Clarke, proprietor, as if stopping there. This is the last heard of him. Any information concerning him sent to REV. J. C. HARTZELL, 186 Camp street, New Orleans, will be transmitted to his bereaved parents. ja21 1t

W. N. PACKARD,
STEAM WOOD YARD,
Corner Ursulines and Rampart Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Pittsburg Coal and Charcoal a specialty. Families supplied with all kinds of Fire Wood at the shortest notice. Wood Sawed and Split to any size desired, at the lowest prices. ja21 2m

A. HOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58 ..... ROYAL STREET 58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.

Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. ja21 3m

HOUSEKEEPERS, ATTENTION!
CARPETS BELOW COST.

Being determined to close out this department, we have made a

Still Further Reduction in Price.

For evidence of same call on
E. C. PALMER & CO.,
ja21 1m 97 Camp street.

THE NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY for Scrofula, Coughs, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Blood-Spitting, Hoarseness, Wasting Away, Throat, Lungs, etc., is unequaled. The proofs are overwhelming, and may be seen at the Depot, 100 CAMP STREET, New Orleans. Splendid for the Voice, and the best Soothing Syrup for children extant. Delicious to the taste. No Poison. Sold by druggists and country merchants. Product of our swamps! ja21 1t

THE STRAWBERRY WATERMELON is the finest Melon known to exist in the world. It has taken nearly two hundred premiums at fairs, without ever losing one. I will send the pure seed of this celebrated Melon by mail, postage free, at the following rates: 30 seeds for 25 cents; 75 seeds for 50 cents; and 200 seeds for $1. Address
T. N. HORNSBY,
Simpsonville, Shelby Co., Ky.

P. S.—Also seed of the Silver Netted Cantaloupe, a new variety of great excellence. 1 package for 25 cents; 5 packages for $1. ja21 1t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

CASH'S NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT THE NAME AND TRADE MARK OF J. & J. CASH.

CAMBRIC

IS THE MOST DURABLE AND SATISFACTORY TRIMMING FOR LADIES', CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' WARDROBES. FRILLING.

ja21 5t

One Gold Pen Will Outwear $10 in Steel Pens.

A. M. HILL'S EXTRA GOLD PENS ARE THE BEST.

PRICES.—No. 1, small size, $1; No. 4, medium size, $1.50; No. 7, large size, $2.50. Elegant Holder and Box for either size, 75 cents. Rubber Pocket Holder, $1. Sent by mail, registered, on receipt of price, or by Express C. O. D. Pens Repointed, 50 cents and stamp. Address

A. M. HILL, Gold Pen Manufacturer,
86 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.
REFERENCES.—All City Merchants. ja21 1y

TEETH! ..... TEETH!

GREAT REDUCTION.

$30—Gold and Platinum Sets—$30.
Usual charge, $100.
$15—Aluminum and Other Materials—$15.
Usual charge, $50.
$2—Gold Fillings—$2.
Usual charge, $5.
$1—Silver, Amalgam and Guillois Cement Fillings—$1. Usual charge, $3.

DR. G. A. BETANCOURT,
173 ..... ST. JOSEPH STREET 173
Between Camp and St. Charles streets,
New Orleans, La.

offers to insert Sets of TEETH at the above prices, with or without the extraction of the roots.

Warrants the purity of all materials, as also the fitting of Plates, stability and duration of fillings, as if paid the highest prices.

Extractions and other operations performed by means of anesthetic agents. Toothache cured instantaneously. Consultations gratis. ja21 1y

THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTMENT in this country is now to be found at the

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 55

Breech-Loading Guns from $25 to $300. Muzzle-Loading Eng. Twist and Laminated steel barrels from $10 to $150. Rifles of every description, Eley's Shells of all sizes, Eley's Caps, Brass Cartridges, all sizes, Powder, Shot, Powder Flasks, Shot Pouches, Game Bags, Hunter's Accoutrements and Fancy Articles—the best assortment. The largest and best assortment of Fishing Tackle ever imported, such as Artificial Baits, Braided Silk Lines, Gibs, etc., etc.

Dealers and Sportsmen are respectfully invited to call and examine our goods before purchasing elsewhere. We feel confident that they will save money by doing so. Address

R. RHODES,
Liquidator of firm of F. Charleville,
P. O. Box 1509, New Orleans, La

TAKE NOTICE.—The concern is being liquidated with a view to its being continued with greater facilities than ever. ja21 2ol

YES, $25 a day is guaranteed using our Well Auger and Drills in good territory.

Highest testimonials from the Governors of Iowa, Arkansas and Dakota. All Tools warranted. Two wells, 50 feet deep, can be bored in one day, and cure will with certainty water sufficient for the head of cattle. Splendid work for winter as well as summer. Descriptive catalogue free. County Rights for sale. Address

JILZ WELL AUGER CO.,
ja21 1t St. Louis, Mo.

Richardson's New Method
FOR THE PIANO-FORTE.

It stands the test! Sells 25,000 yearly, and is gaining friends everywhere. No Piano instruction book ever issued approaches it for real merit and worth, and no teachers regret using it in their course of instruction. This work is a power in the musical advance of the day, and has been a most important agent in the recent tremendous increase of technical knowledge of the Piano-Forte.

The success of RICHARDSON'S NEW METHOD is world-wide, and prompts many competitors, but its sale surpasses that of all others COMBINED, and it stands to-day incontestably superior to all other Piano Methods.

Used by thousands of Music Teachers, and sold by all Book and Music Dealers in this country and Canada.

PRICE, $3.75.

All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

THAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
Boston.

ja18 3y

RAW FURS WANTED. Send for PRICE CURRENT to

A. E. Burkhardt & Co.,

Manufacturers and Exporters of American Fur Skins, 183 West Fourth street, Cincinnati. We pay the highest prices current in America. Shipping to us will save the commissions, profits, etc., and bring prompt Cash and encouraging returns.

Please state what paper you saw this advertisement in. ja21 4t

HOME MANUFACTURE.

Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder.

EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.

Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers.

THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer,
ja21 1m 30 Common street, corner Robertson.

EPILEPSY OR FITS cured by the use of Ross' Epileptic Remedies. Trial packages free. For circulars, evidence of success, etc., address ROSS BROS., No. 257 Main street, Richmond, Ind. ja21 13eow

MEDICAL.

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. no19 1y6pic

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. dc8 1y5p

COUGHS..... COLDS ..... ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY,

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,
B. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 21 and 25 Elysian Fields St., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. Dufilose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. oc29 3m5p

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. GEIGER,
33 ..... CHARTRES ST. 33
Corner of Custom-house,
DEALER IN
BLACK AND COLORED CLOTHS,

Doeskins, Fancy Cassimeres, Silk, Worsted and Velvet Vestings, Linings and Trimmings of all descriptions, suitable for Tailors and Dressmakers. Also on hand Army and Navy Cloths, Military Buttons, Billiard Cloths, Alaskapas Cottonades, Corduroys, Shears, etc., etc. All goods sold at retail de24 1m5p

The Child's Corner.

THE SWEET OLD STORY.

Read again that sweet old story—
Never let its cadence die—
How the Lord of light and glory
Left his happy home on high.

How he came to earth so lowly,
Humble, poor, and meek and mild,
Shepherds, wise men, angels holy,
Bowed in worship to the child.

How he loved the little children,
Laid his hand upon each head;
"Such as these are they in heaven;
Let them come to me," he said.

GUESS.

All over yellow,
Big, fat and round—
A comical fellow,
Lying on the ground.

Roll him home to mamma,
Roll him in the pot;
Put him in a pie;
Eat him smoking hot.

A Sermon for the Little Folks.

"If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."—John xiii, 17.

First. "These things"—that is, your duties. You have duties wherever you are.

1. At home, obedience and respect to parents, and kindness to brothers, sisters and servants.

2. At school, respect to teacher, faithfulness in study, and fairness in play.

3. At church, be quiet, listen, worship, and give your hearts to the Savior.

4. On the street, good manners, modesty, kindness, minding your own business.

Second. How should you do your duty?

1. Not for pay. That is a low motive. Some always ask: "What will you give me?"

2. But from love. So the Savior did when a boy at Nazareth. So the angels do God's will (which is only another name for duty.) This will make you do it cheerfully.

3. Better every day. By trying to do your duties you will become more skillful. So you improve in reading, writing and music. Peter says: "Grow in grace."

Third. Doing duty makes you happy. Sin cannot make you happy. Sin did not make Eve happy, nor Cain nor Judas. Disobedience at home does not make you happy; idleness, unkindness, bad manners, no kind of sin can make you happy. But happiness comes from doing your duty. That is God's reward. This is the promise in the text. Think of this every day for just one week, and see how true it is.

Try, then, to know your duty. Be faithful in duty in doing it from love to God and man; then you will be happy every day on earth, and forever happy in heaven.—The Myrtle.

COURAGE AND COWARDICE.—George came into the house one day all dripping wet. His mother, as she saw him, exclaimed:

"Why, George, my son, how came you so wet?"

"Why, mother, one of the boys said I 'darn't jump into the creek,' and I tell you I am not to be dared."

Now was it courage that led George to do that? Some boys would say it was; and that he was a brave and courageous boy. But no, George was a coward; and that was a very cowardly act. He well knew that it was wrong for him to jump into the creek with his clothes on, but was afraid the other boys would laugh at him if he should stand and be dared.

Edward came strutting up to James, and, putting his fist in his face, said: "Strike that if you dare!" just to see if he couldn't get him into a quarrel. Now which would show the most real courage, for James to give him a hit and have a brutal fight, and both get hurt, or to say, as he did: "Edward, if you want a quarrel, you have come to the wrong boy. I never fight, because it is wrong. You can call me a coward, if you will, but I will show you that I have courage enough not to be tempted by your ridicule to do what I know is wrong." That was brave and courageous.

A good definition of courage is "not to be afraid to do what is right, and to be afraid to do what is wrong." The stories of Daniel and his three friends, and of Joseph, give us fine examples of those who possessed true courage; who were not afraid to do what is right, and who were afraid to do what is wrong.—Congregationalist.

THE EYE THAT ALWAYS SEES.—When a very little boy, I remember reading of a child who was in the habit of going to an upper room or loft where there was a store of apples. But as she went, from time to time, to steal these apples, she met with something that greatly troubled her; for there happened to have been placed in that store-room an old oil-painting.

It was a large face, the eyes of which, go to what part of the room the little girl might, seemed to follow her; and they appeared to be saying to her, as she stooped down to take up the apples: "Ah! I see you. It is very naughty. I'll tell upon you. You are sure to be found out."

Well, this so annoyed the little girl, from time to time, that she was determined to put a stop to this speechifying of these two great staring eyes; so she got a small knife or a pair of scissors and struck them out.

Ah! but there were still the two large holes in place of the eyes, and she never could look at them without thinking of the eyes, and what they used to say to her. She had put out the eyes; but she had not, nor could she, get rid of her conscience. Moreover, the very means she had adopted for sinning without rebuke only served to discover her guilt; for, when what had befallen the painting came to be found out, it led to such inquiries as at last to reveal the whole truth.—Episcopalian.

HARRY'S CHICKENS.—Little Sammy Brent "lived way down South," and was just as full of mischief as a boy of thirteen could be. One evening he came home after a ramble through the woods and by the river, and asked his Brother Harry, who was eight years younger than himself:

"Harry, wouldn't you like to have some funny chickens?"

"I'm just sure I would," answered Harry.

"Well, you take these three eggs and put them in a box of sand, and set it in the sun, and after awhile you'll have three of the funniest chickens you ever saw."

Harry followed his brother's directions, and morning, noon and night he might be seen watching for his brood to poke their bills up out of the sand. At last one hot day, just before noon, the sand began to move, and the queerest kind of a chicken came out. It had a long, horny bill, a long, flat body, without feathers or wings, four feet, and a tail nearly as long as its body. As soon as Harry's excited eyes could see clearly, he exclaimed:

"Oh! oh! it's a alligator! it's a alligator come out of an egg."

If Harry had been a little older he would have known that the alligators bury their eggs in the sand, and wait for the sun to hatch them, and as soon as the young alligators appear the mother conducts them to the water.—Hearth and Home.

HELP MY UNBELIEF.—The master of an infant school, having directed a little fellow to move a stool, but so as not to be himself seen, thus endeavored to instruct the infant charge:

"You cannot see any one moving the stool; is it not alive?"

"Oh! no, master, it's not alive, never was alive; some one must be moving it."

"But you cannot see anybody; perhaps it moves itself."

"Oh! no, sir, though we do not see anybody, that does not make any odds; it does not move itself."

He then told them of the sun, moon and stars; and although we did not see any one move them, yet it was certain they were moved, and no other could do so but God himself, but we could not see him.

"Yes, master, it must be God."

"But, then, my little folks, you cannot see him."

"Please, sir, we must believe it."

"Well, then, you believe it?"

"Yes."

"This, then, is faith."

"Please, sir, then little faith is better than no faith."

"If you have little faith, what will you do?"

Little James said: "I'll shut myself up in a corner, and I'll pray: 'Lord, I believe; help thou my unbelief.'"—Gray.

THE BOOK OF THANKS.—"I feel so vexed and out of temper with Ben," cried Mark, "that I really must—"

"Do something in revenge?" inquired his Cousin Cecelia.

"No; look over my book of thanks."

"What's that?" said Cecelia, as she saw him turning over the leaves of a copy-book nearly full of writing in a round text hand.

"Here it is," said Mark. Then he read aloud:

"'March 8.—Ben lent me his bat.'

"Here again: 'January 4.—When I lost my shilling Ben made it up to me kindly.' Well," observed the boy, turning down the leaf, "Ben is a good boy, after all."

"What do you note down in that?" asked Cecelia, looking over his shoulder with some curiosity.

"All the kindnesses that are ever shown me; you would wonder how many there are. I find a great deal of good from marking them down. I do not forget them, as I might do if I only trusted to my memory, so I hope that I am not often ungrateful; and when I am cross, and out of temper, I almost always feel good-humored again if I only look over my book."

WHAT A CHILD MAY DO.—A few days ago I saw a large, strong man come forward as a candidate for church membership. By the hand he held a fair, delicate child of nine years, and pointing to her, as the tears rolled down his cheeks, he said: "She showed me the way. I knew I was a sinner, and needed pardon and sanctification, but I kept putting the matter off. I heard the most powerful sermons, but would say: 'Go thy way for this time.' My pious wife entreated me to be reconciled to Jesus, but I turned a deaf ear to her persuasions. But when my little daughter came again and again, and, putting her loving little arms about my neck, would say: 'Dear father, won't you go to heaven too? Father, you don't know how good Jesus is. O father! he died for you and me; can't you love him?' I could resist no longer; and, blessed be the God of my dear child, he is mine too now, and shall be mine to all eternity." Thus was the father's soul saved through the prayers and entreaties of a little child.—American Messenger.

NEW LIGHT ON THINGS.—"Halloa, young fellow!" said the cock to the shepherd's dog, eyeing him very fiercely as he ran by; "I've a word to say to you."

"Say on," said Shag; "I am in a hurry."

"I wish to remark," said the cock, "that there has been a great mistake made in the stack-yard; and you can tell your master that he and the other man, instead of turning the corn end of the sheaves into the stack, and leaving the stubbles outside, should have done it the other way. How are my hens and I, do you think, to get at the grain?"

"Oh, ho!" said Shag, "you fancy that farm-yards were made for fowls; but the truth is, fowls were made for farm-yards. Get that into your head, and you won't meddle with arrangements which you can't understand, and don't concern you."

A SPREAD-EAGLE orator wanted the wings of a bird to fly to every village and hamlet in the broad land; but he wilted when a naughty boy in the crowd sang out: "You'd be shot for a goose before you had flied a mile."

Farm, Garden and Household.

Walking Horses.

One of the most desirable and valuable gaits for a horse is a walk, and it should be the aim to first develop this gait in the handling of the colt. The good walker will always make good time on the road when a day's journey is to be made, without wearying himself, while the slow moper must be constantly kept on the trot if time is to be made. A horse that will walk five miles per hour will go as far in a day, confined to this gait, as an ordinary horse can be driven when kept half of the time to the trot, and with much greater ease to himself. If one-half the pains were taken by farmers' boys to make fast walkers of the youngsters on the farm that is usually taken to make them trot, the result would be much more beneficial, and we would find plenty of teams that could do their five miles an hour with ease. But instead of this, as soon as the colt is bridled, the sole aim of "the boys" is to make a trotter of him, and both gaits are spoiled.

Make the colts walk, boys; make them extend themselves in a long, sweeping, square walk, and don't be satisfied with anything less than five miles an hour. When he gets to trotting he will go all the faster for this preliminary training to the walking gait, and if he cannot trot fast enough to beat Dexter or Goldsmith Maid or Occident, he will have a gait that is invaluable for business purposes. We hope to see more attention paid to fast walking than heretofore, and we respectfully urge upon agricultural societies the importance of offering liberal prizes for walking horses at the fairs for the coming year.—National Live Stock Journal.

THE RED RUST-PROOF OAT.—A correspondent of the Rural Carolinian has the following to say about this valuable variety of the oat:

"I premise by stating that my lands are pine, sandy lands, poor and worn; much of them a hundred years old, and of course badly treated in the past. I have tried many varieties of oats, but for five years have adhered, with great satisfaction, to the 'red rust-proof oats,' procured originally from Colonel D. Wyatt Aiken. I have never seen a stalk of this oats rusted; they grow less stalk and heavier grain than any I have ever tried; mature two or three weeks earlier, and thus escape the risk of early summer drought. On very poor and worn lands, with no other manure than a pea crop turned in by double-horse plows, I have made, one year twenty-four and a half bushels to the acre, another year thirty bushels to the acre—a result never approached by me with any other oats."

MANY years ago Torrey and Gray conceived the idea of writing the "Flora of the United States;" but before they had got through with Compositæ, the aster family, so many new species were discovered in the hitherto unexplored regions that the idea had to be laid aside. Dr. Torrey died before the explorations were sufficiently forwarded to warrant a renewed attempt; but it may be that his associate, Dr. Asa Gray, may live to see the work accomplished. Though new species come to light once in awhile, they are not near as common as they were a few years ago. Hayden's sixth annual geological report, just issued, has but one new species, Diecntra uniflora, and this, though a description is here published for the first time, is not entirely new, as it had been discovered a little while before by Dr. Kellogg, in the Sierra Nevadas, who gave it the name adopted in this report.

A NEW NEEDLE.—A lady in San Francisco, the Chroniele of that city says, has invented a new needle, the improvement consisting in making a needle of any size without an eye for the thread, but with, instead, a hole bored longitudinally into the head, or larger end thereof, to the depth of a quarter of an inch or thereabouts, which hole is arranged with a screw-thread. The needle, it is claimed, will carry any kind of thread, and can be used for every purpose. It is thought that it will be valuable also as a surgical needle, as it will require but one thread, the advantage of which will be that a smaller hole will be made in passing the needle through any substance than would have to be made by the partially doubled thread of the ordinary eyed needle.

SURE CURE FOR CHICKEN CHOLERA.—I had and now have some twelve or fifteen game fowls, imported into Maury county, the original stock in 1859. They are freer from attacks of cholera than any other breed I am acquainted with. However, every spring and summer I lose, or rather have lost, a number of fowls, both old and young. I tried all remedies advised or advertised, with only partial benefit. As an experiment I used Brown's Essence of Jamaica Ginger. Take of this one tablespoonful, and put in enough water to mix into dough one quart of meal, and feed three times daily.—Rural Sun.

TOOTH WASH.—Dissolve two ounces of borax in three pints of boiling water, and before it is cold add one or two teaspoonfuls of spirits of camphor, and bottle for use. A tablespoonful mixed with an equal quantity of tepid water, and applied daily with a soft brush, purifies and beautifies the teeth, tends to prevent the formation of tartar, and induces a healthy action of the gums.

PURE air is just as necessary for bees as for man. Beginners should bear this in mind, and never place them in positions exposed to air tainted with impurities.

IF ALL men were to bring their misfortunes together in one place, most would be glad to take his own home again, rather than take a portion out of the common stock.—Solon.

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☞ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 816, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au17 1ysp

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe, free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles.—Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6mirm

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO

FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

de17 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!

Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of

Cast Steel and Wrought Plows

at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Same Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of ten or more are ordered an additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at

JOHN W. NORRIS',
de17 2m 27 Canal street.

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. au26 35t

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1832.

A. BALDWIN, C. KURTIS. C. A. SLOCOMB, A. D. SLOCOMB, } In commendam.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Glass, Conts' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. oc29 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no25 1y

STOVES.....STOVES.....STOVES.

The Cheapest and the "Best."

The "BEST" and the "COTTAGE" COOKING STOVES, to which I call particular attention, are unsurpassed by any in this market for economy, durability and most perfect BAKING. They carry a uniform heat in the oven, and can be adapted to burning COAL, COKE or WOOD, without any additional cost. Every one sold under a full guarantee to do as they are represented or the money will be refunded.

Also a variety of other COOKING STOVES of every grade and price, from $15 upward.

HEATING STOVES.

A very large and complete assortment, suitable for Offices, Parlors, Churches, School-Rooms, etc., all of which are offered at very low prices to suit the times. Also dealer in

TINWARE OF EVERY KIND

and description, to suit the country and city trade, which is offered at UNPRECEDENTEDLY LOW PRICES FOR CASH. Also Sole Agent for the manufacture and sale of the Steam Washer, or Woman's Friend.

Will cleanse your clothes WITHOUT RUBBING. Every one sold is FULLY WARRANTED. It saves labor, wear and tear, and the annoyance of wash-day. It is truly a labor and clothes-saving invention. Three hundred thousand have been sold already through the States since 1871.

☞ State and County Rights for sale.

Call and see at NO. 34 MAGAZINE STREET, New Orleans.

Ja29 1y G. W. W. GOODWYN.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD

OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL

AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.

One vol., extra cloth, $2.50; Half calf, $5.00.
Three vols., ... $6.00; ... ... $12.00.
Six vols., ... $12.00; ... ... $24.00.

ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se24 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

AGENTS WANTED!—ACT AT ONCE.—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of

LIVINGSTONE.

His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa; the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything Come into number—beware bogus imitations. Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our goods

COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.

Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is

THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.

The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR

THE LIFE OF JESUS,

For Young People.

A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address

H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se21 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

CANVASSERS, send No. of your Lodge, and name this paper. We will convince you agents with our superb Home Pictures for Masons, Odd-Fellows, Knights Pythias, Grangers, Red-men, Mechanics, etc., are making double they could any other way; work pleasanter. J. HALE POWERS & CO., Fraternity & Fine Art Pubs., Cincinnati, O. Ja29 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

UPPER CITY

BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,

Keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

Under the Control of J. Phillips,

formerly with Glynn & Winiz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to.

de10 1y LOUIS GIMBEL, Agent.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,

NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se3 6m

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON,
HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. no3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST

SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $25, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.00.

Sold only to Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union,

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 187, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
Je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

Soulé's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.—The Commercial Atheneum of the South, corner Camp and Common streets (Story Building). Mercantile and Banking offices are connected with this institution, daily lectures given, and all branches of a business education practically, scientifically and philosophically taught. An English Department for boys, twelve to eighteen years of age, is a special feature of this institution. French and Spanish are also taught.

GEO. SOULE, Principal.

N. B.—Soulé's Philosophic Commercial and Exchange Calculator, 880 octavo pages, the great arithmetical work of the age, is for sale at the College office. ja22 1y

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
Je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS

PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.
Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe9 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Frimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandnux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

MONUMENTAL

MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT.—At home. Male or Female. $30 a week warranted. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample sent free. Address, with six-cent return stamp, C. LUESS, Williamsburg, New York. my5 1t

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,

Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies,
Top Buggies, Turn-Out-Seat Buggies,
Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets,
Barouches, Rockaways, etc.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

☞ HARNESS at low prices, and send for catalogue and price list. Consult Economy. mar2 3m

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

And Agent for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)

PERIQUE TOBACCO,

19.....CONTI STREET.....19

Ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

JOHN GIBSON,

ENGRAVER

AND

STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER

82 Beekman Street, New York.

Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au9 1y

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

Scientific.

DURING the past year two German mycologists have discovered that some species of minute fungi turn with the sun. The observations were made on species of Peziza and Sordaria. It is entirely new to find heliotropy outside of flowering plants.

A QUARTER-INCH rod of the best steel will sustain 9,000 pounds before breaking; soft steel, 7,000; iron wire, 5,600; iron, 4,000; inferior bar iron, 3,000; cast iron, 1,000 to 3,000; copper wire, 3,000; silver, 2,000; gold, 2,500; tin, 3,000; cast zinc, 160; cast lead, 50; milled lead, 200. Of wood, box and locust the same size will hold 1,200 pounds; toughest ash, 1,000; elm, 800; beach, cedar, white oak, ditch pine, 600; chestnut and maple, 550; poplar, 400. Wood which will bear a heavy weight for a minute or two will break with two-thirds the force acting a long time. A rod of iron is about ten times as strong as hemp cord. A rope an inch in diameter will bear about two and a half tons; but in practice it is not safe to subject it to a strain of more than about a ton. Half an inch in diameter the strength will be one-quarter as much; a quarter of an inch, one-sixteenth as much, and so on.

INDIA RUBBER SHOES FOR HORSES. The Scientific American gives some particulars about a newly-patented horse shoe, designed to supersede iron shoes and to remedy cracked or contracted hoofs. It may be shortly described as an India rubber overshoe for horses. It is made and lined in precisely similar manner to the articles of apparel worn by the human race. The sole is made thick, and is roughened to prevent slipping. The device is easily removed from or put on the hoof, and hence, while standing in the stall or turned out to pasture, the horse may be left unshod. In winter-time the covering serves as a protection against illness due to the common practice of mingling salt with the ice and snow in city streets, while the roughened surface of the rubber beneath serves to give the animal a foothold in slippery weather. Their cost is one-third more than iron shoes, but their durability is great. They have been successfully used for some time past.

THE German astronomer Vogel has recently proposed in the Astronomische Nachrichten a new classification of stars, made on the principle that, in general, the phase of development of the star is mirrored in its spectrum. According to this view there are the following three classes of fixed stars: I. Stars whose state of glow is so intense that the metallic vapor contained in their atmospheres can exert only a very little absorption, so that either no lines or extremely fine lines are perceptible in the spectrum. To this class belong white stars. 2. Stars in which, as in our sun, the metals contained in the surrounding atmosphere announce their presence by strong absorption lines. Here yellow stars are classed. 3. Stars whose glow heat has so far diminished that there may occur associations of matters contained in the atmospheres, which, as recent researches have shown, are always characterized by more or less broad absorption bands. In this class red stars are included. The spectra of red stars Vogel also classifies in three groups. The first includes spectra in which the metallic lines are extremely fine or not at all discernible, and the more refrangible parts of the spectrum, blue and violet, are remarkable for their intensity. The second, spectra in which the metallic lines appear very distinctly. The more refrangible part of the spectrum is, in comparison with the preceding class, dull; in the less refrangible portions faint bands sometimes occur. The third, spectra in which, besides dark lines, numerous dark bands are met with in all parts of the spectrum, and the more refrangible parts of the spectrum are remarkably faint. Vogel suggests further investigation based upon this classification.

HOW FLOWERS BEHAVE.—Sir John Lubbock says: "One other peculiarity of flowers is explained if we take a view of the relations of insects to flowers. Many flowers close their petals during rain, which is obviously an advantage, since it prevents the honey and pollen from being spoiled and washed away. Everybody, however, has observed that even in fine weather certain flowers close at particular hours. This habit of going to sleep is surely very curious. Why do flowers do so? In animals we can understand it; they are tired and require rest. But why should flowers sleep? Why should some flowers go to and not others? Moreover, different flowers keep different hours. The daisy opens at sunrise and closes at sunset, whence its name—day's eye. The dandelion (leonton or taraxacum) opens at seven and closes at five; arenaul inbra is open from nine to three; nymphsa alba from about seven to four; the common house ear hawkweed is said to wake at eight and go to sleep at two; the scarlet pimpernel (anagallis arvensis) to wake at seven and close soon after noon; while tragopogan pratensis opens at four in the morning and closes just before twelve, whence its English name, "John go to bed at noon." Farmers' boys in some parts are said to regulate their dinner by it. Other flowers, on the contrary, open in the evening. Now it is obvious that flowers which are fertilized by night-flying insects would derive no advantage from being open by day, and, on the other hand, that those which are fertilized by bees would gain nothing by being open at night. Nay, it would be a distinct disadvantage, because it would render them liable to be robbed of their honey and pollen by insects which are not capable of fertilizing them. I believe, then, that the closing of flowers has reference to the habits of insects, and it may be observed also, in support of this, that self-fertilized flowers never sleep, and that same of those flowers which attract insects by smell emit their scent at particular hours; thus hesperis matronalis and cychins vesperus smells in the evening, and orchis bifolia is particularly sweet at night.

BUSINESS CARDS.

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,
135 ..... DECATUR STREET 135
Between St. Louis and Toulouse.
Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.
ja14 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

A. W. HYATT.
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38 ..... CAMP STREET 38
P. O. Box 508. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

JOHN McMAINS,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCER
Dealer in Groceries, Teas, etc.,
Nos. 572 and 574 Magazine Street,
Opposite Magazine Market, and
NO. 10 WASHINGTON ST., COR. FULTON,
NEW ORLEANS.
Goods delivered free of drayage. de24 1m

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12 ..... Dumaine St. 12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in BUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

H. P. BUCKLEY,
8 ..... CAMP STREET 8
has for sale, at low prices, Fine Gold and Silver WATCHES, American, English and Swiss; Fine JEWELRY, Sterling SILVERWARE, Gold, Silver and Steel SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES. Particular attention to repairing all kinds of Clocks and Watches. Diamonds remounted and Jewelry repaired. de21 1m

MICHAEL HACKETT,
DEALER IN
FANCY & STAPLE GROCERIES,
Cor. Dryades and Thalia Sts.,
de24 1m New Orleans.

JOHN U. ADAMS,
C. O. D. HAT STORE,
26 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 26
Near Common.
Fresh goods. Low prices. de24 1m

E. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER,
WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 99 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

T. W. BOTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

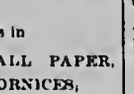
RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38 ..... BOURBON ST. 38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BERO, Agent.

LADIES' HAIR EMPORIUM.
JUST OPENED.
142 ..... Canal St. 142
Imported HUMAN HAIR worked in every conceivable style. Wigs manufactured to order.
Ladies' Hair Combed in the most fashionable styles at very reasonable charges.
de3 2m JULES DELAUNAY, Agent, No. 142 Canal street.

DELGADO & GOLDTHWAITE,
FAMILY GROCERS,
643 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 645
Corner of Jackson, New Orleans.
Goods delivered free of charge to any part of the city. no26 1f

H. H. HUSSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
102 ..... Calliope Street 102
Between Magazine and Constance,
no26 2m New Orleans.

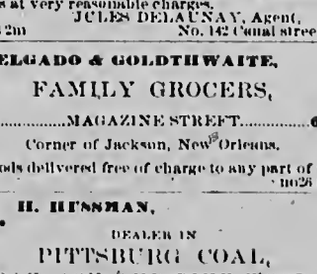
LOUIS TIEMANN,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
Chulee Imported and Domestic Cigars,
Chewing and Smoking Tobacco, Smokers' Articles and Fancy Goods,
CRESCENT CITY CIGAR STORE,
No. 9 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Goods warranted. Country orders promptly attended to. oc22 3m

J. DEBARRY,
BUTCHER,


Stalls Nos. 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market,
NEW ORLEANS.
Ships, Steamboats, etc., supplied at the shortest notice. de10 2m

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
AND LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m F. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y



J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
162 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
☞ A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. nov5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1368.
☞ PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

WOOD ..... COAL ..... WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 282 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (no12 3m) SAM. SMITH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARNETT & CAMMACK,
BROKERS,
12 ..... CARONDELET STREET 12
(Front Office.)
Stocks, Bonds and Securities bought and sold. Money loaned on securities. Taxes and Licenses settled. ja14 6m

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
61 ..... Broadway Street 66
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM HOGAN,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS,
VALISES AND BAGS.
SEWING MACHINES.—Agents for Empire and Gold Medal.
Nos. 99 and 101 Canal Street,
de3 2m New Orleans.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

MATTHEW HENRICK,
CISTERN-MAKER,
Corner Franklin and Erato Sts.,
no19 2m NEW ORLEANS.

JACOB FREIDHOF,
DEALER IN
FIRE-WOOD, PITTSBURG COAL AND CHARCOAL,
38 and 40 Burgundy St., New Orleans.
Wood Sawed to order. Country orders promptly attended to. no19 2m

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
46 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL ..... COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
9 ..... CARONDELET ST. 9
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates. oc29 3m H. & C. TYLER.

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79 ..... Carondelet St. 79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. Jy2 1y

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

FRANCIS LAUER,
IMPORTER OF AND DEALER IN
China, Earthen and Glassware,
Silver-Plated and Table Cutlery, Coal Oil Lamps, Chimneys, House-Furnishing Goods, etc.,
616 MAGAZINE STREET,
de24 1m Cor. Josephine, New Orleans.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND —AND— DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
201, 203, 205 and 207 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. je11 1y

COAL ..... COAL. ..... COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115 ..... Canal Street 115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated Ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN IOHS,
le26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce,
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE,)
je1 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS,
TRADE-MARKS, COPYRIGHTS, ETC.,
Procured by
mh26 10m D. N. JENKINS,
No. 27 Commercial Place, New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
my21 1y M. S. HEDRICK, 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COULON.
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37 ..... Camp Street 37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 1f.

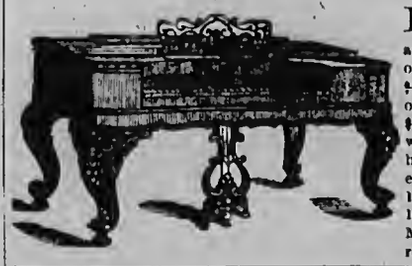
T. WHINBEY CARTER,
ARCHITECT,
47 ..... POLYMNIA STREET 47
ja15 1y New Orleans.

GAS FIXTURES,
GAS COOKING STOVES
AND PLUMBING MATERIALS
At New York Prices,
BY P. D. QUINLAN, 280 CAMP STREET.
Stores, Offices and Dwellings fitted up for Gas, Steam and Water in the most approved style. Country orders solicited. mh26 10m

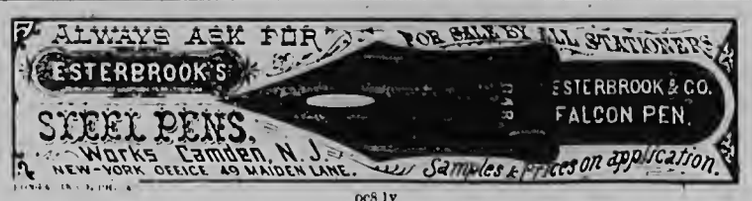
F. J. KUHNHOLZ,
BOOK-BINDER,
113 ..... GRAVIER ST. 113
Near Camp, New Orleans.
Blank-Books ruled and bound to order. All other books, such as Magazines, Music, Law-Books, etc., bound with care and neatness, and at moderate prices. ja22 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.
JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 48 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
☞ For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper. ☜
Cash Orders Solicited. de7 1y



BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second hand Pianos at $10, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

NEW LEATHER STORE.
A. F. RICAU,
IMPORTER AND DEALER IN
French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,
Shoe Findings, etc.,
80 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.
Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

J. R. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. je4 6m

T. B. HONOR,
MANUFACTURER AND REPAIRER OF
Hair, Feather and Moss Mattresses,
NO. 230 MAGAZINE STREET,
Bet. St. Joseph and Delord, New Orleans.
Steamships, Steamboats, Hotels and Boarding-Houses supplied at short notice and at the lowest rates. Country orders solicited and promptly attended to. de21 (m)

mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—530 ROYAL STREET,
Shop—420 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. HENRY SMITH.
130 ..... CANAL STREET 130
Over Eyrich's Book Store.
Consultation hours—11 to 2 o'clock.
Residence—567 St. Charles street, near Philip.
Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 1 and 7 P. M. ja24 1y

A. L. TICKER.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
166 ..... COMMON STREET 160
de21 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152 ..... Julia Street 152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. de17 1y

J. A. & E. J. DeHART,
DENTISTS,
183 ..... CANAL ST. 183
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je29 1f

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. SACK. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS, manufacturer, (and 0)
70 Fourth street ..... LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street ..... CINCINNATI, O.

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

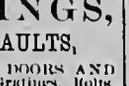
JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.

POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest

Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use,
working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty four sizes, from 5½ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.

Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Rollers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Ebaugh's Crusher for Minerals Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
☞ Send for Circulars. se3 6m

STAR IRON WORKS.
WALTON, HEMLER & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
IRON RAILINGS,
SAFES AND BANK VAULTS,
JAIL CELLS, IRON STAIRS, DOORS AND SHUTTERS, Awning Frames, Gratings, Bolts, Stirrups, Verandas, Balconies, Patent Sidewalk and Sky-Lights, and all kinds of Iron Work for buildings.
Nos. 234 and 236 West Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. oc29 3m

WIRE RAILING AND ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.


DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
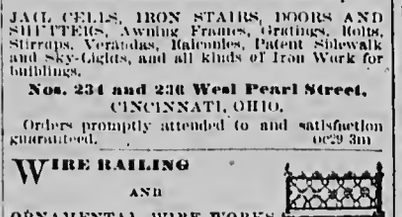
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati
H. J. WEST, Agent,
mh5 1y 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, BURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Ponchos, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28 ..... Beekman Street 28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.



oc29 3m

$10 A DAY. Novelties.—Employment for all. Patent au13 1y GEO. L. FELTON & CO., 119 Nassau street, New York.

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES.

The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne.)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

CRESCENT MACHINE SHOP.
JOSEPH WALKER,
Machinist, Engineer, Blacksmithing,
ETC., ETC.,
CORNER ST. JOSEPH AND CONSTANCE STS.
New Orleans.
☞ Plantation Machinery manufactured and repaired. Jobbing promptly attended to. fe8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

CARD.
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.
I am using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in the laundry department of my hotel, and consider it a very valuable acquisition. I would not dispense with the use of it for four times its value. R. S. MORSE, Proprietor City Hotel.
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12, 1874.
We have been using SHEPARD'S PATENT STARCH GLOSS in our laundry for more than three months past, and can say that it is decidedly the best article for the purposes for which it is recommended that we have ever used. We believe we have used everything of the kind in the market.
W. W. FREEMAN,
Manager Crescent City Steam Laundry Co.
MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM H. SHEPARD & CO.
OFFICE—106 CAMP STREET,
de24 1m New Orleans

WILLIAM GREGG MRS. ADA GREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 154 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA GREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies' and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
je5 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage, being in the business for years. I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employment of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
jy23 6y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
549 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 549
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 10m

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

TRADE MARK:
THE ROBERT E. LEE.
H. LAROUSSINE, dealer in HATS, CAPS, Furs, Umbrellas, etc., corner Canal and Bourbon streets, and corner Royal and St. Louis streets, New Orleans. Country orders attended to. de31 6m

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 11 feet 1 inch beinw high-water mark.

COTTON.—The follnwing are the arrivals since the fifteenth instant:

Mtsissippi river and bayous	6,902
Red river	2,503
Ouachita river	3,128
Railroads	1,533
Lake	51
Mobile	3,257
Texas	113
Total	19,397

On Saiurday the movement was checked throughout the day by dark and rainy weather, and by the comparatively few buyers who came forward being unwilling to go on unless at a concession, which, as a general thing, factors were compelled to admit or omit sales. In some instances, however, there was no quotable falling off, but in others buyers obtained a reduction of ⅛c., and in exceptional cases of ¼c. Among the sales, which were confined to 2,050 bales, we nnticed strict low middling at 14⅜c., and strict middling at 14¾c. On Mnnday the market opened under the favorable influence of an advance in both spots and futures at New York, ⅛c. in the former, and 1-16c. at Liverpool, where the sales were put down at 5,000 bales.) Factors consequently raised their pretensions ⅛@¼c., which checked the movement but up to noon the sales had, nevertheless, reached 2,000 bales, partly at previous rates, but in some cases at an advance of ⅛c., after which the movement became more animated, and further sales were effected to the extent of 4,500 bales, making a total of 6,500 bales. On Tuesday prices were strengthened by the favorable dispatches from Liverpool and New York. The movement was checked by dark and rainy weather, the difficulty of effecting deliveries, and the high pretensions of factors, but the sales, nevertheless, embraced 3,400 bales, partly at previous rates, but mostly at a further improvement of ⅛c., exceptional transactions showing an advance of ¼c.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 12,250 bales, against 16,500 for the corresponding time last week and 23,250 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 652,362 bales, against 688,492 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 130,062 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 126,086 bales to Great Britain, and a decrease of 44,811 to France and 25,347 to other foreign ports. We quote:

Ordinary	12¼ @ 12½
Strict ordinary	12⅝ @ 12⅞
Good ordinary	13⅛ @ 13⅜
Strict good ordinary	13½ @ 13⅝
Low middling	14¼ @ 14⅜
Strict low middling	14⅝ @ 14⅞
Middling	14¾ @ 15
Strict middling	15 @ 15⅛
Good middling	15¼ @ 15⅜
Middling fair	15⅝ @ 16¼
Fair	16¼ @ 16¾

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	19,397
Arrived previously	738,297—	757,861
		773,817
Exported past three days	11,587
Exported previously	463,808—	475,395
Stock on hand and on shipboard		298,422

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The supplies on Saturday and Monday were confined to 331 hhds., which were mostly sold at 5@5¾c. for inferior, 6@6¼c. for common, 6⅜@6¾c. for fair, 7@7¼c. for good fair, 7⅜@7½c. for fully fair, 7¾c. for prime, 8c. for strictly prime, 8⅛c. for choice, 8¼@8½c. for low to choice seconds, 7⅞@8¼c. for centrifugal, 8¼@8½c. for gray clarified, 8½@9c. for yellow clarified, 8¾@9¼c. for off-white clarified, and 9¼@10c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 977 hbls. and 12 half hhds., which were mostly sold at 30c. for inferior fermenting, 35@40c. for common do., 48@50c. for fair do., 53@55c. for prime not fermenting, 58@60c. for strictly prime, and 62c. for choice.

CORN.—On Tuesday 2,700 sacks sold at 85c. for white mixed, and 86@87c. for choice white.

OATS.—On Tuesday the market was dull, and 950 sacks sold at 72@73c. ₱ bushel.

BRAN.—On Saturday and Monday only 300 sacks sold at $1,01 ₱ 100 ℔s.

PORK.—On Tuesday 200 bbls. new standard mess sold, in three lots, at $20 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—Only 15 casks clear sides sold on Saturday at 12c. ₱ lb., and on Tuesday 5 casks clear sides sold at 12c. ₱ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—On Tuesday four car-loads of shoulders sold at 7¼c., and two car-loads at 7½c. ₱ lb.

HAMS.—Choice new sugar-cured continue in good supply and dull. They are quoted at 14@14¼c. ₱ lb., and are jobbing at 14½@15c. ₱ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 112½@112¾, against 112⅝ at New York, and after a fair business closed at the opening rates, against 112½ at New York...

Nothing has been reported in silver. It is quoted at 108@108½ for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97@97½ gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	16 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BRICKS, ₱ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₱ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₱ lb.:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₱ lb.:
Merican	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₱ dozen:
Western	30	33
FERTILIZERS, ₱ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	— —	5 25
Superfine	— —	— —
Fine	— —	4 50
GLASS, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₱ ton:
Prime	— —	24 00
Choice	26 00	27 00
IRON, ₱ ton:
English, ₱ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7¾	8
Hoop	6	9
Sheet	5½	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	6
LEATHER, ₱ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₱ dozen	35 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	26
LIME, ₱ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	18 00	20 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₱ M	— —	3 25
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₱ gallon	1 15	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	14	15
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₱ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₱ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	55	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Pouchong	80	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$40 00 @ 46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₱ head	30 00 @ 35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₱ head	20 00 @ 25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₱ head	— — @ 15 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	4 00 @ 5 50
Sheep, first quality ₱ head	4 00 @ 5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₱ head	3 00 @ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00 @ 100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	35 00 @ 40 00
Calves, ₱ head	7 00 @ 9 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	8 00 @ 9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year for want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
J. Hale Powers, Cincinnati, Ohio.
George Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Architects.
T. Whitney Carter, 47 Polymnia street, New Orleans.

Banks.
Southern Bank, J. Garr, cashier.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Bellfhg.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Book-Binder.
F. J. Kuhnholz, 112 Gravier street.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Hitsou & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Hitson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. S. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Glnihel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
William Hogan, 99 and 101 Canal street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Brokers.
Barnett & Cammack, 12 Carondelet street.

Butchers.
J. Dalcarry, Stalls 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market.

Carpets.
A. Brousseau & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 108 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Snell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockeryware.
Francis Lauer, 616 Magazine street.
Samuel E. Moore, 55 Camp street
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Cistern-Makers.
M. Henrick, corner Franklin and Ernto streets.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Cloths.
A. Geiger, 33 Chartres street.

Coal and Wood.
Jacob Freidhof, 38 and 40 Burgundy street.
H. H. Russman, 102 Calliope street.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Caroudelet street, New Orleans.
William Veiden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Bero, 38 Bourbon street.
F. Trolle, 590 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
P. A. Leblanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
R. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
J. A. & E. J. DeHart, 183 Canal street.

Dry Goods.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hiwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Soule's Commercial College, corner Camp and Common streets.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hart, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Edmond Bonrgeois, 19 Conti street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Baronne street.
R. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. R. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clinton st.

Furniture.
John Rols, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Gas Fixtures.
P. H. Quinlan, 280 Camp street.

Glass Staining.
Boelcker & Povejoy, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
William Bdie, 481 St. Charles street.
J. J. Brown, 78 Magazine street.
Delgado & Goldthwaite, 643 and 645 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.
Michael Hackett, corner Dryades and Thalia streets.
John McMahn, 572 and 574 Magazine street.

Hair Goods.
Jules Delannoy, agent, 142 Canal street.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street, New Orleans.

Hats.
John U. Adams, 26 St. Charles street.
Robert E. Lee Hat Store, corner Royal and St Louis streets.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Iron Manufacturers.
Walton, Hemler & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Leather.
A. F. Ricau, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 694 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. Walker, cor. St. Joseph and Constnance sts.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Hull & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cinchona Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Kearney's Extract Rhubn, Kearney & Co., 104 Doane street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm; B. Laplace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Rood street, New York
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 163 Spring street, New York.
W. R. Shearer, 101 Camp street.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. B. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Horace Waters & Son, 481 Broadway, New York.
Philip Werlein, 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
L. J. Marcy, 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.
Dr. Van Helmi, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hellsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Patents.
H. N. Jenkins, 27 Commercial place

Pens.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Plows.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
Dr. Henry Smith, 130 Canal street.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 160 Common street

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Froischer, 12 Dumaine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soap.
J. B. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Starch Glaze.
William H. Shepard & Co., 108 Camp street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 38 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
G. W. W. Goodwyn, 34 Magazine street.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
John P. Oaspard, 135 Decatur street.
J. M. Justiniani, 311 Burgundy street.
Louis Tiemann, 9 Camp street, New Orleans.

Undertaker.
T. W. Bothick, 271 Camp street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.
T. B. Honor, 230 Magazine street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.

Washing Machines.
Ringan Washer, H. Hallar, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Boltel, 58 Royal street.
H. P. Buckley, 8 Camp street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
E. A. Tyler, 113 Canal street.

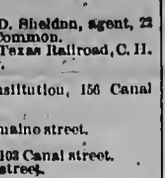
Window Shades.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dufur & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!



SAVE YOUR EYES!
Restore your Sight!
THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,
By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYESIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.
WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957.) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.
no26 1y

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

PRATTVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Prattville station	Jan. 2, 3
Lowndesboro circuit, at Lowndesboro	9, 10
Georgiana circuit, at Georgiana	16, 17
Monterey circuit, at Liberty	23, 24
Evergreen circuit, at Evergreen	30, 31
Sepulga circuit, at Asbury	Feb. 6, 7
Pineville circuit, at Pineville	13, 14
Camden circuit, at Camden	20, 21
Monroeville circuit, at Monroeville	27, 28
Brewton mission, at Castleberry	Mar. 6, 7
Pleasant Hill circuit, at Pleasant Hill	13, 14
Randolph circuit	20, 21
Autaugaville circuit, at Autaugaville	27, 28
Clanton mission, at Bethel	Apr. 3, 4

A full attendance is earnestly solicited.
J. W. SIMONS, P. E.
7 Georgiana, Ala. (M. and M. R. R.)

EUFAULA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Enfaula	Jan. 16, 17
Enon and Midway	23, 24
Clayton and Louisville	30, 31
Pea River mission	Feb. 6, 7
Vihula	13, 14
White Pond	20, 21
Henry	27, 28
Glennville	Mar. 6, 7
Beniak	13, 14

The district stewards will meet at Enfaula, January 16.
7 W. H. ELLISON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rankin circuit, at Wesleyann	Jan. 16, 17
Enon circuit, at Enon	23, 24
Westville circuit and Taylorville mission, at Antioch	30, 31
Mount Carmel circuit, at Dry Creek	Feb. 6, 7
Columbia circuit, at Hopewell	13, 14
Pearlington circuit, at Pearlington	20, 21
Ocean Springs circuit and Handshoro mission, at Ocean Springs	27, 28
White Plains circuit and Black Creek mission, at Mulberry Grove	Mar. 6, 7
East Pascagoula circuit, at Zion	13, 14
Chickasawha and Greene mission, at Mutual Rights	20, 21

The district stewards will meet me at Enon, January 23.
21 C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Clinton station, at Clinton	Jan. 16, 17
Woodville station, at Woodville	23, 24
Jackson and Pipkin's chapel, at Jackson	30, 31
East Feliciana, at Pine Grove	Feb. 6, 7
Bayou Sara, at Concord	20, 21
Wilkinson, at Bethel	27, 28
Buffalo	Mar. 6, 7

The meeting of the district stewards will be held at Jackson, Louisiana, January 30.
C. G. ANDREWS, P. E.,
14 Jackson, La.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waynesboro circuit, at Waynesboro	Jan. 9, 10
Enterprise station	16, 17
Shubuta circuit and Ellisville mission, at Shubuta	23, 24
Chunkey circuit, at Chunkey	30, 31
Enterprise circuit, at Sageville	Feb. 6, 7
Spring Hill circuit, at Bethel	13, 14
DeKalb circuit, at Pleasant Ridge	20, 21
Paulding circuit, at Paulding	27, 28
Meridian station	Mar. 6, 7
Desoto circuit, at DeSoto	13, 14
Wayne circuit, at Andrew chapel	20, 21
Marion circuit, at Marion	27, 28

The district stewards are called to meet in the Methodist church at Meridian on Wednesday, January 27, at ten o'clock A. M. No other body is authorized to do the work of this meeting. Let the brethren therefore, at the time and place above, answer to their names—H. H. McCormick, Angus Taylor, J. H. Cochran, Daniel McInnis, Joseph Price, Dr. James Webb, Dr. C. R. Rencher, T. Z. Hanks, J. R. Pendleton, J. A. Lewis, and two to me unknown.
7 JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

New Iberia	Jan. 30, 31
Franklin	Feb. 6, 7
Patterson ville	13, 14
Abbeville	20, 21
Opelousas	27, 28
Washington	Mar. 6, 7
Evergreen	13, 14
Spring Creek	20, 21
Lake Charles	27, 28
Vermillionville	Apr. 10, 11

The District Conference and district stewards' meeting will be held at Vermillionville, beginning on Thursday, April 8.
21 J. E. COOK, P. E.

SOUTHERN BANK.

NEW ORLEANS, January 2, 1875.

At the election held on the ninth ultimo the following-named gentlemen were unanimously elected Directors of this Bank for the ensuing year, viz.:

Thomas Layton,	Wm. C. C. Claiborne,
John T. Moore,	Bradish Johnson,
H. H. Stanley,	Wm. C. C. Claiborne, Jr.

And at the meeting of the Board this day THOS. LAYTON, Esq., was unanimously re-elected President.
Jan4 2t J. GARR, Cashier.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S LUXURIOUS EAR PREPARATION does for the body what the rain does for the earth (the body is earth.) It gives scavenge to the head and trunk, removing all obstructions and pinging from the system. It cleanses the Lungs, Heart and Liver; breaks up the worst cold, and does wonders for the entire body. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $1 50 and 50 cents per bottle. ☞ The Ear Preparation is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery, which cures Deafness, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, etc. oc15 1yeow

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS,	TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS,	TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS,	SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 121 pieces, for $15 00
to wit:
12 Dinner Plates, 1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates, 1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates, 1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates, 2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates, 2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers, 4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers, 2 Pickle Stands,

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above. $18 00
A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces 30 00
Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from ..... $30 up.
White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00
White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces 4 00
French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces 8 50
French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces 7 50
Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street,
de17 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. Ja7 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI,
Ja14 1m Proprietor.

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by DR. J. BERENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. B. SHEARER,
Ja14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Poydras.

NORTH AND SOUTH.

I will exchange for Louisiana property 312½ ACRES OF FINE LAND, adjoining the corporation of Grand Junction, Tennessee, lying on and between the Memphis and Charleston and the New Orleans and Chicago Railroads. One hundred and fifty acres are in cultivation. Six Tenant settlements; also a nice Residence within one hundred yards of the depot.

I am compelled to go South for my health. Any person wishing a trade of this kind can address me.

D. C. WELLS,
Ja14 2t Grand Junction, Tennessee.

CARPET WAREHOUSE.

17 ..... CHARTRES STREET 17

A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtains and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Step Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

HENRY ERBEN & CO.,

ORGAN MANUFACTURERS,

235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-Third St.,

Bet. Second and Third Aves., NEW YORK.

There are seventeen Organs in this city of our make, among them the largest. au27 1yeow

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO. Portland, Maine. fe5 1y

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. SHEPARD & CO., 803 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. Ja14 3m

RAILROADS.

NEW ORLEANS, ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO RAILROAD CO.

(Great Jackson Route.)

Trains depart and arrive as follows, from Calliope street Depot:

DEPART.
Express	7.00 A. M.
Mail	6.00 P. M
ARRIVE.
Express	11.00 P. M.
Mail	10.30 A. M.

PULLMAN PALACE SLEEPING-CARS THROUGH TO ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO AND LOUISVILLE.

Only one change of Sleeping-Cars to Eastern cities.

Tickets for sale and information given at 22 Camp street, corner of Common.

A. H. SHELDON, Agent.
E. D. FROST, General Manager. de4 6m

NEW ORLEANS, MOBILE AND TEXAS RAILROAD.

THE MOBILE LINE is the shortest and most reliable route to New York and all Northeastern cities. Pullman Palace Cars, via this line only, to Louisville, Atlanta and Charlotte. But one change to all principal Northern and Eastern cities.

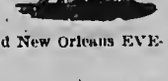
Express Train leaves Depot, foot of Canal street, daily at 4.15 P. M.

For tickets and information apply at office of Mobile Line, corner of Camp and Common streets, opposite City Hotel.

E. P. SILUTE, General Ticket Agent.
C. H. ALLEN, General Manager. no19 3m

STEAMSHIPS—STEAMBOATS.

FOR NEW YORK.



MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin Passage $50 00
Steerage Passage 25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf—Foot of Jefferson street.

New York wharf—Pier No. 4, North River

JOHN H. LUDWIGSEN, Agent,
fe12 1y No. 190 Common street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WATERS' NEW SCALE PIANOS,

Square & Upright, are the best made. The touch elastic, the tone powerful, pure and even throughout the entire scale, yet mellow and sweet.

WATERS' CONCERTO ORGANS

*

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1875. NO. 5.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

ATLANTA, Jan. 20.—A large meeting of ex-Confedernte soldlers resldlng in Georgia was held here to-day. There were four hundred in attendance. The object of the convention was to provide for the widows nnd orphans of deceased soldlers nnd preserve the war history of the Georgin troops. General Joseph E. Johnston was elected president. The session was enthusiastic. The convention ndjourned to meet nt Macon on the second day of the State Fair.

SALT LAKE, Jan. 20.—A fearful storm raged here. A number of bridges on the Central Pacific railroad were swept away. There have been several fatal snow slides.

SHREVEPORT, LA., Jan. 23.—We, the undersigned, Northern residents of Shreveport, Louisiana, have read with inexpressible astonishment the statements made by General Merrill and others, representing their community in a condition of anarchy, and its people lawless and defiant; stating that in this vicinity there are not less than two hundred and fifty political criminals; that freedmen are systematically mistreated, cheated of their earnings, and that two thousand have been driven from their homes in penury. We most solemnly assert that all such statements are baseless misrepresentations, and absurdly false. There is no lawlessness here, nor in this vicinity, that has come to our knowledge.

The only disorder that we have known was made by this military slanderer just before the election, by sending his soldiers raiding over the country, arresting unresisting citizens for imaginary offenses, who have not been held for trial because there was no evidence of guilt. If ordinary crimes are not rigorously punished by our present judicial authority, it is through no fault of the intelligent and virtuous part of the community, who have had no voice in their selection. If any of the tenantry have been ejected, it has been to a small extent, and mostly, if not altogether, the vagabonds and vicious men. If there be any destitution among the colored people, it is in no sense from want of remunerative employment.

The relation of the two races is unusually friendly, arising doubtless from the fact that at the recent election many colored men voted, with the taxpayers, the Conservative ticket.

We think the good order here quite remarkable when we reflect that the parish officials and representatives who were elected by six hundred majority, in as orderly an election as we ever witnessed, have been for the second time cheated of their success by the present ruling dynasty.

We will only add that the statements referred to are so outrageously false and groundless that they could only have originated in a crazy brain and poorly concealed malice.

Signed: S. B. Steers, cotton buyer, of New York; E. L. Dennis, cotton buyer, Rhode Island; S. J. Howard, cotton buyer, Connecticut; C. W. Burt, merchant, Iowa; E. H. Crosby, of New York; D. Shapley, planter, New York; A. E. Wright, planter, Ohio; Frank Lewis, boot and shoe dealer, Boston, Massachusetts; E. J. Piggott & Co., cotton buyers, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 26.—The enthusiasm and excitement over the election of Hon. Andrew Johnson to the United States Senate to-day is beyond description. He made a thirty minutes' speech to ten thousand people on the public square to-night, announcing his adherence to Democratic principles as set forth in his administration of the government and former speeches.

FOREIGN.

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—Disturbances have occurred over the baptism of children by the Old Catholics in two villages of this canton, and the presence of troops is necessary to preserve order.

SANTANDER, Jan. 22.—The Carlists threaten violence against the German captain and sailors of the Gustav, who are in Zaranz. If the town is bombarded. The Spanish squadron consequently hesitates to open fire.

ROME, Jan. 24.—General Garibaldi landed at Civita Vecchia last evening, and was received with most enthusiastic demonstrations by the people and conducted through the town by a torchlight procession. The general arrived in Rome to-day. He was met at the railway station by the mayor and members of the municipality and cordially welcomed to the city. Several workmen's societies formed a procession, with bands, and escorted the old hero to his hotel. Immense crowds lined the streets and cheered with the wildest enthusiasm as the general passed. No disorder marked the demonstration.

PARIS, Jan. 25.—Information has been received from Madrid that a preliminary parley was held between the Carlists and Alfonsists on the twenty-third instant, when the basis of a convention was agreed to, the ratification of which on both sides is probable.

There is a rumor that Layard, British minister, will soon be withdrawn from Madrid. It is reported he does not conceal his Republican sympathies.

The bill for the creation of a Senate passed its first reading in the Assembly to-day. The vote was 512 yeas to 188 nays. The Left and Legitimists opposed the first reading.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The Emperor of China died on the twelfth. His successor is a prince five years of age.

Our Indian Work.

VAN BUREN, ARK., Dec. 31, 1874.

MR. EDITOR: I write to redeem my promise, made to you at Louisville, to give you a few items in reference to our Indian missions. In the year 1831 eight young men were transferred from the Tennessee Conference to travel in the bounds of the Arkansas district, then included in the Missouri Conference. The Cherokee and Creek tribes were also included in the district.

Alvin Beard was appointed to the Creek nation, and J. Harrell was directed to form a circuit in the Cherokee nation. The Choctaw missions were under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. When the Arkansas Conference was organized, in 1836, it embraced all the Indian missions south of the Missouri Conference; also that part of the State of Louisiana lying west of the Mississippi river. When the Louisiana Conference was formed, in 1840, the Arkansas Conference only embraced the State of Arkansas and the Indian missions, as before.

In the year 1844 the General Conference, held at New York, formed the Indian Mission Conference, including all the Indian tribes west of the Mississippi river. After the action of the Louisville Convention the Indian Mission Conference adhered to the Church South, and so has remained, sending delegates to every General Conference up to this date. It was generally conceded that the Conference was a success up to 1861. Perhaps no part of the American continent suffered more by the war than the Indian country. It was the middle ground, where the scouts from both armies passed and repassed, and sometimes met in fearful combat; so that when the war ended there was scarcely anything left. Societies, circuits, districts and schools were all scattered to the four winds.

When the General Conference met at New Orleans it was a question whether or not the Indian Mission Conference should be revived. After due reflection, however, the Conference was continued. But to collect these scattered sheep and rebuild the waste places of Zion required extensive travel, and great anxiety and labor. A few of us met Bishop Marvin at the Bloomfield Academy, in September, 1866, where the Bishop was duly inaugurated into episcopal honors. We received our appointments and went to work in earnest. The Indians began to come in from Kansas, Arkansas and Texas to occupy their old homes. Our labors are confined to four tribes—the Cherokees, Choctaws, Chickasaws and Creeks—some sixty thousand in all, scattered over the Territory. Every tribe was visited as soon as practicable, societies were organized, revivals commenced in various places, and now, by God's blessing, we have five districts, some twenty-seven circuits, two schools, with one hundred and thirty scholars, and over five thousand members. We have also three superannuated preachers, and the widows and orphans of five preachers who have fallen in the work.

I have just returned home after a seven weeks' tour on the Cherokee district; find the preachers greatly discouraged, having received pay for only two quarters during the last fifteen months, and the drafts of the third quarter for last year repudiated. Our Indian preachers do not understand it and do not know who to blame. We have to meet the question, and look it full in the face: Will the church support the Indian Mission Conference or let it perish?

This Conference is located nearly in the center of the Southern Methodist Church. It is probable that, if these missions could be sustained for a few years longer, they could be made self-sustaining to a great extent. But if left at this crisis our schools will be broken up, and the preachers will transfer to other Conferences, where they can better take care of their families.

Praying that God may direct us in the path of duty, I am, as ever,

Your brother in Christ,

J. HARRELL.

BY REFERENCE to our advertising columns, says the Picayune of January 21, it will be seen that Warwick, Earl Marshal of the Empire, has issued an order revoking the arrangements for a reception of the King of the Carnival, which had been fixed to take place, as usual, on Mardi Gras, the ninth of February. In this connection we have also to state that the gentlemen composing the societies of "The Twelfth Night Revelers," "Mistick Krewe" and "Knights of Momus" have also concluded to postpone their annual displays and entertainments to a more auspicious season.

THE case of Tilton versus Beecher goes on in the Brooklyn courts, and will continue four or five weeks. Great interest is excited in the case, and people are confident on both sides. Twelve men never had greater responsibility put upon them than the jury empaneled in this case. The best legal talent of the country is engaged on both sides, among others Judge Morris, the leading lawyer of Brooklyn, and William M. Evarts, the leading lawyer of New York.

HAS it never occurred to us, when surrounded by sorrows, that they may be sent to us only for our instruction, as we darken the eyes of birds when we wish to teach them to sing.

ACTIONS, looks, words, steps, form the alphabet by which you may spell character.

Notes from the Field.

WHAT THE AMERICAN BOARD IS DOING.

Some days ago the Rev. J. A. Lyons, of Knoxville, Tennessee, did me the favor to send me a copy of the Missionary Herald for December, 1828. By the same mail the Herald for January, 1875, came to hand. What a missionary history has been wrought out during these forty-seven years! The venerable ex-secretary, Dr. Rufus Anderson, has done the cause a great service in the preparation of his admirable volumes narrating the work of the "American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions." What labors and rewards, what trials and triumphs, are here recorded! Dr. Anderson's volume on the work of the board in the Sandwich Islands is particularly interesting at this time. His two volumes on the "Missions of the Board to the Oriental Churches" are full of useful information. The last volume, setting forth the work of the board in India, is as good as either of the others. These volumes will be found interesting and instructive. Those who wish to understand the spirit and plans of this oldest of American missionary organizations should by all means procure Dr. Anderson's histories. Address "Charles Hutchins, Congregational House, No. 1 Somerset street, Boston, Massachusetts."

How the world has moved since this old number for December, 1828, was printed! We read, for instance: "Information has been received that the Parthian, which sailed from Boston on the third of November, 1827, having on board the missionaries deported to the Sandwich Islands, arrived in the port of Oahu on the seventeenth of April." Now we get letters from China in less than a month's time, and the telegraph reports to us the arrival of a ship in Shanghai before the passengers can land their baggage. Would to God the powers of our modern civilization were consecrated to the work of saving the world!

I did not intend, when I took up my pen, to moralize, but to condense from the official statement in the January number of the Herald a brief account of the work now being done under the direction of the American Board. Under the care of the board are 19 missions, with 72 stations and 496 out-stations. The board employs 377 missionaries, 213 being women, 164 being men, including 5 ordained and 8 unordained physicians. In its various missions the board has under its direction, as native pastors, teachers, catechists and "other helpers," 1,018 persons—in all, 1,395 laborers. The board does a large educational work, "expending, as an educational society, in various ways, not less than $90,000 a year." There are 12 "training and theological schools," 21 "boarding schools for girls," 550 "common schools," and in all these mission schools, 22,031 pupils. The receipts of the board during its last year were nearly half a million—during its first year only $999.52.

Secretary Clark makes the following very encouraging general statements: "Every year is adding to the efficiency of the native force. Pastors are gaining experience and influence; many of them have become able expounders of the word, and show great practical wisdom in the care of their churches, and generally in the conduct of ecclesiastical affairs; nearly half of them are supported by their own people, and the remainder partially so. The statistics show 27 more churches, over 1,000 added to the roll of membership on profession of faith, and that the gospel has been regularly preached the past year, through the agency of the American Board, in 21 different languages, in 568 different towns, cities and islands in various portions of the globe. The influence thus exerted in leavening the thoughts and sentiments of multitudes, and in preparing for the final triumphs of the gospel, no figures can measure."

Where are the mission-fields of the American Board? Let the reader take the best geography and the best map he can find, and study the following "outline lesson:" The Zulu mission, in southeastern Africa, near Port Natal, was established in 1835. This mission contains the following stations: Umzumli, Umsumluzi, Inanda, and several others with unpronounceable names. The European Turkey mission, established in 1858, has 4 stations: Constantinople, Eski Zagra, Somokov and Monastic. The Western Turkey mission, established in 1836, has 7 stations: Constantinople, Manissa, Broosa, Nicomedia, Marsovan, Cesarea, Siras. The Central Turkey mission (around the northeast corner of the Mediterranean,) established in 1847, has 2 stations: Aintab and Marash. The Eastern Turkey mission, established in 1836, at Trebizond, has 5 stations: Bittis, Erzroom, Harpoot, Mardin, Van. The Mahratta mission is one of the oldest, being established in 1813. It is in Western India, with the following stations: Bombay, Ahmednugger, Satara, Bhulnj, Sholapoor. The Madura mission, in Southern India, established in 1834, has 11 stations: Madura, Dindigul, Tirumangalam, Tirupuvanam, Mandapasalai, Melur, Periakulam, Battalagundu, Mana Madura, Pulney, Pasumalai. The Ceylon mission, established in 1816, is in the district of Jaffna, North Ceylon. It has 7 stations: Batticotta, Pouditerpo, Tillipally, Oodooville, Manepy, Chavagacherry, Oodooplity. The Foochow mission, southeastern China, established in 1847, has 2 stations: Foochow, Nautal. The North China mission, beginning at Shanghai in 1854, and at Tientsin in 1850, has 6 stations: Tientsin, Peking, Kalgon, Tunch-Cho, Yucho, Paotingfu. The mission to Japan, begun in 1869, has 2 stations: Kobe and Osaka. Of this work Dr. Clark says: "The year has been one of cheering progress in this field; 2 churches have been organized (1 at each station,) with more than 20 members, and more than half of these wish to become preachers of the gospel to their own people. The brethren feel that 'the country is ripe for the gospel' whenever government restrictions shall be fully removed. Mr. Greene has removed to Yokohama, to labor with others upon the translation of the Scriptures. Another re-enforcement sailed from San Francisco, October 31—Messrs. DeForrest and Adams, with their wives; also Mr. Neesima, a native of Japan, educated in this country, who went with them, to give himself to Christian work for the present, in connection with the mission." The Micronesia mission, established in 1852, has 3 stations: Gilbert Islands, Marshall Islands, Caroline Islands. In the two first there are a number of missionaries sent out and sustained by the Hawaiian Missionary Society. The Dakota mission, established in 1835, has 1 station, in Nebraska: Santee Agency—and 2 in the Dakota Territory: Good-Will and Fort Sully. The Choctaw mission, "resumed in 1872," has 1 station: Green Hill, 20 miles from Fort Smith. The mission to Spain, begun in 1872, has 1 station: Santander. The board has withdrawn from its mission to Italy. The mission to the Austrian empire, begun in 1872, has 3 stations: Prague, in Bohemia; Brunn, in Moravia; Innsbruck, in the Tyrol. The mission to Northern Mexico, begun in 1873, has 1 station: Monterey. The mission to Western Mexico has 1 station: Guadalajara. Concerning this work in Guadalajara the secretary says: "All readers of the Herald are aware that the work of this mission seemed full of promise in the early month of 1874; and that the assassination of Mr. Stephens on the second of March, and the fear excited by that event, and by the continued bitter hostility of priests, and those fully under their influence, have given a sad check to the open manifestations of interest in the truth. Still, however, in the midst of fears and real dangers, there are so many who do show deep interest that the brethren are much cheered while much hampered in their efforts. Mr. Morgan joined Mr. Watkins in June, to take the place of his murdered classmate and friend, and Mr. Edwards, of Wales, is expected to be upon the ground at an early day. A church has been organized, with 17 members, at Guadalajara, and quite a number of persons at Ahualulco, where Mr. Stephens fell, are anxious to join the organization."

The American Board is doing a great work. May the great Head of the church grant his guidance and blessing forever. A. G. H.

MISSION-ROOM, Nashville, Jan. 15, 1875.

THE writer of an essay on "Facial Anomalies," published in the Popular Science Monthly, relates the following facts, which came under his observation, but which are so strange as to be almost incredible. He writes: "I was once sitting in a cool underground saloon at Leipsic, while without people were ready to die from the heat, when a new guest entered and took a seat opposite to me. The sweat rolled in great drops down his face, and he was kept busy with his handkerchief, till at last he found relief in the exclamation: 'Fearfully hot!' I watched him attentively as he called for a cool drink, for I expected every moment that he would fall from his chair in a fit of apoplexy. The man must have noticed that I was observing him, for he turned toward me suddenly, saying: 'I am a curious sort of a person, am I not?' 'Why?' I asked. 'Because I perspire only on the right side.' And so it was; his right cheek and the right half of his forehead were as hot as fire, while the left side of his face bore not a trace of perspiration. I had never seen the like, and, in my astonishment, was about to enter into conversation with him regarding this physiological curiosity, when his neighbor on the left broke in with the remark: 'Then we are the opposites and counterparts of each other, for I perspire only on the left side.' This, too, was the fact. So the pair took seats opposite to each other, and shook hands like two men who had just found each his other half. 'Well! this makes an end of natural history,' exclaimed another guest, who hitherto had quietly gazed on this strange performance as though it were a play; and every one that had overheard what was said came to look at this novel wonder. 'This makes an end of natural history!' This expression excited me to laughter, and involuntarily I exclaimed: 'No, sir, this is just the beginning of natural history; for nature has many strange caprices even as regards her symmetry.' I then mentioned the case of a man I had known in my boyhood, who, Janus-like, had two totally different faces—on one side laughing, on the other crying. Naturally I dreaded this strange double face, with its one side smooth, plump and comely, like a girl's cheek, while the other side was all scarred by the smallpox. This side of the face denoted churlishness; and, while the other side wore a smile, this boded mischief. In this instance disease had been unsymmetrical."

THIS world cannot explain its own difficulties without the assistance of another.

To Conference and Back.

MR. EDITOR: On Saturday morning, January 2, we were up an hour before day, speeding away on the train bound for Shreveport, where we arrived about daylight. We went at once on board the steamer Texas, and were duly registered and installed as a passenger to Alexandria. Being reinforced by Bros. Goodwyn and Randle, and Dr. Glover, "we are four" exactly.

By the time Sabbath dawned upon us we were fifty miles down Red river. Sabbath was spent in various individual exercises, and soon it lay behind us like a perfumed island, sleeping on the bosom of eternity's mighty ocean. On Monday morning we added to Captain Stinde's dangers by taking on board another preacher and a college president. Another foot of water is necessary now. Six preachers, five hundred barrels of beef and two thousand bales of cotton! What a weight of glory to a steamboat captain! On Tuesday, however, it became as heavy a weight of sorrow. Drawing six feet one inch, and only five feet ten inches on Rush bar, above Campte! And Conference meets to-morrow! Oh, that I had wings like a dove; yes, as big as a condor's. However, Captain Joe Aiken, of the Durfee, pulled at us about twenty-seven hours. Then he took off about five hundred bales of our cotton, which Captain Stinde at the last moment acknowledged to be the Jonah, and then we moved, and "then we didn't," "not at all." But we did get off in time enough to get to Conference on Thursday evening, after dinner. We were in time, too, for a hearty welcome by Bro. Keener, and a warm reception by Bros. Tait and Bagnard, with whom we remained until it was over.

Alexandria as a place of Conference, we doubt not, reminded the preachers of the Pineville side of the poet's description of Canaan. Old friend Red rolled between, and at night but a skiff to cross the surging flood. Occasionally, as two or three dozen of those preachers were "waiting by the river, and their hearts had waited long," and as they looked over at the Conference-room, you might imagine them humming: "O think of a home over there;" yes, "over there." Yes, whether in Alexandria or in Pineville, it was delightful to have a home on any terms; and had the question been sprung as to which place dispensed the largest and most princely hospitality, we know there would have been a battle of speeches, and a tie in the vote, equal to an utter annihilation of both parties. Of the proceedings of Conference, Mr. Editor, you are better posted than we are, so we will talk of other things. It really seemed to us as if the preachers had thrown defiance into the faces both of the devil and of "hard times." They were a happy, well-dressed set of fellows, some of them with newly-married wives, and others as happy as if they had them. However, we remember no place at which so few preachers' wives were present at Conference. On Monday night, after we had formed a thousand good resolutions for the future, Conference adjourned, and in ten minutes more we were with Captain Stinde on the Texas. Every one of the original company was on board except Dr. Glover. "Texas—steamboat; bad boat; not at all." At first we thought, as Abe Lincoln once said, "nobody was hurt." However, in a few moments more we found that Grant was right—"somebody was hurt." Bro. Goodwyn was at Sister McG.'s when he heard Captain Stinde threatened to leave instanter, and became "intimidated" at once. Fleeing to the boat, and yet not running with patience and steadiness, he fell into a yawning chasm ten feet deep, from whence he emerged with a sprained ankle. With walking-stick and umbrella, he came on board "a la mode cruteche," and sobered down, enduring with great patience a prolonged rubbing of the game limb.

A steamboat trip with a lot of preachers is a lively occasion to them, and one which excites the liveliest apprehensions of the crew, especially if there should be a gray horse or a calico pony on board. Captain Stinde is by nature heterodox upon this point, but in deference to the opinions of his crew he is reported to have laid all his tribulations upon an old bald-faced horse which gave considerable trouble on board.

But here we are at Grand Bayou on Tuesday night at twelve o'clock, and we lose two of our company—Bros. Pipes and Armstrong. What a long time for preachers to do without their Pipes. Good-by, brethren. We hope you may find a light up there on that dark bank this dreary night. Directly we are at Williams', and Bro. Stayton drops out of rank, and we go on our way, nosing and winding and cringing and turning. Well, nobody but a Red river pilot knows anything about it. It is the most accommodating piece of water anywhere, for it runs by everybody's house in that whole country. Sometimes two boats will pass each other, and run for an hour, and then meet somewhere in a field within two hundred yards of each other, and one captain will tell the other something he had forgotten when they meet. Planters frequently tell boats to stop at the gin-house and get some cotton, and the planter will write several letters, and then walk down to the gin-house, about a hundred yards from his house, and mark the bales long before the boat arrives. At last, on Wednesday evening, January 13, we came into Shreveport in the midst of great rejoicing; yes, "at the head of navigation" and the terminus of the railroad. After a nice evening spent at the hospitable mansion of Mr. John N. Howell, in the pleasant company of Bro. Landrum, pastor of the Baptist church, we repaired to the railroad, and in fifteen minutes more were "home at last." No place like home. And all this for the small cost of $14 or $15.

Mr. Editor, hoping you may some day have to come up Red river, we are yours, GREENWOOD.

JANUARY 15, 1875.

Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.

MR. EDITOR: I have never written for the ADVOCATE, neither do I feel competent to write; but when I read the appointments of the Alabama Conference, and saw "Jefferson Hamilton transferred to the church triumphant," my heart was so full I felt that I must say a few words. I have read of statesmen dying, clothed in honors; while the papers, clad in mourning, heralded the sad news of their death. I have read of the warrior falling upon the battle-field in defense of his country, while a nation applauded and poets sang his praise, and felt that it was great, it was honorable, it was good to die for one's country. But when we read of a watchman upon the walls of Zion, in the act of receiving and giving command, to calmly and quietly lay down the sword, take off the helmet, receive a harp and put on a crown, we are made to exclaim "How grand! how glorious!"

Transferred from an Annual Conference of labor and toil to that great General Conference above, where Christ, the chief Bishop, will preside! What a change! for who can have any conception of the joys that await the finally faithful? Not only has the church lost a father, but the temperance cause one of its best advocates. Will not the inebriate's wife plant an evergreen above his grave and shed tears upon the sod when she feels that one of her best friends is gone?

"Gone! yes, gone, through the narrow gate,
With the millions gone before,
Where bright-winged angels stand and wait,
And sing: 'There's room for more!'"

Surely the Alabama Conference, as well as the Tennessee, has in the last few years been well represented in heaven. Just think of the many noble ones who have in the last few years crossed over the last river. Who will be next?

M. C. DOUBS.

CLINTONIANA, ALA., Jan 11, 1875.

Marianna Station, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I see from the columns of the ADVOCATE that quite a number of the brethren have written to you about the warm reception they have met with in their new fields of labor. I write this communication to apprise you of the fact that I too met with a warm reception from the people of this place. A large-hearted, noble-souled Methodist people they are. I arrived here about a week ago, quite sick. The people nursed me kindly, supplied my every want, and, in short, treated me with every attention and kindness they could bestow, and in such a way as to cause me to feel perfectly at home. How it cheers and encourages the heart of the young pastor to be thus welcomed by his charge! How it stimulates him to begin with enthusiasm and energy the labors of the year! The outlook here is very favorable. I do not find as many ADVOCATES here as I would desire, but we will endeavor to increase the number during the present year. May Heaven's blessing rest and abide with this kind people, and may the present year be one of unprecedented success and prosperity for our Zion.

Fraternally yours,

WILLIAM A. RICE

MARIANNA, FLA., Jan. 15, 1875.

THE Central Methodist, Catlettsburg, Kentucky, of January 19, announces the retirement of Rev. W. W. Miller as one of the editors of that paper. Bro. Miller is an able writer, and especially expert in polemics. He leaves the tripod on account of the pressure of pastoral duties and other demands upon his time.

THE Minutes of the Virginia Conference, admirably prepared, says the Nashville Christian Advocate, show an increase of 1,857 white members, and a decrease of 240 colored—who have, we presume, joined the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church—and a decrease of one local preacher.

WEALTH and poverty are seen for what they are. It begins to be seen that the poor are only they who feel poor, and poverty consists in feeling poor. The rich, as we reckon them, and among them the very rich, in a true scale would be found very indigent and ragged.—Emerson.

THE desire to be the object of public attention is weak, but the excessive dread of it is but a form of vanity and over self-contemplativeness. The trouble we take in trying not to seem would be better spent in trying not to be what we would rather not appear to be.

WRITERS of every age have endeavored to show that pleasure is in us and not in the object offered for our amusement. If the soul be happily disposed, everything becomes capable of affording entertainment, and distress will almost want a name. Goldsmith.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1875.

ENTERING THE MINISTRY.

BY RICHARD CHEVENIX TRENCH.

High thoughts at first, and visions high
Are ours of easy victory:
The word we bear seems so divine,
So framed for Adam's guilty line,
That none (unto ourselves we say,)
Of all his sinning, suffering race,
Will hear the word, so full of grace,
And coldly turn away.

But a yon a sadder mood comes round—
High hopes have fallen to the ground,
And the embassadors of peace
Go weeping, that men will not cease
To strive with Heaven; they only mourn
That suffering men will not be blest,
That weary men refuse to rest,
And wanderers to return.

Well is it if has not ensued
Another, yet unworthier, mood,
When all unfaithful thoughts have way,
When we hang down our hands and say:
"Alas! it is a weary pain
To seek with toil and fruitless strife,
To chafe the numb limbs into life,
That will not live again."

Then if spring odors on the wind
Float by, they bring him to our mind
That it were wiser done to give
Our hearts to Nature, and to live
For her; or in the student's bow
To search into her hidden things,
And seek in books the wondrous springs
Of knowledge and of power.

Or if we dare not thus draw back,
Yet, oh! to shun the crowded track
And the rude throng of men—to dwell
In hermitage or lonely cell,
Feeding all longings that aspire,
Like incense, heavenward, and with care
And lonely vigil nursing there
Faith's solitary pyre.

Oh! let us not this thought allow—
The heat, the dust upon our brow,
Signs of the contest, we may wear:
Yet thus we shall appear more fair
In our almighty Master's eye
Than if, in fear to lose the bloom,
Or ruffle the soul's lightest plume,
We from the strife should fly.

And for the rest, in weariness,
In disappointment or distress,
When strength decays or hope grows dim,
We ever may recur to him
Who has the golden oil divine
Wherewith to feed our failing urns—
Who watches every lamp that burns
Before his sacred shrine.

From Louisiana to Oregon.

MR. EDITOR: Please allow me the sweet privilege, in this distant land, of wishing you and the whole Conference, together with all our pleasant friends, "a happy new year." And may it be the brightest, gladdest and best of the whole past.

After a most successful and gratifying protracted meeting at Mansfield, in which the whole church was stirred, and strengthened in many ways, and the entire community brought more or less under religious influence, I took my departure, November 16, for this my new field of labor. It was Monday morning, and the rain was falling heavily. However, the trunks (six) and boxes (four) were placed into a well-covered wagon; while wife (a true itinerant,) little ones (four) and myself were handed into another, belonging to Bro. Joe Johnson, one of the strongest men of Mansfield in several ways, especially in the blessed religion of Jesus. The good ladies had more than filled a large lunch-basket, which was not forgotten. Parting adieus were exchanged, Bro. Johnson, Jr., mounted his seat, the whip cracked, and the long, long journey was commenced. Our hearts almost failed us at the starting; and perhaps if our friends had made another effort to stay us, success might have been theirs.

At Keachi we were reinforced by Rev. N. M. Skipworth and family. Here hacks were placed at our service, and our speed was accelerated. At Shreveport we were kindly welcomed by Rev. A. E. Goodwyn and another excellent brother, whose name has escaped my memory. It was my privilege to rest for a night in that parsonage. The next night (the eighteenth) at ten we took the train for St. Louis, via Marshall and Texarkana, at each place being required to change cars in the dark, and in the rain. The little ones had to be aroused and carried out in a great hurry, together with shawls, lunch-baskets, overcoats, etc. We found ourselves and all landed in the midst of a crowd of hotel runners—an abomination to any community—hack and omnibus drivers, peddlers, loafers and thieves, with a lot of crying children, and a dozen or two dirty-faced boys trying to seize, every one, some article to carry for you, for which he expects two bits or more. O what a trial this thing is of changing cars at night in all sorts of bad weather, and waiting for other trains. And when the train does come, the rush and grab after seats, where the strongest muscles and roughest tongues prevail, and where there is no conductor to see that things are "done decently and in order." A man feels outraged—and can't well help it—at such miserable management. The traveling world will hail the auspicious day which shall witness the inauguration of a better state of things in this respect.

On Friday morning (the twentieth) we reached St. Louis, and soon drove up to the door of the Southwestern Publishing Company, and had the pleasure of meeting with Bro. L. D. Dameron, the president of the company, his brother, Dr. Biedsoe, of the Southern Quarterly Review, Dr. McAnally and others, all of whom gave us a kind welcome. Homes had been provided for us by Bro. L. D. Dameron, and we were soon made comfortable. By the kindness of the latter gentleman and his brother we got tickets to Omaha at reduced rates on the passenger train, now and then filled with the easy, "reclining chairs"—a great improvement over the old style. A man in one of them has no need of "Pullman's sleeping cars." Before we left this great city we looked at its greatest wonder—the railroad bridge across the Mississippi river. Our whole soul, body and spirit opened as a great mouth with surprise and admiration. But amid all of its colossal proportions and perfections we discovered one flaw—a savage-looking man, in rough garb, demanding in a fretful way, of every one who stepped on the structure, a nickel as pay for the sight. How easy is the descent sometimes from the sublime to the ridiculous. At eight o'clock we were "all aboard" and rolling twenty-five miles an hour in the direction of the famous grasshopper nest—Nebraska.

Over the boundless prairies, now all white with snow, we flew as a bird, and in due time lit at the Emigrants' House in Omaha. This house was built by the railroad company and rented to the present proprietors, who have converted it into a place for the accommodation of emigrants with only small means. One of the conductors had recommended the house to us as an excellent place for families. But we felt that we had been bought up cheap. The weather was quite cold—plenty of snow and ice on all sides—and we had not only no fires in our rooms, but no stoves nor fireplaces. Besides, the house was crowded with all sorts of people, from all parts of the world nearly. The next day we were glad to get away, taking the emigrant train for San Francisco, which was one thousand nine hundred and twelve miles away, with but one change of cars—that of Ogden, said to be a Mormon town on Salt Lake, over one thousand miles distant. Our cars were hitched to a long freight train, and crowded beyond all reason. At last, however, we got under way, and were soon rolling over a limitless plain apparently. If we had the trip to make again we would take second-class tickets in the passenger train—only half the time on the road, half the exposure and loss of sleep, and but half of the expense in keeping up the supplies of the lunch-basket.

At a distance of a thousand miles we saw the first tree since our departure from Omaha. It was, I think, an oak, perhaps two feet in diameter and about seventy feet high. A sign swung from its lowest limb, on which was painted in large letters: "The thousand-mile tree." Before we reached this tree, of course, we had to clamber over the tops of the Rocky mountains, seven thousand or eight thousand feet above sea level. Yes, sir, we ascended to the very summit and went down on the other side into the plains. We were not able to see much of their rocky grandeur, as it was night, but by the aid of the moonlight we could form some idea of the sublimity of this chain of great rocks, broken and piled up to the very clouds by some fearful convulsion of nature. Two large locomotives were necessary to conduct us over safely.

At Ogden we struck on the shores of Salt Lake, said to be one hundred and twenty miles long and forty broad. We saw it only by starlight, but even then it was very beautiful. Just beyond Ogden we came into the "Great American Desert," aptly named too. I do not see how it could be called anything else, for it is a desert of clay, sand, gravel, bowlders, great rocks, looking very much as if they had been fired out of the bore of some volcano or fallen from heaven, with bald mountains—one here, another there—as far as the eye could reach. It is true that there is some poverty-stricken vegetation growing in places, such as sage-bush, bunch grass, and scrawny, stunted cedars. This desert was probably at one time the bottom of a great inland sea, perhaps as big as the Gulf of Mexico; but some commotion in nature has swallowed it up, leaving only Salt Lake.

We passed a great many villages of "prairie dogs." The weather was bright, and a great many of them were sitting at their doors, or visiting their neighbors. A number of shots were fired at them by the passengers, which caused them to scamper into their holes in a hurry; but in a moment after they would saucily pop their heads up again. When a person is about their holes or digs after them it is difficult to capture one, as their houses and galleries, like the ancient catacombs of Rome, are connected and run in all directions. I am told that it is a true story that the owl and the rattlesnake are frequent boarders with them in their holes, and get along much more happily than some human boarding-houses we've read of. Before we reached the Sierra Nevada mountains we passed by and through many snow fences and sheds; but here we found the sheds longer and darker—dark as long tunnels under the mountains (and there were some of them.) These mountains are steeper than any others we saw. "Rounding Cape Horn," as it is called, I was told that it was a thousand feet to the bottom of the dark, narrow valley, while we defiantly thundered by on its very brow, forming an immense curve, like a horseshoe. Here in these mountain fastnesses the grizzly bear and California lion roam at large with other beasts of prey.

But soon we began to meet with monsters more to be dreaded than those fierce denizens of the wilderness, in the shape of gamblers with their "three-card monte" and other games. The passengers were duly warned of them by placards and otherwise, but some were heedless, and soon caught and picked. At Battle mountain, Nevada, where the train was detained about an hour, the emigrants in one car only lost $1,400 in gold. Of course it was all done away from the train, and about the little painted and whitewashed hells called "saloons."

But, lest I make my letter too long, I will pass over much matter and get along more rapidly toward the terminus. Soon after we entered California the fact was made patent by the gold diggings on each side of the road, with artificial streams of water running in all directions, by the disappearance of greenbacks as the circulating medium, while gold and silver were common, and by the appearance of an abundance of the most delicious grapes at cheap rates, together with California apples and figs.

By God's providence we reached San Francisco on the last day of November, and were much gratified to learn that the steamer had changed her time from Saturday to Tuesday, and that she would leave that very morning at ten o'clock. So, instead of going to a hotel, we went directly to the steamer Ajax. The baggage agent promised to send our trunks to the steamer free of charge; so we gave up our checks and received receipts for them. Notwithstanding this promise (voluntary on his part, and he said it was their rule,) we were charged fifty cents for each trunk. And as it was near the hour of departure there was no redress. An omnibus agent met us on board the ferry while crossing to the city. He had a very pleasing appearance; approached us in a business-like way; offered to take us to the steamer at half the usual fare, or twenty-five cents a head, charging the little children nothing; conducted us to his "bus," and in it he crowded about twenty persons, big and little. We reached the landing in about fifteen or twenty minutes, but there we were confronted by a new man, who professed to know nothing about the other man, and demanded fifty cents per passenger, not excepting the children. No policeman could be discovered to save us from such scamps, and again we were fleeced. It was a United States Hotel concern—No. 107, if my memory serves me correctly.

While waiting for our baggage at the landing a man of decent appearance and polite address stepped up to me and wished me to confer a favor upon him; said he would pay me well to do it. He had a young lady, he said, whom he wished to send by the steamer to Portland, Oregon, and desired me to take charge of her; and as he was a little short of money he wanted me to lend him enough to make up the lack for her passage. He said that he would put in my hands a gold watch, which I could hold as security until I was paid. I left him to find somebody else that would believe his story and suffer the consequences. I fear there is not much law nor honesty about that city of the sea.

Our trip on the Pacific was very rough. From the time we passed out of the harbor by the Golden Gate till after we crossed the bar at the mouth of the Columbia river we were exposed to a gradually increasing gale. The steamship was full of passengers, who were tumbled about the cabin and steerage as so much loose lumber of a rattling, empty wagon. Rolling, lamentations and free vomiting were the order of the day and night. There was not a quiet meal till we passed the bar of the Columbia, when all became calm as a summer day. We saw salmon fisheries on each side of the river, and were told that large sums of money are made here every season. Mount Hood, Mount Jefferson, Mount Adams, and some other snow-topped mountains, loomed up before us in all their snowy magnificence. Mount Hood is said to be fourteen thousand feet above the sea level. The fir-tree—a very fine variety of the pine—became abundant, and was beautiful as it lined each side of the river. We found but one principal town on the Columbia—Astoria, whose foundation was laid by the agents of John Jacob Astor, of New York, in their efforts to establish a fur company. We soon reached Portland, and then Brownsville (being out twenty-two days,) where we are comfortable in our little parsonage, and all well except some colds. More anon.

JAMES E. BRADLEY.

JANUARY 5, 1875.

In Memoriam.

James Whatcoat Clinton was born in St. Helena parish, Louisiana, August 6, 1844, and was murdered, within three miles of the spot where he was born, on the eighteenth of December, 1874. He was the third son of Rev. Thomas Clinton, who has been for fifty-four years a member of the Mississippi Conference, and is one of the oldest itinerants in the connection—one of the few precious links that unite us with the pioneers of Methodism in this country. He was also a brother of Rev. George W. Clinton, deceased, late of the St. Louis Conference, whose name was known in all the churches.

Jimmy was, in his childhood, very frail and delicate—so much so that it interfered considerably with his early education, and he never enjoyed any health until, at the age of seventeen, he entered the Confederate army. The hardships and exposures of a soldier's life, which proved fatal to many robust constitutions, seemed to be the stimulant that his system required, and he soon developed into a stout and healthy man. At the battle of Shiloh he received a severe wound, which rendered him an invalid for several years, and left his right arm partially but permanently disabled; but he remained out of the service only while his arm was in a sling, returned to duty at the earliest moment, and continued in the army until its final surrender. After the war he resided with his aged parents until his younger brother, Benny, was old enough to take care of them, when he devoted himself fully to the study and practice of the law, first in New Orleans, and for the last three years of his life at St. Joseph, Tensas parish. He left us on Tuesday, the fifteenth of December, to spend Christmas at home with his parents, full of life and hope and bright anticipations of the joyful reunion with his loved ones. In a very few days a vague rumor, like a horrible specter in the misty night, came to us that he had been waylaid and murdered; then came the lightning's fiery message, burning into our hearts as with a hot iron: "Jimmy was murdered, on the evening of the eighteenth, by an unknown assassin;" and then with the mails all the agonizing details.

He reached his father's house about two o'clock on Friday evening, and was informed by his mother that a friend whom he specially desired to see would leave for New Orleans by the train next morning. Within two hours after his arrival he started to go to his friend's house, about five miles distant, and was not again seen until his dead body was found on Monday, in the woods, about three miles from home. He had been shot in the back, the ball passing through the bladder, his throat was cut, and his horse was lying dead near him, with his throat cut. The surroundings showed plainly that he had lived many hours—had been dead but a short time when he was found. His limbs were still flexible, and his wounds bled when probed by the doctor. He had taken a shirt from his saddlebags and tried to stanch his wounds. Who can conceive of the agony he endured as he lay there in the darkness and the rain, almost within call of his friends, almost within sight of the fireside where his anxious parents sat wondering why he did not return, and yet out of sight and hearing of all save him who sees the end from the beginning? Subsequent developments make it almost certain that he was murdered, for the purpose of robbing him, by a strange negro who was passing through the country.

I hesitate to attempt to portray the character of James W. Clinton. I admired and loved him so, I may color the picture too highly. On the other hand, his worth and excellence, in the consideration of all who knew him, was so great that I fear I shall fail to do him justice.

He was religious from his childhood, and the religious sentiment developed and grew with his years. At the age of fifteen he joined the church, while at school in Baton Rouge, under the ministry of Rev. W. E. M. Linfield. We know not the exact date of his conversion to God. His experience was very much like that of the sainted Elijah Steele. He could not say, like Jacob: "The Lord met me at Luz and blessed me." He could not exactly trace the steps by which he ascended, but he knew himself to be on the mountain of transfiguration with his Master. On one occasion he was talking, in the family circle, in such a vein of religious fervor that his brother stopped him with the question: "Jimmy, when were you converted?" His reply was: "Benny, I don't know the day when I was converted, but this I know: that I love the Master, and every day I try to live nearer to him, and to let his precepts have dominion over me." It was a peculiarity I have often noticed in him that he always spoke of our Lord as "the Master" and "my Master," showing that Christ had the supremacy over his heart and mind. The extent of his knowledge and the profundity of his thought on religious subjects has often astonished me. "His delight was in the law of the Lord, and in his law did he meditate day and night." Faith in Christ as the only rational and possible way of salvation was often the theme of his earnest and fervid conversation.

The last three years of his life were spent in a community where he had very few of the means of grace, as we understand them—a society as little calculated to promote spirituality as any in the State—refined and cultivated—such as would naturally acquire a controlling influence over the mind and opinions of an intelligent young man, and at the same time gay and worldly, regarding with supreme contempt the kind of religion he professed. In this society he was greatly admired for his talents and social qualities; and yet, so far from ever swerving in the least from his religious integrity, the ardor of his feelings seemed never to abate, and the purity of his life and conversation won the admiration even of those who ridiculed his "old-fashioned" ideas of religion.

His person was very tall and his presence commanding. To a stranger his face in repose would not seem remarkably handsome; but to his friends, who heard him talk and saw him smile, it was as beautiful as an angel's. His intellect was of the very highest order, and peculiarly adapted to the profession which he had chosen. The depths and the subtilties of law were alike within his easy grasp, and he seemed to arrive almost intuitively at the correct solution of the profoundest problem. His style as a speaker was usually purely argumentative, without any effort at display; but at times, when aroused and excited, he was grandly eloquent. Socially he had no equal in my acquaintance. He could and always would instruct, entertain and amuse all with whom he came in contact.

But the most beautiful trait of his singularly symmetrical character was the reverence and tender love he ever manifested toward his honored parents. His constant solicitude seemed to be for them and for their comfort. No topic was so interesting to him as pa and ma—their sayings and doings. No sacrifice of his own business was for a moment considered if they required his attention. Take him altogether, as a Christian, as a lawyer, as a social companion, as a true and trusty friend, he had few if any equals of his age.

To us, who are but an infinitesimal are on the mighty circle of divine Providence, how inscrutable are its plans! The aged man of God, who gave the fragrance of his youth and the vigor of his manhood to the service of his Master, is permitted to rear to maturity four sons, such as would be an honor and delight to any parent, crowns of rejoicing in any household. In a few short years three of them are taken—one worn out by toil in the vineyard, one by lingering disease, and one by the hand of the assassin; while he, as a withered leaf, still "clings to the old forsaken bough." And yet we know that in wisdom and in love he hath decreed it all. H. W. DRAKE.

TENSAS PARISH, Louisiana.

The Youth of Christ.

Extending from his early youth into the years of mature manhood, there is a great blank in our Lord's history. Eighteen years of his life stand unaccounted for; and that blank, looking as dark as the starless regions of the sky, tradition, usually so fertile in invention, has not attempted to fill up. How often have I wondered and tried to fancy what Jesus did, and how he passed the time between his boyhood, when he vanishes from our sight, and his thirtieth year, when he again appears upon the stage to enter his public ministry! Thanks to his townsmen's envious sneers, or rather thanks to him who permitted the insult, and thus made the wrath of man to praise him, their insolent taunt throws a ray of light into the obscurity. Their question, "Is not this the carpenter?" (not, as at another time, the carpenter's son, but the carpenter himself,) suggests to us the picture of a humble home in Nazareth, known to the neighborhood as the carpenter's, under whose roof of thatch Jesus resided with his mother, in all probability then a widow, and, like many a widow since then, cherished by the love and supported by the labors of a dutiful son.

I have no doubt that holy angels, turning their wings away from lordly mansions, and the proud palaces of kings, often hovered over the peaceful home, as still they who are ministering spirits, sent forth for them who shall be heirs of salvation, do over the humblest abode of piety. But, so far as this world and its inhabitants were concerned, Jesus passed his days in contented obscurity, unnoticed and unknown save to his neighbors, whose esteem he could not fail to win by his pure life, and gentle temper, and holy manners. He was to grow in favor with God and man. All Nazareth regarded him as a paragon of human virtues, and many a mother pointed to Mary's son as the pattern her son should copy.

How wonderful it is to transport ourselves back, in fancy, some eighteen hundred years, to that small town, and, on asking with the Greeks to see Jesus, to be conducted to a humble dwelling where chips of wood, and squared logs, and unbarked trunks of trees lying about, in the oak and olive, cedar and sycamore, that had fallen by the ax, point out the carpenter's. By the door, and under a hovering vine, which, trained beneath the eaves over some rude trellis work, forms a grateful shade from the noonday sun, a widow sits, her fingers employed in weaving, but an expression in her eye which indicates a mind engaged on far loftier objects—thoughts deeper, holier, stranger, than a buried husband and widow's grief. She rises, lifts the latch, and, stooping, we enter the lowly door; and there, bending to his work we see the carpenter—in him the Son of the most high God! Time was when he set his compass on the deep; time was when he stood and measured the earth; and now, with line, compass and the plane and hatchet, the sweat dropping from his lofty brow, he who made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is, in the guise of a common tradesman, bends at a carpenter's bench. How low he stoops to save us!—Guthrie.

Obituaries.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Whereas, In the providence of God our venerable father in Israel, WILLIAM M. FINCHER, a local elder and honored member of the Notasulga Quarterly Conference, has been removed by the hand of death from our midst; therefore Resolved, by the Notasulga Quarterly Conference, That in the death of Father Fincher the church has sustained a great loss. In that a local elder, true to all her interests, ready at all times to preach and labor for the good of souls, has been called to his reward. But while we mourn his loss, we rejoice in the fact that he died in the triumphs of the gospel faith he had exemplified in his life and so faithfully preached.

Resolved, That as a token of our brotherly love and Christian sympathy, and our affection for his memory, this preamble and these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Quarterly Conference, published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and a copy be furnished the family of the deceased.

B. H. REYNOLDS,
W. H. JOHNSON,
H. C. ARMSTRONG,
Committee.

IN MEMORIAM.

Whereas, It has pleased almighty God, in his inscrutable providence, to remove from our midst our worthy and esteemed brother, JAMES W. CLINTON, a member of St. Joseph Lodge, No. 79, in a most mysterious and afflicting manner; And whereas, We deem it meet and proper that we should give some suitable demonstration of the sense of this lodge respecting the decease of our beloved brother; therefore Resolved, That we do most deeply and sincerely deplore the sudden, untimely and violent death (by the hand of an assassin) of Bro. Clinton when just fairly entering upon a life promising more than ordinary usefulness.

Resolved, That we bow with humility under this dispensation of an all-wise Providence, assured that "he doeth all things well."

Resolved, That we extend our most cordial sympathy to the brethren of St. Joseph Lodge, No. 79, to the family, and more especially the aged and sadly-bereaved parents of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That as a slight token of our grief this lodge-room be draped in mourning, and the members wear the usual badge for thirty days.

Resolved, That this preamble and these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this lodge, a copy be handed the parents of the deceased, one copy be forwarded to St. Joseph Lodge, No. 79, and one for publication to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

T. C. BRADFORD,
A. W. CARRUTH,
O. L. COLLINS,
Committee.

DIED, at his residence in Chickasaw county, Mississippi, September 23, 1874, JEREMIAH HALLAM, in the seventy-fifth year of his age. Bro. Hallam was a native of North Carolina, and emigrated to Georgia about the year 1815, where, under the faithful labors of the Rev. Dow Perry, James Danly, and others of precious memory, he was converted, baptized and brought into the Methodist Episcopal Church about the year 1840. Subsequently he emigrated to Mississippi and settled near Palo Alto, in Chickasaw county, where I (being appointed by the Memphis Conference to Houston circuit in 1854) became his pastor, at which time it was my good fortune to make the acquaintance of this interesting Christian family, consisting of a number of bright and promising children, all of whom have grown up and passed away with their parents except two. Bro. Hallam was a good and true man in every relation of life—as a husband, father, neighbor and friend—and a great lover of the church and its ministry, especially the itinerant ministry, who ever found a hearty welcome to his home and fireside.

I regret that I have not been able to learn any of the particulars of his last hours; but we know that those who live right must die right. May the Lord sanctify this bereavement to his surviving children and friends.

"Oh, happy world! Oh, glorious place!
Where all who are forgiven
Shall find their loved and lost below,
And hearts, like meeting streams, shall flow
Forever one—in heaven."

G. F. THOMPSON.

DIED, near Mount Willing, Lowndes county, Alabama, Mrs. MARY A. MIDDLETON, daughter of Dr. William K. and D. M. Frederick, of Duplin county, North Carolina. She was born March 6, 1822; married to Thomas J. Middleton, November 26, 1840; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1851, professed religion in September, 1853, and lived a godly, pious life, being a most consistent member of the church until the day of her death, which took place December 22, 1874, at half-past nine o'clock P. M., aged fifty-two years, nine months and sixteen days. She was a good woman in all that is meant by being good—a devoted wife, an affectionate mother, and one of the best of neighbors, a true friend of the preacher, sparing no pains to make him comfortable and feel at home in her house. Many of the preachers with myself will gratefully remember her kindness, and thank the Lord that he has given such women to the church and the world. Her life was uniform. Her light was steady and constant, always pointing to Jesus and the great recompense of reward. Her health was generally good until about three years ago, when it gave way, and she became a great sufferer until death released her. She endured her afflictions with much patience and resignation, and when death came she was ready, and passed off quietly to her home in the skies, retaining her mind to the last.

She leaves a husband sorely bereaved; his loss is irreparable. The wife of his youth, the counsel of his manhood and his comfort in affliction will no more unite around the family altar in prayer, but has joined with angels in praise around the throne. She was the mother of fifteen children, eight of whom died in childhood and infancy; seven survive her, with several grandchildren. Four of her children are professors of religion and members of the church. May her religious teaching and pious example be the savor of life unto the three younger children. These, with many friends, are left to mourn her loss. But they may truly mourn with the hope of a happy meeting on the happy shores of heaven.

JOSEPH M. SCOTT.

DIED, at his residence in Yazoo county, Mississippi, on Friday morning, October 9, 1874, of dropsy of the heart, Bro. W. B. SMITH.

Bro. Smith was born in Claiborne county, Mississippi, September 15, A. D. 1797, and was married to Nancy Johnston, May 21, 1820. He was the father of twelve children, five of whom preceded him to the promised land. He connected himself with the Methodist Church in 1812, and remained an earnest and zealous defender of Methodist faith and Methodist doctrine until called from labor here below to refreshment "in a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." During the greater portion of this time he was a class-leader, and his zeal in the cause of his Master will long be remembered.

Bro. Smith was taken ill on the eighteenth of September preceding his death, and suffered greatly in the beginning of his attack. He became apparently better, however, and talked and laughed in his usual spirits, and ate heartily. He could only rest sitting in an arm-chair. On the morning of his death his daughter was in attendance on him, and left him for a few minutes to prepare something for him to eat. On her return she found him leaning upon the arm of the chair, and quietly breathing his last. When attacked he was under the impression that death was approaching, and, to use her own language, "he thought he could not live until morning, and it caused him to reflect on his past life very fast." He added: "My son, I am all right. I am ready whenever the summons comes." There was no hesitation, no doubt in regard to the promises of God, but with an abiding faith in his mercy he gladly exchanged this world of sorrow for a home beyond the skies. Death to him had no terrors. He heard the welcome plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant," and fearlessly plunged into death's dark flood, to enter into the joy of his Master on the other shore.

He is gone!—gone from a world of affliction to "mansions in the skies." He has left to his family a legacy more precious than gold or precious stones. He taught them by precept how to live—he taught them by example how to die. A consistent Christian, he neglected no Christian duty, and for sixty-two years, around his hearthstone, night and morning, he raised his voice in gratitude to an all-wise Creator for the many blessings of which he was the recipient. He died with his armor on, and fell with his face to the foe. The beautiful religion he professed deprived death of its sting, and robbed the grave of its victory. He has left a bright example of Christian faith and fortitude. Let us copy it, and so live that we may meet him and all the blood-washed throng on the distant shores of the land of the hereafter.

MERCY.—"Mercy is a modification of benevolence; it is benevolence called out in a certain direction, and feeling for a certain class, and that class the suffering. Mercy is benevolence commiserating the suffering."

LET your eloquence flow from your heart to your hands, and not force it the other way.—Dr. Emmons.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1875.

LITTLE LOCKS OF HAIR.

BY S. M. WALSH.

They are garnered away in a perfumed box,
They are hoarded as choicest treasures are—
Three little silken and shiny locks,
Three little vanished babies' hair!

They were folded and labeled by trembling hands,
With eyes so dim they could scarcely see;
These three little packets with silken bands
Are all of my babies left to me!

And often, when burdened with sorrow or care,
I come to this box where my treasures are kept,
And lovingly look on the soft, bright hair,
With eyes that see clearer for having wept.

For the days come back when upon my breast
Lay the little heads, so bright and fair,
When the warm, sweet lips to my own I prest,
And tenderly touched the silken hair!

And surely, though dimly, I seem to see
Beyond the gates of the city fair;
And the angels that nurture my babies three,
Touch with gentle caresses their shining hair.

Transit of Venus.

We quote as follows from an article by F. V. in the New York Christian Advocate:

It is just 235 years since the first recorded transit of Venus was observed—December, 1639. Kepler had predicted that a transit would take place eight years previous to that time—in June, 1631—and European astronomers watched for it, but in vain, for at the indicated hour the western hemisphere of the earth was turned toward the sun, and accordingly the phenomenon was not visible to them. It was at this period that the young curate, Horrocks, who ministered to his rural charge in the village of Hoole, near Liverpool, devoting a portion of his time to the study of astronomy, corrected Kepler's tables, and predicted the transit of 1639. On the eve of the event he made such preparations as the knowledge of his day and the facilities at hand enabled him to make for the observation of the transit. By admitting the rays of light through a lense he had an image of the sun's disk thrown upon a sheet of paper in a darkened room.

It was the Sabbath day; from early dawn he watched with eager expectation for the appearance of the speck which the passage of the planet would make upon his figure of the sun. Twice did the Sabbath bells summon him away to the appointed worship of him who had created sun and moon and stars, and all the host of them; and, whatever conflicting emotions may have struggled in this pious preacher's soul when he reflected that exactly at the hour when the planet should appear his higher office called him to his church, we know that, with a simple faith and a devotion to duty which are each in itself sublime, he cheerfully obeyed the sacred call; and we know that to his sense of duty done there was also added the reward of patience, for, on returning from the house of God the second time, he saw the long-expected object slowly creeping across his symbol of the sun; his eyes beheld what no other human eyes had ever seen; and before the sun had set he made several excellent observations, which materially assisted subsequent astronomers in perfecting Venus' tables. Horrocks himself died at the early age of twenty-one. The transits of 1761 and 1769 were predicted by Halley, an English astronomer of great renown, who prepared the method, which bears his name, of utilizing such phenomena to ascertain the parallax of the sun by determining the times of contact. On both occasions, and for many reasons, the observers failed to fix the time within twenty seconds, whereas the complete utility of Halley's methods depends upon precision to an instant.

No human being now living on the earth observed that peculiar phase of Venus in 1769, and that was its last recurrence preceding the recent one. And in this connection we may mention the coincidence that it was in that self-same year of 1769 that Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmoor, sent by Mr. Wesley as missionaries to America, arrived in Philadelphia, and became the first itinerant preachers of Methodism in connection with him in this country.

At her nearest approach to the earth and to the sun, when Venus is 26,000,000 miles from us, she is 66,000,000 miles from the central luminary, the estimated distance of the earth therefrom being 92,000,000 miles. It is, however, in order to enable us to ascertain the true distance with more certainty that the whole civilized world looks at the recent transit with respect to its utility. We know the relative dimensions of the solar system more accurately than we know its scale, and the determination of the distance of the earth from the sun, or from any of the planets, at a certain date, establishes that scale. Thus the solution of this problem would, by means of mathematical calculation, give us the magnitude of the planets; the true length of their ellipses; the speed at which they revolve around the sun; their respective distances from the sun, and from each other. It would, in short, put us in possession of a universal standard by which to measure dimensions throughout the stellar system; and one of its incidental and practical results would be the true determination of longitudes on land and sea by means of the improvement of the lunar theory. There are several ways by which this matter of distance may be computed, but it is sufficient for our present purpose that a transit of Venus is one, if not the best, of them. So much depends upon perfect accuracy in these astronomical observations that an error of the sixteenth part of a minute in the true time of contact, as in this instance of the sun and Venus, would lead to a mistake of 1,000,000 miles in calculating the distance of the former from us; and a mistake of 1,000,000 miles in the distance of the sun from the earth would be a mistake of 30,000,000 miles in the case of Neptune, and of more than 200,000,000,000 miles as to the distance of the nearest of the fixed stars which dwell in the immensity of space.

Half a century ago an appreciative and enthusiastic writer, referring to the anticipated transit in 1874, and that yet to come in 1882, remarked: "It is not more certain that this phenomenon will recur than that the event itself will engross the attention of all the astronomers then living upon the earth. It will be anticipated, and provided for, and observed in every habitable quarter of the globe, with an intensity of solicitude which no natural phenomena since the creation has ever excited." We have found the almost literal fulfillment of these prophetic words. From Great Britain, France and Italy, from Germany and Russia, and other European countries, as well as from the United States, expeditions composed of scientific experts, supplied with the finest instruments, have been sent out to some seventy different stations on the eastern hemisphere, at an aggregate expense of a million dollars, to the end that this peculiar phase of Venus might be utilized to swell the sum of human knowledge.

No question of difference in language, or government, or religion, enters into the calculations of these devoted searchers after truth, and no dangers or privations could deter them from its inspired pursuit. At favorable points of observation between Siberia and the South Pole, and from the islands of the Pacific ocean to the eastern part of Africa, this transit could be seen. On December 8 (December 9 where it was visible,) at the appointed time, the subject of our theme, unconscious of the interest centered in her, appeared on the upper portion of the sun's rim, and passed in silence across his disk at the rate of nearly thirteen hundred miles a minute, taking about four hours and three-quarters to complete the passage. And scarcely had that passage been completed before those observers who were supplied with the facilities hastened to transmit by telegraph, along the land and through the ocean, the success that crowned, or the failure that befell, their observations. Prof. Hall, chief of the American expedition in Siberia, stationed at Vladivostok, informs us that though the morning was hazy, yet at the beginning of the transit the sun was seen distinctly, and the moment of the contacts was signaled with accuracy, and several photographs were taken while the planet was in position. Dispatches previously interchanged with the party at Nagasaki, in Japan, had determined the precise latitude and longitude at both stations. Prof. Davidson, chief of our expedition to Japan, telegraphs that clouds prevented him observing the exact moment of the first contact, but the time of the second was recorded, and sixty excellent photographs were taken at various periods of the transit.

The English astronomers in Egypt report, from Cairo and Suez, that only the closing stages of the phenomenon were seen under favorable auspices, while at Thebes, the site selected for their photographing operations, the artists were eminently successful. From China we learn that at Shanghai the weather was very unpropitious; but in India the success that attended the observers surpassed their most sanguine expectations, and the photographers secured upward of one hundred perfect negatives. And so from Van Dieman's Land and Australia, and from other stations, we have reports of more or less importance, but all of vital interest.

The observers have yet to compare their notes, and the mathematicians to figure up the totals and figure down the fractions, before we can learn the complete results; but already we know enough to congratulate the friends of knowledge, and especially the lovers of that science which leads the mind to contemplate the wonders of God's material works—that science which is the ally of religion—upon the fact that, on the whole, the observations of this transit of Venus have proved a grand success; for "the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork." While thus impressed, well, indeed, might the royal psalmist say: "When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained, what is man that thou art mindful of him?" But, in direct descent of the prophet's line, he "which was the Son of David, which was the Son of God," came down and dwelt among us to teach us that the Creator of the universe, with all its wonderful immensities, not only cares for his creatures, but hears the ravens when they cry, and heeds a sparrow's fall. Glory be to God in the highest, peace on earth, and good will to men! For far above all material considerations is the blessed fact that, while our minds attempt to grasp the grand idea of infinite order, our hearts may feel the sweet and saving power of infinite love.

What is Christ's Intercession?

BY PROF. JOHN S. SEWALL.

Jesus was in the habit of praying for his disciples. We are taught that he continues to pray for us in heaven. We believe it. We try to understand it. We set the scene before the mind in different lights. We imagine the court of the great King, the throne, the ancient of days, the Son meekly bowing before him in prayer. We think of the Shekinah, the holy of holies, the high priest entering to burn incense and adore, and we imagine our High Priest in heaven doing the same. It is prayer, supplication, entreaty, still importunate in heaven, as it was fervent on earth.

Is this all that intercession means? Does Christ only pray for us? Let us compact our cloudy notions into some definite body and shape. Having lately attempted to define to my own mind what the Savior is now doing for us, I am agreeably surprised to find that my beliefs were not according to Scripture. The intercession of Christ for the human race means more than I had supposed.

But what is the need of intercession? Is God so strangely minded toward his subjects that the Son must not only descend and make atonement, but return and incessantly worship and pray, in order to prevail upon him to be merciful? A very inconceivable God; not the God of the Bible at all. The ground of intercession is no other than the ground of the great mediation of which it is a part. The Father put into the hands of the Son the entire business of human redemption; and ever since the Son has been working it out, on earth and in heaven. On earth he came to us through the lowly gateway of human birth, that he might enter into our common lot of sorrow and joy, and know our life not only from afar, with divine omniscience, but near at hand, by personal experience of it. He continued his mission by giving to the race a complete code of precepts, and setting himself the example of the most unselfish life of obedience to it. He crowned his work with the atonement on the cross, that divinest act of general pardon and grace to all who will. In heaven he is laboring to finish the work thus grandly begun and apply its vitalizing grace to the dead soul. This is his "unchangeable priesthood." And we are not to think of God as an infinite ideal of justice, frigid, inexorable, loth to relent, and only yielding to the pressure of his Son's importunity; while the Son stands between him and the miserable world, and intercepts his blows, and wrenches from him the compassion he is so slow to grant. It is a false picture of God! The Bible says God is love. And, if there is anything true from Genesis to Revelation, that is true. God is love. And the mediation of Christ is based on God's love, not on his justice. Justice would never have dreamed of atonement. The business of justice is retribution, never compassion. It was because God loved the world that he sent his Son, and made over to him the great trust of human redemption. "The Father hath committed all judgment unto the Son," "The Father loveth the Son and hath given all things into his hand," "All things are delivered unto me of my Father," "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth"—these were the divine manifestoes with which the Redeemer alighted upon the planet. It is as if for the time being and for our race Christ were God, and the only God. And he came to see what he could do for his new estate. He came to visit his tenantry and live among them and share their lot, that he might elevate them from serfdom into eternal liberty. This world is the Father's gift of love to the Son. And this is what the Son is doing with it and for it. Having begun with a conspicuous act of atonement on earth, he is still laboring for it in heaven, still constantly and gloriously engaged upon the same great redemption. On earth it was his "mediation." In heaven it is his "intercession." They are not two things. They are one. And he is just as intent upon that one work now as he was when he went to the cross.

Is intercession, then, only prayer? Who shall affirm that it is? How can we know that this is all our Lord is doing for us in heaven? Would the High Priest of God and man, the Lord of all power and might, bring to bear on his beneficent work anything short of the highest range of divine forces? Prayer is only one of these methods. Communion with the Father—taking counsel with him at every stage of the mighty scheme—this is only one. Jesus showed upon earth that he could labor as well as pray.

And this is his "intercession."

It is a term not often used in the Bible—only five or six times in the New Testament—and it means to fall in with one, and so, naturally, to talk with him, to have dealings with him, to treat with him, sometimes in behalf of another. It is in this sense that Christ is our advocate with the Father. He is engaged now in heaven, just as much as he ever was on earth, in transacting for us the great business of redemption. If he prayed for us here, he still prays for us there. If he labored for us here, he still labors for us there. If he loved us here, he still loves us there. If he wrought miracles for us here, he is still working miracles of divine patience and help for us there. If he atoned for us here, he is still laboring there to make that sacrificial blood a fountain of eternal purifying to every soul.

Of what advantage to us is this permanent priesthood of Christ in heaven? Much, every way. If his intercession were only prayer for us, yet see how immense is our gain. When I pray for myself I have some reason to believe that even my poor prayers will be heard. If others, too, are praying for me—others who I know are purer and holier than I, who get nearer to God than I, who offer the fervent, effectual prayer of the righteous from a loftier summit than my poor petitions can reach, and whose interest in me is deep and intense—how much more of gladness and courage and hope there is for me in that powerful intercession of love than can possibly arise from any prayers of my own. But better than this. Not only are these Christian friends praying for me—the Savior himself is praying for me. And what is their faith to his? What is their love for me to his? What is their hold on the great verities of the eternal world and on the Hearer of prayer compared with his? Can there be anything more glorious or more wonderful than to have Christ himself praying for me?

But this is not the whole, by a great deal. He is not only praying for me—he is working for me, and working as only a God can work. When we bespeak the kind offices of a friend to accomplish for us some great plan on which we have set our hearts, and which we cannot attain ourselves, what are the things which give us confidence in his success? Plainly enough, his ability, his influence with the other party, his interest in us and our cause, and the goodness of the cause itself. Apply these tests to our Advocate in heaven, and what have we? As to his competency for the divine enterprise, there is no measure to its infiniteness. As to his influence at the court of the King of kings, it is he who is "far above all principality and power, and every name that is named, both in this world and in that which is to come." As to his interest in us and our cause, no Bible reader can doubt that his feeling toward us is the intensest and divinest affection. And as to the goodness of the cause, it is no less than an attempt to redeem and elevate and purify a whole degenerate race—a scheme which, for the nobleness of its aim, for the vastness and variety of its supernatural instrumentalities, and for its divine spirit of unselfish devotion, may well be reckoned without a parallel anywhere else in the universe—a scheme well worthy to enlist the powers of a God.

This is the ground of our faith in his intercession for us. Our Advocate is every way equal to the divine task. We need not fear for the result. Even if our pilgrimage be rough and thorny and sad, it is not for us to falter; our Redeemer is working for us in heaven. If the troubles come thick and fast—so many that we can scarce catch our breath between—still let us look up and be reassured; there is One working for us in heaven who is mightier than all possible adversities. If to any who are seeking to find the kingdom the way seems altogether hedged up, let us not despair. Remember that Jesus Christ himself is working for us, and before his love gates open and even walls crumble. If to any the outlook is dark, and the kingdom of God does not come, and the millennium delays, and the chariot-wheels drag, and crime and corruption revel in a more satanic riot than ever, nevertheless, be of good cheer; all power in heaven and earth is in the hands of our Advocate, and he is slowly reducing all this chaos to order, and compelling all things to work together toward beauty and goodness and truth.—Independent.

Ninety Years Old.

With a good appetite three times a day, delicious sleep, and not an ache or a pain in the whole body, the mind all the while fully alive to what is going on in the world, and all the time in good spirits—this is said of the late Ex-Governor Throup, of New York. He retired at nine and rose at six, taking a nap in the forenoon and sometimes in the afternoon also; breakfast at eight, dinner at one, and tea at sundown. In suitable weather he spent a greater part of the forenoon in his garden, directing his men and assisting them, and for a short time in the afternoon was employed in the same way. He used no spirituous liquors, but took claret wine every day at dinner.

There are three things in the above narration which, if persistently carried out in early life, would do more than all others toward giving all an enjoyable old age:

Regularity in eating.

Abundant sleep.

A large daily exposure to out-door air.

Regularity in eating, either two or three times a day, with nothing whatever between meals, not an atom of anything, would almost banish dyspepsia in a single generation, as frequent eating is the cause of it in almost all cases, especially if irregular and fast. Abundant sleep and rest from childhood make nervous diseases a rarity; to insufficiency of regular sleep and insufficiency of rest may well be attributed nine-tenths of all sudden deaths, and a premature wearing out, before the age of sixty years. All hard workers, whether of body or brain, ought to be in bed nine hours out of the twenty-four, not that so much sleep is required, but rest, after the sleep is over; every observant reader knows how the system yearns for rest in bed after a good sleep, and it is a positive gain of energy to indulge in it. Every hour that a man is out of doors is a positive gain of life, if not in a condition of chilliness, because no in-door air is pure; but pure air is the natural and essential food of the lungs, and the purifier of the blood, the want of which purification is the cause or attendant of every disease, while every malady is alleviated or cured by an abundant exposure to out-door air. If city wives and daughters would average two or three hours every day in active walking in the open air it would largely add to exemption from debility, sickness and disease, and would materially add to domestic enjoyment and the average duration of life.—Hall's Journal of Health.

DRAWING AS AN EDUCATOR.—In referring to the usefulness of the art of drawing in education, the Illustrated London News says: "The school board have taken an important and, we think, very wise step by resolving to introduce the elementary teaching of drawing into the schools. The teaching of drawing confers, as it were, a new sense; it develops perceptions which reading and other branches of education can never reach. To say nothing of the increased pleasure it affords through life, so long as the power of sight endures, it trains precisely those faculties which are most regarded in nearly all mechanical occupations, and it forms, therefore, the basis of most technical education. There are few mechanics who would not be benefited in their work by a knowledge of drawing; while here and there the proposed teaching may stimulate genius that might otherwise remain dormant. The system of teaching adopted in the German kindergarten has been recommended, and the suggestion deserves consideration."

IF YOU suppress the exorbitant love of pleasure and money, idle curiosity, inquitous pursuits and wanton mirth, what a stillness would there be in great cities! The necessaries of life do not occasion at most a third part of the hurry.—Bruyere.

PHILOSOPHY is a proud, sullen detecter of the poverty and misery of man. It may turn him from the world with a proud, sturdy contempt; but cannot come forward and say: "Here are rest, grace, peace, strength, consolation!"—Cecil.

Religious Intelligence.

MESSRS. MOODY AND SANKEY at last accounts were holding meetings, with their usual success, in Manchester, England.

UNION OF SYNODS.—Steps are being taken to unite the Cumberland Presbyterian and the Northern Presbyterian synods in California.

THERE are, according to a recent report, thirty-six vacant churches in the Synod of Iowa North. Several of these have neither Sunday schools nor prayer meetings.

BERLIN.—The first Old Catholic service in Berlin was held on Advent Sunday, in one of the Protestant churches, by Prof. Weber, of Breslau. About 300 persons attended the service, and 20 received the communion.

THE Morning Star was heard from during the early weeks in September, as delivering at their respective islands in Micronesia, Rev. Messrs. Taylor, Rand and Logan, with their wives, who went out to their work in company with Mrs. Sturgis, who was returning.

THE Second Reformed Episcopal church of Philadelphia, of which Rev. Dr. W. R. Nicholson has become rector, has bought a lot at the corner of Twenty-first and Chestnut streets, and will erect a house as soon as the weather will allow. The prospects of the enterprise are spoken of as fine.

A JOINT communion of the Presbyterian congregations of the city on the first Sunday of the year is one of the most interesting features of church life in New Orleans. It was duly observed January 3, the Rev. Dr. B. M. Palmer and his father, the Rev. Edward Palmer, distributing the elements.

THIS item reads very much like news from one of our American churches under Religious Intelligence: "The new pastor at Oodooville, Ceylon, is doing well. He received fifteen members to the church in July." This is the word which Rev. Mr. Howland sends of a native pastor and his native church.

THE total amount realized from the sale of the pews of Plymouth church in Brooklyn for 1875 was $71,165—a sum in excess of last year's proceeds by $12,845. The highest figure reached for the choice of seats was $550, and from that the prices ranged down to $15, the last one sold, 500 sittings, as usual, being reserved as "free."

HENRY VARLEY, the London evangelist, has been in New York for a few days. He is a Baptist, but in his labors seeks the co-operation of ministers and laymen of all evangelical denominations. His meetings for "Scripture Expositions," at Association Hall, have been largely attended, and impressed all who heard him as a man well adapted to the work in which he is engaged.

MR. VAN METER reports as the result of his October labors in Rome that in the Vatican mission 114 new names have been registered, and in the Frascati mission the total enrollment, including day, night and Sunday schools, foots up 498. Among other encouraging facts he states that he has been greatly favored in securing as director of the schools Prof. Cocorda, one of the ministers in Rome.

THE Christian Register says: "It is said that there were only six Protestant churches in Mexico in 1869, but now there are 98. If they increase sixteen-fold in the next five years there will be 1,568 at the close of 1879; but our friends at the Pilot office are not to be frightened by such fanciful figures. Indeed, when the Pilot saw that the old Unitarian meeting-house at Upton, Massachusetts, has been bought by the Romanists it exclaimed: 'That's right; buy 'em up, but don't bid too high. Protestant churches are going to be at a discount in this country in future.'"

THE Kumaon District Conference, India, composed of American Methodist missionaries and their helpers in Kumaon and Gurhwal, met in Dwara Hat, October 2 to 7. Nine essays were read on various subjects; the ninth chapter of Romans was expounded, and questions concerning mission work in the district and elsewhere were discussed. Licenses to preach were given to two native brethren, and the licenses of others were renewed. The Conference resolved to collect money for a mission to the Bhootias, and to send a missionary there as soon as a man could be found for the work.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Interior writes from Scotland: "While our friends Moody and Sankey were in Dublin Hospital Sunday occurred. Several scores of churches in that city made their contributions to the hospitals, but that made at our friends' meetings exceeded every other. This may be set down as one proof among thousands to the same effect, that the gospel, declared in its plainness and felt in its power, is the most exuberant spring of liberality. £2,500 were reported up to the following Tuesday, not a penny of which was from Roman Catholics, in obedience to Cardinal Cullen."

MR. MACKONOCHIE, the English Ritualist, keeps preaching and celebrating communion at St. Alban's, London, in spite of the decision of the Court of Arches, from which he has appealed. In a recent sermon he referred to this decision, and said that it taught them that Catholics were not meant to win in law courts. The Catholic Church won its battles through its apparent defeats. St. Peter and St. Paul were beaten in the law courts of the Cæsars, and all the martyrs had won the Catholic cause by being beaten by the world. St. Alban's during the last twelve years had been to him no bed of roses; but the feeling that his congregation backed him up made it pleasant. He had his place in the Church of England, and had no intention of seceding. The Church of England had nothing to do with these prosecutions, for the Court of Arches was not a spiritual court, and they had no right to give up the things of God to a court which was not a spiritual court.

A RICH PRIEST.—There seems to be every reason to believe the report stating that the Duke of Norfolk is about to become a priest. His eldest sister, Lady Minna Charlotte Howard, is a Carmelite nun in Paris; and another, Lady Etheldreda, is a Sister of Charity. The duke has at his own expense rebuilt the little oratory of Brompton, and contributed £5,000 to the general building fund. At Arundel he has erected a huge cathedral, which has already cost £80,000, and which will take another £50,000 before it is finished. This excess of zeal is said to be due to the Dowager Duchess, who controls her son's actions and purse-strings. A question will arise, if he become a monk, as to his position as Premier Duke of England, and hereditary marshal in all State ceremonies. It would be odd to see a cowled monk leading in State processions.

THE Friend of India says that at least 1,500 native women in and around Calcutta are being educated at their own homes, principally of the middle class, each paying on an average a rupee a month for Bengalee and two rupees for English instruction. The expense is met by a government grant, regulated by the number of pupils. In a single year the Bengal government paid 1,242 rupees a month for 1,416 pupils, in acknowledgment of local contributions to the amount of 2,092 rupees. It is estimated that for the past ten years 2,500 women have been constantly under instruction at their homes in that part of India.—Our Missionary.

A METHODIST gentleman, resident in New York, and deeply interested in the work of city evangelization, offers prizes of $50, $30 and $20 for the three best essays, in the order of merit, on that important subject. Bishop Janes, Dr. Curry and Dr. Crooks have kindly consented to serve as committee of criticism and award. All essays should be forwarded to Rev. R. Wheatley, editor of the City Evangelist, One Hundred and Fourth street boulevard, New York, before the first of March next. The essays should not occupy more than fifteen or twenty minutes in reading, and should discuss particularly the need, beneficent effects, methods and best means of raising funds to carry on the work of city evangelization.

THEY have had a lively time at St. John's, New Brunswick, selling the property of certain Roman Catholic clergymen who refused to pay school taxes. The bishop's taxes amounted to $217.10, which he refused to pay, on the ground that no Catholic citizen can "conscientiously and willingly" contribute to the support of schools in which his religion is attacked and insulted. His carriage, which cost about $2,000, was seized by the city authorities. At the auction it was sold for $210. The Rev. Mr. Murray's taxes amounted to $13.40, which he refused to pay for the same reason, and for which his furniture was seized. At the sale the furniture realized $20. The Rev. Mr. Chapman's tax bill was for $18, for which his books, worth about $80, were seized. At the sale they brought $7.25. A crowd of small boys made confusion by jeering at the auctioneer and constables.

THE NEW EPISCOPAL MOVEMENT. A few weeks ago Rev. William R. Nicholson, D. D., rector of Trinity church, Newark, announced his withdrawal from the Protestant Episcopal Church, and his union with the Reformed Episcopal Church. We have now before us the formal notice from the standing committee of the Episcopal diocese of Northern New Jersey, deposing Dr. Nicholson from the ministry. The same course was pursued in the cases of the withdrawal of Bishop Cummins and Dr. Cheney. In the meantime the Cummins movement prospers. Bishop Cheney announced recently that the Reformed Episcopal Church, organized less than a year ago, now numbers 40 ministers, 36 organized churches and about 3,000 communicants. Bishop Cummins reports calls upon him from various directions for pastors; among them are earnest calls from the Bermuda Islands.—New York Christian Advocate.

THE Wesleyans in England have issued an address to the Juvenile Missionary Helpers, to secure Christmas and New Year's offerings, in which they say: "You will be glad to know that in past years the juvenile contributions have been very helpful. In 1841, when this collection was first made, it amounted to $21,606; in 1873 to £10,996 5s. 11d., or $50,981. In this present year we hope for an increase. The intelligence from Africa, from Fiji, and from vast regions of China and India, shows how greatly additional missionaries are required in those countries. Will you help us to prepare and send out these additional missionaries, by giving and collecting, if possible, in this year a larger sum than ever you did before? Remember Rome, Italy, Portugal and Spain, the millions of China and India, and give or collect more than in any former year, to send the gospel of Christ to them, that they may be saved."

A SERIES of meetings in favor of disestablishment has been began in Scotland with splendid prospects of success. The Christian World of December 18 records five such meetings which had been held in as many chief centers of population, and claims that their showing is conclusive as to what the issue must be. The weather was very bad, that at the holding of the meeting particularly so, yet the halls were crowded. At Glasgow 3,000 persons were present; at Edinburg, 2,500; at Perth, 1,200; and at Dundee and Aberdeen the attendance was proportionately good. In three cases the senior member for the city was present, Mr. Duncan McLaren presiding at Edinburg, and Dr. Cameron at Glasgow. The leaders of the Free Church took prominent parts. Principal Rainy and Dr. William Arnot spoke at Edinburg; Dr. Robert Buchanan and Dr. Adams participated at Glasgow; Dr. Wilson "came to the front" at Dundee. The United Presbyterian Church was represented by Dr. Cairnes, Dr. Andrew Thomson, Dr. Edmond, of London, Ex-Provost Martin, of Greenock, and others.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. RUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription-price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE has been ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keepers, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

About Our Paper.

During our visit to the patronizing Conferences we received many encouraging words from the preachers, and, besides the public resolutions adopted, not a few of the brethren promised to push the circulation of the ADVOCATE this year with increasing vigor. We heartily thank them all for their sympathy and good wishes. Our personal intercourse with them has been most agreeable, and we count it as no inconsiderable compensation for our editorial work that the position has been the means of securing the personal acquaintance of so many devoted men of God. We are the better for knowing them, and the privilege of mingling with them at the Conferences is a large reward for the indifferent service which we have been able to render to our common interests in the church of Christ. They are, in fact, the proprietors, in their Conference capacity, of this paper, and our co-laborers in supplying themselves and the people with a religious journal under the direct control of a committee which they have appointed. The publisher and the editor are of their choice, and are simply agents acting for them.

It is natural and right, therefore, that we look to the preachers of the patronizing Conferences for their active support in promoting the interests of the ADVOCATE. They are our only agents, and much depends upon their efforts to secure subscribers and to collect what is due on subscriptions. Their representations of the claims of the paper and their solicitation of subscriptions are our chief dependence. By the wayside, in the household, before the congregation and at the district and quarterly meetings a great deal can be done without trenching upon the pastor's time or strength. As a means of doing good, however, time and labor bestowed in this direction will be abundantly rewarded. The weekly religious journal is every way helpful to the preacher in his work, both in its spiritual and in its temporal welfare. Whatever it may cost him to place it in the hands of his people is repaid an hundred-fold in the improved intelligence, piety and liberality of his charge. If our people do not read our own literature they are sure to read something else. They cannot be stable and enlightened Methodists without a Methodist literature, nor can they be broad-minded and vital Christians without being kept in constant communion with the condition and movements of the Christian church. Let a comparison be made between those who read our religious papers and those who do not, and the subject needs no further argument. The weekly paper inspires a taste for reading, advertises our books, and thus promotes the circulation and use of our standard works. Our schools, colleges, missions and all our denominational enterprises reach the people through the newspaper.

Through it these great interests obtain a hearing, and their prosperity—their very existence—is secured. But we only glance at these points. It is evident that in extending the circulation of our church papers we most powerfully promote everything that is essential to our religious welfare. They are of the country as well as of the church, and their mission is to conserve and benefit society. The indirect influence of religious papers upon political affairs is of the highest importance. Discarding everything merely partisan, it is their duty to rebuke oppression and injustice, and to cheer and strengthen an afflicted people in their sufferings. Advocates of quietness and peace, they may expose wrong, and at the same time promote virtue and moderation. The value of our church papers to the South during the years of trial through which she has passed and is still passing cannot be too highly estimated.

The special claims of our ADVOCATE to the patronage and support of our people is in part based upon its relation to the Conferences in whom its proprietorship is vested. The church within their bounds needs a paper; it is a convenience and almost a necessity as a medium of opinion and information. Ours may not be the best, but it may be the best for us, and if our people do not take it the most of them will be without one of any sort. Neither publisher nor editor is altogether satisfied with it. They would make it better, and they hope to do so. Each has his own responsibilities to bear. The publisher's are exclusively of a business nature, and they are of the most onerous character; the editor's extend to every line of reading matter, original or selected, so far as the expediency of its insertion is concerned. We do not always indorse the opinions of our correspondents, and we admit articles not altogether to our taste in matter and style, but we wish to be impartial, and, as far as may be consistent with the welfare of the church, and the protection to which our readers are entitled, to give all a hearing.

Ours is by no means a blanket sheet. When the secular news has its usual space, the obituaries and religious intelligence their allotted columns, the children their corner, the farm and garden and scientific departments their due portion, and the editor his customary pre-emption, there remains but a limited territory for selections from the literature of the day and for original contributions. Still we have plenty of room for the best things which our brethren and sisters may write. We now, as heretofore, invite them to the fellowship of the columns of the ADVOCATE. Let none write, however, who have not grace to bear the rejection of their articles. Correspondence from remote places is always acceptable; news items, religious and secular, we are always glad to receive; and brief monographs, biographical, scientific, literary and religious, can be put to good account. But be short, and usually let the topic be begun and ended in one article. A rule in newspaper writing is not to aim at an exhaustive treatment. It should be like taking a cold bath—plunge into the subject at once, and jump out as suddenly as you went in. Leave the heavy and complete treatment to books and quarterly reviews. In medias res open and close.

We ask our friends to work for the ADVOCATE this year, to write for it and to pray for it. The publisher reports a list of over eight thousand subscribers, and a cheering increase of new subscribers every week. The times are hard, the political horizon cloudy, but the mere reason this for sustaining the ADVOCATE. The church needs it more than ever, the homes of toil and trouble, the distressed, the straitened and perplexed need it as never before.

State Affairs.

The election in Louisiana in November was as fair as any that has taken place in any part of the United States within the last twenty years. The Conservatives elected to the Legislature were largely in the majority. The Legislature was being organized peaceably and in accordance with the constitution and laws of the State, when the House was entered by United States soldiers, and its proceedings were interrupted, and its rights and privileges trampled on by armed men. The ostensible object of this armed intervention, by order of Lieutenant General Sheridan, was the ejection of certain members not recognized as elected by the Returning Board. There was no insurrection in the State, no occasion which under the most liberal construction justified the interference of the Federal authorities. It was a plain violation of the national constitution, and such an invasion of the rights guaranteed to the States that there could be no mistaking the issue which was thus precipitated upon the whole country. The President could, with as much show of right, enter the legislative halls of New York and Ohio, or march a squad of soldiers into the capitol at Washington, and extrude from their seats members who are obnoxious to him. Under the constitutional provision which requires that Congress shall guarantee to the States a republican form of government, many oppressive and exceptional measures have been resorted to, but in this instance the President, for partisan ends alone, and without a shadow of authority, breaks up a State Legislature, and has it constituted to subserve his own purposes.

Hence the widespread indignation throughout the land. In the fall and ruin of Louisiana the pillars of American constitutional liberty are pulled down with her. Compelled to explain by the general condemnation of his course, the President declares that Sheridan acted without his authorization, while he at the same time attempts to vindicate the outrage by villifying and misrepresenting our people. His very mild disavowal of the course of the lieutenant general is, however, followed by no reparation of the wrong; and a rump Legislature, composed almost exclusively of the willing tools of Radicalism, is in session, guarded by Federal bayonets, and pretending to make laws for the State. A Congressional sub-committee meanwhile has reported, exposing the iniquities of the Returning Board, and vindicating the Conservatives. This report is so damaging to the Republicans, and to the Kellogg usurpation, that other members of the Congressional committee are here and at work, doubtless for the purpose of attempting to save the credit of the party.

Such an act as the military were guilty of in New Orleans on the fourth of December would have awakened the nation twenty years ago to a pitch of indignation which nothing but an immediate reparation could have allayed. The act was revolutionary, and was a precedent in the direction of a personal despotism. Loud as has been the expression of condemnation by the Northern people, by their Legislatures and statesmen, we are only amazed at the mildness of their protest. Neither the President nor Congress seem to care much about these declarations of public opinion, and the State they have crushed lies helpless, and is left for an indefinite period to endure the wrongs which have been heaped upon her. No unprejudiced man can doubt that the sole reason for the course pursued toward this State is the maintenance of party ascendency. It is not that the negro shall vote, but that he shall vote in a certain way. In alliance with this there is, of course, a measure of the old fanaticism and sectional hatred still existing among the people in the Northern States, but the President and his obsequious Congress are working for a political result. No matter if the best interests of these few Southern States be sacrificed, and the last vestige of liberty destroyed, so the control of them shall be secured to the Republican party.

The end depends upon the temper of the Northern people. If they are prepared to accept a centralized despotism, and to perpetuate the rule of corruption and military power in the South, there can be no relief, and not much in any case, we imagine, until after the next Presidential election. The present Congress is not likely to do anything beyond approving the policy of the President, and leaving him to manage the Southern States after his own way. The ballot box in 1876 will give us deliverance, or make permanent the ills we are now enduring. We hope for better days. After being twice cheated of the fruits of a Conservative victory at the polls in Louisiana, there is enough to discourage, but our people must not yet despair altogether. We cannot believe that the nation is ready to give up its dearest rights and liberties without a struggle to maintain them.

Boston Preachers on the Louisiana Question.

The Bulletin of this city publishes the subjoined as a special telegram to the Chicago Times from Boston. That preachers' meeting was almost as refreshing as the Round Lake camp meeting. At the latter, it will be remembered, President Grant was introduced, and he is made the subject of grateful thanks by the Boston brethren, and thanked too for "the prompt manner in which he has discharged his constitutional obligations by sending troops under his command to the State of Louisiana to suppress the riotous proceedings of a lawless mob." President Grant says that he did not order the suppression of the Legislature—the mob of the Boston preachers' resolution—but they understand the President. Fanaticism is as gullible as it is mendacious. We had supposed that even the Boston preachers had more sense, more comprehension of constitutional obligations, and more of refinement and Christian spirit, than this report would indicate. Such a manifestation of ignorant credulity, malignant misrepresentation, and coarse and brutal vituperation, has seldom emanated from any source. The telegram is as follows:

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—The Methodist preachers, at their weekly meeting to-day, had a regular political powwow over the Louisiana question. Bishop Bowman gave an account of what he knew about the treatment of colored people in Louisiana, narrating a number of instances in which they had been shamefully abused, and deprived of life even. By invitation, Rev. B. J. Ives, of New York, addressed the meeting, and his speech was of the most radical kind.

He declared there is altogether too much toadyism on the part of Northern people in their treatment of the South. He said: "We are undertaking now to coax the devil out of the miserable whelps down South, when nothing but strychnine and cannon ought to be used. He rather agreed with Phil. Sheridan's declaration, during the war, that if he had owned hell and Texas, he would lease out Texas and live in the other place."

Mr. Ives administered a castigation to the church, declaring that there is not a party in the Methodist Church that dares discuss the civil rights bill, and ask that it be enforced. He said he believed the meanest rascals in the South are in the Methodist Church South. He declared himself a Radical of the strongest kind, and said he believed the more he hated the rebels of the South the more he loved God.

He declared that he believed that the spirit now rampant in the South has got to be crushed out by another war, and he longed for the appearance of some colored man able to become a leader among his people, wielding the sword and torch. He said the Bishops ought to come out publicly and declare the whole truth about the treatment of the colored people in the South, but he did not believe they would.

If they did, he knew they could not return to the South, for if they did they would be hung; but he intimated that it was no worse to hang a Bishop than a minister; but he suggested that if it was done it might wake up the people quicker than anything else. He thought the Bishops were too tender-hearted, and they reminded him of the man who wanted to cut off his dog's tail, but he was too tender-hearted to cut it off where it ought to be, so he cut it off an inch at a time.

The speech of Mr. Ives was received with frequent demonstrations of approval, some of his most radical utterances exciting considerable applause, mingled with laughter.

During the meeting the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous rising vote:

Resolved, That we, the Methodist preachers of Boston and vicinity, in our regular preachers' meeting assembled, tender our grateful thanks to U. S. Grant, President of the United States, for the prompt manner in which he has discharged his constitutional obligations by sending troops under his command to the State of Louisiana to suppress the riotous proceedings of a lawless mob; and we also thank the commanding general, Lieutenant General Phil. H. Sheridan, for the summary manner in which he has discharged his duties.

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be presented to Wendell Phillips, Esq., for his speech in Faneuil Hall, on the fifteenth instant, in which he defended in so masterly a manner the constitutionality of the recent acts of the administration in upholding law and order in New Orleans, and exposed with such withering scorn the assumption of the meeting in Faneuil Hall as being in any sense the voice of Boston.

A Statesman's View of the Louisiana Case.

We give in another column the deliverance of the Boston preachers' meeting. Mr. Chas. Francis Adams, of Massachusetts, is one of the few real statesmen left in the North. He is a gentleman of culture, a man of unsullied integrity, and his views are worth considering. He writes to the New York Nation as follows:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NATION—Sir: The leading article of the last Nation, on "The Law and Facts in Louisiana," closes with these unsatisfactory words: "As regards the proper mode of dealing with this question on the part of the public, it is difficult to know what to say."

In this respect you seem to concur with the various speakers and public characters who have recently addressed the country on the subject. Have we not now had quite enough of the "law and the facts" in the case? Is not the one question the very question you avoid? Here is a practical difficulty, and it calls pressingly for a practical solution.

My voice will not reach far amid the turmoil; but will you let me offer a suggestion? There are three parties, and three only, to this complication—the existing legislative and executive departments of the United States, constituting in fact the national government, the people of the United States and the people of Louisiana. The national government now is, as the recent election shows, administered by those representing a minority of the people—the rump, in fact, of the once great Republican party.

These men have apparently become bewildered by defeat, have lost their heads, and, seeking to settle everything through the decision of the caucus, enforced by party discipline, are rushing as fast as they can upon their destruction. It is for the people to see that they do not carry the country there with them.

No calm and observing man can to-day doubt that a vast majority of the people are utterly opposed, on the Louisiana issue, to the existing government.

The adverse majorities of last autumn have quadrupled since the year 1875 began. One thing, and one thing only, can save the faction now in control of the government—that one thing is the renewal of a fierce war spirit in the North, resulting from the violence of despair in the South. The relief of Louisiana is certain if no such reaction intervenes.

At the outside two years of patience only are necessary to bring the majority of the people of the country to the side of the people of Louisiana. Submission and patience are hard things; but for two years submission and patience it must be, or the result is in danger.

But what is to be done to-day? One thing that I can see, and only one, can be done. Let the Conservative Legislature of Louisiana give solemn notice to the whole world that they are now subjected by force to a usurpation, every act of which is null and void, and shall be so treated hereafter. Let them publicly declare that so surely as the day of relief comes, every debt contracted by the usurping government shall be repudiated, every tax title set aside. Let them, in one word, publish to the world the existing administration of the State as a fraud, by no act of which will the people of Louisiana be bound so soon as they are restored to the control of their own affairs.

This one solemn notice given, let the Conservative Legislature hold up its hand in submission and disperse. The rest may be safely left to the people of the whole country. Two years is a short time, when at the expiration of it relief is sure. During that brief time let no Conservative of Louisiana go to the polls or enter a legislative hall—the worse their oppression the better.

Let them simply submit. They need not fear that a day of reckoning will not come; and then the government of the United States and all public opinion will justify them in treating their present rulers as criminals, and each and every one of their official acts as absolutely and ab initio null and void.

I am, etc., C. F. ADAMS, JR.
QUINCY, MASS., Jan. 16, 1875.

The Transit of Venus.

The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser gives the following picturesque account of the transit of Venus and the observations of the British party at that place:

"The long-expected celestial phenomenon has been most satisfactorily observed at this point; and the success of the eminent astronomers now residing here is a cause for rejoicing in this community. During the day there was a very general demand for broken panes of glass and bottles, which were smoked and held in readiness for looking at the sun at half-past three o'clock, when the great celestial event was predicted to take place. The natives were as busy with their preparations for astronomical observations as the white foreigners. Little Kanakas were going about the streets with pieces of blackened glass in hand, for the purpose of looking, as they said, at the Hokulaa (the Morning Star) go through the sun, which they expect will be hereafter burnished with an increased solar splendor.

"It was curious to listen to the remarks and speculations of natives whose savage fathers had never suspected this occasional moving spot on the great light of day. They knew that Lono, or Captain Cook, the discoverer of these isles, had come to these seas to observe a star in the sun, and it had been predicted in his day that it should be seen again more than a hundred years afterward on this day, with the hour, and the minute, and the very second specified. And now there were tens of thousands throughout these isles looking upward to prove the truth of this century-old prediction.

"At a few minutes past three you could see everywhere in the streets faces looking upward toward the sun, with a piece of shaded glass in hand to screen his fierce rays from man's weak yet ambitious, searching eyes. A minute or two elapsed, and no change in the dusky red ball above. Another minute gazing upward, and still no spot flecks the face of the somber rubescent orb. Ha!—'aia la!'—there it is, cries one keen-sighted, close watching Kanana; and now we begin to see, a little to the right of the top or vortex of the sun, a slight dent or notch; and as we gaze on, the dent or spot enlarges, advances within the borders of the disk; and, as the clearly-defined dark mantle upon the ruddy plain is now distinctly seen by every eye, an enthusiastic native says: 'Surely they who behold this were prophets, and Lono was a prophet.'

"But we must turn to where the real star prophets were at work, close to the bench, in the grounds known as Honokanpu, which will hereafter be designated as our 'Point Venus.'

"Faithfully the heavenly traveler comes, as first foretold by Kepler, and the chief observes the first external contact of disk and disk at 3h. 7m. 1s., and Lieutenant Noble 3h. 7m. 3s., according to local mean solar time. The agreement is singular, but must be regarded as purely accidental. But this is not the crisis of greatest moment; it is when the perfect rounded orb of the planet is within the sun, and the edge of its disk at the moment of leaving the inner circle of the luminary indicates the internal contact, the most interesting point to be observed in all this transit phenomenon.

"As the body of the planet was indenting the sun's rim, and advancing on toward immersion within its body, the chief, who was now watching through a micrometer, saw the complete disk of Venus defined about thirty seconds before the actual internal contact was determined, and for awhile he imagined he had missed the critical phase of the phenomenon; but this revelation of the complete circle of the planet, before actual internal contact had taken place, was owing to the effulgence of the corona or outer flame waves of the sun, which illuminated the whole surface of Venus some time before complete immersion—a phase of the phenomenon never observed before, and its detection on this occasion is due to the optical perfection of the telescopic instruments employed. Lieutenant Noble could distinguish the complete disk of Venus fully five minutes before internal contact; and Mr. Johnson, observing at Waimea, on the Island of Kauai, saw this complete disk no less than twelve minutes before the complete entrance of the planet.

"This luminous presentation of the full, round body of Venus, when still only partially across the sun's circle, was calculated to dazzle and deceive our astronomers; but, like faithful watchers, they neglected not one moment's observation, and as they scrutinized the advancing planet they discerned approximately the phase of internal contact, which the chief recorded at 3h. 35m. 55.7s. and Lieutenant Noble at 3h. 35m. 54.4s.

"We get the time of the planet and the sun, but we also wanted their pictures. We thought we had a capital day for a solar sitting; but it was in fact too fine. Too much glare and irradiation and too much atmospheric disturbance, especially in the wooden huts, so that the photographs of the planet, taken with every vigilance and care by Lieutenant Ramsden, represented it triangular, square and elliptical, and everything but circular, and the value of the pictures depended upon the accurate form of the orb. The famous Janssen revolving slide unfortunately failed on account of the difficulty of pointing.

"But, excepting this disturbance of the photoheliograph, all the observations of the astronomers at the Honolulu station were eminently satisfactory. The astronomical party at Waimea, Kauai, had also an excellent opportunity for observing the transit; but we regret to say that Prof. Forbes and Mr. Barnacle, at Kailua, Hawaii, should have been disappointed by a cloud at the critical phase of the contacts. But yet they were enabled to make many observations of value. The whole observation of the British expedition to these islands must be regarded as very successful.

"We must not close our report without a word or two in relation to our astronomers in the Isles. Mr. C. J. Lyons, government surveyor, who is one of our best mathematicians, and has devoted much attention to astronomy, was an observer of the transit at Aliiolaui House. Also Captain Daniel Smith, who calculates our tables of the sun's time and the moon's phases, and Mr. David Flitner, who has had some considerable experience in celestial observations, were observers of the transit at Waikiki, as was Mr. F. S. Pratt, another amateur, and their several times of the observation of internal contact were as follows: C. J. Lyons, 3h. 35m. 53s.; Captain D. Smith, 3h. 35m. 54.8s.; D. N. Flitner, 3h. 35m. 58s.; F. S. Pratt, 3h. 35m. 53s."

An Italian View of Mr. Gladstone's "Expostulation."

The Perseveranza of Milan, whose editor, Bonghi, has lately entered the Italian cabinet as minister of public instruction, thus speaks of Mr. Gladstone's pamphlet:

"It must be agreed that Mr. Gladstone has really put his finger upon the wound, for the Ultramontanes have not ceased their loud outcries, and their very chief has had to denounce 'that viper' which has raised itself up 'against the bark of St. Peter.' This work of the illustrious Englishman on the Vatican decrees has produced an effect the like to which we do not believe any political pamphlet has ever yet caused. Confusion, consternation and anger reign in the Ultramontane camp. There is a general drawing of swords to ward off the terrible blow. The English Catholic Union held, on the eighteenth of November, a meeting under the presidency of Lord Petre to protest against the attacks of the ex-premier. The newspapers too lend themselves to the strife, and these in more private station follow their leaders. So we see published in the Times a letter which Canon Oakley has sent Mr. Gladstone, to show what Monsignor Manning and Monsignor Capel failed to prove—namely, that obedience to the Church of Rome does not interfere with the duties of a citizen toward his country. There is always the same style of argument, artificial, tricky, empty, which, avoiding the strict rules of logic, aims at confusing the mind. This confusion of mind is manifest in three letters published also in the Times from Lord Herries, and Messrs. Langdale and Stourton, Catholics, of whom one hardly knows what to say, except that they prefer to submit reason to fanaticism. But, on the other hand, Mr. Gladstone may take comfort to himself that his appeal is also responded to by the voice of reason and of good sense. To the letters of Lord Camoys and Lord Acton is added now one from Mr. Henry Petre, in which he says that 'among the Old Catholics of England, however loth they may be to appear in open opposition to the authority of their church, there are many who watch with anxiety, not unmingled with regret, the reckless and irrational proceedings of the Ultramontane party—a party seeking to impose upon the world, with all the means of powerful combination at its command, the astounding claims issuing from the Vatican—claims and pretensions long since supposed to have been extinct, which now in their resuscitation are tending to open hostility with modern progress, and to collision with every civil authority in Europe.' Mr. Petre concludes that a loyal subject cannot give to the appeal of Gladstone other answer than this: 'An Englishman first; a Catholic after.'"

Books and Periodicals.

HELPS TO A LIFE OF PRAYER. By Rev. J. Manuing, D. D., pastor of the Old South church. Boston: Lee & Shepard, publishers; New York: Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, 1875.

Dr. Manning is a Congregationalist, we believe, and we should judge a moderate Calvinist. He treats in this volume of nature, forms, objects, fruits, power and the hour of prayer. The author is manifestly a devout and spiritually-minded Christian, and writes as a man of prayer, whose studies and experience are in perfect harmony with the oracles of God. It is well written, and calculated to help the earnest believer in his life of prayer. We hope it may have a large circulation. We most heartily commend it to our readers.

POTTER'S COMPLETE BIBLE ENCYCLOPEDIA. Edited by Rev. William Blackwood, D. D., LL. D. Philadelphia: John E. Potter & Co.

We have received from the publishers eight additional parts of this splendid work, from 25 to 32 inclusive. Part 32 closes with Patriarch. What we have hitherto said of this publication is fully sustained as the work advances. The wide range of subjects, including classical, scientific and biographical matter, compels brevity in the treatment of the topics generally, but the Encyclopedia will be a library in itself and invaluable for reference. The biographical sketches of noted persons, ancient and modern, are especially numerous, and embrace many of the most eminent names in the history of the European and American churches. The illustrations in these last numbers show no falling off in beauty and finish. It is expected that the work will embrace in all about fifty parts.

SUNNY SHORES, OR YOUNG AMERICA IN ITALY AND AUSTRIA. A story of travel and adventure. By William T. Adams. Boston: Lee & Shepard, publishers; New York: Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, 1875.

This is in the second series of Young America Abroad. Mr. Adams is the well-known Oliver Optic. History and descriptions of the countries mentioned are mingled with incidents and entertaining adventures. A fascinating and instructive book for both old and young. It is a stout duodecimo of 409 pages.

SOWED BY THE WIND, OR THE POOR BOY'S FORTUNE. By Elijah Kellogg. Boston: Lee & Shepard, publishers; New York: Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, 1875.

This is a story that will interest the young people, especially the boys. It abounds in adventures, and the moral is good. It is a handsomely printed 12mo, with illustrations.

COLE'S SELF-REPORTING CLASS-BOOK, FOR THE USE OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SCHOOLS. By J. R. Cole. New York and Chicago: A. S. Barnes & Co., 1874.

This book is designed for recording the daily, weekly and monthly scholarship and deportment of each pupil in the school. A very convenient and valuable work for teachers. Price, fifty cents.

INDEPENDENT YOUTH'S SPELLER. Printed in imitation of writing. By J. Madison Watson. A. S. Barnes & Co., New York and Chicago, 1875.

A useful work and on a new plan. Price, fifty cents.

LITTLE SONGS is the title of an exquisite little volume of nursery songs by Mrs. Eliza Lee Follen. The illustrations, by Mrs. L. B. Humphrey, are very fine. A beautiful book indeed. Lee & Shepard, publishers, 1875.

THE Methodist Quarterly Review for January, D. D. Wheedon, LL. D., editor, has the following table of contents: Religious Ideas Among Barbarous Tribes, A Common Basis of Knowledge for Science and Religion, The Ramah of Samuel and of Rachel's Lament, The Presiding Eldership, The Negro, Philosophy of Herbert Spencer. The editorial department is voluminous and able, as usual, embracing: Synopsis of the Quarterlies, Foreign Religious Intelligence, Foreign Literary Intelligence, Quarterly Book Table. Published by Nelson & Phillips, New York. Price, $2.50 per annum.

THE International Review for January has: Vienna and the Centennial, Baron Leibig, The Association for the Reform and Codification of the Law of Nations, The University System in Italy, The Guarantee of Order and Republican Government in the States, Ideas in Nature Overlooked by Dr. Tyndall, Books Reviewed. This Review is published once in two months. Price, $5 per annum. A. S. Barnes & Co., publishers, New York.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY for February has: The Canons of the Colorado, illustrated, continued; Christ's Supernaturalism; Latter-Day British Poets; Theodore Thomas, Illustrated; A New Solution of an Old Puzzle, and other articles. The editorial departments are, as usual, able and taken up with living themes.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE for February has: Following the Tiber, Six Months Among Cannibals, A Japanese Marriage in High Life, The Lost Baby, Gentleman Dick, and other articles. The illustrations are numerous and well executed. The scenes on the Tiber are especially good.

CHALLEN'S HOLIDAY ARABIAN NIGHTS ENTERTAINMENT. A cheap 12mo, containing Aladdin, Ali Baba and Sinbad. It claims to be an amended translation, and better suited than the old for family reading. It is published by Howard Challen, Philadelphia.

ST. NICHOLAS for February is, as usual, rich in its fine illustrations, and in the variety and excellence of its articles. Our young folks at home watch for its monthly visits, even as they look forward to Christmas.

GOOD WORDS for January has a very choice table of contents, and many splendid illustrations. There is no better monthly publication than this for home and family reading.

MARRIED.

REVELL—JEFFERSON.—January 12, 1875, by Rev. W. W. Graham, Mr. W. B. Revell to Miss Katie Jefferson, all of Russell county, Alabama.

FERGUSON—KELLY.—January 13, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, Dr. J. M. Kelly, Walnut Grove, Mississippi, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. B. W. Ferguson to Miss Florence Kelly.

DITTO—HAYGOOD.—By the Rev. F. White, December 10, 1874, Mr. H. A. Ditto and Miss Maggie Haygood, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

HATHAWAY—HOGAN.—By the same, January 18, 1875, Mr. J. W. Hathaway and Miss Eugenia Hogan, all of Rapides parish, Louisiana.

Publisher's Department.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Jan. 23, 1875.

A—T A S Adams two letters $28.15, Edwin Alden three letters, J O Andrew $2.15, Philip Allen, C G Andrews two letters $52.71, P W Archer $1.25, N W Ayer & Son, American Tract Society, Applegate, Pounsford & Co.

B—G Waverly Briggs, James Billingsley, Dr J Ball & Co $6.66, Mrs Edith Bihne, Robert Babington, W Blackmer $2.50, J R Billingsley, A M Barrington, F Theodore Barnes $3, Thomas Bond, Boorum & Pease, Mrs L R Burgoyas, George W Brown (of Pearlington) $10, J H Bass & Bro $133.25, Brewer & Tileston, C R Benson, Horace Bishop $11.50.

C—J R Cott, John F Cook, S H Cox $2.50, Cassell & Baughn $25, Miss Eudora Conley, Lyman Carley, T Whitney Carter, George Colmer $1, John Church & Co, Phillip Chew, C W Calhoun, W W Clark, W W Cowan $5, Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger, Ross Calhoun, W H Cooly, Howard Challen

D—H W Dunnell, P H Dieffenwierth $8, Dufur & Co $10, Mrs H B Davis 50 cents, T W Dyer $1.25, A M Dowling $2.50, J M O Douglass $1, A W Dennison, C H Dullusc two letters.

E—W G Elder two letters, Charles F Evans.

F—A H Ford $2.50, H H Fruzee $1, Edwin Friend, E N Freshman, G W Fagan, B Fanelly $1, John S Frazer $2, T Foster $11 25.

G—W W Graham, Henry M Gurman, Graphic Company, Ed T Goodwin, W G Gray, A E Goodwyn, Elias George $11.60, Neil Gillis, Gould & Lincoln, H Gwinner & Bros, John Gillis $6, H Goff $2.50, E T Garnett, H D Gayle $5.50.

H—Hitchcock & Walden, Harney & Washington, William A Hackler, J C Huckabee, G S Huffman, Charles L Harris $4.30, H G Horton, James J Hinson, P J Henrington $1 25.

I—H J Irvine, Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.

J—H F Jones, K A Jones $14.75, William Jones, J A H Jones.

K—Andrew King & Co, J D Keener $2, W H W Kyle, King, Briggs & Co.

L—L Lewis 75 cents, Mrs M L Lawrence 75 cents, W C Lewis $10, H P Lewis, J H Lippincott & Co, A J Lamar, W H Leith, M J Locklear $5.

M—A W Moore $2, W F Mellen, John G Mitchell, Charles Miller, Irvin Miller, J E Mason, E T McMorris, John P Morton, A H Moss, C McDonald, John T Mason, Manley & Co, Albert Mason, J W Martin, E H Mounger.

N—C J Nugent, J D Newsom.

O—James Ormond two letters, W P Owen, Oates & Worrell.

P—B A Philibert, J M Pugh, J J Peebles, S H Propst, S M Petteagill & Co, G J Penn, Pierce & Terry $4.15.

R—Thomas Y Ramsay, J K Randall two letters, A H Redford agent two letters, William L Rocke $10, George P Rowell & Co two letters, William A Rice two letters, H M Ragan, Miss Annie Roddy 50 cents, E F S Roberts $10.25, A M Ragland.

S—P M Shorter, Joseph Smith $1.40, J A Stebbins two letters $3.50, W A Salut, J W Sandell, J W Shores $10, William Smith $6, P B Saffold $1, Mrs S Myra Smith, W Springfield.

T—R K Thomas, H L Tucker $2.50, W Tucker.

V—Samuel C Vaughn $17.50, W G Veal $18.20.

W—V M West, H J Wright, A R Winfield, T B Walden, J S White, E Wadsworth $1.25, W Wadsworth $4, Fred White, M H Wells $2.25, Wagley & Lockhart, W W Williams $2, R H Wood, W J Wesmer $2.50, A J Wheeler, W H Wild, J L Wright $17.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS ON REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

WE CLIP the following from the Times: "The Domestic Paper Fashions, recently introduced into this city by Mr. M. S. Hedrick, No. 103 Canal street, represent the leading and most elegant styles of the day. One of the advantages afforded by the Domestic in its patterns, and one, by the way, which should not be overlooked by the inexperienced, is the ease with which the several parts may be put together, saving time and troublesome calculation." See advertisement.

THE letter of Dr. Hunter on this page will be read with interest by those afflicted with throat or lung diseases. The doctor's office is at 165 Canal street, where he can be seen daily.

MESSRS. LEVY BROS., at 580 Magazine street, have on hand a stock of dry goods which purchasers would do well to examine before buying elsewhere.

ANY ONE wishing a good hat can be suited at the C. O. H. Hat store, 26 St. Charles street.

SEE ADVERTISEMENT of the New Louisiana Remedy in to-day's paper.

Extraordinary Opportunity for the Relief of the Afflicted.

The surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana, have finally yielded to the many urgent appeals to visit the South. Three or more of the surgeons will be at the ST. CHARLES HOTEL, NEW ORLEANS, LA., FEB. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 AND 16, 1875.

They will leave with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change, fit and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Catarrh, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip, they will not make another; therefore all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to Indianapolis, must do so at this time. No cases will be undertaken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the Institution is entirely responsible, and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, caring thousands annually. Remember the time and place, and come early. Send to the Institute for circular.

MESSRS. FAIRBANKS & CO., the well-known scale manufacturers, promptly take advantage of the new postal arrangements facilitating the transmission by mail of small parcels. They have just produced what they call a special "Postal Parcel Scale," for packages up to four pounds, which will prove exceedingly useful in stores and offices.—New York Tribune, January 12.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—One of the most important and well-conducted establishments in the city is the depot for machinery, agricultural implements, plantation hardware, steam engines, etc., of H. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street. See his advertisement.

MR. THOMAS MARKEY, undertaker, at 40, 42 and 44 Claiborne street, has constantly on hand all requisites in his line of business. He hopes, by personal attention to all matters intrusted to him, to obtain a share of public patronage.

MESSRS. FREDERICKSON & HARTE, No. 139 Canal street, advertise to-day their Compound Pulmonic Paste and Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate of Lime. They guarantee the articles fresh and genuine, and can be relied on.

READ Dr. Warrington's advertisement elsewhere in to-day's paper.

ON THE

CURE OF CONSUMPTION,

ETC., BY

MEDICATED INHALATION.

To the Editor of the New York Daily Times:

SIR—As the treatment of diseases of the Lungs by inhalation, from its very great success, is attracting the earnest attention of the public and the profession throughout the United States, a few explanations with reference to what is meant by Inhalation, and the method of its employment in Pulmonary Diseases, seems urgently to be called for.

By Inhalation is meant the direct application of medicines to the internal surface of the Lungs. In Consumption, Bronchitis and Asthma we can only reach the seat of the malady by this means. Inhalation, as a principle of treatment, recognizes the necessity of treating diseases of the Lungs as we do similar diseases in other parts. In inflammation and ulceration of the mucous coats of the Eye, washes and ointments are resorted to; in "Sore Throat," gargles and applications; in diseases of the Stomach, medicines are placed in the stomach, and so of other parts of the body. The same principle directs the application of fomentations to an inflamed joint, and dressings to an ulcer, on whatever part of the body it may be situated. This is a principle in medical science long since placed above controversy. In the profession its recognition and adoption is universal.

Now rational inhalation is but the application of this principle, in the simplest and most direct manner possible, to diseases of the Lungs. Chronic diseases of the brain and of the Heart are almost always mortal, because they cannot be reached by medicines, and so also, in a less degree, disease of the Kidneys and Liver. Consumption is an incurable disease so long as we treat it by medicines administered through the stomach, but the moment we apply them through the medium of inhalation, directly to the diseased surface of the lungs—in other words, the moment we treat it as we do other curable diseases—it comes entirely within the reach of cure, and the chances of recovery will be more or less favorable, just in proportion to the extent the lungs are affected. The last stage, if the part diseased is small, is actually more favorable than the first; where a large portion of the lungs are involved.

But inhalation is not a medicine; to make it such is to degrade it to the base level of quackery. It can never be honestly employed without a full knowledge of all the symptoms and peculiarities of each case, and the adaptation of the remedies accordingly. In one case the expectoration is profuse and exhausting, in another it is small in quantity, and only forced from the windpipe by the most violent cough. In some cases the disease is confined to the lining of the "bronchial tubes," while in others it exists in the "air cells" and beneath the mucous tissue. Tubercles may have been deposited, or the affection may be entirely "bronchial." There are five distinct kinds of "Consumption," and as many of Bronchitis, Asthma may be caused by organic diseases of the heart or arise from simple functional disturbance. In some cases it is permanent, in others spasmodic. In one case the system is nervous and irritable, the body wasted and the disease far advanced; while in another the disease is in its early stage, and the flesh and strength but little disturbed. Now in the treatment, the symptoms, the kind of disease, the stage, and the peculiarities of each case must all be considered. Some medicines, when inhaled, increase the quantity of matter expectorated; others diminish it. Some are soothing to the inflamed mucous membrane and allay cough, while others are stimulating and increase it. Some act almost entirely upon the lungs. Others are absorbed into the current of the circulation, and extend their curative influence, through the medium of the blood, to every part of the body. Because the inhalation of certain medicines, adapted to some particular case of disease of the lungs, effects its cure, it must not be supposed that any medicine would have proved equally successful, any more than that because certain medicines taken into the stomach cure a disease of the stomach, any medicine would have acted likewise. It is scarcely necessary to say, therefore, that all attempts to prepare medicines as a remedy without such previous knowledge, under the name of Inhalation, spring from motives the are dishonest, cruel and murderous. It can never be separated from the most careful supervision and attendance of the physician.

Of late years, as experience suggested new remedies for inhalation, defined correctly the operation of those previously known, and improved the rude and imperfect apparatus employed, its success has been such as to establish, beyond the possibility of cavil, that confirmed and undoubted Consumption may be cured, even under the most desperate circumstances.

In the treatment by inhalation, as advised by me, the patient is not left to the blind application of any specific remedy. The case is first carefully examined, not only with reference to the diseases in the lungs, but also the state of the general health. Medicines suitable to the condition of the lungs are directed to be inhaled several times a day, from an apparatus so constructed that the patient, while using it, fills the lungs at every breath with a medicated air vapor, and at the same time whatever subordinate disorganizations exist in the stomach, bowels, etc., are carefully attended to. At the end of a few weeks, in most cases, a chamber in the patient's house is filled with vapor, into which he goes several times a day, or sleeps at night, thus keeping up an almost constant action on the diseased surface of the lungs. The diet, clothing and exercise are regulated, and every assistance which rational and scientific treatment can render the patient is amply provided.

The public are referred to the following letters and testimonials as impartial evidence of the efficacy of this treatment. The character and standing of the parties are a guarantee of the truthfulness and good faith of their statements. None, I am sure, but will be most happy—from hearts and lips overflowing with gratitude—to give the fullest information of their several cases to all who may call upon or address them. Without claiming any personal merit, other than that of experience in the administration of medicines by inhalation, I do not hesitate to express as my most sacred conviction, based on the success of this remedial means in my own practice, that if all the consumptive cases in this city were to-day placed under the inhalation treatment, judiciously administered, within two months the frightful mortality from this cause, as shown by the weekly bills of mortality, would be diminished more than one-half. In a climate like this, in which Consumption is the great climacteric and most fatal disease, it is of no small importance that a knowledge of the method of treatment by inhalation should be brought within the reach of every invalid; and in contributing to this end, though I may be, in some degree, governed by those considerations of honor and advantage which influence most human actions, it is no small happiness to know that with that interest is inseparably linked the greatest blessing to my fellow-man.

The following cases, it is hoped, will prove sufficient to awaken the public to a proper sense of the inestimable importance of this means of relief to the thousands hopelessly suffering from Consumption and kindred diseases of the Lungs. In no climate where one out of every three adults is doomed to fill a consumptive's grave, unless some power more potent than the old come to their relief—and where there is scarce a family that has not been called upon to drop a tear of sorrow upon the coffin of some beloved relation torn from them by this insatiate destroyer—who can estimate the blessings that must flow from a proper use of this simple, rational and successful means of cure?

H. B. HUNTER, M. D.,
Physician for Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Stomach,
Office—165 CANAL STREET, New Orleans, La.

Office hours, 9 to 3½, daily (except Sunday,) and in the evenings from 6½ to 7½.

To country patients who are unable to come to the city a list of questions will be sent on application.

We will be pleased to refer to former patients in the city and all parts of the country, if desired.

DR. HUNTER'S PRACTICE.

The following notice, commending the practice of Drs. H. & K. B. Hunter, is taken from the editorial columns of the Herald and Presbyter:

DR. HUNTER.

We have been publishing, from time to time, letters on Catarrh and diseases of the Lungs, by Dr. Hunter, and we have published a number of testimonials of cures by his method of treatment. We also have seen letters from various persons, including some of our ministers, testifying to the efficacy of Dr. Hunter's treatment. Below is an editorial article from the pen of the Rev. Jesse H. Berry, an assistant editor of the American Christian Review:

"I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to the gentleman and physician whose name introduces this article. I regard him as one of the few whose professed mission is 'to cure the ills which human flesh is heir to,' whose skill and remedies are all that is claimed for it or.

"For about one year I had been suffering from an affection of the throat, which at first was annoying, and afterward developed symptoms which I considered dangerous. The voice grew rough and husky, the palate and mucous lining of the throat became inflamed and at times painful, and I feared at one time that I would be compelled to cease speaking in public. Remedies were tried, some of which gave partial and temporary relief, while others did not seem to influence the disease in the least. When Dr. Hunter began the publication of his interesting letters in the Review I commenced to read them. There seemed to be so much common sense in his statements that I was induced to apply to him. I obtained his 'Inhalator' and remedies, and by following a few simple directions an entire and, I think, permanent cure was effected in the short space of three months. My throat is well, and I am in the enjoyment of the most vigorous, robust health. Several of my personal friends who were similarly affected I recommended to try Dr. Hunter's remedies. They did so, and so far as I have learned of the result they have either been cured or are rapidly improving. In a letter before me, a professor in one of our colleges, and who was afflicted with throat disease for years, and who has been using the 'Inhalator,' says: 'All traces of the disease have left me, and I am a well man.'

"In these days of quackery and deception, to know that there are physicians in whose ability and integrity we can have confidence is no small matter. This statement respecting Dr. Hunter is voluntary on our part. We commend him to the afflicted readers of the Review.

JESSE H. BERRY."

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, from personal experience, take pleasure in recommending the treatment employed by Drs. R. & K. H. HUNTER, of 165 Canal street, in affections of the Head, Chest and STOMACH:

D. V. FERNANDEZ, 291 Chartres street.
W. C. NEAL, 332 Conti street.
M. R. FERNANDEZ, corner Royal and Customhouse streets.
CHARLES MOREL, corner Claiborne and Elysian Fields streets.
F. VILLAVASO, 36 Old Levee street.
JOSEPH TORRES, corner Melpomene and Magnolia streets.
L. ROGER, 683 St. Claude street.
OSCAR PEYROUNIN, Morales street, between Congress and Independence.
B. LAPLACE, 339 Chartres street.
MRS. E. TAIZIN, 87 St. Bernard street.
H. LAROUSSINI, 220 Esplanade street.
A. BERTIN, St. Bernard and Robertson streets.
H. E. ALBEE, Clerk Lizzie Hopkins.
J. G. EPSTIS, 33 Carondelet street.
H. B. KENNEDY, 325 Conti street.
J. B. PELTIER, 159 Canal street.
EDGAR GELPI, 111 Elysian Fields street.
C. DINY, 280 Claiborne street.
J. R. MCGATHEY, 37 St. Andrew street.
JAMES BUCKNER, 87 Bernard street.
F. W. CALONGNE, 610 Goodchildren street.

Any desired number of names of cases successfully treated in this city and State will be given to interested persons on application.

A CARD.

Believing the following facts will be of interest to many of your readers, I ask a place for them in the columns of your paper:

Some years ago I became a sufferer from Bronchitis and Chronic Inflammation of the Stomach, both of which affections became more and more harassing as time went by. With the cough I was much troubled, and experienced some shortness of breath on exertion. The stomach was always full and painful on the least pressure, and consequently gave me much uneasiness.

Three years ago I was induced to call on Dr. Hunter, of 165 Canal street. I placed my case in his hands, with the intention of trying his mode of treatment as a last resource. I am glad to say that the results proved satisfactory in every way, for at the end of one month I felt and myself in a fit state to discontinue further treatment, such was the rapidity with which I experienced complete relief under his care.

My disease having continued so long at the time I consulted Dr. Hunter, I had almost despaired of my recovery from it, as the remedies I had applied from time to time, prescribed by different physicians, had given little or no relief. But of Inhalation I can speak confidently. (I do not know what it was that was given for the stomach, but I found that also of permanent benefit.) My health in every respect is much improved, but the Bronchitis I believe to be entirely removed. I no longer experience any unpleasant sensations arising from it; and from my own experience the fact to be deduced is that Inhalations are the most reliable for obtaining the result so ardently desired by all persons laboring under affections of the lungs or throat; and I unhesitatingly advise all my friends who require the services of a physician for such diseases to try the treatment to which I owe so much.

CHARLES MOREL,
Cor. Claiborne and Elysian Fields street,
New Orleans.

CARD.

DR. HUNTER'S PRACTICE.

TO THE EDITOR—SIR: Many of Dr. Hunter's patients having thought proper to make public the successful treatment of their cases, and, as I have been frequently asked my opinion of the mode of treatment pursued by Dr. Hunter, I think I cannot do better than act as I have seen so many do before me, and publish a short card relating to my case, in this I am actuated purely by gratitude, and hope that my letter may not only prove a source of information to those suffering as I was, but that it may also be a gratification to the doctor himself.

For several years I had been suffering from asthma, complicated by several other annoying ailments. I was much troubled with cough, expectorated yellowish matter, and was losing both flesh and strength. My appetite was miserable, and my sleep was much disturbed, but what troubled me most was a constant shortness of breath and oppression in the chest.

In this state I consulted Dr. Hunter, at his office, 165 Canal street, who, after a careful examination of my chest, gave it as his opinion that I could be cured, and I accordingly placed myself under his care, and in less than two months from the time I commenced his treatment he dismissed me as cured.

It is now almost four years since he prescribed for me, but during that time I have had no return of the disease, and most therefore consider the cure complete and permanent.

There are others in my neighborhood who have had the same pleasant experiences of the successful result of Dr. Hunter's practice, and who, like myself, will, I know, bear testimony to the fact.

I hope these few lines may prove of service to other sufferers.

OSCAR PEYROUNIN,
Morales street (Third District,)
Bet. Congress and Independence streets,
New Orleans.

CARD.

Hoping my testimony in favor of the treatment by inhalation, as introduced and practiced by Drs. R. & K. B. Hunter, of 165 Canal street, may prove useful to the public, I take the liberty of giving my own experience:

Some years ago I was much troubled with a serious disease of the lungs, which gradually increased in severity, and greatly prostrated me.

I tried several modes of treatment advised for such cases, but without relief. At last heard of the inhalation treatment. Gave it a trial, and was completely restored to health by it.

My disease was well marked, and there could be no doubt of its character. Oppression in the chest, night sweats, cough and yellowish expectoration were some of the symptoms present.

Three months' treatment entirely restored me, and for three years I have enjoyed perfect health.

My recovery was so rapid that it astonished me, comparing it with other treatments I had tried.

These facts, I think, recommend the treatment of lung disease by inhalation.

J. J. BURNS,
Ja28 1t 84 Frenchmen street, New Orleans, La.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shmulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 1y

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspeptic, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by A. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de10 1y

BUSINESS NOTICES.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Special Call for Agents!—Winter is at hand, and every person should have steady employment.

AGENTS WANTED

TO SELL THE NEW PATENT IMPROVED

IVORY AND LIGNUM VITÆ EYE-CUPS.

Guaranteed to be the best-paying business offered to Agents by any house. An easy, light and pleasant employment.

Read the following certificates:

FERGUSON STATION, LOGAN CO., KY.,
June 6, 1872.

DR. J. HALL & CO., OCULISTS—Gentlemen: Your Patent Eye-Cups are, in my judgment, the most splendid triumph which optical science has ever achieved. The most prominent physicians of my county recommend your Patent Eye-Cups. I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

J. A. L. HOYER.

Mayor E. C. Ellis wrote us, November 16, 1869: "I have tested the Patent Ivory Eye-Cups, and I am satisfied they are good. I am pleased with them. They are certainly the greatest invention of the age."

William Beatley, M. D., Salvisa, Kentucky, writes: "Thanks to you for the greatest of all inventions. My sight is fully restored, after being almost entirely blind for twenty-six years."

Alex. R. Wyeth, M. D., Atchison, Pennsylvania, writes: "After total blindness of my left eye for four years, by paralysis of the optic nerve, to my utter astonishment your Patent Eye-Cups restored my eyesight permanently in three minutes."

Hon. Horace Greeley, late editor of the New York Tribune, writes: "Mr. J. Hall, of our city, is a conscientious and responsible man, who is incapable of intentional deception or imposition."

Reader, these are a few certificates out of thousands we receive. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately to

DR. J. HALL & CO.,
(P. O. Box 957,)
Ja28 1t No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.

DR. TUTT'S CELEBRATED EXPECTORANT.—First, it detaches from the bronchial or wind tubes the mucus or matter which adheres to them. Secondly, it mitigates the pain and removes the constriction of the bronchial tubes and muscles of the chest. Thirdly, it resists the progress of inflammation, and assists the lungs to throw off the irritating matter which accumulates. Ja28 3t

TO CONSUMPTIVES.—Many have been happy to give their testimony in favor of the use of Wilbor's Pure Cod Liver Oil and Lime. Experience has proved it to be a valuable remedy for Consumption, Asthma, Diphtheria, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by druggists generally. Ja28 1t

MESSRS. J. H. ZEILIN & CO.—Gents: I am directed by my uncle, Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, to say to you that he is inclined to believe that he has derived some benefit from the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator, and that he wishes to give it a further trial. You will therefore please send to his address two more bottles by express C. O. D.

CRAWFORDVILLE, GA., March 31, 1870. Ja28 1t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

PLOWS, IMPLEMENTS, ETC.

PLOWS

AND ALL IMPROVED

Agricultural Implements.

PLANTATION HARDWARE.

Steam Engines, Saw and Grist Mills,

PUMPS, SHAFTING, ETC.,

AT LOW PRICES FOR CASH.

B. J. WEST,

115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans.

MANUFACTURERS' AGENT.

Ja28 tf

H. H. HUSSMAN,

DEALER IN

PITTSBURG COAL,

OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD.

102.....Calliope Street.....102

Between Magazine and Constance,

Ja28 4m New Orleans.

COLDS! COUGHS!

USE OUR

COMPOUND PULMONIC PASTE.

A most palatable and soothing remedy.

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m 139 Canal street.

COD LIVER OIL AND PHOSPHATE LIME.

This prescription we always have on hand fresh, and we guarantee it superior to the article that formerly was imported into this market, but which has been supplanted by ours during the two last seasons. Be sure to ask for the

FRESHLY PREPARED

Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate Lime,

SOLD AT

139.....CANAL STREET.....139

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m Druggists.

THE "DOMESTIC" PAPER FASHIONS represent the leading and most elegant styles. Being perfect in fit, and easily put together by the most inexperienced, they answer the requirements of the family better than any other Patterns. Patterns sent, postage paid, to any address on receipt of the price. For sale at the store of

M. S. HEDRICK,
103 Canal street, New Orleans, La.
Domestic Sewing Machines. Ja28 2m

THOMAS MARKEY,

UNDERTAKER,

40, 42 and 44 Claiborne Street.

Opposite the Market.

Patent Metallic Burial Cases, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Plain Coffins always on hand.

Funerals attended to by the proprietor in person, who hopes, by strict attention to business, to obtain a share of public patronage. Carriages for hire. Ja28 2m

THE NEW LOUISIANA REMEDY for Scrofula, Catarrh, all Throat and Lung Complaints, is a remarkable product of the Swamps of Louisiana, discovered by the Indians. It is a Blood Purifier, acting constitutionally upon the whole system. More than Forty Letters and Nine Pages of names attest its extraordinary merits! They may be seen at the Depot, 106 CAMP ST., New Orleans. No Poison! Delicious! Ja28 1t

MEDICAL.

THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion,

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. ao19 1y6ptc

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the

THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

R. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields St., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. oc29 3m5p

MISCELLANEOUS.

Richardson's New Method

FOR THE PIANO-FORTE.

It stands the test! Sells 25,000 yearly, and is gaining friends everywhere. No Piano instruction book ever issued approaches it for real merit and worth, and no teachers regret using it in their course of instruction. This work is a power in the musical advance of the day, and has been a most important agent in the recent tremendous increase of technical knowledge of the Piano-Forte.

The success of RICHARDSON'S NEW METHOD is world-wide, and prompts many competitors, but its sale surpasses that of all others COMBINED, and it stands to-day incontestably superior to all other Piano Methods.

Used by thousands of Music Teachers, and sold by all Book and Music Dealers in this country and Canada.

PRICE, $3.75.

All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
Boston.
Je18 1y

RAW FURS WANTED.

Send for PRICE CURRENT to

A. E. Burkhardt & Co.,

Manufacturers and Exporters of American Fur Skins, 113 West Fourth street, Cincinnati. We pay the highest prices current in

The Child's Corner.

THE SLEEPY LITTLE SISTER.

I sat one evening watching
A little golden head
That was nodding o'er a picture-book;
And pretty soon I said:
"Come, darling, you are sleepy;
Don't you want to go to bed?"
"No," she said, "I isn't sleepy,
But I can't hold up my head.

"Just now it feels so heavy,
There isn't any use;
So let me lay it down to rest
On dear old Mother Goose!
I shan't shut up my eyes at all,
And so you need not fear;
I'll keep 'em open all the while
To see this picture here."

And then, as I said nothing,
She settled for a nap;
One curl was resting on the frill
Of the old lady's cap;
Her arms embraced the children small
Inhabiting the shoe;
"O dear," thought I, "what shall I say,
For this will never do?"

I sat awhile in silence,
Till the clock struck its "ding, ding,"
And then I went around and kissed
The cunning little thing.
The violets unfolded
As I kissed her, and she said:
"I isn't sleepy, sister,
But I guess I'll go to bed."

Improved Opportunities.

In a small upper room sat two persons. The one window was filled with plants; the one little book-case was filled with books. The elder lady was seated at a desk, the younger in a low rocker, leaning back, with her hands folded listlessly upon each other.

"I have given up trying to find any way of helping, Elizabeth," remarked the occupant of the rocker.

"Have you? Why?"

The elder lady wiped her pen, laid away her manuscript, and turned around to contemplate the listless maiden.

"Well, if I had given up trying to help I would have a good reason for it; some reason that you will not be ashamed to give when Christ asks you about it, Marion."

Marion looked startled; she sat upright instantly.

"Elizabeth, I didn't really mean that. Tell me how to do some good in the world."

"That hath a good sound!" replied Elizabeth, rising for her work-basket. "I am knitting stockings for our home missionary. You may knit while we talk, if you will."

Marion gave a quick little laugh. "You are taking me at my word. Well, give it to me."

There was a pause. The only sound in the room was the clicking of the two sets of knitting-needles. Then Marion spoke: "For some time I have been wishing that I could do something for somebody, and really, Elizabeth, it may be a shameful thing to say, but I can't find out how. Tell me how you find ways."

Elizabeth smiled. "It seems odd to call my poor little doings 'ways,' but they are ways, nevertheless. I can tell you the story of my small experiences. Wait one moment—I'll set the minister's heel. I can help keep somebody's feet warm—Western working feet—if I can't go myself. Can't I?"

After two minutes Elizabeth began the story of her "small experiences."

"Two or three years ago it was I began to feel as you do. I wanted to be at work. I had been a lazy Christian long enough. I would say every day, 'Oh! I wish I could do something for somebody,' but the opportunity did not come, or, if it did, I did not see it. So a year passed, and I found nothing to do outside of my own home. One day I was buying muslin for myself, and it occurred to me that I could afford to buy half a dozen yards of unbleached, and make two or three under-garments for a poor Irish neighbor. It was all I could afford—I have but very little money, as you know, Marion. But I do hope to have more if I use well my little fund. That gave me great pleasure. Then I remembered a boy who was dying of consumption; he was sixteen, but he had been sick all his days, and was no older than a boy of eight or nine. So I bought a bottle of mucilage, and made him a scrap-book all of pictures. It was a very pretty thing, and amused him when he was too weary to read or think. Then I squeezed out money enough to buy him one of the Oil Feather series; they were a wonderful pleasure to him—he read them again and again. Then—let me see—are you smiling at my small ways? Oh! then I heard of a poor woman, a widow, who was dying of consumption. I did wish I could make her comfortable, for she needed everything, and, most of all, I wanted to take her little child; but instead I gave her a night-dress and fifty cents, half a dozen lemons and a pound of crackers. That wasn't anything to what I wanted to do, but I did my share, the share God gave me to do, and, if he has given some one else a larger share, that is all right, isn't it? And then—I was not well enough to do much—I knit several pairs of stockings for our missionary box. A friend sends me the Christian at Work occasionally. I remembered a friend who is not able to take it, so I sent it to her. She wrote only last week: 'I am sure it makes me happier to read it.' So I have set that down as one of my improved opportunities. Another thing I have found to do is to send all the religious papers I find here at home to people who need them. The New York Observer I send to our Western missionary, who is glad enough to have it.

"One of my pleasantest ways of doing good is to send twenty copies of the Child's World to a Sunday school in Nebraska; the paper is sent me in return for little stories I write for it."

Marion was looking disconsolate, but she could knit, and she did, with hurried fingers.

"And then, Marion, there are letters—you love to write letters—and there's always something happy and hopeful to say."

"But I can't do your good things."

"Of course you can't," cried Elizabeth merrily; "I want to do them myself. Don't do my share—do your own! Ask what your share is and keep your eyes open. Suppose you stop on your way home to call on Ella Ray, who will be kept on the sofa all winter. I've been waiting for an opportunity to take her one of that dear Anna Shipton's books, and you may take it, please. That's another way, Marion—lend all your good books."

Marion arose and laid down her knitting.

Marion tied on her hood with a considerably brightened face. "I'll have to go now if I call on Ella. Set this down as another improved opportunity, Elizabeth."—Christian at Work.

Sailors' Language.

I am always in my pulpit, but not always preaching. I spend the most of my time in listening to all sorts of strange and wonderful things, in order to tell them to my children. But sometimes I hear things that puzzle me very much. The other day two sailors were talking together, and it took more than my wit to find out what they meant. One said he had just come from the "roaring forties," where he had many times "sailed in the teeth of the wind," and had been "caught in the eye of the storm." You would have believed his observation that his companion was as "deaf as a coal-bunker" if you had heard the tone in which he shouted out his remarks.

Then the other sailor began to talk. He said that he too had just returned from a voyage. The sea had been as "smooth as blubber" most of the time, but one night when there was "just a capful of wind," and "all s'ls" were "set" to catch it, and "everything was as quiet as a night dog-watch," down came a brig and struck her right "amidships." "An', sir, the cap'n only had time to sing out to man the gig, the jollyboat and dingy, when in the water we were! Indeed," the sailor went on to say, "I s'pose we'd ha' gone to Davy Jones' locker if the brig hadn't sent along her dory and yawl to pick us up."

Now what do you suppose any sober-minded Jack could make of all that? I can't describe to you how it bothered me to carry all these queer expressions in my head till my traveled bird-friends should come along. Some of them had taken long voyages in ships, and so could understand the terms my sailors had used.

Well, the end of it all is, I know now that the "roaring forties" means the distance on the Atlantic ocean between the fortieth and fiftieth parallels of latitude; that the sailors gave the name to that space because the ocean is so stormy there. To sail in the "teeth of the wind" means to proceed in the direction from which the wind comes, and to be "caught in the eye of the storm" is to be right in the center of it, which is a very dangerous thing. "A capful of wind" turns out to be a nice brisk wind, not a gale, nor even a spanking breeze—which last, by the way, is a wind that blows quite strongly but steadily, and is just what a sailor likes best.

As for "s'ls," that is only the sailor-sound for sails. When I heard that a "dog-watch" means a watch that is two hours long, I couldn't imagine what sort of a watch it could be; but it appears that when a ship is at sea there must always be some one to keep watch night and day, in order to avoid accidents. So one officer will watch from six o'clock to ten, another from ten o'clock till twelve, a third from twelve o'clock till two, and a fourth from two o'clock till six. The two short periods between ten o'clock and two in the daytime, and the same in the night, are called dog-watches.

Upon hearing this I was going to remark that this was a very queer name, but, remembering that all the other names and terms were queer too, I said nothing about it.

As for hitting "amidships," that only means that one vessel struck the other in the center. "Yaw!" and "dory," and many of the other words are plain enough, now that I understand them; but we have had sailor-talk long enough for this time. "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," St. Nicholas.

THE RIGHT KIND OF A BOY.—Over fifty years ago a youth, working on a farm, asked his father to give him money enough to buy a gun. The old man could not spare it; but the boy, nothing daunted, found an old piece of iron about the place, and in the course of time contrived to make a gun barrel out of it, with the very meager facilities afforded by a country blacksmith's shop. He had not the materials to make a lock and stock, so he walked to the nearest town and traded for the necessary attachments, and was encouraged by the smith for having made so good a shooter; this gave him the ambition to make another; so he went to cutting out grindstones from the native rock to raise the money for gun materials, and in a short time there was a considerable demand for guns of his make. During the French war with Prussia he was called upon to furnish guns for the army, and in less than eight months he made and delivered to the government of France rifles of a particular pattern, costing $5,000,000, which amount was duly paid. The same man furnishes rifles now for the United States, South America, Rome, Spain, Egypt and Japan.

The farmer's boy who wanted a gun is Eliphalet Remington, of Ilion, New York. His manufactory covers four acres of ground, and he employs twelve hundred men. Not satisfied with this achievement, he has recently completed a sewing machine, which is reported to be quite a success. This is the type of a boy who, when there is not a way, makes a way for himself.

"GATHER in the fruit" should be our motto, not only for the fall season, but for the year. The field is the world, ever white for harvest. If we are ever reaping, we can never tell how many bushels, only that the harvest is good, and the workmen zealous.

LET us shun everything which might tend to efface the primitive lineaments of our individuality. Let us reflect that each one of us is a thought of God.

Farm, Garden and Household.

How to Raise Early Tomatoes.

MR. EDITOR: Take an ordinary flour barrel, knock out the head, and with small nails nail on every other stave to the hoops, from bottom to top. Now dig a hole about five inches deep and about the diameter of the barrel; then set the barrel in it, end up. Fill up the hole to the top with fresh horse dung, and pack a barrow load of dung around the barrel. This done, put in a "cool" of rich earth on the dung inside, say about four inches deep; cover the barrel about forty-eight hours; fermentation will have started sufficient heat to cause seeds to germinate quickly. Now drill about fifteen seeds (of the Trophy, Canada Victor or Large Smooth Red;) cover the barrel again. The seed will come up in a few days, and the plants will shoot vigorously. An old corn sack or piece of carpeting will serve admirably for a cover. In fine, mild days take off the cover, so as to harden the plants. As an additional protection against cold, surround the barrel with hay, cotton seed or chaff. When the plants attain the height of five or six inches, then cut to two vigorous plants. Now give all air and light the weather will admit of. But keep thus under cover until all fears of late frosts are passed. Finally, remove from the barrels the unnailed staves; this will leave an excellent rack for the plants. The chaff and dung from the outside should first be removed or scattered level with the bed.

You can plant tomatoes after this fashion in this month (January,) and they will come into early bearing. A little pruning of the tomato is wholesome; too luxuriant shoots should be nipped; also bug-bitten or defective fruit should be removed from time to time.

I have tried all varieties of the tomato—the Trophy, General Grant, Canada Victor, etc. I prefer the Trophy and Large Smooth Red to any yet. These varieties afford a full supply of fruit, if properly treated, and will ripen here best of all. Tomatoes should be supplied abundantly, not only for food, but as a wholesome refrigerating laxative diet. To the dyspeptic, when properly prepared, this vegetable is excellent, gently exciting digestion through its mild acidulous action upon the stomach and liver.—"The Doctor," in Home Journal.

Potash as a Fertilizer.

Potash forms one of the most essential constituents of a fertile soil, and one the most important of all the fertilizing agents within reach of the agriculturist. In many plants it constitutes more than one-half of their ash, and in most at least one-third. In neutralizing acids in the soil, and in the liberation of ammonia, it acts in the same manner as lime, but when it is desired simply to effect these last-mentioned objects the latter should be used, as being cheaper; potash, generally available in the form of ashes, should be applied as a manure, using the word in its strictest sense, to indicate a substance that contributes directly to building up the structure of the plants. But considerable care should be exercised in the use of ashes, and they should never, as is the practice with some in manuring corn in the hill, be mixed with guano or the refuse of the hen roost, inasmuch as the first rain that dissolves them will cause the potash to displace the ammonia in the same manner that lime displaces it from barn-yard manure and similar manures, and as we have just mentioned; and although the potash of the ashes and the phosphoric acid of the guano, or the like, would be left to benefit the plant, the ammonia would be dissipated and lost, and the value of the fertilizer depreciated. Analogous to potash in its action is soda, which, however, with a few exceptions to the rule, enters but slightly into the composition of plants, and may generally be replaced, to a great extent, with potash. Turnips and mangle wurtzel, however, require a comparatively large amount of soda, the ash of the former containing upward of twenty-eight per cent. and the latter a nearly equal amount. This may be most conveniently applied to the soil when required in the form of common salt.—J. A. Whitney, at Farmers' Club.

CURE FOR THE ROUP.—Dr. Bennett, in his "Poultry-Book," remarks: "But for roup and all putrid affections I confidently prescribe this as the only true treatment: Take freshly-burned charcoal and new yeast, of each three parts; pulverized sulphur, two parts; flour, one part; water, quantity sufficient; mix well and make into boluses of the size of a hazelnut, and give one three times a day. Cleanliness is no less necessary than warmth, and it will sometimes be desirable to bathe the eyes and nostrils with warm milk and water, or suds, as convenient." A correspondent of the Country Gentleman recommends one scruple of carbolic acid crystals, dissolved in two ounces of olive oil; add one drachm tincture of camphor, and with this swab out the throat and gently inject the nostrils with the same. In the feed give chopped onions and red pepper, say half a teaspoonful to each quart of soft feed.

KALSOMINING FLUID.—The following is commended as a good kalsomining fluid for walls: White glue, one pound; white zinc, ten pounds; Paris white, five pounds; water sufficient. Soak the glue over night in three quarts of water, then add as much again, and heat on a water bath till the glue is dissolved. In another pail put the two powders, and pour on hot water, stirring all the time until the liquid appears like thick milk. Mingle the two liquids together, stir thoroughly, and apply to the wall with a whitewash brush.

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☞ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,

SOLE MANUFACTURER,

56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 316, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority to speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au13 1y6p

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6murm

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO

FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

del7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!

Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of

Cast Steel and Wrought Plows

at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Same Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of ten or more are ordered an additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at

JOHN W. NORRIS',

del7 2m 27 Canal street.

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1832.

A. BALDWIN. C. A. SLOCOMB, } In com-
G. BURTIS. A. D. SLOCOMB, } mendam.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Gins, Coats' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. oc29 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant Is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

in the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

STOVES.....STOVES.....STOVES.

The Cheapest and the "Best."

The "BEST" and the "COTTAGE" COOKING STOVES, to which I call particular attention, are unsurpassed by any in this market for economy, durability and most perfect BAKING. They carry a uniform heat in the oven, and can be adapted to burning COAL, COKE or WOOD, without any additional cost. Every one sold under a full guarantee to do as they are represented or the money will be refunded.

Also a variety of other COOKING STOVES of every grade and price, from $15 upward.

HEATING STOVES.

A very large and complete assortment, suitable for Offices, Parlors, Churches, School-Rooms, etc., all of which are offered at very low prices to suit the times. Also dealer in

TINWARE OF EVERY KIND

and description, to suit the country and city trade, which is offered at UNPRECEDENTEDLY LOW PRICES FOR CASH. Also Sole Agent for the manufacture and sale of the Steam Washer, or Woman's Friend.

Will cleanse your clothes WITHOUT RUBBING. Every one sold is FULLY WARRANTED. It saves labor, wear and tear, and the annoyance of wash-day. It is truly a labor and clothes-saving invention. Three hundred thousand have been sold already through the States since 1871.

☞ State and County Rights for sale.

Call and see at NO. 34 MAGAZINE STREET, New Orleans.

ja29 1y G. W. W. GOODWYN.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD

OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL

AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.

One vol., extra cloth, $2.50; Half calf, $5.00.
Three vols., ... $6.00; ... ... $12.00.
Six vols., ... $12.00; ... ... $24.00.

ALBERT MASON, Publisher,

se3 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

AGENTS WANTED!—ACT AT ONCE.—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of

LIVINGSTONE.

His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa; the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (home life number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our ground

COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.

Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is

THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.

The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. jm19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR

THE LIFE OF JESUS,

For Young People.

A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address

H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,

se24 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

CANVASSERS send No. of your Lodge, and name this paper. We will convince you agents with our superb Home Pictures for Masons, Odd-Fellows, Knights Pythias, Grangers, Red-men, Mechanics, etc., are making double they could any other way; work pleasanter. J. HALE POWERS & CO., Fraternity & Fine Art Pubs., Cincinnati, O. ja29 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

UPPER CITY

BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,

keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

Under the Control of J. Phillips,

formerly with Glynn & Wintz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to.

del0 1y LOUIS GIMBEL, Agent.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,

NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,

Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se3 6m

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON,

HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST

SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.

Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union,

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,

je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,

je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTment in this country is now to be found at the

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,

53.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....55

Breech-Loading Guns from $25 to $300. Muzzle-Loading Eng. Twist and Laminated Steel barrels from $10 to $150. Rifles of every description, Eley's Shells of all sizes, Eley's Caps, Brass Cartridges, all sizes, Powder, Shot, Powder Flasks, Shot Pouches, Game Bags, Hunter's Accoutrements and Fancy Articles—the best assortment. The largest and best assortment of Fishing Tackle ever imported, such as Artificial Baits, Braided Silk Lines, Gigs, etc., etc.

Dealers and Sportsmen are respectfully invited to call and examine our goods before purchasing elsewhere. We feel confident that they will save money by doing so. Address

R. RHODES,

Liquidator of firm of F. Chirlevilla,

P. O. Box 1599, New Orleans, La.

TAKE NOTICE.—The concern is being liquidated with a view to its being continued with greater facilities than ever. ja27 3m

NEW ORLEANS

PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.

Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe19 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

MONUMENTAL

MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT.—At home. Male or Female. $30 a week warranted. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample sent free. Address, with six-cent return stamp, C. ROSS, Williamsburg, New York. no5 13t

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,

Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies, Top Buggies, Turn-Out Seat Buggies, Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets, Barouches, Rockaways, etc.,

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

☞ HARNESS at low prices.

Consult Economy and send for catalogue and price list. (no2 3m

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

And Agent, for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)

PERIQUE TOBACCO,

19.....CONTI STREET.....19

ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS, manufacturer, (and 1y)
76 Fourth street.....LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street.....CINCINNATI, O.

Scientific.

A FLOWER stem of the Mexican Dasylirion arcotriohum, at the Oxford Botanic Garden, after attaining the height of twelve feet, grew at the rate of six inches in twenty-four hours.

THE difference of temperature between country and city has been investigated by Fines, who discovers that the mean annual temperature in the interior of a city is decidedly higher than outside. On the other hand, the maximum temperatures in the fall and winter are somewhat lower in the city, while in the spring and summer they are somewhat higher. On clear nights the difference between the minimum temperatures in the city and the country may amount to thirteen and a half degrees Fahrenheit, that in the country being the lower of the two. Also the annual average difference between the maxima and the minima is greater for the country than the city.

THE motion in the sensitive and other plants has been supposed to be analogous to that resulting from the nervous system in animals. M. Heckel tested this by applying an æsthetic—probably chloroform—to the irritable stamens of Berberis and Mahonia. The effect was the same as in animals. The power to move when touched was lost. M. Heckel endeavored to ascertain the mechanism by which motion is accomplished in these stamens. He found that the cells were arranged longitudinally and longer than wide. When irritated, the cell draws within itself, as it were, contracts, being then no longer or as long as wide, often shortening one-third. The details are given in the memoirs of the Botanical Society of France.

M. CLAMOND'S new thermo-electric battery seems likely to become the cheapest source of electricity thus far devised. The metals composing it are an alloy of zinc and antimony in nearly atomic proportions for the positive pole and iron for the negative. The peculiarity of these batteries, however, lies in their permanence, and this M. Clamond secures by casting the alloy in a mold, previously heated up to nearly its melting-point. These plates are cast in sectors, of which there are ten to the circle, the battery being made up of several of these crowns of plates, separated from each other by washers of asbestos. A cylindrical cavity in the center contains a perforated tube, which acts as a gas-burner to furnish the heat. The entire apparatus, consisting of three rings, equal to thirty pairs, weighs about fourteen pounds, and deposits two-thirds of a Troy ounce of copper per hour, consuming six cubic feet of gas.

METEORIC DUST.—In a letter from M. Nordenskjoid on Carbonaceous Dust, with Metallic Iron, observed in snow (dated from Mossel Bay, latitude 79° 53′ north, received at Tromsoe, July 24,) the writer remarks that in December, 1871, he found in some snow collected toward the end of a five or six days' continuous fall in Stockholm a large quantity of dark powder, like soot, and consisting of an organic substance rich in carbon. It was like the meteoric dust which fell with meteorites at Hessle, near Upsal, in January, 1869. It contained also small particles of metallic iron. Suspecting the railways and houses of Stockholm might have furnished these matters, he got his brother, who lived in a desert district in Finland, to make similar experiments; which he did, and obtained a similar powder. In his arctic voyage the writer has met with like phenomena. The snow from floating ice has furnished on fusion a grayish residue, consisting mostly of diatoms (whole or injured;) but the black specks, a quarter of a millimeter in size, contained metallic iron covered with oxide of iron, and probably also carbon. He thinks, therefore, that snow and rain convey cosmic dust from the stella spaces to earth, and invites further observation on the subject. M. Danbree, in presenting the letter, recalled a case of meteoric dust having fallen at Orgueil in 1864. He expressed the hope that M. Nordenskjoid has obtained sufficient quantities of pulverulent matter to be able to determine a characteristic fact—the presence or absence of nickel.

AN ECCENTRIC STAR.—The most singular fact connected with the proper motions of the stars is that one or two stars are flying through space with such enormous rapidity that the combined attraction of all the stars visible with the telescope could never stop them. This seems to be especially the case with a small star, invisible to the naked eye, designated in astronomical literature as "Groombridge, 1830," from the name of the astronomer who first recorded its position. The rate of motion of this star is about seven seconds per year—the greatest known. It was hence concluded that it must be very near us, and a number of astronomers have sought to determine its parallax, but have found it to be only about a tenth of a second. Its apparent motion in a year being seventy times its parallax, it moves at least seventy times the distance from the earth to the sun in a year, or eighteen millions of miles every day, and more than two hundred miles every second. From what we know of the distribution, masses and number of the stars, it seems probable that the attraction of all the bodies in the universe can never stop this headlong speed, nor bring this star into any orbit, and that consequently it will pass through our universe, and leave it entirely in its passage through infinite space. If we had accurate observations of the star's position three or four thousand years ago, we could speak with more certainty of its destiny. We may expect that our posterity of a few thousand years hence will, by the aid of the observations and tables we shall transmit to them, be able to come to a definite conclusion respecting the age and the structure of the universe.

SO LONG as life remains to us our duties are unfinished. There is no room for idleness here.

BUSINESS CARDS.

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,
135.....DECATUR STREET.....135
Between St. Louis and Toulouse.
Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.
ja14 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

A. W. HYATT,
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38.....CAMP STREET.....38
P. O. Box 506. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12.....Dumaine St.....12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in BUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

R. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 99 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

BARNETT & CAMMACK,
BROKERS,
12.....CARONDELET STREET.....12
(Front Office.)
Stocks, Bonds and Securities bought and sold. Money loaned on securities. Taxes and Licenses settled. ja14 1m

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64.....Baronne Street.....66
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM HOGAN,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES, TRUNKS,
VALISES AND BAGS.
SEWING MACHINES.—Agents for Empire and Gold Medal.
Nos. 99 and 101 Canal Street,
de3 2m New Orleans.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
46 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL.....COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
9.....CARONDELET ST.....9
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.
oc29 3m H. & C. TYLER.

T. W. BOTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38.....BOURBON ST.....38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BERO, Agent.

LADIES' HAIR EMPORIUM.
JUST OPENED.
142.....Canal St.....142
Imported HUMAN HAIR worked in every conceivable style. Wigs manufactured to order. Ladies' Hair Combed in the most fashionable styles at very reasonable charges.
JULES DELAUNAY, Agent,
de3 2m No. 142 Canal street.

DELGADO & GOLDTHWAITE,
FAMILY GROCERS,
613.....MAGAZINE STREET.....615
Corner of Jackson, New Orleans.
Goods delivered free of charge to any part of the city. no26 tf

J. DUBARRY,
BUTCHER,

Stalls Nos. 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market,
NEW ORLEANS.
Ships, Steamboats, etc., supplied at the shortest notice. de10 2m

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
ADJOINING LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590.....MAGAZINE ST.....590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m P. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y

J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
162 Gravier and 15 Union Street.
A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. mh5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1363.
PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

WOOD.....COAL.....WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 251 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 282 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (no12 3m) SAM. SMITH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

R. MAITRE,
SEEDSMAN AND FLORIST.
602.....MAGAZINE ST.....602
Dealer in Landreth's, Villmorin's, Benary's and Dippe Bros.' Garden and Flower Seeds, Greenhouse Plants, Evergreens and Roses. Dutch Bulbs, and a variety of Fancy and Ornamental goods for the use of Florists and Bouquet-makers. Catalogues and Almanacs sent on application. A liberal discount to country dealers. ja21 3m

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78.....MAGAZINE ST.....78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79.....Carondelet St.....79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. jy2 1y

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. ja11 1y

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115.....Canal Street.....115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated-ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN BOIS.
fe26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce.
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE,)
ja4 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. HEDRICK,
my21 1y 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COULON,
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37.....Camp Street.....37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 tf

NEW LEATHER STORE.
A. F. RICAU,
IMPORTER AND DEALER IN
French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,
Shoe Findings, etc.,
80 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.
Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

J. B. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. je4 10m

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—536 ROYAL STREET,
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. L. TUCKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
160.....COMMON STREET.....160
de24 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....Julia Street.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. de17 1y

J. A. & E. J. DeHART,
DENTISTS,
183.....CANAL ST.....183
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je29 tf

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

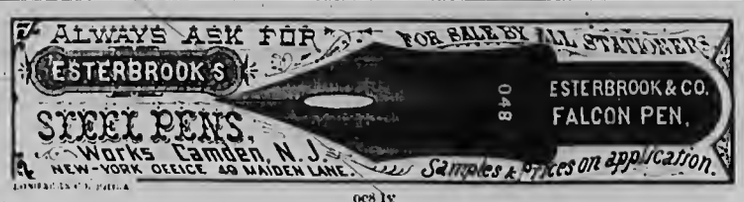
JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 48 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper.
Cash Orders Solicited.
de17 1y

ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.

CASH'S NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT THE NAME AND TRADE MARK OF J. & J. CASH
CAMBRIC
IS THE MOST DURABLE AND SATISFACTORY TRIMMING FOR LADIES', CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' WARDROBES.
FRILLING.
ja21 3t

One Gold Pen Will Outwear $10 in Steel Pens.
A. M. HILL'S EXTRA GOLD PENS ARE THE BEST.
PRICES.—No. 1, small size, $1; No. 4, medium size, $1.50; No. 7, large size, $2.50. Elegant Holder and Box for either size, 75 cents. Rubber Pocket Holder, $1. Sent by mail, registered, on receipt of price, or by Express C. O. D. Pens Repointed, 50 cents and stamp. Address
A. M. HILL, Gold Pen Manufacturer,
86 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.
REFERENCES.—All City Merchants. ja21 1y

BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second-hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM OREGO MRS. ADA OREGO.
OREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 131 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA OREGO
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies' and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
je18 1y OREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

J. W. HART.
Engraver
ON WOOD
258 RACE ST. CIN. O.
oc29 9m

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. FELTON & CO., au13 1y 119 Nassau street, New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, BURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS,
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28.....Beekman Street.....28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

CARPET WAREHOUSE,
17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17
A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Fiber Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Step Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

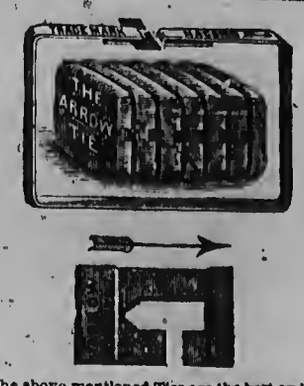
JOHN GIBSON,
ENGRAVER
AND
STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER
82 Beekman Street, New York.
Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au6 1y

FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—JOHN BOSIO, proprietor of this old and favorite house, announces to his friends that he has removed to No. 111 Chartres street, between St. Louis and Conti streets, where, with enlarged premises and increased facilities, he will give them the best the market affords, at the same low prices as heretofore. Private Dining-Rooms up stairs. Also comfortably furnished rooms at reasonable rates. Thankful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him in the past, he asks for a continuance of the same favors. ja21 3m

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO. Portland Maine. fe5 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES



The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne,)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

CRESCENT MACHINE SHOP.
JOSEPH WALKER,
Machinist, Engineer, Blacksmithing,
ETC., ETC.,
CORNER ST. JOSEPH AND CONSTANCE STS. New Orleans.
Plantation Machinery manufactured and repaired. Jobbing promptly attended to. fe6 1y

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.

POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest.
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use, working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty-four sizes, from 5¼ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.

Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Ebaugh's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
Send for Circulars. se3 6m

STAR IRON WORKS.
WALTON, HEMLER & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
IRON RAILINGS,
SAFES AND BANK VAULTS,
JAIL CELLS, IRON STAIRS, DOORS AND SHUTTERS, Awning Frames, Gratings, Bolts, Stirrups, Verandas, Balconies, Patent Sidewalk and Sky-Lights, and all kinds of Iron Work for buildings.
Nos. 234 and 236 West Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. oc29 3m

WIRE RAILING
AND
ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.

DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sleves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.
mh5 1y R. J. WEST, Agent, 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
549.....MAGAZINE STREET.....549
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 10m

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58.....ROYAL STREET.....58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. ja21 11m

W. N. PACKARD,
STEAM WOOD YARD,
Corner Ursulines and Rampart Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Pittsburg Coal and Charcoal a specialty. Families supplied with all kinds of Fire Wood at the shortest notice. Wood Sawed and Split to any size desired, at the lowest prices. ja21 2m

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 12 feet 5 inches below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-second instant:

Mississippi river and bayous	5,217
Red river	2,958
Ouachita river	2,490
Railroads	6,361
Lake	40
Mobile	3,004
Texas	245
Total	21,305

On Saturday, under a decline of 1-16d. at Liverpool and a falling off in futures at New York, the demand was only moderate, and factors met it freely, occasionally making some concessions in order to effect sales. A considerable portion of the amount on hand, which, under instructions, was held off the market until the first instant, being now offered, increased the supply to that extent, and although there was no apparent anxiety to realise, factors appeared to be rather more desirous of reducing their supply, and were consequently freesellers, weakening prices even where there was no quotable variation. The sales embraced 4,850 bales. On Monday the movement commenced under the conflicting influences of a decline of 1-16d. at Liverpool and an advance of 2-10 ₰ cent. in foreign exchange. Regarding the latter as fully offsetting the former, factors were unwilling to give way, while buyers claimed concessions of ⅛@¼c. The sales summed up 5,400 bales. On Tuesday, under the stimulating influence of a return of fine weather, the market opened with a more general inquiry, and although mostly from buyers who claimed concessions which factors were unwilling to admit, yet about 2,000 bales changed hands during the morning at weaker prices, without any quotable decline, after which factors continued to meet the demand freely, and the movement exhibited more animation, resulting in further sales of 3,900 bales, making a total for the day of 5,900.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 16,150 bales, against 12,250 for the corresponding time last week and 16,900 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 686,888 bales, against 748,546 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest mail dates, as compared with last year, is 89,008 bales. The excess by the reports per telegraph is only 12,903—2,474,049 against 2,461,147. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 216,247 bales to Great Britain, and a decrease of 43,481 to France and 31,620 to other foreign ports. We quote:

Ordinary	12¼ @ 12⅜
Strict ordinary	12⅝ @ 12¾
Good ordinary	13⅛ @ 13¼
Strict good ordinary	13⅝ @ 13¾
Low middling	14⅛ @ 14⅜
Strict low middling	14⅝ @ 14¾
Middling	14⅞ @ 14¾
Strict middling	15 @ 15⅛
Good middling	15⅛ @ 15⅜
Middling fair	15⅞ @ 16⅛
Fair	16⅜ @ 16¾

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	21,305
Arrived previously	777,869—	799,174
		815,127
Exported past three days	17,937
Exported previously	492,447—	510,384
Stock on hand and on shipboard		304,743

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The supplies on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,897 hhds., which were mostly sold at 5@5¼c. for inferior, 6@6¼c. for common, 6⅝@6¾c. for low fair to fair, 7@7⅛c. for good fair, 7⅛@7⅜c. for fully fair, 7½@8c. for prime to strictly prime, 8¼c. for choice, 6¾@8¼c. for low to good seconds, 8¼@8½c. for yellow clarified, 9¼@9⅝c. for off-white clarified, and 10@10¼c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,925 bbls. and 171 half bbls., which were mostly sold at 35@55c. for inferior to prime fermenting, 46@50c. for fair not fermenting, 53@54c. for prime, and 58@59c. for strictly prime.

CORN.—On Tuesday the market was in good supply and fair demand, and 2,150 sacks sold at 84c. for white mixed, 85c. for yellow and white, and 86c. for white flint.

OATS.—On Tuesday 1,000 sacks sold at 69¾@70c. ₰ bushel.

BRAN.—On Tuesday the demand was limited at $1.50 ₰ 100 lbs., and only 75 sacks sold at that price.

PORK.—On Saturday 350 bbls. new standard mess sold at $18.25@18.37½c., and on Monday 600 bbls. sold, in several lots, at $19.50 ₰ bbl.

BACON.—Shoulders are scarce and quoted at 8¾@9c., clear rib sides 10¾@11c., clear sides 11¼c. ₰ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 112⅛@112⅜, against 112⅛ at New York, and after a liberal business closed at the opening rates, against 112⅛ at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver except $2 09 in American half dollars in retail lots on Monday, at 107. Most of the receipts are transhipped to New York. It is quoted at 105@106 for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97@97½ sold. ₰

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$1 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	10 00
Axes	11 00	18 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	8 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	225 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BRICKS, ₰ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₰ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₰ lb.:
Cocoa	33	00
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₰ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₰ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₰ lb.:
Marion	— —	— —
Java	— —	23
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₰ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₰ dozen:
Western	25	33
FERTILIZERS, ₰ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	55 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₰ bbl.:
Double extra	— —	5 25
Superfine	— —	4 75
Fine	— —	4 50
GLASS, ₰ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₰ ton:
Prime	— —	24 00
Choice	— —	— —
IRON, ₰ ton:
English, ₰ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7½	8
Hoop	8	9
Sheet	8½	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	8
LEATHER, ₰ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₰ dozen	35 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₰ lb	24	26
LIME, ₰ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₰ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	18 00	20 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₰ M	— —	3 25
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₰ gallon	1 15	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	14	15
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₰ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₰ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	65	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Pouchong	80	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim. skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₰ head	$40 00	@46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₰ head	30 00	@35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₰ head	20 00	@25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₰ head	— —	@15 00
Western beeves, ₰ lb. net	4 00	@ 6 50
Sheep, first quality, ₰ head	4 00	@ 5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₰ head	3 00	@ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₰ head	90 00	@100 00
Milch cows, ₰ head	35 00	@ 40 00
Calves, ₰ head	7 00	@ 9 00
Yearlings, ₰ head	6 00	@ 9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year to want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 151 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
J. Hale Powers, Cincinnati, Ohio.
George Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Belting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Ditson & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. H. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
William Hogan, 99 and 101 Canal street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 649 Magazine street.

Brokers.
Barnett & Cammack, 12 Carondelet street.

Butchers.
J. Duharry, Stalls 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market.

Carpets.
A. Broussean & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 168 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Snell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockery ware.
Frank Lauer, 816 Magazine street.
Samuel E. Moore, 55 Camp street.
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Coal and Wood.
W. N. Packard, corner Ursulines and Rampart streets.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
William Velden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Bero, 38 Bourbon street.
F. Trolle, 590 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
P. A. Leillanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
H. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
Dr. G. A. Betancourt, 173 St. Joseph street.
J. A. & E. J. Dellart, 183 Canal street.

Dry Goods.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Illwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekmnn street, New York.
J. W. Hart, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Edmond Bourgeois, 19 Conti street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Barmme street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. B. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clinton st.

Fire-Arms.
H. Rhodes, 55 St. Charles street.

Furniture.
John Bols, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Furs.
A. F. Burkhardt & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Glass Staining.
Heleher & Povey, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
J. J. Brown, 78 Magazine street.
Delgado & Goldthwaite, 643 and 645 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.

Hair Goods.
Jules Delaunay, agent, 142 Canal street.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street, New Orleans.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Iron Manufactories.
Walton, Heinler & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Leather.
A. F. Rican, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 691 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. Walker, cor. St. Joseph and Constance sts.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Ball & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cincho-Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Duane street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Laplace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Ross' Epileptic Remedies, Ross Bros., Richmond, Ind.
W. B. Shearer, 101 Camp street.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. H. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Horace Waters & Son, 481 Broadway, New York.
Philip Werlein, 78, 81, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
L. J. Marcy, 1340 chestnut street, Philadelphia.
Dr. Van Holm, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Pens.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.
A. M. Hill, 86 St. Charles street.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Plows.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
Dr. Henry Smith, 130 Canal street.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 109 Common street

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Restaurants.
Four Seasons Restaurant, 111 Chartres street.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Dumaine street.
R. Maitre, 602 Magazine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soap.
J. H. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 26 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
G. W. W. Goodwyn, 34 Magazine street.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
John P. Caspard, 135 Decatur street.
J. M. Justiniani, 311 Burgundy street.

Undertaker.
T. W. Bothick, 271 Camp street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Boltel, 58 Royal street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Window Shades.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dufur & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!
Restore your Sight!
THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,
By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.
WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 947.) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.
no26 1y

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Franklin circuit, at Wesleyana	Jan. 16, 17
Enon circuit, at Enon	23, 24
Westville circuit and Taylorville mission, at Antioch	30, 31
Mount Carmel circuit, at Dry Creek	Feb. 6, 7
Columbia circuit, at Hopewell	13, 14
Pearlington circuit, at Pearlington	20, 21
Ocean Springs circuit and Handsboro mission, at Ocean Springs	27, 28
White Plains circuit and Black Creek mission, at Mulberry Grove	Mar. 6, 7
East Pascagoula circuit, at Zion	13, 14
Chickasawha and Greene mission, at Mineral Rights	20, 21

The district stewards will meet me nt Enon, January 23.

21 C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Clinton station, at Clinton	Jan. 16, 17
Woodville station, at Woodville	23, 24
Jackson and Pipkin's chapel, at Jackson	30, 31
East Feliciana, at Pine Grove	Feb. 6, 7
Bayou Sara, at Concord	20, 21
Wilkinson, at Bethel	27, 28
Buffalo	Mar. 6, 7

The meeting of the district stewards will be held at Jackson, Louisiana, January 30.

C. G. ANDREWS, P. E., Jackson, La.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carondelet street	Feb. 1
Moreau street	8
Felicity street	10
Algiers	22
Baton Rouge	27, 28
Louisiana avenue	Mar. 1
Cadiz street	8
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete	13, 14

The district stewards will hold their meeting at Carondelet Street church, February 1, 1875.

28 J. R. WALKER, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waterproof, St. Joseph and Tensas circuit, at Waterproof	Feb. 6, 7
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove	13, 14
Floyd and Cothron, at Floyd	20, 21
Delhi, at Delhi	27, 28
Winnsboro and Bonff River, at Winnsboro	Mar. 6, 7
Oak Ridge, at Prairie Mer Rouge	13, 14
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	20, 21
Rastrop, at Bastrop	27, 28
Trenton, at Trenton	Apr. 3, 4
Monroe, at Monroe	10, 11

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Delhi, February 27.

28 C. W. CARTER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

South Bossier, at Belleview	Jan. 23, 24
Shreveport	Feb. 6, 7
North Bossier	13, 14
Caddo	20, 21
Springville	27, 28
Mansfield	Mar. 13, 14
DeSoto	20, 21
Amacoco and Leesville, at Kissatchie	Apr. 3, 4
Natchitoches and Manny	10, 11

As there was no plan given me for the district, the preachers will please send the names of the places for holding the Quarterly Conferences. Place of address: Mluden, Louisiana.

28 S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Columbia circuit, at Columbia	Feb. 13, 14
Caldwell and Dugdemona mission, at Welcome Home	20, 21
Montgomery circuit, at Montgomery	27, 28
Harrisonburg and Sicily Island	Mar. 6, 7
Trinity circuit, at Trinity	13, 14
Centerville circuit and Little River mission, at Trout Creek	Apr. 17, 18
Alexandria	24, 25
Rapides circuit, at Pleasant Grove	May 1, 2

Members of the several Quarterly Conferences are specially requested to be in attendance.

28 J. H. STONE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

New Iberia	Jan. 30, 31
Franklin	Feb. 6, 7
Pattersonville	13, 14
Abbeville	20, 21
Opelousas	27, 28
Washington	Mar. 6, 7
Evergreen	13, 14
Spring Creek	20, 21
Lake Charles	27, 28
Vermillionville	Apr. 10, 11

The District Conference and district stewards' meeting will be held at Vermillionville, beginning on Thursday, April 8.

21 J. E. CONN, P. E.

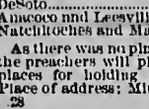
MISCELLANEOUS.

WHITNEY & HOLMES

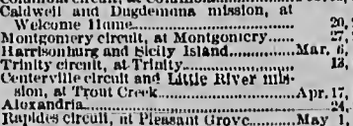
ORGANS.

FIFTY ELEGANT STYLES, with Valuable Improvements; New and Beautiful Solo Stops. Over One Thousand Organists and Musicians indorse these Organs, and recommend them as Strictly First-class in Tone, Mechanism and Durability. Warranted for five years. Send for price lists.

WHITNEY & HOLMES ORGAN CO., au27 13teow Quincy, Illinois.



MRS. M. G. BROWN'S Celebrated POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER prevents and cures Catarrh, and keeps back all Fevers. Send ten cents, or thirty cents for the Pamphlet or Magazine, to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, that you may learn what Poor Richard's Eye-Water will do for Blind, Sunken, Inflamed and Weak Eyes; also for the entire constitution. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $2, $1 and 25 cents. ☞ The Eye-Water is one of the three parts of the METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY, which kills the Root of all Disease. oc8 1yeow



FINE-TONED, LOW-PRICED, WARranted against breakage. Catalogues, containing full particulars, prices, etc., sent free. BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO., ap9 1yeow Cincinnati, Ohio.

ROGERS' EFFERVESCING

CITRATE OF MAGNESIA,

in six-ounce bottles, in powder. This Magnesia is a mild purgative and aperient, very acceptable to the stomach for Sick Headache, Sour or Sick Stomach, and all Febrile cases. Good for all seasons of the year. Prepared by ARTHUR ROGERS, 193 Spring St., N. Y. For sale by all druggists. E. J. HART & Co., wholesale agents, New Orleans. mn27 1yeow

MISCELLANEOUS.

TEETH! ..... TEETH!

GREAT  REDUCTION.

$20—Gold and Platinum Sets—$20. Usual charge, $100.

$15—Aluminum and Other Materials—$15. Usual charge, $50.

$2—Gold Fillings—$2. Usual charge, $5.

$1—Silver, Amalgam and Gullois Cement Fillings—$1. Usual charge, $3.

DR. G. A. BETANCOURT,

173 ..... ST. JOSEPH STREET 173

Between Camp and St. Charles streets,

New Orleans, La.,

offers to insert Sets of TEETH at the above prices, with or without the extraction of the roots.

Warrants the purity of all materials, as also the fitting of Plates, stability and duration of fillings, as if paid the highest prices.

Extractions and other operations performed by means of anaesthetic agents. Toothache cured instantaneously. Consultations gratis. ja21 1y

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI, ja14 1m Proprietor.

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by DR. J. DEHENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. H. SHEARER, ja14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Poydras.

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's only known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE or treatment until cured. Call on or address DR. J. C. BECK, 112 John Street, CINCINNATI, OHIO. jy23 1yeow

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. SHEPARD & CO., 301 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ja14 3m

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS,	TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS,	TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS,	SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for $15 00
to wit:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Sauce Bont,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers,	2 Pickle Shells.

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above. $18 00
A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces 30 00
Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from ..... $30 up.
White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00
White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces 4 00
French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces 8 50
French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces 7 50
Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO., No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street, del7 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. ja7 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

156 ..... CANAL STREET 156

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS,

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, First Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, Second V. President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, Third Vice President.
CHARLES KILSHAW, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS,

Dr. W. Newton Mercer,	David Urquhart,
L. F. Generes,	John G. Gaines,
George Jonas,	Carl Kohn,
Thos. A. Adams,	Christian Schneider,
Thos. Allen Clarke,	Samuel Jamison,
Charles J. Leeds,	Jules Tayon.

☞ Six Per Cent. Interest on deposits. no10 1y

LEVY BROS.'

DRY GOODS EMPORIUM,

580 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 580

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always keep on hand a full stock of Dry Goods, Fancy Goods and Notions. BLACK ALPACA A SPECIALTY.

UPPER CITY KID GLOVE DEPOT.

☞ Give Us a Call. ☜

N. B.—Orders from the country will be promptly attended to. nh5 1y

S. S. MARSHALL & BRO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STAINED GLASS,

62 Cedar Avenue, Corner Second Street,

ALLEGHENY, PA.

Specimens sent to all parts of the country on application. oc15 1y

IF YOU WANT THE DEVIL (the "Roaring Lion") kept out of your house, send for The Metaphysician! the greatest Magazine of the age. Every family is socially dying without it. Published by the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York. Edited by Mrs. M. G. Brown and her daughter, Elizabeth. Price, $1 a year. Single numbers, thirty cents. Sold by Booksellers and Newsdealers everywhere. Two Rare Presents to each Subscriber. oc8 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL GAZETTEER OF THE UNITED STATES. Showing the grand results of our first 100 Years. Everybody buys it, and agents make from $100 to $200 a month. Send for circular. ZIEGLER & McCURDY, St. Louis, Mo. my21 1yeow

STAINED GLASS.

WM. NELSON, 23 Market street, Pittsburg, Pa. Send for circulars. oc15 6m

RAILROADS.

NEW ORLEANS, ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO RAILROAD CO.

(Great Jackson Route.)

Trains depart and arrive as follows, from Calliopn street Depot:

DEPART.
Express	7.00 A

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1875. NO. 6.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Kalakana arrived here last night. He will leave for Honolulu about February I.

The gale subsided last evening. No serious marine disasters are reported, though the shipping along the city front received considerable damage.

OMAHA, Jan. 27.—Eight lieutenants of the regular army went west yesterday with clothing, which they will distribute in the grasshopper region.

The thermometer has fallen 28° within the past twenty-four hours, with indications of being still colder.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Jan. 28.—There was a tumultuous session of the Legislature to-day. Louisiana affairs were considered. Four deprecatory resolutions were adopted. The fourth condemns Grant for upholding Kellogg, and especially condemns him for sending soldiers to break up the Legislature. It passed by a vote of 75 yeas to 67 nays. The other deprecatory resolutions passed by larger majorities.

FALL RIVER, Jan. 31.—A disastrous strike at the cotton mills seems inevitable. The owners proposed to pay one-third of ten per cent. reduction. Weavers refuse anything but full pay. Three great mills must stop. There is great excitement.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—An arrival reports the volcano Mount Loa in eruption.

An arrival reports the observation of the transit of Venus at New South Wales entirely successful. Weather perfectly clear.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The resolution foreshadowed, to change the rules, after a fierce parliamentary struggle, was received and referred to the committee on rules, and will doubtless be in force on Wednesday, when anything can be done.

Blaine rules that, though violating the strict letter of existing rules, it is in accordance with the practice of the House.

Very Radical senators say they would be loth to support and more moderate senators declare they will not support all that has been done by the House Republicans and what the administration has done about Louisiana.

Early Congressional action is impossible and final action is improbable.

It is shrewdly stated that the Republican leaders are in conspiracy to ruin Grant by allowing him to fight it out.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—A bill has been drafted which authorizes a government concession for the construction of a submarine railway tunnel between France and England. Copies have been distributed among the members of the Assembly.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Marshal Canrobert declines to stand as a candidate for the Department of Saone.

MADRID, Jan. 28.—Don Carlos will personally command the impending battle.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The object of convening the cabinet was to discuss the royal message at the opening of Parliament.

Russia has recognized Alfonso as King of Spain.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 30.—The Czar sent a note congratulating the Prince of Montenegro upon the pacific solution of the trouble with Turkey.

ROME, Jan. 30.—Victor Emanuel received Garibaldi cordially.

HONG KONG, Jan. 30.—There are disturbances in Pekin, growing out of the succession to the throne.

BAYONNE, Jan. 30.—The captain and several of the crew of the Gustav are still held by the Carlists.

MADRID, Jan. 30.—General Morlones is making a flank movement with the right wing by way of Saugesa, a town twenty-five miles southeast of Pampeluna, while General Primo de Rivera is marching up the valley of Carascal to attack the enemy at a point between Tafalla and Pampeluna. Another division of the royalist army has moved by way of Lousurcos, and is threatening Estella, which is twenty-six miles southeast of Pampeluna. General Loma is threatening the cannon foundries of the Carlists in the provinces of Guipuzcoa. The garrison of Bilbon is acting against the town of Durango. General Vallejas is invading the province of Biscay. The headquarters of King Alfonso are at Tafalla. Operations against the Carlists in the north are progressing favorably.

VIENNA, Feb. 1.—The Pope has thanked Francis Joseph for his considerate application of Austrian ecclesiastical laws.

ROME, Feb. 1.—Garibaldi informed the King he did not come to Rome with political intentions, but to forward the material welfare of his constituents.

MADRID, Feb. 1.—The Epoca says Cushing and the minister of foreign affairs have reached an amicable understanding for the compensation of the families of the Virginius victims.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—The Federal Council empowers Bismarck to conclude an extradition treaty with the United States.

Ultramontanes are resolved to run the Bishop of Paderborn for Parliament from Britain Westphalia.

FARMER—"Noo, if it's a fair question, hoo much will ye get for thae kye when ye've feenished them?" Artist—"O perhaps sixty guineas or so." Farmer—"Wha-a-t! Diuna tell me, man; I'll no get that for them leevin'."

William H. Aspinwall.

The New York Express publishes the following obituary of the famous merchant whose name heads these lines:

He was born in this city in 1807, educated at Columbia College, and entered the mercantile house of G. G. & S. Howland, which then took the firm name of Howland & Aspinwall. The house did an immense business. In their Pacific branch they had the largest general business of any firm in New York. Their operations with the East and West Indies, and on the Mediterranean and in England, were very extensive. They owned at least seventeen or eighteen ships, including several Liverpool packets. William H. Aspinwall left the active management of the affairs of the firm of Howland & Aspinwall in 1850 to enter into the enterprise of the Panama railroad, and his brother, J. Lloyd Aspinwall, became a partner with Samuel W. Comstock. The business afterward became more banking than mercantile in character. The founding of the Panama railroad and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company were the master efforts of Mr. Aspinwall's life.

Mr. Aspinwall was not very actively engaged in business since 1850. He spent a considerable part of the past twenty years in travel, and has been much in Europe. Two years ago he took a trip up the Nile. Nearly all of his summers have been spent at his magnificent country seat on the Hudson, near Tarrytown. As one of the oldest and most honored merchants of New York, he has long been prominent in advancing public interests by the use of his name and influence. He was remarkable for his generosity, and, during his purely mercantile career, for his leniency to debtors. About eight years ago an elegant and costly monument was erected at Aspinwall, in honor of the founders of the Panama railroad, Messrs. Aspinwall, Chauncey and Stephens, whose busts, in bas relief, were carved at its base. Mr. Aspinwall had not visited the city which bears his name for nearly twenty years. In religion he was an Episcopalian, attending services at the Rev. John Cotton Smith's Church of the Ascension. He leaves five children and a widow. Lloyd Aspinwall, one of the sons, succeeds him in his business, with Meredith Howland, keeping up the old firm title. The other surviving son is the Rev. John A. Aspinwall, present rector of a church at Bay Ridge, Long Island. The other three children are daughters, all married.

Sons of Temperance.

This sterling old order, at its regular annual meeting on the twenty-first ultimo, elected the following officers for the current year:

John S. Alfred, G. W. P.; James M. Wright, G. W. A.; Charles Rosseter, G. S.; H. S. Bell, G. T.; Rev. A. J. Tardy, Jr., G. chaplain; William Akers, G. C.; James W. Demarest, G. Sent.; George Grindley, P. G. W. P.

The following are the representatives to the National Division of North America, at its next annual session, to be held in Providence, Rhode Island, July 14, 1875: P. G. W. P. Edward Booth, P. G. S. Thos. H. Jones, P. G. W. A. Thomas A. Silcocks, P. M. W. A. H. S. Bell, P. G. W. A. W. A. Gill, P. G. W. P. Rev. A. J. Tardy, Jr., P. G. W. A. T. J. Dimitry, P. G. W. P. George Grindley, P. G. W. A. William Murray, G. W. P. John S. Alfred, G. W. A. James M. Wright.

In such able hands we feel sure that the cause of temperance will make a good record for the coming year.

LOUISIANA.—The New York Evangelist is outspoken in denunciation of military interference with the Legislature of Louisiana; it utters no uncertain sound:

"The matter is one which concerns the religious as well as political and material interests of the whole country. Our true policy is to throw the responsibility for maintaining peace and order in the Southern States upon the people themselves. They will settle whatever is capable of settlement better without having the constant vision of national interference before their eyes than with it. It is a great mistake, fraught with the most mischievous consequences, to give them the opportunity to throw on others the responsibility that rests upon themselves, and, above all, to make them feel that they sustain provincial and dependent relations to the general government."

VICE PRESIDENT WILSON believes that Grant is still scheming for a third term. This fact is almost universally conceded. We quote from the New York Herald:

Why should he think it necessary for General Grant to renounce such pretensions if his own observation of the President's character had not convinced him of the reality of the danger?

President Grant's recent conduct is consistent with this theory, but is inexplicable on any other, unless it be the theory that he is a dolt in public affairs. If he is determined at all hazards not to relinquish his office at the expiration of his present term, the extraordinary things he has been doing are intelligible; on any other hypothesis they are a puzzle.

A PUNSTER being requested to give a specimen of his art, asked for a subject. "The king." "The king is not a subject," he replied.

Disloyalty and the Publishing House.

The following communication from Dr. McFerrin appears in the Nashville Christian Advocate of January 23:

MR. EDITOR: Several papers, secular and religious, have been publishing to the world various statements about the disloyalty of the Southern Meth. Publishing House and its officers. Here is one statement copied by a paper in this city, friendly to us, from the Cincinnati Gazette:

"The Methodist Episcopal Church South wants the United States to pay it $500,000 as damages for its occupancy of the Book Concern at Nashville during the war. It is not denied that a large proportion of the membership of the church was disloyal, but it is held that the church, as such, was a non-political body, and so not hostile to the government. In considering the responsibility of a corporation one must look at the conduct of its authorized representatives, and it will not require much searching to discover that Dr. McFerrin, the agent of the Book Concern, and the editors of the different church periodicals at Nashville, were fierce rebels. All the employes who did not take the oath of allegiance to the Confederacy, and sympathize with its cause, were dismissed at the very outbreak of the war. When the national defeat at Bull Run was known at Nashville these officials were open in their exultations, and some of them were seen discharging fireworks, while others exclaimed that the Lord was on the Southern side. Bishop Andrew recommended the agent to secure the printing of the Confederate authorities, and there were actually issued from the Concern school-books, almanacs and other publications of an out-and-out rebellious character. Pirated editions of Northern works were also published there. Other Bishops of the church besides Dr. Andrew were undisguised in the expression of their rebel proclivities. If, then, the officers and membership of a church were overwhelmingly rebel, it is a miserable quibble to assert that the denomination was unpolitical."

Now allow me to say a few words, that I may set all concerned right in a few points concerning myself.

1. That I, one born in the South, educated in the South, and having lived all my life in the South, was Southern in my sympathies was to be expected. I was for the South.

2. I wrote nothing under my own signature, or under a fictitious name, concerning the war.

3. As agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House I conducted everything on strictly business principles. I printed a number of documents for those who had contracted to print for the State. As agent I never had any contract, so far as I can call to mind, with any State or Confederate government. I did stereotype and print the New Testament and the Psalms, edited by Dr. Summers, and which were distributed by the thousands among the Southern soldiers. The United States customhouse officers passed the type which was procured at Philadelphia for this purpose. As far as schoolbooks were concerned, the Publishing House had long been patronizing several Northern publishers, and their books had been introduced into many schools in the South. When Tennessee passed the ordinance of "separation and representation" a blockade was established, and the supply of school-books was cut off. I was requested to print editions of several of those books, in order to supply the demand. This I did without any intention of injuring the original proprietors, but to meet the pressing wants of the country.

4. I did not try to influence any of the employes of the Publishing House as to their political opinions. When the issue was fairly made I called the employes together in the room of Dr. Summers, the book editor, and said to them in substance: "Gentlemen, you have seen the proclamation of President Lincoln, and you have seen the action of the Southern States, and of the Legislature of Tennessee. You are liable to be taken into either army, and you may be forced in the Southern army. I do not know, nor have I ever interfered with your opinion on the question at issue. Several of you are from the North. You may—it is natural you would—sympathize with the North. If this be the case, I allow you to make your own election. I would like to keep you all; I have use for you in the house; but I will not insist on your remaining. If you prefer to go, I interpose no objection. Those who may desire to go shall be paid the last dollar we owe them. If you elect to remain I shall be glad to retain you."

Several of the gentlemen chose to go, and no one ever attempted to interfere with their rights or preferences.

Others of them remained, and continued in the house unmolested by any one connected with the establishment, and are here at the present time. Mr. William Kelsea, our principal man in the stereotype foundry, was an outspoken Union man, and voted against the State going out. He remained till after the agent had gone South. Mr. J. M. Sinclair, who is still in the house, says he was always opposed to secession; but neither the agent nor book editor interfered with him.

I here subjoin the statements of these gentlemen.

If Mr. Vallelle is still living he will testify to what I have above stated. He was the foreman in the printing department, and was under a written contract. From this I released him, and he, with others, went North. We also refer to Fred. Stitt and D. F. Armstrong, of Washington city and New York.

J. B. MCFERRIN.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 16, 1875.

"We, the undersigned, testify that all that Dr. McFerrin states under the fourth item of the foregoing communication is correct. We never heard of Dr. McFerrin interfering with the political opinions of any one employed by him; much less was any one discharged from the house because he was not Southern in his sentiments. Every man was left to the exercise of his own opinions.

WILLIAM KELSEA,
GEO. W. REED,
JAS. M. SINCLAIR,
ROBT. BARCLAY."

Louisiana State Fair.

MR. EDITOR: The eighth annual fair of the Mechanics and Agricultural Fair Association is advertised to be held during this month, continuing from the third to the twelfth instant inclusive, but I have looked in vain for the words: "Sunday, the seventh instant, excepted." It is, then, the evident purpose of this association to again desecrate the Lord's day. When, in 1872, the last fair was advertised to be held for a number of days, including two Sundays, the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, through a special committee appointed for that purpose, drew up an appeal to the managers of the association in the interest of a proper regard for the Sabbath, worded as follows, and to which the names below given were readily subscribed:

"To the Managers of the Louisiana State Fair:

"Gentlemen—The consecration of one day in each week to rest and the special service of almighty God is an obligation universally acknowledged, in theory at least, by all nations claiming the name of Christian.

"The authority for such observance is found in the physical constitution of man, as well as in the divine command: 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.'

"In view of these facts we, the undersigned merchants and citizens of New Orleans, jealous of the fair name of our State, as well as regardful of the honor due our Maker, most earnestly request that our State Fair may be closed upon Sunday.

"Let us not thus publicly invoke the displeasure of the Almighty, by whose blessing alone we can hope for deliverance in this hour of our State's most dire extremity.

"S. B. Newman, R. H. Browne, W. C. Shepard, James H. Low, Moses Greenwood & Son, W. M. Perkins, John T. Hardie, R. M. Walmsley, H. S. Henderson, Philip Werlein, John G. Parham, W. F. Halsey, Severing, Strahan & Co., E. C. Palmer, R. B. Thomas, J. K. Bell, Richard Jones, Benjamin Florence, Samuel E. Moore, J. A. DeBlanc, Jr., J. S. Copes, William L. Brown, Jr., L. H. Gardner & Co., W. E. Seymour, A. B. Griswold & Co., Wallace & Co., F. Hathorn, George W. Cable, Robert Y. Black, David Hadden, Elijah Peale, E. S. Keep, George Palfrey, W. C. Raymond, R. F. W. Bachman, A. H. Nelson, Robert J. Harp, W. J. Bowman, Augustus Rice, Jas. H. Henning, James S. Knapp, N. Jenkins, James A. Gresham, J. W. Platt, J. M. Harding, John T. Sawyer, R. McMillan, Caldwell & Griswold, Archie Woods, F. B. Webster, W. H. Mathews, Charles E. Slayback & Co., S. W. Clark, S. K. Russ, J. McConnell, A. W. Hunter, Richard Rhodes, G. P. Harrison, S. M. Augell, C. H. Shute, Charles B. Singleton, W. M. Randolph, E. Howard McCaleb, Edward Booth, Peel & Reid, J. L. Dannica & Co., H. J. Mullan & Co., Block & Brittin, John M. Gould, J. W. Parsons, W. A. Bartlett, F. J. Odendahl."

When presented the appeal was respectfully received by the managers, but in reply thereto it was said that the date fixed for the opening of the fair was so near at hand as to preclude the possibility of the request being acceded to, though it was intimated that the Lord's day would not thus be desecrated by the association again.

There seems, however, to be no prospect of a reformation in this direction, and hence the only and necessary alternative for all who signed this most respectful remonstrance, as well as all others of the God-fearing citizens of New Orleans, is to discountenance, both by their absence from the grounds and by withholding any patronage in the way of articles displayed for competitive examination, our State Fair Association.

Our State is now, even more than in 1872, groaning under the weight of oppression and poverty, while at the same time there is not a city in the land where there is so little protest from the Christian public against the shameless trampling upon the God-ordained sacredness of the Sabbath.

The "Special Notice" column of every Saturday's edition of our daily papers is crowded with announcements of trials of new fire engines, military drills and kindred gatherings, in which the young men of our city are being trained to shun God's house, and set at defiance the laws by which the Almighty would secure man's physical as well as his moral welfare. How can we expect God's benediction upon our efforts to regain our liberties when we thus contemn his most reasonable requirements? The theological aspect of the Sunday question we need not discuss; but in our appeal to all good citizens who value the fair name of our State, and acknowledge that the Sabbath is not given us as a day for sport or recreation, but for rest in the most exhaustive definition of that term, to protest, both by deed as well as word, against any such misuse of its sacred hours as we are now considering, we rest our case upon the opinion of a well-known jurist, as given in Bishop on Criminal Law, volume I, section 946: "It is a mistake to suppose that Sabbath-keeping is a thing merely of religious observance, or especially a tenet of some particular sect; on the contrary, the setting apart by the whole community of one day in seven, wherein the thoughts of men and the physical activities shall be turned into another than their accustomed channels, is a thing pertaining as much to the law of nature as is the intervening of the nights between the days." A. H. N.

P. S.—Since writing the above we learn that the exhibition of the State Fair Association is postponed until April; but unless in this postponement provision is made for the proper observance of the Lord's day, the duty is still incumbent upon all who believe in the divine institution of the Christian Sabbath to totally discountenance our State Fair.

Notice.

We find the following concerning the Southern Review in the St. Louis Christian Advocate of January 27:

We have associated with us our daughter, Mrs. S. Bledsoe Herrick, in the editorial department of the Southern Review. Our readers and editors of newspapers, being the judges, she has already contributed many of the best articles which have appeared in our pages. Some of the most intelligent and highly cultivated men in the country, both North and South, have inquired by whom certain articles were contributed, because they had inspired them with admiration, and were greatly surprised to learn the fact that they were written by a woman.

During the last eighteen months Mrs. Herrick has written more than one-fifth of the entire contents of the Review, including the following articles: "The Laud of the Veda," and "The Genius of George Eliot," July, 1873; "Corals and Coral Islands," and "The Sepoy Rebellion," October, 1873; "The Life of Sir David Brewster," and "The Hive and the Honey Bee," January, 1874; "The Wonders of Deep-Sea Explorations," and "Mary Somerville," April, 1874; and "Alexandria in the Fifth Century," July, 1874; besides assisting in the preparation of book notices and in our editorial duties.

We are happy to be able to promise that hereafter all correspondence will be promptly attended to, and that the Southern Review will be issued punctually on the first day of each quarter.

All business letters should be addressed to "Mrs. S. Bledsoe Herrick, 34 McCullough street, Baltimore, Maryland." All subscriptions for the Review for 1875, and moneys due for the same, should be sent to her address. The latter should be transmitted in the form of postoffice orders or money in registered letters, otherwise it must be at the risk of the subscribers.

The editors request to be notified of any irregularity in the reception of the Review. A. T. BLEDSOE.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.—The stated meeting of the board of managers was held at the Bible House, Astor Place, on Thursday, January 7, at half-past three o'clock.

The board ordered the preparation of new editions of the Ojibwa New Testament, and of portions of Scripture in the Creek language; and of new plates for an English Testament and Psalms, brevier 24mo, and for the following Spanish books: Reference Bible, small pica 8vo, New Testament and Psalms, brevier 24mo, and Psalms, small pica 18mo.

Liberal grants of Scripture were made to the California Bible Society; to the Friends' Freedmen Association of Philadelphia; to the Presbyterian Board of Missions, for circulation in Vera Cruz and other parts of Mexico; to missionaries among the Dakota and Creek Indians; to railroad companies for the use of passengers and employes, and to various auxiliary societies and individuals.

The entire value of the volumes granted is about $8,876, including $300 worth for distribution in foreign lands, and 426 volumes for railroads.

The receipts for December were $54,647.19; volumes issued, 61,247.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT NOTICE.—Mr. Editor: Allow me space to say that in the Opelousas district, Chicot and Ville Platte circuit is bracketed to Washington and Plaquemine, Grand Cheulere to Lake Charles, and Sugartown to Spring Creek. Preachers in charge of these appointments will report accordingly.

J. E. CONN.

NEW IBERIA, LA., Jan. 25, 1875.

MOCKING-BIRDS can imitate human actions as well as human voices, it seems. A Macon, Georgia, paper says that two pets of this stripe got jealous of each other and undertook to fight it out in desperate fashion. One of them, getting enough of it, sang out, "Quit, quit," and followed this up by crying, "Police, police." And, oddly enough, there was a policeman within hearing who came up and stopped the fight.

Political Gospelers.

Under this head the St. Louis Republican notices the deliverances of Bishop Bowman and the Methodist preachers' meeting of Boston, as follows:

We have recently had occasion to comment upon some reputed action of Bishop Bowman in a tone which we excessively dislike to employ toward any minister of the gospel of whatever denomination. Our columns have already contained record of the fact that the Methodist preachers of Massachusetts, in conference assembled, found time to forget God and remember mammon in the worst possible form long enough to applaud Grant's crime against civil liberty, and indorse Sheridan's beastly request that he be given limitless license to murder and destroy at will in the States of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. For our part, we can conceive of no act more thoroughly unchristian in letter or in spirit than this. But now the two administration organs in this city come along and evidently seek to palliate the action of these Methodist politicians of the pulpit by saying that Bishop Bowman, of St Louis, inspired their action, the Bishop being, we believe, presiding officer of the body in question. And one of the organs further observes that "the Conservative clergy of Louisiana expressed an opinion quite as positive as Bishop Bowman's, but we are happy to say that no Republican paper was found mean enough to revile them for their opinions."

This is exactly the point we hoped would be brought out. We are glad of an opportunity to contrast the bloodthirsty and office-hungry aggressiveness of the red-hot Methodists of Massachusetts with the pitiful pleading for justice and mercy that came forth from their oppressed and outraged brethren of all denominations in Louisiana. "Spare us!" cry the Christian people of the stricken State. "Crucify them!" howl the hot gospelers of Massachusetts—with one of their class-leaders in the Boston customhouse and the president a regular communicant of their chief sanctuary in Washington. "For the sake of God and his justice, protect us from the rapacity of our rulers and from the brutality of their dragoons," was the wail of distress that sounded from Louisiana the morning after Sheridan had sent in his savage request to be turned loose upon them, hoof and saber. "Kill them! Death to the heretics!" was the brutal bawl that answered them from the Methodist Church of Massachusetts. We do not care to carry this contrast any further. We need not. The honest judgment, to say nothing of the Christian sentiment, of the United States will pronounce that howl of the Methodist ministers of Massachusetts a burst of bigotry and bloodthirsty intolerance worthy of the palmiest days of the faggot and the stake—worthy the damnablest epoch of the Inquisition, the rack and the thumbscrews. And if Bishop Bowman can stand it to be trotted out at the front of such an infamy by the organs of his party here, we are sure we can. But we are determined, now that his name has been dragged in by those who pretend to speak for him, that his position in the matter shall not go undefined. We have nothing to say of the Methodist Church at large beyond remarking that, whatever it may afford to do in Massachusetts, where it happens to run a custom-house or two, it cannot afford to take, as a national denomination, the position of countenancing crime against civil liberty, and of abetting a policy of vengeance and slaughter such as that suggested by Sheridan. The era of the faggot, the stake, the rack and the roasting chair has gone by, and the Methodists of Massachusetts cannot revive it. And by attempting to do so they can only draw down upon themselves the contempt and scorn of civilized mankind.

From the Work.

RANDOLPH CIRCUIT, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—Mr. Editor: My name was read out in connection with this circuit at the Conference. The second day after I arrived at home I started for the work. I found the church full of life, and in great anticipation for the future.

At my first appointment the stewards met me en masse, and there pledged themselves for my support. I procured a home for my family, and when we arrived we received a hearty welcome, and the first day after our arrival the people brought in the necessaries of life for us. We are at home, and are satisfied with the appointment. There are several weekly and some tri-weekly prayer meetings kept up in the bounds of this work. Life is not extinct on this circuit. I have found vitality in the church, and I enter upon the work with good hope for the future.

Respectfully,

R. A. MIEARS, P. C.

A GENTLEMAN undertook for a wager to stand for a whole day on London Bridge with a tray full of good sterling sovereigns, and would sell to find customers for them at a penny apiece; and he won the wager, as all passers-by thought he was trying to cheat them with brass imitations.

A YANKEE editor throws up the sponge with the remark that "it don't pay to run a paper in a town where business men read almanacs and pick their teeth with the head of a herring."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1875.

FOR THE ADVOCATE.

O LET ME GO!

BY C. T. V.

Lonely I roam on earth,
Friends all away;
Being of heavenly birth,
Here would not stay.
There, on my native shore,
Friends that have gone before
Meet us to part no more.
O let me go!

Sadly I live on earth,
Circled by pain;
Evils come ever forth
Each day again.
Blest is the life above,
All its surroundings love,
All there in beauty move.
O let me go!

Troubled I move on earth,
Foes ever near;
Even amid its mirth
More room for fear.
Peaceful my native home,
Safe 'neath that starry dome,
Trouble can never come.
O let me go!

Hard do I toil on earth—
Labor ne'er ends;
Earth never gives its worth,
Whate'er she sends.
Sweet will my rest be there,
Freedom from toil and care,
Blessed beyond compare.
O let me go!

I am but poor on earth—
Nothing I own;
All here an arid dearth,
With thistles strown.
Great is my treasure there,
Richest of gems and rare,
Endless their glories are.
O let me go!

Daily I die on earth,
Death still ahead;
Here, even from the birth,
Death is a dread.
Dying is there unknown,
Tears are forever flown,
Life is an endless zone.
O let me go!

COVINGTON, Louisiana.

Did God Harden Pharaoh's Heart?

MR. EDITOR: Some remarks on the case of Pharaoh, which has proveu an exceedingly perplexing one to many Bible readers, may perhaps form a fitting sequel to the article on the niuth of Romans, which recently appeared in your paper. Such assertions as "whom he will he hardeneth," and "the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart," are paradoxical in appearance and demand explanation.

It cannot be denied that God is said to have hardened Pharaoh's heart, but it should be remembered that it is also said more than once, in the same connection, that Pharaoh hardeued his own heart. There must, then, be a sense in which both assertions are true. The agency of God in the hardening of Pharaoh's heart, and of every other heart that is hardened, may be explained in the following manner: God created men's hearts susceptible of hardeuing, and ordained the laws uuder or according to which a heart may be hardened. Just as a man's hand is hardened by the use of an ax or a hoe, in accordance with God's laws—without which it might soften or blister, instead of hardening—so that in one sense God hardens the hands of the laborer through his own voluntary pressure against a resisting substance. In like manner, when a heart is hardened by persistent resistance to God's moral laws and authority, God may be said to harden it, because he, in the creation of man's nature, ordained that such a process should harden a heart, rendering it less and less sensitive to all Heaven's opposition to its sinful course. In this sense we think God hardened Pharaoh's heart. Pharaoh was determined not to let the Israelites go. Their labor was very profitable. Covetousness is not easily conquered. While Pharaoh resisted the authority of heaven, God held him up (raised him up) as an instructive and warning spectacle to all the world, demonstrating, by a series of the most astounding miracles ever witnessed in any age, not only to the Egyptians, but to all nations, Jehovah's amazing superiority to all the gods they worshiped. It was for this declared purpose that God raised or held Pharaoh up and exhibited him to the world. For this reason he did not kill him upon his first refusal to let the people go. Pharaoh resisted, and God continued to press his great authority more and more tremendously against him. Thus God and Pharaoh each bore a most important part in the hardening of Pharaoh's heart.

The authors of the Septuagint, or Greek translation of the Old Testament, seem to have had in mind the distinction which we have endeavored to point out; for wherever in Exodus it is said God hardened Pharaoh's heart, they use the Greek word sklaruno, which means to harden or make hard; but wherever it is said that Pharaoh hardened his own heart, they use the Greek word Baruno, which signifies to press heavily against. Thus it appears that Pharaoh resisted God, and the hardening of his heart was the consequence.

In the original Hebrew also different words are used, where in the English translation we have but the single word—harden. God's agency in producing the condition of Pharaoh's heart is there expressed by a word which signifies simply to harden, while Pharaoh's agency is shown by a word which means to exalt, to honor one's self, to be filled with pride or arrogance.

The Apostle Paul seems to have regarded the case of Pharaoh as an instance in which God, for wise purposes and in the exercise of his unquestionable sovereignty, "endured with much long suffering a vessel of wrath fitted for destruction," and at the same time made his mighty power fearfully known to the nations of the earth, even as by his forbearance and his severity toward the Jewish people, in after years, he taught all others to dread his displeasure.

It is, moreover, stated in this chapter that "whom God will he hardeneth." Who are they, then, whom it will please God to harden? We are told that God shall send upon certain persons "strong delusion, that they should believe a lie." Upon whom, and why? Upon those "who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness," and "because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved." —Second Thessalonians xi, 10-12. God sends darkness upon those only who refuse the light. In many places in the Scriptures men are accused of hardening their own hearts, and exhorted not to do so. "To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts."

It is a fearful thought that thousands in our day, even in early life, so harden their hearts, by habitual and persistent resistance to the word and Spirit of God, that before they are out of their teens they are well-nigh beyond the reach of all the ordinary means of grace. It can scarcely be doubted that the heart may be hardened by a voluntary process. The physician, for instance, often restrains his sympathetic feelings by a conscious act of his will, because the free exercise of his emotional nature might disqualify him for those acts of the intellect which his office demands. He will not feel, for the time, because he must think. That this insensibility in physicians is the result of voluntary self-restraint, and not a necessary consequence of their familiarity with scenes of suffering, is proved by the fact that others who spend their time in seeking out and relieving the suffering, and who have no motive for restraining their sympathetic emotions, find their hearts growing more and more sensitive to the appeals of woe.

Let no man, then, undertake to attribute his hard-heartedness to God. He is the loving Father, and delights not in the death of any that die, but would rather that all should come to repentance and live.

There is not the slightest proof in the Scriptures that God ever chose any man to be saved or lost without regard to that man's will and moral character. The selection of an individual or of a nation to bear any particular part in God's great plan of administering the gospel to mankind does by no means insure the salvation of such individual or nation. If any have peculiar opportunities for finding out the will of God, their responsibilities are correspondingly increased; for where much is given, much will be required. We may lose our time, and possibly our souls, in fruitless efforts to penetrate the mysteries of predestination, but it would be far better to use the liberty God has given us in walking in the open path of duty which lies plainly before our face. H.

English Methodism.

MR. EDITOR: The next British Wesleyan Methodist Conference meets in the town of Sheffield, the metropolis of the hardware and cutlery trades. This town has a population of nearly three hundred thousand people. It is situated on the rivers Don and Sheaf, from the latter of which it derives its name. Sheffield has a rich history, political and religious. Outside the town are still to be seen traces of the early luvasions, remains of Roman castles, earthworks, stone crosses, pillars, etc. Here is the castle in which Mary Queen of Scots was for some time a prisoner. Here is one of the reputed haunts of "Robin Hood and his merry men." Here, in later times, was the home and here the last resting-place of the poet Montgomery, author of those sublime hymns, "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire," and "Servant of God, well done," etc.

It is not, however, of Sheffield's political history I would write, but of its religious associations, especially of the rise and progress of our common Methodism. Methodism was introduced into Sheffield, by one of Lady Huntingdon's servants, in the year 1737. The Episcopal Church being too "high" for the early Methodists, they usually wended their way to the more evangelical church at Ecclesall. As they walked to this house of God in company, their appearance was often the subject of some rude and fool-born jest, and at the turn of every street the idle Sabbath-breakers, who were deaf to the inviting sound of "the church-going bell," would raise the cry: "Here come the Methodists!"

John Wesley paid his first visit to Sheffield and organized the first society in 1742. Every time he preached the house was surrounded by a mob, who threatened to kill the preacher. On one occasion the ringleader went down to the river to bathe. After diving several times he mounted a post in the midst of the stream, and with an air of scorn and triumph shouted: "Another dip, and then for more sport with the Methodists." But it was his last plunge! He was taken out of the river a corpse, and all attempts at reanimation were utterly useless. His awful end deeply impressed his followers, who observed: "The Methodists will say this is a judgment."

The first Methodist chapel in Sheffield was built in Cheney square, in 1744. In less than three months it was undermined by an infuriated mob, and amid shouts of triumph was leveled to the ground. Another was soon erected near the same spot, and in order to deceive the enemy it was built in the form of a dwelling-house. Scarcely was it occupied for its intended purpose before it shared the fate of its predecessor. The magistrates would not interfere in these riots, so the Methodists appealed to the grand jury at York, who ordered the Sheffield magistrates to rebuild the house the rabble had pulled down. The chapel built with the money of the faithless magistrates was occupied by the followers of Whitefield and Wesley until the year 1757, when the Wesleyans purchased a building in Mulberry street and converted it into a preaching-house. Here they assembled for worship more than twenty-three years, and within those hallowed walls many of the persons whose honored names are associated with early Methodism in Sheffield received their first religious impressions and consecrated themselves to the Master's cause.

In 1780 Norfolk Street chapel was opened by the venerable Wesley. For a considerable length of time the writer worshiped in this hallowed place, and has frequently seen the pulpit from which Wesley preached the opening sermon.

For a long time Sheffield formed part of either the Epworth (birthplace of Wesley,) Leeds or Nottingham circuits, but in 1763 it was raised to the dignity of a circuit town. The circuit embraced what is now divided into four or five districts. Over this wide circuit two preachers were appointed—Peter Jaco and Paul Greenwood.

At the present time there are five circuits in the town of Sheffield. In these five circuits there are eighteen or twenty traveling preachers, about one hundred and forty local preachers, and sixty-five or seventy chapels. "What hath God wrought?"

JOSEPH S. OAKLEY.

GREENVILLE STATION,
North Mississippi Conference.

The Two Witnesses.

MR. EDITOR: In your issue of December 24 I notice an article written by my venerable brother, James Shanks, on the "Two Witnesses," in the reading of which I was very much interested until I came to the last part, or the summing up of his argument, against which, in a certain sense, I must enter a demurer. In the middle part of his argument, I think, he makes perhaps an unintentional mistake. Its smacks so much of unconditional perseverance that I beg leave to call his attention to it—that is, speaking of the witness, he says: "Finally, the Spirit itself heareth witness with our spirit, to our final glorification with Christ in heaven." It does not take a very keen eye to perceive that that expression sounds very much like unconditional, final perseverance, which doctrine we as Methodists believe is contrary to the Bible. Yet he quotes from Paul (Romans viii, 17) a passage in which the very conditions of our "final glorification" are explicitly stated in the latter clause of that verse, which is: "If so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together." Now, then, the "glorification" takes place after the conditions are complied with. During a life of devotedness to Christ, this, according to my view, is the doctrine of the Bible and the Methodist Church.

But what I have said is not the main point that I desire to advert to. Bro. Shanks, I think, fixes in his judgment a standard for conversion that is not altogether tenable and in accordance with the Bible. He says we must know the "time and place" of our conversion. He then adds that if this (his) view "drives weak Christians into despair, then the Bible will drive them into despair, for it is the religion of the Bible." He appeals to Cæsar. To him let us go. But we will stop at the threshold, and read inscribed on the lintel by the Prophet Isaiah, and reiterated by St. Matthew: "A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench." Was there ever a much sweeter utterance? Read Dr. Clarke's comment on this passage, which is grand and to the point. We take courage and enter the sacred presence of the blessed Master. Hear him as he makes his first utterance to a sin-stricken world; not that, if you don't know "the time and place" of your conversion, you shall be lost, but something that sounds in keeping with the character of the Lord and Master: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven;" and then goes on, step by step, laying the foundation of Christian faith and experience, culminating in a holy, joyful life, as being "the salt of the earth," "as the light of the world; a city set on an hill cannot be hid." Hear him as he comes a little nearer our poor hearts, and adapts his gospel teachings to our puny intellects, so that we may comprehend the grand idea of the new birth: "The kingdom of heaven (religion in the soul) is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field, which indeed is the least of all seed; but when it is grown it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air lodge in the branches thereof." The good Dr. Clarke says: "This parable is a representation of the progress of the gospel in the world, and of the growth of grace in the soul—that grace which leads the soul to the fullness of glory; may begin, and often does, in a single good desire—a wish to escape hell, or a desire to enjoy God in heaven;" and, seeming to desire to make the matter more intelligible to us, he says: "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened. The property of leaven, as is well known, is to assimilate to the meal with which it is united; and does it not take a given time to do this? So the property of the grace of Christ is to change the whole soul into its own likeness. Do these teachings of the great Master look like a despairing religion? I trow not. Hear what Paul says upon this point: "And I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ. I have fed you with milk, and not with meat; for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able."—Corinthians iii, 1, 2.

It would seem that the gracious Lord exhausts every argument to make the matter plain to our feeble understanding. He inspires Peter, too, to say: "As new-born babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby." Not a word about "time and place." We might go on and adduce more Scripture in proof that the Bible does nowhere say that we must know the exact "time and place" of our change as absolutely necessary to a crown of life in heaven. But I forbear on this point by stating one more proof in support of the point I contend for—the blind man who, by the first touch of Jesus, saw men as trees walking; by the second touch he saw all things clearly. Dr. Clarke again says: "And that, however small the first manifestations of mercy may be, they are nevertheless the beginning of the fullness of the blessings of the gospel of peace." There are some who, in their extreme notions with regard to religious experience, if believed in, would lead the mind to think that our blessed Savior is a hard taskmaster. I know of an aged servant of God who gave herself to God in early life, and has lived in communion with him, who stated to the writer, while reading Bro. Shanks' article to her, that she could not tell the exact "time and place" of her conversion, but knows assuredly that she is at peace with God. She has had very many striking instances of answer to prayer. In the language of an author: "The Christian faith is our name for all living experiences which are ever bred in the human soul by the power of God."

Finally, not to weary you or your readers, permit me to say that none believe more firmly than I do that a sinner must know his sins pardoned, and be justified by the merits of Jesus; but to say that the Bible demands to know the exact "time and place" I cannot do. People's experiences have differed. Some come to the point instantaneously, while others are not so fast in reaching the point. I would not be understood as intending to lower in the least the standard of conversion. In my investigations I think I have endeavored to harmonize on this point. I do not write this with the intention of exciting controversy, and have no desire for any. I have a great regard for my venerable Bro. Shanks.

GEORGE BANCROFT.

"Let Him Deny Himself."

MATTHEW XVI, 24.

Some entertain the notion that the idea here taught is just simply that the Christian disciple must practice that self-denial which induces him to turn away from those things he knows to be evil—from those vices and follies which are evil in themselves, and tend constantly to evil.

This is a good idea, but the objection to it is that it does not embrace the whole meaning of the text. There is a deeper and broader meaning here. The self-denial which our Savior taught includes the turning away from evil things, and evil practices, the indulgence of which would be pleasing to the flesh—yea, and the very appearance of evil also—but it extends much further, and, in a few words, means: Perfect self-renunciation—that is, let him entirely renounce himself.

Self is our first great adversary. It ever stands in our way—our way to holiness, happiness and heaven. It makes us think highly of and exalt ourselves. It induces us to be proud and independent. It leads us astray from the path of rectitude, and carries us away into the forbidden ways of sin. Self totally unfits us for the service of Christ. He was meek and lowly, and his holy ways are ways of humility. Now we are to pursue those ways if we be disciples of Christ; but we can never do so with our evil self in us. We are also to be like Christ—meek and lowly—but never can we be so while self is in our hearts. Hence this great enemy must be renounced, must be bound, hand and foot, and then be borne away to the cross of Christ, and there be nailed to the cruel wood, that it may die in agony and in blood. So, you see, in this doctrine of self-denial is embraced the idea of the thorough renovation or crucifixion of the old, the evil nature which we inherit from our fathers and mothers. In your self-denial you must submit yourself so perfectly to Christ that he may take you and perform in you the great and glorious work of salvation. He will begin his work in regeneration, carry it on through sanctification, and end it only in eternal glorification.

This is the way, and it is the only way, in which you may deny yourself. When you shall have done this you will become as nothing in your own eyes, and Christ will be "all in all."

Then you will be meek and lowly as Christ was, and you will be ready for any further service which he may require of you. W. S. T.

PERRY, Alabama.

The Mississippi Conference and the Southwestern Bible Society.

MR. EDITOR: At the last session of the Mississippi Conference the committee on the Bible cause report that "they are pained to see that there is such lethargy on this subject, and are constrained to say that we apprehend that the blame rests not only upon the people, but upon the management of the Southwestern Bible Society."

The society thus criticised has been for several years almost entirely without funds. Annually we have, at our public meeting and by the circulation of our printed report, appealed to the Christian public to replenish our treasury, so that we might be able to send out colporteurs, and give to the spiritually famishing all around us the bread of life; and yet during the past four years the contributions received by us from every part of our field have not averaged $300 per annum. What we have been enabled to do during these years has been done in Mississippi, where the counties of Clarke, Jasper, Lauderdale, Kemper and Yazoo were canvassed in 1873; in the former of these every family having been visited by our colporteurs. This work was accomplished entirely by the aid of the American Bible Society, and the same organization now stands ready to furnish all the Bibles we can distribute if we will send out the distributors. By the same report, from which I have quoted above, it is shown that the sum total of the contributions to the Bible cause, within the limits of the Mississippi Conference, during 1874, was one dollar. Where is that dollar, brethren? We have not seen it yet. The managers of the Southwestern Bible Society feel most keenly the destitution of their field, but they are but the almoners of others' bounty; and, though they have Bibles in abundance, they cannot distribute them unless the funds are furnished with which to pay the colporteurs. Our brethren of the Mississippi Conference, and all others who love the Bible, may sing never so loudly,

"Fly abroad, thou mighty gospel," but until they do all in their power to give it wings they cannot complain if it does not fly.

Yours fraternally,

A. H. NELSON,
Cor. Sec. S. W. B. S.

Rutledge Ct., Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: In these days of moneyed stringency, when the few paying members of the church are hard run to pay the preachers, they ought to have full credit for all they do. I wish, therefore, to say that though the report made by the recording steward of the above circuit for last year is true, and indicates a very meager support for the pastor, yet the true state of the case was very much changed by donations and otherwise, viz.:

House rent, good house	$120 00
Tuition, three children, by Prof. W. P. Stott	100 00
Quarterage paid after Conference	50 00
Donations by sundry persons	75 00
Total	$345 00
Amount reported to Conference	310 17
Grand total	$655 17

And the above list does not include all the kind offices of those dear, good people. And I wish to say, in this connection, that two churches—viz.: Mount Pleasant, and Thurston's or Mount Nebo—paid their assessment, and each one built a comfortable house of worship.

B. F. BLOW.

SUMMERFIELD, ALA., Jan. 23, 1875.

Obituaries.

DIED, March 10, 1874, among her relatives, near Brandon, Mississippi, MRS. CATHERINE RHODES, in the eighty-fifth year of her age. She was the wife of William Rhodes, who had long preceded her to the spirit land. Though left a widow with a large family of children, she lived a protracted life of much useful labor, toil and care. The subject of this notice was converted in early life and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and, amidst all the trials, troubles and conflicts of life, she was an humble, consistent and devoted Christian to the end of her race.

She was born and raised in Colleton, South Carolina, and in the year 1833, with her husband and family, emigrated to Mississippi, and settled near Brandon, Rankin county, where she lived to the end of her earthly pilgrimage. At the death of her husband her family consisted of nine children, six of whom preceded her to the spirit land, leaving three behind, with many grandchildren, and a large circle of relatives and friends, to follow after. The author of these lines visited Mother Rhodes in her last illness, and administered to her for the last time in this life the bread and wine, in memory of the broken body and shed blood of our blessed Savior; and while we sang the two hundred and ninety-eighth hymn,

Jesus, at whose supreme command
We now approach to God,
Before us in thy vesture stand,
Thy vesture dipped in blood, old Mother Rhodes praised God with a loud voice, and gave thanks to him who saved her through his blood.

Thus passed out the life of an old veteran of the cross, to that "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." JOHN H. EVANS.

POLKVILLE, Miss., Dec. 28, 1874.

MRS. HULDETH ALLEN (maiden name Parker) was born in Stanley county, North Carolina, in 1791; married to Benjamin Allen, of Anson county, same State, in 1812; moved with her husband to Alabama in 1844, and settled in the lower portion of Sumter county—now the northern edge of Choctaw—where she died, January 31, 1874, aged eighty-three years. Gaston circuit has lost a jewel in the death of this excellent lady. In early life she found "the pearl of great price," and unto death she was a true witness for the Master—a worthy example of faithfulness in all the relations she held. In the church, "a mother in Israel," "a daughter of Abraham;" as a wife, "the heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, * * * and he praiseth her;" parentally, "she looketh well to the ways of her household, and her children arise up and call her blessed;" domestically, "she seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands. She riseth also while it is yet night, and giveth meat to her household. She layeth her hands to the spindle, and her hands hold the distaff. All her household are clothed with double garments. She eateth not the bread of idleness;" socially, "she openeth her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue is the law of kindness." The Holy Bible was her daily delight. With marked interest she read the church papers, and took a deep interest in the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom. Her summons came suddenly. After a day of customary domestic work she had retired to bed in usual health. Soon afterward a few groans and slight struggles called loving hands to her bedside, but her spirit had gone—gone to the bosom of her Redeemer. With her we need not words to tell of triumph. In that bright and beautiful world we will see her again. C. B. DUBOSE.

THOMAS GLASS CARTER was born in Mecklenburg county, Virginia, December 25, 1797. In his fifth year he moved with his parents to Chatham county, North Carolina, where he was raised, and was happily converted in 1820 and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was very soon after appointed class-leader, and licensed to exhort, in which capacity he served the church for fifty-four years, having the confidence of his brethren, and in which capacity he was very useful. He moved to Copiah county, Mississippi, at an early date, when preachers and church privileges were scarce. But it was his delight to gather the scattered Christians together and hold class meeting with them, and by a word of exhortation encourage and strengthen them. As age and feeble health came on he had to give up, in a great measure, his public efforts, but his soul was still in the work. He loved the church, and seemed to desire the salvation of his friends, and especially the children of his old neighbors, above everything else. The young people and Sunday school at Pleasant Valley church will never forget seeing him rise up, leaning upon his stick, and exhorting them to seek the salvation of their souls; tell his experience, tell of the adaptation of religion to every situation and circumstance in this life; then speak of his prospects for the good world—how bright, how cheering, waiting only for the summons. He relished the services of the sanctuary, and for a number of years his seat was on the step of the pulpit. In his daily life religion was a reality—less demonstrative than a great many others, yet he enjoyed the comforts of the divine Spirit.

He died at the residence of Mr. Harmon Buffkins, in this county, on the eighteenth of August, 1874, in the maturity of Christian experience, and with a manifest meetness for an inheritance with the saints in light. He was called away suddenly—no time given for parting words. But on the fifteenth of June, 1874, we find written, with his own pen, in a friend's album: "I have tried to live the life of the Christian for fifty-four years. My prospects for heaven are now joyful and cheeringly bright."

W. WADSWORTH.

MRS. NANCY L. PROCTOR, consort of Mr. David Proctor, and daughter of the Rev. James G. Carlisle, of the North Mississippi Conference, died, at her father's residence in Attala county, Mississippi, January 2, 1875. She was born March 22, 1844. She was married to Mr. David Proctor, January 19, 1870. She professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in her eleventh year. Thus early did she feel a concern for her soul, and publicly took upon herself the baptismal vows of her infancy. Her affection for her parents, greatly sanctified by religious influence, entwined her about their hearts with a strength that seemed to engage them as in a life and death struggle to give her up. Their sorrow could only find support in the religion they had early taught their child. There was a beauty in the religion of her girlhood life that those who knew her then will remember long years after the rains of heaven have dissolved the clods of her grave. For three years her health was feeble; for three months she was mainly confined to her bed, and for weeks was nursed as an infant. She told the writer of this, and others, that she had an assurance of an abundant entrance into her Father's kingdom—that she spent the hours of her sickness in prayer and meditation, and in searching the precious truths of the gospel in his written word. When she realized that she was going down into the dark water she assured those around her of her undying trust in Jesus, and of her bright prospects of a happy home beyond the flood, gave some directions about her children, and then wished to be gone. She was carried into the little chapel where her father had so often preached, and over her remains the congregation was assured that "the last enemy—death—should be destroyed;" then followed to the family burying-place by a long train of weeping friends, while her little son begged that ma should not be put in the ground. She was lowered to her last resting-place, to sleep until the voice of her God shall wake her sleeping dust. She leaves a husband and two children bereft.

JOSEPH D. NEWSOM.

WILLIAM JOHN WASSON was born in Greene county, Georgia, July 11, 1834. He was twice married—first to Miss Martha N. Smith, after whose death he was married to Miss Martha C. Toler. While a young man he removed with his father to the State of Mississippi, and settled in Attala county, where he lived until his death. He professed religion about 1852 and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and remained a most faithful and devoted member of its communion until God called him hence. For a long while he held an official relation to the church, and for years previous to his death was recording steward of Liberty circuit; and perhaps few recording stewards were more prompt and faithful in keeping Quarterly Conference records. Rarely has any man in private life betrayed a deeper interest for the general good of the people than Bro. Wasson. He was especially interested in the young men, and might have been truly styled the young man's friend.

His voice in song and prayer is heard no more in the public congregation; his wife and children have him no more to lead them in family devotion. The eighth of December, 1874, had been a busy day with him. He dined with his family at noon, and seemed unusually cheerful—talked playfully with his children, and gave his family to expect him home before night. While busy about his engine, suddenly the community was startled by a fearful explosion, which, like an awful terror in its march, made the solid earth tremble, and shook the buildings for an extended radius. Workmen and friends rushed to the scene to find the mill-house and engine scattered around in wild confusion, and the body of the deceased lying where it had been thrown, one hundred and twenty feet distant, mangled and bleeding, breathing but dying. He uttered no word, manifested no consciousness, and in one hour he ceased to breathe. "Surely, in the midst of life we are in death." He leaves a widow and six children to mourn his loss. JOSEPH D. NEWSOM.

THE RIGHT MOTIVE.—It is related that when Andrew Fuller went into his native town to collect for the cause of missions, one of his old acquaintances said:

"Well, Andrew, I'll give you five pounds, seeing it's you."

"No," said Mr. Fuller, "I can take nothing for this cause, seeing it's me," and handed the money back.

The man felt reproved; but in a moment he said:

"Andrew, you are right. Here are ten pounds, seeing it's for the Lord Jesus Christ."

IT IS announced that two lofty mountains about eleven thousand feet high, facing each other on the northeast coast of New Guinea, have been named "Mount Gladstone" and "Mount Disraeli."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1875.

CHRYSOLITE.

BY JEAN INGELOW.

There are some days that die not out,
Nor alter by reflection's power,
Whose converse calm, whose words devout,
Forever rest, the spirit's dower.

And they are days when drops a vail—
A mist upon the distance past;
And while we say to peace: "All hail!"
We hope that always it shall last.

Times when the troubles of the heart
Are hushed as winds were hushed that day,
And budding hopes begin to start,
Like those green hedgerows on our way,

When all within and all around
Like lines on that sweet landscape blend,
And Nature's hand was made to sound
The heart-strings that her touch attend.

Calvin's Latter Days.

On Easter day (April 2, 1564) he caused himself to be carried to church. Truly it was a solemn hour when he was seen approaching the Lord's table. Never had his finest sermons had half the eloquence of the spectacle presented by that shattered frame, that look in which life had rallied all its energy, and that hand which was stretched out toward the sacred symbols, not, as on a famous day, to take them from the profane, but to receive them humbly from the hands of a pastor and a friend, who was more moved and trembling than himself.

But the communicant of the second of April was still, and could not but be till his latest day, the pastor and father of the church of Geneva.

He wished to speak once more to the magistrates, and asked an audience of them. The council decided on going to his house, and the humble dwelling of the Rue des Chanoines witnessed the arrival of the twenty-five lords of the city in all the pomp of public ceremony. Their registers have preserved the summary of Calvin's words, which were modest and affectionate, but sound and full of meaning, like all he ever said or wrote. He reminded them of the blessings which God had granted to Geneva, and of the perils from which he had saved her. Other perils might come, and God would still save her, but on condition that she remained faithful. It was for them as magistrates to set her an example of fidelity. Geneva is a post of honour; and could those who kept dishonour it? In conclusion, Calvin commended them by a fervent prayer to the Author of all grace, and "thereupon," says Beza, "having begged them one and all to pardon him his faults, he held out his hand to them. I know not if there could have been a sadder sight for these magistrates, who all considered him, and rightly, for his office' sake, as the mouth of the Lord, and for his affection, as their own father, and indeed several of them he had known and trained up from their youth."

On the morrow he wished to see the pastors, and the company therefore visited him in a body. He addressed to them a discourse, says his historian, "the substance of which was that they should persevere in doing their duty well after his death, and that they should not lose courage; that God would protect the city and church, although they were menaced in different quarters; that they should be united; that they should recognize how much they were indebted to the church of Geneva, into which God had called them; that those who might wish to leave her would indeed find excuses upon earth, but that God would not suffer himself to be mocked." He then reminded them of his exile, his return, the struggles of every kind which he had had to sustain, and how, finally, he had seen the blessing of God upon his labor. "Let every one, therefore, be confirmed in his vocation, and maintain good order; let the people be well looked after, and kept obedient to the doctrine, for it would render us very guilty before God if, when things have advanced so far, they afterward fell into disorder, owing to our negligence." He then declared, as on the previous day to the magistrates, that he knew well that disease had sometimes rendered him morose, hard to please, and even irascible; but that he asked pardon of God in the first place, and then of his brethren; "and finally," Beza adds, "he gave his hand to each, one after the other, which was with such anguish and bitterness of heart in every one that I cannot even recall it to mind without extreme sadness."

A few days before he had made his will. In the first part he blesses God for having called him to know the gospel and to make it known, humbling himself for not having labored more abundantly. In the second place, he distributes to his nephews and nieces the approximative produce of the sale of his books and furniture, two hundred and twenty-five crowns, which is "all the property God hath given me," he says, "according as I have been able to rate and estimate it." Ten crowns are to be given to the college, and ten to the fund for "poor strangers," or refugees. His brother Antoine is named joint executor with Laurent de Normandie, his fellow-countryman and old friend.

Another friend, the oldest of all except Cordier, was missing at his death-bed, and that was Farel. On the second of May Calvin received a letter in which Farel announced that he wished to see him again, and that he was going to set out. See him again! Farel is nearly eighty years of age, and Calvin is going to die; can they not wait to see each other again elsewhere? So Calvin thought, and he dictated immediately the following note: "May it be well with thee, very good and dear brother, and since it pleased God that thou shouldst remain after me, remember our constant union, of which the fruit awaiteth us in heaven, as it hath been profitable to the church of God. I will not that thou fatigue thyself for me. I breathe with much difficulty, and I am expecting from hour to hour to breathe my last. But it is enough if I live and die in Christ, who is gain to his people, both in life and in death. Once more, adieu to thee and to all the brethren, thy colleagues." But Farel was already on his way; dusty and exhausted—for he had come from Neufchatel on foot—Calvin saw him enter his chamber. What did they say to each other? We regret that the seriousness of history will not allow fancy to supply the place of documents, for here it would be easy to invent. All the happiness which can be enjoyed by two veterans in remembering their campaigns together we see sparkling in the eyes of those two soldiers of the gospel. Before each other, and before God, they can say with the apostle: "I believe, and therefore have I spoken." They can congratulate each other upon their speedy entrance there, where there shall be no more sorrow, nor crying, nor labor, nor struggle; though they would be ready, if God willed it, to enter the lists again, even if it were to meet with greater trouble yet, and a very different death. How many common friends have disappeared from this world's stage! How many laborers have been consumed by the work! But the Master is one who is able, of the very stones, to raise up children and helpers. Who, then, should presume to think himself necessary to the Lord's design? The greatest workman, if a Christian, will humble himself in his misery, and when the hour is come for him to sleep in the tomb he will fall asleep without regret, giving back the work to him from whom he had received it as a momentary trust. Farel departed comforted, strengthened, and perhaps, for the first time, jealous of the traveler of 1536.

But death still tarried. The nineteenth of May, or the Friday before Whitsunday, brought round what were called the censures, which he had instituted. The clergy assembled on that day to admonish each other fraternally, and afterward partook together of a moderate repast. Calvin desired that this repast should be prepared at his house, and, when the hour was come, had himself carried into the room. "My brethren," he said, "I am come to see you for the last time, for, save this once, I shall never sit again at table." Then he offered prayer, but not without difficulty, and ate a little, "endeavoring," says Beza, "to enliven us." "But," continues he, "before the end of the supper he requested to be carried back to his chamber, which was close by, saying these words with as cheerful a face as he could: 'A partition between us need not prevent my union in spirit with you.'" He spoke truly. He sat no more at table, nor did he even rise again. The bed to which he returned was to be his death-bed.

The following days, his friend tells us, were nothing but a perpetual prayer. He often repeated these words of the psalmist: "O Lord, I was dumb; I opened not my mouth; because thou didst it;" or these words of Isaiah: "I did mourn as a dove." Gradually his "assiduous prayers and consolations" became "rather sighs than intelligible words, but they were accompanied by such an eye that the look alone testified with what faith and hope he was supplied." On the twenty-seventh of May "it seemed that he spoke more loudly and more easily, but it was the last effort of nature." Toward eight o'clock in the evening he expired, and "so it was that on that day, at the same moment, the sun set, and the greatest light on earth in the church of God was withdrawn to heaven."

And the day following, at two o'clock, an immense procession of citizens and strangers accompanied him to the cemetery. The church wept for her head, and the State for her chief citizen and her surest protector after God. His defects, which had already been effaced by his glory and his services, had completely disappeared in the pure halo with which death encircles the Christian's brow; and willingly would all those multitudes have graven upon a magnificent monument the testimony of their unreserved admiration, their deep gratitude and their profound veneration. But he had enjoined that everything should be done "after the customary fashion," and that customary fashion, which was observed almost down to the present day, was that no monument should be raised upon any grave, however illustrious the deceased might be. The earth alone, therefore, covered the remains of Calvin, and he had no other official epitaph than this half line inscribed by the side of his name in the consistorial register: "Went to God, Saturday, the 27th." Were his bones left longer in peace than those of the vulgar dead? None can say. At all events, for more than two centuries that grave has been dug over again and again, like the rest, by the sexton's spade; and for many years a small black stone has marked the spot where Calvin perhaps reposed.—Calvin—His Life, His Labors and His Writings.

Livingstone.

HE DIES ON HIS KNEES IN PRAYER.

Just what systematic working accomplishes is forcibly illustrated in the life of the lamented Livingstone, who at his death expressed the "faint hope" that his journals might survive. And they have survived and will survive! Not a single entry in Dr. Livingstone's journals has been lost from the time of his leaving Zanzibar, in 1866, until "his note-book dropped from his hand in the village of Ilala at the end of April, 1873." Part of the journals were sent by Dr. Livingstone to England, in 1872, by Mr. Stanley, sealed up and consigned to his daughter, Miss Agnes Livingstone. When all doubt as to his death had been removed, this was opened and found to contain "a considerable portion" of Dr. Livingstone's notes previous to the time of his meeting with Stanley. He had always been careful and diligent, and it was his custom to post up at moments of leisure in the large diary the daily jottings entered in metallic note-books which it was his custom to carry with him. But in the last three or four years of his life he had been unable, through toil, exhaustion and distressing illness, to carry out this rule. His note-books, besides, as well as his ink and pencils, ran out, and he had to resort to various shifts to supply the deficiency. At last "old newspapers, yellow with African damp, were sewn together, and his notes were written across the type with a substitute for ink made from the juice of a tree." It was only by persevering attention and the use of a "strong magnifying glass" that Mr. Waller, assisted by Miss Livingstone and Mr. Allington, were able to decipher these records, as they ultimately did, in a completely successful manner. There were two other assistants of Mr. Waller in his task who deserve particular mention. We refer to Chumah and Susi, the native attendants upon Livingstone in his last moments. The faithfulness and courage of these men entitle them to a place in one group with the master whom they so devotedly served. Africans have an intense horror of dead bodies, and it is often difficult to get them to carry corpses to the grave. But Chumah and Susi, and about half a dozen other followers of Livingstone, including two native girls, Ntoaeka and Halima, not only overcame this horror, but carried his remains from the "banks of the Molilamo," in the center of Africa, to Zanzibar. They were under no small temptation to bury the corpse where Dr. Livingstone had died, for the superstitious terror of the tribes on their way to the coast, all of which looked upon the dead as haunting and injuring the living, would, they knew, increase their difficulties in the journey. They never wavered, however, and no company of Europeans could have conducted the matter better than those unsophisticated creatures. Chumah and Susi were appointed leaders by consent of all, and were not only appointed, but obeyed. It is painful to add that when the men and women reached the end of their long, long way, they were "frowned out of notice," and not so much as offered a passage to the Island of Zanzibar from the mainland. David Livingstone died like a soldier in battle, "falling on the foeman's ground." His constitution was naturally so strong, and he had so often rallied when death seemed to have got hold upon him, that after he was unable to stand or to sit upon a donkey he still pressed on, carried in a litter. Through flooded country, under a "continual downpour," which "saturated every man with fever poison," on he went, clinging to the hope that he might yet reach "Lulapula," and solve the problem of the sources of the Nile. Among the last words he uttered was a question to Susi: "How many days to the Lulapula?" "I think it is three days, master." "O dear, dear!" said Livingstone, fearing that after all he would be too late. He then dozed off, his comatose condition being a presage of death, and at the same time obscuring his consciousness of its approach. Next morning, before cockcrow, he was found dead. There is reason to believe that at the very last he became vividly conscious, for he had risen to pray, he was on his knees, his hands clasped under his face. "Is it, then," asked Mr. Waller, "presumptuous to think that the long-used fervent prayer of the wanderer sped forth once more, that the constant supplication became more perfect in weakness, and that from his 'loneliness' David Livingstone, with a dying effort, yet again besought him for whom he labored to break down the oppression and woe of the land?" So died a Christian hero.—Christian at Work.

Family Religion.

The family lies at the foundation of both Church and State. If family religion thrive there will be prosperity in the church and permanent reformation in the nation. Family religion consists in three things: Family devotion, family government and family instruction. Neglect of any one of these may render attention to the others unprofitable. This truth should be duly weighed. It explains the cause of barrenness where much fruit was expected. Family devotion consists in three things:

1. In the personal piety of the head of the household, the husband, wife, or the surviving head, if a breach has been made. This is essential. If even the forms of devotion are observed, there must be piety in the head. If the father have no real care for his own soul he will not be anxious about the souls of his family. If he do not realize the need, and estimate the privilege of drawing nigh to God, the service will degenerate into a lifeless form, and the lawful cares and duties of life will interfere and set it aside. It is necessary to the success of the work. The father teaches by example more powerfully than by precept. If he be destitute of piety he will have little influence for good with those who are the constant witnesses of his conduct. Joshua sets this matter in a clear light. He places the personal covenant at the foundation: "As for me, I will serve the Lord." Though all men should forsake him, and forsake me, yet I will stand by the covenant—"I will serve the Lord." This should be an important question in forming the family relation. What is to be the character of the family which I am about to form? Shall God be honored, or shall his ordinances be despised and neglected?

2. A religious profession. Secret devotion is first in the list of religious duties: "Enter into thy closet." Every family and every member of the family should have a place for secret devotion. Experience teaches that our greatest advance in the Christian life is by the exercises of the closet. If we are negligent or formal here we will be feeble in all other duties. Nearly all the effectual prayers recorded were secret prayers. This is manifest in the case of Jacob, Hannah, David, Hezekiah, Paul, and the scene in Gethsemane. Notwithstanding this, family religion has public and social duties, which cannot be neglected. If we are on the side of Christ we should make it known. A profession is necessary.—Mark viii, 38. There should be membership in the Christian church and a corresponding practice. "Zacharias and Elizabeth walked in all the commandments blameless." Joshua is again an illustration: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." He was a public man, a man laden with national care and responsibility, yet his highest honor is to avouch the Lord to be his God, and before all the people he professes that he is as much under obligation to perform family duties as the humblest in the nation. If there be no profession of religion by the head of the household, no attendance upon sealing ordinances, or if the profession be not sustained by a consistent practice, family devotion will neither be fervent nor profitable.

3. The daily performance of family worship. This is the great family ordinance. The father assembles his household morning and evening to worship God; all unite in singing the praises of the God of Israel, their own God, in the sweet songs of inspiration; all unite in reading his word, that they may receive wisdom, comfort, direction and strength for every duty and trial; and, encouraged to draw near to God, the father, as the mouth of the household, confesses family sins, makes thankful acknowledgment of blessings received, rolls his burden of family sins on him who is the Hearer of prayer, and earnestly pleads for new covenant mercies which they need. This is the crowning excellency of family devotion. It has been highly esteemed and honored by the godly in all generations. Here we follow the footsteps of the flock. Adam, Noah, Abraham, Job, David, Joshua and Daniel are examples. And the awful imprecation of Jeremiah x, 28, "Pour out thy fury on the families that call not on thy name," shows the aggravated character of the sin of neglect. Indeed this devotional exercise has been considered so important by the church that in times of reformation the neglect of family worship would have been considered a practical renunciation of Christianity.—Reformed Presbyterian.

A SECOND WASHINGTON.

"Dear! dear! who broke my favorite egg?"
Cried Biddy Bantam to her daughter;
"Some lazy cur, too proud to beg,
Has mashed it—and he hadn't ought ter."

The child gave one pathetic craw,
Her rueful tears began to thicken;
She sobbed aloud: "I broke it, ma—
This little person is my chicken.

"Some albumen and lime I'll buy,
And make another one to match it;
Oh, ma! I cannot tell a lie—
I did it with my little hatch-it!"

Oatmeal vs. Beefsteak.

At the British Association, in the section of Biology, Prof. Redfern, in the course of a paper of a valuable character on the food of plants and animals, went on to point out that there were few social problems more important than how to acquaint the wife of the laborer or artisan, or even the wives and servants of the middle classes, how to expend a fair share of their income upon food to the greatest advantage, and how to prepare it without destroying its nutritive properties. A savory dish of meat was often prepared by mincing or cutting the meat into small and more or less cubical blocks. It was then stewed, or more frequently boiled. The outer surface of each little block had its albumen firmly coagulated, and the whole was converted into about as indigestible a mass as could well be imagined—the high-priced and highly nutritious meat having been destroyed for the purposes of nutrition, and the action of the digestive organs probably injured for some time to come; or good and valuable fresh meat was subjected to the process of salting, which first of all abstracted the juices of meat, and then hardened the fibers, so as to destroy or greatly deteriorate its digestibility. No doubt it was convenient to have a hardened, dry mass of meat, incapable of much change for months, and ready to be used for the purpose of filling the stomach and effectually satisfying the appetite; but these were not the purposes for which food was intended to be used. It ought to be capable of supplying the waste of the body, and of being easily converted into heat and motion. If it failed in these particulars it would also fail in nourishing the brain and aiding in the evolution of intelligence, and thus intellectual and bodily power was lost to the community and deterioration of race was promoted. His colleague, Dr. Gordon, said that he recollected running races, putting stones, wrestling and other athletic exercises being the favorite amusements of the sons and servants of the farmers in the County Down. Now nothing of the sort was heard of. These young men found a short day's work almost too much for them, and at the end of it they were to be seen lying about indulging in idle conversation. Coincidently with this they imagined themselves the equals of their masters and mistresses, and that the healthful oatmeal porridge and buttermilk twice daily, with beans and bacon for dinner, was too strong and coarse. They insisted on more delicate fare, and demanded a supply of tea and white bread. They were unconscious that persons in their position but a few years ago possessed amazing vigor and performed twice the amount of labor with greater ease, and when the day's work was over actually reveled in the display of surplus strength, which nothing but their better and more rational diet could have yielded them.—London Medical Record.

THE irrepressible missionary-school boy is always ready with his odd answers, sometimes showing himself, as in this instance, "a regular brick." The question was: "Do bats ever fly in the day-time?" "Yes, sir," said the lad. "Not so," said the teacher. "What kind of a bat did you ever see flying in the day-time?" "Lots of 'em, sir; they was brick-bats."

Religious Intelligence.

MR. W. W. CORCORAN, of Washington, has given $77,000 to the Church of the Ascension in that city.

CHICAGO has about forty German Protestant churches; among them are fourteen of the Lutheran confession.

IN 1728 there was but one synagogue in New York. Thirty-two years ago there were but four. Now there are twenty-six.

ARCHBISHOP MANNING is thought not to have earned the approval of the Roman curia by his English policy, and to have a dubious prospect of the cardinal's hat.

ACCORDING to the last United States census the number of religious organizations in the State of New York is 5,625; value of church property, $66,055,755; churches, 5,472.

"HOSPITAL SUNDAY" is as fully recognized in England as an institution as Thanksgiving day is with us. The amount realized this year on that day was more than £29,678, and it was collected from nearly thirteen hundred churches and chapels.

THE Right Rev. Mr. Vaughan, Roman Catholic Bishop of Salford, accompanied by several priests, sailed on the steamer Oceanic from Liverpool for New York, January 6. He comes to promote missions among the colored people of the Southern States.

AND still the Bible revision work progresses. The New Testament company of revisers recently assembled in London for their forty-fifth session, and proceeded with the second revision of the Gospel of St. Luke, commencing at the fourteenth chapter.

DR. TALMAGE, of Brooklyn, on a recent Sunday morning, referring to his discourse against the theater, remarked: "I have often aimed at the devil and missed him, but this time I think the shot has taken effect, judging by the way in which he roars and bellows."

SINCE the civil marriage law went into force in Germany, in October, less than one-fourth of the Protestant men and women married in Berlin have had a religious ceremony performed. The new law makes the civil marriage a necessity, and places it before the church service.

NEWARK, NEW JERSEY.—At last accounts one hundred and fifty persons had joined the new Reformed Episcopal church at Newark, New Jersey. Of these fifty were from Trinity, Dr. Nicholson's late church, and the remainder from other Protestant Episcopal churches in the city.

FATHER CHINIQUY, the French convert from Romanism, has been preaching in Putnam, Connecticut, and twenty families have left the Catholic Church. They have written to their priest that they have found Christ, the great High Priest, and will therefore need his services no longer.

THE Cambridge University Union has passed a resolution, by a large majority, declaring that by his recent pamphlet on the Vatican decrees Mr. Gladstone has strengthened the political position of Great Britain and the cause of civil and national independence, and deserves the thanks of the country.

THE English bishops are after their clergy. A rector with a salary of $10,000 a year having failed for $120,000, compromising with his sixty-four creditors at twenty-five per cent., has been requested by his bishop to resign. He has declined, and says that, having "great expectations," he will eventually pay up in full.

AT THE installation of a Universalist minister in San Francisco recently prayers were offered by a Unitarian, the Scriptures were read by a Jewish rabbi, an Independent Presbyterian offered the second prayer, the sermon was by a Congregationalist, and the charge to the pastor and addresses to the people by two Unitarian ministers.

THE venerable Dr. Schauffler, who retired from missionary labor in connection with the American Board several years since, has lately completed the translation of the Scriptures into Turkish, under the auspices of the American and Foreign Bible Society. His home is now with his son, Rev. Henry A. Schauffler, at Brunn, Austria.

KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE.—Since the war the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church, Knoxville, Tennessee, has built a mission church and paid off a debt of $2,500, besides giving liberally to missions and other worthy objects. The Sunday school connected with the church contributes about $800 annually for various purposes.

PHILADELPHIA.—The Methodist laymen of Philadelphia have provided a very fine building upon Arch street (No. 1018) for the Methodist book store, for society rooms, for a hall for preachers' meetings, an office for bishops, etc. It has cost $105,000, and has upon it an indebtedness of $40,000 only. It was opened with appropriate services two weeks since.

THE recent ridiculous discussion as to the use of "Rev." as a handle to a Dissenting minister's name when chiseled on a tombstone has received a quietus from the "head of the church," her majesty Queen Victoria. She has caused a letter to be written to the living Methodist Punshon, and it came to him directed to the Rev. William M. Punshon. What higher authority now can Bishop Wordsworth or his followers ask for?

THERE are obstacles in the way of mission work in some parts of Europe. Bishop Harris says that in Saxony the missionaries are allowed to preach at five villages, but nowhere else. If any one except members is present at the preaching the preacher is fined $50 for each one so present, whether it is a child, a woman or a man. This is expensive for the poor preacher. In some places, as in Wurtemberg, the preacher may preach, as that is considered merely a lecture, but he is fined if there is singing or praying; so they evade the law by the congregation singing and praying while the preacher stands outside, and then he enters and preaches.

JAPAN.—In no part of the foreign work is there a more promising field than in Japan. There are now some thirty-three Protestant missionaries there, representing the Congregational, Methodist Episcopal, Reformed, Baptist, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal and English Episcopal churches. The American Woman's Union Missionary Society has four ladies there, two of them physicians. This missionary force is doing a great preparatory work in that country. Native church members have the entire charge of a Bible service two evenings in a week, among them a recent convert from Vedo, of unusual talent and promise.

PRAYER IN FIJI.—At the late session of the Wesleyan Conference an incident was related by Rev. W. Dare that may well make Christians in this land blush. "I was taking tea," said Mr. Dare, "with the Wesleyan missionary and his wife in the lone Island of Kandavu, in the midst of 10,000 of these Fijians. As we were at tea the bell rang. The missionary said: 'That is the signal for the family worship. Now listen, you will hear the drums beat,' and immediately they began to echo to each other round the shores of that Southern sea. 'There are 10,000 people on this island,' said he, 'and I do not know of a single house in which there will not now be a family prayer.' Forty years ago the Fiji Islanders were cannibals; now the Wesleyans have 25,000 members meeting in class, 2,000 day schools, 900 catechumens, 2,000 Sunday schools, with 53,000 scholars, 63 native assistant missionaries, 1,000 local preachers, while upward of 100,000 persons sit under their ministry."

OLD CATHOLICS.—A special Times telegram says: "Father Hyacinthe, who has for the last three months held services in his house at Geneva, has, at the request of several families, commenced ministrations in the large hall of St. Peter's Casino. More than five hundred persons were present on Sunday at the opening of this Christian Catholic church. Father Hyacinthe does not insist as a principle on the separation of Church and State, but thinks it is the only means, under existing circumstances, of securing the independence and self-respect of individual consciences and of the church. Then he adheres to the programme of the Catholics who have refused to bow to the pseudo Council of the Vatican, and have demanded urgent reforms of discipline. Though at present separated from the Swiss Old Catholic Church, he promises obedience to the future Bishop, if, as he has no doubt, that Bishop, who is truly Christian and truly Catholic, is neither a political tool nor an accomplice of Free Thinkers."

LIBERTY OF PUBLIC WORSHIP.—We give the following from the Paris correspondence (December 14) of the London Guardian: "One act of the National Assembly, which I have omitted to mention, must not be forgotten. Encouraged by the feeling displayed in favor of liberty of instruction, M. de Pressense brought forward once more his often-repeated motion in favor of liberty of conscience, and carried by a large majority a proposition for abolishing, as regards religious assemblies, the necessity of a previous authorization. Hitherto all meetings, even for religious purposes, were subject to the regulations of the police, which prohibit any assemblage of more than twenty persons without leave. M. de Pressense insisted that liberty of conscience was a farce without the privilege being attached to it of liberty of public worship as well; quoting with great effect in support of his demand the opinions of M. de Broglie, M. de Tocqueville, the Comte de Montalembert, the Pere Lacordaire, and other Liberal Catholics. The Extreme Legitimist Right murmured a good deal, and the minister of public worship made his reserves as to the details of the measure in committee, but the Assembly sanctioned a second reading by as large a majority as that in favor of free universities."

THE Archbishop of Cologne has again been fined 30,000 thalers for disobedience to the ecclesiastical laws, and will probably be imprisoned again before many days. A letter from Bonn in the Journal de Geneve expresses the opinion that the Old Catholic movement has definitely passed the formative period. The reform now counts 200,000 communicants, representing 200 parishes; and for these there are as yet only 60 to 80 priests. This shows that the people, as in the days of Luther, are more ready for reform than the clergy. This correspondent says that the issue most often found between the German government and the Ultramontane bishops arises from the refusal of the bishops to notify the government of the names of parish priests appointed by them to vacancies. In Austria, in Switzerland and in France the bishops readily comply with this condition. It is only in Germany that they refuse. Bishop Reinkens appointed a man the other day who was not a citizen of the empire. On receiving the notification of this appointment, the authorities pointed out this fact, and requested that the man be naturalized before he was admitted to the German Catholic Church. Inasmuch as the State pays the salaries of these priests, it seems rational that it should have some knowledge of their character and standing. At the beginning it seemed as if Munich would be the headquarters of the Old Catholics, inasmuch as Dollinger, Heber, Friedrich and others reside there; but Bonn has now clearly established its claim to this distinction. Bishop Reinkens lives there, also Profs. Knoodt and Reusch. The latter has lately been made rector of the University. The Old Catholics of Bonn meet in the Protestant church, the use of which has been readily granted them. The congregations are always extremely good, due perhaps to the fact that the preachers confine themselves almost entirely to the gospel, without admixture of polemics, controversy or philosophy. A new church has just been formed and recognized at Crefeld.—Independent.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. HUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist, Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE has been ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keepers, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local; and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

ATTENTION, COMPANY!—The clerk in the ADVOCATE office complains that subscribers and agents ordering a change of postoffice frequently neglect to give the office from which the change is to be made. The way in which our books are kept require that both should be given—the office from which and that to which the paper is to be changed. Will our friends be careful to remember and attend to this very important matter?

Prayer for Ministers.

In the public prayer meeting, and on occasions where the ministers are present, the prayer usually embraces them with much emphasis, and sometimes in rather excessive measure. But at the family gathering and in secret do our people pray for their preachers as much as they ought? Paul in his epistles several times asks for the prayers of the church for himself, and also for his co-laborers in the ministry, usually connecting the request with the reason upon which it is based. After exhorting the Ephesians, "Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance, and supplication for all saints," he adds, "and for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel." In the last chapter of the First Epistle to the Thessalonians is this brief reference to himself: "Brethren, pray for us." Among the last things in the Second Epistle to the Thessalonians is this more ample statement of his desire: "Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified, even as it is with you, and that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men."

Apart from his peculiar work the preacher has no more claim upon the prayers of the church than any other member in it. It is because of his relation to the proclamation of the gospel, and to the ordained means of spreading the truth and saving souls, that he may be permitted to crave a certain eminence and distinction in the intercessions of his brethren. The words of the apostle go beyond himself and embrace the ministry as a class. Once it is for me, but twice he says pray for us. Without referring to other Scriptures, we have here inspired authority from the pen of one who felt most deeply the need of special prayer. This object of prayer is taken out of the mass which "all prayer and supplication" include, and is set before us as something of unusual importance, and demanding a notice and an interest peculiar to itself. The heart of every earnest preacher responds to the apostle's urgent request, and feels profoundly the grounds on which it rests. He sees the fearful responsibility of standing amidst dying men to unfold "the mystery of the gospel," and to expound and apply the message of salvation to them that perish. He realizes the need of all that can be helpful to qualify him for the work. Besides his own communion with God, he wants everything that the faith of others can contribute to enable him to meet the account which he must render.

There is a confessed dependence of the preacher upon the prayers of believers. Whatever he may do without them, he can do much more if he has them. The word of the Lord will have a freer course and be more abundantly glorified, and there will be a better and a bolder and a more convincing utterance. It is one of the ways in which the hearer can be most helpful to the preacher. But in a wider range prayer should be made for the ministry as a class. Not alone for those who are brought into personal relations to us as our pastors, but for our missionaries abroad, for our Bishops, for those who sustain a merely connectional relation, and for the Christian ministry in the universal church. While we only indicate this enlarged scope which is to be given to the subject, the duty should not be divested of the more personal application to those whose ministrations are near to ourselves. Let every Christian pray for his own preacher, and not for him only, but for him as perhaps he cannot pray for those who are removed from his individual acquaintance. And we would insist that the preacher be specially remembered in secret prayer. We have feared sometimes that the most of the praying for ministers is done in public, where it seems to come in as a custom, and often in a patronizing and complimentary way. How much do you pray in private for your pastor? How much silent intercession goes up for him while listening to the Sunday morning sermon? A great deal, it is to be hoped, and yet there may be remissness and negligence. In other ways we may sustain the preacher, encourage and strengthen him, but we may have failed to hold up his hands in this most essential way of all.

Besides the benefits to the preacher from the direct and immediate answer to prayer, there are other benefits of great magnitude. Those who pray for their preacher will be in their places to pray, if for nothing else. However they may feel that they can do without the lecture or the sermon, they will reflect that the preacher needs their presence and their prayers. They can help him if he cannot edify them. Then prayer is the best preparation for profitable hearing. The ground is so good that the most indifferent sower will not sow in vain. Devout souls, moistened, mellowed and fertilized by silent and closet prayer for the preacher, grow and thrive under the word as no others do, and their prayers return upon themselves in showers of blessings at every service. The prayerful hearer will not be censorious. Faultfinding will be far from him. His spiritual digestion will be healthful, and he will be so enlisted for the man for whom he prays that the preacher will appear to him in a new and most favorable light. All ultra criticism will be silenced, prejudices will be overcome, and love and sympathy will replace indifference. The preaching will be better for his prayers, and he will be in a better condition to profit by it.

The pastor feels the difference intuitively between a praying and a prayerless people, and a preacher seldom rises in the pulpit without some consciousness as to the prayers that are withheld or offered up for him. The liberty and unction of the sermon are a "prayer gauge" of considerable accuracy. They reveal the closet and heart-work that has been done during the week by the people, almost as much as that which has been done by the preacher. It is one of the means to a revival, because it fits the people for it, and because through the preaching souls are more likely to be awakened and converted. The end, in the apostle's mind, was clear and simple: "That utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mysteries of the gospel;" and again: "That the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified." So much did he count on the efficacy of prayer for himself that he says to the Corinthians while recounting his troubles and sufferings: "Ye also helping together by prayer for us, that for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf." Again, writing to the Philippians about his conflicts with contentious and envious teachers, and other afflictions, he says: "For I know that this shall turn to my salvation through your prayer, and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ." Paul evidently felt the prayers of these devoted disciples in his distant prison at Rome, and in the dangers and sufferings he encountered. There was in him this sense of the "helping together by prayer," and the assurance that good would come out of his trials "through your prayer."

Warrant enough there is for giving prominence to this duty of special prayer for ministers. Even the greatest of inspired preachers—one who might have been raised above such dependence if any could be—yearns for it, and in the hours of severest trial leans upon it as a solace and as an encouragement to his faith. We would recall the church to this often-neglected duty. If they wish for refreshings from God, and desire that the gospel may have free course, let them pray for the preachers. In secret, and when they sit in their pews, let the prayer go up for them who are appointed to declare the whole counsel of God. It is a means ordained of God to help the minister, and through him to spread and glorify the word of salvation.

The Pastor's Work.

MR. EDITOR: We got home from Alexandria, the site of our Conference, on Wednesday, the thirteenth instant, sick with cold; but good nursing, a little medicine and a week's rest puts us on foot again. The session, in fact, was full of more than ordinary interest; but to us it appears almost like a dream; perhaps it was because we were detained by the way and got there a day after the Conference had been in session. And then the Sabbath, a day ordinarily of the greatest interest at a Conference, was so cold that we sat by the fire all day; and then ten minutes after the Conference adjourned we were on the boat and on our way home.

In some respects our impressions of Conference life have very much changed during the last twenty-five or thirty years. It used to be that from one Conference to another seemed to be a very, very long time; but of late it seems to be rather an insignificant period. This perhaps is more or less common to all as they advance in life. But the work to be done by the pastor, instead of decreasing, as the time apparently does, increases in magnitude and importance.

How vast and varied is the work of the faithful pastor! First, he must preach, and this would not be so much if he could use to purpose old and stereotyped sermons; but these soon become stale to himself and worse than stale to his hearers; so that if he uses them at all he must work them up and over until they become so incorporated with his mind and heart as to come forth fresh and warm, and awaken like sentiments and feelings in the minds and hearts of his hearers. Secondly, he must visit his flock. They may be scattered over a space of forty, fifty or sixty miles, but they must be seen at their houses. It is not one of the least tasks of the pastor to visit his people. He is not only to see them, but he is to see them as their pastor—as the one who cares for their souls. What pastor has not been blamed for being delinquent in this respect, and in consequence of which his support has been withheld? Another interest committed to the pastor's care is to see that suitable houses of worship are provided, and that parsonages be built and furnished. These are an absolute necessity to give permanence and efficiency to the work. Perhaps there is not to-day a circuit in north Louisiana which does not need a new church, or repairs on some one unfinished. The pastor is the only one found to take the lead in this work. He will always find good men and true who will stand by him through thick and thin; but he must take the lead and always be found in the front rank. There is a radical defect in nearly all of our country churches; they are too large, unfinished, and without stoves; consequently one-third of the year, say from December till April, our Sunday schools are suspended, and our congregations fall off at least two-thirds in number. Our houses of worship are so uncomfortable that the people will not, they cannot attend. This evil must be remedied by building smaller churches, where new ones are to be built, and finishing them, and putting stoves in them. Then our Sunday schools and congregations can be as comfortable in winter as in summer; and this would supersede the necessity of this everlasting re-organizing of Sunday schools and churches. The parsonage question is still more difficult, owing to the changes which necessarily occur in our circuits from year to year; but they are equally important to the permanence of the work. Many a good work is poorly supplied with preaching because the preacher has no suitable home to live in, and many a good preacher is crippled in his efforts to do good all the year from the same cause. Now almost any circuit has the ability to secure and furnish a parsonage, if the pastor can succeed in enlisting his people—not one in ten, but all his people—in the work. If he has the ability to move his people to this point he will succeed. A good parsonage will obviate half the expense and more than half the trouble of supporting the pastor.

Another interest committed to the pastor is the cause of education. Every correct standard of education must be looked for at the hands of Christian men and women. Denominational schools must henceforth do the work of educating the generations to come. As everything depends upon the proper culture of the heart and head of the rising generation, it becomes an important part of the pastor's work, and one which in a greater or less degree will insure his success. More anon. J. P.

MANSFIELD, Louisiana.

Sound Views.

It is refreshing to read such expressions of good sense and right-mindedness as the following, which we find in Appleton's Journal of January 23. This sterling publication tells the truth, and nothing but the truth, in this allusion to Louisiana affairs, and the recent outrage of Grant and Sheridan:

The appearance of Federal troops in the legislative chamber of Louisiana has excited an indignation throughout the country that is in no wise too marked for the occasion. It is greatly to be regretted, however, that a popular demonstration was impossible until the government troops had committed a distinct act of violence. The time for the people to have spoken in this matter of Federal interposition in State affairs was when the central government first crossed the bounds set by the constitution and the traditions of the country. Usurpation is an evil that should be confronted at the first indication of its appearance, at the slightest manifestation it may make. New York has held its popular indignation meeting, and the press has been nearly united in its condemnation; but we should have shown more wisdom and forethought had the press spoken as firmly and the people resisted as spiritedly when Congress thought fit to pass a law pertaining to local elections, and a United States marshal appeared at our polls. We have been encouraging the spirit of centralization; we have applauded laws passed for the advantage of party, regardless of their significance; we have sustained the whole progress of events of which this Louisiana outrage is the legitimate result; and we shall fail to accomplish any permanent good unless we continue the agitation now begun until the Federal government recognizes fully the constitutional limits of its authority, and returns to that attitude toward the States which it maintained in the earlier period of our history. A mere check to the advancing tide of centralization is not enough. The limits of Federal authority should be reasserted, the line of demarkation between local and central government redrawn; and conservative men everywhere should unite for the education of a public sentiment designed to watch the slightest infraction of a principle under which alone the States can maintain their independence.

The following extract touching the root of our troubles in the South is so just and pertinent that we could wish it to reach the consciences and understandings of all in the North who have been so far misled as to indorse the ruinous policy of the politicians. The Journal says:

The Rev. Dr. Thompson, long known as the pastor of the Tabernacle, New York, and distinguished among other things for his zeal in the cause of abolitionism, gave an address recently at Glasgow, before the Society for the Promotion of Social Science, on "The Question of Races." The reverend gentleman discussed the condition of the negro race at the South, and declared that he thought it would have been a wise policy, and greatly to the advantage of the Southern States, if a standard of education, intelligence and character had been fixed as a qualification for the voter, without regard to color—a standard which, being attainable by all, would be unjust to none. Dr. Thompson's utterance comes somewhat too late. One can but reflect how much evil would have been averted had the clause to which Dr. Thompson belongs recognized and acted upon the principle now advocated, when thoughtful men of a more conservative character were urging it upon them. What were the facts? The Republican leaders, in searching for means whereby the great Democratic majorities in New York city might be reduced, had advocated an educational test as certain to exclude the ignorant foreign hordes from the polls. But the moment an opportunity came for securing for their own party a great, ignorant vote, their former principles were abandoned at once. Entire justice would have been rendered the Southern negro by an impartial, rather than a universal suffrage—that is, by a test like reading and writing, which, operating on both races alike, would have been unjust to neither, and at the same time have brought the ignorant negro masses into the field as a political force so gradually as to have greatly ameliorated the shock of the political change. That seemed to us the wiser course at the time; but there can be no doubt that the Republican leaders believed it necessary to secure beyond question the perpetuation of the power of the party; they were determined to have votes; and so, regardless of prudence or the good of the South, hastily transformed a mob of utterly ignorant slaves into enfranchised citizens. And now comes an influential member of that party regretting the indiscretion of the act. The politicians, however, remain unconvinced. Naturally. Their sole purpose was to strengthen their party; they did strengthen it, for the time being at least; and, in view of this attainment, what behooves the prostration of the Southern people, the negro domination, with all its mischiefs—the ruin and suffering and impoverishment that have followed? The cry of the politician is: "Give us power, if the heavens fall!"

Dr. Pierce.

In a letter from this venerable minister to the North Georgia Conference, published in the Southern Christian Advocate, he speaks of his work of preaching in the most pleasing manner, and says of the remarkable preservation of his mental powers:

"On account of my Sunshine home, my mind continues, in as far as my consciousness goes, to work as well and as readily as in any period of my life. This is wonderful, anyhow. It is a great mercy that God should so construct us that this mysterious mechanism, called mind, should be free to work on, in its native vigor, after the outward man is evidently perishing. It is conclusive proof of an inward man, that may be renewed day by day. As I believe I told you in Atlanta, so I still say to you all: There is no natural necessity why the mind should wane into second childhood because the mortal scaffolding of muscle and bones within which this immaterial immortality is inclosed in its developing age must dwindle back to its dust again. No, verily, brethren, there is no reason why the mind should die out, or even die down, while the brain remains in a natural state. Do not prepare for a driveling old age by a false assumption that it must come. I tell you it is not a natural necessity. Live temperately, take rest naturally and regularly, apply your mental elaborations to one main vein of thinking, for which theology offers the richest and best supply of mental fare ever provided for its entertainment. There is, in its inherent resources, a mind-vitalizing energy which provides against mental decay. I am now three-quarters into my ninetieth year, and I am not conscious of any change in this my noblest nature. My animal springs run lower, but my mental tides ebb and flow upon the same plane. The only difference I perceive is that the ripe fruits of sound mental culture grow richer from the enriched soil of a well-kept mind."

From Mexico.

Two young Mexicans arrived in New Orleans from the City of Mexico on Wednesday, the twenty-seventh of January. They came direct by the steamer City of Havana from Vera Cruz, and go to Emory College, Oxford, Georgia, to be educated. They are sent hither by the superintendent of our Mexican mission, Bro. Daves, to be prepared for the work of the ministry in their native land. Francisco Diaz Villegas is twenty-one years old, and has been preaching as a licentiate for more than two years. Juan Pardo is twenty-one years and seven months old, but has not yet been licensed to preach. They are both very intelligent in appearance and agreeable in manners. In person they are of medium height, plump and brown as a berry, and with hair dark and glossy as the raven's wing. Their arrival is the beginning of a very important movement for the advancement of our work in Mexico. In a few years, we have no doubt, the results will vindicate the wisdom of Bishop Keener and Bro. Daves in the steps which they have taken.

An Urgent Call.

The secretaries of the Boards of Missions of the following Conferences will please forward, without delay, a copy of their reports to the last session of their respective Conferences, viz: Western Virginia, Holston, Florida, North Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisville, St. Louis, West St. Louis, Missouri, Indian Mission, Arkansas, Trinity, East Texas, Texas, Northwest Texas, Western Illinois, the German work in Louisiana and Virginia.

I wish the number of missions, number of members, number received during the year, number and value of churches and parsonages, number of baptisms—infants and adults—number of Sunday schools and scholars. Other items of interest may be added. Brethren, send on these reports without further delay.

J. B. McFERRIN, Sec.

BISHOP MARVIN, says the Nashville Christian Advocate of January 30, has been laboring day and night with great zeal and energy—this week and last—in McKendree church. Large congregations attend upon his ministry, and great good must be the result. His discourse to the children of the Sunday schools on Sunday afternoon was very impressive, and crowds of the young people evinced a determination to give their hearts to the Savior. After Sunday, January 31, the Bishop expects to leave Nashville, as he has appointments next week in Louisville. Verily, he is no unpreaching prelate.

MONEY RECEIVED.—Mr. Sylvester Steele, treasurer of the Methodist Episcopal Church South in Montevallo, Alabama, states that he has received for the rebuilding of the church, from B. Travis, $10; Mrs. Mary Travis, $10; G. Hawkins, $1—all from Havana, Alabama.

Urgent Appeal to Southern Methodists.

DEAR BRETHREN: This appeal is to you. Stop long enough to read and consider. We were present at the meeting of the Board of Missions in Nashville, January 27. Facts were developed there extremely painful to every lover of Christ and his church among us.

All the Conferences have been held but one. All the treasurers of the Annual Conference Boards have reported except one or two. We therefore knew the exact state of our finances. After paying what is already due to our devoted missionaries for services rendered the last Conference year, the board will scarcely have money enough in the treasury to pay them for the first quarter of the present year.

What shall be done for our missionaries? Must they suffer when we have plenty? Must they quit the field? Must the work be suspended? Shall the poor and the heathen be allowed to perish for want of the bread of life?

We appeal to our presiding elders. At your next quarterly meetings make the support of missions the live question of your Quarterly Conferences. It is the duty of your preachers to lift two collections for missions during the year—one for foreign and another for domestic missions. Now if we were not sorely pressed for money to prevent our brethren on missions from actual suffering it would even then be the best policy—the best financiering—to take one of these collections in the early part of the Conference year.

We appeal to every preacher in charge. Put yourself in the place of one of these brethren for whom we plead. Suppose you were certain only of one-quarter of your salary, and had to wait to an indefinite period for your second, third and fourth. You would then feel exactly as our missionaries must feel with these facts now before them. We urge you, therefore, to present this subject to your people the first clear Sunday when most of them are present. If you can do no better, read this appeal to them, and comment and enlarge upon it. In our cities and large towns the winter is the very best season to attend to every kind of church work, and especially is it the best time to raise money. This every pastor knows. Half the people are away in the summer.

Our missionary secretaries published an Appeal for Missions in the Christian Advocate of January 16. It was read by one of our prompt young preachers on Saturday. On Monday he was ready to pay the full amount of his assessment into the hands of the treasurer. There are hundreds of pastors in our church who have wealthier congregations than he.

We appeal to our people. You profess to be the heirs of salvation—the great salvation purchased by the precious blood of Christ. Is not the contribution of five, ten, twenty or even one hundred dollars to the cause of missions, within the month of February, simply a question of willingness, and not a question of ability? Answer to an enlightened conscience, and you will act at once.

Think of the self-sacrificing missionary in danger of being exposed almost to nakedness and hunger—think of the ignorant and destitute and heathen, who must have the gospel—imagine yourselves in their situation, and then remember the Golden Rule, and we do not fear the result. What should hinder the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom, or tarnish the honor of our church, when the gold rightfully belongs to the Lord?

Send your collections, as soon as taken, to our treasurer, the Rev. A. H. Redford, D. D., Nashville, Tennessee.

E. M. MARVIN,
ROBT. A. YOUNG,
JOHN S. BRANSFORD.

THE SPANISH DISCIPLINE.—We have received from Bishop Keener an interesting brochure, being the proof-sheets of a work entitled "Doctrinas y Disciplina de la Yglesia Metodista Episcopal del Sur." It is of the size of our Discipline, and numbers 326 pages. We may have more to say about it in the future. The Bishop writes: "It is the Discipline of 1870—that being the one I had with me a year ago when in the City of Mexico, where this work was mainly accomplished. The translator was Mr. Gibbon, of Mexico, a graduate of Oxford, England, and a native of the City of Mexico; but the proof-sheets, and the whole of 'El Rubrico,' passed through the hands of Mrs. A. I. Waugh, of New Orleans, a lady who has spent many years in the Island of Cuba, and is highly accomplished in the Spanish and other modern languages. To her accurate knowledge of both English and Spanish we are indebted for many important corrections and the finishing touches. You will notice that both the preface and address of the last Discipline are wanting. The delay of getting this work through the press, which has been unavoidable, and the immediate need we have for it, will postpone these additions until a future time."—Nashville Christian Advocate.

THE Baltimore Christian Advocate of January 16 says: "The will of Miss Sarah L. Wilkins bequeaths to the Methodist Episcopal Church South, for the benefit of the poor and missions of that church, at the death of her sister, Asah G. Wilkins, one-half of the lots, with the buildings thereon, on Monument and Eutaw streets, and one-half of the lots and improvements on Eutaw square, above Delphin street. The Methodist Episcopal Church South is made residuary legatee. One thousand dollars is left to Wilhelmina Heronymus, and at her death, without children, to the Bible Society of Baltimore. She bequeaths absolutely $200 each to the House of Refuge, Female Orphan Asylum, Home of the Friendless, Aged Woman's Home, and Blind Asylum."

OF Mr. Gladstone's Vatican pamphlet over seventy-eight thousand have been sold.

Mr. Gladstone's Retirement.

One of the most interesting items in the foreign intelligence of the last week has been the announcement of the formal retirement of Mr. Gladstone from the leadership of the Liberal party, which he has held with such signal ability and, until quite recently, with such distinguished success. His resignation is a surprise to most of his friends and supporters, and will doubtless have a chilling influence upon what measure of ardor was left in the party since their disastrous defeat in the late Parliamentary election. In a letter to Earl Granville Mr. Gladstone gives his reasons for retiring as follows:

"This retirement is dictated by personal views regarding the method of spending the closing years of my life. My conduct in Parliament will continue to be governed on the same principles as hitherto, and arrangements for the treatment of general business, and to advance the convenience of the Liberal party, will have my cordial support."

It is not anticipated that a successor to Mr. Gladstone will be formally announced until the reopening of Parliament, when a general meeting of the party will be held. The names of the Marquis of Hartington and Sir William Harcourt are mentioned, as well as that of Right Hon. W. E. Forster, in connection with the leadership, but the indications are strong that Mr. Forster will be chosen. Mr. Gladstone's friends express the decided opinion that since he has retired from the position he has held in the party he ought now to resign his seat in Parliament.

In connection with this announcement a dispatch says: "Mr. Gladstone has written an article on the speeches of Pope Pius the Ninth for the Quarterly Review, which sketches the history of the Pope's reign, points out the increased subserviency of the Roman Catholic clergy, and concludes that the mass of the British nation now repudiates the pretensions of the papacy more eagerly and resolutely than it has done for many generations. The late premier may still do important service to the cause of truth and human liberty by the use of his pen."—New York Observer.

Books and Periodicals.

MUSINGS AND MEMORIES is a collection of anecdotes and reflections of a religious character on various subjects, and published by the Tract Association of Friends, Philadelphia. The work is a large 12mo. and very entertaining. Preachers who have the memory to retain and the art to tell anecdotes will be able to make good use of this book.

THE American Garden is a monthly illustrated journal, devoted to garden art. Published at Brooklyn, New York. Price, $2 per annum. We have received the January number.

WE HAVE received from the publisher, Mr. George W. Childs, the Public Ledger Almanac for 1875.

SPIRIT-SEEING.—The Tribune, in an article on Spiritualism, suggested by Robert Dale Owen's confession of having been made the dupe of some impostors, has the following sensible remarks:

"There are thousands of people whose love of the marvelous is not counterbalanced by any sound notions of scientific possibility or moral probability, who rarely go to church or to the theater, and to whom a hushed seance in the dark, with cheap music and clasped hands, is a delightful entertainment. There is no way of preventing these people from enjoying themselves in their own way. It is of no use to talk of bad taste or absurdity to those incapable of perceiving either, or to discuss probabilities with those who admit no laws and no axioms which do not square with their own ill-regulated fancies. A man who is too strong-minded to believe in Christianity, and who yet finds no difficulty in believing that spirits come out of a closet and dance breakdowns on a platform, and spin musquito netting out of the air, is scarcely a promising subject for argument. To say he disbelieves the Bible because he cannot understand it, and believes in Katie King because he has seen her, simply shows that he is as vain of the feebleness of his understanding as he is of the blindness of his eyes."

PRESBYTERIAL UNION, says the Christian at Work, progresses slowly at best; at least the Baltimore conference between the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Churches has adjourned without having accomplished the object which brought them together. It is understood that the committee on the part of the Southern Church would have been satisfied with a recommendation, by their brethren of the other committee, that the Northern Church simply, and in express terms, disapprove of the accusations of schism, heresy, blasphemy, etc., which the Northern Assembly had made against the Southern Presbyterians during the period between 1861 and 1867. Had the Northern committee consented to make this recommendation to their Assembly there can be no question that fraternal correspondence would have ensued. In this proposition, however, the committee from the Assembly North refused to acquiesce, on the ground that they are debarred, by the terms of union between the late Old School and New School bodies, from reviewing or disturbing what had been said or done by anybody prior to their reunion in 1874.

A WARM, blundering man often does more for the world than a frigid wise man. One who gets a habit of inquiring about properties and expediencies and occasions, often spends his whole life without doing anything to purpose.

THE chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex one, and in prudently cultivating an undergrowth of small pleasures, since very few great ones are let on long leases.

INDIA.—The population of India, which many persons, previous to the last census being taken, believed to be less than was popularly reported, turns out to be greater by some forty millions than the highest estimate which had previously gained currency. Many years ago the Rev. W. Arthur expressed his conviction that the population of India was underrated, and his views were met, by men who professed to know, with a polite smile. The actual enumeration of the people has more than confirmed his views; and Victoria is now known to reign over more than two hundred millions of people in the East.

MARRIED.

GRAMLING—COLLINS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Collins, in Mayersville, Mississippi, at six o'clock P. M., January 14, 1875, by Rev. T. B. Walden, Mr. James T. Gramling to Miss Martha J. Collins, all of Issaquena county, Mississippi.

PHILLIPS—BLACKSHEAR.—January 20, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. R. S. Trippett, Mr. James H. Phillips to Miss Nannie K. Blackshear, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

CLARK—LEVY.—January 21, 1875, in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Opelousas, by Rev. R. S. Trippett, Mr. Arthur F. Clark to Miss Mary E. Levy.

STEEN—HAMPTON.—December 10, 1874, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Silas Wright Steen to Miss Lucy S. Hampton, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

MILTON—HAMPTON.—At the same time and place, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, Mr. William N. Milton to Miss Mary Lou. Hampton, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

KILBY—GREEN.—December 17, 1874, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Jesse Kilby to Miss Adeline Green, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

YOUNG—CHILDS.—December 23, 1874, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. William Young to Miss Emiline Childs, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

LYONS—DUSON.—December 20, 1874, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, at the residence of Mr. W. W. Burton, Mr. Burns Lyons to Miss Mary Ann Duson, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

CLARK—RUSON.—At the same time and place, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, Mr. Raymond T. Clark to Miss Laura L. Duson, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

LYONS—HARMON.—December 29, 1874, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, at the residence of the bride's father Mr. Eldridge W. Lyons to Miss Alice P. Harmon, all of St. Landry parish, Louisiana.

Publisher's Department.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS ON REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE.—The establishment of Messrs. A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal street, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street, is one of the largest and best-stocked depots of foreign and domestic hardware that we have ever seen. The partners who conduct the business of the firm have had many years' experience in providing hardware and utensils for the Southern and Southwestern trade. Planters, manufacturers, builders, dealers in cutlery, gardeners, and all needing hardware of any kind, will do well to call at their establishment. Mr. Baldwin, as a financier and sagacious manager of business, has but few equals. Mr. C. Eustis is a live and active partner, and knows how to meet the wants and views of customers. See advertisement.

DRY GOODS.—Country Orders.—The indomitable energy, enterprise and liberal prices of Messrs. Braselman & Adams, at 586 and 588 Magazine street, have attracted a large amount of custom, and their establishment has steadily grown in spite of financial depression. They deserve to be rewarded for their vigorous and resolute perseverance, and the amount of custom flowing in that direction shows the good judgment evinced in the rapid handling of goods at moderate profits. Examine their advertisement, in another column, with care.

CARRIAGE MANUFACTORY.—W. C. Clark, successor to A. Loez, 134 Rampart street, can make as good and as fine a carriage as any one need wish to ride in, and can renovate and repair carriages which are worn and dilapidated, so that they are as fresh and new in appearance as if just from a Northern manufactory. He has just added to his stock three fine hearses, also a lot of fine carriages from Cunningham & Sons', of Rochester. See advertisement.

WE CALL the attention of sufferers to Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, advertised elsewhere. Mr. Laplace has long enjoyed a reputation as one of the first chemists of the country, and those who read his advertisement may judge for themselves.

DENTISTRY IN ALL ITS BRANCHES. Dr. James S. Knapp, D. D. S., No. 15 Baronne street, has had a large experience in the practice of his profession, and has an enviable reputation as an accomplished and skillful practitioner. See advertisement.

LEVY BROS.' advertisement will be found interesting to purchasers of dry goods.

Extraordinary Opportunity for the Relief of the Afflicted.

The surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana, have finally yielded to the many urgent appeals to visit the South. Three or more of the surgeons will be at the ST. CHARLES HOTEL, NEW ORLEANS, LA., FEB. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 AND 16, 1875.

They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change, fit and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Catarrh, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip, they will not make another; therefore all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to Indianapolis, must do so at this time. No cases will be undertaken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the institution is entirely responsible, and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, curing thousands annually. Remember the time and place, and come early. ☞ Send to the Institute for circular.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Jan. 30, 1875.

A—A S Andrews $2 60, William Avery, Edwin Allen two letters, J H Ashley, David Ayers, William F Alexander, American Sunday School Union two letters, J O Andrew, American Tract Society.

B—J K Barnett, Ritchie J Briggs, W E Ballard, J H Butler & Co, James Bowman $2 25, W C Black, R B G Boles, A M Brown, A M Barrington $1.25, Mrs Nannie Battle, J G Bahin, W W Brooks, F Theo Barnes, Barnes & Wilkinson, James Barter $5, Mrs Dillard Barrow $1, T B Bucklagham, J Lane Borden $13.45.

C—Robert Carter & Bros, Beverly Corradine, John Church & Co, Isaac M Cayington $1, Mrs A M Chapman, I N B Clark, James C Crawford $2.50, Thomas R Curtis, L C Calhoun, James M Clark, T C Clark $1, Gray A Chandler, Mrs John Cocke $5, S H Cooper, Clark, Gillum & Co.

D—Dodd & Mead two letters, R B Denning, L W DeTamm, M Du Bose, J W Du Bois $2.50, Charles H Dilson & Co, J J Davis, R O Davis, S W Douglass $20, T B S DeGraffenried $2.

E—D G W Ellis, W O Elder, T C Evans two letters $30, J B Elliott.

F—E N Freshman three letters.

G—John G Ouice 50 cents, H S Gunn $1, William W Gamble, W W Graham, G M Gilmore, Ed T Goodwin $6, H M Granade $1, L R Griffith 50 cents, H Gwinner & Bro $17.85, J A Grant $2, Gould & Lincoln.

H—Hitchcock & Walden, T W Hand, E J Hale & Son, Mrs J T Hall, A L Harper, Mrs W S Hale 25 cents, John Howard, James K Hamblen $6, D T Head $1.35, William Hampton $10, Miss Mary Hill, J D Hudson 13 cents, William Hart, Holloman Bros, M R Hollister $3, E Hamilton, Thomas B Holloman $1, Charles L Harris $1 25, George C Howze $2, Mrs M E Hayne $1.50, P Howard $1.45.

I—Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.

J—Johnson & McGilvary $2, Mrs Julia K Jayne, J W Jones.

K—Kilgore & Ollett $49, W B King $2.75, L Kendall $6, W P Kimball.

L—R B Long Jr two letters $2.50, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham two letters, Miss Lizzie Lewis $2.50, Miss Eliza M Lynn $2.50.

M—T Moody, Morgan Envelope Company, E A Mixon $5, John H McLean, I Z T Morris, P H Muss $2.50, W A Montgomery, Manley & Co, J M Morehead, McK F McCook $1, Isaac Mundon 50 cents, E H Mounger $2.50, E H McKinstry, Joseph W Medlock, W H May $25, A F Moon & Co, L P Meador $1.60.

N—J Nicholson, V H Nelson $5, Thomas Norrell $3.50, W H Nuckolls, Joseph D Newsom.

O—James Ormond, Mrs M Owens $2.50.

P—William Patterson 10 cents, Mrs A J Patton, W R Peebles, C B Pilley, A B Powers, Potter, Ainsworth & Co, J S Peavy $1, Cadesman Pope, T J Porter $6.25, S M Pettengill & Co (New York) $15.

R—Anson D F Randolph & Co, Rice & Wollaker, A A Robinson $1, A H Redford agent two letters, J K Randall $3.95, George P Rowell & Co, Robinson & Withers, Robinson & Co, Robert Randle.

S—J N Stearnes Jr, W T J Sullivan $3, Henry H Smith, J H Sherman $1, Thomas H Sugart $1, Sylvester Steele, Charles Small, H H Singleton, C S Stewart, Still & Lacey, Joel Saunders, George S Schofield, W D Stayton, Dewitte Stearnes.

T—C D Turner $5, P A Thomasson, M J Templeton, John H Thompson $7.45, W V Tudor $18.25, F L Thomas $2, J L Thompson $50, George Torry, J Thompson, Hanna & Co, W S Turner $5, F H O Taylor.

W—Wilson, Hinkle & Co, James S Weatherly, L M White, John Wilkinson, W F Wallace, J G Wilson, J H Woodward $1.25, Thomas F Webb, Horace Waters, G F Wharton 24 cents, J Williams $2.50, A C Worthy, W H Wilder $2, Isaiah Winch.

Y—Robert F Yent.

WINDOW SHADES AND WALL PAPERS.—The establishment of Mr. M. A. Wheelahan, No. 119 Common street, is advertised elsewhere, and we advise those needing wall papers, window shades, paints, oils, brushes, varnishes, glass or artists' materials to give attention to his advertisement. They are assured of the courteous attention of Mr. Golding, the business manager.

DOMESTIC & STAPLE DRY GOODS. One of the most extensive and complete assortments of dry goods we have ever seen is the establishment of D. H. Holmes, 155 Canal street, presided over by Mr. Hoffman, one of the most accomplished merchants in the country. We commend the advertisement of the house to the attention of our readers.

BOOK-BINDING and blank-book manufacturing can be done as promptly, as faithfully and as cheaply by our neighbor, Owen Gernon, Esq., at 58 Camp street (up stairs,) as anywhere in the country. We have known Mr. Gernon for several years, and it is but just to say that he is a practical workman, and his work is neatly and faithfully executed. See advertisement.

COAL.—Messrs. H. & C. Tyler, coal dealers, No. 9 Carondelet street, are worthy and reliable gentlemen, fair and honorable dealers, and prompt and attentive business men. They are worthy of patronage. See their advertisement.

SEE Dr. Warrington's advertisement in to-day's paper.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

TO ONE AND ALL.—Are you suffering from a cough, cold, asthma, bronchitis or any of the various pulmonary troubles that so often terminate in consumption? If so use Wilbor's Pure Cod Liver Oil and Lime, a safe and efficacious remedy. This is no quack preparation, but is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists. fe4 tt

IT CANNOT hurt you. It is purely vegetable. Try Simmons' Liver Regulator if you wish to be well. It acts like a charm, without debilitating the system, and without any of the evil effects of Mercury. Simmons' Liver Regulator is the safe remedy. fe4 tt

DR. TUTT'S CELEBRATED EXPECTORANT.—First, it detaches from the bronchial or windpipe tubes the mucus or matter which adheres to them. Secondly, it mitigates the pain and removes the constriction of the bronchial tubes and muscles of the chest. Thirdly, it resists the progress of inflammation, and assists the lungs to throw off the irritating matter which accumulates. Ja2s 3t

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. un5 6m

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by T. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de19 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

OWEN GERNON,

Successor to H. R. Swasey,

BOOK-BINDER AND BLANK-BOOK MANUFACTURER,

58 Camp Street (up stairs,)

New Orleans, La.

Music-Books and Periodicals bound to any desired style. fe1 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

COUNTRY ORDERS.

1875. - - SPRING---SPRING. - - 1875.

Parties residing in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Adjacent States, who buy their

DRY GOODS FOR CASH,

Are invited to send to us for SAMPLES, which will be forwarded to them

FREE OF COST AND POSTAGE PAID,

and where we are favored with orders that exceed $10, the Freight Thereon will be Prepaid at our Expense. Where the Order Exceeds $20 we will Pay the Cost of Sending the Money to us, Whether by Express, Money Order, Registered Letter, Bank Draft or otherwise.

The new postal law permits parcels weighing four pounds or less to be sent by mail at the rate of one (1) cent for every two (2) ounces or fraction thereof, so that parties ordering less than $10 worth can have their purchases sent to them through their postoffices at a very slight expense. Parties sending to us for samples should be careful to write their names and addresses as plainly as possible, and where they desire packages sent by mail they should make provision for the postage unless the order exceeds $10, when it will be forwarded at our cost.

The Postage on Parcels must be Prepaid. Goods sent C. O. D. to all points where the Express Company or Packets have Agents.

As a Matter of Accommodation we will purchase articles outside of our line, which is confined to Fancy and Staple Dry Goods, but we do not pay the freight thereon unless the order for Dry Goods exceeds $10. For instance, if a party orders a piece of cotton $6, and a hat $5, the order would not be entitled to have the freight paid by us; but if the order was for a piece of cotton $6, a dress pattern $5, and a hat, or any other article not in our line, $10, the freight would be prepaid on the whole. We make no charges for purchasing articles to a limited extent, and always do the best we can for our patrons.

Articles not corresponding to order can be Returned at our Expense.

Should we not be able to fill the order, the money will be Returned at our Expense.

We make no charge for Cases, Baling, Strapping, Drayage or Insurance.

Orders should be addressed to the firm to insure prompt attention. The personal attention of one of the partners is given to country orders. We have been in business and the steady yearly increase affords a gratifying record of Fair Dealing, to which we refer with pride. We are already beginning to receive

MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS,

NEW SPRING GOODS!

—AND—

EVERY STEAMER FROM THE NORTH AND EUROPE

—WILL BRING—

ADDITIONAL NOVELTIES!

BRASELMAN & ADAMS,

586 and 588 Magazine St., Cor. St. Andrew, New Orleans.

CASH HOUSE.

fe1 1m

TO GRANGERS PURCHASING DRY GOODS.

We claim the attention of the Grangers, as also all buyers of Dry Goods, to

OUR EXTENSIVE STOCK

—OF—

DOMESTICS AND STAPLE GOODS,

WHICH IS NOW COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.

Buying and Selling for Cash Only Enables Us to Offer the Best Inducements.

☞ All Orders filled with care and promptitude.

D. H. HOLMES, 155 Canal and 15 Bourbon St.

☞ Samples furnished BY MAIL on application. fe1 2t

ESTABLISHED IN 1822.

A. BALDWIN. C. EUSTIS. C. A. SLOCOMB, } In com-
A. B. SLOCOMB, } mendam.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

COLLARS AND BRIDLES,

AND

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Gins, Coats' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Gates, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. fe9 3m

PUT YOUR HOUSES IN ORDER.

M. A. WHEELAHAN,

119.....Common St......119

IMPORTER AND DEALER,

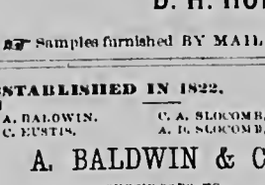
Has just received an Elegant Stock of

Window Shades and Wall Papers

Of the latest designs and patterns.

Also a full assortment of PAINTS, OILS, Glass, Varnishes, Brushes and Artists' Materials.

Purchasers will find our stock reliable in quality and prices lower than ever. fe4 tm



COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the

THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Soothing efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

B. LAPLACE, Chemist,

Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields St., New Orleans. Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. fe1 1m5p

DENTAL NOTICE.

JAS. S. KNAPP, D. D. S.,

Attends to the practice of

Dentistry in All Its Branches,

At his Office and Residence,

15.....BARONNE ST.....15

fe1 2m Near Canal street.

MOON'S "BEE WORLD."

Published at Rome, Georgia, is the only publication of its kind in the South. It is devoted exclusively to and should be in the hands of every Bee-Keeper in the United States. $2 per year. Send for sample copy. Address

BEE CULTURE,

A. F. MOON & CO.,
fe1 4t Rome, Ga.

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. BALLARD & CO., 801 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ja14 3m

LOW PRICES FOR CASH!

PLOWS, CULTIVATORS,

MOWING AND REAPING MACHINES,

CORN AND COTTON PLANTERS,

HAY RAKES, ETC.

PLANTATION HARDWARE.

STEAM ENGINES,	GRIST MILLS,
COTTON GINS,	SAW MILLS,
HORSE POWERS,	SUGAR MILLS,
PUMPS, ETC., ETC.

FOR SALE BY

B. J. WEST,

115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans,

WHOLESALE DEALER

Ja28 3m And Manufacturers' Agent.

FOR SWEETNESS & STRENGTH OF TONE,
FOR BEAUTY OF EXTERIOR,
FOR RELIABLE WORKMANSHIP THROUGHOUT,
THE

ESTEY ORGANS!

STAND TO-DAY UNRIVALED.

MANUFACTURED BY

J. ESTEY & CO.,

BRATTLEBORO, VT.

Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue SENT FREE on application. fe1 4t6w

COAL.....COAL.

H. & C. TYLER,

9.....CARONDELET ST.....9

will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.

fe4 2m H. & C. TYLER.

W. F. CLARK, SUCCESSOR TO A. LOEZ,

134 Hampart Street,

Between Toulouse and St. Peter Sts., New Orleans,

MANUFACTURER OF

CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES.

Also carriages repaired and put in as good order as in any part of the country. First premiums awarded at the last Fair for best Victoria and Clarence built anywhere. fe1 1m

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

THE HISTORY OF SWITZERLAND.—By Heinrich Zschokke. New Edition. 1 vol., 12mo., $1.75.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

"Mr. Wilkinson wields a Free Lance, bravely, effectively and brilliantly."—N. Y. Evening Mail.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.—In one volume, extra cloth, $2.50.

IDIOMATIC KEY to the FRENCH LANGUAGE.—By Profs. Lambert and Sardou. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se3 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

WANTED.

A situation as Teacher, Housekeeper, or Companion for some lady who desires the care and attention of a lady of experience and culture.

The applicant has had several years' experience in Teaching in families where the children were small. Can furnish references. Address

M188 W., care Dr. P. Chew, ja28 tf St. Joseph, La.

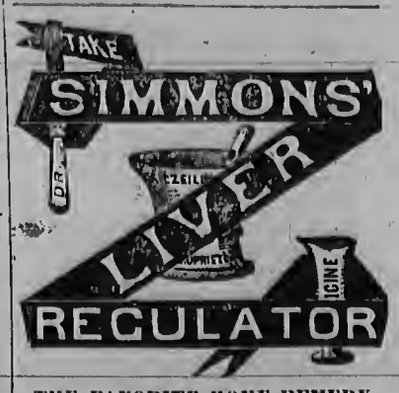
MEDICAL.



THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. nn19 1y5p1e

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street, New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE

BEST HOME MUSIC-BOOKS.

Piano at Home. Fifty-one Pieces. $2.50. A large collection of popular pieces. Most excellent practice, and most entertaining to play.

Ritter's History of Music. TWO VOLS. Each $1.50. Condensed from 500 books, and is terse, complete, interesting, and a most useful book of reference in musical families.

Clarke's New Method For REED ORGANS is still the leading Method in point of sale, is enlarged, improved, and in every way keeps up its high reputation. Price, $2.50.

Organ at Home. $2.50. The largest and best collection of popular Reed Organ music. 200 pieces; large pages, well filled.

River of Life. New Edition. Thirty-five cents. Full of the sweetest of Sabbath School Songs.

☞ All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
Boston.
Ja18 1y

COLDS! COUGHS!

USE GUA

COMPOUND PULMONIC PASTE.

A most palatable and soothing remedy.

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m 139 Canal street.

COD LIVER OIL AND

PHOSPHATE LIME.

This prescription we always have on hand fresh, and we guarantee it superior to the article that formerly was imported into this market, but which has been supplanted by ours during the two last seasons. Be sure to ask for the

FRESHLY PREPARED

Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate Lime.

SOLD AT

139.....CANAL STREET.....139

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m Druggists.

RAW FURS WANTED.

Send for PRICE CURRENT to

A. E. Burkhardt & Co.,

Manufacturers and Exporters of American Fur Skins, 213 West Fourth street, Cincinnati. We pay the highest prices current in America. Shipping to us direct will save the profits of middlemen and bring prompt cash returns.

Please state what paper you saw this advertisement in ja21 1t

DR. HENRY SMITH,

130.....CANAL STREET.....130

Over Eyrich's Book Store.

Consultation hours—11½ to 2 o'clock.

Residence—565 St. Charles street, near Philip. Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 4 and 7 P. M. ja14 1y5p

HOME MANUFACTURE.

Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder,

EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.

Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers.

THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer,
Ja31 1m 341 Common street, corner Robertson.

The Child's Corner.

SWEEPING THE FLOOR.

BY GEORGE MACDONALD.

Sweep and sweep and sweep the floor;
Sweep the dust, pick up the pin;
Make it clean from fire to door—
Clean for father to come in.

Mother said that God goes sweeping—
Looking, sweeping with a broom,
All the time that we are sleeping,
For a shilling in a room.

Did he drop it out of glory,
Walking far above the birds?
Or did mother make the story
To set me thinking afterwards?

If I was the swept-for shilling
I would hearken through the gloom,
Roll out fast, and fall down willing,
Right before the sweeping broom.

About Russian Children.

Shall I tell you about Russian children and their homes? Well, then, listen. First of all, when they are little tiny babies, you must know that a great many of them die because of the cold winters, and only the strong, healthy ones live. I am talking, of course, of the children of poor people, for the richer children are taken better care of, and more often grow up. When the peasant children are babies they have a cross or image hung round their necks, which is never taken off again till they die, even for washing! They don't wash very much on week-days, except on Saturday, when they have a hot bath quite regularly, for every house has a bath built either in it or just outside. Still before every meal they wash their hands, as people do in more Eastern countries. Perhaps, as they all sleep in some of the clothes they wear by day, they would feel cold if they took them off to wash; anyhow they never do except for these Saturday bollings. Their parents are generally very fond of them, but they let them run about quite wild in and out of the cold air and the stifling room, without any teaching or correction.

The children have not many games, though the people's holidays come very often. Sometimes the boys play at ball, or at a game something like hooky; and the girls get together and amuse themselves by singing their plaintive, sad Russian songs. On Easter eve all the bells in the neighboring churches are set ringing merrily just as the clock finishes striking twelve, and when the proper bell-ringers are tired then the boys crowd into the belfries and ring all through Easter day. You know how they color eggs for that day, and everybody gives them to everybody else with a kiss. I have heard that sometimes it is not a pleasant custom, for instead of only children coming to kiss the master of a house, with their clean little faces, he has to kiss all his workmen, even if he has many hundreds under his charge. Then, supposing they are so grimy, smutty and cindery, he has to let them come up to him. First he sees them draw a dusty sleeve across their sooty mouths, then they dive down into their pockets and bring out a painted egg, then, taking off their hats, they bow and smile politely, and think their master is quite pleased and gratified by their attention. Besides, this custom helps them to show their gratitude for all the acts of kindness which perhaps their master or mistress has long since forgotten.

English children are fond of eating apples or other fruit long before they are ripe, but the Russians would think they should certainly get the cholera if they did anything of the kind, and they never touch one until a day called "Apple-Day," when the priests pronounce a solemn blessing on the ripened fruit. No matter whether it is the town or the country, the same thing is always done; and when "Orange-Day" comes, then apple-eating comes to an end. In the villages there is a fixed day for beginning to bathe in the rivers and lakes; and another fixed day for beginning to shoot the wild ducks, which, to be sure, is much like our waiting till the proper season to shoot game. Their food is not particularly nice, I should think, being generally nothing but black bread and cabbage soup, and their soup is called "quass," which is a fermentation of black bread and water.

The houses in which these healthy but ignorant little children live are almost always ugly, dreary wooden ones, without any pretty gardens or thatched roofs, or flowers or colors of any sort. The Russian summers are very hot, although they are so short; therefore one side of the house is used when the sun shines brightly and they want shade, and the other side is used when the cold weather sets in. The room in which the great stove stands is used only as a kitchen in warm weather, but in winter it is living-room, sleeping-room and kitchen all in one. The younger children climb up to sleeping-berths, which are hung, like hammocks, about eighteen inches from the ceiling; while the father, mother and elder members of the family arrange their mattresses on the top of the huge stove itself. You don't see much furniture in these wretched homes, only a table, and a large wooden bench fixed to the walls of the room, some pictures of the saints hanging in the corners, and always a large, brightly-painted trunk, in which all the family treasures are kept, and which is bound round and round with iron hoops. If the children ever peep inside, they find near the top a loaf or two of cake, some tea and sugar, and a few other small things, then lower down are some towels bordered with laces, of which they think a great deal, and still lower is their mother's best holiday dress, and the ornaments which came to her from her grandmother. Don't you think the little girls must like very much to wake up on a fine morning, and stand by while their mother dresses herself for a holiday? First she puts on a lower bodice over a white chemisette which comes up to the throat and has full sleeves, then she puts on a long and perhaps brightly-striped petticoat, afterward she winds her hair around her head and hides it under a veil fastened by a sort of velvet crown; and besides all this she wears on her neck many rows of amber and garnet beads. In winter they have to wrap up a great deal, and the children have to wear flannel stockings bound around and around and around their legs to clumsy boots which are rather turned up at the toes, and sheepskin coats with the wool turned inside, and a fur cap on their heads with flaps over their ears. When they are dressed in this way they would often like to go with their fathers to shoot little brown sables, or bears or wolves, but it would not be quite safe for them, so they are left in their funny beds while their elders go hunting.

A fine moonlight night has to be chosen for this sport, when the wolves can be seen from a great distance. The sportsmen set off in a large sledge, while a smaller one goes before in which are two men, one of whom holds the reins, while the other carries a live pig in his arms; at the bottom of the sledge is another pig tied up in a bag. Behind the larger sledge trails a rope, about thirty yards long, with a wisp of hay at the end of it, which dances about like something alive over the uneven snow. Away the two sledges gallop, over the plains near the village; then the man in the first sledge pinches the poor pig's ear, and the pig cries out so loud that the echoes repeat his cries till they are heard far and near in the frosty air. The wolves hear the shrieks, and come out of the distance like shadows bounding along, the sportsmen see their thin forms more and more plainly against the white snow, and all get greatly excited.

Still the man goes on pinching the pig's ear, lest if he stopped screaming the wolves would all run off. At last a wolf sees the wisp of hay and rushes upon it, followed by the others, while the distant night air sounds and sounds again with their short yelping bark and the squeals of the unfortunate pig. Sometimes the wolves are cunning enough to see that the wisps of hay are not the pork they are longing for, and turn tail at a safe distance; more often they come on toward the sledge.

Then at a given moment all the guns are fired off, and the whole troop scamper away, leaving their dead or wounded behind them. It is by no means an easy thing for the sportsman to shoot these wolves, because the sledge keeps rocking from side to side over the roads, which, even when covered with snow, are very rough, and if the sledge stops for the guns to fire the wolves would be off like magic. Some men try jumping out of the sledge while it is in motion, but this also is difficult when they are wrapped in fur coats, and have on great loose boots which are all lined with fur.—Our Monthly.

"BE."—A young girl had been trying to do something very good, and had not succeeded very well. Her friend, hearing her complain, said:

"God gives us many things to do, but don't you think he gives us something to be just as well?"

"O dear! tell me about being." Marion looked up with penitent eyes. "I will think about being, if you will help me."

"God says: 'Be kindly affectioned one to another.'

"'Be ye also patient.'

"'Be ye thankful.'

"'Be not conformed to this world.'

"'Become little children.'

"'Be ye therefore perfect.'

"'Be courteous.'

"'Be not wise in your own conceits.'

"'Be not overcome of evil.'"

Marion listened, making no reply.

Twilight grew into darkness. The tea-bell sounded, bringing Marion to her feet. In the firelight Elizabeth could see that she was very serious.

"I'll have a better day to-morrow. I see that doing grows out of being."

"We cannot be what God loves without doing all that he commands. It is easier to do with a rush than to be patient or unselfish or humble or just or watchful."

"I think it is," returned Marion emphatically.

THE SCIENCE OF SUGAR-CANDY. A few years ago I paid a visit to a large school in the country, and was asked by the principal to give a lesson to one of his classes. I agreed to do so, provided he would let me have the youngest boys in his school. To this he willingly assented; and, after casting about in my mind as to what could be said to the little fellows, I went to a village hard by and bought a quantity of sugar-candy. This was my only teaching apparatus. When the time for assembling the class had arrived I began by describing the way in which sugar-candy and other artificial crystals were formed, and tried to place vividly before their young minds the architectural process by which the crystals were built up. They listened to me with the most eager interest. I examined the crystal before them, and, when they found that in a certain direction it could be split into thin laminæ with shining surfaces of cleavage, their joy was at its height. They had no notion that the thing they had been crunching and sucking all their lives embraced so many hidden points of beauty. At the end of the lesson I emptied my pockets among the class, and permitted them to experiment upon the sugar-candy in the usual way.—Prof. Tyndall, in Popular Science Monthly.

A TROUT'S RECOGNITION.—Some years ago, as we are told by a Boston clergyman, who vouches for its truth, a trout was kept in a large water-vat at the San Francisco water works. It was the custom of visitors to feed the fish with pieces of bread and meat, which it would readily take from their fingers. One of the clerks, with less humanity than love of fun, one day attached a hook to a piece of meat, caught the trout, and pulled it out of the water, but immediately threw it back again. From that day forward the trout would never take anything from the hand of that clerk, although it would readily feed from the hands of any other person while the clerk stood by.—Our Dumb Animals.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Sow Oats.

In our experience, oats sown early in September are most productive, but a drought sometimes prevents their being put in at that time. The next best period for sowing is about the twentieth of January. Several of our best farmers in this vicinity inform us that they have had great success from sowings at that date, the crop very nearly equaling that sown in the fall, maturing about the same time, with the advantage of more uniform ripening of the different heads of a "stool." As cold as last winter was, sowings at that date were successful here. Run rooter furrows a foot apart, sow the seed and cover by dragging a brush across the furrows. The object of this is that the plants may be below the general surface, and be protected from the cold. Sow on good land or manure well. Our farmers are rapidly reaching the conclusion that the oat is the best grain crop for the South, requiring less labor than a corn crop and less subject to be cut off by drought. If they can be successfully grown from January sowings, there is no difficulty in having the crop follow cotton, and that would be a very great point gained. The facts we have are sufficient to induce us to make the experiment on a pretty large scale this winter, if the condition of the ground and the weather permit.

Do not be frightened from sowing a big crop of oats, lest the harvesting may interfere with the large cotton crop you are going to plant. All you have to do is to get a mowing machine; cut them down just before they are fully ripe, and cure them as you would hay, without tying into bundles, shocking, etc. In this way quick work may be made of a large crop.—Southern Cultivator.

Sheep Dogs of California.

A traveler in southern California gives the following account of the famous sheep dogs used there, and of the manner in which they are trained. He writes:

"You may go over the plains and hills there for miles and see thousands of sheep, but not a man to watch them. Around each flock or band of say a thousand sheep are half a dozen dogs of a peculiar breed—dogs whose progenitors were imported from the sheep pastures of the Old World.

"These dogs take the entire care of the sheep, drive them out to pasture in the morning, keep them from straying during the day, and bring them home at night. These dogs have inherited a talent for keeping sheep, but the shepherds do not depend wholly on that. They cultivate it in this way—so, at least, the old shepherd says: When a lamb is born it is taken away from the mother sheep before she has seen it, and a puppy put in its place. The sheep suckles the puppy and learns to love it. When the puppy grows old enough to eat meat, it is fed in the morning and sent out with the sheep. It stays with them because it is accustomed to be with its mother, but it cannot be fed with them. As they get full the dog gets hungry. At length, impatient to return where it hopes to get another piece of meat, it begins to tease and worry its mother, and finally starts her toward home; the other sheep follow, and thus the whole flock is brought in. If the dog brings the sheep home too soon, or comes home without them, he gets no supper or is punished in some way. Hence he soon learns when to come, and to see to it that none of his charge are left behind."

THE BASKET WORM ON EVERGREENS.—If an elm, a maple, or most deciduous trees lose their spring leaves they will push out more before fall, and, though the tree so losing its early foliage is somewhat injured by it, the injury is not so serious as to threaten the life of the tree. In China the leaves of the tea-plant are taken off three times during the growing season, and still the plant lives for many years.

Evergreen trees are not, however, so tractable. If they once lose their leaves they are done for. We have known caterpillars to eat the foliage from the Scotch pine, and the death of the tree resulted.

We have on several occasions called attention to the injury done to the arbor-vitæ and some other evergreens by the ravages of the basket worm. This may be remedied by a few minutes employed in hand-picking in the summer-time. The small caterpillar commences to weave its basket at that time, increasing the size with its own growth, and feeding on the young green leaves at the same time. When about the size of peas they are readily discerned, and quite large trees may be gone over and the little pests cleared off for burning in a few moments. Evergreens attacked by them and given up to their ravages for a single season seldom recover, and it is therefore far more important to pick them off from these than from deciduous trees.—Germantown Telegraph.

MULE-FOOTED HOGS.—While at Lockhart, during the late session of the West Texas Conference, we were shown by our old friend, Bro. Anthony Cardwell, the feet of some mule-footed hogs, which he and his son have among their stock. The breed was found among a herd of hogs from Mexico. The feet are not cloven, but as round as a mule's foot. We have now in our possession a fore and hind foot which, but for the toes or two small hoofs in the rear, would be mistaken for the feet of a very young mule. The pig from which this stock was raised was, as above stated, driven from Mexico. Its hair was coarse and sandy, or light red in color; two of its pigs, like the mother, had round or uncloven feet. The second litter had six pigs with the uncloven or mule feet. They all eat grass as freely as a cow. When fed with corn on the cob, they invariably root it off the cob before eating it, instead of biting it off, as do other hogs. The meat is somewhat coarser than usual, but in other respects they are not unlike their species. Have any of our readers ever seen such stock? We have left the feet with our friend Baylor at his drug store, under the Opera House, on Market street.—Galveston Christian Advocate.

PREPARATION OF BONES FOR USE AS MANURE.—As some members were anxious to obtain directions for the preparation of dissolved bones, he considered that it would be useful to give some advice on the subject. He would recommend the farmers to adopt the following plan: Place in a wooden trough or tub the bones, broken into as small pieces as possible, and pour upon them one-third of their weight of boiling water, and, having steamed the mass so as to render the bones completely moist, add one-third of the weight of the bones of sulphuric acid and the common vitriol of the bleacher, and mix the materials completely, by stirring them, by means of a wooden shovel or old spade. The mixture may be conveniently made in an old sugar hogshead, and should be allowed to remain some weeks previous to being used. It may be mixed, if necessary, with dry peat, mold or real charcoal, or with sawdust; but lime should not be added to it. By carefully following these directions the farmer may obtain a compound of high fertilizing value, and superior to many of the specimens of dissolved bones offered for sale. The addition of slaked lime and soapboilers' refuse, which some persons occasionally use, should be avoided. By employing the bones, as described, the manure will be found to contain a large amount of soluble phosphate, which very few of the advertised manures afford.—Dr. J. F. Hodges, at meeting of Agricultural Society of Ulste.

UNFRUITFUL VS. FRUITFUL APPLE-TREES.—A few days since, while visiting my friends, M. I. Babcock and son, in the town of Brighton, who are largely engaged in fruit-growing and farming generally, my attention was called to a most useful experiment in one of their largest orchards (of a few less than a thousand trees) for the purpose of increasing their bearing habits. The modus operandi was after this sort: In the month of June (the longest day) these gentlemen went through many long rows in the orchard and girdled every other tree, just below the limbs, by cutting around carefully through the bark, without disturbing the inner coating, or what is termed albumen, pealing the bark down about eight inches. This process, if well done, will in the course of the season form a fine new bark, which is supposed to do no harm to the tree. The effect is so palpable that I beheld with surprise and delight every other tree loaded down with apples, while those not girdled had few if any apples on them. So well am I satisfied of its benefits that if there were a hundred trees in my orchard that were tardy in fruit-bearing I should not hesitate to girdle every one of the number.—H. N. Langworthy, in Moore's Rural New Yorker.

BEES IN THE UNITED STATES.—There are two million bee-hives in the United States. Every hive yields, on an average, a little over twenty-two pounds of honey. The average price at which honey is sold is twenty-five cents a pound. So that after paying their own board, our bees present us with a revenue of over $8,800,000. To reckon it another way, they make a clear gift of over a pound of pure honey to every man, woman and child in the vast domain of the United States. Over twenty-three and one-third million pounds of wax are made and given to us by these industrious workers. The keeping of bees is one of the most profitable investments that our people can make of their money. The profits arising from the sale of surplus honey averages from fifty to two hundred per cent. of the capital invested.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW ORLEANS PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.
Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe19 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

UPPER CITY BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans.

keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT

Under the Control of J. Phillips,

formerly with Glynn & Wintz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to. de10 1y LOUIS GIMBEL, Agent.

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS manufacturer. (au6 1y)
76 Fourth street.....LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street.....CINCINNATI, O.

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☜ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefitted and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au19 1y6p

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1632 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6m nrm

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

de17 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!

Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of

Cast Steel and Wrought Plows

at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Same Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of ten or more are ordered an additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at

JOHN W. NORRIS',
de17 2m 27 Canal street.

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.

HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80,

Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union,

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

AGENTS WANTED!—ACT AT ONCE—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of

LIVINGSTONE.

His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa, the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (bona fide number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our grand

COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.

Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is

THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.

The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR

THE LIFE OF JESUS,

For Young People.

A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address

H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se24 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MONUMENTAL MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,

Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies, Top Buggies, Turn-Out-Seat Buggies, Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets, Barouches, Rockaways, etc.,

NEW HAVEN, CONN.

☞ HARNESS at low prices.

Consult Economy and send for catalogue and price list. (no12 3m

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,

NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se3 6m

Scientific.

A REMARKABLE result has been obtained at the works of Brown & Co., Sheffield. A revolving disk, made for a rail saw, with all its teeth cut off, was mounted on a spindle and driven at nearly three thousand revolutions a minute; this was—the disk being three feet in diameter—a circumferential velocity of over five miles a minute. Steel rails forced against this disk were most rapidly cut through, appearing to melt before the revolving disk, giving off an abundance of sparks, while after cutting five rails it was itself not sensibly warm.

THE MAMMOTH CAVE OF MEXICO. It is said that the cave of Cacahuamilpa is the largest cave in the world. Several persons who have visited the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky and that of Cacahuamilpa in Mexico pronounce the latter the larger. A volcanic mountain with an extinct crater covers this cave. It is not described in guide-books or books of travel. It has, in fact, never been adequately described. Mr. Porter C. Bliss has twice examined and explored it, the last time in February of the past year. Six hundred persons constituted the last exploring party; they were provided with Bengal lights and scientific appliances. After reaching a level at perhaps fifty feet depth, they proceeded three and three-quarter miles into the interior. The roof was so high—a succession of halls—that rockets often exploded before striking it. Labyrinthine passages leave the main hall in every direction. Stalagmites and stalactites are abundant. Below this cave, at a great depth, are two other immense caves, from each of which issues a branch of a great river, uniting here. These two rivers enter some five miles distant at the other side of the mountain, flow parallel, and issue at last together. Vast quantities of bats are the most numerous inhabitants of these caverns.

BEES AS ARCHITECTS AND MATHEMATICIANS.—Man is obliged to use all sorts of engines for measurement—angles, rules, plumb-lines—to produce his buildings and to guide his hands; the bee executes her work immediately from mind, without instruments or tools of any kind. "She has successfully solved a problem in higher mathematics, which the discovery of the differential calculus, a century and a half ago, does not enable us to solve without the greatest difficulty." The inclination of the plaues of the cell is always just so that, if the surfaces on which she works are unequal, still the axis running through it is in the true direction, and the junction of the two axes forms the angle of sixty degrees as accurately as if there was none. The manner in which she adapts her work to the requirements of the moment and place is marvelous. In order to test their ingenuity, Huber glazed the interior of a hive, with the exception of certain bits of wood fastened on the sides. The bees cannot make their work adhere to glass, and they began to build horizontally from side to side; he interposed other plates of glass in different directions, and they curved their combs in the strangest shapes, in order to make them reach their wooden supports. He says this proceeding denotes more than an instinct, as glass was not a substance against which bees could be warned by nature, and that they changed the direction of the work before reaching the glass, at the distance precisely suitable for making the necessary turns, enlarging the cells on the outer side greatly, and on the inner side diminishing them proportionately. As the different insects were working on the different sides, there must have been some means of communicating the proportion to be observed; while the bottom being common to both sets of cells, the difficulty of thus regularly varying their dimensions must have been great indeed.—Scientific American.

ON CUTTING GLASS the Technologist says: For cutting rounds or ovals out of flat glass, the diamond is the best tool, and, if the operator has no diamond, it will always pay to carry the job to a glazier rather than waste time and make a poor job by other and inferior means. When, however, it is required to cut off a very little from a circle or oval, the diamond is not available, except in very skillful hands. In this case a pair of pliers or very dull scissors is the best tool, and the cutting is best performed under water. A little practice will enable the operator to shape a small round or oval with great rapidity, ease and precision. When bottles or flasks are to be cut, the diamond is still the best tool in skillful hands; but ordinary operators will succeed best with pastilles, or a red-hot poker. We prefer the latter, as being the most easily obtained, and the most efficient; and we have never found any difficulty in cutting off broken flasks so as to make dishes, or to carry a cut spirally round a long bottle so as to cut it into the form of a cerkscrew. And, by the way, when so cut, glass exhibits considerable elasticity, and the spiral may be elongated like a ringlet. The process is very simple. The line of the cut should be marked by chalk, or by pasting a thin strip of paper alongside of it; then make a file-mark to commence the cut; apply the hot iron, and a crack will start; and this crack will follow the iron wherever we choose to lead it. For drilling holes in glass a common steel drill, well made and well tempered, is the best tool. The steel should be worked at a low temperature, so as to be sure not to burn it, and then tempered as hard as possible, in either mercury or a bath of salt water that has been well boiled. Such a drill will go through glass very rapidly if kept well moistened. A good liquid for moistening such drills is turpentine in which some camphor has been dissolved. Dilute sulphuric acid is equally good, if not better; and we have found carbolic acid singularly efficient. It is stated that at Berlin glass castings for pump-barrels, etc., are drilled, planed and bored like iron ones, and in the same lathes and machines, by the aid of sulphuric acid.

BUSINESS CARDS.

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,
135 ..... DECATUR STREET 135
Between St. Louis and Toulouse.
Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.
Ja14 1m JOHN P. CASPARD.

A. W. HYATT,
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38 ..... CAMP STREET 38
P. O. Box 506. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12 ..... Damaine St 12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in BUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

R. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 98 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

BARNETT & CAMMACK,
BROKERS,
12 ..... CARONDELET STREET 12
(Front Office.)
Stocks, Bonds and Securities bought and sold. Money loaned on securities. Taxes and Licenses settled. Ja14 1m

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
64 ..... Baronne Street 64
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
46 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL ..... COAL ..... COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
166 Common St., opposite City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115 ..... Canal Street 115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated-ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe28 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope,
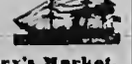
where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
fe26 1y JOHN BOIS. Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

T. W. ROTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

J. B. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. je4 tuu

RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38 ..... BOURBON ST. 38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BERO, Agent.

J. DUBARRY,
BUTCHER,


Stalls Nos. 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market,
NEW ORLEANS.
Ships, Steamboats, etc., supplied at the shortest notice. de10 2m

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
AND LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m F. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y

J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
162 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. mh5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1308.
PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

WOOD ..... COAL ..... WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 252 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (no12 3m) SAM. SMITH.

H. H. HUSSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
102 ..... Calliope Street 102
Between Magazine and Constance,
ja28 4m New Orleans.

R. MAITRE,
SEEDSMAN AND FLORIST.
602 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 602
Dealer in Landreth's, Vilmorin's, Henary's and Dippe Bros.' Garden and Flower Seeds, Greenhouse Plants, Evergreens and Roses. Dutch Bulbs, and a variety of Fancy and Ornamental goods for the use of Florists and Bouquet-makers. Catalogues and Almanacs sent on application. A liberal discount to country dealers. ja21 3m

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78 ..... MAGAZINE ST. 78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Agent for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)
PERIQUE TOBACCO,
12 ..... CONTI STREET 12
Ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79 ..... Carondelet St 79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. jy2 1y

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. Je11 1y

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce,
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE,)
Je4 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. HERRICK,
my21 1y 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COULON,
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37 ..... Camp Street 37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 1f

NEW LEATHER STORE.
A. F. RICAU,
IMPORTER AND DEALER IN
French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,
Shoe Findings, etc.,
80 CUSTOMHOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.
Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—536 ROYAL STREET,
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc. promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. L. TUCKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
160 ..... COMMON STREET 160
de24 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152 ..... Julia Street 152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anesthetics administered. de17 1y

J. A. & E. J. DeHART,
DENTISTS,
183 ..... CANAL ST. 183
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

DR. C. J. RICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je29 tf

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
Ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

R. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

CAUTION IN PARTS
MARCY'S SCIOPTICON
WITH GREATLY IMPROVED SELF CONDENSING CYLINDERS,
NEW SLIDES & EFFECTS.
CIRCULAR FREE MANUAL DESCRIBING ALL 50 Cts
L. J. MARCY

CONSTANT EMPLOYMENT.—At home, Male or Female. $30 a week warranted. No capital required. Particulars and valuable sample sent free. Address, with six-cent return stamp, O. ROSS, Williamsburg, New York. no5 13t

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

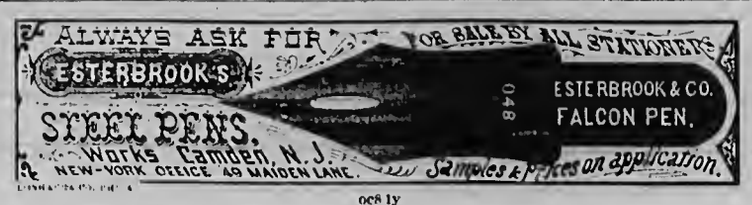
MISCELLANEOUS.

ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.
JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 42 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper.
Cash Orders Solicited.
de17 1y

CASH'S NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT THE NAME AND TRADE MARK OF J. & J. CASH
CAMBRIC
IS THE MOST DURABLE AND SATISFACTORY TRIMMING FOR LADIES', CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' WARDROBES. FRILLING.
Ja21 5t

One Gold Pen Will Outwear $10 in Steel Pens.
A. M. HILL'S EXTRA GOLD PENS ARE THE BEST.
PRICES.—No. 1, small size, $1; No. 4, medium size, $1.50; No. 7, large size, $2.50. Elegant Holder and Box for either size, 75 cents. Rubber Pocket Holder, $1. Sent by mail, registered, on receipt of price, or by Express C. O. D. Pens Repointed, 50 cents and stamp. Address
A. M. HILL, Gold Pen Manufacturer,
86 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.
REFERENCES.—All City Merchants. Ja21 1y

BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM OREGG. MRS. ADA OREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 151 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA OREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies' and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
Je15 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
Jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

oc29 9m

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. FELTON & CO., au13 1y 119 Nassau street New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, BURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28 ..... Beekman Street 28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

CARPET WAREHOUSE,
17 ..... CHARTRES STREET 17
A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Tablets and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Step Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

JOHN GIBSON,
ENGRAVER
AND
STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER
82 Beekman Street, New York.
Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au6 1y

FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—JOHN BOSIO, proprietor of this old and favorite house, announces to his friends that he has removed to No. 111 Chartres street, between St. Louis and Conti streets, where, with enlarged premises and increased facilities, he will give them the best the market affords, at the same low prices as heretofore. Private Dining-Rooms up stairs. Also comfortably furnished rooms at reasonable rates. Thankful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him in the past, he asks for a continuance of the same favors. Ja21 3m

$5 to $20 per day at home. Terms free. Address GEORGE STINSON & CO. Portland Maine. fe5 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES

The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne,)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
Jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

CRESCENT MACHINE SHOP.
JOSEPH WALKER,
Machinist, Engineer, Blacksmithing,
ETC., ETC.,
CORNER ST. JOSEPH AND CONSTANCE STS. New Orleans.
Plantation Machinery manufactured and repaired. Jobbing promptly attended to. fe8 1y

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.

POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use,
working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty-four sizes, from 5¾ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.
Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Blanch's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
Send for Circulars. se3 6m

STAR IRON WORKS.
WALTON, HEMLER & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
IRON RAILINGS,
SAFES AND BANK VAULTS,
JAIL CELLS, IRON STAIRS, DOORS AND SHUTTERS, Awning Frames, Gratings, Bolts, Stirrups, Verandas, Balconies, Patent Sidewalk and Sky-Lights, and all kinds of Iron Work for buildings.
Nos. 234 and 236 West Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. oc29 3m

WIRE RAILING
AND
ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.

DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.
mh5 1y B. J. WEST, Agent, 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN.
349 ..... MAGAZINE STREET 349
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 10m

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58 ..... ROYAL STREET 58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. Ja21 11m

W. N. PACKARD,
STEAM WOOD YARD,
Corner Ursulines and Rampart Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Pittsburg Coal and Charcoal a specialty. Families supplied with all kinds of Fire Wood at the shortest notice. Wood Sawed and split to any size desired, at the lowest prices. Ja27 3m

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 14 feet below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-ninth ultimo:

Mississippi river and bayous	4,915
Red river	2,752
Ouachita river	1,574
Railroads	3,873
Lake	76
Mobile	2,013
Texas	307
Florida	11
Total	15,581

On Saturday the market opened with a fair inquiry, mostly from buyers who claimed concessions which factors would not admit, but, notwithstanding this check to the movement, 1,800 bales changed hands during the morning at prices indicating continued steadiness in the better qualities, but some irregularity and weakness in other descriptions, without, however, any quotable variation, after which the movement was characterized by similar features, and the further sales summed up 2,850 bales, making a total of 4,750 bales. On Monday the movement commenced with a fair inquiry, stimulated by an advance in foreign exchange, and although factors were more stringent in their pretensions, 2,500 bales changed hands during the morning at stronger prices, without showing any quotable advance, after which the movement became more active, resulting in additional transactions to the extent of 7,000 bales, making a total of 9,500 bales. The business included strict ordinary at 12¾c., good ordinary, good style, at 13¼c., middling at 14¼c., strict middling at 15⅛c., and good middling at 15½c. On Tuesday the dispatches from the Liverpool and New York cotton markets were not calculated to have any sensible influence, but the demand was stimulated by the advance in gold and foreign exchange, and the movement, although checked by scant offerings of the better qualities, exhibited considerable animation, resulting in sales of 8,200 bales.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 22,450 bales, against 16,150 for the corresponding time last week and 12,250 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 722,416 bales, against 817,636 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest mail dates, as compared with last year, is 17,578 bales. The decrease by the reports per telegraph is 25,540—2,591,080 against 2,616,620. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 113,923 bales to Great Britain, and a decrease of 51,563 to France and 39,265 to other foreign ports. We quote:

Ordinary	12¾ @ 12⅞
Strict ordinary	12⅞ @ 13
Good ordinary	13¼ @ 13⅜
Strict good ordinary	13⅜ @ 13½
Low middling	14⅛ @ 14¼
Strict low middling	14¼ @ 14⅜
Middling	14⅜ @ 14½
Strict middling	15 @ 15⅛
Good middling	15⅛ @ 15¼
Middling fair	15⅝ @ 15¾
Fair	16⅛ @ 16¾

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	15,581
Arrived previously	822,623	838,204
		854,157
Exported past three days	25,119
Exported previously	543,679	568,798
Stock on hand and on shipboard		285,359

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The supplies on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,889 hhds., which were mostly sold at 5⅝@5¾c. for inferior, 6@6¼c. for common, 6¼@6¾c. for fair, 7@7⅛c. for good fair, 7⅜c. for fully fair, 7⅝@7¾c. for prime to strictly prime, 8@8¼c. for choice, 8¼@8½c. for low to good seconds, 8½@9¼c. for yellow clarified, 9¼@9⅝c. for off-white clarified, and 10@10¼c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 2,308 hhds. and 114 half bbls., which were mostly sold at 52c. for cistern-bottom, 56c. for inferior fermenting, 42c. for common fermenting, 55c. for strictly prime fermenting, 35@42c. for centrifugal, as to quality, not fermenting, 42½c. for fair not fermenting, 50c. for prime reboiled, and 58@59c. for strictly prime not fermenting.

CORN.—On Tuesday 2,550 sacks sold at 80c. for white mixed and yellow mixed, 86@87c. for white, and 88c. for choice yellow.

OATS.—On Saturday 400 sacks sold at 70c; while on Monday 1,000 sacks sold at 71c. in bad order, and 72c. for choice.

BRAN.—On Saturday 100 sacks sold at $1 50 ₩ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Monday 600 bbls. mess sold, in four lots, at $20, $20.75@21.

BACON.—On Monday 1 casks shoulders sold at 8¾c., and 15 casks clear sides at 11¾c. ₩ lb.

LARD.—On Tuesday 20 tierces refined sold at 14¼c., and 50 kegs do. at 14¾c. ₩ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 113⅛@113¾, against 113½ at New York, and after a liberal business closed at 113¾@114, against 114 at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver. Most of the receipts are transhipped to New York. It is quoted at 105¾@106¾ for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97@97½ gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	16 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	425 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BACON, ₩ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₩ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	39	51
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₩ lb.:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₩ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₩ lb.:
Mexican	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₩ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₩ dozen:
Western	28	32
FERTILIZERS, ₩ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₩ bbl.:
Double extra	— —	5 25
Superfine	— —	4 75
Fine	— —	4 50
GLASS, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₩ ton:
Prime	24 00	28 00
Choice	29 00	30 00
IRON, ₩ ton:
English, ₩ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7¼	8
Hoop	6	8
Sheet	5½	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	6
LEATHER, ₩ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₩ dozen	85 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₩ lb	24	26
LIME, ₩ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	18 00	20 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₩ M	— —	3 25
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 15	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	14	15
Linseed, raw	— —	15
SUGAR, ₩ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₩ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	55	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Souchong	30	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim. skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₩ head	$40 00 @ $46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₩ head	30 00 @ 35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₩ head	20 00 @ 25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₩ head	— — @ 15 00
Western beeves, ₩ lb. net	4 00 @ 6 50
Sheep, first quality, ₩ head	4 00 @ 5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₩ head	3 00 @ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₩ head	80 00 @ 100 00
Milch cows, ₩ head	35 00 @ 40 00
Calves, ₩ head	7 00 @ 9 00
Yearlings, ₩ head	8 00 @ 9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year, for want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
George Stinson & Co., Portland, Me.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Bells.
Hlymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Belting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Ditson & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. S. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Brokers.
Barnett & Cammack, 12 Carondelet street.

Butchers.
J. Dubarry, Stalls 2 and 4, St. Mary's Market.

Carpets.
A. Broussean & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 168 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Sinell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockeryware.
Francis Lauer, 616 Magazine street.
Samuel K. Moore, 55 Camp street
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Coal and Wood.
H. H. Hussman, 102 Calliope street.
W. N. Packard, corner Ursulines and Rampart streets.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
William Veiden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Bero, 38 Bourbon street.
F. Trolle, 490 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
P. A. Leblanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
R. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
Dr. G. A. Betancourt, 173 St. Joseph street.
J. A. & E. J. Dellart, 183 Canal street.

Dry Goods.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hlwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gleson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hurt, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 48 Union street.
Edmond Hourgeois, 19 Conti street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Baronne street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. H. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clluton st.

Fire-Arms.
R. Rhodes, 55 St. Charles street.

Furniture.
John Bois, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Furs.
A. E. Burkhardt & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Glass Staining.
Belcher & Povey, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
J. J. Brown, 78 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.

Hair Goods.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Iron Manufactories.
Walton, Hemler & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Leather.
A. F. Ricau, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 690 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. Walker, cor. St. Joseph and Constance sts.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.
B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Ball & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cineho Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Frederickson & Harte, 139 Canal street.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Dunne street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Laplace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Ross' Epileptic Remedies, Ross Bros., Richmond, Ind.
W. B. Shearer, 101 Camp street.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. B. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Horace Waters & Son, 481 Broadway, New York.
Phillip Wertein, 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
L. J. Marcy, 1340 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.
Dr. Van Hoin, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Fastiions.
M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Pens.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.
A. M. Hill, 86 St. Charles street.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Piano.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
Dr. Henry Smith, 130 Canal street.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 160 Common street.

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Restaurants.
Four Seasons Restaurant, 111 Chartres street.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Dumaine street.
R. Maltre, 602 Magazine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soap.
J. H. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 38 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
H. Hiller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
John P. Gaspard, 135 Decatur street.
J. M. Justiniani, 311 Burgundy street.

Undertakers.
T. W. Bothick, 271 Camp street.
Thomas Markey, 40, 42 and 44 Claiborne street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.
J. E. Hopkins, Toon's Station, Tenn.
Miss W., care Dr. Chew, St. Joseph, La.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Boitel, 58 Royal street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Window Shades.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dufur & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!
Restore your Sight!
THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,
By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.

WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us at once.

Agents Wanted,

(Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957,) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.

no26 1y

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rankin circuit, at Wesleyana	Jan. 10, 17
Enon circuit, at Enon	23, 24
Westville circuit and Taylorville mission, at Antioch	30, 31
Mount Carmel circuit, at Dry Creek	Feb. 6, 7
Columbia circuit, at Hopewell	13, 14
Pearlington circuit, at Pearlington	20, 21
Ocean Springs circuit and Handsboro mission, at Ocean Springs	27, 28
White Plains circuit and Black Creek mission, at Mulberry Grove	Mar. 6, 7
East Pascagoula circuit, at Zion	13, 14
Chickasawha and Greene mission, at Mineral Lights	20, 21

The district stewards will meet me at Enou, January 23.

21 C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carondelet street	Feb. 1
Morean street	8
Felicity street	16
Algiers	22
Baton Rouge	27, 28
Louisiana avenue	Mar. 1
Cadiz street	8
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete	13, 14

The district stewards will hold their meeting at Carondelet Street church, February 26, 1875, at six o'clock P. M.

28 J. H. WALKER, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waterproof, St. Joseph and Tensas circuit, at Waterproof	Feb. 6, 7
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove	13, 14
Floyd and Control, at Floyd	20, 21
Delhi, at Delhi	27, 28
Wimsboro and Bend River, at Wimsboro	Mar. 6, 7
Oak Ridge, at Prairie Mer Rouge	13, 14
Lind Grove, at Lind Grove	20, 21
Bastrop, at Bastrop	27, 28
Trenton, at Trenton	Apr. 3, 4
Monroe, at Monroe	10, 11

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Delhi, February 27.

28 C. W. CARTER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

South Bossier, at Belleview	Jan. 23, 24
Shreveport	Feb. 6, 7
North Bossier	13, 14
Caddo	20, 21
Springville	27, 28
Mansfield	Mar. 13, 14
DeSoto	20, 21
Anaeoco and Leesville, at Kissatchie	Apr. 3, 4
Natchitoches and Manny	10, 11

As there was no plan given me for the district, the preachers will please send the names of the places for holding the Quarterly Conferences. Place of address: Minden, Louisiana.

28 S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Columbia circuit, at Columbia	Feb. 13, 14
Caldwell and Dugdemona mission, at Welcome Home	20, 21
Montgomery circuit, at Montgomery	27, 28
Harrisonburg and Sicily Island	Mar. 6, 7
Trinity circuit, at Trinity	13, 14
Centerville circuit and Little River mission, at Trout Creek	Apr. 17, 18
Alexandria	24, 25
Rapides circuit, at Pleasant Grove	May 1, 2

Members of the several Quarterly Conferences are specially requested to be in attendance.

28 J. H. STONE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

New Iberia	Jan. 30, 31
Franklin	Feb. 6, 7
Pattersonville	13, 14
Abbeville	20, 21
Opelousas	27, 28
Washington	Mar. 6, 7
Evergreen	13, 14
Spring Creek	20, 21
Lake Charles	27, 28
Vermillionville	Apr. 10, 11

The District Conference and district stewards' meeting will be held at Vermillionville, beginning on Thursday, April 8.

21 J. E. CONN, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTMENT in this country is now to be found at the

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,

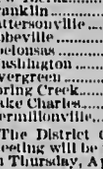
55.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....55

Breech-Loading Guns from $25 to $300. Muzzle-Loading Eng. Twist and Laminated Steel Barrels from $10 to $150. Rifles of every description, Eley's Shells of all sizes, Eley's Caps, Brass Cartridges, all sizes, Powder, Shot, Powder Flasks, Shot Pouches, Game Bags, Hunter's Accoutrements and Fancy Articles—the best assortment. The largest and best assortment of Fishing Tackle ever imported, such as Artificial Baits, Braided Silk Lines, Gigs, etc., etc.

Dealers and Sportsmen are respectfully invited to call and examine our goods before purchasing elsewhere. We feel confident that they will save money by doing so. Address

R. RHODES,
Liquidator of firm of F. Charleville,
P. O. Box 1589, New Orleans, La.

TAKE NOTICE.—The concern is being liquidated with a view to its being continued with greater facilities than ever. ja21 2m



MRS. M. G. BROWN'S LUXURIOUS EAR PREPARATION does for the body what the rain does for the earth (the body is earth.) It gives marrage to the head and trunk, removing all obstructions and plugging from the system. It cleanses the Lungs, Heart and Liver, breaks up the worst cold, and does wonders for the entire body. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $1, $1 50 and 50 cents per bottle. ☞ The Ear Preparation is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery, which cures Deafness, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, etc. oct8 1yeow

HENRY ERBEN & CO.,

ORGAN MANUFACTURERS,

235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-Third St.,

Bet. Second and Third Aves., NEW YORK.

There are seventeen Organs in this city of our make, among them the largest. au27 1yeow

EPILEPSY OR FITS cured by the use of Ross' Epileptic Remedies. Trial packages free. For circulars, evidence of success, etc., address ROSS BROS., No. 257 Main street, Richmond, Ind. ja21 13t6ow

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS, TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS, TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS, SETS OF GLASS, Etc.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for $15 00
to wit:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers,	2 Pickle Shells

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above $18 00
A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces 30 00
Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from ..... $30 upwards.
White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00
White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces 4 00
French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces 6 50
French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces 7 50
Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street,
de17 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware,

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. ja7 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

TEETH! .....TEETH!

GREAT  REDUCTION.

$30—Gold and Platinum Sets—$30.
Usual charge, $100.

$15—Aluminum and Other Materials—$15.
Usual charge, $50.

$2—Gold Fillings—$2.
Usual charge, $5.

$1—Silver, Amalgam and Gullois Cement Fillings—$1. Usual charge, $3.

DR. G. A. BETANCOURT,

173.....ST. JOSEPH STREET.....173

Between Camp and St. Charles streets,

New Orleans, La.

offers to insert Sets of TEETH at the above prices, with or without the extraction of the roots.

Warrants the purity of all materials, as also the fitting of Plates, stability and duration of fillings, as if paid the highest prices.

Extractions and other operations performed by means of anæsthetic agents. Toothache cured instantaneously. Consultations gratis. ja21 1y

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI,
ja11 1m Proprietor.

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by Dr. A. DERENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. B. SHEARER,
ja14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Puydras.

WANTED—SCHOOL.

A gentleman of many years' experience, qualified to teach the Classics (Ancient and Modern) and Higher Mathematics, desires a position as TEACHER in Louisiana or Mississippi. Can produce the highest testimonials, both as to character and capacity. Correspond with ja28 2t Toon's Station, Tennessee.

J. E. HOPKINS,

STAINED GLASS.

WM. NELSON, 23 Market street, Pittsburg, Pa. Send for circulars. oct15 6m

RAILROADS.

NEW ORLEANS, ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO RAILROAD CO.

(Great Jackson Route.)

Trains depart and arrive as follows, from Calliope street Depot:

DEPART.
Express	7.00 A. M.
Mail	0.00 P. M
ARRIVE.
Express	11.00 P. M.
Mail	10.30 A. M.

PULLMAN PALACE SLEEPING-CARS THROUGH TO ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO AND LOUISVILLE.

Only one change of Sleeping-Cars to Eastern cities.

Tickets for sale and information given at 22 Camp street, corner of Common.

A. D. SHELDON, Agent.
E. D. FROST, General Manager. dc3 6m

NEW ORLEANS, MOBILE AND TEXAS RAILROAD.

THE MOBILE LINE is the shortest and most reliable route to New York and all Northeastern cities. Pullman Palace Cars, via this line only, to Louisville, Atlanta and Charlotte. But one change to all principal Northern and Eastern cities.

Express Train leaves Depot, foot of Canal street, daily at 4.15 P. M.

For tickets and information apply at office of Mobile Line, corner of Camp and Common streets, opposite City Hotel.

E. P. SHUTE, General Ticket Agent.
C. H. ALLEN, General Manager. no19 3m

STEAMSHIPS—STEAMBOATS.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin Passage $60 00
Steerage Passage 25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf—Foot of Jefferson street.

New York wharf—Pier No. 4, North River

JOHN H. LUDWIOSEN, Agent,
fe12 1y No. 190 Common street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WATERS' NEW SCALE PIANOS,

Square & Upright, are the best made. The touch elastic, the tone powerful, pure and even through the entire scale, yet mellow and sweet.

WATERS' CONCERTO ORGANS

cannot be excelled in tone or beauty; they defy competition. The Concerto Stop is a fine Imitation of the Human Voice.

All are warranted for 6 years. Prices Extremely low for cash, or part cash and balance in monthly or quarterly payments. Second-hand Instruments taken in exchange for new; also for sale at great bargains. Agents Wanted in every county in the United States. A liberal discount to Teachers, Ministers, Churches, Schools, Lodges, etc. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES MAILED.

HORACE WATERS & SON,
481 Broadway, New York. P. O. Box 3567.

SONGS OF GRACE & GLORY.—The best Sunday School Song-Book. By W. F. SHERWIN and S. J. VAIL. 160 pp. Splendid Hymns, Choice Music, Tinted Paper, Superior Binding. Price in Boards, 35c.; $3.60 per Dozen; $30 per 100. A Specimen Copy, in Paper Cover, mailed for Twenty-five Cents.

Six New Songs! in Pamphlet Form, for Sunday Schools, Concerts or Anniversaries, *from "Songs of Grace and Glory." Price, $3 per 100. Specimen Copy of the Anni

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1875. NO. 7.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

MILWAUKEE, February 3.—The eleventh ballot elects Angus Cameron, of Lacrosse. The vote was as follows: Cameron, 68; Carpenter, 59; scattering, 4. The Democratic caucus nominated Cameron, and, aided by the bolters, effected the above result.

The election of Mr. Cameron was brought about by a coalition of the Democrats with the bolting Republicans.

The latter offered the Democrats four names from which they might choose a candidate: Judge Cole, Ex-Governor Lewis, General Guttey and Hon. Angus Cameron.

The Democratic caucus, held last night, nominated Mr. Cameron, conditionally upon his acceptance of the platform that includes hard money, tariff for revenue only, and the supremacy of civil authority in time of peace.

Mr. Cameron, the senator elect, was born in Caledonia, Livingston county, New York, in 1826. He came to Wisconsin in 1857, and has served six years in the State Legislature, and was speaker of the Assembly in 1867. He is a lawyer and a prominent member of the Episcopal Church.

DUBUQUE, Feb. 4.—A train is fast in the snow seventy miles hence, with thirty passengers without food or fuel. Assistance has been sent. Terrible snow storms prevail. The thermometer is from twenty-three to twenty-six degrees below zero.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The annual conference of the Congregational churches of New York, Brooklyn and vicinity was held to-day. Reports from different churches were received; among them was one from Plymouth church, showing an increase of eighty members since last year, and declaring the congregation were confident that the ministrations of their pastor were blessed by God.

FALL RIVER, MASS., Feb. 6.—The strike among the mill operatives continues. Nearly two thousand weavers and spinners, mostly females, have been idle nearly a fortnight.

WHEELING, Feb. 6.—The Senate passed a bill removing the capital to Wheeling. It is thought the House will concur.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Grant's Casarish message regarding Arkansas is the main question. It was concocted without cabinet consultation. Two if not three members of the cabinet deprecate the message, and the House will undoubtedly adhere to the report of its committee. It is so currently believed as to make it probable that two portfolios will change hands after the fourth. Jewell will almost certainly lose his, and Bristow's grasp is feeble.

The removal of McCook and the substitution of Routt to Colorado, as Governor, indicates the intention to force her into the Union. The President is fond of McCook, but he is not sufficiently Radical to engineer a Territory into the Union. With Routt at the helm, two Radical senators are assured.

The New York Tribune says that Grant's arrogant action toward Arkansas will make more Liberal Radicals change front.

It is feared Pinchback will be seated, which will really settle the Louisiana matter.

FOREIGN.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 1, via Havana, Feb. 5.—On the evening of the twenty-sixth ultimo a mob attacked the Protestant church recently established in Acapulco by Rev. M. M. Hutchinson, superintendent of the Presbyterian mission. The rioters were armed with machetes and rifles. Mr. Hutchinson escaped and took refuge on a United States man-of-war in the harbor.

General Mejia, commandant of the castle, ordered out the troops and charged upon the mob. Four Mexicans and one American were killed, and eleven others were wounded. Among the latter was Mejia's adjutant. None of the rioters have been arrested.

An investigation is in progress, and reinforcements have been sent to the city to protect the judge who is taking testimony.

The State government of Oaxaca has offered large cash premiums to encourage the production and exportation of coffee and sugar.

MADRID, Feb. 3.—General Morlones has succored Pampeluna.

In an engagement yesterday at Otlezca, between the Royalists and Carlists, the latter were defeated.

The Alfonsist troops are advancing victoriously.

The Pope wrote a letter to Don Carlos expressing sympathy for his cause, but advises him to reconsider his determination to continue the war, as the dignity of the Catholic Church in Spain has been vindicated and the rights of the clergy recognized by Alfenso.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A meeting of the Liberal members of Parliament was held this evening and was attended by one hundred and thirty-seven gentlemen. Among those present were H. C. Childers, Cowper Temple, Lewis L. Dillwyn, W. H. Gladstone, George J. Goschen, Henry J. Ames, Robert Low, A. J. Mundella and Dr. Lyon Playfair. John Bright was chosen to preside. On taking the chair he said that although a Parliamentary leader was necessary, still each member had a right to reserve such individual liberty as honorable men required.

A resolution regretting Mr. Gladstone's retirement was adopted after an eloquent eulogy by Mr. Fawcett. Mr. Vallliers then nominated the Marquis of Hartington for the leadership of the party. Mr. Mooley, who was originally in favor of Mr. Forster, seconded the nomination, and pledged the marquis his support, and that of his friends. The Marquis of Hartington was then unanimously elected. Mr. Bright, in his closing speech, congratulated the meeting on its choice.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Bismarck is suffering from a nervous affection. The prince seems determined to retire after his sixtieth birthday.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Carlist committee here have intelligence of a great victory. Seven thousand Alfonsists have been killed and wounded. Don Carlos has issued a congratulatory proclamation.

It is snowing in southern England.

A Special Message.

THE PRESIDENT DECLARES IN FAVOR OF BROOKS AS GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS.

To the Senate of the United States:

Herewith I have the honor to send, in accordance with the resolution of the Senate of the third instant, all the information in my possession, not heretofore furnished, relating to affairs in the State of Arkansas.

I will venture to express the opinion that all the testimony shows that in the election of 1872 Joseph Brooks was lawfully elected Governor of that State; that he has been unlawfully deprived of the possession of his office since that time; that in 1874 the constitution of the State was by violence, intimidation and revolutionary proceedings overthrown, and a new constitution adopted and a new State government established. These proceedings, if permitted to stand, practically ignore all rights by minorities in all the States also. What is there to prevent each of the States recently readmitted to Federal relations on certain conditions from changing their constitutions and violating their pledges, if this action in Arkansas is acquiesced in? I respectfully submit whether a precedent so dangerous to the stability of a State government, if not of the national government also, should be recognized by Congress.

I earnestly ask that Congress will take definite action in this matter, to relieve the executive from acting upon questions which should be decided by the legislative branch of the government. U. S. GRANT.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Feb. 8, 1875.

CAUCUS ON THE ARKANSAS MESSAGE.

The caucus over the President's Arkansas message was discordant. Some senators were unwilling to commit themselves until they had seen documents. The Arkansas senators are anxious for speedy action upon the message.

The opinion prevails that the Republican members of the House will sustain the report of the majority of their select committee, notwithstanding the President's message for senatorial action.

Celestial New Year Day.

Observing an unusual stir among our Chinese citizens yesterday morning, their stores being closed and all business suspended, we made inquiry as to the cause, and learned that it was New Year day according to the calendar of the celestial empire.

Last year this festival fell upon the sixteenth of February; this year, which with the Chinese has but three hundred and fifty-four days, it came on the fifth; and next year, which has thirteen months, it will occur on the eighteenth of the same month. Their last festival, corresponding to our Christmas, was on the thirty-first of December, and the next will be on the twenty-first of January, 1876.

New Year day (Sunnanno, as they call it) is a day of religious devotion, feasting and visiting, and in the flowery kingdom it is kept up by the poor for five or six days and by the rich for one month.

Yesterday we called on Loung Sing, of the Oregon laundry, No. 41 Rampart street, who courteously received us, and urged that we should partake of the delicacies prepared for the occasion. These consisted in part of sweet potatoes, cut in strips and dried, and afterward fried with a sirup, making a delicious dish; "Lio gle con," a Chinese dried fruit, which favors the acorn in appearance, and the date in flavor; oranges, candied rice, very much like the macaroni cakes sold in our confectionery steres; a paste made of beans, dried in strips and then cooked; sweet beans in jelly, a very pleasant article; and the Chinese substitute for tobacco, which Loung Sing assured us "preserves the teeth and sweetens the breath."

During their worship they burn candles and straw-like tapers, made from sandal wood, which fill the room with sweet odor.

At Wing Chung's tea store, on Chartres street, the table was handsomely decorated with natural lilies, brought from China, and rich ornaments. Here also the display of sweetmeats was profuse.

There are three religions in China, all of which are upon an equal footing—one based upon the teachings of Buddha, another based on the teachings of La-otse, and another based upon the teachings of Confucius.

Most of the Chinese in California, it is said, are Buddhists, and we take it that the Chinese, for the most part, in this section also hold to that belief, although this religion did not originate in China, as did those based upon the teachings of La-otse and Confucius, but was introduced into that country from India, its teachings having been translated from the Sanscrit into the Chinese language.—New Orleans Picayune, February 6.

From the Work.

PRATTVILLE DISTRICT, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—To the Preachers and Members of the Prattville District, Alabama Conference—Dear Brethren: I take this method to inform you that I am kept at home, and from meeting my appointments, by sickness in my family. My wife has been suffering for two weeks from a violent attack of pneumonia. She is something better, but improving very slowly. Her babe was not quite three weeks old when she was taken sick, and of course she is very feeble.

Our second daughter, just grown, was taken sick on yesterday, and is now confined to her bed. We are having a hard time of it, and hope that you will remember and pray for us in our affliction and distress. As soon as the Lord will permit I will be at my post.

Affectionately, J. W. SHORES.

GEORGIANA, ALA., Feb. 6, 1875.

BASTROP, LOUISIANA.—Mr. Editor: We arrived about a week ago, and are now comfortably settled in the new parsonage the church is building here. We were received very warmly. No telling what they would have done if it had not rained just as and when it did. The parsonage is also furnished—not yet completely—and as to supplies, they are still coming in. May the Lord bless the people in their loving efforts to make us glad and comfortable! Since the memorable night of January 11 I admit I have had Bastrop on the brain, having turned much of my studies and cares this way; but you see Bastrop has had the preacher's welfare on the heart. If the preachers at Conference could anticipate anything like such fare, from what fearful forebodings would they be often saved, and how much more effectual service would they be enabled to render the church afterward, and gladly too.

W. P. OWEN, P. C.

FEBRUARY 6, 1875.

WARRINGTON, FLORIDA, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—Mr. Editor: I was sent by the Alabama Conference to this place; have been doing what I could, "in my way," to advance the cause and honor of my Master and church. Have gone to work building a church here; everybody is helping; the frame is up; men new at work putting up the weatherboards and steeple, and we expect to worship in it in less than two months. O how sadly have they needed a preacher here! During the epidemic last year men, women and children were buried without a word over their graves—not a Protestant minister within nine miles. The interest in our church and Sabbath school will tell how much they needed the word and a pastor here; even my poor service has been a blessing. I found no church, no organization, no Sabbath school. Now we have a fair membership, full boards of stewards and trustees, and a Sabbath school of over fifty children, besides the grown people and large Bible class. I declare to you that I am not entitled to any credit, and do not tell you this to seek it; but the "smoking flax" was here, and my being sent here and coming put the spark. Our services are held pro tem. in the hall of the I. O. of O. F., and every meeting is crowded as I scarcely ever saw before in all my life. We have purchased the "Gem" song-book for our Sunday school, and our "practice meetings" are crowded with little, big, old and young folks; and some of the men who work in the navy yard have requested me to hold my singing school at night, so they can attend. I do assure you, and through you my many friends, that I never saw so much interest manifested in a place where there was such a very insignificant preacher to cause it. Our subscription list for the church has some names on it with $50 after them, and it also has the name of Commodore Cooper, Captain A. A. Semmes, C. B. McGruder, all of the United States navy, and will have (so they tell me) many others of both navy and army. God's work is neither political nor sectarian here. I intend to publish the entire list some of these days. If you won't do it free—well, I'll get the folks down here to pay for it.

PRESTON NASH, P. C.

FEBRUARY 4, 1875.

THE Conservative legislative caucus met yesterday at eleven o'clock, and went into executive session to receive the report of the committee appointed last night to wait on the Congressional committee this morning, the result of whose labors is given under the head of "Departure of the Congressional Committee," elsewhere.

It has transpired that the resolution looking to a plan for adjustment was carried almost unanimously last night by the caucus.

The caucus adjourned at quarter-past twelve, to meet this morning at eleven o'clock, secrecy being enjoined.—New Orleans Picayune, February 10.

A NEW METHOD has been proposed for crossing the English Channel. This is to construct an artificial isthmus between the French and English sides, leaving a very small space in the center for the passage of ships. The expense would not be much larger than that of boring a tunnel, and the advantage would in some respects be greater.

Katie King Literature.

The folly of humanity is a perpetual sorrow. The forlorn nonsense of "spiritualism" has had of late a resurrection on the authority of certain so-called "scientists," who made what they called "investigations" into some new phenomena.

The new phenomena were the "materializations" of spirits, it was claimed. Dead people made themselves visible, actually talking and walking, and shook hands with living people. The living people gave them oranges and flowers, and chains and crosses, and the dead people let the living people feel their pulses, and gave them pieces clipped from their dresses, even locks of hair from their heads, and photographs!

One of these spirits called herself "Katie King"—a pert, ungrammatical young woman, dead, according to her own story, for about three centuries, but still chattering "I-be," "You shan't," "No, sir, you're stoopid!" just like an uncultured Yankee girl out of a factory.

And thus "spirits," doings have been the theme of elaborate reports in several newspapers and magazines. Especially Mr. Robert D. Owen has been allowed to tell all about her sayings and doings in such a magazine as the Atlantic.

We do not remember in a long time seeing so pitiful an exhibition of human dotage and maundering imbecility as the last two or three numbers of this magazine have given a place in what is considered respectable company.

The writer sees a rosy-cheeked, bouncing young woman, who kisses him, shakes hands with him, receives presents from him, chatters with him in sublime indifference to Lindley Murray and Goold Brown, gives him locks of her hair and bits of her dress, and behaves, in short, as many an unmeaning, sprightly and enterprising young woman has behaved with an old gentleman of weak intellect and some wealth before; and Mr. Owen writes all her nonsense down, and all his own more nonsensical reflections, sentimentalities and senilities, and then asks us to believe that because he does not know how this young woman got into the "cabinet" (a dark box out of which she puts her hands and face,) that therefore this very flesh-and-blood young woman is "a spirit" who has learned how to "materialize" herself after three hundred years!

The trick, as he relates it, had not even the merit of originality. It had been tried over and over again in London, and somewhere in Vermont, we believe. In each case the photographs of the "spirit" were as unlike as they well could be, and her dialect and tone of voice different. But these trifling circumstances disturbed nobody's faith in the cheap trick.

A sliding panel in the "cabinet," connected with another room, is, it turns out, as all reasonable people knew beforehand, the explanation of the mystery over which Mr. Owen in the last Atlantic constructs what he thinks an unanswerable syllogism—positively as simple a contrivance as a sliding panel baffled the "scientists" and the "eminent investigators."

"Katie King," at least in Philadelphia—Mr. Owen's Katie King—is a smart young widow, who took that method to pay the rent she owed the medium! and now begs pardon for her deception.

A thousand such "exposes" will not restore reason to Mr. Owen nor his kind. They stand ready to be cheated by the most primitive and clumsy bit of stage property to-morrow.

But is it too much to ask that magazines of the standing of the Atlantic Monthly shall not treat a patient community to pages of stuff like Mr. Owen's, insulting to human intelligence, and painful and pitiful to every right-thinking mind as exhibitions of human weakness?

We would be the last to narrow the bounds of "literature," but surely we do not go for literature to "Katie Kings." And old gentlemen who take such young women for spirits, and maunder over them accordingly, can scarcely expect the rest of us to call their maunderings literature.—Church Journal.

Southwestern Bible Society.

MR. EDITOR: I have just read, in your issue of this week, a note from the corresponding secretary of the Southwestern Bible Society in regard to the report of the committee on Bible cause at the late session of the Mississippi Conference, and asking about the dollar. As chairman of the committee I reply: The dollar is on hand, and I herewith send it to you, to be turned over to the society. It would have been sent long ago had I known the name of any officer of the society. As the report sets forth, we had no communication of any kind from the society, and were in total ignorance as to its condition and operations. If the society shall see fit to send to our next annual session a report of its condition and work, it will receive respectful notice by the Conference. Please send the dollar to the society.

Very sincerely, WILL. H. LEITH.

BRANDON, MISS., Feb. 6, 1875.

A WIDE-AWAKE minister, who found his congregation going to sleep before he had fairly commenced, suddenly exclaimed:

"Brethren; this ain't fair. Wait till I get along, and then, if I ain't worth listening to, go to sleep; but don't before I commence. Give a man a chance."

How It Was Done on Jan. 4, 1875.

To the Democratic-Conservative Members of the Legislature, assembled in caucus:

In order further to throw light upon the infamous act against which we protest, we have prepared, and herewith have the honor to submit, a minute of the exact manner in which the army of the United States appeared upon the floor of our House, and, at the point of the bayonet, drove thence the elected representatives of the people.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

Hon. L. A. Wiltz, of Orleans, speaker of the House, having from his chair refused to call, or allow to be called by the clerk of the House, Mr. Trezevant, or the person—one Vigers—designated in General De-Trobriand's orders, any roll or list of persons, for the purpose claimed, of identifying certain members of the House, duly sworn, with a view to their expulsion by the army of the United States, General DeTrobriand, in full uniform, with sword by his side, preceded by Mr. Campbell, self-stated to be an agent of Governor Kellogg, and accompanied by Mr. Anderson, a member of the Returning Board, who together acted as detectives and identifiers, appeared in the presence of certain members of the House, to wit: Messrs. J. O'Quin, F. R. Vaughn, G. W. Stafford, J. Jeffries, R. S. Luckett, C. C. Dunn, G. A. Kelly, J. J. Horan and A. D. Land, where they sat in their respective places, and did then and there, placing his hand on each gentleman addressed, put to him substantially the following questions:

1. Your name?

2. Have you been returned by the Returning Board? Or, as in one instance, the following: Do you acknowledge that you have not been returned by the Returning Board?

3. My orders being to eject you from the hall of the House of Representatives, do you yield at once, or shall I apply force to you by calling within the bar a file of soldiers?

4. There is the captain with his soldiers; you will retire.

And so on to the ninth member (Mr. Land) were these gentlemen thus ignominiously arrested, and, despite their public protests, their appeals to the speaker and the House for protection (which neither could afford,) forced from their seats, at the point of the bayonet, by the soldiers of the United States.

Seeing that the difficulty of identifying members for expulsion was becoming great, the said Campbell demanded that those whom he recognized as members should all stand on one side, for his convenience of selecting; but he was warmly informed by a representative that he was himself an intruder, and without right or warrant to be upon the floor of the House, much less to dictate to members where or why they should stand or sit.

Thereupon, still professing to act in the name and in place of Kellogg, said Campbell demanded from General DeTrobriand that he should intervene force between Speaker Wiltz and Vigers, that the latter might read a roll or list of persons, as stated in the commencement of this narrative, and for the furtherance of the same object of identification and extrusion.

It may be conceived that the supreme moment for the speaker to vindicate the imperiled rights of the House had at length arrived; therefore, when a file of United States soldiers, with fixed bayonets, came to an "order arms" before his seat, he arose therefrom and spoke as follows:

"As the legal speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana, I again protest against the invasion of our hall by the soldiers of the United States, with loaded muskets and fixed bayonets.

"We have seen our brother members violently seized by force of arms and torn from us in spite of their solemn protest. We have seen a file of soldiers march up the aisle of the hall of the House of Representatives of Louisiana, and have protested against this in the name of a once free people. In the name of the downtrodden State of Louisiana, I again enter my solemn protest.

"Gentlemen, the chair of the speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana is surrounded by United States troops, the hall of the House of Representatives is in possession of armed forces, and I call upon the representatives of the State of Louisiana to retire with me from their presence."

The treasonable acts of these subverters of public liberty, being thus perfected, the honorable speaker, in company with all the Democratic-Conservative members, left the hall—no longer of representatives of the General Assembly of Louisiana.

If we have dwelt thus at some length upon the mere details of the overthrow of a sovereign State, and her reduction to be a province of a central, armed, irresponsible government, it is that other States may see and know the process whereby their own overthrow can be most readily accomplished.

Louisiana, enslaved by the arms originally intended, and once victoriously used for her defense, can but remind New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and her other sister States that, in the language of President Lincoln, "this country cannot remain part slave and part free;" and that when the soldiers of the United States entered her hall and expelled the lawfully elected members of her House they constructively entered every Legislature, and dismissed at the point of the bayonet the Assembly of every State in the Union. Nor is it extravagant to say that even the houses of Congress, honorable and eminent as they may be, are not too exalted to be subjected to a similar subversion in a similar emergency.

EDW. HOOTH,
Sub-Committee and Representative from First Ward, Parish of Orleans.

JANUARY 5, 1875.

Now and Then.

MR. EDITOR: When the Mississippi and Alabama Conferences hold their sessions I look with no little anxiety for the appointments of the preachers—anxious to know how the land of my youth is being religiously cultivated. You know that the land that gave us birth; and the gleeful scenes and enactments of childhood always find green spots in our recollections. So, having in other days traversed southern Alabama and Mississippi, from the Chattahoochee to the Mississippi river, and retaining, as I trust I do, all my interest in the church I love, it affords me no little pleasure, in this far-off land, to mark her progress, her divisions and subdivisions, her advancements and triumphs; and I feel an especial interest in the welfare of those ministers that then and there led on the little band of Immanuel's soldiers to the contest. Under question 18—Who are the superannuated preachers in the Alabama Conference?—I find, in part, this answer: E. V. Levert, too feeble to attend the session; Thomas Abernathy. Among the appointments I find the name of A. S. Dickinson, a near kinsman. We were members of the same class, licensed to exhort and preach, and entered the Conference at the same time. These, I think, are the only men that I now recognize that were then in the Conference.

In the Mississippi Conference I find, under the above question, the names of J. G. Jones, Thomas Clinton and Barnabas Pipkin. These three, as I now remember, are the only remaining men who were in that Conference in the year 1830.

So time is doing its work! The men of other days are gone to their reward. Only six remaining in two Annual Conferences who were laborers there forty-four years ago, and these are not prepared to move off in the front rank. It is true, the harness is still on, but they can only watch and guard some local interests that are within their limited sphere.

Do you ask me: What of your adopted State religiously? We reply that we have a widespread field that is ready for the harvest, and is being cultivated by as noble a band of Christian soldiers as can be found in any land. From the Sabine to the Rio Grande, and from the gulf to the Indian Territory, in every village and hamlet, the word of life is being disseminated; and although we stand in great need of men, yet we push the battle to the very gate, even where the rifle and six-shooter are thought to be necessary appendages.

The subject of religious education also comes in for a large share of interest and attention. All over the State colleges and high schools are in successful operation. Chappell Hill, located in Washington county, has long been an educational center for the Methodist Episcopal Church South in Texas; and although the results of the war damaged us materially, yet we have successfully overcome all embarrassments. We have there a new, tasteful and well-arranged building. Dr. Pitts stands at the head of Chappell Hill Female College; and he, with his faculty, knows no superior in his department. President McNeely, of the male college, moves quietly along, esteemed and loved by all. They are doing a noble work here for the youth of the land.

J. MATTHEWS.

CHAPPELL HILL, Feb. 1, 1875.

Homer College.

MR. EDITOR: Dr. T. B. Gordon has arrived and is now in charge of Homer College, and so far is giving perfect satisfaction to the board of trustees, citizens and students. Indeed we believe here that he is one of the best, if not the very best, instructors we ever saw. He has a happy art of imparting instruction, and is, no doubt, one of the best disciplinarians of the age. The prospects now are that under Dr. Gordon's administration the institution will prosper as never before. The tuition is free to all students in the college for the present year, and possibly for many years to come.

The total expense at Homer College, for a session of five months, is only $76.50. This includes board, washing, bedding, fuel, lights—each student furnishing his own lamp—and contingent fee. Of this amount the contingent fee ($1.50) is payable on the day of entrance, and the remainder monthly in advance.

THOS. J. UPTON,
Financial Sec. Homer College.

HOMER, LA., Feb. 4, 1875.

THAT was a just and yet an awful rebuke administered by Senator Schurz when he said, in the Senate of the United States, speaking of colored men being discharged by employers for voting the wrong ticket: "I cannot forget that, as to the discharge of laborers from employment for political cause, a most seductive and demoralizing example is set by the highest authority in the land." This applies to all "authorities," Democratic and Republican, who turn good men out of office who vote the wrong way. Party spirit is the bane of republics.—New York Observer.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1875.

LINES TO MRS. MOLLIE G. M. L., ON THE DEATH OF HER INFANT.

BY V. W. T.

Could words, like softest music, flow
From far-off lutes at eventide,
Full well I know
These could not soothe
A mother's woe
When death has hushed, in dreamless rest,
The babe that slumbered on her breast.
Her anguished soul could only hear,
Above the sweetest strains that rise,
A voice whose fullest tones are dear
As life unto a mother's ear.

Could words, like radiant beams of light,
The fairest scenes of earth portray,
Her tear-dim'd sight
Could not endure
These visions bright;
One little form, so pure and fair,
The object of her tenderest care,
No more her loving gaze will greet;
But, consigning into silent dust,
Its dimpled hands and tiny feet
Lie folded 'neath a winding-sheet.

Since words are vain and empty things,
And earth, with all its dwelling show,
No comfort brings
The weary soul
That folds its wings—
Wearied of the noise and strife,
And all that makes this troubled life—
O weeping mother! lift thine eyes
Above the narrow shores of time,
Behold, where many mansions rise,
Thy beauteous home beyond the skies!

The darling babe hath entered in;
A loving Savior bade it come.
There, free from sin,
And far above
This earthly din,
A glorious life that never ends,
Where love with joy and friendship blends,
And every sense to mortals given,
Of sight or sound, or taste refined,
Made pure, shall be enlarged in heaven,
Ransomed from the fall in Eden.

ALLEGHANY SPRINGS, Virginia.

A Conference Letter.

DEAR JONES: As I promised you a letter soon after Conference, I will take this opportunity to redeem my promise. There were many things connected with the trip which contributed to make it one of the most interesting occasions since the days when St. Paul took his carriage for the memorable conference at Jerusalem. There is quite a difference in the mode of getting to Conference now to what existed in the halcyon days of Asbury, McKendree and others. Then "Old Gray" and "Old Dunn" carried them to and from Conference at very reduced rates, thus saving steamboatmen from displaying some noble charities. But now the boats have the start, and while "Old Dunn" is at home in a solitary stall, enjoying a fine season of recreation, his master has mounted a noble steamer and is steaming away to Conference. To tell the truth, Jones, these steamboats are a convenience, with all their failings and shortcomings, and have saved many a precious life from exposure and hardship.

Our Conference convened on Wednesday, as you know most of them do. Bishop I. is at the helm, and you will doubtless hear of some good things concerning him. Our Conference has the same good old-fashioned, hearty Methodist look that yours in the mountains has; the same discerning, inquiring eye, the same hearty hand-shaking and genial converse that you meet with in no other legislative body in the world. In legislatures some are members of every profession; but here all are one, in one work. And the grand focal point of the whole assembly is the Bishop, who, having ascended, step by step, every round of the itinerant ladder, is an exalted and an intensified specimen of a well-developed itinerant.

I want to give you some items about the place and the social surroundings where we convened. Indeed the natural advantages are unsurpassed by any country in the South. Cane fields, orange groves and splendid farm-houses surround us everywhere, while at our feet rolls the grandest river of the globe, upon whose bosom is borne the richest and most varied productions of every clime. Jones, you ought to transfer here just to get an idea of it, for I am sure no language can depict it in sufficiently glowing colors. The society is largely Roman Catholic, speaking the Ashdod lingo of the French Creole. However, the Anglo-American population compose as wealthy, refined and religious a class of people as are to be found in the nation. Of course every one of these was delighted to see us and to welcome us to their homes, where we all met with the most princely hospitality. My room-mate was a clever gentleman indeed, and well understands the profitable and pleasing art of making himself agreeable to the happy family where we abode during Conference. I expect it was the result of a shrewd calculation on his part, as he is an old bachelor, and there were several young ladies in and about the family, who had upon several occasions been heard to say that it must be delightful to be a preacher's wife.

Among the Catholic people we found many persons who appeared more friendly than ordinary, and I sincerely trust that they may have received a sufficient amount of light to reveal the startling errors and tragedies propagated and enacted by Romish authority in all their revolting aspects. Many of these good people are worshiping at a false temple reared on Mount Gerizim, rather than at the true temple on Mount Zion. But few of them know what spiritual regeneration is, while those priests who grant absolution to others are themselves in the chains of darkness and sin. In dress and appearance these men somehow or other remind me of my ideal of the black priests of Baal, who withstood Elijah. Did it ever occur to you, Jones, that the logical sequence of Catholic doctrines is the exclusion of every Dominican, Franciscan, Capuchin and Jesuit priest from the kingdom of heaven? Here it is: "No person can enter heaven without partaking of the sacraments." But marriage is a sacrament. Hence no unmarried priest can get to heaven. Judging from the smoke that generally surrounds these ecclesiastics upon this question, I think it a chance if many of them escape final shipwreck.

I revert again to the more pleasant associations of Conference. I shall not go through with the business formalities of Conference, for these are better known to you than to me. Rather extraordinary, but we had a good old-fashioned revival in the auditorium, while the Conference sat in the basement of the church. The Bishops worked in the altar with all the ardor of younger days. The singing was congregational, and was led by our Handel. It seemed as though the melodies of the earth had been joined to the harmonies of the sky, "until angels descended with songs again, and earth repeated the long amen." I love the sacred peal of the organ; it awes and mellows my soul; but full-volumed, living praise, rising like tumultuous waves, lifts the whole congregation, as on eagle's wings, into the presence of him who delighteth in praise. Jones, I believe we have some of the most finished men in our Conference that there are in the whole church—real preachers, men whose eloquence can wake all the tuneful soul of love, or make the powers of darkness tremble as an earthquake. We have a real Cicero, a genuine Demosthenes, a living Chrysostom and a Luther. You may be sure that sin heard from them during Conference. The Bishop preached in great simplicity, and with a pathos and power that slew to make alive.

I want to tell you about the love-feast on Sabbath morning. A few lectured the church, others went into poetic rhapsody, but the most of them said: "I love Jesus;" "I'll be disappointed if I don't get to heaven." Then a song; then a shaking of hands all over Conference; then a shout; then the glory of the Lord descended and baptized the mercy-seat with an unction which, like the dew on Hermon, descended until every heart was filled. Oh, what heart so cold as not to be "strangely warmed!"

We have a grand missionary enterprise of which we claim to be the originators. I allude to Mexico. Bishop B. originated it, but then you know we originated him; and, as one of our members is already there, we claim it. The Bishop says we are a Southern church, and that our mission is south. A continent and vast chains of islands lie at our feet. The Bishop has been to spy out the land. He is no false spy, nor is he a mere grape-hunter, but he brings some trophies, and returns to the host full of the land, with the story that there are no lions in the way, nor anything larger than grasshoppers to oppose an invincible faith. My brother, as I heard him talk I felt the missionary fire burning in my bones; but, like a chained eagle, I could only rise to the length of my chain. Suppose we offer ourselves as volunteers to go abroad to heathen wretchedness and woe. "He that saveth a soul from death" shall shine "as the stars forever."

Well, Bro. Jones, you have experienced the agony felt in reading out the appointments. The announcement hushes the troubled waters; the clouds bank up along the sky; the sea turns a dull, lemon color; the ship lays heavily upon the waters, her sails hang loosely on the yards, and the sailors look anxiously at each other. Oh, for a bright heart at such a moment! What reflections agitate the heart! They may send me to some town where foul epidemics come, and then I cannot flee as an hireling, and so perchance must die; or to some poor, rude circuit, where my wife's life will be a burden, and her tears her only joy; or to some aristocratic circuit, where our hearts will be frozen with formality and indifference; or to some place where a hut will be our home and housing from the chilling blasts of winter; or to some swamp, to find a stranger's grave. Oh, for a hiding-place from such tormenting fears! Oh, Rock of Ages, I hide myself in thee! Now I'm ready to hear it. Almost insensible, the announcement rushes upon me like the blast of a trumpet. Thank the Lord, I am landed again, and on a good but a difficult work. But I remember last year—its joys, its pleasures, its lessons, its endearments and associations. And now I am a stranger again. Well, no, not quite, for the people have been looking for me, and are glad to see me. Besides, I come with the indorsement of the whole church and the special appointment of the Bishop. No, I am not a strangor among Methodists who are so good, and stewards who are so considerate.

Well, my dear brother, I must close. Write soon and tell me all the news. If you get any "dots," let me have them. My love to your good wife. May she ever, as Mary of old, be found at the feet of Jesus. Tell her that I hope she did not suffer in her move as much as my wife and children did. Indeed it was a trying move to me. Farewell. The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you and your house forever. Direct to me in care of ADVOCATE, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Your brother, JOHN SMITH.

INJUN VILLAGE, LA., Jan. 25, 1875.

Of What Use?

MR. EDITOR: In your issue of December — you published an article on the Physical Causes of the Death of Christ. Can the discussion of this subject be of any advantage to society or religion, or in any wise enlarge our faith in his divine mission? If we could ascertain, beyond a doubt, the truth of the theory set forth by Dr. Stroud, what new fact would be evolved which would strengthen his claims on our love and gratitude?

The clergy of the present day are denouncing the theories of Huxley, Tindall and others—not even forgetting Darwin—not more for their impiety than for other reasons of a less objectionable character. Then why encourage a theory which in its solution, if such were possible, would render us neither wiser nor better, which would not enlarge the boundary of thought or furnish any new truths to strengthen our faith in his divine mission? The subject is beyond the demonstration of science. Then let it rest with the years that have gone, until the general resurrection, when we shall be made familiar with the grand secrets of nature, and the grand mystery of life and death will be made manifest.

That he may have died of a broken heart no one can either contradict or affirm; and beyond that we see nothing but useless speculation—quite as valueless as the theories of Darwin, nor less absurd than the theology of Holcombe. We are assured of one fact: that he died that we might live. With the manner of his death we have no concern. His death was foreknown from the beginning. He consented to the sacrifice—came into the world to accomplish an important mission; and that it might be effective, he had to suffer death by violence. And yet we see that with a full knowledge of this great truth, his desire to live, to avoid suffering, and the anguish of dissolution, he prayed that the "cup might pass." He prayed in great agony, for his "sweat was as drops of blood." But we are told that he came into the world to die, "the just for the unjust." His life was a ransom for the sins of the world, and his mission was not complete till he had expiated our offenses by his death; and yet he prayed for life, and only submitted when prayer was no longer available.

His birth was a miracle; and a miracle attended his death such as no one has ever witnessed before or since. The vale of the temple was rent, the dead left their graves and darkness fell upon the land, and in that darkness the mystery of his death has been shrouded for eighteen hundred years. Let us not attempt to lift the pall.

But why should we weep and mourn for one who voluntarily offered his life for the salvation of mankind? Rather let us rejoice that the mission was accomplished, that the Redeemer expiated our offenses, and that to-day he is pleading our cause before the court of heaven, and that in his infinite goodness he sent us a comforter. HATAK TOHBI.

NEW ORLEANS, January 2, 1875.

A Word to Church Members.

MR. EDITOR: As the beginning of a new year is an appropriate time to examine our hearts and surroundings, it would be well, in reviewing the past, to note our deficiencies and reform.

In many respects we have abundant reason to rejoice on account of our prosperity, temporal and spiritual; and though we would not be ungrateful for all these blessings, nor fail to give God the glory, yet we have sufficient cause to be humbled, and should inquire if we have done our whole duty.

In the farming sections of country protracted meetings or special revival efforts seldom occur except in the summer and fall. At such times the people lay aside the cares of the world, and come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty. In answer to the fervent, effectual prayers of the righteous, God is found of them; and as a result the churches are renewed in their spiritual strength, the careless and profligate see the error of their way, and numbers, especially of the young, enlist in the army of King Immanuel.

Now, with proper training and nursing, these young recruits would become a power in the church; but at this critical period, when, above all other times, they should be looked after, instructed and encouraged to press on to the higher life, they are too often left to combat the world, the flesh and the devil all alone. These run well for awhile, but when Christmas, with its usual demoralizing festivities, comes along we have to refer to the church register to decide between the professor and non-professor. I admit there are many honorable exceptions. But where are now some of those who so recently were rejoicing in their first love, and who in the presence of the church took upon themselves the solemn vows to renounce the pomp and vanities of the world? "Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine?" I fear many of our young converts, like the lepers, have not returned to give glory to God. And are not we, the church members, at fault in this matter? We act as though we indorsed the tenet: "Once in grace, always in." Too many of us sit idly by, and leave our pastor to do all the work, forgetting that, when he has done all he can do, there is still room. I am satisfied this seeming disinterestedness is not intentional, but merely the result of our inactivity; yet its baneful influence is painfully apparent to every observant mind.

We may not be able to teach by precept, but our example has a telling influence on those with whom we associate; and for that influence we will be held to a strict account. If church members would live up to their privilege—enjoy pure and undefiled religion, and exemplify it in their lives—the young converts would less frequently turn back to the beggary elements of the world, and seek pleasure at the shrine of worldly amusements. Let us set an example worthy of imitation by seeking and living that "higher life" which the Bible teaches, which Mr. Wesley preached, and which the Home Altar and similar publications are endeavoring to inculcate.

Permit me, in this connection, to say that the Home Altar, published by Rev. William Baker, McMinnville, Tennessee, is being circulated in our country to some extent, and its good results are everywhere visible. C.

MORGAN SPRING, ALA., Jan. 21, 1875.

The True Support.

"Man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward;" and many indeed are the troubles which assail us in this short life. Sometimes our bark glides smoothly on, and peace and happiness are all around. Then, again, the dark clouds of adversity hover over us, darkness gathers, and no star of Hope is visible.

The trials to which we are exposed are different in their nature, but their end may be identical. Some arise from failure in business; all the stock invested may be lost in a day.

"Riches take to themselves wings and fly away," and they who have flourished in opulence and wealth may be reduced to want and poverty. Look at the man of ambition as he endeavors to scale the mountain of Fame. He views his giddy height, and aspires for laurels to be placed in the crown of "one of the few, the immortal names that were not born to die." To-day Hope holds her brilliant meteor high; to-morrow she trails her proud banner in the dust. He realizes the substance fled, and shadows left lingering around him.

Then there are the troubles of affliction, sent by God's own hand—mercies in disguise. The sweet child, the mother's idol, is cold in death. The bud is severed ere it unfurls itself into the blooming rose of youth, to be the pride of the family circle. The wife and mother, whose sacred influence has been felt in the home center for so many years, is borne by the angel of death to the home of the blessed; or perchance he upon whom the wife has leaned, whose strength has been her defense from the cold charities of the world, upon whose strong arm she has been stayed with unshaken confidence, and to whom her heart had turned for comfort in earth's trials, is now taken, and leaves her upon the confines of earth, to struggle alone with her orphan children. How sad would be our state if we should find insecurity written upon all things. But there is a "true support," a firm foundation in the blessed Savior, whose tender sympathy is extended to us. Yes, he who was the "fairest flower in the garden of humanity" did not escape suffering. So he knoweth our troubles, and offers us his grace in our time of need. Why, then, will the heart repine when Jesus is near? Why will the creature turn from his God, and try to drown his troubles in the cup of dissipation, or seek the delusions of sickening draughts of smoke, and spend sleepless nights, to wear out nature and end life as soon as possible? Oh, dark unbelief, thou art shrouding that heart! Like Hagar, thy victim weeps near the well of immortal joy; but she sees it not, or the blind sit wearied and hungry when the table is spread before them. Unloose the fetters that bind thee, troubled heart, and turn thy eye of faith to Jesus, who is the only true support, who can bind up the broken in heart and render thee a thousand-fold for all that thou hast suffered. P. H. MOSS.

GREENVILLE, ALA., Jan. 29, 1875.

Our God.

"For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, the sheep of his hand. To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your heart."—Psalms xcv, 7.

We look around upon the beautiful earth, teeming with souvenirs of a gracious and merciful Creator. Lofty mountains, whose rugged brows frown in terrific grandeur, yet blending with the softening air, fling sweetest echoes round; wide expanse of forest-trees, first green, then gold, then brown, until old winter wraps them in his cloak of snow, and rocks them to sleep to the lullaby of his hoarsest blast; but they are again warmed into new life, and follow the ordinances of that same all-wise Creator. The mighty cataract, in foaming torrents, rushes from precipice to precipice in blinding fury, gushing through tholls of rocks, sweeping all before its path, till, reaching the quiet glade, it ceases its brawling swell and takes up the tune the violets breathe in sweet perfume, and casts no thought to "what has been." In a multitude of voices we hear the praise of nature's God. Delicate flowers, in sweetest fragrance, offer their incense of love and gratitude to him who has given them this language, alone in honor to himself. Hear nature's choir! How they warble in unison notes that thrill the listening ear! At morning, noon and night their orisons of trust and gratitude arise in sweetest strains to their Maker, who notes the tiniest wing that flits through space, and no sparrow falls without his notice. Do you ever feel that there is a holy language, speaking softly and low, in all things that God has created? Does it not whisper to you from the sighing breeze? Do you not hear it in the gentle murmur of the brook, and the mellow tones of the deep, rolling river? Over all the earth it sheds a soft radiance, like the filtering of beams from fair Luna's brow. It is sweet music to mortal hearts, for it is the voice of God's holy love to erring man.

Then let us, whom God hath given dominion, not be more callous than nature and her household, but give to our Creator that honor and reverence that belong to him, and that love and gratitude it is our dear-bought privilege to offer him. Let us show our trust by our faith, and our faith by our works. Let us not "harden our heart," but in all humility hear his voice and abide by his precepts. Then shall we be "blessed among the people," and "no good thing be withholden from us." EMMIE K. BAILEY.

"And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me."—Matthew x, 38.

The "cross" is a Jewish and Roman figure for extraordinary suffering. Hence it seems absurd, as saith Summers, to call any little trial or unrelished duty a cross!

The first disciples lived at a time and engaged in work where they could but expect much suffering. Therefore it was wise that their great Teacher give them special instruction in reference to it.

But are not all disciples called upon to endure suffering in every age and clime? Is it not natural for us to shrink back when we see it before us? Just then we should turn our tearful eyes to the beautiful example of our divine Teacher and ask: Did he ever shrink? Never. He boldly and fearlessly endured all his great sufferings. They were greater than ours can be. He, having suffered, is able, and ever willing too, to succor us in all our sufferings. Would you be worthy of him—of his care, his bounty, his love? Then take your cross, whenever you find it in your path, with holy boldness, and bear it with earnest and cheerful steps along the blessed way in which his precious footprints shine. W. S. T.

PEROTE, Alabama.

Anecdote of Dr. Bethune.

On one occasion, when the doctor was resident in Philadelphia, he went for a few days of rest to a front stream he had heard of in the interior of the State. Arriving an entire stranger at a house kept by a man who had been accustomed to entertain those who came there to fish, he was coldly received. The man told him frankly he had attended a protracted meeting during the winter, that he hoped the Lord had forgiven his sins, and that he had joined the Methodist Church, and meant to give up going with the kind of men who came up there to fish. The doctor's humor overcame his scruples so far as to gain admittance for the night, and the next morning succeeded still further, prevailing upon the man to go out with him and show him the best places of the stream. They spent most of the day together, and on returning to the house in the afternoon the man slapped him on the shoulder, saying:

"Doc., I like you."

"Why do you like me, my friend?"

"Well, Doc., I'll tell you. We've been out a'most all day, we haven't caught much, you fell in and got wet, and I haven't heard you swear once."

After supper, as the doctor was smoking his pipe in front of the house, his host came out, and with some hesitancy said: "Doc., since I joined the church I've had prayers every night; we are going to have them now, and may be you wouldn't object to come in."

"Certainly not, my friend," and he went in to listen to the reading of a passage in a broken way, and to join heartily in a good old Methodist hymn. During the singing the man watched him closely, and at the end said anxiously: "May he you wouldn't mind leading us in prayer." The doctor knelt and offered one of those full and hearty yet simple supplications which are so well remembered by all who knew him. He was hardly seated in front of the house again before the man reappeared, saying:

"Doc., I kinder suspicion you."

"What do you suspect me of? Nothing bad, I hope?"

"No, nothing bad, and may be I'm wrong, but I kind 'e think you are a minister."

"What makes you think I'm a minister?"

"Well, I'll tell you. I haven't heard you swear since you came; then the way you joined us in the hymn, then the way you prayed made me think you were a minister."

The doctor laughed heartily as he acknowledged that he was indeed a minister. While ever willing to be known for what he was, he never paraded his calling, but stood simply upon his dignity and worth as a Christian gentleman, asking no favors for himself but such as he accorded generously to others. In a subsequent article I may tell you something of him as an orator.—J. Wheaton Smith, D. D., in the National Baptist.

Judaism and Early Christianity.

There is no question that the earliest Christian Church was a Hebrew Church. There is also no question that it was an offshoot from this Hebrew Church which planted itself with exceptional vigor at Rome; and that hence Roman Christianity, from that time to this, has been strongly tinctured with Jewish elements, has blazed with Jewish intolerance, delighted in Jewish gorgeousness, and fallen a victim to Jewish realism; while Pauline or Augustinian, or Protestant idealism has struggled manfully indeed, but too often in vain, to overcome the deep weight of these lower ingredients in Catholic Christianity, and to assert for intelligence and freedom their true place in the church. That this struggle of the Petrine and Pauline elements of Christianity is still going on under our eyes, as it has been going on in all ages, need not be said. But it is essential to the healthy solution of the problem that both views should be clearly understood. The lower, sensuous, realistic Roman type of churchmanship cannot be thoroughly understood without an understanding of the early Hebrew Christianity out of which it took its rise. Would any one, therefore, see how much and how little Romanism has to say for itself, let him go to the Holy Scriptures, and, putting aside their Pauline ingredients (St. Luke and the Acts and St. Paul's Epistles,) he will then find that he has left upon his hands (1) the Jewish Old Testament complete; (2) the literalism of St. Matthew and St. Peter; (3) the sacramental mysticism of St. John; (4) the ascetic moralism of St. James and St. Jude; (5) the gorgeous ritualism of the apocalypse; and out of these Hebrew materials he might perhaps be able to construct, in its main features, the Roman system of religion. Reintroduce, however, St. Paul, and all this wonderful phantasmagoria begins to break up. Its unity and completeness is troubled. Pauline freedom, individualism and intelligence, entering into combination with the previous Hebraizing ingredients, produce that vivacious and wholesome effervescence which we see going on at this hour in all countries where Christianity is really alive, and where the Scriptures in their completeness are really studied. Edinburg Review.

THE English Churchmen, having claimed the title "reverend" as exclusively their own, are now proceeding to distribute it in grades. Ministers in charge are, of course, "reverend," bishops are "right reverend," the actual deans of abbeys and cathedrals are "very reverend;" there are also a large number of rural deans not quite up to this mark, and it is proposed to call them "rather reverend." It is now suggested to confer the "rather" or "very reverend." It is not quite clear which, upon the deans of convocation in the United States, and to designate deacons as "quite reverend," and lay deputies as "almost reverend."—Methodist.

Obituaries.

BENNIE MORRIS LOWRIE, infant son and only living child of Benjamin T. Lowrie (deceased) and Mary G. M. Lowrie, breathed his last, in Port Gibson, Mississippi, on Christmas eve, A. D. 1874, at six o'clock, aged one year and twenty-four days.

MRS. ELIZABETH M. CHAPMAN, wife of Rev. Thomas Chapman, died January 7, 1875, aged forty-five years.

Sister Chapman has been a professor of religion and a member of the church twenty-five years. She passed from earth triumphantly. She was an invalid for many years, knowing what it was to suffer. She had a heart to sympathize with the suffering around her. When able she was eminent in her attention to the sick. Many now living remember her kindness in this way. The Patrons of Husbandry paid a handsome tribute to her memory. She leaves six children, all grown, or nearly so, except one. The Lord be with them. W.

LITTLE ROSA WAKEFIELD was born in Calhoun county, Alabama, April 20, 1867, and on the sixteenth of January, 1875, the blessed Jesus took her from this world of suffering and death to be with him in paradise.

She has joined loved ones above to sing redeeming grace and dying love. She had a sweet disposition, and a meekness of spirit not common in one so young. She was truly devoted to her parents, and obeyed them in all things. She was a dutiful and a faithful pupil. She was beloved by all who knew her. This was shown by the large assembly of old and young persons who attended her funeral services. She was buried at Mount Zion church.

R. G. RAGAN.

JOHN WHITEFIELD FRAZIER, eldest son of Arthur and Antoinette Frazier, was born April 7, 1873, in Lee county, Alabama, and died of croup, December 19, 1874.

HAYWOOD ANDERSON FRAZIER, youngest son of Arthur and Antoinette Frazier, was born October 7, 1874, and died January 17, 1875.

What a sad affliction! In the space of one month a happy home is made desolate and lonely because all the children are dead. The bereaved parents must console themselves with the reflection: Our children are now in heaven, and it is our privilege so to live that we may embrace them again in that land of happiness, where sorrow is unknown.

W. W. GRAHAM.

DIED, at her residence in Madison county, Mississippi, on the twenty-first day of January, 1875, Mrs. BELLE MILTON, the beloved wife of Samuel Milton, Esq., having just entered on the thirty-eighth year of her age. She was the third daughter of Starkey and Sarah Collins, who were among the early Georgian settlers in this county. She received her first convictions during a protracted meeting held by Bro. H. H. Montgomery, about twenty years ago, not more than fifty yards from where I am now writing. That meeting is still fresh upon the minds of many as a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord; yet for some years she was undecided as to what church she should join. The Methodist Episcopal Church South became the church of her choice, and from that time to her death she was in the fullest sense an acceptable member of our church. Her sickness was short, but her sufferings were great. During her sickness she talked much about religion and of the blessings she had experienced during the past year, and would lay out plans for the coming year. But it soon became evident to her friends that she was sinking; and, being informed that she must die, she requested to see her pastor. I hastened to her bed-side. I asked her if she was happy. She said: "I believe all is right." I told her of Jesus being her only help, and then sang:

"In darkest shades, if thou appear,
My dawning is begun."

We offered up prayer, committing her into the hands of God. Afterward she requested to be lifted up. Her mother, husband and children standing around, she bade them farewell, saying: "I am sorry I have to leave you, but am perfectly reconciled to the will of God." Sister Milton leaves a family of nine children to mourn her loss. She was a loving wife, and a kind and judicious mother. Her death has cast a deep gloom over the family and the whole community. God grant that husband and children may ever hear the familiar voice of a departed wife and mother bidding them to ascend to a home above, and all meet again beyond the river.

RALPH BRADLEY, P. C.

THE NATURE OF CATS.—They are not allies and companions, like dogs. They make no attempt to take a part in human affairs, as dogs do. They undertake no responsibility of guarding the house, or protecting the person, or joining in the sports of man. They will not disturb themselves to find fresh fields and pastures new. They probably have no idea that they are valued for their propensity to slay and scatter mice, and imagine that they are only superfluously indulging the bent of a native genius for "natural selection," when they are really performing the one function for which they are treasured by thrifty housekeepers, for which they received the "grant-in-aid" of a milky "payment by results." They are as unconscious as Mr. Carlyle could wish men to be of their own genius and merit as attendants on our domestic civilization. You will see dogs full of pride at the accomplishment of their little tasks, and looking up to men for recognition. But there is nothing of this about the cat. She is as innocent of merit as if she had been brought up by a Calvinist.—London Spectator.

PERSECUTIONS are pieces of the cross of Jesus Christ; we should scruple very much to allow the smallest particles of them to perish.—St. Francis of Sales.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1875.

THE OLD AND NEW YEARS.

BY MRS. M. M. DUTCHER.

The good Old Year has gone at last
Into the dim and silent past,
With many gone before;
With feeble step it moved along,
To join the great and countless throng
That will return no more.

The year has gone; but ere it passed
One backward look I turned to cast
On time forever fled;
On broken vows and misspent hours,
On friends that now like summer flowers
Are sleeping with the dead.

And as I gazed there passed along,
With noiseless step and mournful song,
A long sad funeral train;
Followed by tears and wailing cries,
By fleeting joys and weary sighs,
And hopes that were in vain.

Onward they passed from every clime—
The good man and the man of crime,
The maiden young and fair;
The nobleman in all his pride
Walked humbly by the beggar's side,
For all were equal there.

Into the past, that like a pall
In a deep silence shrouded all,
That mournful train moved on;
The fading light now fainter shone,
As through the gloom I heard a moan,
And the Old Year had gone.

Sadly I turned, when o'er the way
A sudden wondrous brightness lay,
Shining so soft and clear;
Glad cries and merry bells rung out,
And happy voices joined the shout:
Hail to the glad New Year!

I looked and lo! a hand unseen
Had drawn aside a misty screen
To let the New Year in;
Flooding the world with new-born life,
And to the heart weary of strife
Bringing sweet peace again.

The present, beautiful and bland,
Gave promises with open hand
Of joys that should be sweet;
Gilding the moments ere they passed,
And o'er the whole a halo cast
With rosy light replete.

The future smiles, hope beckons on,
The Old Year's joys and griefs are gone—
They were, but now are not;
To every sin-sick child of woe
Forgiveness stoops and whispers low:
The past is all forgot.

Life is but short! Time does not stay!
The Old Year now has passed away—
The New has just begun.
How many will have joined the throng
That mournfully will pass along
Ere this year's course is run?

Christian Intelligencer.

The Church Bees.

"They are all out and hard at work to-day, your reverence, although it be Sunday. You mind the hum of them, like the deep sound of the organ far away."

It was our old and feeble sextoness, Mrs. Garland, who spoke, looking up to the church roof just under the steeple. From beneath two large slates, streams of bees came pouring forth incessantly—a dark cloud of them, which seemed to be in constant motion, hung over the place. As they issued out from under the slates they paused a moment on the slanting roof, tried their wings, which shimmered in the sunshine, and then joined the moving cloud above. From the outer edges of the swarm bees innumerable continually darted off. If you have good sight, you can see that some make for the garden of the old Manor House, where spicy-smelling flowers grow; some fly to Curragh, where sheets of golden furze continue still in bloom; while some spread to the rolling hills, which to-day have a hue of puce about them from the blossoms of Irish heath. As old Mrs. Garland said, the hum of our church bees, as of all bees, is soft, low and deep as the diapason of an organ. On fine, sunny days you can hear the sound in the air over so far away, like the tones of many Æolian harps played on by the wind. Should you come early for even-song, and sit awhile on the ancient tombs, with your feet on the carpet of short, crisp grass, you will see them all returning home richly laden, some powdered over with the yellow pollen of scented flowers, many with little pink or yellow balls of wax or gum from buds of trees fastened to their thighs; but the main body carries in unseen the precious honey to store away for winter-time, when there are no flowers and the air is cold. You can see how way is made at once for those who seem to labor under heavy burdens, and how they are helped up the sloping slates by other bees, set apart, I verily believe, for that special duty. Be merciful and tender if you find a weary one resting on your dress, or painfully toiling through the dwarf clover which grows upon the graves; they may have been caught in a summer shower, or perhaps the moisture on the grass, where the shade of trees lies dark, has wet and chilled them. They will unfold their wings and dry them, and, after a short circling flight, will soar away home. Bees will never sting your hand if you do not try to brush them off. The warmth of your palm will comfort an unwilling loiterer; very soon he will stretch out his hinder legs and brush down his wings, and, piping a little song of thanks, will fly upward. Some people pretend to be bee-charmers because bees do not sting them; their secret is not to be afraid of them or hurt them. Bees have a wonderful amount of instinct, and, like dogs and horses, seem to know their friends.

It is twenty years and more since these bees traveled through the air to Ballysax steeple. Villagers saw them rolling like a ball toward the Manor House, but the sextoness was ringing our sweet church bell on that sunny Sunday morning in July. They liked the sound, perhaps, and turned aside a hundred yards are so, and passed into the steeple through the gratings of the belfry. They found the place tenanted by bats, whose odor is disagreeable to the bees. It happened, however, that there was an aperture or slit where one slate overlapped another and the cement had crumbled away. Through this the bee scouts crept, and wandered over the great area between the slates and the oak living of the roof. They saw ties and crosebeams, and rafters all in order, from which millions of bees could hang their combs. There were no enemies, for bats could not enter through the narrow crevices, and there were no swallows to bear off the tiny insects on the wing. So the scouts returned and made a favorable report. I am told that the bee-camp rose in sudden commotion, and, leaving the steeple, passed into the roof; there they have increased and multiplied and stored their honey until now. I want to tell you that our bees have never swarmed, and, although we have sought diligently, we have never discovered a slaughtered drone. I suppose there is food enough for all in that vast co-operative store. Yet they have ample room to spare, and therefore no poor drones are murdered, and no swarming colonies are driven out for lack of food or territory.

Three years ago I was induced by the cleverest trout-poacher in all my parish to remove a slate or two, and to try whether we could not obtain some of the honey everybody knew to be treasured up there. So plentiful is it, indeed, that in hot summer days some of it melts and trickles through the ceiling and down the walls of my narrow vestry, which is situated in the basement of one tower of the church. The walls are all stained with it, and the color, mixed with the whitewash, is certainly not pretty. They prepared for the attempt as if for the storming of a citadel. They had lights and sulphur and masks, and gloves tied round the wrists, but the bees were on the watch. The guards, which appear at twilight, marching up and down and crossing each other's path before the entrance of the hive, announced the presence of an enemy. The two bee-hunters were daring men, and, as I know, skilful poachers of hare and salmon, but they were forced to retreat. They came home smarting with stings; the angry bees had followed them long after they had escaped from the church-yard, and had got by some means under their clothes. They managed to bring home a large and heavy dish of honey, but it was old and dark-colored, and had an unpleasant medicinal effect on those who had courage to taste it. They told me that on putting their heads into the hole, caused by the removal of the slates, they discovered that the bees had hung their combs under the second tier of rafters, where the new honey could not be reached without sawing away portions of the timber which support the roof. The combs, they said, hung down like stalactites in a cave. So on the next wet day, when the bees could not venture out, they replaced the slates as well as they could, taking care to leave apertures in the fresh mortar for the bees to go in and out. There they have their citadel and magazine, no man daring to make them afraid. You can see them on any warm day in summer working away, each in his own order, and all singing as they work. I wish I knew their language, and could find out how many queens they have, and whether their laws are the same as those which prevail among bee communities cooped up in narrow hives. We are all proud of them somehow; and I love, for I am an old man now, to talk about them to the visitors from the Curragh camp, who come to prayers at our Loretto in the wilderness.

When there is soft music in the air, without a breath of wind, our Sunday scholars say their pleasant lessons in the ruins of the old chantry of the church seated on fragments of carved pillars. The church-yard has been for centuries the last home of the villagers, and it is beautiful as a garden with weeping larches, and holly-trees and laurels, and tall box and dwarf pines, and sparkling clover enameled with a thousand flowers all over and round the graves. Here we sit, the children and I, talking of the blessed Master, who had a loving eye for every object of nature, and spoke so tenderly about the birds of the air, about the twittering sparrows, about the young ravens crying for their food, about the lilies of the field which outshone all the glory of King Solomon. There was a little girl in my class, and I made her proud one day by telling her that her name—Deborah—really meant a bee, and that Deborah is mentioned in the oldest and sweetest pastoral story of the old Scriptures. We traced out this ancient Deborah who lived so many hundred years ago, and found that she was the nurse of fair Rebekah when the maiden left her father's house and chose to go as a trusting bride to Isaac, whom she had not seen. And Deborah was sent with her (Genesis xxiv, 50) to tend the young wife in her new duties to her husband and his parents. Well, she must have performed her duty amidst many trials, for when she died Jacob buried her with great solemnity and sorrow under an old oak-tree, and all wept so much that the oak was ever afterward called "The Tree of Weeping" (Genesis xxxv, 8.) And there was another Deborah, who, like a queen bee, ruled the whole people of Israel, and pronounced her decisions as she sat under a palm-tree (Judges iv, 5.) She it was who put fire into the heart of cautious Barak, son of Abinoam, and made him wage war upon the tyrant Sisera, and hers is a noble song of victory which is read among our Sunday lessons (Judges v.) But all the children know the wonderful riddle of strong Samson, and about the swarm of bees which had built their combs and placed their honey in the skeleton ribs of the dead lion (Judges xiv, 8.) I have said that our bees followed the bee-hunters out of the church-yard and stung them; and so of bitter enemies the hoary Scripture says: "They chased you, as bees do;" and like bees they compassed David round about (Deuteronomy i, 44, Psalms cxviii, 12.) And as the bee—the working, earning, loyal bee—is not handsome in appearance, not half so handsome as the huge humble bee, with his bands of glossy black and brilliant orange, so the son of Sirach warns us that although "the bee is little among flies, yet her fruit is the chief of sweet things" (Ecclesiastes xi, 3.) Travelers tell us that bees are more abundant in Palestine even than in Assyria (Isaiah vii, 18,) and hence Palestine is the land which flows with milk and honey, set apart for the people of Israel. Thus we learn something even from our church bees as we sit among the graves and hear them singing—something which may do us good in this world and in the world to come.—Rev. George B. Wheeler, M. A., in Sunday Magazine.

The New Scriptures,

ACCORDING TO TYNDALL, HUXLEY, SPENCER AND DARWIN.

The Cincinnati Commercial publishes the following, which is rather the best satire we have seen on extreme evolutionism:

1. Primarily the Unknowable moved upon cosmos and evolved protoplasm.

2. And protoplasm was inorganic and undifferentiated, containing all things in potential energy; and a spirit of evolution moved upon the fluid mass.

3. And the Unknowable said: "Let atoms attract;" and their contact begat light, heat and electricity.

4. And the Unconditioned differentiated the atoms, each after its kind; and their combinations begat rock, air and water.

5. And there went out a spirit of evolution from the Unconditioned, and, working in protoplasm by accretion and absorption, produced the organic cell.

6. And cell by nutrition evolved primordial germ, and germ developed protogene; and protogene begat eozoon, and eozoon begat monad, and monad begat animalcule.

7. And animalcule begat ephemera; then began creeping things to multiply on the face of the earth.

8. And earthly atom in vegetable protoplasm begat the molecule, and thence came all grass and every herb in the earth.

9. And animalcule in the water evolved fins, tails, claws and scales; and in the air wings and beaks, and on the land they sprouted such organs as were necessary as played upon by the environment.

10. And by accretion and absorption came the radiata and mollusca, and mollusca begat articulata, and articulata begat vertebrata.

11. Now these are the generation of the higher vertebrata, in the cosmic period that the Unknowable evoluted the bipedal mammalia.

12. And every man of the earth, while he was yet a monkey, and the horse while he was a hipparion, and the hipparion before he was an oredon.

13. Out of the ascinlan came the amphibian, and begat the pentadactyle; and the pentadactyle by inheritance and selection produced the hylobate, from which are the simiadæ in all their tribes.

14. And out of the simiadæ the lemur prevailed above his fellows, and produced the platyrhine monkey.

15. And the platyrhine begat the catarrhine, and the catarrhine monkey begat the anthropoid ape, and the ape begat the longimanous orang, and the orang begat the chimpanzee, and the chimpanzee evoluted the what-is-it.

16. And the what-is-it went into the land of Nod, and took him a wife of the longimanous gibbons.

17. And in process of the cosmic period were born unto them and their children the anthropomorphic primordial types.

18. The homunculus, the prognathus, the troglodyte, the autochthon, the tarragen—these are the generations of primeval man.

19. And primeval man was naked and not ashamed, but lived in quadrumanous innocence, and struggled mightily to harmonize with the environment.

20. And by inheritance and natural selection did he progress from the stable and homogeneous to the complex and heterogeneous; for the weakest died and the strongest grew and multiplied.

21. And man grew a thumb for that he had need of it, and developed capacities for prey.

22. For, behold, the swiftest men caught the most animals, and the swiftest animals got away from the most men; wherefore the slow animals were eaten and the slow men starved to death.

23. And as types were differentiated, the weaker types continually disappeared.

24. And the earth was filled with violence; for man strove with man, and tribe with tribe, whereby they killed off the weak and foolish, and secured the survival of the fittest.

Diary Jottings.

"A Tourist," writing in the Provincial Wesleyan, gives the following notice of certain Wesleyan Methodist worthies:

"Dr. Punshon, once each Sabbath, preaches at Kensington Gardens. At the time we heard him, his church being under repairs, between three and four hundred people listened to an eloquent sermon from "Behold the Lamb of God." To our mind it is questionable whether in England he has a sphere of usefulness equal to that he occupied in Canada. Mr. Perks, from whom Dr. Punshon received the seals of the presidential office, is strikingly different in physique to his successor, being of medium height, thin and delicate in appearance. The matter of his sermons is good, but his delivery is unpleasant. As a man he is beloved, as a scholar he holds a highly responsible position, and as an administrator he has, to an eminent degree, the suaviter in modo et fortiter in re. The associates of Mr. Perks in the secretariat at the Mission House are W. Boyce and Mr. Wiseman. The former is advanced in years, hale and portly, with reputation of financial skill, and extreme care for the bawbees. Mr. Wiseman is in the vigor of life. If his countenance is an index to the characteristics of the man, we should judge him to be possessed of fine feelings and noble sentiments. As an author he is favorably known to the literary world, and as a preacher his services are in requisition for special occasions.

"Charles Prest is a Methodist of the past generation, and seemed to us to discharge the duties devolving upon him, in connection with the home missionary department, according to old-time ideas. The best debater in the British Conference is Dr. Osborn. He is keen, shrewd and far-seeing. His mind is not of the ordinary cast. He is one of those men who would meet the claims of any important position. Physically he has seen his best days. Samuel Coley is a beautiful preacher. His sentences are fine, his ideas unique and his style attractive. We heard him preach a sermon to the young. It was a noble effort. His examination of the candidates for ordination at the Camborne Conference proved him to be an original thinker and a profound theologian.

"The ex-presidents of the British Conference, some of whom we have already named, are worthy men. Farrar, Rattenbury, Bedford, James and Arthur are men of whom the church might be proud. They stood firmly in troublous times; they labored successfully; the impress of their minds is upon the Methodism of Great Britain. In their declining days they stand as faithful sentinels, and their counsels are invaluable. As a general thing the senior leading ministers are intensely conservative. They love the old paths, and walk therein. A number of middle-aged men, such as Rigg, Stephenson, Garrett, etc., are now making themselves heard—men of mind, of oratorical power and administrative ability, who, while loyal to Methodism, are nevertheless looking forward to some modifications in ecclesiastical polity to make the Wesleyan Church even more effective than she at present is."

Curiosities of Wooing.

In olden times it was the fashion for a suitor to go down on his knees to a lady when he asked her to become his wife, which, with very stout gentlemen, was an uncomfortable proceeding. The way in which Daniel Webster proposed to Miss Fletcher was more modern, being at the same time neat and poetic. Like many other lovers, he was caught holding a skein of thread or wool which the lady had been unraveling. "Grace," said he, "we have been untying knots. Let us see if we can tie one which will not untie in a lifetime." With a piece of tape he fashioned half a true lover's knot, Miss Fletcher perfected it, and a kiss put the seal to the symbolical bargain. Most men, when they "pop" by writing, are more straightforward and matter-of-fact. Richard Steele wrote to the lady of his heart: "Dear Mrs. Scurlock (there were no misses in those days,) I am tired of calling you by that name, therefore say a day when you will take that of madam. Your most devoted humble servant, Richard Steele." She fixed the day accordingly, and Steeled her name instead of her heart to the suitor. The celebrated preacher, Whitefield, proposed marriage to a young lady in a very cool manner—as though Whitefield meant a field of ice. He addressed a letter to her parents without consulting the maiden, in which he said that they need not be at all afraid of offending him by a refusal, as he thanked God he was quite free from the passion called love. Of course the lady did not conclude that this field, however white, was the field for her. The well-known brothers, Jacob and William Grimm, were exceedingly attached to each other, and had no desire to be married. But it was thought proper by their friends that one of them should become a husband, and Jacob being the elder, it was agreed that he should be the one to enter the bonds of matrimony. A suitable lady was found, but Jacob declined to do the courting, requesting William to act as his agent. William consented, but soon found that he was in love, and wanted the lady for himself. He could not think, however, of depriving his brother of such a treasure, and knew not how to act. An aunt kindly relieved him in his difficulty by telling Jacob, who willingly resigned the damsel to his brother, and went out of the way till she had been made Mrs. William Grimm. A Scotch beadle was the one who popped the question in the grimmest manner. He took his sweetheart into the grave-yard, and, showing her a dark corner, said: "Mary, my folks lie there. Would you like to lie there, Mary?" Mary was a sensible lassie, and expressed her willingness to obtain the right to be buried near the beadle's relations by uniting herself to him in wedlock. A similar romantic view of the subject was taken by another Scotch maiden. Upon her lover remarking, "I think I'll marry thee, Jean," she replied: "Man Jock, I would be muckle obleeged to ye if ye would."

NOTES FROM ASBURY'S JOURNAL.

A Miracle.—"A mere miracle for a Methodist is to increase in wealth and decrease in grace."—Wesley.

I now go hence to Lynn, once the joy, now the grief of our hearts. The society began in union. It is now incorporated, in order to prevent the Methodists from being obliged by law to pay congregational tax.—Asbury, 1794.

Of South Carolina he says: "This country improves in cultivation, wickedness, mills and stills. A prophet of strong drink would be acceptable to many of these people. I believe that the Methodist preachers keep clear, both by precept and example; would to God the members did so too!"—Asbury, March 30, 1795.

Rebaptism—"One of our sisters asked me if we would not rebaptize persons who desired it. This put me to thinking and revolving the subject in my mind. I considered that there was neither precept nor example in holy writ to justify our rebaptizing one who had been baptized in the name and form which Christ commanded, in Matt. xxviii, 19."—Asbury's Journal, December 14, 1797.

SINCE the knowledge imparted by the Spirit, respecting what is in God, is as eternal and unchanging as the Spirit of God himself, the conviction thus obtained, that "God is love," becomes also the deepest and most reliable truth of our existence.—Schleier.

IT IS NOT with spiritual rose bushes as with material ones; in the latter the thorns remain and the roses pass away; in the former the thorns pass away and the roses stay.—St. Francis of Sales.

Religious Intelligence.

REV. STEPHEN H. TYNG, JR., is giving cheap concerts of a high order of merit in his church, New York city, each Wednesday night. The attendance is very large.

THERE are 1,000,000,000 heathen who need the gospel, and are going into eternity without it. Is there one professing Christian who will not make an effort to save them?

THE girls' school, established and supported in Egypt by the wife of the Khedive, proves a great success. In three months there were 200 boarders and 100 day scholars.

IN NAYERCOIL, near Cape Comorin, there is a most wonderful church, the congregation numbering about 2,000, of whom 259 are communicants, and 444 of the congregation can read and write.

DR. GULICK, in the Missionary Herald, estimates that of organizations of the different Protestant churches at work in Italy there are 124 different cities and villages with Protestant preaching.

THE restriction in the new Constitution of the State of New York, prohibiting State aid to sectarian institutions, does not prevent counties, cities, towns and villages from granting aid to such institutions.

FATHER BECKX, the general of the Jesuits, requested the Pope not to nominate any Jesuit as a cardinal. The Jesuits are particularly anxious not to appear in any way prominently before the world just now!

THE consecration of Rev. F. U. Adams, bishop elect of New Mexico and Arizona, took place in New Orleans on the seventeenth ultimo. The ceremonies were conducted by Right Rev. Bishop Green, of Mississippi, assisted by Bishops Beckwith and Wilmer.

NEARLY fourscore ministers in Dublin, belonging to the Irish Church, Presbyterians, Wesleyans, Primitives, Independents, Baptists and others, gratefully acknowledge the good work done by Messrs. Sankey and Moody among their different churches.

AS A PROOF of the revival of the missionary spirit in the English Baptist churches, we may note that the five general Baptist congregations in the Vale of Todmorden, Yorkshire, which three years ago raised less than £30 for foreign missions, raised nearly £90 last year.

AT MADRAS, where there has been much spiritual deadness among professed Christians, Mr. Taylor's labors have resulted in about three hundred conversions. The old-fashioned Methodist protracted meeting has gathered in crowds, night after night, from six to ten o'clock.

THE acknowledged decay of Brahminism is said to have aroused the fears of influential Hindoos, and they are making strenuous efforts in some places to sustain the tottering system. Books, in defense of Hindooism or assailing Christianity, have been printed and widely distributed.

THE labors of Moody and Sankey in the British Islands have resulted in the conversion of not a few Roman Catholics. Thereupon Cardinal Culleu has directed prayers for those Catholics who have abandoned their church to become "followers of roving minstrels or speculative travelers."

THE native young men belonging to a theological class in Ceylon, during a late vacation from study, found their recreation in evangelical labors. They visited 746 houses, and saw about 1,800 adults and 800 children. They found some cases of special interest, and met very few cases of opposition.

THE presbytery of Coleraine, Ireland, has adopted a temperance pledge, in which the members say they "feel bound, under present circumstances, to abstain from all intoxicating drinks as beverages: (1) from love to God; (2) from love to their fellow-men; (3) from love to their own souls." This example might well be imitated by religious bodies in our country.

THE Catholic Freeman's Journal, while accusing Mayor Kelley, of Richmond, of supporting "godless schools," adds: "One thing is certain. If our bishops do not, following the vicar of Christ, forbid Catholics sending their children to godless schools, in fifty years from now the Catholic Church in the United States will be a shriveled and ghastly skeleton."

THE New York Examiner claims for the increase of the Baptist Church in the United States during 1874 the following figures: Associations, 53; churches, 990; ordained ministers, 756; members, 127,132—making the totals 943 associations, 21,510 churches, 13,351 ordained ministers and 1,761,171 members. Of the increase in members 102,496 were received by baptism.

THE number of Catholic priests in all the countries of Europe is on the decrease. In Italy the loss is serious—three lost to one ordained. In Germany the loss is but little less. Even in our own country the ranks are only kept efficient by importations. In view of the great wealth of the church, and the honor in which priests are held by the laity, this depletion of numbers is surprising.

AT THE session of the Central New York Conference in 1870 Rev. G. W. Peirce was appointed the first Methodist minister to Salt Lake City. At the last session of the Rocky Mountain Conference one charge and four missions were reported in Salt Lake City. The Rocky Mountain Seminary stands at the head of the educational institutions of Utah. At the Central church, Rev. C. C. Stratton, pastor, we have over one hundred members.

THE "Friends" in Jefferson county, New York, are having a serious strife. One party affirms that it is quite proper and quite in accordance with Quaker custom to sing in public worship. The other side of the house denies this, and considers music in the public worship as ungodly and wrong. The leader of the musical party, "being moved by the spirit," began one day to sing, whereupon he was arrested for disturbing religious service and fined $25. He considers this too high a price to pay for the pleasure of singing in meeting, and has restrained his musical desires since.

THE National Baptist of January 14 makes the statement that perhaps 175,000 Baptists in the United States are not "firm and enthusiastic in their attachment to the distinctive principles (immersion and close communion) of the regular Baptist Church," which is quite an admission for a journal that makes most stanch advocacy of restricted communion views.

THE Romanists have in Japan a numerous mission of over fifty priests; but they are not popular either with the people or government. They have also a mission in the center of the capital, which they owe to the power of France. Their work at present seems to be chiefly among their old converts. They have a school of about fifty pupils preparing for the priesthood.

THE American Presbyterians have had a station in Canton, China, for fourteen years. The work has been one of continued blessing. Last year 48 were added to the church, and within twenty months 65. A new church has lately been dedicated, capable of accommodating 500 persons, or, when crowded, 600. The audience usually numbers about 400, of whom more than 200 are females.

BRAZIL covers about 4,000,000 of square miles; its extreme length and breadth is nearly the same, being about 2,600 miles. Its population is estimated at 8,000,000. The Presbyterian mission was organized there in 1862, and a church formed of two members; these have grown to over 500 now in full membership, and the one church has now become twelve, and the prospects of the mission are most encouraging.

THE States that have the largest Baptist membership are: Alabama, 75,614; Arkansas, 44,900; Georgia, 170,254; Kentucky, 147,031; Missouri, 88,662; Mississippi, 88,269; North Carolina, 116,528; New York, 103,964; Tennessee, 104,312; Virginia, 146,586; Texas, 54,019—that is to say, out of the total membership of the Baptist Church in the United States 10 of the Southern States contain one-half of the entire membership of the church. Ohio has 49,447 Baptists, and Indiana 39,352. The colored membership of the church in all of the States is estimated at 70,000.

BISHOP VAUGHAN, the Roman Catholic prelate of Salford, England, is on his way to this country, accompanied by several priests, who come to engage in mission work among the negroes of the Southern States. Bishop Vaughan is one of the most cultivated and indefatigable of the English Catholics. He is an eloquent preacher and a vigorous pamphleteer; and, in addition to his pastoral duties, he owns and controls the London Tablet, the principal Catholic paper of England. It was this journal which lately declared in such an uncompromising manner that the first allegiance of all Catholics is due to the Pope, rather than to the civil government.

A SPECIAL correspondent of the London Times says of the missions in India: "The ladies of the American Woman's Mission receive unqualified praise for their labors in miserable Hindoo households, where the life of the wife, in the language of one of them, is 'like that of froge in a well—all around life and beauty, and she buried;' and the life of the widow, possibly scarce five years old, is ten-fold more wretched. As far as our observation has gone, the preaching of the Methodists meets with the largest results. India is ceasing to be Hindoo in its belief, and becoming skeptical instead; and the extracts of Paine's 'Age of Reason,' placarded largely on the walls of Calcutta, show the food which the Indian mind now craves, instead of its old Vedas. While Christianity is not progressing in India in a ratio at all compared to the efforts of its advocates, he states that real and even wonderful progress is being made—more for the coming generation than for the present."

A LETTER appears in the Times of Blessing from Miss Whately, the indefatigable lay missionary at Cairo. Unconnected with any society, and having her assistants mainly from the circle of her own family, she has long maintained Christian schools both for Mohammedan and Coptic children at Cairo, and more recently at Damietta. She has more than three hundred youths in her charge, and also carries on extensive labors among adults. The Khedive gave the land on which her school buildings have been erected. Miss Whately states that an interesting reform is going on in the Coptic Church, having in view the better regulation of church matters, and especially the spread of the Scriptures. Though arising among themselves, she believes that this reformation has had its origin in the superior education and knowledge of the Scriptures which some of the members of the church have received from foreign Christians.

A DISCUSSION having arisen in Canada as to the relative numbers of the Presbyterians and Methodists in the Dominion, a correspondent of the Provincial Wesleyan gives the following figures from the most recent statistics of both churches: The Canada Presbyterian Church has 329 ministers and 49,315 members; Church of Scotland in Canada, 122 ministers, 17,247 members; Church of the Lower Provinces, 124 ministers, 18,082 members; Church of Scotland in the Lower Provinces, 31 ministers, 4,622 members, making a total of 606 ministers and 89,266 church members. The Wesleyan Methodist Church in Canada has 695 ministers and 69,212 members; the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Eastern British America, 204 ministers, 17,580 members; the Methodist New Connection Church of Canada, 119 ministers, 7,586 members; the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada, 236 ministers and 22,611 members; the Primitive Methodist Church, 89 ministers, 5,618 members, making a total of 1,343 ministers and 122,538 church members.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.
Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.
AGENTS—All the members of the Patrooizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. RUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. O. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE is One Dollar and a Quarter per year to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keeper, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

The Cry of Distress.

This comes to us from the missionary department of the church. We have published the statements and appeals, and we hope that every member of our communion, young and old, rich and poor, will feel stirred up to bring an offering, and to make a contribution at once. Manger all plans or the lack of them, the simple and direct thing to do is to give something now. We know of no royal road to liberality. There is no way to meet the obligation but the straightforward one of giving the money. We have been in the habit of putting off the collections until the last of the year. It is so in nearly all our financiering. The disagreeable thing is held back as long as possible, just as people hold on to their aching teeth, and stave off surgical operations, and the taking of loathsome potions. The first good Sunday, within the present month should not pass without an effort to raise the apportioned amount for foreign missions. If expectations are not realized, it can be tried again later; but let every pastor make an appeal now and get what he can, and forward it to Nashville.

It is an interest that cannot wait. We published a letter from Bro. Harrell, the superintendent of our Indian missions, two weeks ago. A noble work is being done among the Indians. Self-sacrificing men are laboring for their welfare, and enduring hardness as heroes. We quote a paragraph from the superintendent's communication, lest some may have overlooked it:

I have just returned home after a seven weeks' tour on the Cherokee district; find the preachers greatly discouraged, having received pay for only two quarters during the last fifteen months, and the drafts of the third quarter for last year repudiated. Our Indian preachers do not understand it and do not know who to blame. We have to meet the question, and look it full in the face: Will the church support the Indian Mission Conference or let it perish?

This Conference is located nearly in the center of the Southern Methodist Church. It is probable that, if these missions could be sustained for a few years longer, they could be made self-sustaining to a great extent. But if left at this crisis our schools will be broken up, and the preachers will transfer to other Conferences, where they can better take care of their families.

"Will the church support the Indian Mission Conference or let it perish?" That is the question, and it is the same in reference to our work in China and in Mexico. Our two missionaries in China have held their ground long and manfully, but they have never had the means to extend their operations, or to work to the best advantage. More men are needed there, and more schools. Shall this field be abandoned?

When we turn to Mexico we find the way has opened for access to a vast empire, and God has sent the Spirit of awakening before us. Christ is there, manifestly there, and praying us to come. "There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us." The triune God is over there in China, Mexico, and almost everywhere, working as he can. Providential conditions are being adjusted for the conversion of the world, the Spirit is operating mightily, Christ almost single-handed stands amidst the dark and bewildered masses and summons the churches to rally to his call. It is not only to go, but to come. He lifts his own form of power above the distant horizon, and his presence flashes like an aurora over the benighted lands, and his voice breaks upon us like a trumpet: "Come over and help us." Can converted men hear this challenge from their divine Master and be unmoved? Not so much is it to go or send, but to fly to the help of him who is already striving for the salvation of the lost. The real cry of distress is from him who beseeches us to come to his succor in these fearful battle-fields between the powers of light and of darkness. The wails of perishing men and nations may not reach our dull ears, the note of alarm sounding from missionaries and missionary boards may fail to awaken us to the gravity of the situation, but the cry of the Lord himself should startle and thrill the whole Christian world. As surely as that night vision disclosed the Son of Man to St. Paul, awaiting him in Macedonia, and as surely as the voice of Christ came out of the darkness, sounding over the sea, so surely does the Savior speak to us from the plains where the red men live, from the heart and border of Mexico, and from the hoary paganisms of China, India and Japan.

Christ has been calling to us out of the night, and across the Hellespont, and across the Ægean, and across all the rolling seas, for a long time. But never has he called so loudly as now. Never has he been so manifestly in advance, and waiting with painful patience and saddening anxiety for the coming up of the sacramental host. Christ was once straitened when he contemplated his mission of love, and longed to see the fire of grace and salvation break forth in burning power and universal conquest: "I am come to send fire on the earth; and what will I, if it be already kindled? But I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished?" His hands were tied until the baptism of blood and of death on the cross should be poured upon him. That straitness was over when the great sacrifice was offered and the Holy Ghost was given. The straitness of this hour is of a different sort. Christ is straitened in his own people, in the deadness and narrowness of the church. The cry of the Son of God that went up before the baptism of Calvary was silenced in his death, and changed to victory and hope by the resurrection and ascension. Then the tongue of fire came, then the flame of love was kindled, and all the riches of infinite compassion and power were unlocked and opened to the nations.

The cry that comes to us now is after the cross, after Pentecost, after centuries of gospel demonstrations. It is not the church praying to Christ, but Christ praying the church, his own blood-bought followers, to awake and come to his help. If his hands are tied it is because of our unwillingness, and because of our lack of faith and love. His grace and providence have far outstripped our zeal, and he shames us while he entreats us to come to his relief. Such devoted men as Harrell, Allen, Lambuth and Daves, who are in the midst of the conflict, should not call in vain, and the warning tones of Marvin, McFerrin, Keener and other watchman upon the walls and towers of our Zion should not go unheeded; but there is a greater than them all whom we must hear. We have come to Troas, to the seaside, to the very frontier, and Christ in China, in Mexico, and at the antipodes, calls us to spread our sails and turn our prows thither.

It may not be the highest motive—the pride that we have in sustaining our own church enterprises—but we feel it nevertheless. Southern Methodism has taken rank with other denominations in raising the banner of Christ in mission-fields. Shall our standards be lowered or dishonored in the inevitable comparison? Are our people willing to see their missionaries humiliated and themselves lowered in the eyes of the Christian world? The prestige of Southern Methodism in Mexico is such that we might easily be far in advance of others. The Protestant Episcopal Church has recently sent two Bishops there. The Methodist Episcopal Church occupies the field without stint of men or money, while our operations are restricted and embarrassed for the lack of a few thousand dollars. The best expression of a church, the truest representation of what she is, is in her missions. If she is backward in this, let her not boast of anything. Her claims to spirituality, sound doctrines and numbers only heighten the disparaging fact that she is wanting in this most vital expression of spiritual force. Methodism, as represented by the British Wesleyans, and as exhibited in such men as Coke, Watson and Bunting, has reason to boast somewhat of her missionary vigor. The mission work of the Methodist Episcopal Church, so far as her foreign fields are concerned, reflects luster upon her name. Our Presbyterian brethren of the South are doing much more than we are, though not possessed of half our numbers or resources.

What have Southern Methodists to say to these things? Are they willing to be counted as a minor sect, or will they assert their right to take rank among the great powers of Christ's kingdom? Love for the honor and welfare of our church, as well as love to Christ, should stir every Southern Methodist heart to the very uttermost of sacrifice and liberality in this our hour of trial.

The Religious Paper.

The Standard, of Chicago, publishes the following excellent article from the pen of Rev. J. H. Broadus, D. D. We commend it to our subscribers and agents. They will not fail of the application we wish them to make. Dr. Broadus says:

A modern newspaper is among the foremost wonders of the world. It is a worthier and a nobler monument of human capacity, really a far grander thing, than the pyramids of Egypt. In the mere mechanical production of it are used nearly all the foremost inventions which the human race has achieved.

Besides, a newspaper is the cheapest thing on earth. Just look at a single number, with its multifarious contents; think how many different men have wrought together to make it and bring it to your hand; and then remember that it has cost you five cents, the very smallest sum for which, according to the fashion of the Cotton States, any article the most trifling can be bought and sold. In fact newspapers are, on some accounts, entirely too cheap. We are so accustomed to estimate everything according to its value in money that people are apt unconsciously to think lightly of newspapers because they cost so little. The best gifts of nature and the chiefest blessings of Providence are often underrated for a similar reason.

Religious news ought to possess the highest interest for all who are really pious and moderately intelligent. When any man or any family takes and reads a political, a commercial or a literary periodical, and does not take or does not read a religious periodical, it indicates a lack of interest in religious things, which is painful in any case, and in those who profess to be Christians alarming. And, on the other hand, if every professedly pious family in Virginia—to take one State as an example—should for the next five years be regular readers of a good religious newspaper, it would indicate and partly produce a state of things that would thrill every devout heart in the commonwealth with delight, and awaken new joy among the angels of God.

Religious newspapers are often dropped simply because they have never been attentively read. A person who has been taking no paper, or none that resembled the one to which he now subscribes, should read every number carefully for several months. He will thus gradually get into the current of contemporaneous events and thinking, will gain some acquaintance with the principal writers for the paper, will find it easier to understand the local allusions—in a word, will begin to feel somewhat at home in reading it.

Among the charms of a good religious newspaper is the fact that it may be read with interest by all the family. In the immense multiplication of books and periodicals it is apt to occur that the parents, the grown children and the little ones are separated into three distinct groups as to their habitual reading. Now there are few things more delightful in a family of some intelligence, few things that shine brighter among the recollections of childhood, than the choice literature which has been read by all alike, any reference to which is at once understood and enjoyed all round the domestic hearth or the family table. It is a golden chain of sympathy that links all the group into one circle. We ought to think of this in regard to the books read by our children, so far as possible. But, beyond most other literature, a good religious journal may be made common ground for the whole family, one of the intellectual centers of family life.

But the benefits that may be derived from a religious newspaper would form an inexhaustible theme. We close with some practical suggestions.

There is scarcely any form of Christian effort by which a person may be so sure of doing much good in a little time as by trying to induce others, throughout the community, to take a good religious newspaper. Much may be accomplished among our neighbors, as well as in our families, by judicious efforts to make people read the paper as well as take it. And where a good paper is generally read the Sunday school teachers will always have something to say to their classes when the lessons are over, the brethren who speak in prayer meeting will not have to say the same thing every time, and when the neighbors meet they will have other subjects to talk about besides idle gossip.

Those who are tempted to abandon a good religious newspaper had better conclude to try it another year, and see if they cannot awaken more interest in it, on their own part, and that of their families and friends.

Every subscriber who renews and every new subscriber helps to make the paper better for all the rest. A first-class newspaper of to-day can be conducted only on a large scale.

So then, friends, subscribers heretofore, for the sake of your fellow-subscribers, for the sake of your church and Sunday school, your neighborhood and your family, for the sake of your own mind and heart, for the gospel's and the Savior's sake, renew your subscription immediately, and take some trouble—trouble so sure of being rewarded with usefulness—to prevail on others also to subscribe.

Spiritualism Fairly Exploded.

It is time that the wretched imposture called "spiritualism" was put an end to. We do not mean that people who are willing to be deceived should cease to be deceived, for that is impossible. There will always be credulous fools who will take part in "dark seances," and who will assert thereafter that they have witnessed infallible proofs of spiritual manifestations. But there has been a much more numerous and respectable class, which has hitherto been willing to admit that there was "something in the thing;" that it might not be the work of spirits, but that a new scientific principle might be near to be discovered, and that the phenomena deserved serious attention.

We beg leave to remind such of the old-legal maxim: "Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus;" and to claim that it has been fairly established in the case of the so-called spiritualism. There is but one presumption which can arise, whatever the alleged facts—viz.: that they represent a case of deception not yet unraveled. Nothing which any medium succeeds or appears to succeed in doing can possibly rise above the level of clever trickery. We submit that this is the only rational inference. When an intelligent man witnesses a performance of legerdemain he sees, of course, many things which he cannot explain. His senses, however acute, fail to detect the deception put upon them. But he knows that it is there somewhere, and after it is all over, and the gas turned out, he goes home quietly to his bed, without the slightest idea that he has been in the neighborhood of anything supernatural. If he has ever had any acquaintance with the method of similar tricks, he is aware, too, that the explanation which now evades him is almost absurdly simple, and that the great art of such performers lies in leading away the attention of the spectators from the real facts. Therefore he does not trouble his head with any necessity of accounting for the seeming impossibilities he witnesses. He knows his watch is not pounded in the wizard's mortar, that his handkerchief is not burned in the candle, and that the head, which apparently rests on a simple slab in the air, is in reality attached to a body which is hidden underneath. That which saves him from any shadow of suspense concerning the marvels of the magician is his perfectly proper application of the principle we have stated above. He knows there is deception, and feels no obligation to demonstrate it in every new trick.

We insist that spiritualism has shown itself to be nothing but trickery, and very poor and shallow trickery at that. The jugglers who exhibit their powers for the public pence do the thing infinitely better. All that is needed is for those who are not mere brainless gulls to cease regarding it as capable of any reputable solution. When new phenomena are talked about, the way is to set them down at once as nothing more than new tricks. There is no need to wait for a new exposure. "You cannot account for this," cries the medium triumphantly. The answer should be: "We need not try. We know you and all your crew to be arrant knaves."

Of course this would not be fair reasoning in the beginning of a new thing. But it is fair when a matter of the kind has been exposed over and over again. The presumption of honesty cannot last forever, in spite of constant detections. The burden of proof does not rest ad infinitum upon the skeptical side. And spiritualism will quickly take its place among the most vulgar and inane impostures, if only those who are not its dupes will leave off encouraging it by their appearance of impartiality. Let them cease to think that there may be something in it. That will be enough.

We are not ignorant that it has had some countenance, from the fact that here and there a man of honesty and ability has been inclined to uphold it. But this has been the case when, as sometimes happens, honesty and ability are united with morbid tendencies and an undue disposition to theorize.

Before the general public accepts the witness of any such, it should be satisfied also of the soundness of their mental judgment. There are many men of undoubted honesty, and of very great ability, whose lead others, by no means their equals, are indisposed to follow. For instance, few would question the sincerity of Dr. Newman or Monsignor Manning, or deny their great ability and learning. Yet on the very points to which these have given their deepest study—viz.: in questions of theology—a very great number are far from accepting their conclusions regarding the Romish Church and its dogmas. Instead of saying, "Newman and Manning must know better than we do, and are more likely to be right than we are," every churchman searches with jealous scrutiny for the flaw he feels there must be in the reasoning of these men, in spite of their ability and their honesty.

A fortiori in a matter where there is so much less reason to follow implicitly an individual judgment.

And we distinguish entirely from the case where one accepts a scientific judgment on the part of a learned examiner. There have been absolutely no such authorities in favor of spiritualism. It has always been surrounded by conditions which rule out anything approaching scientific induction. Its terms, when it has challenged investigation, are the terms of the most barefaced imposture. It has done incalculable mischief, both directly and indirectly. It has now reached a point, with its cabinets, magic portraits and materializations, at which all common-sense and decent people are forbidden to give it even a partial countenance. We should as soon think of ascribing the loss of our pocket-book, after a ride in a city street car, to spiritual agencies, as of being the dupe of any new stories of these manifestations. They require nothing to put them down but that simple incredulity which all sensible people display at once when called upon to give credit to the tricks of a professed showman.—The Churchman.

"The Plan."

More and more, says the Nashville Christian Advocate, the wisdom of our late General Conference appears in taking occasion of the fraternal correspondence to set forth the views of our church on the Plan of Separation.

Suits in Tennessee for church property were lately settled in our favor on that plan. More litigation, into which our brethren reluctantly and after long waiting have entered, will be determined on that plan in our favor. Our Northern brethren and the rest of mankind are beginning to see why we hold that instrument in esteem, and why there can be no real fraternity between us and them so long as they set it at naught, treat it with contempt as a compact, and ignore it as an historical verity.

The Pittsburg Christian Advocate, speaking of the late decision of the Supreme Court in the church suits of east Tennessee, after noting that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania affirmed the binding force of article 9 of the Plan of Separation, justly remarks:

"This little fact will perhaps explain to our Northern minds why it is that the Southern Church holds on so tenaciously to the Plan of Separation, and is unwilling to enter into fraternal relations with us without a distinct recognition of the legal validity of that plan. They regard it as their sheet anchor and defense against all claims that may, at any time hereafter, be set up by us to any property acquired before or at the separation. We of the North are apt to think of that plan as simply providing a dividing line between the two bodies, which line has been transgressed by both parties, and has been annulled and denounced by us as unconstitutional and all that. But to the mind of the Southern Church it is a very different thing. It is the legal tenure by which they hold their church property, and they care very little for our renunciation and denunciation of it, so long as they know that its legal validity has been established by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The New York Methodist of January 23 says:

"And first we note that it is absurd for us as a church to be offering a restoration of fraternal relations to the Methodist Church South while we are at the same time litigating with it for a reversal of the Plan of Separation. We may, without sacrificing our self-respect, be friendly with that church, or may fight it through the courts of law, but to be doing both at one and the same time must impeach our integrity. 2. Many of our preachers in the South are as earnestly opposed to fraternity, if we may judge from appearances, as its bitter opposers in the Southern Methodist Church. They seem to fear that fraternity will put them at a disadvantage in prosecuting their work. Are they right? 3. A suit before the Supreme Court of the United States for a reversal of the Plan of Separation ought not to be left to the risks of individual management. 4. All these developments only increase the regrets so often expressed that the late General Conference did not provide for an amicable settlement of property questions."

Heroic Treatment.

J. W. H., writing on the foreign mission subject in the Southern Christian Advocate, among other things has this to say:

Full half of our people do not believe in foreign missions. These need enlightening. The other half needs quickening.

The truth is, our secretaries expend the most of their ammunition in hunting game at the Annual Conferences. Our preachers least need their services. These should be chiefly directed to the great people. In almost every Annual Conference some speaking brother can be found who would make a fair substitute on anniversary occasions; at the worst, the Bishop could speak.

Speaking of Bishops, we would timidly suggest that these venerable fathers might help much in this emergency. By a judicious distribution of their visits in aid of the secretaries, all the money centers could be visited in three months, and by that time the wet weather rivulets would begin to pour into the larger tributaries, and by September the whole would make a river full of the water of life, "making glad the city of God."

Will these eminent servants of the church take a "Hint on" this subject which concerns us all, themselves most of all? We know they are not idle—they are very busy, not more than they ought to be, nor more than they have promised.

Their eminent talents at this time could not be better employed than in earnest advocacy of the languishing cause so largely in their hands.

Mere talking, mere writing, will not meet the demand. Speaking, long, loud, eloquent speaking, will bring the money. George Whitefield emptied Dr. Benjamin Franklin's pocket-book of its last dime, and the author of "Poor Richard" was not an easy conquest. Earnestness is the chief element of oratory, after all. The best definition of eloquence is "vehement reasoning."

The very manner in which missionary money is sought defeats the object. No preacher has done his duty who fails to press the cause with an energy born of the very genius of Christianity.

What more can be done in this critical hour we do not know. The patient is desperately sick. The treatment must be heroic. When he gets fairly on his feet, then the tonics and dietetics may be in place.

The Southern Problem.

The Christian Union has this to say about the Southern problem:

For our own part, we believe that the effort to run the State governments of the South by national, and especially by military authority, has been carried too far, and that it is time to adopt another policy. If the national government years ago, after passing such laws for the protection of the colored population of the South as the constitution fairly interpreted, allows and requires, and providing a way of easy access on their part to the courts, had said to them frankly: "This is all that the government can do for you; henceforth your destiny is in your own hands; you have freedom and the ballot, and must fight your own battle with these weapons; the government cannot stretch its powers and override State authority to redress grievances for which time and patience, rather than legislation or military power, are the appropriate remedies; you must endure prejudices which the law cannot cure, and seek to win the respect and confidence of your former masters by your increasing industry, intelligence and patriotism;" it is our belief not indeed that the spirit of caste would by this time have been entirely abolished, nor that the oppression of the blacks would have wholly ceased—it will require several generations to effect all this—but that the situation of affairs at the South would be far better now than it is or ever can be under carpet-bag and military rule. The present system is demoralizing to both whites and blacks, but especially to the latter. Cannot the honest, patriotic citizens of the country forget their party squabbles, and combine for the settlement of this Southern problem on a plan just to all classes, and sanctioned by democratic principles as defined in the constitution? We do not, we will not, despair of witnessing ere long such a happy issue out of our present troubles. Meanwhile let it be the care of all right-minded men to take no step, to utter no word that shall be calculated, by stirring up unholy prejudice and passion, to aggravate the evils and dangers of the present situation, and widen the grounds of misunderstanding between the North and the South.

THE THEATER.—The Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, says the Christian Observer, still continues his vigorous warfare on the modern theater in every way. His last is the offer to give $50 to any one who would give the name of a Christian eminent for piety who approved theater-going. The editor of the Independent intimates that he might offer his own name for the prize. We have no doubt that many who consider themselves eminently pious do approve of theater-going—like the Pharisees of old, who, if they diligently practiced certain religious duties, thought it no harm to follow their inclination in other respects. But the offer is not for the names of theater-going Christians who consider themselves eminently pious, but for those who are judged to be such by others. Few such will be found. The challenge of Talmage is suggestive. Theater-going and eminent devotion and reverence for God are never united in one person.

ANTICIPATING A BEQUEST.—The death of William H. Aspinwall, Esq., says the New York Observer, has brought out an interesting fact in his life. A year or two ago he wrote a note to the American Bible Society inclosing $10,000, and saying that he had in his will bequeathed that amount to the society, but preferred to anticipate its payment, that the society might at once come into its use.

Such a course, if pursued by others, would prevent a vast amount of litigation and loss, besides giving the donor the pleasure of seeing that his money reaches its destination, and is doing its work while yet he is among the living.

MR. CHAUNCEY ROSS, of Terre Haute, Indiana, has recently given $350,000 to institutions in that city, divided as follows: To the Terre Haute School of Industrial Science, $200,000, and to the Vigo County Orphans' Home, $150,000. He has before given large sums in benevolence and charity, including $100,000 to the Ladies' Aid Society, Terre Haute, $50,000 to Wabash College, and a large sum to charities in New York. He has also promised $100,000 to the Indiana State Normal School in Terre Haute.

THE Holston Conference, says the Central Methodist, celebrates the centenary of Methodism within its bounds this year. The first society organized in the Holston country was in 1774, in southwestern Virginia. This year is also the jubilee of their history as a Conference, as fifty years ago last November the Holston Conference was organized in the town of Knoxville.

WHEN a man is opposed to Christianity it is because Christianity is opposed to him.—Hall.

Belling the Cat.

Enfin les remarks se tronvent chez le pelletier.

Our readers will remember, says the Richmond Christian Advocate, that a sprightly preacher, the Rev. R. A. Holland, from Kentucky, who served Trinity church, Baltimore, three or four years ago lost his polarity on a doctrinal point—eternal punishment—and, dodging a trial of the Baltimore Conference, went over to the Episcopalians. Holland was very smart, and a charming declaimer. The clergy of the church and the laity thereof rejoiced over their prize. They sat down to laugh and rose up to crow. They have come to grief.

Holland was called to St. George's church, St. Louis, and had a fine run and full houses. He has lately created a sensation by some sermons pronounced by churchmen heterodox.

Holland is like the mitrailleuse the savans strapped on the back of a jackass as an experiment in fanciful flying artillery. The first barrel went off well. At the second the animal capered and the savans squatted. Soon the jackass was whirling around and the mitrailleuse firing in all directions except at the target. The scientists hugged the ground and hollowed for somebody to hold the animal.

We should think the Episcopalians would become a little shy of mounting our rejected pieces, and parading the cast-off cannon of the Methodists as trophies.

The Southern Churchman says:

"Rev. R. A. Holland, rector of St. George's church, St. Louis, preached a sermon on the first Sunday in January (we quote from the Interior,) 'which has caused considerable comment in and out of the churches. He said that he did not believe in eternal punishment. This is only one of a series of unfeasible sermons which he has been preaching for some time past. Some time ago he represented that the Deity was simply whatever he revealed himself to every man's consciousness.' We have before us a copy of the St. Louis Republican of January 9, in which there is a sermon of Mr. Holland's, in which he pointedly denies the eternity of future punishment."

REV. CHARLES KINGSLEY, says the Christian Union, died at London on Sunday last, aged fifty-six years. He was born in Devonshire, and came from an old family which is mentioned as having attached itself to Cromwell's cause during the English revolution. After graduating with considerable honor from Cambridge, he decided to follow his father's steps into the ministry, and in 1844 was presented to the living of Eversley, in Hampshire, where his warm sympathies with the poor, which involuntarily drew to him so many friends, were first developed. He was subsequently appointed as Canon of Westminster, and in his theological views was identified with Dean Stanley and the Broad Church party in the establishment. His tender interest, however, in the laboring classes and in oppressed humanity at large was the prominent and the winning feature of his clerical labors. As an author and a poet Canon Kingsley's fame is world-wide, "Alton Locke," "Hypatia," "Village Sermons" and a score or more of other titles being so universally familiar as to need no more than their mention here. Mr. Kingsley's visit to the United States about a year ago was one of the happy incidents of his life, so far at least as it gave genuine pleasure to hundreds on this side to see and to hear him. The English people cannot regret his death any more generally or sincerely than will the people of this country.

THE Ultramontane Germania confirms the rumor that the Pope has issued a secret constitution making special provision for the election of his successor. The Cologne Gazette expresses the opinion that the election question will occasion a split in the Catholic ranks. There are symptoms that the Jesuit party is striving for victory by the abolition of the conclave and the nomination of the successor to the papal see by testamentary disposition of his predecessor. It is hinted that some of the Bishops who submitted in 1870 will stick at this. Possibly they may insist on a reform of the College of Cardinals and some reduction of the Italian preponderance. Very likely any nice little plan which the Curia may coax the Pope into promulgating may be resisted by some of the more liberal Bishops, who will contend that these ecclesiastical arrangements relate neither to faith nor to morals, and are therefore not absolutely binding on the consciences of good Catholics.—Independent.

REV. GEORGE TRASK, the well-known apostle of the anti-tobacco crusade, who died last week at Fitchburg, Massachusetts, was a graduate of Yale College and Andover Seminary. It was not until middle life that he took up the special reform he so steadily and quaintly advocated during the rest of his years. His belief was that the taste for nicohol was developed or sharpened by smoking, and he accordingly inveighed against the latter habit as the first to be rooted out if the temperance cause was to succeed. He issued a great number of tracts and leaflets on his favorite reform, and conducted it almost single-handed. How far this movement has had its influence it is perhaps difficult to state. That we have smokers among us it is not necessary to prove at length; but whether there would have been more had Mr. Trask never lived is quite another question.—Christian Union.

THE Christians gathered by Rev. Dr. Riley, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in Mexico, have been organized under the name of the "Church of Jesus," in Mexico. The Right Rev. Alfred Lee, Bishop of Delaware, and Rev. H. Dyer, of the American Church Missionary Society, sailed for Vera Cruz, January 20, to make arrangements for the complete organization of an Independent Episcopal Church in the city of Mexico.

Periodicals.

WE CAN, from our own judgment, most heartily indorse the following estimate of St. Nicholas, by Rev. C. S. Robinson, D. D., in the Sunday School Times: "I am ready to say that a cleaner, purer, more trustworthy periodical for children cannot be named. The best writers are engaged upon it. It is printed beautifully, and illustrated in the highest style of art. I know the proprietors, and if ever a high, noble purpose was cherished by any public people, it is found here. The magazine does not claim to be religious, but it is on the side of all that is true and good, from beginning to end."

THE Minutes of the Eightieth Session of the Virginia Conference is a handsome pamphlet of 92 pages, edited and published for the Conference by Rev. P. A. Peterson. It is a model of completeness and method. Besides the usual matters pertaining to the business of the Conference, it contains Bishop Marvin's sermon on the Law and the Gospel, preached on the Sunday morning of the Conference session, and published by request of the Conference.

PHYSICS vs. METAPHYSICS is a beautifully printed pamphlet of 32 pages, containing an address, delivered June 24, 1874, before the literary societies of the University of Mississippi, by our gifted friend, William F. Mellen, Esq., formerly of Natchez, Mississippi, but now of St. Louis, Missouri. It is an able discussion of an important subject.

THE American Agriculturist for February is surpassingly excellent in illustrations, and in the richness and variety of its contents. We know of no periodical comparable to it in beauty and in taste. And very cheap—only $1.50 per annum. Published by Orange Judd & Co., New York.

WE HAVE RECEIVED from Scribner & Co., New York, New Stories, by Aunt Fanny, first series, with eight illustrations, printed in colors. They are presented by St. Nicholas. Beautiful stories and also beautiful pictures.

THE Southern Cultivator for February contains a rich supply of information suited to the Southern farmer and adapted to the season. Published by W. L. Jones, Athens, Georgia.

DEATH OF A MORAVIAN BISHOP.—Bishop Samuel Reinke, senior bishop of the American Province of the Unitas Fratrum, died in great peace at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, on Thursday, January 21, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He was ordained minister in 1819, and bishop in 1858. During the last four years he has been in very feeble health, and toward the last suffered great bodily pain. His last official act was in 1870, when he took part in the service of consecrating his own son as a bishop of the church. He was original, able, and, until disabled by illness, a powerful preacher.—New York Christian Advocate.

THE Queen of the Madagascar Islands has issued a proclamation, dated October 2, 1874, ordering the liberation of all slaves imported into her kingdom since the date of her treaty of 1865, with Great Britain, for the suppression of the slave traffic.

MARRIED.

CURRY—McALPIN.—January 27, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, near Intercourse, Sumter county, Alabama, by the Rev. C. B. DuBose, Mr. Theodore Curry, of Choctaw county, Alabama, to Miss Margaret McAlpin.

RUMLEY—CURRY.—January 27, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, Pashmataha, Choctaw county, Alabama, by the Rev. C. B. DuBose, Mr. W. T. Rumley, of Gaston, Sumter county, Alabama, to Miss Gertrude Curry.

HOLLINGSWORTH—WRIGHT.—January 28, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. Joseph S. Oakley, Mr. Henry J. Hollingsworth and Miss Martina Wright, all of Lake Washington, Mississippi.

MORRIS—BROWN.—By the Rev. S. H. Cox on the twenty-third of December, 1874, Rev. W. Hargrave Morris, of the Alabama Conference, to Miss Isabella Brown, of Washington county, Alabama.

JOINER—NASH.—At the residence of the bride's father, December 17, 1874, by the Rev George R. Lynch, Mr. Calvin Joiner, of Pickens county, Alabama, to Miss Nettie Nash, of Lowndes county, Mississippi.

HENDERSON—GUNTER.—At the residence of Dr. Gunter, January 27, 1875, by the Rev. George R. Lynch, Mr. Robert Henderson, of Cass county, Texas, to Miss Ozema Gunter, of Pickens county, Alabama.

O'BRYANT—PRICE.—By the Rev. George R. Lynch, December 24, 1874, Mr. Josiah O'Bryant to Miss Fannie Price, all of Pickens county, Alabama.

FURGUSON—GRAY.—January 27, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. J. J. Furguson, of Walnut Grove, Mississippi, to Miss Fannie M. Gray, of Forest, Mississippi.

LENOIR—COOK.—January 28, 1875, at the residence of the bride's mother, near Magnolia, Mississippi, by Rev. J. W. Sandell, Mr. Pinckney Lenoir to Miss Rosaline Juliette Cook.

Treasurer's Report

Of the Festival Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, for the benefit of the Louisiana Avenue, Felicity and Carondelet Street churches.

			Dr.
1874.
Dec. 15.—	From sale of tickets	$297 80
	Eureka table	168 70
	St. Charles table	67 05
	Carondelet table	520 80
	Admissions	109 50
	Mrs. Hill, from flour and articles sold	83 75
	Louisiana avenue table	71 45
	Mrs. E. E. H.'s table	80 35
	Ivy table	177 50
	Tracent table	195 80
	Mrs. E. H. H.'s table	15 00
	Collections for music	21 00
1875.
Jan. 28.—	Crescent table	12 00
Feb. 2.—	Admission for sale of tickets	10 50
			$1,867 20
1874.	CREDIT.
Dec. 11.—	Amount paid—
	Charles Jaeger, hand	$75 00
	Rent, Odd Fellows' Hall	5 00
Dec. 12.—	Advertising and printing	54 40
13,14,15.—	Sundry expenses	10 27
	Miss Wilson, for tableau	30 00
	Concert singers	28 75
	Additional for advertis'g	42 00
	Expenses of tableau	27 50
	E. Levy & Co., damage to pictures	35 00
Dec. 19.—	S. K. Russ, sec. and treas. Louisiana avenue	1,100 00
1875.
Feb. 2.—	S. K. Russ, sec. and treas. Louisiana avenue	104 28
			$1,807 20
	Expenses		602 02
	Net proceeds		$1,204 28

R. S. HICKEY, Treasurer.

LEVY BROS., 580 Magazine street, have on hand a superior stock of dry goods.

Publisher's Department.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Feb. 6, 1875.

A—American News Company two letters, Edwin Alden.

B—W E Ballard $3.50, Beach, Son & Co, Mrs Edith Blume, W M Bryant $2, Mrs Mary C Baird $2, W H Bryan $4.65, W P Barton, J H Butler & Co, J O Bucham $1.35, Bowdry & Co, B F Beals.

C—S H Colburn, W J Crow, T W Castle, W J Conty $4, H M Cook, T Cameron, Joseph S Carley, John Church & Co, John F Cook $2.50, H Carradine 30 cents.

D—H G Douglass, Logan D Dameron, W J Dodson $2.50, Dixon Dudley $3.01, W K Douglass, M DuFosse, L W DeTaum $5.75, A M L Douglass $2, Rufin T Davis, George J Dicks & Son, Henry A Dreer $2, N A Davis.

E—Charles M Evans $5, M S Ezell $2, W G Elder, John W Ellison, George S Elliott, E Elbreck & Harris.

F—E N Freshman six letters, J L Futrell.

G—C F Gillespie $1, J E Gibbs $7.20, John B Gregory, Ed T Goodwin two letters $5.20, W D A Gorton, H Gwinner & Bros, W B Gill, Gould & Lincoln, H Goff.

H—W L C Hannicutt, D C Hardee 50 cents, Henry Hendon, Hitchcock & Walden, J D Harper, E E Hamilton $10.85, R S Holcombe $1, J H Holland $2, W E Hamberlin 23 cents.

I—Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.

J—W J Joyce, H F Johnson two letters.

K—Julius M Klein $8.50, T A Kerr $4.

L—J B Lippincott & Co two letters, L B Legette $33.50, J L Lewis, E M Lazenby, George R Lynch, William J Lamm, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham.

M—W H Morris $1, Mrs E A McClanahan, John Morton & Co, J W Medlock $25, Mrs Eliza McNabb, W M McKie $5.50, A Meredith, John P Morton & Co, L R Moore $2.50, Thomas Mallett, J Arthurs Murphy & Co, W Manly, Dr J W Martin, J F Mason $2.15, W B May.

N—J T Norrell 15 cents, S S Nichols, A B Nicholson $37.25, Thomas Nelson & Sons, Nevin & Martin.

O—James Ormond, William Ollis $2.

P—L W Payne $5, Pierce & Terry, S M Pettengill & Co, M S Park two letters, R T Parish, Mrs Mary M Pope $10, John Pipes $9.85, G J Penn.

R—J M Ramsay, A H Redford agent, John A G Rabe, Read & Read, Robinson & Co two letters, A. D'F Randolph, J K Randall two letters $11.71, C B Rilley $5.95, Warren Richards, Robert Randle, Rice & Whitaker.

S—H R Singleton, R A Shiley $1, Seay & Seay $5, George S Schofield, J W Simmons, Mrs Lizzie H Smith $2, Green T Scales $12.75, H M Singleton, H F Spriggs, St Louis Advertising and Publishing Company.

T—Tower, Gildersleeve & Co two letters, W J Tiller $1, W C Talt.

W—J Z Watson $1, T S West $3.25, James Wilkinson $1.25, Wilson, Hinkle & Co, T H Wheeler $35, T F Wallace $1, Henry Weathers, H M Washington, J L Waters, W S Wingfield, B F White $2, W C Warner $2, G R Wilson $45, V M West $1.50, Thomas B Walden.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1st to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS IN REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

PLEYEL'S PIANOS.—We are glad to hear that our enterprising neighbor, Louis Grunewald, Esq., has been appointed by Messrs. Pleyel, Wolff & Co. as exclusive agent for their pianos. The character of these instruments is so well established and universally known as to need no commendation from us. See card of Pleyel, Wolff & Co. and advertisement of Mr. Gruenewald in another column.

FRUITS.—Our country readers in visiting the city frequently wish, on leaving the city, to carry fruits to their families. We are glad to refer them to the house of S. Oteri, 23 and 25 Front and 24 and 26 Fulton street, between Gravier and Poydras streets, convenient to the steamboat landing and to the Mobile railroad depot.

DRESSMAKING AND FITTING.—Mrs. Fricke & Williams invite attention to their fashions as dressmakers. They insure satisfaction and economy, and are posted in the latest styles. They are located at 586 and 588 Magazine street. See advertisement.

WEDDING SUITS, dress suits and business suits of clothing will be furnished to order by Joseph Brandner, merchant tailor, 31 Bourbon street, between Customhouse and Bienville. Call and see his goods and get his terms. See advertisement.

HORSES AND MULES.—The sale stables of M. F. Thomson, at 269, 271 and 273 Delord street, should be visited and Mr. Thomson interviewed in reference to terms by all purchasers of stock before closing bargains. See advertisement.

MATTRESSES will be made of hair, feathers or moss, to suit the wishes of families, steamboats or hotels, by T. H. Honore, at No. 230 Magazine street. Promptness and economy assured. See advertisement.

FURNITURE can be bought to great advantage at the store of Joseph B. Hubbard, corner of Rampart and Perdido streets. Parlor and bed-room sets rich and cheap.

EMBROIDERY and lace in great variety, and beautiful trimmings, etc., may be bought on most reasonable terms at the store of A. D. Causse, 538 Magazine street.

Extraordinary Opportunity for the Relief of the Afflicted.

The surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located at Indianapolis, Indiana, have finally yielded to the many urgent appeals to visit the South. Three or more of the surgeons will be at the ST. CHARLES HOTEL, NEW ORLEANS, LA., FEB. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 AND 16, 1875.

They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change; fit and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Catarrh, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip, they will not make another; therefore all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to Indianapolis, must do so at this time. No cases will be undertaken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the institution is entirely responsible, and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, curing thousands annually. Remember the time and place, and come early. Send to the Institute for circular.

ECONOMY IN GAS FIXTURES AND PLUMBING.—Those who need the services of a plumber or gas-fitter, or who may have occasion to supply some want by the purchase of material in either the plumbing or gas-fitting line, will find it decidedly to their interest to interview Mr. C. C. Hartwell, an old-established and reliable mechanic, at No. 48 Baronne street. He is careful, prompt and painstaking in the execution of work confided to his care, moderate in his charges at all times, but specially appreciative of the present hard times. His style of fixtures are of the latest patterns, embracing Northern and European manufactures. We have described the man, pictured his stock and located his store; let the reader put his abilities to the proof.

THE advertisement of M. A. Wheelahan, dealer in paints, wall paper and window shades, will be found in to-day's paper. Mr. W. J. Golden, the competent manager of this establishment, will always be found polite and attentive to the wants of his customers.

READ Dr. Warrington's advertisement elsewhere.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

WILBOR'S COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. In the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping-Cough, Scrofulous Humors and all Consumptive symptoms it has no superior, if equal. Let no one neglect the early symptoms of disease when an agent is thus at hand which will alleviate all complaints of the Chest, Lungs or Throat. Manufactured only by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. Sold by all druggists. fe11 1t

THE EFFECT of Simmons' Regulator on the stomach, liver and kidneys is prompt and effectual. fe11 1t

DR. TUTT'S CELEBRATED EXPECTORANT.—First, it detaches from the bronchial or wind pipes the mucus or matter which adheres to them. Secondly, it mitigates the pain and removes the construction of the bronchial tubes and muscles of the chest. Thirdly, it resists the progress of inflammation, and assists the lungs to throw off the irritating matter which accumulates. ja25 3t

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We enjoy to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 1y

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspeptic, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by I. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de10 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

We have this day appointed Mr. LOUIS GRUNEWALD, at Grunewald Hall, 18, 20 and 22 Baronne street, New Orleans, Louisiana, our EXCLUSIVE AGENT for the sale of our

PLEYEL PIANOS

for the Southern States of the United States of America. PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO., Piano Manufacturers.
PARIS, FRANCE, Dec. 30, 1874. fe11 1m

Referring to above card, I respectfully call the attention of dealers and the public in general to the same, assuring them that by my arrangements with Messrs. Pleyel, Wolff & Co., of Paris, I am better enabled to fill all orders for all styles to far better advantage than heretofore. Dealers will find it to their interest to call early and make arrangements for their supply. I will receive per steamship Hanover—to arrive this week—a choice assortment of all the popular styles of these celebrated instruments, and future fresh receipts at short intervals.

I tender a cordial invitation to the public to come and see my mammoth stock.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD, fe11 1t Grunewald Hall.

NEW BOOKS.

PESTALOZZI, HIS LIFE, WORK AND INFLUENCE.—By HERMAN KRUSI, A. M., Instructor in Philosophy of Education at the Oswego Normal and Training School.—Cloth, 8vo, 278 pages. Portraits and other illustrations. $2 25.

ECLECTIC HISTORICAL ATLAS. Full 8vo, cloth, 18 double-page Maps, accurately drawn and engraved. A hand-book for general readers and students in Ancient, Mediæval and Modern History. $1.50.

DRAMAS & DRAMATIC SCENES.—Edited by W. H. VENABLE, author of School Days, Amateur Actor, U. S. History, 20 plays selected from the writings of Standard Authors. Illustrations by FARNY. 12mo, cloth, 336 pages. $1.50.

ELEMENTS OF PHYSICS.—For Academies and Common Schools. By S. A. NORTON, A. M., Professor in Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College, and author of Elements of Natural Philosophy. 12mo, 286 pages. $1.13. Supplies for first introduction into schools, and single sample copies for examination with a view to introduction, 81 cents per copy.

WILSON, HINKLE & CO.,
PUBLISHERS,
CINCINNATI AND NEW YORK.
fe11 2teow

MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS (over Braseman & Adams') wish to inform the community that they are in constant receipt of the LATEST FASHIONS. Their style and fit cannot be rivaled, and their punctuality can be testified by their customers. Ladies would do well to call early with their Holiday Dresses, in order to have ample time to display their skill in producing something elegant and tasty. Prices always moderate.
fe11 2m MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS.

T. B. HONORE,
MANUFACTURER AND REPAIRER OF
Hair, Feather and Moss Mattresses,
NO. 230 MAGAZINE STREET,
Bet. St. Joseph and Delord, New Orleans.
Steamships, Steamboats, Hotels and Boarding-Houses supplied at short notice and at the lowest rates. Country orders solicited and promptly attended to. fe11 1m

RARE BARGAINS.—NO HUMBUG.

JOSEPH B. HUBBARD,

DEALER IN FURNITURE,

Corner Rampart and Perdido Streets.

Selling out at cost to retire from business. fe11 1m

BOOK AGENTS WANTED! to sell the NEW BOOK TELL IT ALL By Mrs. Stenhouse, of Salt Lake City, for 25 years the wife of a Mormon High Priest. Introduction by Mrs. Stowe. The story of a woman's experience lays bare the "hidden life," mysterious, secret doings, etc., of the Mormons as a "wide-awake woman sees them." Bright, Pure, and Good. It is the best new book out, actually overflowing with good things for all. It is popular everywhere, with everybody, and outsells all other books. Three to one. Ministers say "God speed it." Eminent women endorse it. Everybody wants it, and agents are selling from 10 to 20 a day! 25th Thousand now in press! We want 5,000 more trusty agents NOW—men or women—and we will mail Outfit FREE to those who will canvass. Large pamphlets with full particulars, terms, etc., sent free to all. Address, QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, O., Or ECCLESIUM PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. fe11 1y

WANTED.

A situation as Companion, Housekeeper or Teacher, by a lady who has had several years' experience as teacher of small children. References furnished. Address

MISS W., care Dr. P. Chow,
Ja23 1m St. Joseph, La.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

JOSEPH BRANDNER,

MERCHANT TAILOR,

31.....BOURBON STREET.....31

Between Customhouse and Bienville,

fe11 3m NEW ORLEANS.

S. OTERI,

Wholesale Dealer in and Importer of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC FRUITS,

23 AND 25 FRONT AND 24 AND 26 FULTON STREET,

Between Gravier and Poydras, New Orleans.

Keep always on hand a general assortment of Nuts. fe11 1m

THOMSON'S SALE STABLES AND MULE PENS,

DELORD, NEAR DRYADES STREET.

These new and commodious Stables are now in thorough order, and well supplied with the BEST STOCK in the South. Planters, commission merchants and others will consult their own interest by calling before purchasing elsewhere.

M. F. THOMSON,
fe11 2m5p 269, 271 and 274 Delord, near Dryades St.

A. D. CAUSSE,

EMBROIDERY & LACE STORE,

538.....MAGAZINE STREET.....538

Near Felicity street.

Trimmings, Hosiery and Gloves, Corsets and Fancy Goods. fe11 1m

C. C. HARTWELL,

48.....BARONNE STREET.....48

Bet. Common and Gravier Sts.,

General Dealer in and Importer of

PLUMBING AND GAS MATERIALS,

AT NEW YORK PRICES.

Plumbing and Gas-Fitting Promptly Attended to. fe11 1m

NEW ORLEANS SAVINGS INSTITUTION.

156.....CANAL STREET.....156

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS,

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, First Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, Second V. President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, Third Vice President.
CHARLES KILSHAW, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer,	David Urquhart,
L. F. Generes,	John G. Haines,
George Janas,	Carl Kohn,
Thos. A. Adams,	Christian Schneider,
Thos. Allen Clarke,	Samuel Jamison,
Charles J. Leeds,	Jules Tuyes.

Six Per Cent. Interest on deposits. no19 1y

LEVY BROS.'

DRY GOODS EMPORIUM,

580.....MAGAZINE ST.....580

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Always keep on hand a full stock of Dry Goods, Fancy Goods and Notions. BLACK ALPACA A SPECIALTY.

UPPER CITY KID GLOVE DEPOT.

Give Us a Call.

N. B.—Orders from the country will be promptly attended to. mh5 1y

COLDS! COUGHS!

USE OUR

COMPOUND PULMONIC PASTE.

A most palatable and soothing remedy.

FRÉDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m 139 Canal street.

COD LIVER OIL AND PHOSPHATE LIME.

This prescription we always have on hand fresh, and we guarantee it superior to the article that formerly was imported into this market, but which has been supplanted by ours during the two last seasons. Be sure to ask for the

FRESHLY PREPARED

Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate Lime.

SOLD AT

139.....CANAL STREET.....139

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m Druggists.

W. F. CLARK, SUCCESSOR TO A. LOEZ,

134 Rampart Street,

Between Toulouse and St. Peter Sts., New Orleans,

MANUFACTURER OF

CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES.

Also carriages repaired and put in as good order as in any part of the country. First premiums awarded at the last Fair for best Victoria and Caleche built anywhere. fe1 1m

DR. HENRY SMITH,

130.....CANAL STREET.....130

Over Eyrich's Book Store.

Consultation hours—11½ to 2 o'clock.

Residence—565 St. Charles street, near Philip.
Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 4 and 7 P. M. ja11 1y5p

WHITNEY & HOLMES

ORGANS,

FIFTY ELEGANT STYLES, with Valuable Improvements; New and Beautiful Solo Stops. Over One Thousand Organists and Musicians indorse these Organs, and recommend them as Strictly First-class in Tone, Mechanism and Durability. Warranted for five years. Send for price lists.

WHITNEY & HOLMES ORGAN CO.,
no27 13teow Quincy, Illinois.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S Celebrated POOR RICHARD'S EYE-WATER prevents and cures CATARRH, and keeps back all Fevers. Send ten cents, or thirty cents for the Pamphlet or Magazine, to the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York, that you may learn what Poor Richard's Eye-Water will do for Blind, Sunken, Inflamed and Weak Eyes; also for the entire constitution. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $2, $1 and 25 cents. The Eye-Water is one of the three parts of the METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY, which kills the Root of all Disease. oc8 1yeow

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO'S BELLS.

CHURCH ALARM

FINE-TONED, LOW-PRICED, WARranted against breakage. Catalogues, containing full particulars, prices, etc., sent free.

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO.,
ap9 1yeow Cincinnati, Ohio.

ROGERS' EFFERVESCING CITRATE OF MAGNESIA,

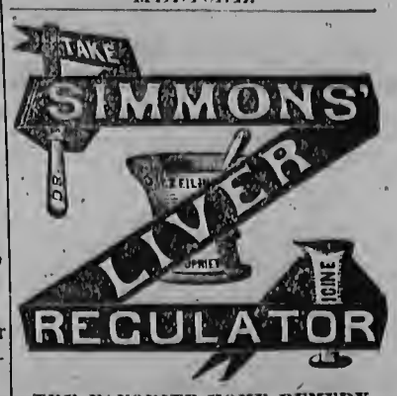
In six-ounce bottles, in powder. This Magnesia is a mild purgative and aperient, very acceptable to the stomach for Sick Headache, Sour or Sick Stomach, and all Febrile cases. Good for all seasons of the year. Prepared by ARTHUR ROGERS, 193 Spring St., N. Y. For sale by all druggists. E. J. HART & CO., wholesale agents, New Orleans. au27 1yeow

OPIUM MORPHINE HABIT speedily cured by Dr. Beck's old known and sure Remedy. NO CHARGE or treatment until cured. Call on or address

DR. J. C. BECK,
112 John Street, CINCINNATI, OHIO.
jy23 1yeow

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL GAZETTEER OF THE UNITED STATES. Showing the grand results of our first 100 Years. Everybody buys it, and agents make from $100 to $200 a month. Send for circular. ZIEGLER & McCURDY, St. Louis, Mo. jy21 1yeow

MEDICAL.



THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. nu19 1y6pic

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc6 1y5p

COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the

THROAT AND LUNGS

Laptace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

B. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields st., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. fe4 1m8p

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE

BEST HOME MUSIC-BOOKS.

Piano at Home. 4-Hand Pieces. $2.50. A large collection of popular pieces. Most excellent practice, and most entertaining to play.

Ritter's History of Music. TWO VOLS. Each $1.50. Condensed from 500 books, and is terse, complete, interesting, and a most useful book of reference in musical families.

Clarke's New Method For REED ORGANS still the leading Method in point of sale, is enlarged, improved, and in every way keeps up its high reputation. Price, $2.50.

Organ at Home. $2.50. The largest and best collection of popular Reed Organ music. 200 pieces; large pages, well filled.

River of Life. New Edition. Thirty-five cents. Full of the sweetest of Sabbath School Songs.

All books sent, postpaid, for retail price.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
Ja18 1y Boston.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.

THE HISTORY OF SWITZERLAND.—By Heinrich Zschokke. New Edition. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.75.

A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

"Mr. Wilkinson wields a Free Lance, bravely, effectively and brilliantly."—N. Y. Evening Mail.

LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.—In one volume, extra cloth, $2.50.

IDIOMATIC KEY to the FRENCH LANGUAGE.—By Profs. Lambert and Sardou. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se3 1y 11 Astor Place, New York.

IF YOU WANT THE DEVIL (the "Roaring Lion") kept out of your house, send for The Metaphysical the greatest Magazine of the age. Every family is socially dying without it. Published by the METAPHYSICAL UNIVERSITY, 51 Bond street, New York. Edited by Mrs. M. G. Brown and her daughter, Elizabeth. Price, $1 a year. Single numbers, thirty cents. Sold by Booksellers and Newsdealers everywhere. Two Rare Presents to each Subscriber. oc8 1yeow

The Child's Corner.

CHILDREN'S HYMN.

BY MARY MAPES DODGE.

From the sunny morning
To the starry night,
Every look and motion
Meets our Father's sight.

From our earliest breathing
To our latest year,
Every sound we utter
Meets our Father's ear.

Through our earthly journey,
Wherescoe'er we go,
Every thought and feeling
Doth our Father know.

Let us, then, be careful
That our looks shall be Brave and kind and cheerful,
For our Lord to see.

Let us guard each accent
With a holy fear,
Fit our every saying
For our Lord to bear.

Let no thought within us,
Hidden or confessed,
Ever bring a sorrow
To our dear Lord's breast.

Help us, O our Father!
Hear our earnest plea—
Teach thy little children
How to live for thee!

Daisy's Talks.

BY JESSIE MACGREGOR.

I am a little girl 'most five years old. I had a birthday party the other day; then I was just four years old. By and by I will have another party; then I will be just five. My very real name is not Daisy, but aunty calls me that all the time, and mamma and papa do sometimes. I've got white frocks and yellow hair, and sometimes I wear my white shoes. I've got Aunt Katie, Aunt Milly, Uncle Tom, and aunty too. O and a teeny, darling baby brother. I can't write; but aunty can. She writes my letters with a pen and ink; but I tell her what to say in them. I don't live with aunty only sometimes. I am at her house now, 'cept when I am at Mamie Terry's, or out o' doors.

Aunty has a cat, and her name is Kitty. Kitty is blue and white. She has a wee little mite of a kitty, and I call it Silky. It would be bine too, only it has little black ruffles all 'round it, 'cept its mouth. O it is so fat!

Silky is very wise. It knows if aunty gives it skim milk or new milk. 'Twon't eat skim milk 'less it is awful hungry. It didn't know so much till I came here. Aunty says I teach it what is not good for it; but I'm sure new milk is good. Skim milk is some good too. Silky knows what is meat and what is bread. She eats meat. She didn't eat it at first, 'cause her teeth were not growed, and she didn't know how. She didn't know even me then either.

At first, O how it would spit and roll up its eyes and hunch its back at me! It was very polite too. It would run away from me just as tho' I was a queen, aunty said. I asked aunty why folks run away from a queen, and she said they do not always; but, when they do, they never turn their backs to her. It would not be polite. But Silky is not so polite as she used to be. She runs all sorts of ways now.

Silky used to live out in the hennery, where there is lots of meal and corn, and so forth—and hens in the other part. Since I have been here she stays in the kitchen and on the porch. She comes in the parlor sometimes, but aunty don't 'low her there, 'cause parlors ain't the place for cats. I tell aunty that Silky ain't a cat, she is only a kitten. But aunty says mice don't go in parlors, so kitties ought not to. Mice don't go in the kitchen 'cause kitty is there; and I guess they would not live in the parlor if Silky stayed there.

I said Silky was a wise kitty, and so she is. When she wants a door to open all she has to do is to say "Meuw" two or three times, and the door is sure to open. Sometimes I open it, sometimes aunty does; but then we don't always. It seems to come open itself. I ask aunty what makes it always open for Silky, and she says that Silky must say "Ses-a-me" when she mews.

Aunty says Ses-a-me is a kind of grain like wheat, that fairies used to take care of; and in old times when anybody said Ses-a-me they could open even the ground, or anything, 'cause the fairies always helped them. Fairies used to be strong and plenty in those days. I 'most wish I had happened around when grandma was a little girl, just to see how it would seem to know all about live fairies. She tells me fairy stories sometimes. I ask aunty if there are any fairies now, and where they bide; but she will tell me some other time. I must go to bed now.

I'd like to take Silky along with me, but aunty won't 'low me to. Aunty knows best, so I'll take my dolly. She ain't 'live nor warm, nor anything but good and pretty. Her name is Lucy Flora. She's got a blue dress and a night-gown auuty made. I throw you some kisses. Good-night.—Christian at Work.

The Little Torn Primer.

Millie ran into the dining-room and threw her books down on the dining-table.

"I knew all my lessons to-day," she said, "and I want my dinner; and oh! did you have blackberry pie?"

But what I am going to tell is not about Millie or blackberry pie, but about the books after Millie and her mamma had gone out of the room and left them to themselves.

"Millie is a very clever little girl," said the Grammar, "and talks very well. I take great credit to myself for teaching her to speak so correctly."

"Yes," said the Arithmetic, "she is bright, and can't be beat in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. Really bright children always understand my rules; I make them so clear and plain."

"She should be very much obliged to us," joined in the Geography, "for without us she could not be clever at all. For instance, see how much I tell her. I describe all countries, including her own; all bodies of water, all mountains, the different kinds of people—thousands of things. In fact, I think the information I impart" (most books use big words) "the most interesting and valuable she obtains."

"Pshaw!" sneered the History. "You're alone in that opinion. Where does she learn all the particulars about different countries, including her own, as you say? 'Christopher Columbus, a native of Genoa, Italy, discovered America in the year 1492. He set sail with three small——'"

"Oh, do stop that," interrupted the other books; "we've heard that until we are sick of it."

"Sometimes I wish he had never set sail," added the Geography.

"Where does she learn about the great battles, the lives of the kings, queens and emperors?" continued the History, waving its cover triumphantly; "about the illustrious Father of his Country, George Washington, who never——"

"Don't believe it!" interrupted the books.

"And if he never did, History does," said the Arithmetic—"many a one. It is only figures that never lie."

"From what does our Millie gain knowledge"—here spoke the Natural History—"of beasts and birds and fish? All things that walk or fly, or creep or swim, or stop still and only breathe? The wonderful habits of the insects, the traits of the massive elephant, and the capers of the mischievous monkey!"

"My friends"—here joined in a tiny voice for the first time, causing the books to stand up on their edges and look over at the corner of the room where lay the little torn Primer, from which it proceeded—"My friends, I know you all help to make Millie wise and learned; but of what use would be all you can tell if she could not read it? You would be nothing without me!"

"You!" cried the others, in a scornful voice.

"Yes, me," answered the little torn Primer. "I taught her her letters. Without knowing them, what good would any book be to her?"

"How tiresome small books are," said the History.

"I guess I'll take a nap," yawned the Geography. And so the conversation ended.—Margaret Eytinge, in St. Nicholas.

The Old Broom.

It is worn away to nothing but a short, stiff, uneven, useless stump, fastened by loose, tarnished wires to a dirty, broken handle. It evidently has had its day, if ever anything had. No one would be crazy enough to say of it now: "It will sweep clean." It couldn't sweep at all.

But there was a time—I remember well when it was first brought home a trim, tidy, respectable broom. I felt it a power in my hands. All things went before it. It had a special hatred of spiders and all dust-fostering things. Its bump of cleanliness was extraordinarily developed. 'Twas a pleasure to sweep with that broom; it seemed to have a pride in its work.

But age crept on apace. Like a few human beings, its ambition and physical endurance were unevenly balanced. But it felt that it was better to be useful and die than to be useless and live, so it did its best until it was voted superannuated, and replaced by a younger relative. Then Tommy took it for the garden walks, and then for his horse. Since that it has played the part of promiscuous helper wherever necessity, as the mother of invention, has called it into use.

Little folks, you may learn a lesson from this old broom. It was always ready to work and never shirked. It did just as well as it knew how, and was not to blame for what it did not know. So if a long raveling or a few chips, a spider's web, or a handful of loose dust was left behind, we never thought of blaming the broom; instead of that we never doubted that it was mortified at the state of things, though unable to remedy it of its own accord. When it "gave out" in the higher duties of broom-life it readily took its place lower down, and never murmured at its untimely fate; but did its best, wherever it was, cheerfully and unfalteringly.

Little boys and girls, you are each one of you a broom in your own way. Sweep clean as far as you go.

CARELESS ENGLISH.—A lady and gentleman were crossing our meadow one cloudy day, when suddenly it began to rain.

"Wou't you be kind enough to hoist my umbrella?" said the lady.

"Certainly," said the gentleman.

I was astonished at this, for if "wou't" means anything at all it means will not; and therefore, according to my translation, the gentleman really had told the lady that certainly he would not be kind enough to hoist her umbrella!

But no. Even while he spoke he opened that useful article and held it gracefully over his companion.

"Thank you!" said she earnestly.

"Not at all," said he still more earnestly. And on they went.

"Why, the fellow flatly contradicted the lady," said I to myself. "How outrageous!"

But no, again, for they were on the best of terms, and the lady smiled sweetly at his words.

Yet the birds tell me that this sort of talk is quite usual among genteel human beings.—St. Nicholas.

KITE-DAY IN CHINA.—Kite-day in China, writes a traveler, occurs on the ninth day of the ninth moon, when the inhabitants of the cities go out upon the hills and spend the day in flying kites. Sometimes thirty or forty thousand people are assembled together on one hill, where they engage all day in this beautiful amusement. All classes take part in it, we believe, from the Emperor down to the actor. All manner of birds, insects and fish are represented by these gay kites. On a fine day, when the air is full of them, the effect is very pleasing. Some are adorned with the heads of dragons and tigers. The spectator sees in the air what appears to be an immense bird or group of hawks. The Chinese show great skill in keeping half a dozen paper kites going on one string.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Fruit-Growing in Sheds.

A year or two ago I gave an account of a glazed shed built by Mr. Foster, of Beeston, and planted with apricots. It is five years since it was planted, and it has every year had a fine crop of fruit. This season it is worth going a long way to see. In my experience I have seen nothing in fruit culture so remarkable as the uniform success of this fruit shed. Who would have thought that a shed open to the northeast would have produced crops five years in succession, as this has done, in spite of unfavorable seasons? Last year, when no one here had apricots, Mr. Foster gathered twenty-five dozen beautiful fruit from two trees which had been loaded every year since they were planted. One plum—a Rivers' prolific—produced, when it was cleared, thirty-five pounds, and it was estimated that ten pounds had been previously gathered. A Plimaston orange nectarine bore twelve dozen beautiful fruit, and now every tree in the shed is as full of fruit as it is possible for it to be. When it is added that these trees have never been watered since they were first planted, that they have never been syringed at all, and that the only trouble taken with them has been to train them to the wires, thin and gather the fruit, I think few will deny that the success of this plan of growing fruit is very remarkable. Who ever before heard of a plan of growing fruit under glass, when a week's or a month's absence of the gardener made no difference, with a frost of fourteen degrees when the trees were in flower—as we had when apricots were in bloom—did not require to be guarded against, and did no harm? No wonder people are building similar sheds all over the country. One thing is quite certain: that no plan of growing unforced fruit has ever been tried to be at all compared with this, either for certainty or economy. Nobody, after seeing this shed, would for a moment think of building a shed for pots and soil, and covering it with slates or tiles, instead of glass.—The Garden.

Profitable Poultry-Raising.

In Concord, Delaware, a farmer's daughter, during the past year, had the care of his poultry-yard. In the spring she commenced with about sixty fowls, of the common breeds, including one Dominique rooster and several hens of that stock. She also had two roosters of the Partridge Cochin breed. From these she raised three hundred and fifty chickens. When young she fed on cracked corn, but when fattening them gave whole corn and Indian meal. During the season she sold eggs to the amount of $90, and from September 20 to January 17 she got ready for market one hundred and fifty pairs of chickens, which she sold for $260. She thinks the Dominique much the best for market, but they are not hardy when young.

She has some hens of the Partridge Cochin breed which weigh six, seven and eight pounds each. It will be seen from this statement what may be done by proper attention to poultry, the profits being perhaps larger than any branch of farming. It also shows that the business is one in which females may engage with success. The time occupied in caring for sixty to one hundred hens does not average more than an hour or two a day. The exercise is light and pleasant, and the change from household duties rather agreeable than otherwise. Indeed we consider the poultry business, as an occupation, both profitable and interesting. Gathering the eggs, setting the hens, watching the hatching and tending to the young have a charm which, in connection with the profit, is calculated to please every lover of nature's great working world.—Agricultural Department Report.

THE most economical way of using meat is to cook it in hot water and serve it up in its own gravy. If it is boiled for preparing soup, the water should not be too quickly raised to the boiling-point, since this tends to coagulate the albuminous portions and to prevent the juices from passing into the water. The meat should be chopped or cut as fine as possible, and steeped for some time in cold water, which should then be gradually heated up to a temperature not exceeding 150° Fahrenheit, or 62° below its boiling-point. At the last moment the soup may be allowed to reach the boiling-point. The bones should be crushed or broken up into small pieces, and boiled, or rather simmered, for eight or ten hours, in order thoroughly to extract their nutritive matter.

Soup contains the greater part of the saline matter, with the creatine, creatinine and kindred compounds, some of the albumen and fat, and an amount of gelatine that depends upon the duration of the boiling process. Cold water extracts from one-sixth to one-fourth of the weight of the solid constituents of the meat; and this watery extract contains nearly all the savory, saline and crystalline ingredients. After long-continued boiling meat becomes a hard mass, composed of tough, muscular fibers, the areolar tissue connecting them, and parts of the nerves and blood vessels. This is difficult to masticate, more difficult to digest, and so devoid of flavor that it is impossible to tell from what animal it came.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

FRESH GRAPES AT ALL SEASONS. "We once knew a gentleman," writes a California editor, "who supplied his table with fresh grapes from one season to another. His plan was to gather, when quite ripe, the largest and finest bunches of grapes and pack them in sawdust, using, instead of boxes, common nail kegs, which he purchased for a trifle at a hardware store. After carefully packing the desired number of kegs he buried the lot in a trench, dug in high ground beneath a shed, where the water could neither fall nor soak in. Before using the sawdust he carefully dried it in the sun or in an oven until it was entirely free from moisture. We never witnessed the packing process, but we know he always had the grapes, and in this way he told us he preserved them. After being buried for months the grapes were as sweet and finely flavored as if just gathered from the vines. If it will preserve the grapes, a new, profitable business might be built up. Bunches of fresh grapes in the spring would be a novelty, and, being that, would command a high price. We hope some of our grape-growers will try the experiment."

TREATMENT OF MEADOWS.—The idea that meadows can only be kept productive by frequent breaking up and reseeding is refuted by the experience of our best farmers. The Ohio Farmer says: "We have in mind meadows which have not been plowed in twenty years, and yet they yield not only heavy but first quality hay; they having always been pastured in early fall, never fed close, and occasionally harrowed, and top-dressed with fine, well-rotted manure. The habit into which many farmers have got of allowing sheep to gnaw meadows in the winter is a bad one, for they nip to the very roots to get the nutritious and sweet feed. We have seen meadows that have not been plowed in fifty years, and the only fertilizer they received was a dressing of lime once in five years."

APPLE WINE.—Take sixty pounds of brown sugar, one pound of sulphate lime, put into pure sweet cider from the press, enough to fill a forty-gallon barrel. Leave the bung out forty-eight hours, then bung it up and leave a small vent until fermentation wholly ceases. It should be kept in a cool place. When it has ceased to ferment it is ready for use. The longer it stands the better it is.

COCOANUT PIE.—Half a cup of butter, one cup of powdered white sugar, four well-beaten eggs (beat whites and yolks together,) one cup of grated cocoanut, one quart of sweet milk. Mix butter and sugar together, then add the eggs and cocoanut, and lastly the milk. Bake in a lower crust. This quantity makes two pies.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PUT YOUR HOUSES IN ORDER.

M. A. WHEELAHAN,

119.....Common St.....119

IMPORTER AND DEALER,

Has just received an Elegant Stock of

Window Shades and Wall Papers

Of the latest designs and patterns.

Also a full assortment of PAINTS, OILS, Glass, Varnishes, Brushes and Artists' Materials.

Purchasers will find our stock reliable in quality and prices lower than ever. fe4 1m

NEW ORLEANS PURCHASING BUREAU.

To the Ladies of the South.

A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE

respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.

Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.

MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.
Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe19 1y

LADIES' HAIR STORE.

GEORGE T. SHILLING,

381.....DRYADES STREET.....381

Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,

has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandeaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.

Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

UPPER CITY

BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,

No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,

keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.

MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT
Under the Control of J. Phillips,

formerly with Glynn & Wintz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to. de6 1y LOUIS GIMBEL, Agent.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,

BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,
NEW YORK.

This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.

GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. 8t3 6m

A. BOITEL,

WATCHMAKER,

58.....ROYAL STREET.....58

Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.

Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. ja21 1m

W. N. PACKARD,

STEAM WOOD YARD,

Corner Ursulines and Rampart Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Pittsburg Coal and Charcoal a specialty. Families supplied with all kinds of Fire Wood at the shortest notice. Wood Sawed and Split to any size desired, at the lowest prices. ja21 2m

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS, manufacturer, (ap8 1y)
71 Fourth street.....LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street.....CINCINNATI, O.

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.

The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.

☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Hoarseness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☞ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.

THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.

It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.

THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.

As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.

The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.

For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜

No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S

RENOVATING BITTERS!

Purify the Blood.

STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.

One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of

DYSPEPSIA,

Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.

Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.

FOR FEMALES.

It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.

Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing

C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S

EXTRACT BUCHU

Is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get

KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.

Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.

☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au14 1y6p

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6mnrm

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,

COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO

FACTOR,

AND

GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,

For the Purchase and Sale of

ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL

And all Articles of Manufacture.

SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.

No. 100 Gravier and 17 Union Street,

de17 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PLOWS AT A BARGAIN!

Desiring to withdraw altogether from the Plow trade this season, I am offering my large stock of

Cast Steel and Wrought Plows

at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6. Same Plows sold elsewhere for $5 and $8. Will dispose of above Plows in small lots. Where lots of ten or more are ordered an additional discount will be allowed. Call at once at

JOHN W. NORRIS',
27 Canal street.
de17 2m

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S

STEEL PENS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,

No. 91 John Street, New York.

JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.

HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.

GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.

50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Set in Any Other Select Library.

This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.

All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the

Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.

Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.

PUBLISHED BY THE

American Sunday School Union,

1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1822.

A. BALDWIN. C. KUNTIS. C. A. SLOCOMB, A. D. SLOCOMB, } Incorporated.

A. BALDWIN & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,

74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Foreign and Domestic Hardware

Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with

COLLARS AND BRIDLES,

AND

A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.

Agents for J. E. Carver's Glue, Coats' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Ureske's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. fe4 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.

Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.

H. HALLER,

NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Sole Agent for Louisiana.

Sole Agent for the

CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER

In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

AGENTS WANTED!—ACT AT ONCE.—The people everywhere are eager to buy the only authentic and complete Life History of

LIVINGSTONE.

His wonderful discoveries and thrilling adventures during 30 Years in the wilds of Africa; the great search and finding by the daring STANLEY, and heroic death. Over 600 pages, beautifully illustrated; only $2.50. Going like wildfire! Write for extra terms; or, if you wish to begin at once, send $1 for outfit. VALLEY PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (bona fide number—beware bogus Imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our grand

COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.

Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is

THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.

The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in our county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTEIT & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR

THE LIFE OF JESUS,

For Young People.

A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address

H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se24 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

NO. 181 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.

This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
je18 1y New Orleans, La.

MONUMENTAL

MARBLE WORKS.

New Designs at Moderate Prices.

J. WATERHOUSE,

1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

Scientific.

MRS. WATSON, the wife of Prof. Watson, of Michigan University, is probably the only woman who enjoyed the privilege of going on the transit expedition from the United States. She had to go on a long journey, but was probably rewarded by her visit to countries which few American men and fewer women ever get an opportunity to see. First there was an overland journey to San Francisco; then a voyage, lasting twenty-six days, to Yokohama; a four days' sail to Nagasaki, and another of six days to Tien-Tsin. Then followed a voyage up the river on small house-boats to Tung Chang, and finally a donkey ride of sixteen miles to the imperial city of Peking. Prof. Watson, while at Peking awaiting the transit, discovered a new asteroid. He did not name it after his wife, but, after a Chinese goddess (Ne-Whu,) who once repaired the sky when it was in a dilapidated condition, and has thereby earned the respect of astronomers.

THE EFFECT OF LIGHTNING ON TREES.—The theory that the splitting of the trunks of trees by lightning is the result of the sudden evaporation of the liquids contained within them has received much confirmation from experiments made by Osborn Reynolds, who succeeded in splitting small sticks of wood by passing the electric spark through them after they had been impregnated with water. He also burst small glass tubes, which were filled with water, although the same tubes, when empty, allowed the electric spark to jump through them without in the least destroying them. The most striking experiment made by him was upon a tube three-eighths of an inch exterior and one-eighth interior diameter, which could stand a pressure of at least two hundred atmospheres to the square inch; this tube was fourteen inches long, and bent at a right angle. A very large electric flash being sent through the tube, it was split by the first discharge, and the pieces thrown to a distance of several feet. The inner surface of the tube was, in fact, completely pulverized, as though it had been struck with a hammer. Reynolds estimates that the pressure must have been more than one thousand atmospheres.

TWINKLING OF THE STARS.—The subject of the twinkling of stars has engaged a good deal of attention of late years, and some interesting results have been obtained. A few years ago the Italian astronomer, Respighi, announced the discovery of the cause of scintillation in certain dark bands which were seen to traverse the spectrum of a star, indicating changes in the refrangibility of our atmosphere, from hot and cold strata, which produce something of the effect of a passing mirage. A layer of hot air would bend the rays less than the colder and denser air around, and thus the star's light would not reach the observer, rays which traversed the hot stratum passing over his head, and those which traversed the cold air below being bent so as to fall beneath his feet. As the rays of different colors are differently bent in their passage through the air (the red rays being the least refracted,) different parts of a star's spectrum would be thus cut off in succession, as the relative temperatures of the layers of air varied. Arago's not very lucid explanation of the phenomena, as a result of the interference of light, is in this way completely disposed of. M. Montigny, of Brussels, has been investigating the amount of scintillation in different stars by the help of an ingenious contrivance, to which he gives the name of scintillometer. His plan is to make use of the persistence of impressions on the retina, by causing a thick plate of glass, mounted obliquely on an axis parallel to that of the telescope used, and fixed just in front of the eye-piece, to rotate rapidly; the effect of this is to displace the star's image, so that, owing to the varying inclination of the glass plate, the star appears to move in a circle, which, if the rotation is rapid enough (three or four times in a second,) forms a continuous circle of light, just as in the case of a burning stick whirled rapidly. The changes in the color of a star will be seen on this circle, the successive points of which give the appearance of the object at successive small fractions of a second; and in this way, by counting the alternations of color in the circumference of this circle of light, M. Montigny has succeeded in observing nearly two hundred alterations of color in a second of time. The point sought to be established was the connection between these changes and the constitution of the stellar light, for it is easy to see that rays which are deficient cannot be acted on by undulations of the atmosphere, and that there will therefore be fewer changes of color the more dark bands there are in a star's spectrum. Now Secchi has divided the stars of which he has examined the spectra into four types, and M. Montigny has observed the scintillations of stars belonging to three of these types, viz.: bluish white stars exhibiting four black lines in their spectrum; yellow stars, like our sun, showing numerous fine dark lines; and orange stars, which have a spectrum somewhat resembling a colonnade. As far as the results obtained by M. Montiguy go, it seems that the greatest amount of twinkling is to be found in the first type (white stars,) and the least in the third type (orange stars,) and that the mere brightness of the star has no influence on the phenomena. But the principle of combining observations of different nights without any further correction, on which M. Montigny has acted, is highly objectionable, and destroys our confidence in his conclusions. The proper way of treating such measures is to arrange the stars in sequences representing the order of scintillation, just as Sir John Herschel formed sequences of brightness as a basis for his standard magnitudes of stars.—The Academy.

I MAY be ever so rich, ever so finely educated, ever so handsome, ever so much admired, and yet the day is coming when I shall die. What then will these profit me?

BUSINESS CARDS.

OWEN GERNON,
Successor to H. R. Swasey,
BOOK-BINDER AND BLANK-BOOK MANUFACTURER,
58 Camp Street (up stairs,)
New Orleans, La.
Music-Books and Periodicals bound to any desired style. fe4 1y

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,
135.....DECATUR STREET.....135
Between St. Louis and Toulouse.
Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.
ja14 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

A. W. HYATT,
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38.....CAMP STREET.....38
P. O. Box 508. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. ja7 1y

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12.....Dumaine St.....12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in RUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

E. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 99 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

BARNETT & CAMMACK,
BROKERS,
12.....CARONDELET STREET.....12
(Front Office.)
Stocks, Bonds and Securities bought and sold. Money loaned on securities. Taxes and Licenses settled. ja14 1m

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
61.....Baronne Street.....60
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVER WARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
40 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115.....Canal Street.....115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated-ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN BOIS,
fe26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

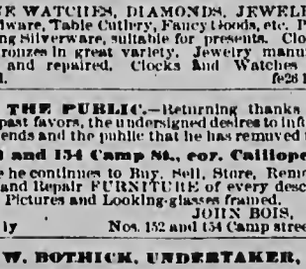
T. W. BOTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

J. B. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 4 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. Je4 10m

RESTAURANT.
BOARD, PER WEEK, $7.
MEALS SERVED AT ALL HOURS.
38.....BOURBON ST.....38
Bet. Customhouse and Bienville Sts.
de17 2m VICTOR BEHO, Agent.

CRESCENT CONFECTIONERY
AND RESTAURANT,
AND LADIES' ICE CREAM SALOON,
590.....MAGAZINE ST.....590
Near corner St. Andrew, New Orleans.
Orders for Weddings, Parties, Soirees, Suppers, etc., promptly attended to.
de17 2m F. TROLLE, Proprietor.

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y



J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
163 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. mh5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1368.
PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

WOOD.....COAL.....WOOD.
SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 282 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (nol2 3m) SAM. SMITH.

BUSINESS CARDS.

COAL.....COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
9.....CARONDELET ST.....9
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.
fe4 2m H. & C. TYLER.

H. H. HUSSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
102.....Calliope Street.....102
Between Magazine and Constance,
ja28 4m New Orleans.

R. MAITRE,
SEEDSMAN AND FLORIST.
602..... .....MAGAZINE ST.....602
Dealer in Landreth's, Vilmorin's, Henrry's and Dippe Bros.' Garden and Flower Seeds, Greenhouse Plants, Evergreens and Roses. Dutch Bulbs, and a variety of Fancy and Ornamental goods for the use of Florists and Bouquet-makers. Catalogues and Almanacs sent on application. A liberal discount to country dealers. ja2t 3m

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78.....MAGAZINE ST.....78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Agent for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)
PERIQUE TOBACCO,
19.....CONTI STREET.....19
ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79.....Carondelet St.....79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. Jy2 1y

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. je11 1y

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce,
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE.)
je4 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. BEDRICK,
my21 1y 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

G. D. COULON,
PORTRAIT PAINTER,
37.....Camp Street.....37
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Old Paintings restored. fe19 1f

NEW LEATHER STORE.
A. F. RICAU,
IMPORTER AND DEALER IN
French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,
Shoe Findings, etc.,
80 CUSTOMHOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.
Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m

mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—530 ROYAL STREET,
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Glider and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de31 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DENTAL NOTICE.
JAS. S. KNAPP, D. D. S.,
Attends to the practice of
Dentistry in All Its Branches,
At his Office and Residence,
15.....BARONNE ST.....15
fe4 2m Near Canal street.

A. L. TUCKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.,)
160.....COMMON STREET.....160
de24 1y (Up stairs.) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
153.....Julia Street.....153
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anaesthetics administered. de17 1y

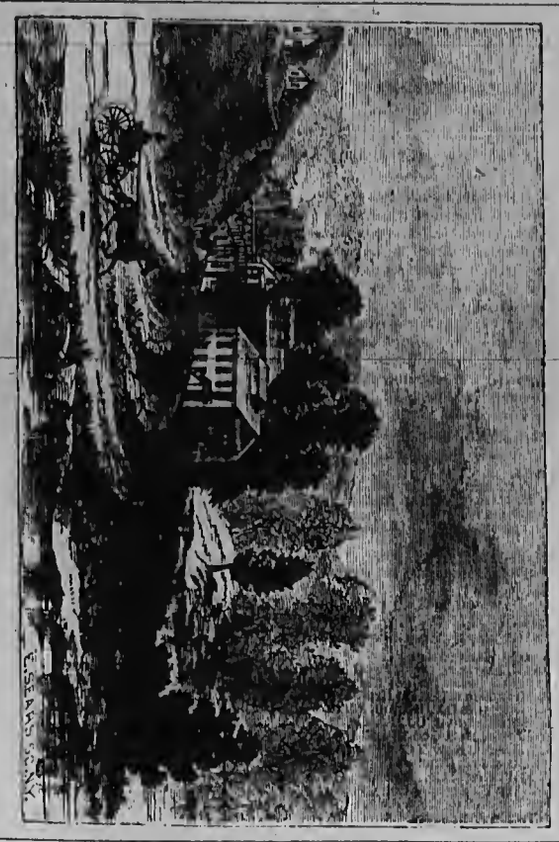
J. A. & E. J. DeHART.
DENTISTS,
183.....CANAL ST.....183
Second door from the Varieties Theater,
New Orleans.
All kinds of Dental Operations performed at the lowest rates, and all work guaranteed. de17 2m

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magnolia and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. je21 tf

DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 219 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

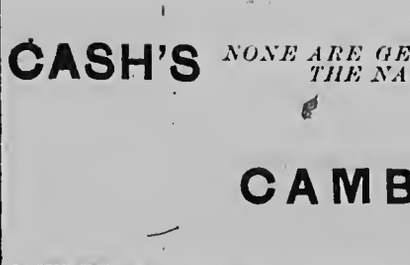


JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 43 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper.
Cash Orders Solicited.

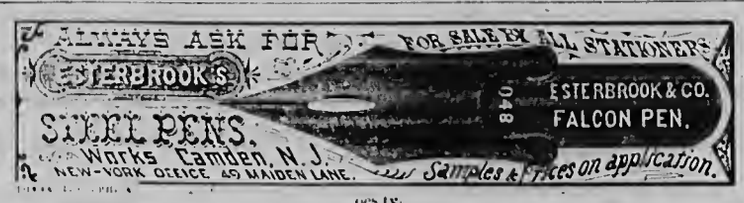
ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.

CASH'S NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT THE NAME AND TRADE MARK OF J. & J. CASH
CAMBRIC
IS THE MOST DURABLE AND SATISFACTORY TRIMMING FOR LADIES', CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' WARDROBES. FRILLING.
Ja21 5t

One Gold Pen Will Outwear $10 in Steel Pens.
A. M. HILL'S EXTRA GOLD PENS ARE THE BEST.
PRICES.—No. 1, small size, $1; No. 4, medium size, $1.50; No. 7, large size, $2.50. Elegant Holder and Box for either size, 75 cents. Rubber Pocket Holder, $1. Sent by mail, registered, on receipt of price, or by Express C. O. D. Pens Repointed, 50 cents and stamp. Address
A. M. HILL, Gold Pen Manufacturer,
86 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.
REFERENCES.—All City Merchants. ja2t 1y



BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second-hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $10 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM GREGG MRS. ADA GREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 151 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA GREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies' and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
je15 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
Jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

oc30 6m

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. ESTEN & CO., 119 Nassau street, New York. au13 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, RUBS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28.....Beekman Street.....28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

CARPET WAREHOUSE.
17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17
A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Brocatelles, Cotelines, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Ticking; Springs; Burlaps; Stair Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

JOHN GIBSON,
ENGRAVER
AND
STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER
82 Beekman Street, New York.
Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists' Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au6 1y

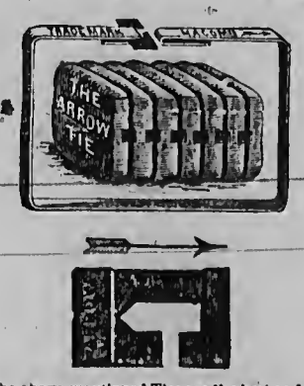
FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—JOHN BOSIO, proprietor of this old and favorite house, announces to his friends that he has removed to No. 111 Chartres street, between St. Louis and Conti streets, where, with enlarged premises and increased facilities, he will give them the best the market affords, at the same low prices as heretofore. Private Dining-Rooms up stairs. Also comfortably furnished rooms at reasonable rates. Thankful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him in the past, he asks for a continuance of the same favors. ja21 3m

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

LOW PRICES FOR CASH!
PLOWS, CULTIVATORS
MOWING AND REAPING MACHINES,
CORN AND COTTON PLANTERS,
HAY RAKES, ETC.
PLANTATION HARDWARE.
STEAM ENGINES, GRIST MILLS,
COTTON GINS, SAW MILLS,
HORSE POWERS, SUGAR MILLS,
PUMPS, ETC., ETC.
FOR SALE BY
B. J. WEST,
115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans,
WHOLESALE DEALER
ja28 3m And Manufacturers' Agent.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES.

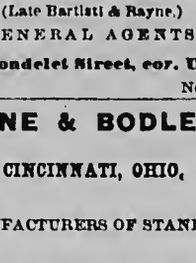


The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Bale Rope in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne.)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
Jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.



POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use,
working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet! Twenty-four sizes, from 5½ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.
Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Ehaugh's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
Send for Circulars. se3 6m

WIRE RAILING
AND
ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.

DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.
Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.
R. J. WEST, Agent,
mh5 1y 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

SNELL, SPARE & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF CARRIAGES,
Side and End-Spring No-Top Buggies,
Top Buggies, Turn-Out Seat Buggies,
Phaetons, Two-Seat Wagons, Cabriolets,
Barouches, Rockaways, etc.,
NEW HAVEN, CONN.
HARNESS at low prices.
Consult Economy, and send for catalogue and price list. (no12 3m

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
519.....MAGAZINE STREET.....519
Who has sold out her damaged stock of HOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de17 1cm

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 12 feet below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the fifth instant:

Mississippi river and bayous	5,333
Red river	3,131
Arkansas river	2,533
Ouachita river	3,299
Railroads	4,839
Lake	19
Mobile	2,442
Texas	294
Total	21,892

On Saturday the market opened with a fair inquiry, and although the movement was checked by scant offerings of the kinds wanted and the stringent pretensions of factors, yet about 1,800 bales changed hands during the morning at strong prices, without indicating any quotable advance, after which buyers came forward more freely and took in addition 3,350 bales, making a total of 5,150. On Monday the movement commenced under the favorable influence of an advance of 1-16d. at Liverpool, where the sales were put down at 15,000 bales, which was only partly offset by a slight falling off in foreign exchange and in futures at New York; but operations being restricted by the stringent pretensions of factors and the light supply offering of the kinds wanted, the sales up to noon hardly exceeded 1,800 bales, after which buyers came forward more freely and took 4,450 bales more, making a total of 6,250. Among the sales we noticed good ordinary at 14c., and strict good ordinary at 14¾c., but these are outside rates. Low middling sold at 14⅝c., strict low middling at 14¾c., and middling at 15⅛, 15⅛@15 5-16c., the last for high style. A style of low middling, part high colored, brought 14¾c., the highest bid for which, on Saturday, was 14⅝c. On Tuesday, although operations were restricted by the closing of the banks, it being a legal holiday (Mardi Gras,) yet buyers came forward with a fair degree of spirit and took 5,450 bales, at irregular prices, a part of the business showing a falling off of about ⅛c., but the bulk of it no quotable variation. Low middling sold at 14⅝c., strict low middling at 15c., and middling at the same.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 16,850 bales, against 22,450 for the corresponding time last week and 16,150 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 764,177 bales, against 878,249 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest mail dates, as compared with last year, is 45,450 bales. The decrease by the reports per telegraph is 55,555—2,702,528 against 2,758,083. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 126,719 bales to Great Britain, and a decrease of 51,285 to France and 46,285 to other foreign ports. We quote:

Ordinary	12¼ @ 12¾
Strict ordinary	13 @ 13¼
Good ordinary	13¾ @ 14
Strict good ordinary	14⅛ @ 14⅜
Low middling	14½ @ 14¾
Strict low middling	14⅞ @ 15
Middling	15⅛ @ 15⅜
Strict middling	15⅜ @ 15⅝
Good middling	15⅝ @ 15⅞
Middling fair	16⅛ @ 16⅜
Fair	16¾ @ 17

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	21,892
Arrived previously	863,320—	885,212
		901,165
Exported past three days	25,319
Exported previously	592,582—	617,901
Stock on hand and on shipboard		283,264

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,839 hhds., which were mostly sold at 5¾@5¾c. for inferior, 5¾@6c. for common, 6⅛@6⅜c. for fair, 6⅝@6¾c. for good fair, 7@7¼c. for fully fair, 7⅛@7⅝c. for prime, 7¾@8c. for strictly prime, 8¼c. for choice, 8⅛@8⅜c. for low to good seconds, 9@9½c. for yellow clarified, 9¼@9¾c. for off-white clarified, and 10@10¼c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,336 bbls. and 2 half bbls., which were mostly sold at 30@32c. for inferior fermenting, 40@45c. for common fermenting, 46@50c. for prime fermenting, 57@58c. for strictly prime slightly fermenting, 59c. for cistern-bottom, 53@54c. for prime not fermenting, 58@59c. for strictly prime, and 59@60c. for strictly prime to choice.

CORN.—On Tuesday 650 sacks sold at 90c. for mixed, and 91c. for choice white.

OATS.—On Tuesday 850 sacks sold at 70@71c. ₱ bushel for choice.

BRAN.—On Saturday 300 sacks sold at $1.75, and on Monday 300 sold at $1.75 ₱ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday 300 bbls. mess sold, in two lots, at $21 ₱ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday 10 casks clear sides sold on private terms, to do. at 11¾c., and 10 casks clear rib sides at 11¾c. ₱ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114⅜@114⅝, against 114¼ at New York, and after a limited business closed at 114⅜@114⅝, against 114⅜ at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver. Most of the receipts are transhipped to New York. It is quoted at 106⅛@107⅛ for American half dollars. Mexican dollars closed at 97½@98 gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	16 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Manly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn-mills, Coleman's	120 00	225 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BRICKS, ₱ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₱ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₱ lb.:
Cocoa	38	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₱ ton:
Anthracite	— —	9 00
Western, ₱ bbl	— —	— —
COFFEE, ₱ lb.:
Mexican	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₱ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₱ dozen:
Western	30	35
FERTILIZERS, ₱ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₱ bbl.:
Double extra	5 12½	5 25
Superfine	— —	4 75
Fine	— —	4 50
GLASS, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 20	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₱ ton:
Prime	24 00	25 00
Choice	— —	28 00
IRON, ₱ ton:
English, ₱ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7¾	8
Hoop	6	9
Sheet	5½	9
Nail rods	— —	9¾
Castings, American	5¾	6
LEATHER, ₱ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calfskins, ₱ dozen	35 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₱ lb	24	20
LIME, ₱ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	16 00	18 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₱ M	— —	3 00
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₱ gallon	1 15	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	14	15
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₱ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverized	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₱ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	65	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Pouchong	30	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thim. skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₱ head	$40 00 @ 46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₱ head	30 00 @ 35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₱ head	20 00 @ 25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₱ head	— — @ 15 00
Western beeves, ₱ lb. net	4 00 @ 6 50
Sheep, first quality, ₱ head	4 00 @ 5 00
Sheep, second quality, ₱ head	3 00 @ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₱ head	80 00 @ 100 00
Milch cows, ₱ head	35 00 @ 40 00
Calves, ₱ head	7 00 @ 9 00
Yearlings, ₱ head	6 00 @ 9 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year for want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Belting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Book-Binders.
Gwen Gernon, 58 Camp street.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Ditson & Co., 711 Broadway, New York.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. S. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 576 Magazine street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Brokers.
Barnett & Cammack, 12 Carondelet street.

Carpets.
A. Broussean & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 108 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
W. F. Clark, 134 Rampart street.
J. A. Lum & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.
Snell, Spare & Co., New Haven, Conn.

China and Crockeryware.
Francis Lauer, 618 Magazine street.
Samuel E. Moore, 55 Camp street.
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Coal and Wood.
H. H. Hussman, 102 Calliope street.
W. N. Packard, corner Ursulines and Rampart streets.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Carondelet street.
William Velden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 108 Common street.

Confectionery.
Victor Bero, 38 Bourbon street.
F. Trolle, 590 Magazine street.

Cooperage.
P. A. Leblanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
R. W. Rayne & Co., 46 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John G. Angell, 152 Julia street.
Dr. G. A. Betancourt, 173 St. Joseph street.
J. A. & E. J. Deltart, 183 Canal street.
James S. Knapp, 15 Baronne street.

Dry Goods.
Braselman & Adams, 586 and 588 Magazine street.
D. H. Holmes, 155 Canal and 15 Bourbon street.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hlwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hart, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Patterson, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Edmond Bourgeois, 19 Conti street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 61 Baronne street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. B. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clinton st.

Fire-Arms.
H. Rhodes, 55 St. Charles street.

Furniture.
John Bois, 152 and 154 Camp street.

Furs.
A. E. Burkhardt & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gardru Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Glass Staining.
Belcher & Povey, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
J. J. Brown, 76 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.

Hair Goods.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Hadwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Leather.
A. F. Bican, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 691 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.
B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 76 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Ball & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cincto-Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1632 Race street, Philadelphia.
Frederickson & Harte, 139 Canal street.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Duane street, New York.
Lapiace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Lapiace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York.
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Ross' Epileptic Remedies, Ross Bros., Richmond, Ind.
W. B. Shearer, 101 Camp street.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 18 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. R. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Phillip Werlein, 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.
Whitney & Holmes Organ Co., Quincy, Ill.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
Dr. Van Holin, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Game Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 120 Calliope street.

Paper Fashions.
M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Nozzles.
George L. Felton & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Prus.
R. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.
A. M. Hill, 86 St. Charles street.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Plows.
John W. Norris, 27 Canal street.

Portrait Painters.
G. D. Coulon, 37 Camp street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Bickham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial place.
Dr. Henry Smith, 130 Canal street.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 160 Common street.

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Restaurants.
Four seasons Restaurant, 111 Chartres street.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Dumaine street.
R. Maitre, 602 Magazine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 154 Canal street.

Soap.
J. H. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 38 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 100 Common street.

Stoves.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
John P. Caspard, 135 Decatur street.
J. M. Justiniani, 311 Burgundy street.

Undertakers.
T. W. Hothick, 271 Camp street.
Thomas Markey, 40, 42 and 44 Claiborne street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.
Miss W., care Dr. Chew, St. Joseph, La.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Bottel, 58 Royal street.
A. B. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Window Shades.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Dunn & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!

Restore your Sight!

THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,

By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.

WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957.) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.

no26 1y

Religious Notices.

THE meeting of the district stewards of Summit district, Mississippi Conference, will be held in Magnolia, February 17, 1875. This call is made by request of official members.

A. B. NICHOLSON, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carondelet street	Feb. 1
Moreau street	8
Felicity street	16
Algiers	22
Baton Rouge	27, 28
Louisiana avenue	Mar. 1
Cadiz street	8
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete	13, 14

The district stewards will hold their meeting at Carondelet Street church, February 24, 1875, at six o'clock P. M.

28 J. B. WALKER, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Waterproof, St. Joseph and Tensas circuit, at Waterproof	Feb. 6, 7
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove	13, 14
Floyd and Cotteau, at Floyd	20, 21
Delhi, at Delhi	27, 28
Winnsboro and Beaul River, at Winnsboro	Mar. 6, 7
Oak Ridge, at Prairie Mer Rouge	13, 14
Mound Grove, at Mound Grove	20, 21
Bastrop, at Bastrop	27, 28
Trenton, at Trenton	Apr. 3, 4
Monroe, at Monroe	10, 11

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Delhi, February 27.

28 C. W. CARTER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

South Bossier, at Belleview	Jan. 23, 24
Shreveport	Feb. 6, 7
North Bossier	13, 14
Caddo	20, 21
Springville	27, 28
Mansfield	Mar. 13, 14
DeSoto	20, 21
Anneco and Leesville, at Kissatchie	Apr. 3, 4
Natchitoches and Manny	10, 11

As there was no plan given me for the district, the preachers will please send the names of the places for holding the Quarterly Conferences. Place of address: Minden, Louisiana.

28 S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Columbia circuit, at Columbia	Feb. 13, 14
Caldwell and Bhodemont mission, at Welcome Home	20, 21
Montgomery circuit, at Montgomery	27, 28
Harrisonburg and Sicily Island	Mar. 6, 7
Trinity circuit, at Trinity	13, 14
Centerville circuit and Little River mission, at Trout Creek	Apr. 17, 18
Alexandria	24, 25
Rapides circuit, at Pleasant Grove	May 1, 2

Members of the several Quarterly Conferences are specially requested to be in attendance.

28 J. H. STONE, P. E.

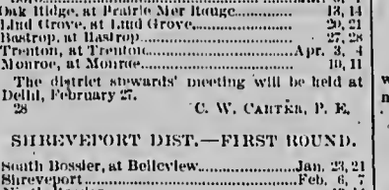
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Hankin circuit, at Wesleyana	Jan. 16, 17
Enon circuit, at Enon	23, 24
Westville circuit and Taylorville mission, at Antioch	30, 31
Mount Carmel circuit, at Dry Creek	Feb. 6, 7
Columbia circuit, at Hopewell	13, 14
Pearlington circuit, at Pearlington	20, 21
Ocean Springs station and Handsboro mission, at Ocean Springs	27, 28
White Plains circuit and Black Creek mission	Mar. 6, 7
East Pascagoula, at Zion	13, 14
Chickasawha and Greene mission, at Mineral Rights	20, 21

11 C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.



THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTMENT in this country is soon to be found at the

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,

55.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....55

Breech-Loading Guns from $25 to $300. Muzzle-Loading Eng. Twist and Laminated Steel barrels from $10 to $150. Rifles of every description, Eley's Shells of all sizes, Eley's Caps, Brass Cartridges, all sizes, Powder, Shot, Powder Flasks, Shot Pouches, Game Bags, Hunter's Accoutrements and Fancy Articles—the best assortment. The largest and best assortment of Fishing Tackle ever imported, such as Artificial Baits, Braided Silk Lines, Gigs, etc., etc.

Dealers and Sportsmen are respectfully invited to call and examine our goods before purchasing elsewhere. We feel confident that they will save money by doing so. Address

R. RHODES,
Liquidator of firm of E. Charleville,
P. O. Box 1592, New Orleans, La.

TAKE NOTICE.—The concern is being liquidated with a view to its being continued with greater facilities than ever. ja21 2m

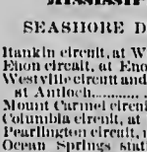
RAW FURS WANTED.

Send for PRICE CURRENT to

A. E. Burkhardt & Co.,

Manufacturers and Exporters of American Fur Skins, 113 West Fourth street, Cincinnati. We pay the highest prices current in America. Shipping to us direct will save the profits of middlemen and bring prompt Cash returns.

Please state what paper you saw this advertisement in. ja21 4t



How I Made $70

the first week, and am now averaging $30 in a safe business. Any man or woman can do the same. ☞ The secret free. Write at once to COWAN & CO., au27 1y Eighth St., New York.

HOME MANUFACTURE.

Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder.

EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.

Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers.

THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer,
311 Common street, corner Robertson.

ja21 1m

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL!

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS,	TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS,	TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS,	SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for..... $15 00

to wit:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers,	2 Pickle Shells.

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above.. $18 00

A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces..... 30 00

Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from..... $30 up.

White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00

White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 4 00

French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 6 50

French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 7 50

Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street,
de17 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. ja7 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

TEETH! .....TEETH!

GREAT REDUCTION.

$30—Gold and Platinum Sets—$30. Usual charge, $100.

$15—Aluminum and Other Materials—$15. Usual charge, $50.

$2—Gold Fillings—$2. Usual charge, $5.

$1—Silver, Amalgam and Gallois Cement Fillings—$1. Usual charge, $3.

DR. G. A. BETANCOURT,

173.....ST. JOSEPH STREET.....173

Between Camp and St. Charles streets,

New Orleans, La.,

offers to insert Sets of TEETH at the above prices, with or without the extraction of the roots.

Warrants the purity of all materials, as also the fitting of Plates, stability and duration of fillings, as if paid the highest prices.

Extractions and other operations performed by means of anæsthetic agents. Toothache cured instantaneously. Consultations gratis. ja21 1y

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI,
ja14 1m Proprietor.

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by DR. J. DEBENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. B. SHEARER,
Jn14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Poydras.

S. S. MARSHALL & BRO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STAINED GLASS,

62 Cedar Avenue, Corner Second Street,

ALLEGHENY, PA.

Specimens sent to all parts of the country on application. oc15 1y

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. SHEPARD & CO., 301 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ja14 3m

DRY GOODS—DRY GOODS.

COUNTRY ORDERS.

1875. - - SPRING---SPRING. - - 1875.

Parties residing in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Adjacent States, who buy their

DRY GOODS FOR CASH,

Are invited to send to us for SAMPLES, which will be forwarded to them

FREE OF COST AND POSTAGE PAID,

and where we are favored with orders that exceed $10, the Freight Thereon will be Prepaid at our Expense. Where the Order Exceeds $20 we will Pay the Cost of Sending the Money to us, Whether by Express, Money Order, Registered Letter, Bank Draft or otherwise.

The new postal law permits parcels weighing four pounds or less to be sent by mail at the rate of one (1) cent for every two (2) ounces or fraction thereof, so that parties ordering less than $10 worth can have their purchases sent to them through their postoffices at a very slight expense. Parties sending to us for samples should be careful to write their names and addresses as plainly as possible, and where they desire packages sent by mail they should make provision for the postage unless the order exceeds $10, when it will be forwarded at our cost. The Postage on Parcels must be Prepaid.

Goods sent C. O. D. to all points where the Express Company or Packets have Agents.

As a Matter of Accommodation we will purchase articles outside of our line, which is confined to Fancy and Staple Dry Goods, but we do not pay the freight thereon unless the order for Dry Goods exceeds $10. For instance, if a party orders a piece of cotton $6, and a hat $5, the order would not be entitled to have the freight paid by us; but if the order was for a piece of cotton $6, a dress pattern $5, and a hat, or any other article not in our line, $10, the freight would be prepaid on the whole. We make no charges for purchasing articles to a limited extent, and always do the best we can for our patrons.

Articles not corresponding to order can be Returned at our Expense.

Should we not be able to fill the order, the money will be Returned at our Expense.

We make no charge for Cases, Baling, Strapping, Drayage or Insurance.

Orders should be addressed to the firm to insure prompt attention. The personal attention of one of the partners is given to country orders. We have been in business

MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS,

and the steady yearly increase affords a gratifying record of Fair Dealing, to which we refer with pride. We are already beginning to receive

NEW SPRING GOODS!

—AND—

EVERY STEAMER FROM THE NORTH AND EUROPE

—WILL BRING—

ADDITIONAL NOVELTIES!

BRASELMAN & ADAMS,

586 and 588 Magazine St., Cor. St. Andrew, New Orleans.

CASH HOUSE.

fe1 1m

TO GRANGERS PURCHASING DRY GOODS.

We claim the attention of the Grangers, as also all buyers of Dry Goods, to

OUR EXTENSIVE STOCK

—OF—

DOMESTICS AND STAPLE GOODS,

WHICH IS NOW COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.

Buying and Selling for Cash Only Enables Us to Offer the Best Inducements.

☞ All Orders filled with care and promptitude.

D. H. HOLMES, 155 Canal and 15 Bourbon St.

☞ Samples furnished BY MAIL on application. fe23

RAILROADS.

NEW ORLEANS, ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO RAILROAD CO.

(Great Jackson Route.)

Trains depart and arrive as follows, from Calliope street Depot:

DEPART.

Express	7.00 A. M.
Mail	6.00 P. M.

ARRIVE.

Express	11.00 P. M.
Mail	10.30 A. M.

PULLMAN PALACE SLEEPING-CARS THROUGH TO ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO AND LOUISVILLE.

Only one change of

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1875. NO. 8.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Peruvian advices state that a battle took place on the thirteenth ultimo, about four leagues from Cajamarca, between the insurgent forces, five hundred strong, under the leadership of Miguel Iglesis, and the goverument troops, under Colonel Aguirre. The rebels were defeated and over eighty prisoners taken. The losses not stated.

The victims, it is said, of the lawless soldiery in La Paz, Bolivia, amount to more than seven hundred, including women, children, old men and pacific citizens. The pillage was carried on for four days uncontrolled.

UTICA, Feb. 11.—The Morning Herald will print to-morrow a letter from Dr. C. H. F. Peters, giving a detailed account of his operations and success in observing the transit of Venus in New Zealand. The letter bears date of Queenstown, Otago, New Zealand, December 11, 1874. Dr. Peters writes:

"In the morning telegrams dropped in from all parts of the island, announcing rain here, clouds there, clouds all over New Zealand; cloudy also at Queenstown.

"It was also overcast at this station two minutes before the beginning of the contact. The sun then shone out and continued bright for nearly two hours."

The letter continues: "By orders, everybody did his duty silently—so silent in all that at my house (Quitoral,) sixty feet off, one could distinctly hear the springing of the photographic slide, every clasp announcing one picture more.

"In my inclosure I continued to measure the distance of Venus to the sun's limits; then after the planet had far advanced upon the disk I took advantage of the occasion for measuring with the double merometer the apparent diameter of Venus. Thus was determined for the first time, as I believe, since the creation of the world, the real size of Venus with the accuracy of about the three-hundredth part of its value.

"During the latter part of the transit floating clouds interfered, but photographs were taken as often as a gap revealed the sun. In all, two hundred and thirty-nine pictures were taken.

"In the last sixteen minutes before egress, when all was over," says the doctor, "I called together the assistants to give three hearty cheers and to dip three times our glorious flag."

Very meager success was attained by any other New Zealand party.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—A letter has been received here from Colonel Charles C. Long, the great American explorer in Africa, dated at Gondakoro, April 20, 1874, stating that the writer was commissioned by Colonel C. G. Gordon, governor general of the provinces of Equator, to visit the King of Uganda, for which object he left Gondakoro and reached Victoria Nyanza after fifty-eight days of painful marching, and all suffering from the jungle fever.

The King received Mr. Long with courtly honors, and on the following day, to complete the honors, decapitated thirty of his subjects. Long, after a few days' sojourn, obtained the King's permission to visit the lake. On his return the King again decapitated seven of his subjects, saying in broken Arabic: "It is necessary to do so, because you wish to go by the River Nile; but it pains my heart to kill them." Long remained twenty-nine days as the guest of the King, whose frequent visits to him were honored by the killing of eight to ten of his subjects. The letter also describes Long's explorations of Lake Victoria Nyanza and elsewhere. When on his return from the King's dominions his little band was attacked by four hundred natives of another tribe, and after a severe fight Long was victorious, the Africans losing eighty-two killed.

WASHINGTON, February 15.—It is stated that the President favors the caucus bill, and threatens, if Congress fails in its duty, he will not fail in his. Should Congress adjourn without acting it might be necessary for him to proceed to greater extremes than the more suspension of the habeas corpus.

The sub-committee will report to the full committee. The three Republicans will join in the report, which, it is said, will favor the recognition of Kellogg, and is somewhat bitter in its denunciation of the White Leaguers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Several members of the select committee to investigate State affairs in Alabama, which has charge of the caucus bill to regulate affairs in the South, called upon the President last night for the purpose of ascertaining his views on the bill.

The President said the bill had his entire approval; he hoped it would become a law. This measure, or something like it, was needed; a fact which, he supposed, was as well known to the majority in Congress as to himself.

Some of the gentlemen expressed doubts as to the passage of the bill, whereupon the President said that even if it passed the House and failed in the Senate, or could not command a majority vote in either House, it would do no harm to press it to a vote. He believed the moral effect of the passage of the bill would be so great at the South as to dispense with all necessity for executing its provisions. That which the lawless element of the South needed was an indication of the determination of Congress and the executive to repress lawlessness, maintain order, and to preserve life and property. The President said that, whether Congress passed any measures with regard to the South or not, he had determined to do his duty. He did not court responsibility that properly belonged to Congress, but as the head of the government he would not shrink from it. If Congress adjourned without action it would be a sort of encouragement for the bad element of the South to continue their present course, and it might become necessary for him to proceed to greater extremes than a mere suspension of the habeas corpus. He would do what he conceived to be his duty at all hazards, and he appealed to the people to support him.—Picayune.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The vote yesterday was no indication of Pinchback's success.

The more Radical senators are disposed to let the appropriation bills go rather than fail in their political measures. These include Pinchback, civil rights, recognition of Kellogg, and the caucus bill.

The President is represented as rampant to have these bills passed before adjournment.

It will be an easy matter to call an extra session, and they say the Democrats dare not withhold the appropriations. The game is desperate.

Colonel Burke had an interview with Morton this morning in order to secure his good offices with the Hoar committee in favor of a just adjustment—a forlorn hope.

Carpenter arrives to-day. If promised a foreign mission he will be silent, otherwise he will fight Pinchback and Kellogg.—Picayune.

It is understood the caucus committee have modified the bill giving to the President the right to suspend the habeas corpus in certain sections. The President consents, and it is thought in this shape the bill will pass.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A Paris special to the Echo says the utmost uneasiness prevails in consequence of the political situation. The crisis is graver than ever. The Chamber cannot make a constitution, and will not dissolve. MacMahon would have resigned had the Senate bill passed as amended. The Bonapartists gain greatly by the complication. The Republicans will make no further concessions.

BAYONNE, Feb. 13.—Ex-Marshal Bazaine arrived at Santander yesterday. The French residents of the town having asked for and obtained permission of the authorities to serenade him, used the opportunity to hiss him and indulged in insulting cries. The crowd was dispersed by the police.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—In the House of Commons Disraeli gave notice he would, next Thursday, move a resolution that as John Mitchell had been adjudged guilty of felony, and sentenced to transportation, and as he has never endured the penalty nor received pardon, he is incapable of election to Parliament, and that past writ for election be issued.

From the Work.

MOSS POINT.—Mr. Editor: More than a year has passed since my arrival as pastor of this charge, and yet I wish to say a few things in reference to my reception, etc.

I was an entire stranger to the country and to the people. My wife had been confined to her room for weeks with an illness from which she had only recovered sufficiently to travel, not without suffering; but we were anxious to reach our destination and begin the labors of the year. Leaving Summit on the morning of January 1, 1874, we reached Scranton about nine o'clock that night. We were driven to the house of Mr. H. C. Vaughan after the family had retired, but his doors were opened and we soon found ourselves in comfortable quarters. Hospitality so generous, so easy, so Christian, and, I may say, so elegant, I have seldom received.

These kindnesses shown by the family whose hospitality we were receiving were not all; but generous Christian attentions were extended by the membership of the church generally. Nor has this kindness changed or lessened up to this time. I am reminded by these things of the saying of the Master: "For whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily, I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward." And again: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The parsonage is a neat dwelling of sufficient size, well finished, and furnished almost complete, beautifully situated, looking directly westward, and in sight of the church. This is one of the most pleasant country neighborhoods I have ever known. Families of refinement in taste, of mental culture and enterprise have settled here, and they are fervent in spirit, serving the Lord. It is a country of beauty, capable of the highest development, and of supporting a very large population; and the time is not distant, if we can secure good government, when this region will abound in all that is needful to make life sweet and home a delight.

Yours, very truly, B. JONES.

FEBRUARY 11, 1875.

ACCORDING to a Cincinnati paper John Thomas was recently sued by Hester Prim for breach of promise. "John Thomas, come into court!" said the constable. "John Thomas needn't come in to court me any mere," said Hester primly.

Education and Romish Craft.

It is not generally known, says the Christian Intelligencer, that in Ireland a national system of education has been in successful operation for some years, which embodies many of the features of our American school system, and under which the youth of Ireland were educated together, in common, without reference to the denominational proclivities of their parents or themselves, and in a spirit of fairness to all. The friends of the system have built great hopes upon it, as calculated to dissipate the feuds and jealousies which have been for so many years the bane of Ireland, and which have stood in the way of its moral, intellectual and material advancement.

In Ireland, however, as in every other country, the Romish priesthood have been the unfriend and bitter foes of popular education by means of common schools. They dread and by every means in their power seek to arrest the spread of intelligence among the people, in the apprehension that it will enlarge the popular horizon in matters spiritual as well as intellectual.

Having found that it was not possible to prevent the people of Ireland from availing of the national schools, the Romish priests have given up overt opposition to the system, and are now devoting their efforts to the object of undermining it by the selection of the teachers who are engaged in the schools; and, influenced by them, the commissioners of the national system, by a majority of two, have expressed themselves in favor of employing teachers trained in Ultramontane colleges under the sole supervision of the Roman hierarchy. The friends of the system very naturally consider this a flagrant interference with the sound principle on which the system was originally established, of a common secular education; and declare that it would be an absurdity to try to have children educated in such a system, under teachers specially trained in denominational establishments. The Belfast Witness concludes a forcible article on the subject with the following appeal to the people of Ireland to oppose the threatened dangerous innovation, which is not without its warning application even in this country:

"It will be a dark day for Ireland when the training of the Roman Catholic teachers is handed over to monks and nuns. It will be the first toll of the death-knell of an excellent system, which has already been sadly tampered with by those who ought to have been its most faithful guardians. This is no party question. It is one which most closely affects our national well-being; and we trust all who love their country, and who desire that the Irish may be an educated and united and prosperous people, no matter to what creed or political party they belong, will heartily combine, and, in a voice which cannot be misunderstood, tell our government that if united education is good for the children it is equally good for the teachers, and that we are too near the end of the nineteenth century to submit to the domination of Ultramontanism in the training of the instructors of our country's youth."

Old Age.

There are three classes into which all the women past seventy years of age, that ever I knew, were to be divided: 1. That dear old soul. 2. That old woman. 3. That old witch. Coleridge.

When a noble life has prepared old age it is not the decline that it reveals, but the first days of immortality.—Madame de Stael.

The evening light brings with it its lamps.—Joubert.

Can man be so age-stricken that no faintest sunshine of his youth may revisit him once a year? It is impossible. The moss on our time-worn mansion brightens into beauty; the good old pastor, who once dwelt here, renewed his prime and regained his boyhood in the genial breezes of his ninetieth spring. Also for the worn and heavy soul, if, whether in youth or age, it has outlived its privilege of spring-time sprightliness!—Hawthorne.

Age makes us not childish, as some say; it finds us true children.—Goethe.

There cannot live a more unhappy creature than an ill-natured old man, who is neither capable of receiving pleasures nor sensible of doing them to others.—Sir W. Temple.

A healthy old fellow who is not a fool is the happiest creature living.—Steele.

It is noticeable how intuitively in age we go back with strange fondness to all that is fresh in the earliest dawn of youth. If we never cared for little children before, we delight to see them roll in the grass over which we hobble on crutches. The grandsire turns wearily from his middle-aged, careworn son, to listen with infant laugh to the prattle of an infant grandchild. It is the old who plant young trees; it is the old who are most saddened by the autumn, and feel most delight in the returning spring.—Bulwer Lytton.

No wise man ever wished to be younger.—Swift.

Last scene of all that ends this strange, eventful history is second childishness and mere oblivion—sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.—Shakespeare.

I venerate old age; and I love not the man who can look without emotion upon the sunset of life, when the dusk of evening begins to gather over the watery eye, and the shadows of twilight grow broader and deeper upon the understanding.—Longfellow.

It is only necessary to grow old to become more indulgent. I see no fault committed that I have not committed myself.—Goethe.

One's age should be tranquil, as one's childhood should be playful; hard work, at either extremity of human existence, seems to me out of place. The morning and the evening should be alike cool and peaceful; at midday the sun may burn and men may labor under it.—Dr. Arnold.

Some one has said of a fine and honorable old age that it was the childhood of immortality.—Pindar.

Every man desires to live long; but no man would be old.—Swift.

We see time's furrows on another's brow; how few themselves, in that just mirror, see.—Young.

Concerning the Ladies.

—A queer man calls his daughter Misery, because she loves company.

—St. Louis has a magazine, all the work of which, editorial and mechanical, is said to be done by women.

—The wife of MacMahon is very popular among the poor of Paris, to whom she devotes much of her time and a deal of her pin-money.

—Fashionable women are making their own dresses this winter, and confessing it too.

—Miss Alice Vickery is reported to be the first and only registered pharmacentist in England.

—The Sanscrit class in Boston University includes two young ladies. So far as known, they are the first of their sex, in America or Europe, to undertake this difficult study.

—By order of the German crown princess the female clerks and telegraphers employed by the German government were directed to set aside all extravagancies in dress and toilet.

—A missionary in India says that he regards the conversion of one woman as equal to the conversion of twenty men, so far as their influence in the propagation of Christianity in that country is concerned.

—Peru may yet prove a paradise for the woman suffrage agitators. A young lady of Cuzco, the old capital of Incas, has applied for permission to study for the degree of doctor of laws. The Peruvian minister of justice has replied that the laws of the republic recognize no such difference between the sexes as would prevent a woman being a lawyer.

—The following rules were made by a girl in fashionable society when she went into company: "To give away more than I spend on myself. To do all I can for every one at home first, before I go to walk or to parties. At every party to make one forlorn girl happy, and introduce her to some pleasant gentleman. To draw other people out without trying to shine myself. As soon as I feel that I am talking or acting in such a way that I should hesitate from shame to pray at that moment, to leave the room."

WE CAN only record with deep regret, says the Christian at Work, the fact that last week the military interfered by entering the sheriff's office at Vicksburg, and turning out the sheriff, who claimed to have been elected. That this occurred in the Southern State of Mississippi is not germain to the point at all. There is no sectionalism, no partisanship, in this question; it is one purely national in character, and must be considered in this light alone. Whether or not the sheriff was legally elected, whether or not the election returns were properly rendered—all these and like matters are side issues, having no relevancy to the question at all. If the general government may disperse the Legislature of Louisiana, it may send bayonets into every capitol in the States and disperse the governments. If an officer of the army can turn out a sheriff from office in one city in Mississippi, he can do so in every city in the Union; and there is no law but the law of might and the will of the strongest. There can be no true republic while such proceedings are allowed—no constitutional law administered by bayonets. Inter arma silent leges is as true now as when written two thousand years ago. Government must be administered in accordance with its regular constitutional forms, or it becomes a farce, and law only a bitter sarcasm. It is in no mean spirit of partisanship that we condemn the proceedings, but only in that of the constitutional right on which alone our liberties are founded, and by maintaining which in its integrity can these liberties be conserved and the cause of constitutional government be maintained.

LENT began this year on the tenth of February, much earlier than during any year since 1869. This will bring the festival of Easter this year on the twenty-sixth of March, which is within six days of the earliest period upon which it can possibly occur. Easter in some years falls as late as the twenty-fifth of April. As many as nine Sundays some years intervene between Epiphany and Ash Wednesday, but this year only five Sundays occur between Epiphany and Lent.

THE benefactor always retains some affection for the person whom he has benefited. No extent of ingratitude succeeds in utterly effacing this kindly feeling on the part of the benefactor.

A LANTERN in the hand is worth a dozen stars.

Facts in Foreign Missions.

The Government Blue-Book of India has the following statistics in regard to the missions in that country, chiefly founded on reports for 1872, with a well-deserved acknowledgment of their important influence upon the prospects of the country:

"The Protestant missions of India, Burmah and Ceylon are carried on by 35 missionary societies, in addition to local agencies, and now employ the services of 606 foreign missionaries, of whom 551 are ordained. They are widely and rather evenly distributed over the different presidencies, and they occupy at the present time 522 principal stations and 2,500 subordinate stations. Though belonging to various denominations of Christians, yet, from the nature of their work, their isolated position and their long experience, they have been led to think rather of the numerous questions on which they agree than of those on which they differ; and they co-operate heartily together. During the past twenty years, on five occasions, General Conferences have been held, and at the latest of these gatherings, at Allahabad, 121 missionaries met together belonging to 20 different societies, and including several men of long experience, who have been forty years in India.

"The labors of the missionaries assume many forms. Apart from their special duties as public preachers and pastors, they constitute a valuable body of educators. They are the compilers of several dictionaries and grammars; they have written important works on the native classics and the system of philosophy; and they have largely stimulated the great increase of the native literature. The mission presses in India are 25 in number. During the ten years between 1852 and 1862 they issued 1,634,910 copies of the Scriptures, chiefly single books, and 8,604,033 tracts, school books and books for general circulation. During the ten years between 1862 and 1872 they issued 3,410 new works, in 30 languages, and circulated 1,315,503 copies of books of Scripture, 2,375,040 school-books, and 8,750,129 Christian books and tracts.

"The report then gives details of the various missionary schools, of the Anglo-Vernacular schools, of the Zenana schools for females, chiefly adults, of the training colleges, and the connection of the mission schools with university education. An analysis is then given of the different Protestant missions—English and American and foreign—with special notice of recent efforts to carry the gospel to the numerous aboriginal tribes. Without pronouncing an opinion upon the matter, the government of India cannot but acknowledge the great obligation under which it is laid by the benevolent exertions made by these 600 missionaries, whose blameless example and self-denying labors are infusing new vigor into the stereotyped life of the great populations placed under English rule, and are preparing them to be in every way better men and better citizens of the great empire in which they dwell."

VETERAN MISSIONARIES.—On the unhealthy African coast there are missionaries who have labored for as much as 32 or 37 years. It is remarkable how large a number of the Church Missionary Society's missionaries in New Zealand are veterans. Thus we read in the current Church Missionary Record:

"The Kaitala district, in the extreme north of the island, continues under the charge of the veteran missionaries—the Rev. Joseph Matthews and Mr. W. G. Puckey—who have labored for forty-three and fifty years respectively. The latter's name is now the oldest on the society's list. Neither is capable of much active work, but their pastoral duties are shared by a native minister, the Rev. Renata Tangata, under their general superintendence.

"The European missionaries in the Eastern division are all of long standing. The Bishop Williams himself went out half a century ago, in 1825, and Archdeacon Brown in 1829; while the Rev. S. M. Spencer began work in 1841, the Rev. Samuel Williams in 1846, and Archdeacon Leonard Williams in 1853.

"In the Western district, which, though called the Western, in fact comprises the south end of the island, there are three Church Missionary Society's missionaries, viz.: the Bishop of Wellington (Dr. Hadfield,) who has been laboring in New Zealand for thirty-six years, the Rev. Basil K. Taylor, and the Rev. James McWilliam; and two native pastors, the Revs. Rewiri Te Wanui and Henari Te Herekau. This mission, as our readers are aware, suffered a severe loss about a year ago by the death of the veteran missionary to whose labors for more than thirty years it owed so much—the Rev. Richard Taylor."

A HEATHEN'S TESTIMONY TO THE POWER OF CHRISTIANITY IN CHINA. The Times publishes an extract of a private letter from Ningpo, October 20, in the course of which we read: "I heard there a remarkable testimony to the power of Christianity from the mouth of a heathen. He came into our little preaching-room while I was waiting for the man on the table to arrive. He was a respectable man, in easy circumstances and very courteous. He had never heard the gospel, he said, but he had seen it. He began extolling its power and excellency. 'I know a man,' he said, 'who used to be the terror of his neighborhood. If you gave him a hard word he would shout at you and curse you for two days and two nights without ceasing. He was as dangerous as a wild beast, and a bad opium-smoker.' (I have since heard that he was involved in two quarrels in which blood was shed.) 'But,' he continued, 'when the religion of Jesus took hold of him he became wholly changed—gentle, not soon angry, moral, his opium left off, etc. Truly, the doctrine is good.' This testimony was given quite spontaneously."

John the Baptist.

No wonder that such a man at once made himself felt as a power in the midst of his people. It became widely rumored that in the wilderness of Judea lived one whose burning words it was worth while to hear—one who recalled Isaiah by his expressions, Elijah by his life. A Tiberius was polluting, by his infamies, the throne of the empire; a Pontius Pilate, with his insolences, cruelties, extortions, massacres, was maddening a frantic people; Herod Antipas was exhibiting to facile learners the example of calculated apostasy and reckless lust; Caiaphas and Annas were dividing the functions of a priesthood which they disgraced. Yet the talk of the new prophet was not of political circumstances such as these; the lessons he had to teach were deeper and more universal in their moral and social significance. Whatever might be the class who flocked to his stern solitude, his teaching was intensely practical, painfully heart-searching, fearlessly downright. And so Pharisee and Sadducee, scribe and soldier, priest and publican, all thronged to listen to his words. The place where he preached was that wild range of uncultivated and untenanted wilderness which stretches southward from Jericho and the fords of Jordan to the shores of the Dead sea. The cliffs that overhung the narrow defile which led from Jerusalem to Jericho were the haunt of dangerous robbers, the wild beasts and the crocodiles were not yet extinct in the reed-beds that marked the swellings of Jordan; yet from every quarter of the country—from priestly Hebron, from holy Jerusalem, from smiling Galilee—they came streaming forth to catch the accents of this strange voice. And the words of that voice were like a hammer to dash in pieces the flintiest heart, like a flame to pierce into the most hidden thoughts. Without a shadow of euphemism, without an accent of subserviency, without a tremor of hesitation, he rebuked the tax-gatherers for their extortionateness; the soldiers for their violence, unfairness and discontent; the wealthy Sadducees and stately Pharisees for a formalism and falsity which made them vipers of a viperous brood. The whole people he warned that their cherished privileges were worse than valueless if, without repentance, they regarded them as a protection against the wrath to come. They prided themselves upon their high descent; but God, as he had created Adam out of the earth, so even out of those flints upon the strand of Jordan was able to raise up children unto Abraham. They listened with accusing consciences and stricken hearts; and since he had chosen baptism as his symbol of their penitence and purification, "they were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins." Even those who did not submit to his baptism were yet "willing for a season to rejoice in his light."—Farrar's Life of Christ.

THE CITIES OF THE WORLD.—Statistical tables show that there are in the whole world about 164 cities with 100,000 inhabitants; nine with over 1,000,000; twelve with from 1,000,000 down to 500,000; twenty with from 300,000 to 400,000; thirty-three with from 100,000 to 200,000. The aggregate of the population of these large cities comprises 50,000,000 of inhabitants—that is to say, the twenty-eighth part of the entire population of the globe. The average population of a town is reckoned to be, for England, 47,770 inhabitants; for France, 32,251; for Prussia, 19,685; for Sweden, 5,849. The density of population in reference to area is for Paris, 329 inhabitants per hectare (about two acres and a half;) for London, 103; for Berlin, 59. The density varies considerably from one district to another; it is generally the highest in the poor or manufacturing districts. Next to these figures come those which represent the average density in regard to dwelling-places. It is, in St. Petersburg, 52 inhabitants for each house; in Vienna, 49.4; in Paris, 32; in Berlin, 32; in London, 8.

PROF. A. L. RAWSON, of the Oriental topographical corps, has just returned from a seven months' tour in Cyprus, Egypt, Palestine and Moab. He brings several important inscriptions dating from three to fifteen centuries B. C., and confirming Old Testament records. He has also completed a geological survey begun by him on a former expedition to the East, and made arrangements for a collection of the natural history of Syria. He has made water-color drawings of persons and places, and topographical sketches in line and color.

A FARMER sent an order to a London tradesman for a clock. He said he should prefer one made by Temps Fugit, as all the best clocks in the neighborhood had that name on them.

THE Brussels conference—"Shall we have a new carpet?"

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1875.

ON THE BOUNDARY LINE.

Respectfully dedicated to Father and Mother David Ayers, of Galveston, Texas.

BY REV. PRESTON NASH.

I am almost o'er the journey;
Times' broken hour-glass flies
Just beside me in the pathway,
And its lessened sand denies;
Weary years lie far behind me,
At my feet the moments die;
Time upon its scythe is leaning,
While eternity rolls by.

How sad! yet O how sacred!
Is this meeting-place where Time
Bows his hoary head in silence
To eternity sublime.
Here my feet are on the verdure
Which an endless spring-time wears,
While my shadow faintly lingers
On the snow hid grave of years.

I'm just pausing at the threshold
Of a gate that's half ajar,
And a few more finger touches
And the wicket will unbar.
I am looking at the glory
That shines inside the gate,
And it floods my soul in beauty
As my lingering footsteps wait.

I am listening to the music
As the golden harp-strings thrill—
Sweet, it steals in Holy touches
O'er my heart so rapt and still;
And the perfumes of a spring time
On my quickened senses fall,
As eternal flowers are bending
To celestial breezes' call.

There are voices floating round me
In whispered tones soft and low;
They are calling just like voices
That I wept for years ago;
Their cadences, holy tenderness,
As if angels kissed my soul;
And some unseen hand is caress me,
As if loved ones round me stole.

I shall wait but little longer,
For the gate is opening wide;
And the Master a voice is calling—
Soon I'll rest me by his side.
"Face to face" I'll see my Savior,
With his "blood-bought saints" I'll roam;
Like the loved ones gone before me,
Cross the "boundary line" for home.

WARRINGTON, Pensacola Navy Yard,
February 4, 1875.

Rev. Jefferson Hamilton, D. D.

MR. EDITOR: While many and abler pens will, no doubt, be employed in setting forth some of the many excellencies so conspicuous in the character of the late Rev. Jefferson Hamilton, D. D., of the Alabama Conference, permit me also to pay my tribute of respect as a token of my own personal esteem for this eminent minister of Christ.

I first made the acquaintance of Dr. Hamilton during the early part of the second year of his pastorate in the city of Montgomery. Here he was exerting an influence such as few have been able to wield over any community. I was a youth, holding a license as an exhorter. In anticipation of being licensed to preach at the first Quarterly Meeting Conference, I had been employed by the presiding elder as assistant preacher on a work in the vicinity of the city in which the doctor was stationed. During this year it was my custom, after filling my own appointments in the country, to ride into the city frequently to attend the Sabbath night ministrations of this eminent man. It is needless to say to those acquainted with the doctor's preaching that the audience was on all occasions deeply and solemnly impressed.

In the autumn of this year I heard Dr. Hamilton preach two sermons, at a camp meeting, which are still fresh in my memory—one on the text: "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." The other, on the humiliation and exaltation of Christ, Philippians ii, 5–11. The meeting was held in the vicinity of Lowndesboro. Among the preachers present were Rev. William B. Neal, the beloved presiding elder of the district, who licensed me to preach; Joshua Starr, preacher in charge of the circuit to which, in conjunction with Lowndesboro and Hayneville, the camp ground belonged. Bro. Starr licensed me to exhort. The venerable Greenberry Garrett, with his mental and physical powers in undiminished force, was present. Also Dr. A. H. Mitchell, then in the midst of a long and useful life, the highly honored president of Centenary Institute, and Rev. T. Y. Ramsey. Among distinguished laymen present were Barton W. Stone, John P. Nall, Dr. Hartwell Smith, Judge Thomas Williams and Dr. James E. Scott. Dr. Scott is now a preacher in Texas. Hon. Dixon H. Lewis, then senator in the Congress of the United States, was also present. All were deeply impressed by the sermons just mentioned.

It was my privilege to have Dr. Hamilton for my presiding elder during my second year in the Alabama Conference. My field of labor was Tallapoosa circuit, being that part of Tallapoosa county lying on the west side of the river of the same name, embracing the famous Emuckfaw and Horse Bend battle grounds, where the troops under General Andrew Jackson fought the Creek Indians more than sixty years ago. Here it was my privilege to be with Dr. Hamilton in his interminglings with the poor and the rich, the illiterate and the learned—to hear him preach in the log cabin as well as in the more costly edifice. He was not a preacher for one class of people to the exclusion of others, but the preacher for all classes. I could discover no difference in his preaching, either as to matter or style, whether he preached to a city audience or delivered the message of life to a rustic congregation in their humble log building. As there was no difference in the preaching, so there was none in the effect produced. All were alike impressed. I will not say that they were thrilled by his eloquence, but, what is far more important, they were moved by the forcible presentation of divine truth. People hearing Dr. Hamilton thought not so much of the preacher as of their own personal interest in the important message that fell from his lips.

At the session of the Alabama Conference, held in the town of Talladega, in December, 1854, Dr. Hamilton preached a sermon of great force upon the text: "Call in the laborers and give them their hire." Never can I forget the stress laid on the word laborers. The doctor was indeed a laborer—a faithful pastor, a class-meeting preacher.

At a session of the Conference, held in the town of Auburn, over which the venerable Bishop Capers presided, a resolution was passed requesting the Bishop, when each preacher's name was called, to ask him if he had held class meetings and attended to pastoral visiting. When the name of Jefferson Hamilton was called the Bishop forgot the question in the resolution of the Conference. As the doctor started toward the door the Bishop was reminded of the question contained in the resolution. So well was the Conference satisfied of Dr. Hamilton's faithfulness in these particulars that the body manifested a little amusement. The doctor suddenly halted and replied: "To tell you the truth, I have done but little else."

The doctor's influence in the Annual Conference is well known. I can call to mind occasions when questions had been debated, perhaps for hours, without apparently being any nearer a conclusion than at the outset. The doctor, who had remained silent, would rise at some opportune moment, and in a few minutes reconcile the contending parties, bring about unity of sentiment, and reach the conclusion for which the debaters had been laboring in vain.

On business committees he labored with the same fidelity and perseverance as in other departments of Conference business. I was frequently associated with him on the Financial board, and on the board of directors of the Preachers' Aid Society. The work connected with these boards sometimes employed us till a late hour in the night. The doctor, though advanced in life and often suffering from asthma, manifested no sign of weariness or desire to rest till the work committed to our care received all the attention such important interests demanded.

I was frequently his guest in Montgomery and Mobile, always finding him the true friend and wise counselor.

One might suppose that a man of Dr. Hamilton's talent would never know want. I will here relate an incident, as I received it from the lips of Sister Hamilton, which will show that such was not always his condition. While a member of the New England Conference, their first-born, then an infant, was taken sick. Sister Hamilton called upon her husband for money to buy some medicine. He handed her fifty cents, saying: "Here is all that I have, and I don't know where the next is to come from." Sister Hamilton handed back the coin, saying: "Keep it. I will trust the child to the Lord." That child is now a man in the prime of life. In writing of Sister Hamilton, I will take the liberty to say that she is a woman worthy of her husband. At different times, as I bade her farewell to depart for the work assigned me, she pressed my hand, saying: "May the Lord bless you." I esteemed it as no small privilege to have the divine blessing invoked upon me by such a woman. I received it as an omen of good. I believed the Lord would bless me, and I was not disappointed.

How appropriate that such a man as Dr. Hamilton should die at the Annual Conference!—die among his brethren!—be called to rest by the chief Shepherd just at the time the under shepherd had assigned his former co-laborers work in different portions of the Lord's vineyard!

Reaper, lay thy sickle by,
Thy harvest task is done.
Go, take thy station in the sky,
Before the eternal throne;
Go, take thy place among the blest,
Where Jesus reigns above;
Forever from thy labors rest,
And sing redeeming love.

JOHN C. HUCKABEE.

MADISONVILLE, TEXAS, Jan. 27, 1875.

The Holy Sabbath Day.

The Sabbath was observed by the people of God for about four thousand years on the seventh day of the week, but for nearly two thousand years it has been observed by Christians on the first day of the week.

This change was evidently made by our Lord Jesus Christ while he was upon the earth. There is, it is true, no positive proof of this fact in the Scriptures; but such are the intimations and the general teaching of the word of God upon the subject that we are enabled to reach it as a logical inference and make it a satisfactory conclusion. That Christ, who was the Son of God as well as the Son of Man, had the right to make the important change, none can deny who admit his divinity—for he was the very and eternal God, and the Lord of the Sabbath day. The evidence that he did make the change is learned mainly from the practice of his disciples after his resurrection. They no longer kept the seventh day of the week as the holy Sabbath, but they observed the first day of the week. Without instruction and authority from the Master they certainly would not have done this. Hence the safe conclusion is that Christ, at some time during his ministry, in his association with them, gave them full instruction in regard to this matter, and delegated to them the authority to make the important change.

In this change of the holy Sabbath from the seventh to the first day of the week we can, by considering the subject a little, see very good propriety. The old—the seventh-day—Sabbath pointed to or commemorated the creation of the heavens and the earth, and all things therein contained. Thus was that Sabbath the means of directing the inhabitants of the earth to God, as he was in and as he was manifested by the wonderful works of creation. In creation the people saw him as a God of wisdom, power, and of exceeding great and wonderful glory; and therefore he was worthy of the respect, the reverence and the worship of all the intelligences whom he had made. Thus could the people of the olden time, in the observance of the seventh-day Sabbath,

"Look
Through nature up to nature's God."

But as time rolled on, with its long and ponderous ages, and the vast human race was borne far away from the beginning of time, in which God was manifested in his six days' wonderful work, it seemed necessary that the holy Sabbath should be changed so as to point to some other grand event nearer to them, in which God could be more fully and clearly manifested to them, that the numerous members of the human race might with greater facility and ease draw near to and worship their great Father, God. Hence the change was made!

The Christian Sabbath—the first day of the week—points to and commemorates the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is the great corner-stone, the grand climax of the wonderful scheme of redemption:

"'Twas great to speak a world from naught;"

and hence it was well that the old Sabbath commemorate that event. But

"'Twas greater to redeem," and hence when, by the resurrection of Christ, the work of redemption was consummated it was, it seems to us, very proper that a new Sabbath should be appointed, which should direct the people of the world to God as he is in and manifested by redemption.

In redemption God is presented to us not only as a God of infinite wisdom and infinite power, but as a God of infinite love.

"Nature, with open volume, stands
To spread her Maker's praise abroad;
And every labor of his hands
Shows something worthy of a God;
But in the grace that rescued man
His brightest form of glory shines;"

and that "brightest form" is the form of love, in which the world had never seen him before!

Therefore to our new and blessed Sabbath we will cry with holy joy:

"Welcome, sweet day of rest
That saw the Lord arise;
Welcome to this reviving breast,
And these rejoicing eyes!"

Hence, as we receive the new-made Sabbath of the Lord, and as we sacredly observe it according to the word of God, we go back to the morning of the glorious resurrection of our redeeming Lord; we gather about his open tomb; we calmly, sweetly and joyfully behold and exult in our great and glorious salvation from sin and death and hell! As we stand there we can, with Charles Wesley, sing:

"Christ, the Lord, is risen to-day!
Sons of men and angels say!
Raise your joys and triumphs high!
Sing, ye heavens—thou, earth, reply!

"Love's redeeming work is done—
Fought the fight, the battle won!
Lo! the Sun's eclipse is o'er;
Lo! he sets in blood no more!

"Vain the stone, the watch, the seal—
Christ hath burst the gates of hell;
Death in vain forbids his rise;
Christ hath opened paradise!

"Lives again our glorious King!
Where, O death! is now thy sting?
Once he died our souls to save;
Where's thy victory, boasting grave?

"Soar we now where Christ has led,
Following our exalted Head;
Made like him, like him we rise—
Ours the cross, the grave, the skies."

W. S. T.

PICKENS, Alabama.

Marvin College.

WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS, Jan. 20, 1875.

This is to certify that the purchaser of Marvin College and college grounds has proposed to the trustees of said college to reconvey to the Methodist Episcopal Church South the property purchased by him, on the payment of six thousand one hundred and sixty-two dollars ($6,162) gold, the same being the amount of pure-chase money, with interest up to March 1—$2,000 to be paid March 1, $2,000 May 1, and the remainder August 1, 1875. That we believe said property to be worth the sum of $30,000 at least, and that it is greatly to the interest of the church and friends of education to redeem the same. That in order to facilitate and effect the redemption of said property, as aforesaid, we have this day appointed Rev. C. H. Ellis, of the North-west Texas Conference, our special agent to present the facts to the church and people, and to obtain the necessary aid in any manner he may think proper, by taking subscriptions, notes or contributions; and he has full authority to make collections and receipt for the same, and to do any and all things necessary and lawful for the accomplishment of the above object, and that he will report his action in the premises, from time to time, to the board of trustees.

B. F. HAWKINS, Sec.
J. W. FERRIS,
President Board of Trustees.
G. J. PENN, Treas.
J. C. GIBSON.
GEO. W. GRAVES.
WILLIAM KERR.

FROM THE AGENT.

It is an act of noble generosity in Mr. M. H. Meek to make the above proposition. Others are bidding much in advance of these figures. Unless the terms proposed are accepted by the time specified this valuable property is forever lost to the church.

"A Final Appeal."—Under this heading Rev. G. W. Graves makes an eloquent and earnest plea in favor of the redemption of Marvin College. Have you read it? Have you, in the sight of God and in view of the great interest involved, taken the matter to heart? Have you yet responded? My plans do not conflict with his, but are only in addition.

It is needless for me to add more as an argument as to what ought to be done. In this all are agreed. The building is large, well arranged, beautiful in design and finish, located on a lot of forty acres in and near the town of Waxahachie. Here we have the advantage of health, a good moral and religious influence, and every premise of future development. A property valued at thirty thousand dollars sacrificed for six thousand one hundred and sixty-two dollars, and at a time when most needed! Do not say it ought to be saved, but that it is a thing impossible. "All things are possible to him that believeth." Do not say: I would help, but the failure of Marvin College will insure the continuance and increased prosperity of my own favorite institution. Nay, verily. It has been said that "the death of the mother is the death of the child." If true, may not the shameful death of one of our noble institutions of learning be the forerunner of the death of others? Let public confidence be sinken in our capacity, as a church, to manage the educational interests of the country committed to us, and we will appeal in vain for means to aid in our educational enterprises.

No church can boast of grander achievements in this important department of Christian civilization than our own; and, thanks to the great Head of the Church, none enjoy a greater share in public confidence. The munificent endowment of $500,000 to our great university at Nashville, Tennessee, by Commodore Vanderbilt, of New York, is among the many testimonials we have of this fact. The Methodists of Texas have accomplished much in this, as in every other department of church work. Only let us take heed that no one take our crown. Marvin College ought, can, must and will live again! Marvel not at this. It is God's work, and upon his promise we rely. It is impossible for me, in the limited time given, to visit in person many who will gladly aid in this important undertaking. Brethren of the ministry and laity, ladies and children, help us.

Roll of Honor.—We have arranged to have a roll of honor, to be composed of the name of each lady who pays to the amount of $5 or more, and each child who pays $1 or more. Now, ladies and children, upon you, under God, we must rely for success. Of course you will not only give yourselves, but will induce others to do likewise. If your husband, father, brother or friend will give to the amount of $5, $10, $25, $50, $100 or more, procure their subscription, and this roll of honor shall give you credit for having collected it. This roll will be published first in our church papers, and afterward neatly framed with a life painting of Bishop E. M. Marvin, D. D., in honor of whom the Institution was named, and placed in the college chapel. Remember, I call first for subscriptions, and then for the money, provided a sufficient amount is secured to redeem the property. Finally, what you do do quickly—only the short month of February to accomplish this grand undertaking. To delay is defeat, and defeat is ruin to this queen of beauty and namesake of our beloved Bishop. Send your subscriptions to

REV. C. H. ELLIS,
Agent Marvin College.
Care of G. P. Penn, Treas.,
Waxahachie, Ellis Co., Texas.

Where Are They?

MR. EDITOR: Where are the preachers who were received on probation with me? Echo answers: Where? We met, a large class of us, in Tuskaloosa, in December, 1846, or in January, 1847. H. N. McTyeire is on the episcopal bench; C. D. Oliver belongs to the North Alabama Conference; James Pearce is in Georgia; Sealy in the Florida Conference; Akin in one of the Texas Conferences; J. E. Newman is in South America, (correct this if I am not right;) McCutchon joined the Northern Methodist Episcopal Church; D. Carmichel is living near Cahaba, Alabama; J. T. Koger was killed in the fight at Perryville; Mark Linch is dead; Dennis B. Line is dead; J. Roper is dead; J. B. Robb is dead; W. R. Rousaville is dead; Peavy is dead; Roberts went to Kentucky; young Pearson discontinued at the close of the first year. I think there were others that have escaped my memory. J. Barker was in the class of the fourth year.

I have received an appointment every year. One year I had four camp meetings at different places on my circuit; received three hundred and thirty-six on probation and baptized two children, with thirteen names.

J. W. MCCANN.

NEWBERN, ALA., Feb. 5, 1875.

HOW ST. PAUL LOOKED.—Some years since the pastor of a New-England village church adopted a plan to interest the members of his flock in the study of the Bible. It was this: At the Wednesday evening meeting he would give out some topic to be discussed on the ensuing week, thus giving a week for them to study up. One week the subject was St. Paul. After the preliminary devotional exercises the pastor called upon his deacons to "speak to the question." One immediately arose and began to describe the personal appearance of the great apostle of the Gentiles. He said Paul was a tall, rather spare man, with black hair and eyes, dark complexion, bilious temperament, etc. His picture of Paul was a faithful portrait of himself. He sat down, and another pillar of the church arose and said: "I think the brother preceding me has read the Scriptures to little purpose if his description of St. Paul is a sample of his biblical knowledge. St. Paul was, as I understand it, a rather short, thick-set man, with sandy hair, gray eyes, florid complexion, and a nervous, sanguine temperament," giving, like his predecessor, an accurate picture of himself. He was followed by another who had a keen sense of the ludicrous, and who was withal an inveterate stammerer. He spoke about as follows: "My bre-bre-brethern, I have nev-never fo-found in my Bible much ab-a-bout the p-per-personal ap-pe-pearance of St. P-p-paul. But one thing is clearly established, that is St. P-p-paul had an imp-pediment in his speech." The effect can be imagined. A "tidal-wave" of audible smiles swept over the congregation, the good clergyman taking his full quota. He immediately arose and dismissed the assembly.

STRIP THE LEAVES OFF.—Rev. Joel Hawes once called upon Dr. Emmons for a criticism on his style of preaching, and the doctor said: "Joel, I kept school once. I sometimes had to whip the boys, and when I whipped I always stripped the leaves off the rod," and he drew an imaginary rod through his fingers by way of illustration. The hint, it is said, helped Hawes amazingly, and may perhaps be of like service to those who unwittingly have covered up their teaching with too many words. Said a man of the highest culture: "It takes all I know to make things plain."

THE longer and more truly a Christian serves God the more spiritual wisdom he obtains.—Starke.

The Lighthouse.

About twelve years ago a fine vessel, bound for Canada, was wrecked off the coast of Newfoundland. She had on board an experienced captain, a competent crew and several passengers. All perished in the boisterous waves one very stormy night, and the name of the ship was found out only by some of her boats being washed ashore. Many a home was made desolate by this sad calamity, and it was a matter of wonder that the captain had ventured so near the dangerous shore, instead of keeping to the open sea.

A lighthouse stood on the very spot where the vessel in question was dashed to pieces, and a few months ago the lighthouse-keeper was taken seriously ill. The man, who knew that he was not likely to recover, sent for a friend, saying that he had an important secret to tell, and begging him to come at once. The dying man said that he had kept the secret for many years, but now felt that he could keep it no longer, although, when made public, it would deprive him of the good name for faithful attention to duty that he had always wished to maintain before the world. He had held the post of lighthouse-keeper for a great many years, and, until illness obliged him to give place to another man, he had every night carefully lighted the lamps. "Every night," said he, "except one! That evening and night I drank so hard that I became insensible, and quite forgot the lantern. The next morning the —— was found on the rocks, and I knew that I had been the cause of it; for, had the light been up, the captain, who knew this coast, would have kept far enough off; seeing no light, of course he mistook where he was. This has preyed upon my mind ever since, and I could not die without telling it. I have heard of one gentleman having been lost in that vessel whose mother I knew in Canada, and I think she is still living. Will you find her out, if possible, and tell her all that I have told you?"

The old lighthouse-keeper died soon after. His wishes were obeyed, and it seemed like a voice from the depths of the sea when his confession was made known to the mother in Canada, and to the widow and orphan children in England.

How powerful is conscience! Like a worm gnawing at the root of a plant must the remembrance of that one night of sinful self-indulgence have preyed upon the lighthouse-keeper's heart and often embittered his happiest moments. The coast of Newfoundland is especially dangerous from the prevalence of fogs, and many a fine ship has there gone down beneath the waters, even when the warning light has been shining. But on that dark night how sad to reflect that through the lighthouse-keeper's wicked carelessness there was not one ray glimmering through the obscurity to tell the mariner of impending danger.

"Be sure your sin will find you out!" saith the Scriptures. We cannot cloak sin from the eye of God, whatever we may do before man.

Is your own conscience clear, reader? Are your sins blotted out?

HOW THE MINISTER WAS CURED. Dr. Neale, of Boston, tells this anecdote of Dr. Stillman, his distinguished predecessor of revolutionary times: One Sunday morning he preached, as he thought, a poor sermon. It is very likely that it was so, for ministers sometimes do such things, but they have different ways of meeting the humiliation. Some put on a bold face and pretend to care nothing about it; some look dignified, as if they had said something solemn and deep; others comfort themselves with the thought that they will do better next time; but Dr. Stillman was so mortified with his failure that he could not eat his dinner, and was sick in bed. "Jephthah," he faintly said, "I shall not be able to preach this afternoon. You must see the deacons and ask them to get some other minister to supply my pulpit—Mr. Chauncey, Mr. Kirkland or Mr. Eckley." Jephthah, who understood the case perfectly, said, very respectfully, he would go. "Dr. Stillman ought to have rest, dear man, but I feel bad for the people; they will be disappointed; but folks is queer. They doesn't want to hear anybody else. I heard Mrs. Smith say this morning what a beautiful sermon the doctor preached. But I'll tell the deacons Massa Stillman is wearin' hisself out." "You needn't go," said the doctor, brightening up. "I feel better. Brush my boots, Jephthah, and I'll try to preach myself." He went into the pulpit, and never preached more powerfully and eloquently than he did that afternoon.

MAKE MUCH OF THE BLOOD.—Dr. Alexander once said to a Sunday school teacher: "In teaching Christ, my brother, make much of the blood!" Mr. Moody, in his wonderfully blessed lay preaching, amplifies and re-echoes the sentiment. He is reported to have said at Edinburg: "It was not a live lamb that was tied to the door-posts of the Israelites in Egypt, only its blood was sprinkled over them. It is not the life of Christ that saves, nor the imitations of his life, but his death, his blood. The Bible is bound together by a scarlet thread; the blood runs all through."

I will be of good courage under my trials, for the weaker I am in myself the stronger I am in my God. Should satan assault me I fear him not. I go forth against him in the strength of the Lord God of Sabaoth. By the help of my God I can do valiantly. Should it be said the stronger shall gain the victory, then the victory is already mine; for the strength of God is my strength; and it is over all. Should it be said the weaker shall prevail, then shall I prevail, for such am I in myself. Blessed be the name of the Lord, I shall yet enjoy peace and rest, and shall come off more than conqueror, through him that hath loved me.

A SCANT breakfast in the morning of life whets the appetite for a feast later in the day.

Obituaries.

JOEL L. G. BENHOW died, near Mount Ida, Crenshaw county, Alabama, December 20, 1874. He was confined to his house for nearly seventeen years—three and a half years to his bed with palsy. He was born in Sumter district, South Carolina, November 25, 1809, and was born again in 1836, under the ministry of Revs. J. W. Broxson and Ledbetter. For twenty-seven years he was strongly attached to the church of his choice (the Methodist Episcopal Church South;) and then vacated his place in the militant church, we trust, to fill his place in the triumphant one.

S. J. KELLY.

BREATHED HIS LAST, at his residence near St. Stephen's, Washington county, Alabama, Rev. THOMAS I. ELLIOTT, who was born in Knox county, Tennessee, in the year A. D. 1800, and died on the ninth of January, 1875, aged seventy-five years and seven days.

He joined the Methodist Church in 1820; was licensed to preach the gospel in 1823. In 1825 he joined the Tennessee Conference, and continued in the itinerancy until 1834, at which time he married Mrs. Epps, of north Alabama, and moved to Sumter county, Alabama, where he located and raised a family of seven children, of whom but one has preceded him to our celestial home in heaven. Our father never forgot his duty as a minister of the gospel, but continued working in the vineyard of the Lord until the last few years of his life. During the last six years he would often try to preach, but owing to his extreme weakness would often fail and sink on his seat, shouting the praise of God.

He was sick about a month; was perfectly resigned to the will of God, often expressing his anxiety to die with these words: "I am intensely anxious to go. All is well." A few minutes before his last he pressed the hand of his wife several times, but could not utter a word; then laid his head on Jesus' breast, and breathed his life out sweetly there. It is impossible for the writer to do justice with his pen to the deceased, who was for so long a time devoted to the cause of Christ. May his wife, who is now on the brink of eternity, when it is the will of Heaven to call her home, meet him face to face where trials and troubles are felt and feared no more, and there, with her husband and daughter, await the coming of the remainder of the family.

G. S. E.

MARIENY C. DUNKLIN, daughter of James J. Dunklin, was born August 31, 1845. She was brought up "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." She united with the church in 1857. Young as she was, she had fully counted the cost—she understood the nature and responsibility of her profession. She was therefore a firm, consistent Christian. She was married, January 21, 1868, to Mr. E. J. Padgett, and died January 10, 1875.

Sister Padgett, though modest and retiring in her natural disposition, was an active member of the church. She was always in her place in the house of God unless providentially kept away. She was ready to do all she could for the promotion of the cause she loved so well. She presided at the organ. Her health was good, and it seemed as if long life might be hers. Twelve months ago she was well. Within less than a year consumption began and ended its work of death.

With our departed sister religion was first. No matter how busy she might be with domestic cares, she always made it a rule to read her Bible just after breakfast.

When first attacked she often, late at night, moistened her pillow with tears, praying that she might be spared to train up her three little children. But when she found that it was the will of God to take her she resigned all into his hands. The surrender was complete. All harassing solicitude was taken away. Never have I seen a mother look more calmly and confidently on the little ones from whom she was so soon to be separated. She called them to her, told them to look at her, and not to forget how she looked, and whenever tempted to do wrong to think of her. She spoke calmly of death, and sometimes gave expression to triumphant joy. She exhorted all her friends to meet her in heaven. What power there is in the gospel! "Thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

H. URQUHART.

JUDGE BIDDLE, of the Indiana Supreme Court, has been made the subject of an interview by a Tipton journalist, who writes: "He preserves every hat which he purchases; has boots and shoes enough to stock a country store. Buffalo heads, alligators, snakes and serpents of all climes and countries, in their stuffed presentment, adorn or cover the walls and tables of his rooms in juxtaposition to select engravings and choice paintings. It is another proof of this great lawyer's extreme versatility that at his advanced age, and with the work of the Supreme Court before him, he is entering upon a series of chemical experiments. His collection of musical instruments and literature is extensive."

WE CANNOT too soon convince ourselves how easily we may be dispensed with in the world. What important personages we imagine ourselves to be! We think that we alone are the life of the circle in which we move; in our absence we fancy that life, existence and breath will come to a general pause; and, alas! the gap which we leave is scarcely perceptible, so quickly is it filled again; nay, it is often but the place, if not for something better, at least for something more agreeable.—Goethe.

IF HE is beside himself who refuses to plant since God has said that the harvest shall not fail, then is he beside himself who says that prayer is useless since the things for which we pray are a part of God's plan.—Dr. Manning.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1875.

GERMAN VOLKSLIED.

TRANSLATED BY ANNIE MATHESON.

It is the will of One above
That men should see what most they love
Departing.
Though through the world's wide circle there
Is nothing half so hard to bear
As parting.

If thou a rosebud shouldst receive,
Set it in water, but believe
My warning:
It may with opening petals glow
To-morrow; it will wither, though,
Next morning.

Hast thou one love who seems a part
Of thine own life?—whose inmost heart
Thou keepest?
When but a little while has flown
She will have left thee all alone.
Thou weepest?

Yet think not this a wayward cry;
When men clasp hands and say good-by,
Although the parting thrill with pain,
They whisper: "Friend, not wiederseh'n!
To meet again! To meet again!"

Misapplied Scriptures.

THE SACRAMENTS.

BY REV. JOHN HALL, D. D., NEW YORK.

There is a misgiving in many minds as to baptism and the Lord's Supper, resting mainly, we are persuaded, on a misapprehension of two notable passages in John's gospel. Many have a vague, general idea that the ordinance of baptism is essential to salvation, inasmuch as we read in chapter 3, 5: "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." They hastily conclude that the birth "of water" is baptism. In some instances even Protestants have an indefinite notion that there may be more scriptural authority for "baptismal regeneration" in the mediæval sense than is commonly admitted.

Will the reader please note the following points:

(a) In verse 3 our Lord's language is "born again;" in verse 5, "born of water and the Spirit;" and in verses 6 and 8, "born of the Spirit." The connection shows that the same idea is intended in all these phrases.

(b) Baptism, as a Christian rite, was not instituted at the time of this conversation with Nicodemus. The baptism before this, and known to the hearers of John, was a baptism of repentance; and no such language is employed in relation to it as we have here.

(c) Whatever our Lord meant by this language he had a right to expect Nicodemus to understand. He was never unreasonable. He never reproached without cause. He was never uncandid and unjust. But if the words he employed referred to Christian baptism, there was no reason whatever why Nicodemus should "know these things." But the Lord says to him: "Art thou a master in Israel and knowest not these things?"—Verse 10.

(d) The new birth is undoubtedly referred to in verse 3, and we may assume confidently that verse 5 is explanatory of verse 3 in such a way that Nicodemus, being a "master in Israel," ought to have known it. If, for example, it had a distinct place in his own Scriptures, he ought to have known it. Has it such a place? Examine Ezekiel xxxvi, 25, 26, 27:

"Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean; from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you.

"A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you; and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you a heart of flesh.

"And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them."

Here we have the "sprinkling of clean water," which cleanses from filthiness, in one—that is, the figurative member of the parallelism; and in the next—that is, the literal—we have the new heart and spirit; and in verse 27 we have the Holy Spirit put within. In a word, we have the ideas and the language descriptive of a radical change of nature which any "master in Israel" might be expected to know. But it is a prophecy of the new birth only, and has no direct relation to any ordinance by which it shall be brought about.

It confirms this view surprisingly that our Lord should instantly employ another figure of the same general character to suggest, as it were, to the slow mind of Nicodemus what he did not understand. "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit."—Verse 8. Whence did this figure come? Whence ought it to come to command interest and confidence in a Jewish mind? Why the Lord had just made one informal reference to Ezekiel in chapter 36. He now makes a second to the same book, and the very next chapter. Who forgets the vivid picture of Israel, in the "dry bones?" Here is verse 9 of that chapter:

"Then said he unto me, Prophesy unto the wind, prophesy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord God, Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live."

Here now we have the water and the wind—Old Testament figures illustrative of the means of regeneration, not in any sense an ordinance or rite, but the Holy Spirit of God. They come from two consecutive chapters—they are found side by side in Ezekiel. They were read in the synagogue. There was no excuse for the ignorance of a master in Israel regarding their meaning and significance.

We see, therefore, that baptism could not be the point of our Lord's allusion to water; but that there is another reference, not forward, but backward, which Nicodemus might well be supposed to understand, and which referred to the explicit, unparticipated work of the Holy Ghost. The only connection the words have with baptism may be found in the incidental circumstance that the qualities in water that made it an apt symbol of the Spirit's work in the Old Testament, make it a fitting symbol in the New. But a symbol is one thing; an agent or an instrument is another.

Hence we read in Mark xvi, 16: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." It is not added: "He that believeth not and is not baptized," but "He that believeth not shall be damned." The human side of the transaction is put to us. We believe and we are baptized in evidence of the same. When the divine side of it is presented, it is exactly as in Ezekiel and in John, as one may see in Titus iii, 5:

"Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost."

A corresponding embarrassment, we are persuaded, is in many minds regarding the Lord's Supper; as if the Lord meant to make it essential to salvation in John vi, 53, 54:

"Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

"Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day."

The purpose of these words is to teach the general truth that union with Jesus is essential to life. For, note again:

(a) The supper was not yet instituted. What more unlikely than that the Lord would utter such a vital truth as this in a form of which his hearers could not possibly know anything? They had no preparation of mind for it, if the supper was meant. Eating blood would be an idea specially revolting to a Jew.

(b) But a careful reading of the chapter shows how naturally and cogently the words come in from verse 26:

"Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled."

He rebukes their sordid following of him, and, after his gracious manner, founds a positive counsel on their folly. In verse 31 they challenge him for a sign like the manna. He replies in effect: "It is not a question of Moses versus Messiah at all. God gave the manna, and he gave me. I am the manna."—Verse 32. Anything so good they are willing to have at once, and they say: "Evermore give us this bread."—Verse 34. But he shows them their error in verses 35–40, in effect saying: "No! I am here and am the bread, and ye will not eat, for to believe is to eat." Then they murmured, and cast up his lowly birth. He replied in effect: "I am greater than Moses—verses 43–49—for the manna-eaters are dead; but he that eats (that is, believes in) me, lives forever." "One word borrows another," till he puts it in the strongest way, following out the figure which the dialogue produced, verse 53:

"Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you."

In other words, Jesus says, his language molded by the objections to which he is replying: "Receive me and you receive life; reject me and you die."

Again, then, we say there is no reference to the supper; and the only point of contact with it is, as before, that the same fitness of things that gave aptness to the figure of bread and eating, in John, made the elements of the supper appropriate to set forth the truth as to the need of vital corporate union with Christ.

There are sufficient true and scriptural reasons for magnifying the Christian sacraments. These passages have been misread, and Rome, abandoning her dogma and appealing to private judgment, has often used them with the ill-instructed to sustain her ritualistic method of salvation. They give her no countenance when rightly understood, but rather subvert her whole theory.—New York Observer.

The Art and Value of Prolonging Life.

BY REV. JAMES M. BUCKLEY.

The attempt is often made to carry on at the same time three different modes of effort, any one of which is sufficient to employ the whole force which an ordinary constitution can generate. Thus we find men who are authors and students, practical business men and great travelers. They are in their office by day, they make addresses in the evening, and travel all night, often writing on the cars. A year ago this present month the writer was one of the speakers at the general missionary anniversary held at Pittsburg and vicinity. There were two sermons and one or two speeches required on Sunday, several speeches on Monday, and on Tuesday the late Dr. Eddy and the writer went to Steubenville, Ohio, to speak. Dr. Eddy proposed to leave for home that night, to which I would not consent. He then gave me an outline of his method of working, which was to think enough for a man who did nothing but think, travel enough for a man who did nothing but travel, do office and editorial work enough for a man who did nothing else, and speak and preach oftener than any pastor. I then remarked that a "man must choose whether to burn steadily and long, or rapidly and out soon, besides running the risk of an explosion all the time." Wesley could unite these different modes of effort because he traveled on foot or on horseback, or by post-chaise, and spoke constantly in the open air, maintaining the most regular system of sleep and diet. Nor did he allow himself to run into wild excesses of straining speech. Indeed he abominated it, and declared that God allowed Thos. Walsh to sink into darkness before he died because of his excess in loud and long speaking, and made all his ministers promise not to overdo in this matter. He also told Adam Clarke not "to expect to have any health" unless he worked in the open air at least one hour a day. John Summerfield, after repeated hemorrhages and many indications of decaying vitality, spoke nearly two hours, and his biographer more than intimates that he was led on to this excess by the applause and enthusiasm of his hearers, rather than by the Holy Spirit.

Every popular man is in great danger of excess. He becomes hemmed by his own work; he works with delight to himself; his friends love to hear him; ambition spurs him; the cause he advocates becomes in his eyes all-important; he assumes responsibilities and contracts engagements which tax him to the utmost; and when his powers need rest he feels that he cannot take it, and either breaks down, is compelled to give up or dies. And the more serious a man is, the more likely he is to overdo and destroy himself. Contrast Edward Payson with Henry Ward Beecher in this respect. The strong constitution and genius of the latter would not have enabled him to do the work he has done if he had been impressed with a sense of the doom of sinners as profoundly as was Payson. But the same spirit which leads men to overwork may lengthen unduly an essay. I conclude this paper, therefore, by pointing out certain errors into which most intellectual and sedentary men are prone to fall:

1. Neglect of exercise. Many do nothing but walk a few hundred yards per day, which they dispense with in storms or when the walking is bad, which in the case of ministers, with Sundays added, is, in this climate, about two-thirds of the time.

2. An attempt to cheat nature by such subterfuges as "health-lifts." A poor sedentary man, who needs light, air, rest and change of scenery for his eyes, and fancies that he can keep at books or study all day and then in ten minutes' lifting of heavy weights set his system right, must be classed with the people who expect to get rid of the consequences of life-long violation of the laws of health by a few doses of patent medicine. And a man who can believe that men whose professional life makes them liable to heart or lung disease can safely practice lifting heavy weights is possessed of "great faith." A strong, vigorous man may not be injured by lifting (and may enjoy it much,) while some weak men may have been benefited; but to rely wholly or chiefly on ten minutes' lifting is the greatest hygienic absurdity of modern times.

3. Over-feeding is a great error, especially when connected with inactivity. The Arabs have a proverb that "fat and inaction are the cause of the principal diseases and vices of horses." And a dyspeptic minister gorging the system with the rich food prepared by the "sisters," and taking no exercise, is a spectacle to make only infidels and undertakers rejoice. It was gravely proposed to inscribe on the tombstone of a glutonous young minister, who was cut off by disease induced in this way: "Died of going out to tea."

4. Forgetting the danger of exposure or a strain after forty-five years of age causes many failures. The farmer, sailor and mechanic is, if well to begin with, and temperate through life, as strong at fifty-five, and often at sixty, as he ever was. But not so the sedentary man whose rebuilding has gone on under debilitating influences. He may outlive the farmer, but he must begin to be careful physically long before such care is necessary for the out-door laborer. And many, by forgetting this, have in a day broken themselves down who might have lived to four-score. In contrast with these errors I place the following hints:

1. Night travel and day work should not follow each other. God does not command it, nature is incensed and outraged by it, and nothing is to be gained by it.

2. Students, teachers, ministers, lawyers, editors and physicians should exercise the arms and chest at least half an hour a day, and spend three times as long in the open air.

3. They should sleep all that the system can endure without injury, and if they lose sleep in the night should chase it when possible all that day, till the balance is adjusted.

4. For some weeks in every year they should return to a life of nature. The man who takes cold from the motion of a fan can, after he has camped out three days, sleep on a rock in a shower and only feel a little stiff when he wakes.

5. Keep one day in seven as a day of total cessation from ordinary thoughts and work.

If it be asked what "centenarian" writes these words, I answer they are written by a man whose father died at thirty-seven, when he might, with a proper regard to the laws of health, have survived to seventy. And, again, they are written by a man who has made most of the mistakes herein portrayed, and after going down into the jaws of death has come up to excellent working condition under a natural system, and who hopes to benefit those whose love of work leads them astray, and not to encourage the indolent and the useless.—Methodist.

Old Ladies.

What has become of those gracious beings we remember in our youth with peculiar tenderness and regard—the "old ladies," who were wont to shed such a halo of dignity on the hearths and homes of other days? We never see them now. What is the reason? Where have they vanished? What has taken their place?

Formerly in many houses there was an arm-chair ever set in one particular spot, ever tenanted during certain hours of the day by the "grandmamma" of the house—a venerable figure in black or gray silk, with frills of lovely old lace and a cap of the same quite covering the head, and tied under the chin with white or gray satin ribbon. Delicate, worn white hands, covered with black silk mittens, and daintily knitting or working some simple worsted work, completed the picture, and assisted to form the center of the family group round which young and middle-aged vied in paying homage. No troubles, no naughtiness, must reach the ear of grandmamma, unless, indeed, under the seal of confidence, in the hope of the comfort and counsel it was hers to give. She must never be worried and hurried or "put about;" her own chair was always left for her, and also her own place at the table, or in the carriage, if on a fine day she condescended to "take an airing." It might not seem as if such a life had much effect on others, but we believe it had. We believe it created a most wholesome atmosphere of love and reverence, such as is now sadly missed; for, as we have before said, such old ladies seem to have vanished from the face of the earth. Nowadays grandmamma is always making herself useful—nursing somebody, or going to visit her district, or into society. She is trotting about in the mud with a basket on her arm, in a waterproof cloak, or paying visits in a bonnet and gown exactly like her daughter's, for fashion now does not acknowledge age. You are to wear whatever is "worn," be it simple or elaborate, crownless bonnets or bonnets without strings; and if the hair is gray, or you have not got any, you must invest in a chignon or plaits. And so old ladies exist no longer in a definite form, but are frittered away into more or less young ones only worn out, instead of fresh.

We hear a great deal of the want of respect paid to age in the present day; and very true it is, and very lamentable. But, after all, is it not partly the fault of those who will not accept the dignity of age? If you see a lady dressed in the height of fashion and behaving like a young person, is it your business to observe or suggest the fact that she has wrinkles and gray hair through it all? If you meet a person stumping about here and there, and everywhere, in all weathers, are you to insist on implying by your manner that she ought to stop at home? It may be very useful certainly that she should pursue her good works, and help others, and cultivate society; but, after all, was there not a special mission open to her before, of a kind not less useful than these practical matters, and which no one but herself can feel? Ought not an old lady to accept age as her vocation for the sake of the young? Her presence in days of old had something of the nature of a shrine in the house, which every one sought for peace and comfort, as well as to "encompass her about with sweet observances." It was so charming to place footstools at her feet, or cushions around her; to fetch her knitting or her spectacles; to read to her, and then converse and hear the beautiful and quaint old-world stories that no one will ever now hear again.

Was all this waste of time? We think not. Nay, more; no doubt if the reverence and tenderness thus instilled, almost unconsciously, by a living presence, did not do more for the elevation of the young than the somewhat fussy modern ideas of usefulness, which leave no one any time to be either dignified or reverent—how can we help it? We have always got to be in time for something—to attend a class, to eat in a train, or what not? We live from day to day in a perpetual race with the clock, an incessant scramble; and if we are curt in our words and brusque in our manners, what wonder? We live our outer lives in a jostling crowd, and our inner lives in a state of incessant fidget, and this applies to old and young alike. Therefore one of the most beautiful forms of existence is becoming daily more and more obsolete, and its memory will ere long be lost to us. We may see young girls, pretty sprightly matrons, active, energetic middle-aged women, all racing and chasing each other in the various aims of life; and there may—there must—be some whose gait is less vigorous, whose eyes are less bright, whose limbs are less active; and sooner or later these will perish and fall by the wayside; but the beauty, the holiness of old age will be unknown among us, and therefore age will be unreverenced. There will be no old ladies.—Scottish American.

TYROLESE SUPERSTITIONS.—As the peasants believe that a departed soul must expiate any evil done in this life on the spot where the sin was committed, the whole country is supposed to be peopled with these ghostly visitants. Almost every lone wood or gloomy spot has its own ghost. At holy seasons a blue light is visible on the meadows, a fiery form hovers over the marshes, and wierd animals approach the frightened wanderer in desolate places; these are all "poor souls" who must thus atone for their misdeeds, far from human habitations. The reason for this is that if the peasant perceives anything uncanny in his house or stables, he at once fetches a priest, who forthwith blesses the whole house and banishes the apparition to some solitary woodland nook, where it can no longer disturb people. However, the exorcising may also be performed by the peasant himself, by collecting all the keys in the house and clinking them together. He can thus drive the spirit to the borders of his domain, but he must be very careful not to set foot beyond his own boundaries, or he will inevitably be torn to pieces. A common crime seems to have been removing the landmarks, for which the bearing a red hot stone on his shoulder and crying in wailing accents: "Where shall I place it?" If any passer-by has the courage to reply, "Put it back in the spot whence you took it," the spirit is enabled to replace the landmark in its rightful position, and is immediately relieved from his penance. The Hottinger Gasse, at Innsbruck, is haunted by fiery milk-women, who have watered the milk during their lifetime.

A MELTING sermon being preached in a country church, all fell a-weeping but one man, who, when asked why he did not weep with the rest, said: "Oh! I belong to another parish."

Religious Intelligence.

OF THE seven hundred and fifty-four journals published in Paris fifty-three are devoted to religion and theology.

THE new school recently opened at Akka, at the mouth of the River Kishon, in Palestine, has been closed by the Turkish authorities.

THE Turkish Missions Aid Society of London has just voted £1,000 to the Antwerp College in Syria, making $20,750 for the object in England.

THE Church Missionary Society has been so well pleased with the growing disposition toward self-support in the Singhalese churches at Kandy, Ceylon, that they have appointed Rev. Henry Gunasekara (the pastor of one of the congregations) chairman of the native church council at Kandy.

AN EXTRAORDINARY REVIVAL IN NORTH CHINA.—Some two years ago Cheefoo, a Buddhist, was converted, and commenced at once in his native town to persuade the people to embrace religion with wonderful success, resulting in the conversion of 160 persons, who reside some 200 miles from any missionary, and far away from the ordinary lines of travel.

ALL THE anonymous thousand-pound checks that have for a long time found their way to this and that charitable object in England are at last traced to the hand of an old man of eighty, living in a quiet way in the vicinity of Cheshunt. His secret, however, comes to light only in his death. By his books it appears that he gave away in his lifetime some £350,000 after this fashion—£45,000 within the last year.

THE venerable widow of Dr. Levi Spaulding died at Battlecotta, Ceylon, October 28, 1874, in her eightieth year. Mrs. Spaulding has for many years been regarded as the mother of the Jaffna mission, with which she was connected fifty-five years. Forty years were spent in the Oodooville Female Seminary in elevating the Tamil womanhood. Mrs. Spaulding was the last survivor of the company of eight who sailed for Ceylon in 1819.

AN Opium Refuge has been established in Hang-Chau, China, under the general charge of the Church Missionary Society. About one hundred and sixty patients have been received. The course of cure requires fifteen days, and is conducted under the direction of Dr. Galt, of the Edinburg Medical Missionary Society. The opium traffic has been licensed and is increasing to an alarming extent. The use of the drug is promoting the use of spirituous liquors, and drunkenness, which was formerly rare in China, is now becoming very common.

THE reception of King Kalakana by the American Board at Boston, on the evening of January 1, is reported to have been exceedingly cordial. Both the King and Governor Kapena gracefully expressed their indebtedness to the society for the place which the Sandwich Islands now hold in the civilized world. The Queen of Madagascar recently gave a similar testimony in the letter forwarded to the London Society. Perhaps the Mikado of Japan will be the next sovereign who shall acknowledge the benefits conferred by the Christian missions.

"PASSING up the main street of Palamacottah," says an East Indian missionary, "we noticed the neat houses of the native Christians. Over the door of one were the words: 'Welcome; peace be with you all.' We accepted the general invitation, entered the house, and saw a respectable, happy family. On the table was the family Bible, in which we noticed several slips of paper as markers. We were told one marked the portion for family prayer, another was the husband's mark for private reading, another the wife's, and another the children's. It was a family Bible indeed."

THE Moravian Mission Board pays special attention to the education of the children of its missionaries. Many of the missions are situated in countries where European children cannot thrive. They are therefore sent home at an early age, and are mostly gathered in the mission schools at Kleinwelka, Saxony. When they leave these schools they are variously assisted in the trades and professions of life. A "home" was recently erected at Kleinwelka by German, English and American Moravians for the reception of missionaries returned on visit to their native land. The education of the children of missionaries cost $28,380 in 1873. The pensions paid to retired missionaries amounted to $23,835.

THE Presbyterian Board of Missions report their missionary force the same as last year. The Indian work shows gratifying success. The work in the Roman Catholic countries of America has been favored by the opposition of the governments of Mexico, Chili and Brazil to the pretensions of the Ultramontanes. In Mexico eighty-five communicants were recently received on a single occasion. In Syria two steam presses can scarcely keep pace with the desire of the Arabic-speaking population for a Christian literature. The recent outbreak of Mohammedan fanaticism in Syria is ample evidence of the progress of the gospel on the soil where the old crusades were fought and failed.

PROBABLY there is no man more thoroughly devoted to his work than is the great Baptist preacher, Spurgeon. Repeated efforts have been made to induce him to come to the United States to engage in a lecturing tour. He always declines. The following is his recent response to a similar request from the Boston Lecture Bureau: "It is not possible for me to leave my work except for a short interval to rest. I have no one to occupy my pulpit, preside over my church, look after the college, govern the orphanage, superintend the colporteurs, edit the magazine, etc. I must keep my hand on the oar till I die. I see no hope of my visiting America, much as I would like to greet the brethren there. Compensation is not an item of consideration. Nothing indeed could compensate my conscience if I left my work and any harm came of it. I know, within a little, what I can do, and I feel that I cannot conscientiously attempt a work in America to which I am not called, to the injury of that which now engrosses all my time and every faculty I possess."

NEW YORK PRESBYTERIANS AND BENEVOLENCE.—The 169 churches of the Presbyterian synod of New York, with 34,639 members, contributed in 1874 to the work of the church $306,893, or about one-fifth of the benevolent gifts of the entire Presbyterian Church. Of this sum the several presbyteries gave as follows: Boston, $6,091, an average of $2 per member; Hudson, $9,996, or $1.60 per member; New York, $251,319, or $16 per member; and Westchester, $28,062, or $5.50 per member. The Observer, in reference to these contributions, says: "If any one has the idea that the rich, as they are called, do not give in proportion to their ability, let him study the figures above for an hour or two, and compare the result with what he has done himself."

THE Valparaiso Record states with gratitude that the circulation of the Bible in Chili for the past three or four years has been both steady and rapid. Only sixty-four Spanish Testaments were sold at the Depository during the whole year of 1870; five times as many copies have been disposed of to purchasers in a single month this year (1874.) The sales of the same book in 1873 amounted to 614 copies, while during the last two months over 700 Testaments have been sold. "Certain it is," says the Record, "that the resistance of the ecclesiastical authorities to the enactment of just laws has, in the providence of God, tended to awaken thought and to lead many to examine the basis of their religious belief. Never before has there been so great a demand for the Scriptures and evangelical literature."

AN EXPOSURE somewhat after the Katie King order, reported from a French mountain village, may or may not dampen the zeal of the modern pilgrim. The appearance of the Virgin Mary to two little girls not altogether satisfying their matter-of-fact father, they led him to the spot consecrated by her materialization and showed him the Holy Mother in propria persona. Did he bow in adoration becoming an humble peasant, or did he smite the apparition with his staff to test the difference between flesh and spirit? The account states that he took the latter course, and then took the woman to task for her imposition. The miracle in the case seems to have been sadly spoiled, but it still might be worth a pilgrimage just to see that commonsense fellow in the back country.—Christian Union.

A SHEFFIELD, ENGLAND, writer describes how crowds go to hear Mr. Moody: "In the evening Barker-pool was filled with a writhing, struggling mass of people trying to get near the doors of the Albert Hall long before the time for the service. When the doors were opened the crush became so great that many trembled with fear, and others groaned with pain; in the passages running along each side of the hall the atmosphere was stifling, and a few of the weakest fainted. The evangelists appeared at last, and proceeded with the service, which was very impressive. But in some parts the effect was marred by the immensity of the congregation. At several of the doors continual struggles went on, persons outside striving with all their might to get into the hall, which was not large enough to hold them. The people in the passages almost suffocated with the heat and pressure, knocked frantically at the doors for admittance, even when the service was half over, and would not leave the lobbies until they found that no human force could get them beyond the threshold."

THE Chinese Recorder gives an account of an interesting experiment which is being made at Hang-Chau, in the establishment of an Opium Refuge, under the general charge of the Church Missionary Society. Fifteen years ago an Indian civilian was constrained by conscience to give up his position as a collector of the opium tax and to devote the savings of his official income, amounting to upward of $15,000, to the relief of Chinese opium-smokers. The Church Missionary Society, which had been made the custodian of this fund, endeavored on several occasions to carry out the purpose of the donor, but with only partial success. At last the services of Dr. Galt, of the Edinburg Medical Missionary Society, were obtained, and toward the close of 1873 the hospital was established at Hang-Chau. About one hundred and sixty opium patients have been received. After the Refuge became known opium-smokers showed great eagerness to enter upon the course of cure. A fee of $2 was required upon entrance, partly to pay the expense of board and partly to prevent the patient from running away before the course of treatment was finished. No patients are so unruly as the opium-smokers. At first they are anxious to be cured; but when, after some days, the gradual diminution of opium becomes felt in nausea and lassitude they are apt to grow mutinous, often throwing their meals out of the windows and attacking the porter who prevents their escape. There have been exceptions, however, to this unruly behavior, and in several instances it is hoped that an impression has been made for Christ. The course of cure occupies fifteen days, and is conducted by Dr. Galt with admirable patience. Recent advices from China bear testimony to the growing evil of the opium traffic. It is now legalized, and the opium dens are unblushingly opened in the largest streets. The use of this drug is promoting the consumption of spirituous liquors, so that drunkenness, which was formerly rare in China, is now becoming very common. The Chinese have determined to cultivate opium for themselves, and thus drive out the foreign traffic in this drug. It is therefore probable that ere long England's policy in regard to the opium trade will become as unprofitable as it is wicked."—Independent.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. RUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GOODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE is one dollar and a Quarter per year to ministers of the gospel, and the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keeper, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the below list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

Patient Labor.

In almost all departments of enterprise success has been preceded by long and patient effort. The years of discouragement through which Columbus passed before he secured his outfit for the discovery of the New World, and the opposition which he met on the decisive voyage, exhibit the fact in some of its aspects. The history of inventions and discoveries is filled with the same lesson. Fulton, Arkwright, Whitney, Morse and others passed through the severest ordeals and trials. The life of George and Robert Stephenson is a gospel in itself, touching the slowness of maturing great inventions, and the obstacles which have to be cleared away before the triumphs and rewards of genius are secured. The most notable and useful appliances of our civilization are comparatively of recent discovery. The art of printing, the mariner's compass, the application of steam, the electric telegraph and the spectroscope are new things under the sun. Each of them had its time of long thought, experiment and agony before it was born, and, after being born, it had to grow into the comparative perfection which it has attained.

Looking out upon the plans and methods of God as unfolded in his providence, and in the measured and orderly dispensation of revealed truth, there is apparent slowness. Thousands of years of progressive manifestation went before the birth of Christ, and thousands are likely to follow before the grand parousia and the final consummation. As laborers in God's work, in the field of usefulness, and as co-workers with God in the spread of the gospel, we must take our key-note of patience from him whose ways are past finding out. How far back he began to make the world, who can tell? What is our little day in comparison with the cycles before man came upon the earth, or even in comparison with the ages of Christian history which have gone before us? The spirit of hurry, of premature expectation, sometimes crops out in the very beginning of the New Testament times. There were those who thought the kingdom of heaven should immediately appear, those who looked for the second coming in the first century of the Christian Church. It is for us to look for and to haste the coming of the day of God, but at the same time to remember that what seems near in the perspective of prophecy, and in the mind of him who sees the end from the beginning, may to us be relatively a long way off.

Men ought always to pray and not to faint. They are to reap in due time if they faint not. As we count the years God bears long, and yet as he measures he avenges his own elect speedily. "One day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day." Therefore "the Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness." No one generation is to do all; some may be called to sow rather than reap. Each age of Christian life must achieve its mission, each individual must be content to be a mere polyp, contributing what he may to the great mass, and to the sure but distant upraising of the kingdom above the billows of worldliness and sin. The bread cast upon the waters is to be found "after many days." There should be enthusiasm, a travail of soul for immediate fruit, and an earnest reaching after present results; but along with these we need the spirit of patient labor, a far-seeing hopefulness, and a faith that can wait as well as work. They are the truest Christian laborers who press on in the path of toil, unmoved by apparent lack of success, and whose zeal and devotion are kindled and fed by the consciousness of the Master's approval, and by the faith that they have in the final results of concerted effort.

The enterprise of saving the world is a great one, and if centuries of missionary effort should be too little for its accomplishment, what of that? The world around us yields slowly to gospel agencies, and much prayer and sacrifice seem to be expended to no purpose. But what if it be so? It is our business to do the work of our day, with the assurance that we are a part of that chain of instruments which shall at length reach to the final victory. The capacity for patient labor, for uniform, unflagging effort, and for persistent work in the presence of discouragements and almost insurmountable obstacles, is that which Christian men should covet and covet most. A fitful zeal, a short-sighted faith, a devotion which lives upon the excitement of present prosperity, is altogether unequal to the demands of Christian duty. The genuine laborer is one who can suffer and toil amidst present failure and depression, and, like the old-time prophets, catch his inspiration and cheer from the visions of distant conquest and victory. Patient labor, hopeful, zealous, but patient, is most in demand always. This is after God's own order and example, and that which has done nearly all that is of any real and permanent worth.

A Question of Life and Death.

It is at least a hopeful sign when we find Northern religious journals, hitherto ultra radical, waking up to the fact that the present policy toward the South is putting the whole nation in imminent peril. They cannot allow an irresponsible despotism to grind out the life of Louisiana without giving up the guarantees of their own freedom. To destroy us is, in the end, to destroy themselves. Grant's course of military interference in Louisiana, unrebuked and unredressed, opens the way to a like exercise of military power in all the States.

The problem with the better sort of people is how to manage these Southern States so as to protect the negro, and at the same time preserve constitutional liberty for the nation. Grant and his followers are, of course, not perplexed at all. To maintain their political ascendency they are ready to trample on the constitution and to revolutionize the government. There is a considerable body of fanatics in the North who believe in holding the South in perpetual vassalage, for the sake of the negro, at any cost. They are credulous, blind, bigoted, and incapable of estimating the consequences which must follow if the centralization of the Federal government is permitted to go on. But, besides the politicians and the fanatics, there is a large class who comprehend the danger of this intervention in the domestic affairs of the States, and who honestly seek for some practical solution of the Southern question. With them the protection and well-being of the negro is the difficult point. How to save the liberties of the nation and at the same time maintain the rights and citizenship of the freedmen is the question. To fair-minded men, not biased by partisan interests, and not blinded by sectional and fanatical passion, this is the substance of what some regard as an inextricable entanglement and a hopeless muddle.

The New York Independent, writing on the needs of the negro, comprehends the situation as to the perils of the hour, and gives its view of the remedy:

> It is not only to our philanthropy that this work appeals. It appeals also to our selfishness. It is the cheapest way to reconstruct the South and to secure in that section the peace and prosperity which the interests of all sections demand. The schoolmaster costs less than the soldier, and his work lasts a great deal longer. A million of dollars a year expended in different parts of the South in the establishment of training schools, in which the most intelligent young colored men and women of the South may be fitted for teachers and leaders of their own people, will save to the taxpayers of the North the expenditure of several millions in the maintenance of military rule throughout that region.
>
> The whole truth is not yet told. It is not merely a question of national profit and loss—it is a question of national life and death. The nation must educate the negro or the negro will sink the nation. Such a condition of society as that which prevails throughout the southern half of this country will inevitably result in the destruction of our government unless it is radically improved, and that speedily.
>
> To give the negro a Christian education is to teach him self-respect and to lift him above the contempt of his white neighbor; it is to deliver him from the hands of demagogues; it is to show him which way his true interest lies, and to emancipate him from the thrall of those baser passions which are now his worst masters. Never until he receives such an education will he cease to be a disturbing and corrupting element in our political life.

The perplexing question, the problem to be solved, comes out again, along with the conditions upon which the government can stand, in the following paragraphs:

> If this government is to stand, the equilibrium of rights and powers between the general government and the local governments must be preserved. For this reason we have not been willing that the nation should assume those functions which properly belong to the State. But, while we doubt the legality of the civil rights bills and enforcement acts, as measures by which the nation shall coerce the State, the welfare of the negro is an object of which we have never lost sight. We are not indifferent to the wrongs that he is suffering to-day at the North or at the South. The hateful and brutal prejudice which shuts him out of hotels and places of amusement, and discourages his attendance in the sanctuaries where Northern white men worship God, we utterly abhor; and the savage treatment which—making all allowance for political exaggerations—he does often receive at the South rouses an indignation which it is hard to restrain. But the question is: How best can we aid the negro to protect himself against such insults and injuries? He ought to have all civil rights, he must have them, he shall have them; but he must obtain them from the power that has a right to confer them, and not from a power that has no right to confer them. In all the States where negroes do not possess equal civil rights with the whites there must be persistent agitation and organized effort to secure him these rights, and all the power that there is in public opinion must be brought to bear to accomplish this result. The injustice that discriminates against a negro on account of his color can be made so disgusting that everybody shall be ashamed of it, and the thing must be done.
>
> Meantime the black man himself must be fitted for the duties and the honors to which the providence of God is calling him. That is the first duty. Our churches at the North have done something in this direction; but they have not done a tithe of what they ought to do. The lawmakers are at their wit's end; but the way of the Christian philanthropist is very plain. Every new story of wrongs reported from the South, every fresh complaint of complications in Southern politics, is a new argument for instant and earnest effort to educate and evangelize the negro. That is the quickest, the cheapest, the most radical cure for the wrongs of the black man and the troubles of the nation.

The gravity of the situation is not certainly overstated when the writer avers: "It is not merely a question of national profit and loss—it is a question of national life and death." This sentence is statesman-like, and clear as the noonday sun: "If this government is to stand, the equilibrium of rights and powers between the general government and the local governments must be preserved." The way out of all this trouble is to educate the negro, and in the meantime, we suppose, the writer's meaning is to let the States manage their own local affairs. This is precisely what every intelligent Southern man thinks and believes. He may not indorse the expediency of mixed schools, he may, along with the great majority of his Northern fellow-citizens, object to very intimate social contact with the negro, and he may not have that very sanguine hope of the negro's speedy advancement in capacity and knowledge which the Independent cherishes; but he does believe in educating the negro, in according to him all his rights, and in giving him the fairest opportunity of working out his social and political salvation.

It may be true, as our Northern people understand the subject, "that the nation must educate the negro, or the negro will sink the nation." Let him be educated by all means, and as fast as possible; but, in the meanwhile, why let him sink the nation? The only way he is likely to sink the nation is to allow him to be the justification for interference with the rights of the States, and to sustain him by unconstitutional means in controlling local politics. Educated or not educated, he can sink the nation only in this way. In this way he has brought the nation to a crisis of life and death. In this way "the equilibrium" upon which our existence depends has been already nearly destroyed. Will the Northern people allow this cause of destruction to go on, and will they let the negro sink the nation? In the fancied salvation of the negro, are they prepared to destroy themselves? If such were the alternative, the nation is more than the negro. If one or the other must sink, we should by all means say: Save the nation. But no such dilemma exists. If our national liberties are sacrificed, the negro and the rest go down together. The solution of this whole question is simple enough. There is but one way out of it so as to meet the present crisis, and that is to allow the white people of the South to exert that influence and control over their local affairs to which their intelligence and position entitle them. In their hands the negro will be secure of his rights, and his welfare will be better assured than it is now, or ever can be, under the rule of usurping adventurers and Federal bayonets.

Intolerance and Courtesy.

Under the head of Intolerance of Opinion Zion's Herald has somewhat against the South. While reading this paragraph let our readers freshen up their minds a little by referring to the proceedings of the Boston preachers' meeting which we published three or four weeks ago. The Herald took no exceptions to those very fraternal utterances, but gave a brief and approving notice of them. The tolerance and courtesy of those deliverances were striking. "We are undertaking to coax the devil out of the miserable whelps down South, when nothing but strychnine and cannon ought to be used." "He said he believed the meanest rascals in the South are in the Methodist Episcopal Church South." From the words of Bro. Ives we pass to the allegations of the Herald:

> But here is the serious unfraternal and unchristian fact: while Southern politicians, ministers and laymen can express their sentiments, however obnoxious they are to the convictions of Northern men, with the utmost freedom, in the pulpit, in the railroad car, in the hotel, on the corners of the street, with great demonstrations of earnestness, and violent denunciations even of others holding different views, the most guarded utterances made by Northern men at the South, that can be distorted into opposition to prevailing sentiments, are met with impertinent sneers or social ostracisms; and every form of personal and business opposition is put into requisition to drive away any one daring thus to utter, in a perfectly gentlemanly way, an honest conviction. The eminent Southern ministers that visited the Northern camp meeting, last summer, were shown every possible attention, and allotted every honorable opportunity to address our largest audiences. They were frank in the expression of their own sentiments, courteous indeed, but still not guarding severely their speech in social intercourse. No one thought of criticising the freedom of those eloquent guests. Has one of them, however, in Southern prints attempted to secure a like return of courtesy for our eminent Northern ministers who may providentially visit the South, or suggested that the pastors of the Methodist Episcopal Church South should pay the respect to their Northern brethren due to their office, their character, and the fraternal attentions they have vouchsafed to visitors from the South? Our most cultivated men, high in office, renowned for talent, accomplished scholars, men marked for their gentle address, enter cities and large towns where several Southern ministers have churches, but not a man of them, although the fact is publicly known of their presence, offers a nod of recognition, or proffers the slightest Christian courtesy. What is the significance of this? And this is not true simply of individual ministers who have been outspoken in their views upon Southern sentiments, but of our most conservative, fraternal and peace-seeking men. There are no conspicuous instances recorded where this unfraternal policy has been even temporarily interrupted. There have been no Round Lake camp meetings in the Southern States.
>
> In New Orleans and in Boston the inhabitants have the right to choose their society. A Southern gentleman in Boston would not care to thrust himself into families or companies uninvited, and where there were no elements of congeniality. Admitting the charge to be generally true, that Northern visitors and settlers are not cordially received and welcomed to our homes, no apology is due for the exercise of this right to form such personal and social relations as are agreeable.
>
> But we doubt whether there is much of this unreasonable intolerance of which the Herald complains. There may be some, and, if the circumstances were changed, probably Massachusetts would exhibit more of it than Louisiana. It is very difficult for us to respect those who range themselves on the side of oppression, and who consort with those who are destroying our country. In our local affairs things have come to such a pass that a man's political and social relations coincide almost inevitably. To countenance and support the fraud, usurpation and flagrant wrongs to which we are subjected naturally enough affects our estimate of character. Nobody can help this so long as the laws of human thought and reason remain as they are. We cannot think well of those who approve of pillage and robbery, and who keep the company of unprincipled and venal adventurers. There is some intolerance of opinion in this way, we confess, but not greater nor more reprehensible than a good man of old expresses in his description of a citizen of Zion: "In whose eyes a vile person is contemned; but he honoreth them that fear the Lord." Our observation is that Northern people are treated generally according to their merits and the company they keep.
>
> In regard to ministerial courtesies, we have to consider what is due from one denomination to another. Here are two separate churches, each pursuing its own work, and having no more connection with each other than with any other of the Christian denominations. Supposing there were no old antagonisms, and no present difficulties between them, is there any discourtesy in letting each other alone? Northern Methodist ministers coming here are supposed to be about their own business, they have their own churches in abundance, and their own work to attend to. We should not charge the Northern Methodists with lack of courtesy if our preachers are not asked to preach in their pulpits. We make no claim on them, and they have none on us. To extend or receive such courtesies may be well enough under some circumstances, but to demand it as a matter of right and of religious comity is a different question.
>
> If we were to get up a Round Lake camp meeting in the South, could we be sure of that most striking feature of it—the presence of our chief magistrate, Secretary Belknap, and perhaps also General Sheridan? And Bro. Ives, would he come, and his brethren of like spirit, distilling about them the aroma of gracious speech and the sweet odors of Christian charity? Perhaps Major Merrill, with a squadron of cavalry, might be detailed as a guard of honor for the occasion!

That Preachers' Meeting.

Since writing the brief article on Intolerance and Fraternity Zion's Herald comes to hand with an editorial in reference to the notorious proceedings of the Boston preachers' meeting. The Herald disclaims being the organ of that body. It seems that Bro. Ives' infamous words were "purely playful," and again that the same moral standard will not do for all men. We suppose some men must have a version of the decalogue and of the gospel suited to themselves. That is perhaps our mistake. We ought not to blame them for being neither Christians nor gentlemen after the New Testament pattern. We quote a paragraph from the Herald:

> The last galvanic shock from this lively ministerial battery was given out, a few weeks since, during the visit of Bishop Bowman and Dr. B. I. Ives to our city. The account of that morning's session, and particularly the strange speech of Dr. Ives (if fairly reported, for we did not hear it,) as presented in the Boston Herald, has failed of quotation in very few Southern papers, secular or religious; and not a few Northern men, traveling at the South, have taken occasion to express their wonder and grief upon reading it. If the speaker was properly reported it can only be said of his address that it transgressed the boundaries of good taste, and verged so near, in its illustrations, to the line of irreverence for sacred things that no scrupulous religious conscience could fail to revolt from some of its utterances. This, however, was utterly unintended, of course, by the speaker. This portion of the speech was purely playful, but not less questionable. So far from expressing, in its unqualified and extravagant terms, the sentiments of the preachers' meeting, taken literally, probably it affirmed the convictions of no other man in the hall, and not even the real sentiments of the impulsive orator himself who proclaimed them. All men cannot be measured by the same moral standard. Men of volcanic emotions, like Father Taylor, like our excellent friend of the New York East Conference (Rev. W. P. Corbit,) and like the rousing doctor from central New York, when fairly fired up, can only give legitimate expression to their thoughts by peals of thunder and sentences bursting up like earthquakes. Their blazing periods, inflamed by uncontrollable langhter and the responses of a miscellaneous audience, ought never to be translated into sober English as an actual expression of their opinions.

THE Minutes of the twenty-ninth session of the Louisiana Conference are out, and will be forwarded to the preachers for use and distribution at once. They have been carefully prepared by the secretary, Rev. John Wilkinson, and have been published in very handsome style by R. J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE readiest and best way to find out what future duty will be is to do present duty.

Read This.

A correspondent of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate assigns some reasons for the non-payment of preachers' salaries. Read slowly and carefully what he says, and ask: "Is it I?"

1. Some of our members are not religious. Either they have never felt the blessed power of the gospel in their hearts turning them from darkness to light, or they have left their first love, and are again in a state of religious indifference. Hence they do not appreciate the gospel as they should, and are, as a consequence, indifferent in regard to the wants of its ministers.

2. Some of our members are not even honest. They have not learned to walk by the golden rule. They will, if they can, take the advantage in buying or selling. They will take up goods without a probability of paying for them. Is it any wonder, then, that they will withhold from the preacher what is his just due?—that they will take his labor and then refuse to pay him for it? Now a man cannot be religious without being honest; but he may be honest, in the common acceptation of the term, without being religious. There are honest men, who make no pretensions to religion, and do not belong to the church, who never refuse to contribute for the support of the preacher when called upon; while these dishonest members will often positively refuse to pay anything, and find a dozen faults with the preacher as an excuse for their meanness. Either he can't preach much, or he does not visit much, or he is not sociable, or he has an easier time of it than they have, etc.

3. Some of our stewards and leaders do not do their whole duty. They have little or no system in what they do. They do not properly instruct their members, particularly young converts, in regard to the duty of paying the minister. They begin the work of collecting too late in the quarter, in the year, and then spend too little time in collecting. They allow their members to look upon the work of giving to the preacher's support as a charity, instead of a duty, and look upon it too much in that light themselves. They often talk in the presence of their members in a way that is not calculated to impress them favorably. They have been heard to say: "Well, brethren, we are taxed pretty high this year, and I don't believe we can pay it; but let us do the best we can, and may be we can raise the most of it." Then a Sunday or two before the quarterly meeting they will announce that the quarterly meeting is at hand, and they would like to have a little quartersage to take there, as they would feel ashamed to have no report. A few of the better class of members respond to the call each quarter, but as a great many pay nothing at all, and others very little, at the end of the year there is a great deficiency, and the preacher leaves his work minus in his salary a hundred or two hundred dollars, more or less, when it is understood that they owe him nothing more for his services; and if he should ever ask for his back pay—for what they justly owe for services performed—he would be laughed at, and would be regarded as a great lover of money.

BISHOP DOGGETT, says the Richmond Christian Advocate of February 4, spent last Sabbath in Baltimore, and, no doubt, much to the edification of the people called Methodists.

Dr. Duncan dedicated a new church in that city a few Sabbaths ago. The Episcopal Methodist says:

> "The new movement opened quite auspiciously on Sunday last. President Duncan preached the opening sermon to a large and appreciative audience. The day was terrifically cold, but the attendance was very fine, and the occasion proved to be one of the deepest interest. Dr. Duncan had but lately recovered from a long and dangerous illness. He preached, however, with his accustomed vigor, and the sermon was truly eloquent and effective."

Wofford College.—The following cheering words are appended to a recent private note from Dr. A. M. Shipp:

> "Our college session has opened very favorably, with usual numbers, and the decidedly religious tone of the institution gives promise of a happy and successful term."

Dr. Sargent has been confined to the house from indisposition for nearly two months. We saw him a few days since and were glad to find him convalescing. He attended the Canada Conference at Toronto, and was highly gratified with his sojourn in that city.—Baltimore Episcopal Methodist.

REV. JOEL T. DAVES, superintendent of our missions in Mexico, reached New Orleans on Tuesday, the sixteenth instant, on the steamer City of Merida, direct from Vera Cruz. Bro. Daves, we understand, comes for his family, and will return after a brief sojourn in the States. He brings with him Senor Juan S. Valencia, a nephew of the late President Juarez. He is quite young, of pure Aztec blood, and comes to this country to be educated.

WE NOTICE, from a circular received, that the spring term of the Mansfield Female College began on the fifteenth of the present month, and that it closes on the thirtieth of June, 1875. We are glad to learn that the college is reported in a flourishing and prosperous condition. President Armstrong has made a most favorable impression upon the community of Mansfield and upon the Louisiana Conference. He is succeeding well under the circumstances, and should receive a large and generous patronage.

INSTEAD of waiting for a chance make one.

Books and Periodicals.

THE LIFE OF REV. THOMAS A. MORRIS, D. D., LATE SENIOR BISHOP OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. By Rev. John F. Marlay, A. M., with an introduction by Bishop E. S. Janes. Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden; New York: Nelson & Phillips, 1875.

Bishop Morris was about the last of the old pioneer Bishops of Methodism, and a man venerated and loved by the whole church. In the South he was respected for his generally conservative course and for his integrity of character. He was a man of well-rounded proportions intellectually, not strikingly great in any one direction, but possessing a finely-balanced nature, and altogether a man of mark. He was a good preacher, a clear and cogent writer, and a capital Bishop. The Life of Bishop Morris, just issued, is full of interest, and abounds in scenes and incidents in the history of the Methodist itinerant. The book embraces much information concerning early Methodism in the United States, and is written with fair ability. The volume is a large 12mo of more than 400 pages, cream-tinted paper, handsomely bound, and with an engraved likeness of the Bishop facing the title page.

HELPS TO PRAYER. A manual designed to aid Christian believers in acquiring the gift and in maintaining the practice and spirit of prayer in the closet, the family, the social gathering and the public congregation. New York: Nelson & Phillips.

A portly 12mo of 396 pages, about one-half of which is devoted to forms of prayer suited to all conditions and circumstances. Among the subjects treated are: Right Views of Prayer, Helps to Private Prayer, Helps to Family Prayer, Helps to Social Prayer, Helps to Public Worship. We are glad to notice the increased interest manifested of late in the duty of prayer. The attack of the skeptics and materialists on this most vital element of the religious life is working out good to the church. The present volume contains a plain, methodical and scriptural treatment of the subject, and should be widely circulated and read.

SPIRITUAL STRUGGLES OF A ROMAN CATHOLIC. An autobiographical sketch. By Louis N. Beaudry, with an introduction by Rev. B. Hawley, D. D. New York: Nelson & Phillips; Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden, 1875.

This work is better for its purpose than a learned and elaborate treatment in a theological way. It has the freshness of actual experience and the fascination of a story, while it embraces the most salient points of the controversy with papal error and superstition. Our Protestant readers will find it a book full of interest and instruction, and it will be found an excellent work to put into the hands of persons leaning to Roman Catholicism who are willing to read and be informed.

FRATERNAL-CAMP-MEETING SERMONS. Round Lake camp meeting, July, 1874. New York: Nelson & Phillips.

Here are thirty-three sermons, preached at the Round Lake camp meeting last summer. They are the sermons of some of the most eminent preachers of American Methodism, as they were preached and as they came from the hands of skillful reporters on the ground. As a volume of sermons it is one of rather extraordinary value, and contains samples of the most eloquent and able utterances of the Methodist pulpit of the present generation. The opening sermon is by Bishop Janes, on the adaptedness of Christianity to man's spiritual necessities. The closing sermon is by Bishop Doggett, on the absolute government of God.

THE STORY OF A WONDERFUL LIFE. By Daniel Wise, D. D. Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden; New York: Nelson & Phillips, 1874.

This work purports to be "pen pictures of the most interesting incidents in the life of the celebrated John Wesley." It is, in fact, a life of Wesley, adapted to the tastes and wants of young people. It is a beautifully printed volume, with illustrations, and exhibits much judgment and taste on the part of the author. An excellent Sunday school book.

SCENES IN EUROPE, OR OBSERVATIONS BY AN AMATEUR ARTIST. By Loretta J. Post. Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden; New York: Nelson & Phillips, 1874.

This is a volume of much more than average merit in the line of foreign travel. The illustrations add to the attractiveness of the work. The eye of an artist is manifest in the descriptions of noted scenes and works of art.

OUR NEW CRUSADE. A temperance story. By Edward E. Hale. Boston: Roberts Bros., 1875.

This is a little gem in the way of typography, and the story is charmingly told. The temperance folks will find it both suggestive and entertaining. It is for sale by Eyrich, Canal street, New Orleans.

THE Southern Review, January, 1875, has just appeared. The name of Mrs. S. Bledsoe Herrick appears in this number as associate editor. She is the daughter of Dr. Bledsoe, and a writer of remarkable grace and strength. We have not had the eyes nor the time to read the articles. The subjects are, however, such as will at once arrest general attention. Article 6, on The Southern Review and Infant Baptism, is a review of Mr. Miller's pamphlet, and an answer. In reference to this unfortunate controversy, we believe that both the disputants are honest men, and incapable of knowingly and willfully perverting, falsifying or mutilating the writings of others in order to gain support for their views. This number contains several admirable book notices. The articles are: 1. Reason and Revelation; 2. Japan and the Japanese; 3. The Suffering and Salvation of Infants; 4. History of Marriage; 5. The Atmosphere; 6. Infant Baptism; 7. Notices of Books.

OUR Sunday school papers for March are already received, and they are of excellent quality. The illustrative readings in the Magazine are more than usually entertaining and instructive.

BRAINARD'S MUSICAL WORLD for February has been received. It is, as usual, filled with fresh and excellent music.

Commodore Vanderbilt.

Under the head, "Honor to Whom Honor is Due," the Richmond Christian Advocate says:

In sauntering through the capitol, the other day, we loitered a little in the State Library, examining the curious documents collected there. Hanging up in a conspicuous place is a fac simile of the Jefferson Davis bail bond. We could see how Augustus Schell, of New York, was led, from political reasons, if not personal relations, to be a surety for the Southern President. Horace Greeley, a quixotic philanthropist, of course, would set his name to a paper proposing to release a national prisoner. The next signature was puzzling. It was Cornelius Vanderbilt. The commodore had never been in politics nor mounted a Rosinante to champion any humanitarian humbug. It was generally thought that he was more concerned about figures than feelings. People with large bank accounts are somehow the slowest folks in the world to sign their names where there are phrases about being "severally and jointly bound in the sum," and so forth. Among the shrewd bankers of Wall street there must have been much surprise at the autograph of Vanderbilt on that document. It turns out that this veteran leader in the collisions and strategy of stocks, shares and bonds had a silent but strong regard for the South.

The princely donation to the South, through the Vanderbilt University at Nashville, came without parade or appeal. He selected the Methodists as the church, in all probability because his practical eye saw they "meant business" in their work of evangelization, and that they were not simpering, sleepy nor satin successors of the stout, rugged apostles. They had large deposits in heaven and good investments on the earth.

We have it on the highest authority that Commodore Vanderbilt had collected his information, digested and drew up a plan, without hinting his purpose to a single Southern Methodist. On a visit of Bishop McTyeire to New York to consult a physician on some small but vexing malady, he called by invitation on Commodore Vanderbilt. He took the Bishop by surprise in unfolding to him a carefully prepared scheme of his munificent gift. There was no fawning nor ostentatious charity. The parties were too large for that. The one without solicitation bestowed a noble favor upon a stricken section of his country. The other received the trust with dignity.

When Mr. Davis needed the influence of a Northern name and the signature of a man of wealth, Vanderbilt gave both to the Southern prisoner, and without hesitation. When we were too poor to raise the walls of a college, Vanderbilt endowed a great school for our children. When the crowd of Southerners in New York held their service in a hired house, Vanderbilt bought them a church. And this man, with his millions, goes afoot, like the poorest Confederate, to this house of God and worships with this congregation of our brethren in that strange city.

DEER-HORNS.—A unique contribution has been sent to the museum of Vanderbilt University from Texas. It was received by express, one day last week, charges prepaid. A pair of buck-horns, large, strong and many-pronged, and interlocked firmly and inextricably. Evidently two fighters met in deadly strife; they literally locked horns, and, not being able to disengage themselves, both perished. The horns were picked up last October, four miles north of Comanche village, Texas.—Western Methodist.

A MOVEMENT has been inaugurated in Petersburg, says the Richmond Christian Advocate, to erect a monument to the late D'Arcy Paul at Randolph Macon College. We hope to report more at length next week. This movement must be a success. A monumental hall at the college in honor of this life-long friend of the institution cannot fail before the Methodists of the Virginia Conference.

THE most notable event that has occurred for a long time in Knoxville, says the Holston Methodist, is the withdrawal of Dr. Howard Smith from the Episcopal Church, to connect himself with the Cumming movement. The Cumming movement is a revolt from ritualism and bigotry, and an effort to return to apostolic usages and a catholic spirit. Dr. Howard Smith has only followed the convictions of an honest Christian heart.

WE ARE indebted to Rev. F. Pasco, secretary of the Florida Conference, for a copy of the Minutes of the late session of the Florida Conference. The work is well done by editor and publisher.

MARRIED.

JONES—LYNE.—At the Carondelet Street Methodist church, New Orleans, February 13, 1875, by Rev. Linus Parker, Mr. Spicer Jones and Miss Anna M. Lyne.

GUMPF—CHURCH.—In Biloxi, Mississippi, February 1, 1875, at the residence of the bride's grandmother, by the Rev. William M. Jordan, Mr. Hugo Gumpf to Miss Clara L. Church, both of New Orleans, Louisiana.

SHOLARS.—STANDIFER.—February 4, 1875, at the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Trenton, by Rev. H. O. White, Mr. D. M. Sholars to Miss C. D. Standifer, daughter of Colonel T. C. Standifer, all of Trenton, Louisiana.

HUNTER—TURNER.—On the sixth of February, 1875, by Rev. J. A. Ivy, at the Cadiz Street church, New Orleans, Mr. Napoleon B. Hunter to Miss Eliza V. Turner, both of Waterproof, Louisiana.

LEWARN—WHITETY.—On the eleventh of February, 1875, at the residence of the bride's mother, in New Orleans, by Rev. J. A. Ivy, Mr. William J. Lewarn, of Plymouth, England, to Miss Nelle B. Whitety, of this city.

Publisher's Department.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Feb. 13, 1875.

A—American Tract Society, American Sunday School Union, Thomas Armstrong, N W Ayer & Son, Edwin Alden two letters, Miss Ora Askew $2, J O Andrew.

B—C F Boon, J W Burke & Co, Evan Benhow $4, Andrew B Booth $2, O S Burwell, J V Blackman $6, W J Brown 30 cents, James A Bethune, J Lane Borden, Bay State Paper Company two letters, Paul Bashiler, W H Bryant, W H Benton, H P Bowen, M A Black, J M Brown, Henry Bainbridge, Bowdry & Co, George W Brown, T T Beall $2.50.

C—W J Carnes $2.50, R D Carver $10, Jay B Copeland $1, S J Crisler, Cassell & Baughn, C W Carter, George G Childs $2.50, Heverly Carradine.

D—Dixon Donley two letters, A F Dye, William Dosson, Charles H Ditson & Co, F H Duquercron $22 98, E P Dutton & Co, W H Dolson, Donaldson & Co.

E—A B Elliott, John A Ellis two letters.

F—E N Freshman two letters $51 66, H Walter Featherstun, E H Fonville, J S Frazer, Jesse Fulton.

G—Gwinner & Bro three letters $17.60, Mrs Mary Grivens, D D Gayle $2.50, E T Gnodwin $4.41.

H—Mrs A M Harrison $8.65, P Howard, William Hart $8, J D Harper, H J Hennington $5, Miss Elich Hunnerson $1, J M Harper, J J Honeycutt, Edward Harney, W E Holloman $12.

J—John A B Jones two letters $20, W M Jerdan $1, Robert R Johnson, R J Jones.

K—T D Kellogg, William C Kingsbury.

L—Lee, Shepard & Dilllingham, D C Langford, J B Lippincott & Co, J L Lemmons.

M—John S Moure $1.15, Angus McMillan $11, J R Middleton $5, J H Mitchell, John F Miller, J W McCann $4.50, Montgomery & Co, Irvin Miller, H W McVay, J E Mason, J W Martin, Morgan Envelope Company, T Moody, P H Moss $8 40, Jeffre Moore, Mason & Hamlin Organ Company.

N—R D Norsworthy, J Nicholsen, Christian Nelson.

O—James Ormond.

P—C R Pilley two letters, Pierce & Terry two letters, R F Perdue $8.60, U R Phillips $4.50, J L Potter $3, John H Porter $1.25, J Peake, Porter & Bainbridge, Petter, Ainsworth & Co, E F Powell 25 cents.

R—A H Redford agent two letters, A D F Randolph, James S Reucher, T J Rewan $4, A Riser $20, George P Rowell & Co, J K Randall two letters, Phil H Ralford, H M Ragan $5, George Routledge & Sons.

S—William Shapard $2.50, T H Scanlno, J P Saint $7, E S Sims, C S Stewart, H R Singleton two letters, Steel & Avery, W A Searcey, St Louis Advertising and Publishing Company 85 cents, H M Sears, John R Smith, Still & Lacey $4.75, Smith, Dixon & Co, S S Stafford, Thomas F Schaffer, J B K Smith, Grech T Seals.

T—Mabie Todd & Co, J M Trasper $9, W C Tait $50, W T Thornberry.

U—Thomas J Upton.

W—Willy Wallach, George D Wade $6.50, John Wilkinson two letters, J W White, E Wiggens $5, W W Williams $2, Mrs M E Wood, W H Watkins, J M Weems, T R White, Miss Woolfolk, Mrs J E Westcott $2, John F Wynn.

PAY POSTAGE.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the ADVOCATE.

RISKS ON REMITTANCES.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the ADVOCATE in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

MANUFACTURERS OF CANDY AND SYRUPS.—One of the most extensive firms in the country engaged in the above line of business is that of Messrs. Miller & Dielmann, now occupying Nos. 50, 52 and 54 South Peters street, whose card appears in another column. They manufacture lemon sugar and fruit syrups as well as candies. Confectioners, country merchants and families will do well to make themselves acquainted with their stock and terms before purchasing. They are also importers of cigars. See their card and call at their house.

WOOD AND COAL.—No dealer has ever furnished us with better wood than Sam. Smith, at No. 351 Dryades street, between Clio and Erato; and having tried him for several years, more or less, we conclude that it is his habit to furnish good wood and good measure. He guarantees satisfaction, and to us he has always given it. He also keeps Pittsburg and anthracite coal and charcoal. See his advertisement and try him.

FOR NEW YORK.—The Merchants' line of steamships offer superior accommodations to passengers going to New York. No one needs better fare than is furnished on the vessels of this line. Those who are accustomed to occupy sleeping cars and take the regular meals at eating stations will save from $26 to $30 on each passage by taking the steamers, which usually make the trip in about eight days.

FURNITURE AT LESS THAN MANUFACTURERS' PRICES.—Messrs. D. Kellham & Co. are offering their stock of superb furniture at lower rates than those at which they are held by the manufacturers themselves. No person could fail, on entering their establishment, to be attracted by the variety, beauty and richness of the styles exhibited in their spacious warerooms. See advertisement.

SAFES.—Those who wish to avail themselves of the protection of thorough fire-proof safes for their valuables are referred to the advertisement of the Southern depot for Diebold, Norris & Co.'s safes, 27 Canal street, New Orleans. The proprietor, John W. Norris, Esq., has second hand safes of all manufacturers for sale at reduced prices.

TOBACCO AND CIGAR MANUFACTORY, 135 DECATUR ST., NEW ORLEANS.—Mr. John P. Gaspard offers every article in the line of his business at the lowest manufacturers' prices. He will fill orders by mail or by express. He invites trial orders. Everything about him indicates a live and earnest business.

CIGAR MANUFACTORY.—We call attention to the advertisement of Mr. J. M. Justiniani, manufacturer of domestic cigars. He also fills with the best brands of Havana tobacco, warranted pure, and has on hand a large assortment of cigars, to suit purchasers, for consumption or trade.

AGENTS WANTED.—The Weed Sewing Machine Company, 207 Canal street, want agents to represent their machines in every town in the country. Their machine has a well-established reputation. They offer liberal inducements. See their card elsewhere.

THE attention of parties wanting cane seed is called to the advertisement of the Blymyer Manufacturing Company in another column.

DR. WARRINGTON'S medical preparations are advertised in another column.

READ advertisement of Levy Bros., dealers in dry goods.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. BACHMAN, FINE BOOTS AND SHOES, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel, The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SHOES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
no19 6mtc New Orleans, La.

TO THE CONSUMPTIVE.—Let those who languish under the fatal severity of our climate through any pulmonary complaint, or even those who are in decided consumption, by no means despair. There is a safe and sure remedy at hand, and one easily tried. It Wilbor's Compound of Cod Liver Oil and Lime, without possessing the very nauseating flavor of the oil as heretofore used, is endowed by the phosphate of lime with a healing property which renders the oil doubly efficacious. Remarkable testimonials of its efficacy can be exhibited to those who desire to see them. For sale by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston. fe18 1t

I HAVE for years been opposed to Calomel, and since 1839 have used Simmons' Liver Regulator as a vegetable remedy, and can confidently assert that it has exceeded my expectations, curing cases of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint that were thought almost hopeless.

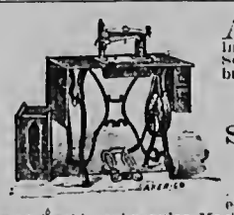
GRENVILLE WOOD,
fe18 1t Wood's Factory, Macon, Ga.

DR. TUTT'S EXPECTORANT.—All who have used this invaluable medicine for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Croup, Inflammation of the Lungs or Chest, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, Bronchitis and all diseases of the Lungs, attest its usefulness. For Lung affections it has no equal. fe18 3t

PIERSON & HEWS, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 1y

HEADACHE AND NERVOUSNESS.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practicing physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by L. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de10 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.



AGENTS WANTED in every town in the South for the celebrated

WEED SEWING MACHINE.

The easiest learned, lightest running, most durable and popular Machine made. Paying inducements offered. Address

WEED SEWING MACHINE CO.,
fe18 6m No. 207 Canal street, New Orleans.

FOR NEW YORK.

MERCHANTS' STEAMSHIP LINE.

Sailing from New York and New Orleans EVERY SATURDAY.

Cabin Passage.....$50 00
Steerage Passage..... 25 00

Through tickets to Liverpool and the Continent.

New Orleans wharf—Foot of Jefferson street.

New York wharf—Pier No. 4, North River.

JOHN H. LUDWIOSEN, Agent,
fe18 1y No. 190 Common street.

JEAN INGELOW

writes every week for HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 per year. Single copies, six cents. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

SOUTHERN METHODIST

HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK.

A collection of our own Hymns, with Notes, adapted to general worship. We have TWO EDITIONS—one in Round Notes and another in Seven-Shape Notes.

PRICE—Single copy to any address, postpaid, 75 cents. Per dozen, $7.50. Fifty or more, to one address, at 50 cents each. Specimen numbers sent on application for 50 cents. For sale by R. J. HARP, New Orleans, or address

J. W. BURKE & CO.,
fe18 4t Macon, Ga.

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,

311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.

DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,

PURE HAVANA,

made of the best Vuelta Abalo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.

J. M. JUSTINIANI,
fe18 11m Proprietor.

FATED TO BE FREE.

Jean Ingelow's uniquely beautiful and absorbing serial story is written especially for and now appearing in HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 a year. Single number, six cents. New subscribers now get the entire story. A magnificent Steel Reproduction of some famous picture every week, free, as a supplement. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

SOUTHERN DEPOT

DIEBOLD, NORRIS & CO.'S SAFES,

27 CANAL ST., NEW ORLEANS.

A large assortment of these celebrated Safes on hand at the most reasonable figures. Second-hand Safes of all manufacturers for sale at very low prices. Safes exchanged, removed and repaired at greatly reduced rates.

JOHN W. NORRIS,
fe18 2m 27 Canal street, New Orleans.

WE ARE NOW SELLING

OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

ROSEWOOD, MAHOGANY, WALNUT AND COTTAGE FURNITURE

at less than Manufacturers' prices, on account of retiring from business.

D. KELHAM & CO.,
fe18 2m 35 Royal street.

THRILLING STORIES,

brilliant miscellaneous features, and pictorial embellishments unequaled every week in HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 a year. Single copies, six cents. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 2t

S-E-E-D-S

Choicest Flowers—Best Vegetables.

Elegant Books on Gardening GIVEN AWAY to our customers. New 100 page Illustrated Catalogue now ready. Free to all. WOOD & BELLOWS, (late Wood & Hall,) Geneva, N. Y.

fe18 3t

CHILLS AND FEVER CURED. Worst cases, by using HARTWELL'S SPECIFIC. Contains no quinine. A trial box sent free to all. Address HARTWELL & CO., 1272 Broadway, N. Y. fe18 13t

$72 EACH WEEK.

AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

MILLER & DIELMANN,

50, 52 AND 54 SOUTH PETERS ST.,

(Late New Levee,)

CANDY MANUFACTURERS,

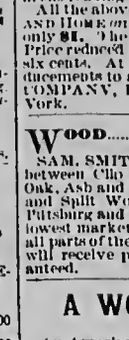
AND MANUFACTURERS OF

LEMON SUGAR AND FRUIT SIRUPS.

IMPORTERS OF CIGARS.

fe18 3m

PURE CANE SEED.



VARIETIES—LIBERIAN, REGULAR SORGO and COMSEKEANA. PRICES—By mail, postage paid, 50 cents per lb.; by express, 25 lbs. or less, 30 cents per lb.; over 25 lbs., 20 cents per lb., package included. The Necaxana is dropped from our list. We recommend the Liberian for general cultivation. Two to three lbs. required per acre. Money with order.

The Sorgo Hand-Book, containing valuable information on the culture of Cane and making Sirup, and description of the celebrated Cook Evaporator and Victor Cane Mills, sent free.

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO.,
fe18 2teow Cincinnati, Ohio.

A WONDER

of art, a marvel of economy, and unequaled in thrilling stories and brilliant miscellaneous features is HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. A magnificent Steel Reproduction of some famous picture every week, free, as a supplement. Price reduced to only $2.50 per year. Single number, six cents. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

CIGAR AND TOBACCO MANUFACTORY,

135.....DECATUR STREET.....135

Between St. Louis and Toulouse.

Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.

fe18 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

GREAT OFFER

NUMBER ONE.

Twenty Steel Reproductions, fac similes of famous pictures, original engravings worth $30.

"Fated to be Free," Jean Ingelow's great story, price, in book form, $1.75.

"A Woman in Armor," a thrilling story of American home life, price, in book form, $1.25.

Twenty short stories, a rich variety of miscellaneous reading and over 150 pages of rare pictures.

All the above included in the offer of HEARTH AND HOME on trial till July 1. Sent, postpaid, for only $1. The great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to $2.50 per year. Single number, six cents. At news stands or by mail. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 12t6w

WOOD.....COAL.....WOOD.

SAM. SMITH, NO. 351 DRYADES STREET, between Clio and Erato streets. Best quality of Oak, Ash and Pine Wood at reduced prices. Sawed and Split Wood at one-fourth the usual charge. Pittsburg and Anthracite Coal and Charcoal at the lowest market rates, delivered free of drayage to all parts of the city. Orders left at 282 Calliope street will receive prompt attention. Satisfaction guaranteed. (fe18 3m) SAM. SMITH.

A WOMAN IN ARMOR.

An American story of thrilling interest just begun in HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to $2.50 per year. Single number, six cents. At news stands, or by mail. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

ALL BOOK AGENTS SHOULD KNOW THAT

LIVINGSTONE'S LIFE AND EXPLORATIONS

outsells any book published. The only entire life and full thirty years' thrilling adventures in the wilds of Africa of the greatest explorer the world ever knew. Profusely illustrated. One agent sold 501 copies in one month! Agents Wanted. Send for extra liberal terms; or, if in haste to begin work, send $1 for complete outfit to LIVINGSTONE PUBLISHERS, St. Louis, Mo. no12 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!

FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:

YOUMAN'S DICTIONABY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.

Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (bona fide number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo no12 1y

HOME MUSICAL LIBRARY.

Collections of Instrumental Music.

Musical Treasure. (Also vocal.) 225 pages.
Piano at Home. 4-hand pieces. New! Useful!
Gems of Strauss. Most brilliant collection extant.
Pianist's Album. Popular and easy music.
Piano-Forte Gems. Popular, brilliant, easy pieces.
Home Circle. Vol. I. Easy music.
Home Circle. Vol. II. Popular 2 and 4-hand pieces.
Organ at Home. 200 good pieces for Reed Organ.

Collections of Vocal Music.

Operatic Pearls. The chief songs of 50 operas.
Gems of German Song. Songs that will never die.
Gems of Scottish Song. Sweetest of all ballads.
Shower of Pearls. Nearly all the good vocal duets.
Gems of Sacred Song. Pure, devout and beautiful.
Silver Chord. Wreath of Gems. Large collections of the best popular songs.

☞ Price of each book in Boards, $2.50; Cloth, $3; Gilt, $4.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
fe18 1y Boston.

FOR SWEETNESS & STRENGTH OF TONE,
FOR BEAUTY OF EXTERIOR,
FOR RELIABLE WORKMANSHIP THROUGHOUT,
THE

ESTEY ORGANS!

STAND TO-DAY UNRIVALED.

MANUFACTURED BY

J. ESTEY & CO.,

BRATTLEBORO, VT.

Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue SENT FREE on application. fe4 Reow

DR. HENRY SMITH,

130.....CANAL STREET.....130

Over Eyrich's Book Store.

Consultation hours—10½ to 2 o'clock.

Residence—565 St. Charles street, near Philip. Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 4 and 7 P. M. ja14 1y5p

T. R. HONOR,

MANUFACTURER AND REPAIRER OF

Hair, Feather and Moss Mattresses,

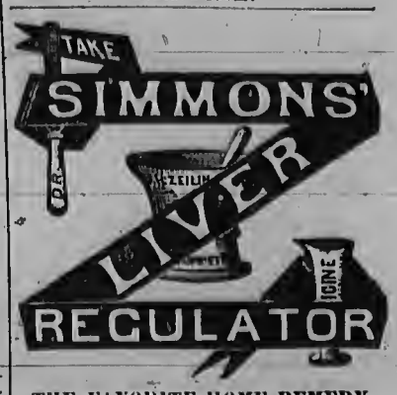
NO. 230 MAGAZINE STREET,

Bet. St. Joseph and Delord, New Orleans.

Steamships, Steamboats, Hotels and Boarding-Houses supplied at short notice and at the lowest rates. Country orders solicited and promptly attended to. fe11 1m

WE WANT an Agent to every County in the U. S., at $60 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. BLEPARD & CO., 811 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ja11 3m

MEDICAL.



THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this ANTIDOTE, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Restlessness, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. no19 1y5p tc

DR. TUTT'S VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

A MILD APERIENT AND GENTLE PURGATIVE.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well", a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

COUGHS.....COLDS.....ASTHMA.

Remember that for all Affections of the

THROAT AND LUNGS

Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm

IS THE SOLE REMEDY.

Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,

B. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields st., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 20 Water street. fe4 1m5p

MISCELLANEOUS.

PUT YOUR HOUSES IN ORDER.

M. A. WHEELAHAN,

119.....Common St.....119

IMPORTER AND DEALER,

Has just received an Elegant Stock of

Window Shades and Wall Papers

Of the latest designs and patterns.

Also a full assortment of PAINTS, OILS, Glass, Varnishes, Brushes and Artists' Materials.

Purchasers will find our stock reliable in quality and prices lower than ever. fe4 1m

COLDS! COUGHS!

USE OUR

COMPOUND PULMONIC PASTE.

A most palatable and soothing remedy.

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m 139 Canal street.

COD LIVER OIL AND

PHOSPHATE LIME.

This prescription we always have on hand fresh, and we guarantee it superior to the article that formerly was imported into this market, but which has been supplanted by ours during the two last seasons. Be sure to ask for the

FRESHLY PREPARED

Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate Lime.

SOLD AT

139.....CANAL STREET.....139

FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m Druggists.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

We have this day appointed Mr. LOUIS GRUNEWALD, at Grunewald Hall, 18, 20 and 22 Bienville street, New Orleans, Louisiana, our EXCLUSIVE AGENT for the sale of our

PLEYEL PIANOS

for the Southern States of the United States of America. PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO., Piano Manufacturers, PARIS, FRANCE, Dec. 30, 1874. fe11 1m

WANTED.

A situation as Companion, Housekeeper or Teacher, by a lady who has had several years' experience as teacher of small children. References furnished. Address

MISS W., care Dr. P. Chew,
Ja28 1m St. Joseph, La.

The Child's Corner.

AFTER CHRISTMAS.

BY MRS. S. M. WALSH.

I have lately heard a secret,
Heard it, too, from truthful lips:
Santa Claus, the sly old fellow,
Makes his "after-Christmas" trips.

I've been told he has discovered
Many things that cause him pain—
Discontent and hateful envy,
Thoughtful love bestowed in vain.

He has seen his choicest presents
Torn and broken and defaced;
Santa Claus, though rich and lavish,
Frowns on willful, wicked waste.

All unseen he watched some children
In their pleasant home at play
With the very toys he gave them
On the merry Christmas day.

Johnny's rocking-horse was splendid!
Gaily decked in red and gold;
Katy's doll, as fair a creature
As a child could wish to hold.

Johnny's horse was kicked and haltered
Just because it can do't neigh!
Though his papa might have bought him
Two live horses and a sleigh!

Katy wished her doll was larger;
Wished its eyes were black, not blue;
Finally grew vexed and threw it—
Broke its lovely head in two!

Santa Claus looked grave and troubled,
Shook his head and went away;
"I'll remember this," he muttered,
"On another Christmas day!"

Then he peered in dismal places
Where he was not wont to go;
Where the hungry, shivering children
Never any Christmas know.

And his heart was sad and sorry
That he could not help them all;
And he thought in grief and anger
Of the broken horse and doll.

As he took his onward journey
He was seen to drop a tear,
And I'm certain that he whispered:
"I'll remember this next year!"

But he has so much to think of,
And so many things to get,
I can't the Johnnies and the Katies
Think of it, if he forget?

Christian Union.

Boys, Learn to Do Things.

BY REV. ASA BULLARD.

Henry Bell was brought up on a farm. His father was a physician, but he had a large farm on which he worked more or less, when professional duties would allow, and he taught all of his seven boys to work; and not one of them, even those in professional life, has ever regretted this early training.

Henry, from his boyhood, had a great desire to do everything he saw any one else do. He liked to spend his play hours with the tools in his father's shop, making bows and arrows, sleds, boxes, etc., which he learned to make very neatly.

In those days each family had their boots and shoes made at home. A shoemaker, or a cobbler, as he was then called, came with his bench and tools on his shoulder, and spent days, and even weeks, making all the boots and shoes of the whole family for a year. Those occasions were full of interest to Henry. He begged the privilege of going into the chamber with the shoemaker and learning his trade. He very soon learned to peg and sew, and make himself quite useful in the work. To be sure there were times in after years, during his college vacations, when his knowledge and skill in mending old boots and shoes were of more use to the family than of recreation to him. Still he has never regretted that he came so near being a shoemaker.

Henry had a great taste for the garden. Raising all kinds of vegetables, flowers, shrubbery, etc., was his delight. While his brothers and the hired men were resting at noontime in the summer, he would seek his rest among his thriving beds of beets and carrots, watching the growth of his melons and cucumbers, and enjoying the varied beauties and sweet fragrance of his roses and pinks, etc. And this interest in horticulture has grown ever since, as every one can see who visits his vine-clad home, in the midst of choice shrubbery and ever-blooming flowers.

This knowing how to do things, which Henry so early learned, has been an unfailing source of pleasure as well as a practical benefit to him all his life. For the forty years he has had a home of his own, there has been scarcely a week, or even a day, when his knowing how to do things has not been of service to him. There is hardly any little repair or improvement needed about the house but he can make it. And while it is usually a pleasant recreation to lay aside his studies for a short time, it is also an important matter of economy.

He is told that a pane of glass or the cord of a window has been broken; there is a hole in the bottom of a tin-dish, or the handle has unsoldered; the pump, the clock, or the lock on a door or trunk is out of order; or a few things need painting; all these things he can usually repair and put in order, and do it in less time than it would take to get the glazier, tinker, pump-maker or painter to come and do it; and at the same time he saves his dollars or his fifty cents for every little job. A new shelf or book-case is wanted, or a trellis for his clematis, honeysuckle or grape-vines; he has a work-bench and tools in the barn-chamber, and some hour, when he needs relaxation and exercise, the work is done. His house needs shingling, or a new room is needed; and if he can spare a little time from his study he can turn his skill to account in aiding the carpenter; and thus hundreds and hundreds of dollars have been saved to him by having learned to be his own mechanic.

Now, boys, is it not worth your while to be learning to do things? All may not have an equal tact or natural genius for turning their hand to almost everything. But every one ought to know enough—no matter what his employment in life is to be—not to harness a horse—if called to harness one in an emergency—with his head toward the carriage, or to put on a saddle wrong end foremost, or to think he has done a smart thing by making a round button for a door, or putting in a screw at each end of one that is properly made, as some men with an honorary title at one or both ends of their names have done.

We commend this subject of learning to do things to the attention of all boys; and we presume the girls too may find it greatly to their advantage to be learning to do things in their sphere in life.—Congregationalist.

Johnny and Jack.

Johnny had a piece of bread; Jack had none.

Johnny was not hungry; Jack was desperately.

Johnny had lain all night asleep in his crib; Jack had wandered through the silent streets seeking bones, and finding none.

Johnny was thinking—a pleasant, indistinct lullaby of thoughts—about the warm sunshine and the twittering of the birds, and "mother coming back soon." She had said so when she left him.

Jack was thinking: "It's the nicest piece of bread I ever did see." He crept in through the open door, and sat down very close to the little hand and lips so busy with the bread, watching with a watery look in his steadfast eyes.

It was a dumb drama. Neither of the actors could speak. Johnny was a young baby; Jack was an old dog.

On the one side was the dreamy, self-absorbed content of fulness; on the other the bitter impatience of want.

"He might give me a bit," thought Jack.

"Pretty sunshine," thought Johnny.

"It's a shame," thought Jack, trying to stifle his faithful dog-honesty; "I could bite that boy and the bread too."

"Mother coming back," thought Johnny.

"I think I must," thought Jack.

What held him back? Who shall say? Perhaps the other dogs would have counted him a mean thief to steal from a little child. Perhaps long ago he might have had a home and a master who taught him not to steal at all. Perhaps, dog as he was, he had a conscience, and would not do the thing just because it was a wrong thing. Brave Jack! But his will was failing; the bread was so nice and he was so hungry. He was getting angry too with the mover of his struggle. "Serve that boy right to punish him a bit," he mused. A dangerous thought. Aye, Johnny, you may well begin to wish: "Mother, come back."

But as Johnny's little soul awoke to longing, it awoke also to a perception of the cravings near him. He turned to look at Jack. "Poor dog," he tried to say, and then—good Johnny! wise Johnny!—he broke off a piece of the bread and gave it to him.

Jack smacked his lips in enjoyment.

"Ha! ha!" laughed Johnny. This was good entertainment. He broke off another piece. Jack ate it, and then, in his dog's fashion, kissed the little hand of the giver.

"Nice dog!" thought Johnny. His bread grew interesting now that there was some one to share it.

"This boy is a fine fellow; how could I think of biting him?" thought Jack.

Johnny was saved and Jack was saved. "Blessed are the merciful." Good Things.

THE PILGRIM AND THE KNIGHT. In a noble castle there once resided a very rich knight. He expended much money in adorning and beautifying his dwelling, but he gave very little to the poor. A weary pilgrim came to the castle and asked for a night's lodging. The knight haughtily refused him, and said:

"This castle is not an inn."

The pilgrim replied: "Permit me to ask two questions, and I will depart."

"Upon this condition, speak," replied the knight; "I will readily answer you."

The pilgrim then said to him: "Who dwelt in this castle before you?"

"My father," replied the knight.

"And who will dwell here after you?" still asked the pilgrim.

The knight said: "With God's will, my son."

"Well," said the pilgrim, "if each dwells but a short time in the castle, and in time must depart and make way for another, what are you here otherwise than guests? The castle, then, is truly an inn. Why, then, spend so much money adorning a dwelling which you will occupy but a short time? Be charitable, for he that hath pity upon the poor lendeth to the Lord, and that which he hath given he will pay him again."

The knight took these words to heart. He gave the pilgrim shelter for the night, and was ever afterward more charitable to the poor.

THE UGLY LITTLE DUCK THAT THE CHICKENS DROVE AWAY.—You have read about it, perhaps? But did you ever know that that "ugly little duck" was dear old Hans Andersen himself?

Well, it was. I have just heard all about it.

He was born in a poor little hut, on the wind-swept Island of Odense, one of the possessions of Denmark. He was a neglected child; his father made shoes, and could not attend to him; his mother left him to follow his own will, and the little children laughed at him, and said that he was a "fool, just like his grandfather."

Hans' only comfort was to build castles in the air. He fancied he was a prince, who had been changed at his birth, and that the angels came and talked with him in the garden. He was almost but not quite right, and yet most people in his neighborhood agreed with the children that he was a "fool, just like his grandfather."

One day he said:

"Mother, I am going to Copenhagen, and shall become famous."

"But, Hans, what will you do?"

"Suffer adversity till I become famous." And the "ugly little duck" waddled away to the bleak, open sea, and when he came back he was the famous Hans Christian Andersen! He was indeed born a prince, and good angels talked with him.

You must read the "ugly duck" again.—St. Nicholas.

CHRIST, and everything in him and with him, is an incomprehensible mystery; fall but to explore it, and thou art but a fool; but believe what is revealed to thee of it, and it is enough for thy salvation.—Starke.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Imphee Cane.

I have made some experiments, the past season, with this variety of sorghum, which have not only delighted, but astonished [illegible] had heard much from my neighbors of its great yield of seed and fodder, independent of its syrup, and on the recommendation of a brother Patron, on whose judgment I could rely, I was induced to try it, and I will give my brother Patrons the results of my experiments. My land is thin piny woods, apparently nothing but sand. I had one acre that my cattle were wintered upon. About the middle of April I broke this up with an Excelsior turn-plow, and followed with a subsoil plow; I then went over with a rotary harrow, pulverizing and leveling the ground; then opened shallow furrows three feet apart, and in these furrows dropped from five to eight seed in a place, one foot apart in the hill; then I covered with a board fastened on to a plow stock. The seed vegetated and the stalks grew more rapidly than any crop I had ever grown before. When the plants were four feet high it was the most luxuriant crop I ever saw. The blades were as broad as corn blades, and had it been cut in that stage I am satisfied would have paid better than any corn or grass crop for fodder; but as I was anxious to test its merits as a syrup-producing cane I let it grow. I run a horse-hoe between the rows as often as the soil became baked or grassy, until the vast amount of stalk and blade rendered it impossible to cultivate between the rows. The stalks now grew rapidly, and by the first of September had attained a height of twelve to fifteen feet, with a circumference of from four to five inches. Now the cane began to mature and develop its saccharine qualities; about the middle of September the seed-heads began to turn red, and the bottom blades to wither. I now entered the field to strip the fodder, one hand going ahead stripping off all the blades, leaving them on the ground, another following, and with a heavy, sharp knife cutting off the seed-heads. There all lay on the ground for three days, when I picked out the best heads for seed, and spread them in an airy place to dry and cure. The balance of the seed and fodder I gathered together and packed away for winter feeding. Mules and cattle are fond of it, and there is seed enough with it to make it equivalent to corn and fodder, and the yield of the acre gave me more food for my stock than the same acre could have done had it been planted in corn. After stripping and housing the blades and seed I cut the canes, and put them through the mill in about eight days from cutting. The canes were so long that I could not manage them without cutting in two. I found on experiment that the top was richer in saccharine matter and yielded more syrup than the bottom. Nine gallons of the cane juice made one gallon of syrup, and from the acre planted I made one hundred gallons of syrup. The syrup I do not think equal to that made from the West India cane, but is altogether superior to the common sorghum. It has the flavor of the West India molasses, and my wife finds it superior to the best New Orleans syrup for making cake and puddings.

Now here are some of the advantages of cultivating this cane over the Ribbon or Green cane: First, it will make at least fifty gallons of syrup, with seed and fodder enough to pay for culture, to the acre, on land that will not produce the West India cane. Second, it will thrive in sections of the country where the West India cane will not mature. Third, it costs but a trifle to seed the crop. And fourthly, it requires no outlay of labor or money to winter the seed for another year. I look upon it as invaluable to the upland farmer.

But does it not exhaust the soil? Of course it does; and what great-yielding crop does not, especially one where the stalks, leaves and seed are taken from the land? But if a judicious rotation is practiced, with the fertilizer within the reach of every farmer applied, it will be found no more exhaustive than cotton, or as much as tobacco. There may be a better method of culture than that which I adopted. Mine was a first experiment, but it was so gratifying and successful that I feel it my duty to give it to my brother Patrons.—Charles A. Peabody, in the Southern Plantation.

Transplanting and Removing Evergreens.

Two seasons of the year appear to be certainly not favorable to the removal of evergreens—viz.: when the roots are in the greatest action, and again when the roots are comparatively in a torpid state—in the natural season of excitement, which the more or less unavoidable mutilation of the root will render them unfit to sustain, whereas in the latter case the fibrous roots will perish from the extended period during which the plants will be compelled to remain in a torpid state. Well, a time between the two extremes (the month of April) would appear to be a suitable time; but this would certainly be a most unsuitable month, as at this season all vegetable life is waiting for the influence of a genial sun to discharge its accumulated provisions into leaves, flowers and fruit. The branches must sympathize with the root, which, at the three periods cited, ought not to be disquieted. It will be perceived from the preceding observations that there is yet another season at which the proceeding of the skillful gardener may be rendered successful, and the guide for discovering this period is a very simple one. My attention was first drawn to it by the late Mr. Glendinning many years since. The time I propose shall be alike free from extremes of either present or immediate prospective excitement, and yet shall not be the season of maximum transpiration. It is a well-known and understood fact, as a matter of common practice, that the successful propagation of a great number of evergreen shrubs is prosperously effected at the time when the young shoots have attained a firmness of texture, easily distinguished by the practical operator; for instance, the laurel, which will have arrived at [illegible] gust. These cuttings then contain abundance of the active circulating fluid, which in its downward course forms a callosity, which presently emits roots. It is at this season during the declining year which is the most desirable season to conduct the operations of transplanting evergreen shrubs. The young shoots at this season will have attained sufficient maturity to render their suffering from removal or from the aridity of the season very trifling, as the whole plant will contain enough of the active sap to propel fresh spongioles when located, so that after copious watering the general appearance of the plant will have sustained little change. I therefore come to the conclusion that early in September is the most suitable time.—E. Bennett, in Gardeners' Chronicle.

INDICATIONS OF STORMS.—The War Department Signal Service observers have great faith in and are to some extent governed by the following prognostics from the clouds, face of the sky, etc., for which Prof. Loomis is authority:

When the upper clouds move in a direction different from that of the lower clouds, or that of the wind then blowing, they foretell a change of wind. When the outlines of cumulus clouds are sharp, it indicates a dry atmosphere; therefore presages the weather. Small, luky-looking clouds foretell rain. A light scud, driving across hazy clouds, indicates wind and rain.

Remarkable clearness of the atmosphere near the horizon, and an unusual twinkling of the stars, indicate unusual humidity in the upper atmosphere, and are therefore indications of approaching rain.

Haloes, coronas, etc., presage approaching rain or snow. Dew and fog are indications of fine weather.

BUCKWHEAT PANCAKES.—Pure buckwheat flour, when baked into cakes, as is usual, is apt to "lie heavy on the stomach;" the fact has given rise to the remark. To obviate this and improve otherwise, mix Graham flour with the buckwheat—a little more than two-thirds buckwheat with one-third Graham, or unbolted wheat flour. This may be mixed in large quantity, and kept on hand ready for use. The Graham will make it light, aid digestion, and make it palatable and wholesome. It can be mixed and baked at short notice by making a batter of sour milk from the churn, and raise it with soda; or, what is more generally acceptable, mix and set by the stove over night. If the first morning it is not sufficiently light, it will be the next and thereafter, if not kept too warm. It may be mixed with water or milk—milk is best—and in either case a little soda should be added just before baking; more where sour milk is used.

HE THAT does good for good's sake seeks neither praise nor reward, though sure of both.—William Penn.

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE,
COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO
FACTOR,
AND
GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,
For the Purchase and Sale of
ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL
And all Articles of Manufacture.
SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.
No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street.
de17 ly NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS
PURCHASING BUREAU.
To the Ladies of the South.
A Purchasing Agency has been established in New Orleans, Louisiana, for the benefit of those residing at a distance from the city, and who have not the facilities for obtaining just what they require.
MRS. H. MOGRIDGE
respectfully offers her services in selecting, purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel or personal adornment for ladies' and children's use, including MILLINERY, DRY GOODS, JEWELRY, BRIDAL TROUSSEAUX, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Trimmings, Underwear, Sewing Machines, etc., etc.
Scrupulous care with reference to the price and quality and fidelity to the interest and fulfillment of the wishes of correspondents, will be sedulously carried out.
MRS. H. MOGRIDGE'S
Dressmaking Establishment,
Nos. 94 and 96 Canal St., New Orleans.
Refers by permission to D. H. Holmes & Co., New Orleans. fe9 ly

LADIES' HAIR STORE.
GEORGE T. SHILLING,
381.....DRYADES STREET.....381
Between Erato and Thalia, opposite Jefferson School,
has the pleasure of informing the ladies of New Orleans, as also his numerous country patrons, that having selected his stock of Hair in the best European and New York houses himself, and having his work done under his own supervision, he is prepared to furnish them with Plaits, Switches, Crimps, Curls in all styles, Braidings, Puffs, Wigs, Bandeaux, and in fact everything in the Hair line, in all colors, from the lightest to the darkest shades; also a good supply of Natural Red and Gray Hair.
Country and city orders sent to him will be attended to at the shortest notice, and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 381 Dryades street. de17 6m

UPPER CITY
BLUE BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
No. 578 Magazine Street, New Orleans,
keeps constantly on hand the finest stock of BOOTS AND SHOES, HATS AND TRUNKS of every description, and solicits a share of the patronage of the public. Guarantee satisfaction to all.
MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT
Under the Control of J. Phillips, formerly with Glynn & Wintz. Ease, elegance, neatness and durability are observed in manufacturing our Ladies', Gentlemen's and Children's Boots and Shoes. Country orders strictly attended to.
de10 ly LOUIS GIMMEL, Agent.

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58.....ROYAL STREET.....58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. ja21 1m

MEDICAL.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S
MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.
The Perfection of Medical Science.
Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.
Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Chilblains, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.
THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.
It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.
THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhœa, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Ulcers Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.
As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.
The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.
For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop to two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

REMEMBER.
No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhœa and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S
RENOVATING BITTERS!!
Purify the Blood.
STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.
One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of
DYSPEPSIA,
Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Faintly Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.
Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.
FOR FEMALES.
It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with toward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.
Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.
Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing
C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.
New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 ly

KEARNEY'S
EXTRACT BUCHU
is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get
KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.
Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.
Depot—164 Duane Street, New York.
Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. no12 ly&ly

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.
A Consumptive Cured.
When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dispute—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 6mnrm

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,
REV. J. H. BRUNNER, A. M.,
Hiwassee College, East Tenn.
je4 1y

J. W. BLACKMAN'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.
This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
je18 1y New Orleans, La.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,
BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,
NEW YORK.
This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.
GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. no3 6m

$72 EACH WEEK.
AGENTS wanted everywhere. Business strictly legitimate. Particulars free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.
MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,
No. 91 John Street, New York.
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.
HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se3 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST
SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.
GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.
50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.
This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.
All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the
Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.
Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.
PUBLISHED BY THE
American Sunday School Union,
1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK.
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—G. S. SCOFIELD.
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.

ESTABLISHED IN 1822.
A. BALDWIN. C. A. SLOCOMB, } In com-
C. KUSTIS. A. B. SLOCOMB, } mendam
A. BALDWIN & CO.,
SUCCESSORS TO
SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,
74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Foreign and Domestic Hardware
Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with COLLARS AND BRIDLES,
AND
A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.
Agents for J. E. Carver's Gins, Oats' Boiler Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. fe4 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.
H. HALLER,
NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.
Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NEW BOOKS—NEW BOOKS.
THE HISTORY OF SWITZERLAND.—By Heinrich Zschokke. New Edition. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.75.
A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.
"Mr. Wilkinson wields a Free Lance bravely, effectively and brilliantly."—N. Y. Evening Mail.
LORD MACAULAY'S CRITICAL AND HISTORICAL ESSAYS.—In one volume, extra cloth, $2.50.
IDIOMATIC KEY to the FRENCH LANGUAGE.—By Profs. Lambert and Sardou. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.
ALBERT MASON, Publisher,
se3 1y 13 Astor Place, New York.

BOOK AGENTS WANTED!
To sell the NEW BOOK TELL IT ALL
By Mrs. Stenhouse, of Salt Lake City, for 25 years the wife of a Mormon High Priest. Introduction by Mrs. Stowe. The story of a woman's experience lays bare the "hidden life," mysterious, secret doings, etc., of the Mormons as a "pride amidst women were them." Bright, Pure, and Good, it is the best new book out, actually overflowing with good things for all. It is popular everywhere, with everybody, and outsells all other books three to one. Ministers say "God speed it." Eminent women endorse it. Everybody wants it, and agents are selling from 10 to 20 a day! 2500 thousand more in press! We want 5,000 more lively agents NOW—men or women—and we will mail OUTFIT FREE to those who will canvass. Large pamphlets with full particulars, terms, etc., sent free to all. Address, QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, O.
Or EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo.
fe11 1y

$2,500 A YEAR made with our grand
COMBINATION PROSPECTUS.
Represents 50 different books. Agents say this is
THE BEST THING EVER TRIED.
The books sell themselves in every family, and good men can make a business for life in one county. Also Agents Wanted on our Magnificent Editions of Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. no19 13t

AGENTS WANTED FOR
THE LIFE OF JESUS,
For Young People.
A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 550 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address
H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se24 6m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

MONUMENTAL
MARBLE WORKS.
New Designs at Moderate Prices.
J. WATERHOUSE,
1821 Arch Street, Philadelphia.
Contracts made for VAULTS and RAILING. Also Importer of SCOTCH GRANITE. oc8 1y

W. N. PACKARD,
STEAM WOOD YARD,
Corner Ursulines and Rampart Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Pittsburg Coal and Charcoal a specialty. Families supplied with all kinds of Fire Wood at the shortest notice. Wood Sawed and Split to any size desired, at the lowest prices. ja21 2m

Scientific.

THE curators of the Anatomical Museum of the Jardin des Plantes, at Paris, have found that spirits of turpentine is very efficacious in removing the disagreeable odor and fatty emanations of bones or ivory, while it leaves them beautifully bleached. The articles should be exposed in the liquid for three or four days in the sun, or a little longer if in the shade. They should rest upon strips of zinc, so as to be a fraction of an inch above the bottom of the glass vessel employed. The turpentine acts as an oxidizing agent, and the product of the combustion is an acid liquor which sinks to the bottom and strongly attacks the bones if they be allowed to touch it. The action of the turpentine is not confined to bones and ivory, but extends to wood of various kinds, especially beech, maple, elm and cork.

PROF. GERVAIS, of the Jardin des Plantes, instituted a number of experiments in the hybridization of various species of aquatic salamanders. He mingled males and females of the European Tritons of several species; but the eggs were not fecundated and soon died. The eggs of a siredon, or undeveloped Amblystoma, from North America, were successfully impregnated by the males of the European Triton cristatus, and were deposited in large numbers. Some thirty young hatched from these, and became objects of much curiosity. They were veritable hybrids, but presented the characters of the male Triton more distinctly than those of the female Amblystoma. In spite of the utmost care they all perished as the time approached for undergoing their metamorphosis. In a subsequent year the experiment met with a similar result—the larvæ attained some size, but died before the absorption of the gills.

THE great telescope of the Clarks, recently mounted at the Naval Observatory in Washington, is probably, on the whole, the most powerful in the world. There are in existence a few reflectors of larger size. We recall at the moment the following, viz.: the telescopes of Lord Rosse, one of 6 feet diameter, which is now out of use, and one 3 feet in diameter, with which some good work has been done within a few years; the four-foot reflector of Mr. Lassell, not now in use; the great four-foot reflector of the Melbourne Observatory, which is in use, but thus far disappoints expectation; the forty-inch silvered-glass reflector of the Marseilles Observatory, which is a good and useful instrument in its line of work; and finally the silvered-glass reflector of Dr. Draper, in this city, with an aperture of 28 inches. These instruments all have a larger aperture than the Washington telescope, whose diameter is 26 inches. But the latter is a refractor—i. e., it forms the image of a celestial object by means of a lens, instead of a mirror; and an instrument of this kind is generally fully a match for a much larger reflector. The only other refractor in existence which can at all compete with it is the telescope made by Cooke, of England, and belonging to Mr. Newhall, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, which has an aperture of 25 inches and a focal length of 33 feet. There are one or two other instruments in England having apertures of 20 and 21 inches; but nothing is heard from them, and they are probably of inferior quality. Next in size comes the Chicago instrument, with a diameter of 18 inches; and next to this the great refractors of Cambridge (United States) and Poulkowa, with apertures of 15 inches. The Washington instrument, as has been said, has an aperture of 26 inches, and its focal length is 35 feet. It has a steel tube, shaped much like a cigar, and is mounted upon enormous axes of steel, upon which it turns freely with the pressure of a single finger. Its elaborate clockwork is driven by a small water-wheel, and makes it follow the diurnal motion of the stars with perfect precision. The building in which it is placed is an admirable innovation on old-fashioned observatories, being as light and thin as possible consistent with sufficient strength. The walls are made of vertical oak posts, set some 8 or 10 feet apart, covered on the outside with sheet iron (painted, of course) and on the inside with paper. In very hot or very cold weather an observatory with walls of brick or masonry accommodates itself to the change of temperature at night and morning so slowly that for many hours each day the instruments are rendered almost useless by the currents of heated air; but in a building of this sort there is no such difficulty. The telescope sustains perfectly all the tests to which it has been subjected, showing the highest order of excellence in its materials and workmanship. At present its principal work is in securing measures of the satellites of Uranus and Neptune, as Prof. Newcomb, who is in charge of it, takes an almost fatherly interest in those planets, the investigation of whose orbits has been the most important labor of his scientific life. His recently published work on Uranus has just been crowned with the gold medal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain. No second satellite of Neptune has yet been seen, nor any satellites of Uranus, except the four observed by Lassell, and known as Ariel, Umbriel, Titania and Oberon. These are all well seen and satisfactorily measured. Somehow or other, a report has crept into the newspapers, much to the annoyance of the observers, that the telescope shows only two of the Uranian satellites. Nothing has yet been seen of the companion of Procyon, whose discovery was announced from Poulkowa last winter, although it has been carefully looked for. It seems to be probable, to say the least, that the Russian observers were mistaken.—Independent.

PROF. PROCTOR seems to have been guilty of a contradiction. In one of his recent lectures he distinctly stated that there was no animal life on the moon, "and yit immajotly afther," says Felix O'Fyne, "he showed us a hape of lunar craters."

BUSINESS CARDS.

JOSEPH BRANDNER,
MERCHANT TAILOR,
34.....ROURBON STREET.....34
Between Customhouse and Bienville,
fe11 3m NEW ORLEANS.

RARE BARGAINS.—NO HUMBUG.
JOSEPH B. HUBBARD,
DEALER IN FURNITURE,
Corner Rampart and Perdido Streets.
Selling out my stock to retire from business. fe11 1m

S. OTERI,
Wholesale Dealer in and Importer of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC FRUITS,
23 AND 25 FRONT AND 24 AND 26 FULTON STREET,
Between Gravier and Poydras, New Orleans.
Keep always on hand a general assortment of Nuts. fe11 1m

A. D. CAUSSE,
EMBROIDERY & LACE STORE,
538.....MAGAZINE STREET.....538
Near Felicity street.
☞ Trimmings, Hosiery and Gloves, Corsets and Fancy Goods. fe11 1m

MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS (over Braselmann & Adams') wish to inform the community that they are in constant receipt of the LATEST FASHIONS. Their style and fit cannot be rivaled, and their punctuality can be testified by their customers. Ladies would do well to call early with their Holiday Dresses, in order to have ample time to display their skill in producing something elegant and tasty. Prices always moderate. fe11 2m MRS. FRICKE & WILLIAMS.

OWEN GERNON,
Successor to H. R. Swasey,
BOOK-BINDER AND BLANK-BOOK MANUFACTURER,
58 Camp Street (up stairs,)
New Orleans, La.
Music-Books and Periodicals bound to any desired style. fe11 1y

A. W. HYATT,
STATIONER, PRINTER, LITHOGRAPHER
And Blank-Book Manufacturer,
38.....CAMP STREET.....38
P. O. Box 598. NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Orders from the country solicited. Ja7 1y

RICHARD FROTSCHER,
SEED MERCHANT,
12.....Dumaine St.....12
Near the French Market, New Orleans.
Dealer in BUIST'S GARDEN SEEDS, which are the most reliable seeds sold in the Southern market. Almanacs and catalogues furnished on application. Prices reasonable. de31 2m

E. HEATH. M. LARA
HEATH & LARA,
Importers and Dealers in
UPHOLSTERERS' GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
Mirrors, Frames, Molding and Wire Screens,
No. 99 Camp Street,
no26 1y New Orleans.

PAYNE, KENNEDY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
61.....Baronne Street.....66
no26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
COR. CANAL AND ROYAL STS.,
WATCHES, JEWELRY, DIAMONDS
AND SILVERWARE.
Watches and Jewelry repaired in the best manner. Goods sent C. O. D., and returnable if not suitable. Everything guaranteed to be as represented. no19 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.
AIKEN & WATT,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
16 Union Street, New Orleans, La.
Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. no5 1y

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.
B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
106 Common St., opposite City Hotel,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk at lowest market rates. City trade supplied. my7 1y

E. A. TYLER,
115.....Canal Street.....115
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
FINE WATCHES, DIAMONDS, JEWELRY, Plated-ware, Table Cutlery, Fancy Goods, etc. Pure Sterling Silverware, suitable for presents. Clocks and Bronzes in great variety. Jewelry manufactured and repaired. Clocks and Watches repaired. fe26 1y

TO THE PUBLIC.—Returning thanks for past favors, the undersigned desires to inform his friends and the public that he has removed to 152 and 154 Camp St., cor. Calliope, where he continues to Buy, Sell, Store, Remove, Pack and Repair FURNITURE of every description. Pictures and Looking-glasses framed.
JOHN BOIS,
fe26 1y Nos. 152 and 154 Camp street.

T. W. BOTHICK, UNDERTAKER,
No. 271 Camp Street, New Orleans.
Metallic, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Rosewood COFFINS always on hand. Black, Satin, Brown and White Merino Ladies' and Children's Shrouding. Embalming and Disinterring. Bodies carefully shipped. Hearses, Carriages and Cabs for hire. Funerals attended to in person by the proprietor, who hopes, by strict attention, to obtain a share of public patronage. de17 1y

WILLIAM VELDEN,
DEALER IN WOOD AND COAL,
Corner Prytania and Philip Streets.
Oak, Ash, Bakers' Pine, Lightwood and Charcoal always on hand. Wood sawed to stove-length and split. oc29 1y

J. A. LUM. FRANK H. HOOKER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
162 Gravier and 13 Union Street.
☞ A SPECIALTY MADE OF CHILDREN'S CARRIAGES. mh5 1y

WILLIAM H. SEYMOUR,
NOTARY PUBLIC AND COMMISSIONER OF DEEDS
For Texas, Illinois, Mississippi and other States,
79 Customhouse St., New Orleans.
P. O. Box 1368.
☞ PASSPORTS PROCURED from the State Department in Washington. no26 6m

J. H. WILKINSON, JR.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Hides, Moss, Wool and Country Produce Generally,
and for the purchase of Family, Plantation and Store Supplies, 29 PETERS AND 1 CLINTON STREET, near the Customhouse, New Orleans.
Liberal cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, Rice and other consignments. Connections with the principal Northern markets. Sole agent for the celebrated Armstrong Machine-cleaned Moss. Je4 10m

BUSINESS CARDS.

C. C. HARTWELL,
18.....BARONNE STREET.....18
Bet. Common and Gravier Sts.,
General Dealer in and Importer of
PLUMBING AND GAS MATERIALS,
AT NEW YORK PRICES.
Plumbing and Gas-Fitting Promptly Attended to. fe11 1m

COAL.....COAL.
H. & C. TYLER,
0.....CARONDELET ST.....0
will sell Pittsburg, Anthracite and Cannel COAL, in quantities to suit customers, at the lowest market rates.
fe11 2m H. & C. TYLER.

H. H. HUSSMAN,
DEALER IN
PITTSBURG COAL,
OAK, ASH AND PINE WOOD,
102.....Calliope Street.....102
Between Magazine and Constance,
Ja28 4m New Orleans.

R. MAITRE,
SEEDSMAN AND FLORIST.
602.....MAGAZINE ST.....602
Dealer in Landreth's, Villmorin's, Henry's and Dippe Bros.' Garden and Flower Seeds, Greenhouse Plants, Evergreens and Roses. Dutch Bulbs, and a variety of Fancy and Ornamental goods for the use of Florists and Bouquet-makers. Catalogues and Almanacs sent on application. A liberal discount to country dealers. Ja21 3m

J. J. BROWN,
(Late of Trenton, La.)
DEALER IN
PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
78.....MAGAZINE ST.....78
no19 1y New Orleans, La.

EDMOND BOURGEOIS,
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Agent for the celebrated GRAND POINT (Parish of St. James, La.)
PERIQUE TOBACCO,
19.....CONTI STREET.....19
Ja14 2m New Orleans, La.

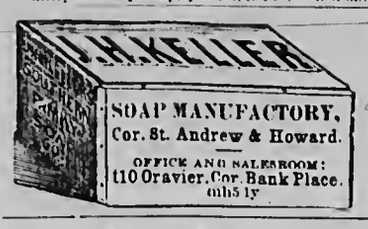
D. H. WALLACE & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
79.....Carondelet St.....79
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Will give special attention to the sale of Cotton and other Produce, and will fill all orders for goods of every description at lowest cash prices. jy2 1y
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
108 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF
English Carpetings, Rugs, Etc.
Also Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc. no19 1y

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND
—AND—
DOOR FACTORY,
ROBERTS & CO., PROPRIETORS,
301, 303, 305 and 307 Gravier Street,
New Orleans. Je11 1y

JAMES M. DOWLING,
SUCCESSOR TO J. M. JOHNSTON,
WHOLESALE GROCER, COMMISSION MERCHANT,
And Dealer in Western Produce,
NO. 25 DECATUR ST. (LATE OLD LEVEE.)
Je4 1y Cor. Customhouse St., New Orleans.

THE DOMESTIC
LOCK-STITCH SEWING MACHINE
WILL LAST A LIFE-TIME.
WILCOX & GIBBS' celebrated Twisted Loop-Stitch Sewing Machine, always ready and in order. Needles for all kinds of Sewing Machines.
M. S. HEDRICK,
my21 1y 103 Canal street, New Orleans.

NEW LEATHER STORE.
A. F. RICAU,
IMPORTER AND DEALER IN
French and American Calf, Kip, Morocco and Sheep Skins,
Shoe Findings, etc.,
80 CUSTOM HOUSE ST., bet. Exchange alley and Chartres street, New Orleans.
Country orders promptly attended to. de31 3m



mh5 1y

WILLIAM HILLSMAN,
Residence—536 ROYAL STREET,
Shop—120 CALLIOPE STREET, cor. Magazine,
Painter, Gilder and Varnisher.
House and Sign Painting, Marbling, Glazing, etc., promptly executed to order. Special and personal attention given to Graining. All work guaranteed and charges moderate. de10 1y

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DENTAL NOTICE.
JAS. S. KNAPP, D. D. S.,
Attends to the practice of
Dentistry in All Its Branches,
At his Office and Residence,
15.....BARONNE ST.....15
fe1 2m Near Canal street.

A. L. TICKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
(Late of Franklin, St. Mary Parish, La.)
160.....COMMON STREET.....160
de24 1y (Up stairs,) New Orleans.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
DENTAL SURGEON,
152.....Julia Street.....152
All operations in Operative, Mechanical and Surgical Dentistry carefully performed.
Nitrous Oxide and other Anæsthetics administered. de17 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
Corner Magazine and Second Streets,
New Orleans.
Office Hours—Eight to nine A. M. and three to four P. M. Je29 1f

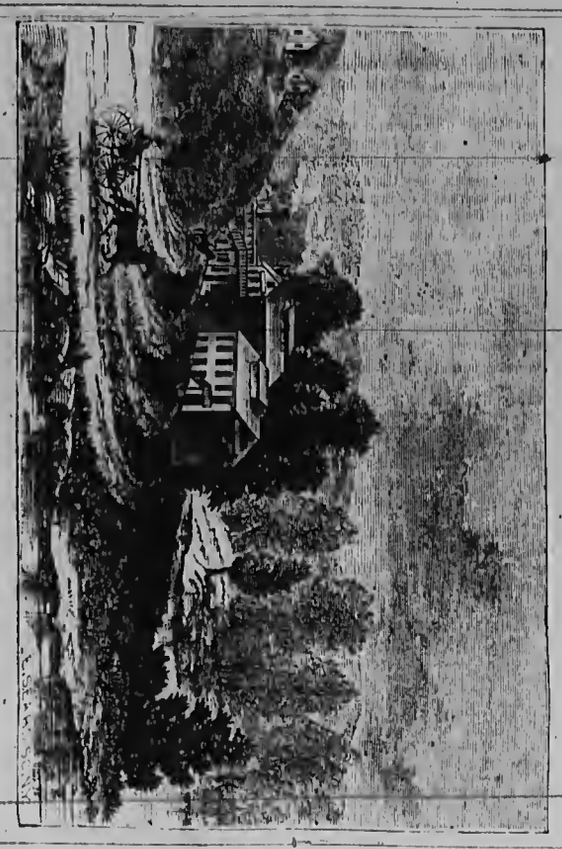
DR. J. J. LYONS,
NO. 310 CARONDELET STREET
Between Julia and St. Joseph,
Ja2 1y New Orleans, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER.
E. T. MERRICK, formerly Chief Justice, Louisiana.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
ATTORNEYS, COUNSELORS AND SOLICITORS,
Corner of Camp Street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

LEGS AND ARMS.—Satisfaction guaranteed. Pamphlet free. CHARLES M. EVANS, manufacturer, (au6 1y)
76 Fourth street.....LOUISVILLE, KY
152 West Fourth street.....CINCINNATI, O.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JAMES ORMOND, PROPRIETOR.
OFFICE—NO. 43 BROAD STREET, ATLANTA, GA.
☞ For Specimen of "News" we refer to this issue of this Paper. Cash Orders Solicited. de17 1y

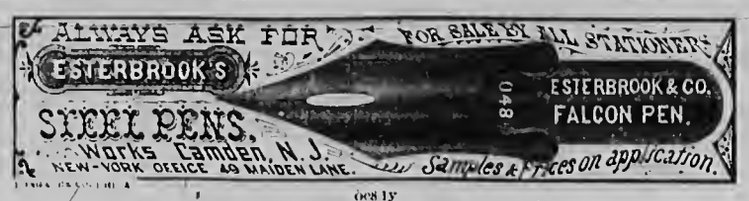


ATLANTA PAPER MILLS.

CASH'S NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT THE NAME AND TRADE MARK OF J. & J. CASH
CAMBRIC
IS THE MOST DURABLE AND SATISFACTORY TRIMMING FOR LADIES', CHILDREN'S AND INFANTS' WARDROBES. FRILLING.
Ja21 5t

One Gold Pen Will Outwear $10 in Steel Pens.
A. M. HILL'S EXTRA GOLD PENS ARE THE BEST.
PRICES.—No. 1, small size, $1; No. 4, medium size, $1.50; No. 7, large size, $2.50. Elegant Holder and Box for either size, 75 cents. Rubber Pocket Holder, $1. Sent by mail, registered, on receipt of price, or by Express C. O. D. Pens Repointed, 50 cents and stamp. Address
A. M. HILL, Gold Pen Manufacturer,
86 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.
REFERENCES.—All City Merchants. Ja21 1y

BUY WERLEIN'S PIANOS, such as the Chickering, Dunham, Hale, Pleyel, etc., which are the best in the market. Sold at low prices, and on easy terms, if desired. New Pianos at $350, $375, $400, $450, $500, $550 and $600, at $20 per month. Second-hand Pianos at $40, $50, $75, $100, $125, $150, $175, $200, $225 and $250, some at $1 per month; fully warranted, with renewed actions. Estey's, Needham's and Woods' Organs at low rates. Have added Blackmar's large stock of Sheet Music. Band Instruments and Strings in great variety. Band Instruments, etc., repaired. PHILIP WERLEIN'S Mammoth Music House, Nos. 78, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street, New Orleans. de31 1y



oc8 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM GREGG MRS. ADA GREGG.
GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU,
NO. 151 CANAL STREET,
Next door to New Orleans Savings Institution,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A long acquaintance with the various kinds of
SEWING MACHINES
has induced us to make a specialty in this line. First-class Machines of all kinds at lowest rates. The New Under-Feed Buckeye Hand Machine, only $20. We repair all Machines at low rates. We take old Machines in part payment for new ones.
Sewing Machines, Pianos and Organs sold on monthly payments in the country to parties giving references.
MRS. ADA GREGG
respectfully offers her services in purchasing and forwarding any article of apparel, personal adornment or domestic goods for Ladies' and Children's use, including Millinery, Dry Goods, Jewelry, Fancy and Toilet Articles, Patterns, Underwear, Trimmings, Bridal Trousseaux, etc. Any article of Ladies' and Children's wear manufactured in the latest styles, under her own supervision.
N. B.—All inquiries relative to articles mentioned or unmentioned will be answered free of charge.
Second-hand Machines, in good order, at half price. The best Needles for all Machines.
REFERENCES.—E. A. Tyler, New Orleans; J. L. Power, Jackson, Mississippi.
Send for catalogue and circular.
Je18 1y GREGG'S PURCHASING BUREAU.

MONUMENTS A SPECIALTY.
AMERICAN GRANITE
AND ITALIAN MARBLE.
IMPORTERS OF
Scotch Granite Monuments
AND STATUARY FROM ITALY.
This is the OLDEST AND LARGEST establishment of the kind in the Western country, and would solicit a share of the Southern patronage. Being in the business for years, I feel confident of giving the utmost satisfaction, having in my employ men of experience.
A. WHITE.
OFFICE AND WORKS,
251, 253 and 257 West Fifth St.,
Jy23 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

J. W. HART.
Engraver
ON WOOD
258 RACE St. CIN. O.
oc29 9m

$10 A DAY.—Employment for all. Patent Novelties. GEO. L. FELTON & CO., au13 1y 119 Nassau street New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WILLIAM N. THOMSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
Thomson's Leather-Preserver,
FOR
Boots, Shoes, Harness, Belting & Hose.
ALSO DEALER IN
LACE LEATHER, RIVETS, BURS, BELT HOOKS, BELT STUDS,
Punches, Belt Sets, and all goods connected with the Belting business,
NO. 52 RACE STREET,
au6 1y CINCINNATI, OHIO.

GLASS STAINERS
AND BENDERS.
BELCHER & POVEY,
13 West Broadway, cor. Reade St.,
NEW YORK.
Works—Newark, N. J. au13 1y

JAMES S. PATTERSON,
WOOD ENGRAVER,
28.....Beekman Street.....28
au13 1y NEW YORK CITY.

CARPET WAREHOUSE.
17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17
A. BROUSSEAU & CO., Importers and Dealers, at Wholesale and Retail, in English and American Carpetings; Floor Oil Cloths; Table and Enameled Oil Cloths; Window Shades; Table and Piano Covers; Crumb Cloths, in squares or pieces; Curtain and Furniture Materials; Broadelles, Cotelenes, Terries, Reps, Lace and Nottingham Lace Curtains; Haircloth Tickling; Springs; Burlaps; Step Covers, etc.
de10 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

JOHN GIBSON,
ENGRAVER
AND
STEAM POWER LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTER
82 Beekman Street, New York.
Checks, Notes, Drafts, Receipts, Bonds, Certificates of Stock and Deposit, Bill, Letter and Note Headings, Business Cards, Envelopes, Druggists', Fancy and Perfumery Labels, etc. Druggists wishing Labels, send for catalogue. au4 1y

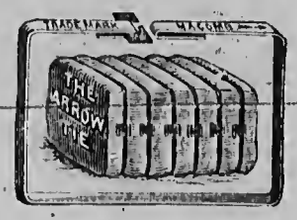
FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—JOHN BOSCO, proprietor of this old and favorite house, announces to his friends that he has removed to No. 121 Chartres street, between St. Louis and Conti streets, where, with enlarged premises and increased facilities, he will give them the best the market affords, at the same low prices as heretofore. Private Dining-Rooms up stairs. Also comfortably furnished rooms at reasonable rates. Thankful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon him in the past, he asks for a continuance of the same favors. Ja21 3m

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

MACHINERY, TIES, ETC.

LOW PRICES FOR CASH!
PLOWS, CULTIVATORS
MOWING AND REAPING MACHINES,
CORN AND COTTON PLANTERS,
HAY RAKES, ETC.
PLANTATION HARDWARE.
STEAM ENGINES, GRIST MILLS,
COTTON GINS, SAW MILLS,
HORSE POWERS, SUGAR MILLS,
PUMPS, Etc., Etc.
FOR SALE BY
B. J. WEST,
115 and 117 Magazine St., New Orleans.
WHOLESALE DEALER
Ja28 3m And Manufacturers' Agent.

IMPORTANT TO PLANTERS.
IRON COTTON TIES

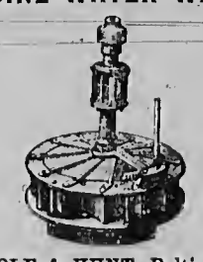


The above-mentioned Ties are the best and most popular Ties in use for Baling Cotton. They are manufactured of the best quality of English Iron, and are sold under full guarantee, at the lowest market price, by all dealers in Baling Stuffs in New Orleans, Mobile, Galveston, Savannah, Charleston, Wilmington, Petersburg, Baltimore, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, New York, and by country merchants generally throughout the Cotton States.
R. W. RAYNE & CO.,
(Late Bartlett & Rayne,)
GENERAL AGENTS,
48 Carondelet Street, cor. Union,
de31 6m New Orleans

LANE & BODLEY,
CINCINNATI, OHIO,
MANUFACTURERS OF STANDARD
PLANTATION
MACHINERY,
STATIONARY & PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
Saw Mills, Grist Mills, Shafting Hangers, Pulleys, etc. Our Machinery is strong, simple and well made, and is especially adapted to the wants of Farmers and Planters for Ginning, Sawing, Grinding and Factory use. Send for an Illustrated Catalogue.
LANE & BODLEY,
Jy23 1y John and Water Sts., Cincinnati, O.

IRON WORKS—BELLS.

JAMES LEFFEL'S
IMPROVED DOUBLE
TURBINE WATER-WHEEL.



POOLE & HUNT, Baltimore,
Manufacturers for the South and Southwest
Nearly Seven Thousand Now in Use.
working under heads varying from 2 to 240 feet. Twenty-four sizes, from 5½ to 96 inches.
The most powerful Wheel in the market, and most economical in use of Water. Large Illustrated Pamphlet sent post free.
Manufacturers also of Portable and Stationary Steam Engines and Boilers, Babcock & Wilcox's Patent Tubulous Boiler, Ebaugh's Crusher for Minerals, Saw and Grist Mills, Flouring Mill Machinery, Machinery for White Lead Works and Oil Mills, Shafting Pulleys and Hangers.
☞ Send for Circulars. se8 6m

WIRE RAILING
AND
ORNAMENTAL WIRE WORKS.

DUFUR & CO.,
No. 36 N. Howard St., Baltimore, Md.,
Manufacture Wire Railing for Cemeteries, Balconies, etc.; Sieves, Fenders, Cages, Sand and Coal Screens, Woven Wire, etc. Also Iron Bedsteads, Chairs, etc. oc8 1y

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Established in 1837.

Superior Bells of Copper and Tin, mounted with the best Rotary Hangings, for Churches, Schools, Farms, Factories, Court Houses, Fire Alarms, Tower Clocks, Chimes, etc. Fully Warranted.
Illustrated Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
102 and 104 East Second St., Cincinnati.
B. J. WEST, Agent,
mh5 1y 115 and 117 Magazine st., New Orleans.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD IS THE
LADY CHEAP JOHN,
MRS. D. J. LOEWENSTEIN,
549.....MAGAZINE STREET.....549
Who has sold out her damaged stock of BOOTS, SHOES AND HATS, and is receiving an extensive stock of NEW GOODS, now arriving direct from the best manufacturers of the North, East and West. Having been carefully selected for this market, and bought for cash, they will be sold at astonishingly low prices—not to be beaten in this city. Then come and see the wonder, which will cost nothing, but you will carry away more Shoes and Boots, for less money, than you imagine. Do not fail to come. Look out for the sign of the WHITE LION. Orders from the country promptly attended to. de27 10m

THOMSON'S SALE STABLES
AND MULE PENS,
DELORD, NEAR DRYADES STREET.
These new and commodious Stables are now in thorough order, and well supplied with the BEST STOCK in the South. Planters, commission merchants and others will consult their own interest by calling before purchasing elsewhere.
M. F. THOMSON,
fe11 2m5p 269, 271 and 274 Delord, near Dryades St.

New Orleans Markets.

From the New Orleans Price Current.

The river is 8 feet 6 inches below high-water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twelfth instant:

Mississippi river and bayous	4,086
Red river	4,335
Arkansas river	1,581
Ouachita river	4,896
Railroads	2,462
Lake	191
Mobile	1,933
Texas	136
Florida	3
Total	19,667

On Saturday, although there was nothing in the dispatches to stimulate the demand, the market opened with a fair inquiry, and 2,000 bales changed hands during the morning, partly at previous rates and partly at a reduction of ⅛c., after which buyers and sellers came together more freely and the movement exhibited increased activity, resulting in further sales of 5,900 bales, making a total of 7,900 bales. Good ordinary sold at 13⅛@13⅜c., low middling and strict low middling at 14⅝c., and middling at 14⅞@15c. On Monday the movement commenced under the depressing influence of a decline of 1-16d. in Orleans at Liverpool, and operations restricted by buyers claiming concessions which most factors were unwilling to admit. The sales were 4,500 bales. Prices exhibited considerable irregularity, but with the advantage on the side of the buyers in most descriptions, excepting good staple kinds and the higher grades, which maintained their previous position with little or no variation. On Tuesday the weather was inclement and rainy, but there was, nevertheless, a fair inquiry, and the day's business summed up 6,500 bales. Prices exhibited considerable irregularity, especially for the medium and lower grades. The higher grades, being in light supply and some demand, were held with increased firmness, and some descriptions could hardly be bought unless at ⅛c. over what would have been accepted yesterday.

The above makes an aggregate for the past three days of 18,900 bales, against 17,750 for the corresponding time last week and 22,450 the week before.

The receipts proper at this port since the first of September, exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas, are 738,079 bales, against 928,413 bales to the same date last year, and the decrease in the receipts at all the ports up to the latest mail dates, as compared with last year, is 73,301 bales. The decrease by the reports per telegraph is 78,093—2,802,762 against 2,880,855. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same date last year, there is an increase of 126,432 bales to Great Britain, and a decrease of 49,706 to France and 53,961 to other foreign ports. We quote:

Ordinary	12⅜ @ 12⅝
Strict ordinary	12⅞ @ 13⅛
Good ordinary	13⅛ @ 13⅜
Strict good ordinary	13⅞ @ 14⅛
Low middling	14⅜ @ 14⅝
Strict low middling	14⅝ @ 14⅞
Middling	14⅞ @ 15
Strict middling	15⅛ @ 15⅜
Good middling	15⅜ @ 15⅝
Middling fair	16⅛ @ 16⅜
Fair	16⅝ @ 16⅞

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1874...bales		15,953
Arrived past three days	19,667
Arrived previously	903,887—	923,554
		939,507
Exported past three days	23,918
Exported previously	627,823—	651,742
Stock on hand and on shipboard		287,765

NEW LOUISIANA SUGAR.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,332 hhds., which were mostly sold at 5@5½c. for inferior, 6@6½c. for common, 6⅝@6¾c. for fair, 7@7¼c. for good fair, 7½c. for fully fair, 7¾c. for prime, 8c. for strictly prime, 8¼c. for choice, 8⅜c. for seconds, 8¾@9⅛c. for yellow clarified, 9⅛@9½c. for off-white clarified, and 10@10⅝c. for pure white clarified.

NEW LOUISIANA MOLASSES.—The receipts on Saturday and Monday comprised 1,361 bbls. and 126 half bbls., which were mostly sold at 50c. for cistern-bottom, 43@45c. for common to fair fermenting, 52c. for prime fermenting, 48@50c. for fair not fermenting, 55c. for inferior, 38@40c. for common not fermenting, 48@50c. for fair not fermenting, 53@55c. for prime not fermenting, 57@58c. for strictly prime, and 60c. for choice.

CORN.—On Tuesday 2,250 sacks sold at 85c. for white and yellow.

OATS.—On Tuesday 450 sacks sold at 71c. for choice white, and 72c. for black.

BRAN.—On Saturday 450 sacks sold at $1.75, and 50 at $1.85 ₩ 100 lbs.; a dealer sold 50 sacks, on the landing and in store, at $1.85 ₩ 100 lbs.

PORK.—On Tuesday 250 bbls. mess sold, in three lots, at $20 ₩ bbl.

BACON.—On Tuesday 25 casks clear sides sold, in three lots at 11¾@12c. ₩ lb.

DRY SALT MEAT.—On Tuesday only 8 casks clear sides sold at 10¾c. ₩ lb.

MONETARY.

Gold opened on Tuesday at 114¾@114¾, against 114⅝ at New York, and after a moderate business closed at 114¾@115, against 115⅛ at New York.

Nothing has been reported in silver. Most of the receipts are transhipped to New York. It is quoted at 106¾@107½ for American half dollars Mexican dollars closed at 97 gold.

New Orleans Wholesale Prices.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS:
Cotton scrapers	$4 50	— —
Cotton sweeps	4 50	6 00
Cultivators, Diam. and shovel-tooth	9 00	12 50
Cultivators, riding and walking	25 00	35 00
Shovels and spades	7 50	16 00
Axes	11 00	18 00
Shovel plows	5 00	7 50
Half do., with cutters	6 00	10 00
Mauly's double-shovel plow	5 00	6 75
Corn mills, Coleman's	120 00	225 00
Bradford's grist mills	150 00	225 00
BRICKS, ₩ M:
Lake	9 50	15 00
Country	7 00	9 00
English fire	45 00	47 50
American fire	35 00	— —
CANDLES, ₩ lb.:
Sperm, New Bedford	30	31
Tallow	7	8
CHOCOLATE, ₩ lb.:
Cocoa	58	60
No. 1	— —	— —
Sweet	— —	21½
COAL, ₩ ton.
Anthracite	12 00	14 00
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	— —
COPPER, ₩ lb.:
Mexican	— —	— —
Java	— —	33
COTTON SEED:
Rough, ₩ ton	— —	— —
In sacks	— —	10 00
EGGS, ₩ dozen:
Western	30	34
FERTILIZERS, ₩ ton:
Stern's raw-bone superphosph'e	— —	65 00
Stern's fine-ground bone	— —	45 00
FLOUR, ₩ bbl.:
Double extra	4 85	5 00
Superfine	— —	4 50
Fine	— —	4 25
GLASS, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	— —	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 75	4 00
French, 10 by 14 to 12 by 20	4 00	4 25
French, 14 by 18 to 18 by 24	4 25	4 75
HAY, ₩ ton:
Prime	— —	25 00
Choice	— —	— —
IRON, ₩ ton:
English, ₩ lb	4	5
Swedes, assorted	7½	8
Hoop	6	9
Sheet	5½	9
Nail rods	— —	9½
Castings, American	5½	6
LEATHER, ₩ lb.:
Sole, hemlock	30	33
Sole, oak	40	44
Harness	38	45
Calf-skins, ₩ dozen	35 00	100 00
Texas, rough, ₩ lb	24	26
LIME, ₩ bbl.:
Western	1 50	1 75
Cement	2 50	2 75
Plaster Paris	— —	2 75
LUMBER, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	— —	— —
Boards, cypress	— —	— —
Flooring, dressed	16 00	18 00
Flooring, rough	— —	16 00
Ceiling, dressed	12 00	14 00
Weatherboards, dressed	14 00	16 00
Weatherboards, rough	— —	— —
Scantling	10 00	12 00
Shingles, ₩ M	— —	3 00
Laths	— —	— —
OILS:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 15	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	17	18
Linseed, raw	— —	95
SUGAR, ₩ lb.:
Havana, white	— —	— —
Havana, yellow	— —	— —
Havana, brown	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	11¾
Pulverised	— —	11¾
TEAS, ₩ lb.:
Imperial	25	— —
Gunpowder	65	— —
Hyson	70	— —
Young Hyson	70	1 40
Pouchong	30	— —
Oolong	25	— —
WAGONS, CARTS, ETC.:
Wagon, two-horse	75 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	115 00	125 00
Wagon, two-horse, thing, skein	80 00	85 00
Wagon, four-horse	100 00	110 00
Cane wagon	210 00	215 00
Ox wagon	90 00	125 00
Ox cart, complete	110 00	115 00
Cane cart	110 00	115 00
Tongue cart, complete	120 00	125 00
Plantation cart	55 00	65 00

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17, 1875.

Texas beeves, choice, ₩ head	$40 00 @ $46 00
Texas beeves, first quality, ₩ head	30 00 @ 35 00
Texas cattle, second quality, ₩ head	20 00 @ 25 00
Texas cattle, third quality, ₩ head	— — @ 15 00
Western beeves, ₩ lb. net	6 50 @ 7 50
Sheep, first quality, ₩ head	6 00 @ 7 00
Sheep, second quality, ₩ head	3 00 @ 4 00
Milch cows, choice, ₩ head	80 00 @ 100 00
Milch cows, ₩ head	35 00 @ 40 00
Calves, ₩ head	7 00 @ 9 00
Yearlings, ₩ head	10 00 @ 14 00

Advertisers' Directory

OF THE

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Alphabetically Arranged Under the Heads of the Business or Articles Advertised.

NOTE.—We take no advertisements except from those who we have good reason to believe are respectable and reliable. The publisher urges his solicitor and agents to seek the advertisements of the most worthy and reliable representatives in every branch of business, and not to apply to or accept business from persons of doubtful character. We have refused business to the extent of thousands of dollars each year for want of satisfactory information in reference to applicants. We think we may safely claim for the list below that it embraces, as a rule, the very best men and firms in the different branches represented.

☞ We retain no dead advertisements.

Agencies.
Gregg's Purchasing Bureau, 154 Canal street.
Mrs. H. Mogridge, Purchasing Bureau, 94 and 96 Canal street.
N. D. Thompson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Bells.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Buckeye Bell Foundery, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Bolting.
W. N. Thomson, 52 Race street, Cincinnati, O.

Book-Binders.
Owen Gerson, 58 Camp street.

Books and Stationery.
Robert J. Harp, agent, 110 and 112 Camp street
American Sunday School Union, Philadelphia.
Chas. H. Dilson & Co., 771 Broadway, New York
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston, Mass.
F. A. Hutchinson & Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Life of Jesus, H. S. Goodspeed & Co., New York.
Albert Mason, New York.
Nettleton & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
John E. Potter & Co., Philadelphia.
Queen City Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Valley Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo.
Ziegler & McCurdy, St. Louis, Mo.

Boots and Shoes.
Louis Gimbel, agent, 578 Magazine street.
Mrs. D. J. Loewenstein, 549 Magazine street.

Carpets.
A. Brousseau & Co., 17 Chartres street.
Elkin & Co., 168 Canal street.
E. C. Palmer & Co., 97 Camp street.

Carriages, Wagons, Etc.
W. F. Clark, 134 Rampart street.
J. A. Linn & Co., 162 Gravier and 13 Union street.

China and Crockeryware.
Samuel E. Moore, 55 Camp street
W. C. Shepard & Co., 29 Camp and 112 Common street.

Clothing and Furnishing Goods.
Pierson & Hews, 13 and 15 Camp street.

Coal and Wood.
H. H. Hussman, 102 Calliope street.
W. N. Packard, corner Ursulines and Rampart streets.
Sam. Smith, 351 Dryades street.
H. & C. Tyler, 9 Carondelet street.
William Velden, corner Prytania and Philip streets, New Orleans.
B. D. Wood & Bros., 106 Common street.

Cooperage.
P. A. LeBlanc, 22 Front street.

Cotton Ties.
R. W. Rayne & Co., 48 Carondelet street.

Croquet.
Bradley's Patent Croquet, Robt. J. Harp, agent. 110 and 112 Camp street.

Dentists.
Dr. John O. Angell, 152 Julia street.
Dr. G. A. Betancourt, 173 St. Joseph street.
James S. Knapp, 15 Baronne street.

Dry Goods.
Braselman & Adams, 586 and 588 Magazine street.
D. H. Holmes, 155 Canal and 15 Bourbon street.
Levy Bros., 580 Magazine street.

Educational.
Blackman's Commercial College, 131 Carondelet street.
Hiwassee College, Rev. J. H. Brunner, prest.
Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va. Rev. W. A. Harris, president.

Embroidery and Lace.
A. D. Crusse, 538 Magazine street.

Engravers.
John Gibson, 82 Beekman street, New York.
J. W. Hurt, Cincinnati, Ohio.
J. S. Pattersun, 28 Beekman street, New York.

Factors and Commission Merchants.
Aiken & Watt, 46 Union street.
Edmund Bourgeois, 19 Conti street.
Payne, Kennedy & Co., 64 Baronne street.
D. H. Wallace & Co., 79 Carondelet street.
N. D. Wetmore, 166 Gravier street.
J. B. Wilkinson, Jr., 29 Peters and 4 Clinton st.

Fire-Arms.
H. Rhodes, 55 St. Charles street.

Fruits.
S. Oteri, 23 and 25 Front street.

Furniture.
John Bois, 152 and 154 Camp street.
Joseph B. Hubbard, corner Rampart and Perdido streets.

Garden Seeds.
Henry A. Dreer, 714 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Glass Stainlog.
Fleicher & Povey, 13 W. Broadway, New York.
William Gibson, Broadway and Thirteenth street, New York.
S. S. Marshall & Bro., Allegheny, Pa.
William Nelson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Grocers.
J. J. Brown, 78 Magazine street.
J. M. Dowling, 25 Decatur street.

Hair Goods.
George T. Shilling, 381 Dryades street.

Hardware.
A. Baldwin & Co., 74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common street.

Hotels.
St. Denis Hotel, Broadway and Eleventh street, New York.

Leather.
A. F. Ricau, 80 Customhouse street.

Lumber.
Roberts & Co., 301 to 307 Gravier street.

Machinery.
Blymyer Manufacturing Co., 664 to 691 Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Lane & Bodley, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, New York.
Turbine Water-Wheel, Poole & Hunt, Baltimore, Md.
Well-Auger, W. Giles, St. Louis, Mo.
B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street.

Marble Works.
J. Waterhouse, Philadelphia.
Alfred White, 251, 253 and 257 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Medical.
Artificial Limbs, Charles M. Evans, 78 Fourth street, Louisville, Ky.
Dr. J. Hull & Co., 91 Liberty street, New York.
Cinchona Quinine, Billings, Clapp & Co., Boston, Mass.
Citrate of Magnesia, etc., Hofmann & Co., N. Y.
Cure for Consumption, Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia.
Frederickson & Harte, 139 Canal street.
Kearney's Extract Buchu, Kearney & Co., 104 Duane street, New York.
Laplace's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm, B. Laplace, 23 and 25 Elysian Fields street, New Orleans.
Metaphysical Discovery, Mrs. M. G. Brown, 51 Bond street, New York
Dr. J. P. Miller, 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Opium Cure, Dr. J. C. Beck, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Rheumatism and Neuralgia Cure, Geo. Sweetser, 120 Wall street, New York.
Rogers' Effervescing Citrate of Magnesia, A. Rogers, 193 Spring street, New York.
Ross' Epileptic Remedies, Ross Bros., Richmond, Ind.
W. B. Shearer, 101 Camp street.
Simmons' Liver Regulator, J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.
Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, 16 Murray street, New York.
Dr. C. B. Warrington's Preparations, Pittsburg, Pa.

Merchant Tailor.
Joseph Brendner, 34 Bourbon street.

Milliners.
Mrs. Fricke & Williams, 586 Magazine street.

Musical Instruments, Publications, Etc.
Robert J. Harp, 110 and 112 Camp street.
Chambers Piano Factory, 306 Fourth avenue, New York.
Henry Erben & Co., 235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-third street, New York.
Louis Grunewald, 18, 20 and 22 Baronne street.
Philip Werlein, 75, 80, 82 and 90 Baronne street.

Notary Public.
William H. Seymour, 79 Customhouse street.

Novelties.
Cowan & Co., Eighth street, New York.
Dr. Van Holen, 143 Court street, Boston.
West & Lee Gaffe Co., Worcester, Mass.

Painting and Gilding.
William Hillsman, 150 Calliope street.

Paints and Wall Paper.
M. A. Wheelahan, 119 Common street.

Paper Fashions.
M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.

Paper Mill.
James Ormond, Atlanta, Ga.

Patent Novelties.
George L. Fellow & Co., 119 Nassau street, New York.

Peas.
C. Esterbrook & Co., New York.
Joseph Gillott & Son, New York.
A. M. Hill, 86 St. Charles street.

Periodicals.
The Metaphysician, 51 Bond street, New York.

Plumbing and Gas-Fitting.
C. C. Hartwell, 48 Baronne street.

Professional.
Dr. C. J. Beckham, office, corner Magazine and Second streets.
Dr. J. J. Lyons, office, 219 Carondelet street.
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick, law office, corner Camp and Commercial places.
Dr. Henry Smith, 130 Canal street.
A. L. Tucker, attorney at law, 160 Common street

Railroads.
Great Jackson Route, A. D. Sheldon, agent, 22 Camp street, corner of Common.
New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, C. H. Allen, General Manager.

Restaurants.
Four Seasons Restaurant, 111 Chartres street.

Sale Stables.
M. F. Thomson, 269, 271 and 273 Delord street.

Savings Banks.
New Orleans Savings Institution, 156 Canal street.

Seeds.
Richard Frotscher, 12 Damaine street.
R. Maitre, 602 Magazine street.

Sewing Machines.
Domestic, M. S. Hedrick, 103 Canal street.
William Gregg, 151 Canal street.

Soap.
J. H. Keller, 110 Gravier street.

Stationer and Printer.
A. W. Hyatt, 38 Camp street.

Steamships and Shipping.
Merchants' Line New York Steamers, J. H. Ludwigsen, 190 Common street.

Stoves.
H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Tea.
Great China and Japan Tea Warehouse, 5 Camp street.

Tobacco and Cigars.
John P. Gaspard, 135 Decatur street.
J. M. Justinhant, 811 Burgundy street.

Undertakers.
T. W. Rothlick, 271 Camp street.
Thomas Markey, 40, 42 and 44 Claiborne street.

Upholstery.
Heath & Lara, 99 Camp street.
T. B. Honor, 23 Magazine street.

Wanted.
Agents, C. Ross, Williamsburg, N. Y.
Miss W., care Dr. Chew, St. Joseph, La.

Washing Machines.
Ringen Washer, H. Haller, 49 Camp street.

Watches and Jewelry.
A. Bonfil, 58 Royal street.
A. H. Griswold & Co., corner Canal and Royal streets.
E. A. Tyler, 115 Canal street.

Wire Railing, Etc.
Diller & Co., Baltimore, Md.

Yeast Powders.
Thomas Egan, 341 Common street.

Special Notices.

A Gem worth Reading!—A Diamond worth Seeing!

SAVE YOUR EYES!
Restore your Sight!
THROW AWAY your SPECTACLES,
By reading our Illustrated PHYSIOLOGY AND ANATOMY of the EYE SIGHT. Tells how to Restore Impaired Vision and Overworked Eyes; how to cure Weak, Watery, Inflamed, and Near-Sighted Eyes, and all other Diseases of the Eyes.
WASTE NO MORE MONEY BY ADJUSTING HUGE GLASSES ON YOUR NOSE AND DISFIGURING YOUR FACE. Pamphlet of 100 pages Mailed Free. Send your address to us also.

Agents Wanted,

Gents or Ladies. $5 to $10 a day guaranteed. Full particulars sent free. Write immediately, to DR. J. BALL & CO., (P. O. Box 957.) No. 91 Liberty St., New York City, N. Y.
no26 1y

Religious Notices.

NOTICE.—The district stewards of the Delhi district are earnestly solicited to be present at Delhi, February 27. There are several matters of importance claiming their immediate attention. By all means, brethren, come. Let us begin to work for the church with the beginning of the year, and then may we reasonably look for good results. C. W. CARTER, P. E.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Carondelet street	Feb. 1
Moreau street	8
Felicity street	16
Algiers	22
Baton Rouge	27, 28
Louisiana avenue	Mar. 1
Cadiz street	8
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete	13, 14

The district stewards will hold their meeting at Carondelet Street church, February 24, 1875, at six o'clock P. M.

4 J. B. WALKER, P. E.

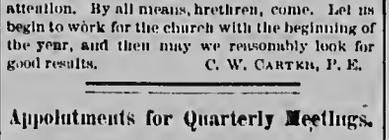
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Rankin circuit, at Wesleyana	Jan. 16, 17
Enon circuit, at Enon	23, 24
Westville circuit and Taylorville mission, at Antioch	30, 31
Mount Carmel circuit, at Dry Creek	Feb. 6, 7
Columbia circuit, at Hopewell	13, 14
Pearlington circuit, at Pearlington	20, 21
Ocean Springs station and Handsboro mission, at Ocean Springs	27, 28
White Plains circuit and Black Creek mission	Mar. 6, 7
East Pascagoula, at Zion	13, 14
Chickasawhia and Greene mission, at Mutual Rights	20, 21

11 C. F. GILLESPIE, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.



THE BEST AND LARGEST ASSORTMENT in this country is now to be found at the

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,

55.....ST. CHARLES STREET.....55

Breech-Loading Guns from $25 to $300. Muzzle-Loading Eng. Twist and Laminated Steel barrels from $10 to $150. Rifles of every description, Eley's Shells of all sizes, Eley's Caps, Brass Cartridges, all sizes, Powder, Shot, Powder Flasks, Shot Pouches, Game Bags, Hunter's Accoutrements and Fancy Articles—the best assortment. The largest and best assortment of Fishing Tackle ever imported, such as Artificial Baits, Braided Silk Lines, Gigs, etc., etc.

Dealers and Sportsmen are respectfully invited to call and examine our goods before purchasing elsewhere. We feel confident that they will save money by doing so. Address

R. RHODES,
Liquidator of firm of F. Chirleville,
P. O. Box 1509, New Orleans, La.

TAKE NOTICE.—The concern is being liquidated with a view to its being continued with greater facilities than ever. ja21 2m

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S DESIRABLE SCALP RENOVATOR requires only a trial to convince that it Removes Dandruff, Prevents Hair from Falling, Lengthens and Strengthens the Hair, Cools the Head, and Prevents Neuralgia. Observe its opening operations in your system. It is the most sure and Gentle Cathartic in the world. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $1, 50 cents and 25 cents per bottle. ☞ The Scalp Renovator is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery. The Life of the World is in the use of the Metaphysical Discovery. oct5 1yeow the first week, and am now averaging $36 in a note business. Any man or woman can do the same. ☞ The secret free. Write at once to COWAN & CO., au27 1y Eighth St., New York.

How I Made $70

HOME MANUFACTURE.

Egan's Louisiana Yeast Powder.

EQUAL TO THE BEST MADE.

Guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. For sale by all Grocers.

THOS. EGAN, Manufacturer,
ja21 1m 341 Common street, corner Robertson.

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S LUXURIOUS EAR PREPARATION does for the body what the root does for the earth (the body is earth). It gives coverage to the head and trunk, removing all obstructions and plugging from the system. It cleanses the Lungs, Heart and Liver, breaks up the worst cold, and does wonders for the entire body. Sold by all Druggists. E. J. Hart & Co., Agents. Price, $3 $1 50 and 50 cents per bottle. ☞ The Ear Preparation is one of the three parts of the Metaphysical Discovery, which cures Deafness, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, etc. oct5 1yeow

HENRY ERBEN & CO.,

ORGAN MANUFACTURERS,

235, 237 and 239 East Twenty-Third St.,

Bet. Second and Third Aves., NEW YORK.

There are seventeen Organs in this city of our make, among them the largest. au27 1yeow

W. F. CLARK, SUCCESSOR TO A. LOEZ,

134 Rampart Street,

Between Toulouse and St. Peter Sts., New Orleans,

MANUFACTURER OF

CARRIAGES AND BUGGIES.

Also carriages repaired and put in as good order as in any part of the country. First premiums awarded at the last Fair for best Victoria and Cabriolet built anywhere. fe1 1m

EPILEPSY OR FITS cured by the use of Ross' Epileptic Remedies. Trial package free. For circulars, evidence of success, etc., address ROSS BROS., No. 257 Main street, Richmond, Ind. ja21 13teow

HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

NOTICE EXTRAORDINARY.

REMOVAL.

THE EXTENSIVE

CROCKERY AND CHINA STORE

—AND—

House-Furnishing Warehouse

—OF—

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Will be REMOVED, from September 1, to the spacious Stores,

29 Camp and 112 Common Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

With the increased facilities our new and elegant Warerooms afford, we shall display the largest variety of

DINNER SETS,	TOILET SETS,
TEA SETS,	TETE-A-TETE SETS,
CHAMBER SETS,	SETS OF GLASS, ETC.,

And GENERAL HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS ever offered in the Southwest, all of which are for sale at prices as LOW AS THE LOWEST.

Notice What a Little Money Will Buy!

An elegant White Granite DINNER SET, comprising 124 pieces, for..... $15 00

to wit:

12 Dinner Plates,	1 Soup Tureen,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Salad Dish,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Covered Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers,	4 Meat Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers,	2 Pickle Shells.

A Porcelain DeTerre DINNER SET (equal to French China in appearance, and much more durable,) same assortment as above.. $18 00

A French China (best quality) DINNER SET, same assortment, 124 pieces..... 30 00

Decorated Porcelain DeTerre and French China DINNER SETS, from..... $30 up.

White Granite CHAMBER SETS, 11 pieces $4 00

White Granite TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 4 00

French China TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 5 50

French China Decorated TEA SETS, 44 pieces..... 7 50

Good Table GOBLETS, from 50 cents per set up.

N. B.—When we ship these goods an additional charge is made for the package (box or barrel) and drayage.

These prices contemplate first-class goods, and are all warranted regular and perfect.

AGENTS FOR THE CELEBRATED

BLANCHARD CHURNS,

AND THE LARGEST DEALERS IN

HOUSEKEEPING NOVELTIES

IN THE SOUTHWEST.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.,
No. 29 Camp street and 112 Common street,
de17 1y New Orleans.

SAMUEL E. MOORE,

IMPORTER OF

CROCKERY, CHINA

AND

GLASSWARE,

HAS REMOVED TO

NO. 55 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

where he will keep on hand a full supply of the above articles, at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

AND ALSO ALL KINDS OF

HOUSE-FURNISHING ARTICLES,

Comprised in part of

Silver-Plated Spoons and Forks,
Silver-Plated Casters,
Ivory-Handled Table Cutlery,
Japanned Chamber Sets,
Feather and Hair Dusters,
Table and Floor Mats, India-Rubber Door Mats,
White French China Dinner Sets,
White French China Tea Sets,
Stone China Dinner and Tea Sets,
French China Vases,
Cut and Molded Glassware.

All of which will be sold at THE LOWEST PRICES, and delivered free of charge. ja7 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

TEETH! ..... TEETH!

GREAT REDUCTION.

$30—Gold and Platinum Sets—$30.
Usual charge, $100.

$15—Aluminum and Other Materials—$15.
Usual charge, $30.

$2—Gold Fillings—$2.
Usual charge, $5.

$1—Silver, Amalgam and Guillois Cement Fillings—$1. Usual charge, $3.

DR. G. A. BETANCOURT,

173.....ST. JOSEPH STREET.....173

Between Camp and St. Charles Streets,

New Orleans, La.

offers to insert Sets of TEETH at the above prices, with or without the extraction of the roots.

Warrants the purity of all materials, as also the fitting of Plates, stability and duration of fillings, as if paid the highest prices.

Extractions and other operations performed by means of anesthetic agents. Toothache cured instantaneously. Consultations gratis. ja21 1y

NEW ORLEANS

SAVINGS INSTITUTION,

156.....CANAL STREET.....156

Incorporated March 15, 1855.

OFFICERS.

L. F. GENERES, President.
THOS. A. ADAMS, First Vice President.
THOS. ALLEN CLARKE, Second V. President.
CHARLES J. LEEDS, Third Vice President.
CHARLES KILSHAW, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Dr. W. Newton Mercer,	David Urquhart,
L. F. Generes,	John G. Gaines,
George Jones,	Carl Kohn,
Thos. A. Adams,	Christian Schneider,
Thos. Allen Clarke,	Satchel Jackson,
Charles J. Leeds,	Jules Thyes.

☞ Six Per Cent. Interest on deposits. mo19 1y

NOTICE—NOTICE.

The undersigned has purchased the stock in trade formerly owned by Dr. J. DEHENNEVILLE, and is prepared to offer to the public an entirely new and desirable stock of

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals,

PATENT MEDICINES, PROPRIETARY ARTICLES AND FANCY GOODS,

and solicits a call from his former customers, and the public for a share of patronage.

W. H. SHEARER,
ja14 2m No. 101 Camp St., cor. of Poydras.

S. S. MARSHALL & BRO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

STAINED GLASS,

62 Cedar Avenue, Corner Second Street,

ALLEGHENY, PA.

Specimens sent to all parts of the country on application. oct5 1y

DRY GOODS—DRY GOODS.

COUNTRY ORDERS.

1875. - - SPRING---SPRING. - - 1875.

Parties residing in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Adjacent States, who buy their

DRY GOODS FOR CASH,

Are invited to send to us for SAMPLES, which will be forwarded to them

FREE OF COST AND POSTAGE PAID,

and where we are favored with orders that exceed $10, the Freight Thereon will be Prepaid at our Expense. Where the Order Exceeds $20 we will Pay the Cost of Sending the Money to us, Whether by Express, Money Order, Registered Letter, Bank Draft or otherwise.

The new postal law permits parcels weighing four pounds or less to be sent by mail at the rate of one (1) cent for every two (2) ounces or fraction thereof, so that parties ordering less than $10 worth can have their purchases sent to them through their postoffices at a very slight expense. Parties sending to us for samples should be careful to write their names and addresses as plainly as possible, and where they desire packages sent by mail they should make provision for the postage unless the order exceeds $10, when it will be forwarded at our cost. The Postage on Parcels must be Prepaid.

Goods sent C. O. D. to all points where the Express Company or Packets have Agents.

As a Matter of Accommodation we will purchase articles outside of our line, which is confined to Fancy and Staple Dry Goods, but we do not pay the freight thereon unless the order for Dry Goods exceeds $10. For instance, if a party orders a piece of cotton $6, and a hat $5, the order would not be entitled to have the freight paid by us; but if the order was for a piece of cotton $6, a dress pattern $5, and a hat, or any other article not in our line, $10, the freight would be prepaid on the whole. We make no charges for purchasing articles to a limited extent, and always do the best we can for our patrons.

Articles not corresponding to order can be Returned at our Expense.

Should we not be able to fill the order, the money will be Returned at our Expense.

We make no charge for Cases, Hauling, Strapping, Drayage or Insurance.

Orders should be addressed to the firm to insure prompt attention. The personal attention of one of the partners is given to country orders. We have been in business

MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS,

and the steady yearly increase affords a gratifying record of Fair Dealing, to which we refer with pride. We are already beginning to receive

NEW SPRING GOODS!

—AND—

EVERY STEAMER FROM THE NORTH AND EUROPE

—WILL BRING—

ADDITIONAL NOVELTIES!

BRASELMAN & ADAMS,

586 and 588 Magazine St., Cor. St. Andrew, New Orleans.

CASH HOUSE.

fe4 1m

TO GRANGERS PURCHASING DRY GOODS.

We claim the attention of the Grangers, as also all buyers of Dry Goods, to

OUR EXTENSIVE STOCK

—OF—

DOMESTICS AND STAPLE GOODS,

WHICH IS NOW COMPLETE IN EVERY DEPARTMENT.

Buying and Selling for Cash Only Enables Us to Offer the Best Inducements.

☞ All Orders filled with care and promptitude.

D. H. HOLMES, 155 Canal and 15 Bourbon St.

☞ Samples furnished BY MAIL on application. fe4 1y

RAILROADS.

NEW ORLEANS, ST. LOUIS

AND CHICAGO RAILROAD CO.

(Great Jackson Route.)

Trains depart and arrive as follows, from Calliope street Depot:

DEPART.
Express	7.00 A. M.
Mail	6.00 P. M.
ARRIVE.
Express	11.00 P. M.
Mail	10.30 A. M.

PULLMAN PALACE SLEEPING-CARS THROUGH TO ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO AND LOUISVILLE.

Only one change of Sleeping-Cars to

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 21. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1875. NO. 9.

News of the Week.

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Loss by the Porte-au-Prince fire about $2,000,000. Nearly two-thirds of the town gone.

The Alps brings details of the fire. It commenced at half-past ten. In a short time it consumed a great number of houses, probably of wood, very dry, and water searce; three small engines, hose about garden size. Seven hundred families are homeless. The fire was still burning when the Alps left.

Mrs. Moulton was on the stand. Developments have an ugly look for Beecher. It appears Beecher made a full confidant of Mrs. Moulton. Full details were exposed.

Rear Admiral Charles H. Bell, United States navy, died of pneumonia this morning, at his residence in New Brunswick, New Jersey, aged seventy-seven years.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Messrs. Zacharie, Burke and Leonard, representing the Conservative party of Louisiana, had an interview with the President this afternoon. They were introduced to the President by Colonel Casey.

Mr. Burke proposed to read his amendment to the Wheeler proposition, but the President informed him that he could not be a party to any agreement, as his duty was to execute the laws, not to enter into any negotiation or compromise. But he would be rejoiced if the opposing parties in Louisiana could come to some understanding by which the present contentions in that State could be settled. He spoke in the highest terms of Representative Wheeler in the character of a compromiser, and said some mistakes had been made; but if he had been governing Louisiana at the time of the September troubles he would have turned the disturbers of the peace over to the courts, instead of consulting with them. The President informed the Louisiana committee that he would consult with the other parties to the contest in Louisiana, and said no man would rejoice more than himself if an arrangement could be made by which conflicting views could be reconciled, and the peace and prosperity of Louisiana secured. It being suggested to the President that some intimation from Washington would probably be necessary to influence the action of the Republicans in Louisiana, after some consideration he referred the committee to Mr. Wheeler.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Democratic members of Congress say no relief can be expected from the present Congress, and that none can probably be given by the next Congress. The Wheeler proposition can and will be carried out, and is favored by the administration. We can get nothing better. The House caucus should accept, and you should urge them to do so.

The Louisiana special committee reported resolutions unanimously condemning the Returning Board, and by a majority of four to three recommending the Louisiana House of Representatives to take immediate steps to remedy the injustice and to place the persons rightfully entitled in their seats; also recommending the recognition of Kellogg till the termination of the term of office. Ordered printed.

The House committee on elections has finally decided the case of Effingham Lawrence against J. Hale Sypher, from the first district of Louisiana, and of George A. Sheridan and P. B. S. Pinchback, both of them claiming to be elected from the State at large for Louisiana.

FOREIGN.

MADRID, Feb. 19.—Ministers appointed abroad: Senors Rances, England; Bedmar, Russia; Meny, Germany; Cocllo, Italy; and Tebnan, Austria.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The Workingmen's Association are discussing the sending of delegates to the Centennial.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The encyclical from the Pope to Prussian bishops denounces the Falk ecclesiastical laws, and excommunicates the bishops who accept benefices from the State.

Snow is falling in southern England.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The governments of various States of the empire are investigating the causes of emigration from Germany. They will endeavor to remove them by facilitating the acquirement of small estates, and by opposing the action of emigration agents paid by transatlantic governments.

The Germania newspaper having published the recent encyclical from the Pope to the Prussian bishops, it has been confiscated and its proprietors are to be prosecuted.

LONDON, February 22.—Zanzibar advices state that the fleet of British men-of-war bombarded and captured Fort Mombazigule, on the Island of Wombaz, off the east coast of Africa. The engagement lasted five hours. The garrison lost seventeen killed and fifty wounded. Two slave ships, with three hundred slaves aboard, were captured.

THE Boston Herald says that New York common schools give instruction in drawing and phonography and telegraphing, and three or four languages, "but if their scholars can come out of the schools, as they do in some cities, without a decent knowledge of spelling, unable to read with ease or effect, or to write plain, legible hands, what are all their scientific and linguistic attainments worth?"

Address of Democratic Members of the South and Southwest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The following address has just been prepared by the Democratic members of the South and Southwest:

To the People of the Southern States:

You have confided to the undersigned in this conjuncture of affairs the delicate and difficult task of guarding in the Federal Congress your public interest, your rights and your reputation. You will therefore pardon the liberty we take of addressing you at a period so critical, upon a matter affecting your destiny, and that of your posterity. You cannot have failed to observe the persistent efforts of some of the leaders of the Republican party to revive the animosities of the late war, which happily are fast giving place to a spirit of concord and unity in every section of our common country. It is impossible to predict certainly the effect of these appeals to passion. We believe that through the honest representation of upright and conscientious Federal officers and agents, an independent and able public press, and of many citizens, without regard to party, the true condition of the Southern States and the real sentiment of the Southern people are being gradually made known to our fellow-citizens of the North. We hope for their favorable decision when fully apprised of all the facts. The great end of good government will be reached when the people of all sections forget that we have ever been enemies, and come together as in the early days of the republic, emulating each other only in devotion to the best interests of the whole country. With this exalted purpose in view, there is nothing inconsistent with the honor and manhood of a brave people to resolve to suffer with heroic patience, whatever be their provocations and wrongs, looking through the fearful present to a hopeful future, and repelling unjust epithets and gratuitous insults with dignified moderation. Let every white man in every neighborhood in the whole South regard himself as a commissioner of the peace, maintaining the kindliest relations toward the black man, remembering that the responsibility for the extreme poverty to which we have been reduced, and the corrupt governments to which his vote has subjected us, rests not so much upon him as upon the bad men who, with the assurance of Federal support, have by appeals to his worst passions sought to make him our enemy while we labor by all honest means to convince him of the truth that our interests and his are identical, and that both must be preserved by good government, and that those who stir up strife between us are the enemies of both races. Let us at the same time see that he is fully protected in his guaranteed rights to vote as he pleases in all elections. Let us continue to deal with him honestly and fairly, and let us continue cordially to invite to our midst those of any political party who either seek to know the truth or to find homes upon our soil. We do not exaggerate when we admonish of the disheartening fact that every street disturbance, every homicide, of whatever character, by whomsoever committed, by black or white, Republican or Democrat, such as are incident to every community upon earth, is perverted into evidence of a spirit of lawlessness and violence, and a purpose to accomplish political ends. We well know the gross injustice of such charges, which have weight only where ignorance of our true condition prevails. Strenuous efforts are now being made by those who misrepresent you to induce the passage by Congress of the most dangerous measures, in order to irritate our people, to drive them to despair and to provoke them to violent outbreaks, in order to furnish an excuse for applying for military interference.

We express the hope that a majority of the present Congress will not be found ready to sanction such legislation. If it be accomplished, it would be against the protest not only of Democrats, but of the moral world and the statesmanship here of the party in power, and of such Republicans as Bryant, Evarts, Charles Francis Adams and others whose patriotism and sense of justice are known to the entire country. We may, however, be mistaken. The most extreme, oppressive and unconstitutional measures may be imposed upon you. In such event we would appeal to the wisdom and patriotism of a long-suffering people, by every hope of the future, for continued forbearance and hopeful reliance upon the virtue and sense of justice of the American people for the ultimate vindication of our rights, the protection of our liberties, and the safety of our republican form of government.

Signed by Senators George Goldthwaite, of Alabama, John W. Stevenson, of Kentucky, T. M. Norwood, of Georgia, Henry Cooper, of Tennessee, J. B. Gordon, of Georgia, M. W. Ransom, of North Carolina, T. C. McCreery, of Kentucky, Lewis V. Bogy, of Missouri, J. W. Johnson, of Virginia, A. S. Merrimon, of North Carolina; and signed by the following members of the House of Representatives:

Philip Cook, of Georgia, John H. Caldwell, of Alabama, Hiram P. Bell, of Georgia, Frederick G. Bromberg, of Alabama, John D. Atkins, of Tennessee, Alfred M. Waddell, of North Carolina, Dewitt C. Gidding, of Texas, W. S. Herndon, of Texas, Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, Asa H. Willie, of Texas, John Hancock, of Texas, William P. McLean, of Texas, J. M. Leach, of North Carolina, Robert Vance, of North Carolina, W. M. Robbins, T. S. Ash, of North Carolina, James H. Blount, of Georgia, Thomas T. Chittenden, of Missouri, John Young Brown, of Kentucky, Henry R. Harris, of Georgia, Pierce M. B. Young, of Georgia, Wash. C. Whithorne, of Tennessee, J. T. Harris and Thomas Whitehead, of Virginia, John M. Bright, of Tennessee, Edward Crossland, of Kentucky, Rees T. Bowens, of Virginia, J. B. Beck, of Kentucky, R. B. Bland, of Missouri, George M. Adams, of Kentucky, John B. Clark, Jr., of Missouri, William E. Arthur, of Kentucky, Abram Comingo, of Missouri, Milton J. Durham, of Kentucky, E. Hunton, of Virginia, R. A. Hatcher, of Missouri, Thomas M. Gunter, of Arkansas, J. M. Glover, of Missouri, Elisha D. Standiford, of Kentucky, William H. Stone, of Missouri, Joseph H. Sloss, of Alabama, John D. Young, of Kentucky, Erastus Wells, of Missouri, Charles W. Willliken and William B. Read, of Kentucky, Lucius Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi.

Democratic Advice to the South.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The question whether it will be good policy, in view of the present attitude of the administration, for any of the Southern States to hold constitutional conventions for the purpose of making changes in their organic laws, is one that has been more than once presented to the leading Democrats in Washington since the meeting of Congress. The proposition was first made in Georgia, but after taking the advice of friends here the project was abandoned. The question was next raised in North Carolina, about a month ago, in a meeting of leading members of the party at Raleigh. The sentiment there was almost unanimously in favor of a convention, but the advice of the representatives of the State here was asked. Senator Ransom, before replying, consulted with all the prominent Northern and Southern Democrats in Congress, and after giving the matter careful consideration it was decided that it would be unwise for a convention to be called at this time. The position held was that while they all recognized the right of any State to change its constitution at any time by legal means, provided no provisions of the new instrument conflicted with the constitution of the United States, still the disposition of the administration to misconstrue every act of the Southern people, and the power and apparent disposition of the President to treat the South with great severity, made it particularly desirable that nothing be done for the present that could be tortured into an excuse for further interference with the internal affairs of the Southern States. So fully convinced were the leading Democratic senators of the wisdom of this course that they wrote letters to prominent gentlemen in North Carolina, counselling an indefinite postponement of the same subject. The same question has lately arisen in Texas, and the same advice has lately been sent there.—New York Tribune.

ALLEGIANCE TO THE POPE.—The Panama Star of December 6, 1874, gives some facts that show what interference with civil allegiance the Pope ventures upon; even in this age of the world. It says:

"The attitude of determined hostility lately taken by the bishops of the church in Chile is naturally occupying the attention of the press and people of that republic. That three of the principal church dignitaries there should come out and publicly excommunicate the president of the republic, the ministry, the council of State, the senate, the chamber of deputies and all others who refuse to obey the church in preference to the constitution and laws of the country, is a phenomenon. Though not rare in the history of the Catholic Church, in its relations with the civil power, it is still startling enough in this period of the nineteenth century. There is no mistake or want of clearness in the wording of the pastoral issue by the said bishops. Whoever refuses obedience to the mandates of the church, whatever may be his rank or station, is condemned to 'eternal perdition,' and especially those, as declared by the Pope himself, who dictate laws or decrees against the liberty or rights of the church. The different periodicals of Chile, with the exception of one or two devoted to the interests of Ultramontanism, have pronounced in favor of the government."

SEASONABLE HINTS.—Few people know the value of paper as a protection against cold. No one knows, unless he has tried it, what a capital rug the Times newspaper and its supplement will make, and few people are aware what an excellent substitute for paucity of blankets can be contrived from a selection of our daily cotemporaries. It is not generally known that a brown paper lining will make an ordinary coat as serviceable as a great coat, and that an under-waistcoat deftly contrived of the same material is equal in value to a flannel shirt. This is a fact that cannot be too widely known among all classes, for it cannot fail to be useful to the high as well as to the low. The cheapness, the portability, the universality of paper—combined with the fact that you can throw it away when you have done with it—renders the material, as an additon to cheap winter clothing, valuable in the highest degree.—London Graphic.

A CORN EXTRACTOR that has never been patented—The crow.

Letter from Great Britain.

MR. EDITOR: Mr. Gladstone has dealt another scathing and stunning blow at popery in the current number of the Quarterly Review. The article is a review of a collection of two hundred and ninety speeches delivered by the Pope to "the faithful of Rome and of the earth," between October 20, 1870, and September 16, 1873. So many speeches during so brief a space speak well for the vigor and speechable ability of Pius. Few men of his age could have done so well. No more important subject could employ Mr. Gladstone's pen, and he certainly has handled it with a vigor and a thoroughness which must be felt throughout the entire of popedom. His brochure on the Vatican decrees has done good service; and this article, following on its heels with a rapidity so illustrative of its author's marvelous literary industry, will be found to deal even a heavier blow to the pretensions of the infallible tenant of the Vatican. A Rev. Don Pasquale de Francisca edits the volume. Mr. Gladstone says:

"As a general rule the spirit of a system can nowhere be more fairly, more authentically learned than from the language of its accredited authorities, especially of its acknowledged head. The rule applies peculiarly to the case of the papacy, and of the present Pope, from considerations connected both with the system and the man. The system aims at passing its operative utterances through the lips of the supreme pontiff, and, as no holder of the high office has ever more completely thrown his personality into his function, so no lips have ever delivered from the papal throne such masses of matter. Pope all over, and from head to foot, he has fed for eight-and-twenty years upon the moral diet which a too sycophantic following supplies, till every fiber of his nature is charged with it, and the simple-minded Bishop and Archbishop Mastai is hardly to be recognized under the papal mantle. * * * Much interest therefore attaches to such a phenomenon as the published speeches of the Pope. * * * The mere extracts and specimens, which have from time to time appeared in the public journals, have stirred a momentary thrill, or sigh or shrug, according to the temperaments and tendencies of readers. But they have been totally insufficient to convey an idea of * * * the picture which is represented to us by the words and actions of the Pope, taken as a whole, and considered in connection with their possible significance to the future peace of Europe."

The Pope is profane and blasphemous. This is a grave and serious charge to prefer against his holiness. But

"'Tis true, 'tis pity; but pity 'tis 'tis true."

Mr. Gladstone charges the Pope with ignorance of Scripture, and proves his charge too! Hands off; an ample field, and no favor to the belligerents. The issue is certain. The friends of truth may be jubilant in confident anticipation anent the ultimate triumph of the conflict.

Messrs. Moody and Sankey are now in Birmingham. They left Sheffield a week ago, and the known result of their labors there is six hundred and four conversions.

Birmingham—often and correctly described as the Toy Shop of the World—is better known as a town of intense political activity than of great religious vitality. For years past this has been the headquarters of the advanced school of politicians, and on more than one occasion Birmingham has given the key-note to the rest of the country upon the important questions which have agitated our times. In the stormy days which preceded the passing of the first reform bill Birmingham made her voice heard and her influence felt through Thomas Attwood, the famous founder and president of the Political Union. In later days she has continued a political power in the land, for this, if for no other reason, that John Bright—the Tribune of the People—sits in the House of Commons as one of her representatives. But Birmingham is a religious as well as a political town, and has exercised considerable influence upon England in the former as in the latter capacity. It was here that John Angel James labored so long and with such marked success; and in our own day the town has been able to count among its ministers men like Mr. Charles Vince, the well-known Baptist orator, who died only lately, and Mr. R. W. Dale, the successor of John Angel James, and one of the finest preachers and ablest writers connected with the Congregational body. Roman Catholicism has also, in its hour of need, to turn to Birmingham as containing its greatest tower of strength in England, for it is from the oratory here that Dr. Newman occasionally issues to cross swords with the strongest and stoutest assailants of popery. The free-thinking school, in all its branches and varied forms, is likewise strong in the midland metropolis, both numerically and intellectually. The Unitarians have some of the best preachers and finest churches in the town, while Mr. George Dawson, whose church is associated with no denomination whatever, and who is himself a fearless free thinker, wields an influence in these parts which it would be difficult to overestimate.

Taking everything into account, many persons were inclined to think that the American evangelists would experience greater difficulty in rousing and attracting Birmingham than they had encountered in the case of any of the other large towns previously visited. How far these calculations have been removed from the truth is abundantly shown by the truly splendid meetings which they have held this week. Never before have such stirring and memorable sights been witnessed here. Sometimes, it is true—when, for example, Mr. Bright has been addressing the electors—more people have been crowded into Bingley Hall, one of the most capacious buildings in the country. On those occasions the building contained only a few seats, so that nearly all requiring to stand, some twenty thousand persons, could find room within its walls. For Messrs. Moody and Sankey's services, however, the place has been seated throughout, and still contains comfortable accommodation for well on to fifteen thousand individuals.

On Sunday two meetings were held in the Town Hall, capable of holding nearly five thousand—one in the morning for Christian workers only, and the other in the afternoon, open to all. The hall was crowded on both occasions. In the evening at eight a service, free to all, was held in Bingley Hall. So great was the rush for admission that the immense building was thronged throughout by seven o'clock. The doors had to be closed against thousands and thousands eager to get in, it being estimated that, had it been possible, Bingley Hall could have been crowded three or four times that night, with different congregations each time. It has been the same since, daily and nightly, the Town Hall full at the noon meeting, and Bingley Hall occupied to its utmost extent in the evening. Carr's Lane chapel (Mr. Dale's) is also crowded on the occasion of Mr. Moody's Bible lectures each afternoon. While a few of the leading local clergy of the Church of England are keeping aloof from the movement as yet, a considerable number have thrown themselves heartily into the work. The various Dissenting ministers are loyally and ably supporting and assisting the evangelists. Mr. Dale attends nearly all their meetings, and almost invariably takes some part in the service, either by giving out a hymn, offering up a prayer or delivering a short and pointed address. It would be impossible to say whether the audiences are most affected by Mr. Moody's earnest appeals or Mr. Sankey's magnificent rendering of some touching hymn. On Monday night, at the close of his address, Mr. Moody asked all those to stand up who were not yet Christians, but who were anxious to become such. At first no one answered the appeal. "No one?" he cried. "What! no sinner in this vast assembly who wants to become a Christian!" Then a young girl, apparently about sixteen, rose in the body of the hall, her head hung down, crying bitterly as she held her handkerchief over her eyes. "Thank God! there's one at least!" exclaimed Mr. Moody. Then between two and three hundred persons—in all parts of the hall, of all ages, and evidently belonging to every class—stood up in rapid succession, Mr. Moody ejaculating: "Praise the Lord! So many as that! I cannot count them; but Jesus knows you all." Mr. Dale asked all those who had stood up, and any others who were anxious, to leave the hall at once and proceed to Broad Street Presbyterian church, where Mr. Moody would meet them. A large number left accordingly. Broad Street Presbyterian church, where Mr. Moody met the inquirers, was crowded. On Tuesday evening, the regular service being ended, Mr. Moody requested all who had to go to leave the hall then. A large number went; but the floor and lower galleries still remained occupied to their fullest extent. The upper galleries being cleared, Mr. Moody asked all who felt anxious to go into these galleries, where Mr. Sankey and the ministers present would be glad to converse with them, and try to remove any difficulties or doubts they might have. A great number—probably a couple of hundred, chiefly young women—complied with the request and entered the upper galleries, where Mr. Sankey and several ministers and others met and conversed with them. While this was being done, those seated in the body of the hall, at Mr. Moody's request, engaged in silent prayer on behalf of the anxious.

On Sunday next great meetings are to be held in Bingley Hall—first, for Christian workers; second, for persons who go neither to church nor chapel; third, for women; and fourth, for men. The local committee have generously given up the use of the hall on Monday, when Mr. Bright is to address the electors.

They will spend February in Liverpool, and then go to London.

The Free Episcopal Church of England will hold a convocation in June, and a cordial and pressing invitation has been sent to Bishop Cummins to attend it and take part in the proceedings. It is very probable the Bishop will be asked to consecrate a bishop or two, as the Free Church of England has none yet, and it is not likely that the most liberal member of the bench would consent to consecrate a bishop to superintend a schism. I hope Dr. Cummins will come, and that he will make at least two bishops. That will give the Free movement an impetus that will be a sure guarantee of rapid growth.

A celebrated Scotch minister—Rev. Dr. Buchanan, of Glasgow—is to spend three months in Rome for the purpose of conducting service in the Scottish Presbyterian church there. The doctor is a strong man, of commanding influence, and his presence and power will be felt in Rome.

The Bishop of Manchester has just delivered a speech in favor of undenominational education. He says: "There were fifty-six thousand children growing up without the ameliorating influences of education. What was becoming of those children? For my part, although I was very slowly and reluctantly driven to that conclusion, I have for some time adopted it, and I do not think I am likely to change my mind upon that subject, and it is this: that until we get a uniform, equitable, but at the same time effective system of compulsion to work all over the country, we shall never produce those educational results that the country has a right to expect from its people and from its government. This is something—to have one of the most influential bishops of the Church of England a convert to compulsory education, and publicly pledged to it. Another passage in the Bishop's speech is worthy of note. After deprecating the shadow of a shade of hostility between the new system and the old, he said: 'I for my part cannot understand the jealousy, mistrust and suspicion that are entertained on the part of many members of different religious bodies toward school board schools. I believe myself, whether I like it or not, that in a quarter of a century you will find that school board schools are the rule throughout the country, and that denominational schools will have become a small exception. I don't know how my words may be received when they go forth to the world. I have no doubt I shall hear them again; but I say distinctly, and without the slightest reserve, that rather than maintain a single Church of England school as denominational in a state of languor and inefficiency, I, as a clergyman, bothered out of my life to get up subscriptions and to have school sermons, begging and begging for the wretched maintenance of my school, I would, while time is at my disposal, hand over my school to a school board, and ask them to take it for secular purposes.'"

Such language will not fail to provoke much adverse comment and sharp rebuke. The Bishop is an active and exemplary Bishop.

OBSERVER.

JANUARY 26, 1875.

The Esquimaux Dog.

It is now just twenty years since Dr. Kane and his arctic explorers returned from that cold and dreary expedition, the object of which was to discover a northwest passage. Many of the bold adventurers died in that bleak and inhospitable region; others came back fearfully frosted; and others again with the seeds of consumption so firmly imbedded in their systems that early graves soon received their mortal remains. Among the latter was the talented and adventurous doctor himself, who headed the expedition, and whose imposing monument may be now seen at Laurel Hill, Philadelphia's beautiful City of the Dead.

The survivors of this expedition brought with them several of the Esquimaux dog, an animal as useful, and in fact almost as indispensable in that cheerless and barren clime as is the horse with us. Several of these found their way to Baltimore, and the species has been preserved intact to this day. In fact they have greatly "increased and multiplied," and thus settled a question which had been long in dispute. Previous to the testing of this experiment it was a matter of grave debate whether the Esquimaux dog could survive in so mild a climate as Baltimore.

The Esquimaux dog is invariably white in color, with long hair, but not shaggy, under the medium size (the ordinary cur being the standard,) and remarkably active and intelligent. They move invariably with their tails erect, and greet a cold snap or deep snow with every demonstration of delight. It was an interesting sight on Thursday morning last to watch their movements. They would fall upon their backs, and wallow in the snow and hail; then bury their heads beneath the milk-white flakes; then lap it up with their tongues, and next dart off with the rapidity of an antelope for an hundred yards or more, when the same joyful antics would be repeated. The Esquimaux dog is noted for its fidelity and affectionate disposition, and as a guard is very valuable.—The Baltimorean.

THE Pope intends to be well paid for the indulgences so liberally dispensed to Romanists during the jubilee year; and with a keen eye to the main chance, or, in other words, with a sharp lookout for "number one," he sent with his recent encyclical letter a confidential communication to the bishops abroad, urging them to encourage pilgrimage to Rome as a means of deriving benefit from the promised indulgences during the jubilee year. This seems an easy way of "raising the wind."—Christian Intelligencer.

A YOUNG Scotch country girl, who had married and gone to London with her husband, came down to Scotland to visit her friends a year or two after, and astonished them all with the very "English" way that she spoke. A lady asked an aunt of the young woman how she looked after her stay in London. "Oh, she's lookin' fine," said the aunt, "but losh, hoo she was settin' up the English, mem; weel, although she has been born an' bred on the tap o' the toor o' Lonnan, she canidna hae spoken finer!"

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1875.

RING OUT, WILD BELLS.

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light:
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring, happy bells, across the snow;
The year is going—let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out, my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold,
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

In Memoriam.

Fraternity.

MR. EDITOR: As the proposed fraternal relations between the two great Methodist churches of America and the English Methodist is eliciting some interesting communications to the religious press, I have thought it not presumptuous to enter the list, and give the views of one perhaps from a lower standpoint.

It occurs to me that in this and in all countries fraternity is desirable between denominations that agree in the main in doctrine. Difference in administration is no bar to fraternal relations; but wide differences in doctrine is a bar to fraternity, because it would ever be liable to disturbance by frequent and unpleasant controversies. They belong to the same race, but not the same family.

Here, then, are the two great Methodist churches of this country, that agree perfectly in doctrine and substantially in discipline, with our English "cousins" across the waters very much like us. These churches have been separated for years now by the powers that be, and the powers that be are ordained of God—that is, they have been separated by a state of political facts, for which facts I cannot conceive that any church was responsible as such; but the government was responsible for these facts, and each church has conformed to the state of facts that surrounded it. The Southern mind or church has been cast in Southern molds; and the Northern Church, in sentiment and thought, has been cast in the political molds of the North—each, as loyal subjects, obeying the powers that be. They have each conformed to the prevailing political sentiment of their section, limited by the dominion of African slavery.

I suppose if the Church South had been at the North it would have been what the Church North is; and if the Church North had been South it would have been what the Church South is. It would be strange if it had not been thus. The surrounding facts control our action. We are creatures of circumstance. This being true, we are now in circumstances to exercise a liberal charity and a forgiving spirit.

The state of facts that alienated these great Christian churches have passed away, and a new set of facts and circumstances have arisen upon us. The question therefore is: Should we lie as dead fossils amid the rubbish and issues of the past, or, with that progress peculiar to our race and age, should we address ourselves to the new set of facts and living issues that surround us?

It would seem that all that have written on this subject desire fraternity if they could have it their own way—and nearly every one has a way of his own; and I am sorry to say that most of the articles I have read through the press are not calculated to hasten the day when the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, but rather would tend to foment strife, and widen the breach and deepen the chasm that already exists between us.

We can never have this thing exactly our own way. All men never can see one thing exactly alike, and none think they are altogether to blame. Brethren must prepare to concede certain points and compromise certain things. If brethren will trouble themselves to read the Madison papers, and see how deeply the mind of the framers of the constitution was imbued with the spirit of compromise, and how almost every clause that came into the constitution came there by compromise, it seems to me they would modify their views and some of their conditions of fraternity. Religion is not a system of compromise where morals are involved, but it certainly is in matters of mere policy or propriety—"all things to all men."

Fraternity is obstructed, to the mind of some, on the ground that the Yankees were once engaged in the slave trade; that they brought the negroes to the South and sold them, and when the trade ceased to be profitable turned to vituperating the slave owner, and finally, at the point of the bayonet, freed the negro and impoverished his master. I cannot say one word in vindication of this Yankee perfidy. But if any organization or confederation is blamable with this great crime, and responsible for it, it is the government of the United States, and not the Methodist Church.

All of us remember well the odium that was cast upon the Northern Church for its abolition sentiments, and some extreme men South accused the Southern Church of being attainted with the same disease; but never until this question of fraternity have I heard it charged with complicity with the slave trade, either directly or indirectly.

Would it not be as logical for the world to say that the Southern Methodist Church was responsible for the ordinance of secession or for Walker's filibustering expedition, or for some Kuklux outrage by some irresponsible banditti, as to hold the Northern Church responsible for the slave trade?

Can there be a resolution or the scratch of a pen found in all of its records approving or in any wise indorsing the trade? Did it ever send an agent to Africa to capture and enslave?

If any institution in the United States has a clear record on the slavery question, it is this church. For its abolition sentiments and activity in that direction I have no defense to make. How great its sins have been in that respect I shall not attempt to judge. All I desire is that fraternity should not be obstructed by issues that have no foundation in history.

But suppose a few isolated individuals of that church did engage in the odious traffic a century or more ago—should the church at this late period be held accountable for it? Shall the sour grapes the parents ate set the children's teeth on edge forever? This shall no longer be a proverb in Israel. The record of that church is too fruitful of good. It has built too many houses of worship, converted too many souls, sent too much money to the heathen world, to be classed in crime ever below Judas Iscariot.

"Want of confidence" is thrown in the way as another obstruction to fraternity. Some would be willing to fraternize if they only could think the Northern Church was sincere in its pretensions and offers. If there are real grounds for such distrust I should regard it as a sufficient bar to its consummation. Where there is mutual distrust, or distrust on either side, I cannot see how any good could come of it until that is removed.

The facts in the case, I suppose, would here be more argumentative than anything else, and I wish I had the records by me to state them as they are. But there have been three separate and partially authenticated overtures by the Methodist Episcopal Church to this brotherhood of churches. I cannot say they were not sincere in these offers, or that they were like printers' types—set to be read backward. If they are not sincere they have put themselves to a great deal of trouble to deceive.

Let us see how much the facts in the case look like sincerity. The first overture was an informal interview of high officials of their church with our Bishops in their annual meeting. The next overture was at Memphis, in May, 1870, which, not being well authenticated, was also rejected. Both of these I regarded as feelers to ascertain whether we would respect proposals if offered in due form, or not. Next, well-accredited messengers were sent to the General Conference at Louisville, and whose whole intercourse with our people there was admired throughout the country. Now I would like to know if there is anything in these proceedings to awaken fears or create distrust? Does it look like it is intended to deceive?

These offers of peace are the only means by which we can judge of their sincerity. They are all for which the church is accountable. The Church North can no more be held accountable for "the correspondence of a certain Bishop, that ill accords with the spirit of fraternity, than the Church South can be held accountable for the hand-shaking and Christian greetings at Round Lake camp meeting. I must confess it all looks like sincerity, and is well calculated to inspire confidence.

There are sometimes fears where there is no danger. It looks to me that this want of confidence resembles somewhat the want of confidence by the freedmen in the Southern whites. Nothing that we have ever done yet gives them any confidence, and yet it seems we have done all we could to convince them of our good will and wishes toward them. Still they will not trust us, and I doubt if such would believe though one rose from the dead; and does it not somewhat resemble the man that closed his eyes that he might not see a hundred rats at one sight?

It is not manly to interpose trivial things in the way of reconciliation. All the past that can be buried should be buried, with non-resurrection written on its back. Those things that cannot be buried should be adjudicated in a spirit of Christian fellowship and good feeling. There are some real difficulties in the way of fraternity, but I doubt not that when these are reached in the progress of the matter they will be amicably and justly settled. Let our fraternal messengers be unfettered. Let us have as many hand-shakes as may be at Round Lake. Let us desist from a contest in which we have all to lose and nothing to gain. This fraternity will give us friends where we sometimes want and much need them. Every interest of the South demands that we should go fully half way in these fraternal overtures.

But some say they have treated us badly in the past, and we must show our resentment. To which I reply, not in any spirit of cowardly concession, but in the language of Alabama's ablest orator in the midst of our recent victories: "If they have treated us wrong we cannot afford to treat them the same way, but must show them a better spirit." Then we shall behold these two great Methodist families with clasped hands across this wide, deep and bloody chasm that has so long divided us cemented by the blood of Christ, with its love-inspiring power.

WILLIAM A. EDWARDS.

A False Theory.

MR. EDITOR: The theory above alluded to is the theory that Adam was not created holy. Now, sir, as I believe this theory false and very dangerous, and as many of our Methodist preachers are infected by it, and others are publicly advocating it in our periodicals and church literature, I propose in this article to show to all your readers its fallacy.

This theory is based upon the assumption that the Lord God created Adam neither good nor bad, neither holy nor unholy; and therefore Adam was not created holy. Now if this premise is true, this conclusion is also true; but if this premise is false, this conclusion is also false. Well, now let us examine this assumed premise (I say assumed premise, for it has not one text of Scripture to support it,) and see whether it be true or false. It says Adam was created neither holy nor unholy, neither good nor bad. Well, now let us look at Adam, just made by the Lord God out of the dust of the ground, with the breath of life breathed into his nostrils by the breath of God, his maker, and see him alive, both soul and body, walking, thinking and acting freely as a moral agent, placed by his Maker under a moral law that is "holy, just and good," and then ask ourselves the question: What was Adam's moral status after God created him? The theory we here oppose answers: He had no moral status at all, for he was created neither holy nor unholy, neither good nor bad. Well, if this is true, what was the nature of the holiness from which Adam fell? This theory answers: It was his own holiness—a holiness that he made himself, by his own works of obedience to God's moral law; for God created him neither holy nor unholy, neither good nor bad. Now, if this be true, Adam was the author of his own holiness, and not God; and there was no such thing as holiness in this world until Adam created it in the Garden of Eden. As he lost all his holiness that he made when he fell, there was no such thing as holiness left in all God's universe of mankind. As it is impossible for men, since the fall of Adam, to make themselves holy by the deeds of the law, it follows, as a necessary consequence, that no man on earth can ever be holy again. If this be true, it is gross folly in ministers of the gospel to preach to the people now: "Be ye holy, for God is holy," or ye cannot enter the kingdom of God in heaven. Therefore, as we have shown the premise of this theory is absurd and false, the conclusion is also absurd and false; and the theory that God created Adam neither holy nor unholy, neither good nor bad, is false and falls to the ground.

Again, this false theory proceeds on the false assumption that it is impossible for a principle of holiness to exist in a moral agent before he performs moral actions, because it supposes a man's own moral action in life produces the principle of holiness in his heart, or that it is a man's own righteous act that produces the principle of holiness; which is both absurd and unscriptural, because it confounds the principle of holiness with the practice of holiness by making the practice of holiness the cause that produces the principle of holiness in a moral agent.

I will now explode this false assumption by the word of God. St. Luke informs us that the angel of God said unto Mary: "The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the highest shall overshadow thee; therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."—Luke i, 35. Now, sir, this is conclusive. It proves as clear as the light of the sun at noonday that a principle of holiness was created by the Almighty, and did exist in the human nature of Jesus Christ before he performed the first moral action in his human life; for he was created holy by the Holy Ghost before he was born into this world. Hence this assumption is proved to be unscriptural, and it falls to the ground. The truth is, no man can nor ever could make himself holy by his own works. It is the Lord that makes man holy, and not man himself, as this theory supposes. This theory is not only unscriptural, but it is also unphilosophical. It is unphilosophical to suppose an effect to exist without a cause, or to suppose an effect to produce its own cause, as this theory supposes. It supposes the practice of holiness in a man's life without the principle of holiness in his heart to produce that practice. Here is an effect without a cause. It also supposes the practice of holiness to produce the principle of holiness in a man's heart. Here is an effect producing its own cause, which is a moral impossibility; for no man can practice holiness in life without a principle of holiness in his heart to produce that practice—just like a cause produces its effect. Hence this theory, that denies that a principle of holiness can exist in a man's heart prior to the practice of holiness in his life, is both unscriptural and unphilosophical, and contradicts matter of fact and common sense. Therefore I conclude that it must be a false theory, and is extremely dangerous.

JAMES SHANKS.

Created Holiness.

A TWO-EDGED SWORD.

The manufacturer intended this for the cutting edge: "When God first created man he could make him with a will already possessed of virtuous tendencies. And so he must have made him; otherwise he would not have been a perfect moral being—he would not have been capable of answering the ends of his creation, of rendering obedience to the moral law. Many writers show most conclusively that Adam could not have exercised right volitions and performed good actions unless his nature had been already holy; he could not conform his life to God's law unless his heart were already conformed thereto. The volitions and actions must be like the principles from which they flow, just as the stream is precisely like the fountain from which it flows. If the fountain be tasteless, the stream will be tasteless; so if Adam's moral nature was destitute of the principle of holiness, his volitions and actions must necessarily be destitute of the nature of holiness."

The other edge, however, seems to cut as well: When God first created man he could make him with a will already possessed of vicious tendencies. And so he must have made him; otherwise he would not have been a perfect moral being—he would not have been capable of answering the ends of his creation, of rendering disobedience (if he chose) to the moral law. Many writers show most conclusively that Adam could not have exercised wrong volitions and performed bad actions unless his nature had been already evil; he could not conform his life to satan's will unless his heart were already conformed thereto. The volitions and actions must be like the principles from which they flow, just as the stream is precisely like the fountain from which it flows. If the fountain be tasteless, the stream will be tasteless; so if Adam's moral nature was destitute of the principle of evil, his volitions and actions must necessarily be destitute of the nature of wickedness.

H.

"Follow Me."

MATT. XVI, 24.

Follow Christ, your great and glorious Master—that is, you "must obey the commands and follow the example of Christ" in all things that are proper and right. You "must set the life and doctrine of Christ continually before you, and you must be daily correcting and reforming your life by that rule and pattern." You are to move forward in the service of your great Master. He is to be your pattern in all things, as I have said, that are proper and right. The things which he commanded are, of course, to be strictly and faithfully observed; but many things which Christ did, while upon the earth, cannot, of course, be done by us. We are not, like him, to go into the Jewish Church; nor can it be expected that we, like him, will enter into the priesthood! But, to sum up much in a little, it is said of Christ: "He went about doing good;" and this was spoken of him in the general tenor of his holy and devoted life. As he did in this, so are his followers to do. Then let us go about doing good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith. In doing this we will be walking in his precious footsteps, and we will ever be nearing a triumphant death, a glorious resurrection, and a joyful ascension to glory and to God.

This, this is the way—the only way—of life. Come, O come, and walk in it! I cannot promise that you shall always have calm, sunshine and peace along the way. No! You shall sometimes, as he did, encounter storms. And, like him, you shall sometimes be overshadowed by clouds of inky blackness, which will cast upon you their deep shadows. You will sometimes be in the midst of war with the combined powers of earth and hell. But, blessed be his holy name, the great Master says to us in words of precious promise: "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world!" Then all will ever be well. We will not fear. We shall safely and triumphantly pass through all, and reach our bright home above, to be ever with our blessed Lord.

W. S. T.

PEROTE, Alabama.

Hazlehurst Sunday School, M. E. Church South.

MR. EDITOR: As the Sunday school cause is fast becoming one of the leading features in the prudential economy of the different church organizations, and especially that of ours, we trust a short statement of the condition and mode of conducting our school will not be considered out of place.

Our roll numbers about eighty, and under the efficient superintendency of Dr. B. H. Catching we have an excellent corps of officers and teachers—fifteen in all—who are never absent from school unless providentially detained; and, notwithstanding the weather has been so very inclement since Conference, at no time has our attendance been under forty, and the two last Sabbaths it was over seventy.

At the close of the opening prayer the Lord's Prayer is repeated by the whole school. At the close all repeat the Apostle's Creed, and are then dismissed. Exactly at the hour of opening each scholar present receives a ticket, on which is printed these words: "Punctuality and good behavior." If they behave well during school they retain this ticket; if not, it is taken from them by the teacher and returned to the assistant librarian. For a perfect lesson they receive a ticket on which is printed: "Good lesson." If they miss one word they do not receive this ticket.

These tickets are printed for our own school—thus: H. M. E. C. S. S. S.—and cannot be used in any other school. There is no difference in the value of these tickets, and twelve of them entitle the scholar to a beautiful chromo—such as are kept by our Publishing House—gotten up in good style, and beautiful in design.

We have also a "roll of honor," beautifully gotten up, nicely framed, and kept hanging in the church for general inspection. Twelve of these chromos entitle the scholar to this distinction, and quite a number of them are already enrolled, and others will be added soon. At the close of the year we will furnish your "Child's Corner" with this honorary roll. We would like to specify some of our classes, but we do not wish to be tedious. Our little ones are not unmindful of the claims of the gospel upon them, and have organized a foreign missionary society, which pays $6.30 per month. May God bless them!

MEMNON.

HAZLEHURST, Miss., Feb. 12, 1875.

Owensville High School.

MR. EDITOR: Of all the questions which agitate the minds of our people at the present day, none is of more importance than that of education; and being a good Methodist, and feeling, as we all do, that education is the sole salvation of our land and country in her now fallen and downtrodden condition, I feel it my duty to call the attention of the people, through your columns, to one among the many institutions of the same kind our church has been instrumental in building up in Texas. There is not in the State an institution of learning of the same age as the Owensville High School that possesses a better reputation than it does, nor promises greater advantages to the community. The school, formerly under the supervision of Rev. H. M. Glass, is now ably conducted by Prof. T. W. Jones and Mrs. M. L. Johnson. I am personally acquainted with Prof. Jones, and know him to be a gentleman of most excellent qualities, and well educated in all the branches pertaining to high schools and colleges. In all his endeavors to instruct his pupils he is ably seconded by Mrs. M. L. Johnsen, a lady of most estimable qualities, which, added to her age and experience as a teacher, render her almost unexceptionable.

The boarding department is managed by the Rev. William Deason and his most estimable lady. They exercise over all students committed to their charge a parental care, and special attention is paid to etiquette among the students. The price of board, with washing, lights, etc., included, is $15 per month.

As for health, few places in the State can equal and none surpass our little town. Society is as good as any country can afford; and, taking it all in all, Mr. Editor, I can truly recommend the Owensville High School to all who have children to educate. The school is now in a flourishing condition, and brighter prospects ahead.

Respectfully, A TRUSTEE.

OWENSVILLE, Robertson Co., Texas, February 8, 1875.

Obituaries.

MATTIE BROWN CUDAHAC and ROBERT MCLAIN CUDAHAC, twin children of M. N. and M. Cudahac, were born on the sixth of December, 1873. Mattie died July 25, 1874, and Robert died on the twentieth of January, 1875.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Death having taken from us, on Friday, the fifth instant, our dear friend and associate, EMMA EDNA, daughter of T. J. and R. P. Torbert, a most worthy member of our Sabbath school, on the Sabbath following this sad event the school being assembled, and the opening exercises concluded, our superintendent, in token of respect and love for the deceased, suspended the further duties of the school, and appointed a committee to give expression to the common feeling and sentiment of its members, and to have the same published in the Marengo News Journal and the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Emma Edna Torbert the Sabbath school has lost one of its best scholars, the church a most exemplary young member, and society one of its brightest ornaments.

Resolved, That while we bow with humble submission to the divine will, we cannot but mourn the loss of a friend so genial, true and constant.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family for the loss of their only daughter and sister while in the bloom of youth, and so promising, so fond, so faithful in every relation she sustained.

Resolved, That a copy of this tribute be furnished the family of the deceased.

H. B. COTTRELL,
J. C. ABERNETHY,
J. W. DAY,
Committee.

SPRING HILL, Marengo Co., Ala., February 7, 1875.

IN MEMORY OF JAMES W. CLINTON.

In manhood's full prime the loved bow beneath death's ruthless hand; and we ponder in our hearts why the good, the gentle, noble, generous, lovely ones of earth, just entering upon life's drama, seemingly without a cloud along the future of life's pathway to dim their prosperity, are thus suddenly and rudely cut down, while their lives seemed calculated to make the world better by their stay in it, and they permitted to minister to and gladden the hearts of those whose pride and joy they were; while so many vicious, wicked ones, whose only business in life seems to be to create strife or strew life's pathway with sorrow, sadness and misery, still live to "cumber the ground." Alas! our thoughts are earthly, and we forget that the ways of Providence are mysterious, and that God's thoughts and ways are high as heaven above ours, and that we should meekly submit without murmuring to these mysterious circumstances connected with our race. And yet the heart is sad; the tear will fall over the bier of noble manhood thus removed, while so bright a future of usefulness and happiness seemed just ahead. Oh, cruel death! that would not spare the last prop of age; that put out the light of love's young hope so soon; that rent the mother's heart and bowed the head of venerable age in weeping and sorrow; that cast a gloom of sadness over happy homes far away! Yea, the pall of sorrow, as a cloud, sits on the brow of children as they listen to the tale of blood that closed the days of one whom they delighted to claim as kinsman, and whose life example was their model of manliness and kindness. Alas! his sun of life is set, and the "winter of our discontent" would know no ending but for the hope, the glorious hope, that "this mortal shall put on immortality," and "death be swallowed up in victory;" which hope, as "an anchor of the soul," is the dawning of a better, brighter day, when "friends shall meet again who have loved."

BYTHELL HAYNES BAIRD.

HOWARD, Bell Co., Texas, Feb. 6, 1875.

JOEL REYNOLDS died in Bolton, Hinds county, Mississippi, December 27, 1874.

The deceased was born in Granville, Massachusetts, November 21, 1800. He came South in early life. In 1825, near Hillsboro, North Carolina, he was married to Miss Celia Ann Moore, who still lives. In 1830 he removed to Alabama. He lived twenty years in Greensboro, where he brought up a family of sons and daughters, giving them good literary advantages. In 1819 he removed to the place of his late residence, near Bolton, Mississippi.

Bro. Reynolds was a man of vigorous intellect and strong will; a man of fine observation, large reading and great industry. He was successful in temporal affairs. By the results of the war he was deprived of large property. Old as he was, he addressed himself to his chosen work of planting, and in the midst of general failure realized success.

Bro. Reynolds was a Christian man. More than fifty years he was a member of the Methodist Church. The last few years of his life he was more zealous than ever in the cause of religion—ripening, it would seem, to be gathered. His faith was comprehensive and serene. In the vicissitudes of life he accepted the providence of God as all-pervading, wise and good.

His last illness was short. He talked much to his friends about religion. He urged and impressed its importance. His life was useful. His death also, no doubt. His children and grandchildren call him blessed. Numerous friends regret him. The church will miss him. His aged widow—a woman of marked intelligence and piety—is crushed in feeling. How bereaved, after fifty years of wedded life! But for fifty years she has trusted God. She has comfort in the faith and hope of the gospel.

JOHN A. ELLIS.

IN MEMORY OF SARAH A. SIMS.

The subject of this notice was born in Abbeville district, South Carolina, February 5, 1798, and died January 29, 1875, at the residence of her husband, Elder B. Sims, in Scott county, Mississippi, aged seventy-six years, eleven months and twenty-four days.

At an early age she emigrated with her parents to Milledgeville, Georgia, where, at about eighteen years of age, she married Bro. B. Sims, with whom she removed to Greene county, Alabama, in 1821; thence they went to Sumter county, and later to Scott county, Mississippi, where she had lived for twenty years at the time of her death.

Having sought the Lord early, Sister Sims found him at the age of seventeen, and connected herself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1839, being "buried with Christ by baptism," she entered the fellowship of New Prospect Baptist church, Sumter county, Alabama. At the time of her decease she was a member of Morton Baptist church.

Sister Sims was one who adorned the gospel of God, her Savior. She carried her religion into every relation of life, and by her unobtrusive piety "commended herself to every man's conscience in the sight of God." As a wife she was a helpmate indeed; as a mother and grandmother she was patient and fond; as a neighbor she was obliging and kind; and under her hospitable roof the stranger ever found a kindly welcome. Indeed, taken all in all, her career was a vivid exemplification of the religion of the Bible; and, though dead, she still proclaims in trumpet tones that "wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

Having fought a good fight and kept the faith, when death came she went not,

"Like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged in his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approached her grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

What comfort in this thought to the bereaved family and friends, and how it will cheer her aged husband during the little time that remains until he will be welcomed by his sainted spouse to the unfading joys of paradise!

"Then, brother, dry your tears—
Your loved one's now at rest;
Soon you shall meet to part no more,
At home in Jesus' breast."

J. H. G.

THE JEWISH MINISTRY.—As far as our limited knowledge extends, we perceive that many of our ministers, fearful of offending their "employers," take a very unworthy view of their position, and underrate the intelligence of their auditors. They conceive that their policy is to please their hearers, totally unimpressed with the conviction that it is their mission to "separate between the holy and the profane." By doing thus they do not properly act toward their hearers, who are well aware that it is the instructor's duty to instruct, if even he does not please. The minister must stand firm in the inflexibility of his principles. When he says, "Thus speaketh the Lord," he must have some warrant for the expression, and that his authority exists in the Bible. From the moment he closes that sacred volume, imagining that his auditors will be more pleased with modern authority, from that time his usefulness is at an end. His congregants will leave the synagogue unimpressed and unimproved.—Jewish Messenger.

THE London Examiner has an article on the debts of the Prince of Wales, in which it says, "The household of her majesty costs the nation nearly £400,000, and the total charge for the whole of the royal family is not far short of a million," or $5,000,000, and adds: "We have the profoundest respect for her gracious majesty, and we repeat that she is the best of all constitutional sovereigns. But the select committee will have to ask what does her gracious majesty do, and, when it finds that she only signs her name, it may perhaps ask whether £400,000 is not a very large sum to pay for a task which in the public offices would be amply recompensed by £150 a year."

IN FORMER TIMES the government allowance given to the widows of Scotch clergymen was nearly equal to the clergyman's stipend. A minister of Cranshaws, a parish among the Lammermoors, having wooed a lass in humble circumstances, the father of the damsel, when consulted on the subject, said: "Tak' 'em, Jenny, tak' 'em; he's as guid dead as living."

BEST of all is it to preserve everything in a pure, still heart, and let there be for every pulse a thanksgiving, and for every breath a song.—Gossner.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1875.

THE PARADOX OF TIME.

(A VARIATION ON RONSARD.)

"Le temps s'en va, le temps s'en va, ma dame!
Las! le temps, non; mais nous en allons."
RONSARD.

Time goes, you say? Ah, no!
Alas! Time stays—we go;
Or else, were this not so,
What need to chain the hours,
For youth were always ours?
Time goes, you say? Ah, no!

Ours is the eyes' deceit
Of men whose flying feet
Lead through some landscape low;
We pass, and think we see
The earth's fixed surface flee.
Alas! Time stays—we go!

Once, in the days of old,
Your locks were curling gold,
And mine had shamed the crow;
Now, to the self-same stage,
We've reached the silver age.
Time goes, you say? Ah, no!

Once, when my voice was strong,
I filled the woods with song,
To praise your "rose" and "snow;"
My bird, that sung, is dead!
Where are your roses fled?
Alas! Time stays—we go!

See in what traversed ways,
What backward Fate delays,
The hopes we used to know;
Where are our old desires—
Ah, where those vanished fires?
Time goes, you say? Ah, no!

How far, how far, O Sweet,
The past behind our feet
Lies in the even-glow!
Now, on the forward way,
Let us hold hands and pray.
Alas! Time stays—we go!

Justin Dobson, in Good Words.

Dr. Strong's Palestine Explorations.

A large audience gathered in the lecture-room of Rev. Dr. J. T. Duryea's church (Presbyterian,) Classon avenue, Brooklyn, on Wednesday evening, December 30, to welcome home Prof. Strong, of the Oriental topographical corps, who, in company with nine other gentlemen, spent the last year in travels through Egypt, the Desert of the Exodus, and Palestine. The Rev. Dr. Duryea presided and read the opening address, and upon concluding his remarks introduced Prof. James Strong, of Drew Theological Seminary, who spoke as follows:

I had looked forward to the expedition all my life, and it was only a Providence that let me go at last. I went out, primarily, to accomplish something of research. The company might have been differently constituted. If I had had a corps of scientific men directly under my control results more satisfactory would have been accomplished. But all the gentlemen in our party bore their own expenses, and therefore controlled their own time.

The results of our expedition have been quite as satisfactory as any previous one. Three hundred photographic views have been taken, covering the entire route of the journey through Egypt, the Desert and Palestine. These photographs were left in London to be finished up, and are expected to arrive on every steamer. A large collection of birds, curiosities, antiquities, and objects to illustrate art and manners, was also made for preservation.

There is nothing like seeing, after all. The pictures on my mind's eye are more sharply photographed than in the pictures I took by photography on the spot.

Most of my previous impressions were confirmed. I think if I had been set down in Jerusalem I could have found my way alone. My dragoman said I did not need a guide. The Desert was more emphatically a desert than I had conceived. Such a wilderness I could not have imagined. There was vegetation in March. Our camels found part of their living on the herbage. Outside of the valleys was a sheer rock, not an atom of soil upon it, ascending at an angle of forty-five degrees, perfectly impassable, three, four and five hundred feet high, and sometimes three and four thousand feet high—naked granite peaks. Being red granite, they were brilliant as brick, cracked and crumbling, ready to fall down. Blue, green, black, purple and brown, with brilliant shades of red, and a red sandstone cap overhanging the whole, the rocks appeared like the changing pictures of a kaleidoscope. There was no mist. The atmosphere was perfectly dry, with not a speck to cloud the sun. There was a wonderful exhilaration about the air—so pure and clear, yet not parched, but tolerably warm. The solemnity of the place was remarkable; not a sound of a bird or an animal; nothing except the noises of our animals' feet echoing on the rocks as we moved along. This was the place where the Israelites spent forty years.

Palestine was more rocky than I had thought. It is a rocky land. Rounded rocks seemed graded and smoothed off like a series of haycocks. There are no high rocks. The valleys only are fertile. Terraces once covered these rocks. In Lebanon these terraces still remain, covered with grain. Christians live here—Maronites. In Palestine, where the Arabs live, the soil is washed off, and it is desolate and forlorn. Very few trees are seen—"Abraham's oak of Hebron," and here and there a solitary tree. The villages are generally bare of trees. Scrub oaks cover the hills.

Egypt is a desolate land. It abounds in misery the most abject, though the native richness of the soil relieves the sight. The people are the most degraded set of beings I ever saw, with nothing to live with, nothing to live upon, nothing to live for in this world or the next.

We went from Alexandria to Cairo; then to Moab and to Jerusalem, entirely around the Red sea, down to Beersheba, to the hills of Judah, through central Palestine, up to Tyre, back to Damascus, up to the Cedars, and down to Beyrout.

Egypt is the valley of the Nile literally. The overflowings of the Nile form the soil. If the inundation of the Nile fails a single year, famine follows. There is no continuous rain, and no rainy season, but occasional rainfalls. There are no wells; not a spring, not a tiny rill. Not a drop of water runs into the Nile, but it gives off a great deal. There is much less water at the mouth of the Nile than back nearer its sources. A mere scratch in the soil suffices for tillage till the latter part of the season; then water, water, is the only cry. From the earliest daybreak till the shades of evening the natives raise water with a pole and a bag of skins, and empty it, three of them, all day long, to keep alive the thirsty crops. In midwinter we saw them working in this way at five cents a day!

What do they live upon? Most humble fare—barley bread, commonly cooked and ground by themselves, sticky, black, grindy sort of flour, mixed in wooden bowls, with salt and no yeast, made in a loaf as large as the two hands, and thick as one hand, and they bake it in the ashes. The Arabs most always have a fire at night. It keeps off the sprites, as they suppose. The barley cake is taken out of the ashes half baked, black, dirty, sour, everything that is vile. This one cake is all they have for a dinner and supper for two. And this is Egypt, the great land of the Pharaohs, that gave letters to the whole world, that anticipated nearly all the discoveries of modern times.

We went to Memphis. Sunk in the mud was the statue of Rameses. We brought home a piece as a memento. In Cairo we found a stately obelisk, the oldest in Egypt—a solid shaft of granite, forty or fifty feet high, six feet square at the base. The sharp edges of the hieroglyphics carved on the obelisk cut your fingers. The rock is so hard, that one fellow cut one year to get a piece and only cut one inch, and gave it up. And this is all that is left of Egypt, the most wonderful country on the earth.

On the high plains of Moab are one thousand acres of as fine land as you ever saw. The Arabs won't cultivate it. In all the tropical country around Jericho not a foot is cultivated; there is not a human habitation. So all around the Dead sea and up to Bethany. It is because the Arabs won't let the people cultivate it. There is some beautiful land about the plains of Moab.

Such beautiful grain I never saw before. Heavy heads, with three or four rows of seed around it as large as your thumb. Only a scratch is made on the ground in cultivation, with a wooden plow. Other soils produce grape-vines and mulberries. In the northern part of Palestine, in Lebanon, the Maronites or Christians raise silk, and are very industrious and thrifty people. They are good, honest fellows, but they are so oppressed by taxes that they have to mortgage their silk crops to get along. It is a ruined land. There is no escape from it; all is crushed by the iron heel of tyranny.

We ascertained the locality of Goshen and Rameses (which have always been in doubt;) also the place of the passage of the Israelites across the Red sea. The particular place, we think, was not at Suez, but lower down, below the rocks of Migdol, which shut them in, rendering escape impossible except to pass through the sea. We followed the route of the Israelites through the desert. One place was only fifty feet wide, another only thirty feet, where they had to pass. The valley of Paran is a charming place, as also is Rephidim. We saw the rock that Moses smote to get water for the thirsty Israelites. We saw Mount Sinai, bold and bluff, like an immense pulpit, where the law was delivered to Moses. It was a fit place for the delivery of the law in the heart of that wide, voiceless desert.

Jerusalem is a small place; you can go across it in twenty minutes. The edict has gone forth from the Turkish government that the walls shall be pulled down. Ten years hence there will be nothing of them but a miserable heap of rubbish. It filled me with sadness. They are pulling down the walls of Gaza now. New Jerusalem, the Russian part of the city, is being rebuilt in a neat and pretty manner in the northern part of the city. All the sacred localities are huddled together and covered with tinsel. They have to me very little of interest. The position of Calvary, and the tomb where Christ was laid, are little like what we expect to see. Ancient Jerusalem is buried ten, fifteen or twenty feet under ground, and if you wish to find it you must dig for it. So with Rome and other ancient cities. If the point of the exact locality of the sacred places is ever settled, it must be dug for, and here is a chance for those Oriental societies to spend all the money they can get.—Correspondent of the Methodist.

The Stage Ride.

But I am a long time getting to my stage ride, yet these preliminary statements are necessary to the appreciation of the story, and still more is essential. In the days of which we are speaking the vast amount of lumber sawed in the mills at Oldtown was rafted, and run to Bangor over the rapids, as much of it is now. The raftsmen would either walk back, or take the stage, which was run to Bangor and back daily. It required a pretty clear head to take a raft to Bangor over the rapids and through the intricate channels, so that the deficiency of stimulant they dare not take on at Oldtown was made up at Bangor; and therefore a wilder and more rollicking set of men than those usually filling that six-horse stage is seldom seen. Often it had thundered by me on the road, when the singing of songs, the jesting and fearful swearing would throw an Indian pow-wow into silence. One Saturday, when I was to go to Oldtown, a fearful storm prevailed; the rain was falling in torrents, and the wind blew a gale. To walk up was out of the question. I must wait and take the evening stage from Bangor, if I could get in. I went to the hotel and waited its arrival. The night came, dark as Erebus; one could hardly see his hand before him. Shortly I saw the gleaming lights of the stage, and it soon rolled up to the door of the hotel in a perfect tempest of confused sounds of hilarious jollification.

"Is there room inside?" I shouted at the door.

"All full," some one replied.

"Twelve inside," said one; and the top was crowded.

"Make room for the gen'lman," said a deep, husky voice. "Crowd up there; give 'im a seat in the corner, boys," continued the same voice.

I owe to a slight shaking of heart as I crawled in among them. I could not see a face, and I am sure mine was too pale to be seen by them. Hamblin, good-hearted fellow, holding the ribbons over his splendid team of six steaming grays (I wonder if he still lives, or has taken the last sad ride?) cracked his whip, and off we dashed, through rain and mud, into the darkness.

"Now a song," said some one, in rather thick tones; but no one seemed just ready. They had been singing through seven miles, and the stock was running low, and five miles remained to be provided for. "A song! a song!" they shouted, but each excused himself. Some were hoarse, and others too far gone to make the effort.

"Here's the gen'lman jest got in; he'll give us a song!"

"Jes' so!" said another. "We gin 'im a seat."

That seemed so logical that it passed unanimously. I saw, and need not say I felt, that I was in a tight place; but I was not much of a singer at best, and here I should make the attempt under peculiar difficulties. But I saw something must be done at once. No white features here.

"Gentlemen," I said, "I will sing for you a song on two conditions. First, you shall be quiet, and not interrupt me while singing."

"That's fair," said that same gruff voice I heard at first. "Anybody iuterrupts the gen'lman goes out in the rain," with a very forcible expletive.

"'Jes' so!" they responded all around.

"The second condition," said I, "is that you shall not complain of what I shall sing."

"That's fair," said that same voice again. "Sing what you like, and ef anybody finds fault he goes out in the rain!"

"Jes' so!" said the chorus.

Oh, for Wadleigh's, said I to myself, or a breakdown! I at once commenced:

"He dies, the Friend of sinners dies;
Lo, Salem's daughters weep around;
A solemn blackness veils the skies;
A sudden trembling shakes the ground."

I sang it in the air of Bonnie Doon. Not a tongue moved while I was singing, and I am sure no prima donna or celebrated tenore showed finer trills and shakes than I exhibited. Indeed I think I excelled, for theirs are artificial, while mine were natural quavers. When the last line was reached,

"And where's thy victory, boasting grave?"

there was a dead silence for a moment, when my friend of the deep tones said:

"That's first-rate!"

"That's good!" said another.

"Jes' so!" went round.

"Now," said my defender, "sing us another."

"Well," I replied; "on the same conditions as before."

"That's fair," said he; "anybody as sez anything goes out in the rain." (No oath this time.)

I then sang, in the old tune Bangor, the hymn:

"Vain man, thy fond pursuits forbear;
Repent; thy end is nigh."

Not a sound was heard save my tones; and when I concluded they expressed hearty thanks, and just then the stage rolled up to the door of the hotel, and my ride was over. The next morning I met the driver.

"I pitied you," said he, "when I saw you get in, for I knew what I had inside, but I couldn't think what was the matter in there, for I haven't brought up so quiet a set this season."

Let us hope that, though

"They may forget the singer,
They did not forget the song."

Rev. Mark Trafton, D. D., in Zion's Herald.

Bible Synonyms.

In the Epistle of St. James we find the exhortation: "Let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing." That epistle deals with the subject of endurance and obedience, and perfection in these respects is, as a rule, gained by degrees through the grace of the Holy Ghost, and the influence of divine truth upon the mind. It is therefore a proper subject of exhortation and prayer: "That ye may stand perfect and fulfilled in all the will of God." Perfection is just the attainment of our telos—i. e., the end and consummation of our holy calling. Entireness is wholeness or completeness of character, not leaving any part unsanctified, or surrendering any faculty to unrighteousness, or lacking any good thing. This does not imply that all are to be filled to the same measure, or molded to the same shape; but it means that every one is to labor and pray that his Christian life may be not only genuine, but complete and consistent, according to his capacity, that he be sanctified wholly by the God of peace.

2. The upright is "yashar," the man of straightforwardness, rectitude and equity. The term indicates a tone of character which a healthy moral sense always and everywhere approves. Even Balaam, though himself consciously, and from a selfish motive, swerving from rectitude, knew enough of its value to cry: "Let me die the death of the yashar, and let my last end be like his." Moralists who repudiate divine revelation must not suppose that they have any priority or superiority in inculcating the virtue and strength of a sincere and upright character. Holy Scripture is not entirely occupied with the history of divine interpositions, or even with the salvation of sinners. In its earlier as well as in its later books it inculcates, delineates and encourages integrity and justice; while it connects these, as our Bible-refusing moralists cannot do, with the righteousness of God above, from whom all goodness and truth emanate, and to whom they return in the consecration of his people to the Lord who loves righteousness.

3. The expression, "complete in Christ," belongs to the New Testament. In him dwells more than a fullness of qualities and powers, such as constitutes the consummate ideal man. It is "the fullness of Godhood bodily." This fullness is made accessible and available to all who are his. Out of it they all receive. They are not taken up into the divinity, but divinity streams upon them, into them and to them, as they dwell by faith in Christ. It is no more the case of a man walking before the Lord, and being perfect, as Noah, Abraham or Job was perfect. It is the case of a man dwelling in the Lord, hidden in him for safety, quickened in him for life, justified in him for acceptance; nay, filled up or completed in him. All grace abounds toward the believer, and he has all-perfect resources in his Lord and Savior. He is filled not as the vessel now and then dipped in the lake and carried away, but as the stream that receives the waters of that lake in a constant living flow. He is filled not as the basket into which summer fruit is gathered from a tree, but as the branch is supplied with sap, and so covered with clusters of grapes from the living vine in which it abides. Jesus Christ, being full of grace and truth, is for us all-sufficient, and we are completed in him, as we are admitted into the fellowship of his spirit, the enjoyment of his grace, and the riches of his inheritance, "who is the Head of all principality and power."

4. The term "perfected" applies either to worship or to character. In the former sense it is true of Christians in their lifetime; in the latter it is not.—Sunday Magazine.

Intemperance in Wine-Drinking Countries.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing of intemperance in wine-drinking countries, says:

I know of persons who have made the subject a matter of study and personal observation, with no very strong temperance bias, and their testimony was that they found a fearful amount of intemperance, not before their eyes in the streets, but where they looked for it. Here are some bits of evidence:

"The liquor-sellers in France number one to every one hundred inhabitants. It is true that they have gone on from wine to something stronger, even to the fatal absinthe; but that is just what could have been foreseen. The alcoholic taste is formed and handed down.

"I have just spent six months in Switzerland, where wine is cheap and pure. Here more intoxication was obvious than in any other place it was my lot to live in.

"The Italian laborer rarely begins his potations till his day's work is done; consequently travelers see and know very little of the extent of them. They carouse till about midnight, and then reel to their wretched homes; and the cries of their children and the groans of their wives soon tell of the fury and brutality which marks the drunkard the world over, whether he wear homespun or broadcloth.

"'Daring a few years' residence in Italy our household was served at different times by some eleven men and women servants. Eight out of the eleven drank to excess. Thinking it probable that brandy did the mischief, we inquired as to this point, and the answer was always the same: 'No, no; it is wine—always wine.'

"It is fair to add the rest, even if it reveal the inconsistency of the writer, if he pretended to be a temperance man: 'If a wine-closet were by any accident left open, the servants were more quarrelsome, and would only be fitted to resume work after a night's sleep.'

"A Swiss physician of very high standing, residing in Canton de Vaud, told us that throughout that region with the culture of the vine had come the curse of drunkenness, and that a most lamentable increase of sin and sickness has been the result.

"A man of large wealth and Christian principles, in California, planted vineyards and made wine in the honest belief that the use of light native wines would be a benefit. In a very short time he gave up the whole plan as he saw the mischief wrought by the wine."

A STARTLING TRUTH.—Dr. Livingstone having spoken to an African chief on the final judgment, the white throne, etc., before which the heaven and the earth should flee away, Sechule, the chief, replied in these remarkable words: "You startle me! These words make all my bones shake! I have no more strength in me! But my forefathers were living at the same time yours were, and how is it they did not send word about these terrible things sooner? They all passed away in darkness, without knowing whither they were going." What an appeal have we here from heathen lands! How should those be startled who neglect their duty? Shall the complaint ring in our ears in the great day: "No man cared for our souls! Why did you not send us word about Jesus and the way of salvation? Why did you allow us to perish in the darkness of idolatry?"

Ah, my brethren, the messengers are now ready to go, the fields are white to the harvest, but the funds are needed to send the men and sustain them! Brother and sister, will you refuse to help? Dare you say No to these calls for aid? Who would not participate in the great work of the world's salvation? Invest the Lord's money where it will make a liberal return. Do not wrap it in the napkin of selfishness and hide it in the earth, lest you hear the condemnation of your Lord.

CHRIST calls the poor man blessed. Art thou afraid of labor? Palms are the parents of a crown. Art thou hungry? Faith fears no famine. God, the great General of the world, with his army of angels, behold thy combat, and prepare for thy laborious victory a crown of everlasting rest!

WHY is Neptune like the man who searched for the philosopher's stone? Because he was a sea-king what never existed.

Religious Intelligence.

THE Troy (New York) Press claims that the first Sunday school Christmas-tree was put up in that city in 1843.

THE suppression of the religious order of Sisters of Charity has been decreed by the Mexican Congress by a vote of 113 against 57.

THE Christian Standard sums up the additions to the churches of the Disciples of Christ for the year, and finds the number to have been 30,254.

MR. BRUCE, of the Church Missionary Society, writes that he has fifty times as many opportunities for teaching the gospel to Mohammedans in Persia as he had in India.

THE Second Reformed Episcopal church of Philadelphia, Rev. W. R. Nicholson, rector, contemplate the erection of a new church edifice as soon as the weather will permit.

THE London Watchman and the Methodist Recorder belong both to the same proprietary, and are managed by the same board of directors, who meet monthly. Both papers are prospering.

THE Pope has absolutely refused to recommend the bishops imprisoned in Brazil to resign their sees as a measure for the reconciliation of their differences with the government of that country.

THE American Episcopal Church intends to have one missionary bishopric in Japan and one in China. Bishop Williams has been appointed to the former, and Rev. Mr. Orrick, of Reading, Pennsylvania, elected by the recent convention to the latter.

A DISPATCH from Geneva, Switzerland, says: "Disturbances have occurred over the baptism of children by the Old Catholics in two villages of this canton, and the presence of troops is necessary to preserve order. No further particulars are given."

THE Holston Methodist reports revivals at the following places: Mossy Creek, Tennessee, 50 conversions; Tazewell Courthouse, Virginia, 26 conversions; Marion, Virginia, 40 conversions; Parrottsville, 20 conversions; Bonsack's, Virginia, 26 conversions.

ONE of the jubilee singers, Mr. Isaac Dickinson, is now pursuing his studies at Edinburg University for the work of the ministry, and he has been speaking with power at Greenock on the subject of the Scottish revival, in which he has taken a deep personal interest.

TEN THOUSAND pounds are to be raised toward the expenses of the mission of Messrs. Moody and Sankey to London, and the Agricultural Hall has been secured for the month of March. In the three succeeding months they are to labor in other parts of the capital.

THE Dublin daily prayer meetings have been so largely attended by the Catholics that Cardinal Cullen warns the people against becoming "followers and admirers of ignorant converted colliers, of roving minstrels or speculative travelers," etc.

THE Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada, having requested its ministers to preach on Sabbath observance on Sunday, January 17, the Kingston Sabbath Reformation Society has invited all the ministers of the Dominion to select the same topic for the same day.

IN October last two native pastors were ordained in connection with the Choctaw mission of the Southern Presbyterian Church. Miss Hoge, formerly of Richmond, Virginia, has charge of the Muskogee Institute, at which forty Creek girls are supported by their nation.

THE oldest congregation of the Jamaica mission of the United Presbyterian Church has reached the fiftieth year of its existence, and the synod of Jamaica has resolved to signalize the occasion by the institution of a fund for the education of native ministers, and of other agents for the work of that mission.

THE Wesleyan Methodists' Commercial Record and Year-Book gives the number of Methodist members throughout the world as 3,692,768, those on trial not included, nor the large number of hearers, Sunday scholars and communicants who are not members. The number of ministers appears to be 23,514.

THE Baptist Union says that the progress of open communion sentiment in their denomination "is surprising and most encouraging. At the rate of growth which has developed for three years past we shall soon reach in America the happy position already attained in England, where the question has ceased to agitate or divide."

THE Ultramontane party in the Grand Duchy of Baden has suffered a great loss in the defection of their leader, Dr. Bissing, long the editor of the Beobachter, and representing his political friends in the Chamber of Deputies. He has declared publicly that he can no longer defend a party which does not scruple to trouble the public peace and violate the laws.

AFTER a somewhat perilous voyage of upward of five months, the little steamer of the London Society, the Ellengowan, intended for the New Guinea mission, has arrived at Cape York, Australia, where the mission has its headquarters. The Ellengowan is the seventh missionary vessel and the first steamer connected with the London Missionary Society.

THE topics for the next Episcopal Church Congress are provisionally determined on, as follows: "The Relations of Church and State, The Nature and Limits of Episcopal Authority, The Relief of Poverty and the Church Methods Thereof, Bible Revision, Church Music, Co-operative Labor, The Church and the Masses, and The Best Methods of Deepening the Spiritual Life." The programme is an excellent one.

THE bill for legislative sanction of the union of the Presbyterian churches in Canada has passed the Provincial Legislature. Some opponents of the union applied to the Chancery Court for an injunction to prevent the moderator or clerk of the Kirk Synod from applying in the name of that church for the needed legislative sanction, but the court refused the petition. Thus all the legal obstacles to the union are removed.

A CONGREGATIONAL Ministerial Bureau has been established at Boston, in charge of a permanent secretary, Mr. George Beal. Permanent or temporary supplies are to be arranged through that office. Terms for a pulpit or a supply for a single Sabbath, the minister or church pays twenty-five cents; to secure an opportunity to preach in view of a permanent settlement, or to obtain a pastor, $5 are to be paid.

THE freedom permitted in the matter of religious worship in Rome under the Italian government, and the growth of Protestantism in that city, appear to be very satisfactory to the majority of the Roman people, who find themselves gainers by the impulse given to intellectual activity, and by the sums expended by foreign societies in carrying on their various enterprises. Whatever dissatisfaction may exist is, of course, inspired by the Vatican.

MRS. DEAN, the wife of the Rev. Dr. Dean, of Siam, has the satisfaction of knowing that her petition, signed by most of the European ladies at Bangkok, praying for the abrogation of the law which allows a man to pawn his wife and children into slavery in payment of a debt contracted by opium-smoking or gambling, has been favorably received by the young King, and this unnatural privilege will probably be taken from the Siamese gentry.

THE baptism of an educated Brahmin, Narasinga Rau, is reported from the London Society's mission in Tripatoor. The young man had lost his faith in Hindooism through his studies at Madras University, and had come to a general knowledge of God. Some few years later, when in great sorrow, he chanced to meet with a New Testament, and found in it the passage, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me," which proved to be the beginning of his Christian experience.

BISHOP VAUGHAN, of Selford, England, who is now in this country, superintending the English Roman Catholic mission to the freedmen, issued, before he left home, a circular to the clergy of his diocese, ordering them to refuse the sacraments to Mr. Henry Petre, the gentleman who, with Lord Acton and Lord Emroys, has so explicitly declined to accept the Vatican dogmas. Bishop Vaughan and his priests on arriving at this port proceeded immediately to the South, where they will be employed in missionary labors among the negroes.—Independent, February, 1875.

ONE of the most beautiful spots in India is Mengnapuram, in Tinnevelly. Fifty years ago it was a sandy jungle. Now the mission premises, on which the fine Gothic church, the schools and the parsonage stand, are fragrant with roses, rich with fruits, and shaded with noble trees. Mengnapuram is an entirely Christian village, and out of it and neighboring villages a congregation of one thousand persons is gathered on the Sabbath. The missionary through whom God wrought all this rests beside the wall of his church, and his widow and daughters still reside in the bungalow near by.

BISHOP COLENSO'S late visit to England was solely in the interest of the native tribes of Africa, at whose instance he went to obtain redress for certain grievances of which they complained. He was successful in his appeal to the government. As a desire was manifested on the part of some of the very "Broad" churchmen to bring him into the pulpit again, three bishops, those of London, Oxford and Lincoln, issued their interdicts forbidding him to preach within their jurisdiction. Dean Stanley invited him to preach in Westminster Abbey, but Colenso, more prudent than the dean, declined.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Evangelist says of the labors of Mr. Henry Varley, the English evangelist, at Toronto: "Nearly all the ministers of all denominations have rallied around him with cordial support. Immense audiences, numbering about 4,000, have packed the largest church in the city, and sometimes two churches have been filled at once. At one time 4,000 young men filled the Metropolitan church, of whom 300 professed conversion. Mr. Varley is able to instruct and move an audience in a wonderful degree. He seldom appeals to mere emotion; his preaching is chiefly directed to the understanding, and he is literally 'mighty in the Scriptures.'"

THE Palestine Exploration Society is accomplishing valuable results in the illustration of Scripture and in the extension of exact knowledge in biblical geography. It is now making a scientific survey and examination of the countries of Moab, Gilead and Bashan. This is specially the work of the American society. The English society has taken Western Palestine, from the Jordan to the Mediterranean. Several volumes of very valuable results have already been published. The society is supported by small annual subscriptions. Dr. Roswell D. Hitchcock is president of the association. Our Dr. Strong, of Madison, was engaged last year upon the explorers' corps.

A MONTREAL correspondent of an English paper describes thus the effect in that city of the announcement of the decision of the English Privy Council in the Gulbord case. The body of Gulbord, it will be remembered, was refused burial in a Catholic cemetery because he had been in some way connected with Free Masonry; the Privy Council overruled the parish and provincial authorities. "It created an immense sensation, rivaling the news of the capture of Sebastopol. This decision is the death-knell of Ultramontane usurpation and pretension. * * * You may perhaps read in the newspapers that the Catholic authorities have declared their intention not to submit to the decision; but this is a mistake, and I apprehend no difficulty in carrying the judgment into effect. * * * The social triumph is all-absorbing."

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1875.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
ROBT. J. HARP, PUBLISHER.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.
Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street New Orleans.
AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. A. J. BRIGGS.
REV. J. W. RUSH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR, D. D.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CHANGE OF RATES.

In conformity with an agreement between the several papers published in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the subscription price of the ADVOCATE, including postage, will hereafter be as follows, viz.:

One year	$2 50
Six months	1 50
Three months	80

THE SUBSCRIPTION PRICE of the ADVOCATE is One Dollar and a Quarter per year to ministers of the gospel; the same to the widows of deceased itinerant preachers. Where bills have been sent charging them more than that amount it was owing to the fact that they were not known as such to the book-keeper, and if they will inform us the accounts will be corrected. Should they have already paid we will credit the amount overpaid on subscription, or dispose of it as they may order.

LOOK OUT FOR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—Subscribers and other persons writing to us should look in the letter list for the acknowledgment of their letters. The letters which reach us on or before Saturday of each week are acknowledged in the issue of the following Thursday.

RATES.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers hereafter at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 50
Six Months	1 50
Three Months	80

$1.25 A YEAR

to all Ministers of the Gospel, traveling or local, and widows of deceased traveling preachers.

FREE ONE YEAR

to any person forwarding to us four new yearly subscribers, with TEN DOLLARS.

Ephphatha.

The healing of the deaf and dumb man in the coasts of Decopolis was attended by most impressive circumstances. It was apparently a work of difficulty to the Son of God. Before he pronounced the miraculous Ephphatha he looked up to heaven and sighed. Was that sigh extorted by the instance of disease and misfortune then before him, or were his thoughts directed to the moral condition of the world which this physical infirmity illustrated? The spiritual nature of man is thus locked up, and his perception and utterance of truth are lost faculties until the healing power of Christ is applied. Faith cometh by hearing, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

How hard to make men hear the word of God! Much that they seem to hear is not heard. The most alarming declarations and warnings and the most sublime disclosures of revelation make no impression. The things of the Spirit, the doctrines of regeneration and holiness, the need of a divine renewal of the heart, are neither received nor known. The stolidity and deadness of men while apparently attentive, the look of interest, and the evident certainty that they feel and understand almost nothing, is always reminding us of the labored and futile attempt to make a deaf man comprehend our talk. He may gather something from the motions of our lips and from our gestures, but we give up in despair, with the consciousness that we cannot make him understand what we wish to convey to his mind. The inner ear is stopped, the nerve of spiritual impressions has lost its sensibility.

"The deaf people that have ears" is the prophetic description. The organ is there, but it is so disordered as to be nearly useless. No matter what waves or vibrations touch it, or beat upon it, there is no corresponding sensation. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." Well might the Savior sigh over what represented to him something far more serious, and much more difficult to remove than physical deafness. The soul is shut against God, and the heart is closed to the voice of mercy. It is the ephphatha of grace that draws from Christ the sigh of sympathy and effort. It was of this the prophet wrote: "Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped." It is this miracle of miracles that most concerns the Savior of the world, and that most concerns us. It is to revive and heal the moral malady, and to restore the power to see and to hear spiritual things.

It is done in every instance of true conversion, and in every experience of the work of the Holy Spirit in the heart. In every revival where the listless and careless are aroused, and where cold and indifferent congregations are quickened into new and vigorous life, this healing word is uttered. As the gospel agencies advance to the fields of paganism, and to the outer darkness of superstition and error, the stubborn disease yields apace, the ears of the soul are opened, and the tongue is loosed. And yet a mightier manifestation awaits the faith that can so apprehend Christ as to realize his willingness and power to save to the uttermost. What Christian does not sometimes lament this dullness in spiritual discernment, his incapacity to grasp the deep as well as the comfortable things of God? Neither ear nor tongue is altogether equal to the greatness of the blessings which we may know and tell. There are melodies floating around us which we do not catch, though straining to drink in the music which, but half heard, drifts away from us. This double miracle needs to be wrought upon us—the power to hear and tell.

We know not what Paul might have said about that lofty perplexity, Melchisedek, if he had not met with this very common embarrassment: "Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing." Even the risen Lord, in that walk to Emmaus, opens his discourse with the rebuke: "O fools and slow of heart, to believe all that the prophets have spoken." What Christians may be losing continually, what heights of knowledge, assurance and rapture because of their dullness of hearing, none may tell. There is a word of power yet to be spoken before they shall be open to the reception of all the blessings of redemption.

And what tongue-tied people many Christians are! However related the deafness and the dumbness, the healing touch was to the ear and to the tongue. The heart may feel much, perhaps be changed, while the lips are sealed, but the connection is intimate, and the perfect cure extends to ear and tongue. When the revival breeze strikes a church the string of the tongue is loosed, the singing is hearty, the experience is told with liveliness and with boldness. Dull hearing and the mute tongue usually go together. The ephphatha of Christ opens the ear and the mouth. A deaf and dumb believer is indeed a sad illustration of human infirmity and of religious declension. What sort of Christians are they who neither sing nor pray nor talk in the social meeting, and who are indifferent to these evident duties of their profession? What sort are they who never speak of what Christ has done for them? They should by all means come to Christ, the healer, the opener of the ear, the liberator of the tongue.

Border Mexican Mission.

REV. C. H. E. NEWTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 19, 1875.

MR. EDITOR: Below please find two letters—one from our dear brother, C. H. E. Newton, a superannuated preacher of our church, who has worn himself out in the Master's service on the Pacific coast, dated at Newport, New Hampshire, where he now is on a visit to his friends; the other from Rev. A. H. Sutherland, the presiding elder of the Border Mexican mission. I might also, before giving these letters, acknowledge the receipt of $10 from Rev. Calvin Brewer, who has lived at Wilbraham, Massachusetts, ever since I was ten years old, and a good while before that. I used to eat apples out of his orchard, when going to school there, under Dr. Fisk, of blessed memory. "Uncle Calvin" was always very clever to the boys, and I have delighted in his friendship ever since. He now sends me this contribution for the Mexican mission, and is a constant reader of your paper.

Yours truly, J. C. KEENER.

P. S.—There are items of interest at hand from our City of Mexico mission, which I will give you presently.

REV. BISHOP J. C. KEENER, D. D.—Dear Sir: You will find inclosed a postoffice order for $10 for the Mexican mission. I would have been glad to have made it as much again, but it is as much as my poverty will admit of my doing at this time; in fact it is just half of all I have at this time; and where the next is to come from is beyond my ken. My health is far from being good; but as our severe cold weather is about done, it is to be hoped, my health will probably improve.

I had intended to have joined Bishop Pierce and Dr. McFerrin at Denver, in August last, and to have proceeded with them to the Pacific coast; but when the time for starting came my health would not admit of undertaking so long a journey. My purpose now is to start some time early in the ensuing summer if I am well enough.

Pray for your poor, unworthy brother in Christ,

C. H. E. NEWTON.

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 3, 1875.

REV. BISHOP J. C. KEENER—Dear Sir and Brother: Your favor of the —— ultimo was received yesterday, and the Disciplines also, for all of which receive the thanks of the preachers and myself.

The Disciplines were just in time, for we had appointed yesterday afternoon for our first Quarterly Conference at this place, also the first for the district. I have been here since Christmas day, studying the Spanish, with the exception of two weeks lost by sickness and a visit to Corpus to see my wife, who was quite sick and sent for me.

This Quarterly Conference session has been very interesting to me. We licensed one man, Ysidro Rubio, to preach. He is thirty-nine years of age; has been a member of our church in Corpus Christi for about three years; has had and studied the Bible about ten years, and is a man of considerable intelligence and education for a Mexican. He is an untiring worker, and has great influence with the middle class of Mexicans. He has a good deal of Indian in him. His personal appearance strongly indicates that. His past life for several years and his present character show clearly a great work of grace in him. He is very brave and very devoted to the work of Christ, desiring nothing else. This he has proven as a private member of the church for several years. He says that he is ready for any work anywhere that we may send him. The more opposed and threatened Rubio is the more determined he is to carry his point. He is the stuff out of which martyrs are made. We do not oppose force by force, but simply go and take possession of what ground the Lord has prepared, cultivate that, take in more as opportunity presents or the Spirit opens the way, and thus toil on, waiting patiently for the general harvest. With judicious restraint Rubio will do the work well, I think, at Laredo; but he cannot leave here until the first of May.

Whether the Missionary Society is able to support him at that place or not, I think that I can have it done. As he is a single man he does not require much for a living, and is somewhat like Paul, in that he can work his way, and yet do as much as men ordinarily do.

In San Diego several have been baptized and added to the church since Conference. Bro. Cordova is doing a good work. He teaches a class here that none of our other preachers would reach; and that is the higher class of Mexicans, a good many of whom live here, and almost every family of whom are related by blood to Cordova's wife.

We are projecting a church building and parsonage at this place, and have several hundred dollars secured for the same. How we will succeed finally I do not know. The people—Americans principally—of the place and vicinity are easily able to build a nice church and parsonage, and I think that a sensible application to them for the means, in humble prayer to God, will secure the same.

At Presenas, where Vidaurri is, matters are very flourishing. He writes that every man, woman and child of the rancho have applied for membership in the church, and that the work is extending to the surrounding ranches. I visit that place (D. V.) and hold Quarterly Conference and meeting there next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

I am in correspondence with other points on the Rio Grande, at each of which I think I can organize churches.

I forgot to mention that at Laredo we already have fifteen or twenty members, most of whom removed thither from this place, the rest being of five or six families collected by Hernandez while there.

Cortova received a letter, a few days since, from Bro. Hernandez, in which he spoke of being very low, and hardly expected to live.

The Discipline we like very much. Cordova read his half through by noon of the same morning he received it. The American Tract Society lets us have Spanish publications to double the amount of each cash order we send. I and two of the brethren have just ordered $165 worth, inclosing an order of $80. These books we need very much. Our converts are as great readers as ever you saw. They devour with avidity everything that has the impress of Protestantism. Every family will purchase a copy of the Discipline, and in one month know it better than nineteen out of twenty of our American members.

FEBRUARY 4, 1875.

DEAR BISHOP: You must bear with me if I take a little more of your time to tell you the following:

I have just had an interesting conversation with a Mexican resident of this place, by the name of Don Silvio Garcia. He has been a man well off in this world's goods, but Providence has taken the greater part from him. His wife is a member of our church here, I having baptized her since Conference. He has given his hand to the church, and requests of us baptism, which I will grant him after awhile. He has a very pleasing address, is very well educated in both Spanish and English, which latter language he also speaks very well. He is being made an instrument of great good. It came into his mind, a few weeks back, to try and make his living by peddling goods around among the adjacent ranchos. He is realizing more than were his expectations in that direction; but the best of all is the Protestant influence he is exerting upon these people. Everywhere and under all circumstances he leaves a word for Christ and his Protestantism. The seed is taking rapid and genuine root. Many are turning away from dumb idols and dead saints to serve the living God and his Christ. All the Bibles, tracts and books that we could spare he has already taken and readily disposed of. I have advised, and he has concluded to follow this as his business. Through him we are doubtless to reach many hundreds. When he visits a rancho he collects all its inhabitants together, reads the Bible, explains it and Protestantism, sings, prays, exhorts, etc. The most uncompromisingly opposed man he has found was by gentle persuasion finally induced to listen while Silvio explained Protestantism to him. Silvio says that this man is now his most thorough convert. This is only one of the many truly interesting and thrilling incidents that he relates. Whenever he goes to talk to a person he lifts his heart in prayer to God for his Holy Spirit to give him wisdom and words. His prayers appear not to be in vain in the Lord.

To give you some idea of the extent of the work that he is doing, I state that during the two weeks just past he has been out on a trip, and within a circuit of about thirty miles he visited about one thousand people, to all of whom he spoke on the subject.

I cannot refrain from giving one more incident he relates as having occurred during this trip. He was at a rancho where they had a funcion, which is a general collecting of all the people for frolic, and carousing generally. He was visited at his camp-fire by an old man who professed Protestant belief. It began to be late; Silvio retired; a crowd came around the fire; they knew that Silvio was a Protestant, and one of the crowd began to condemn Protestantism, and told the old man that Protestantism meant a protest against the existence of God; that they did not believe in God. This was what Silvio could not hear. He jumped up and in a minute found himself among them. Putting his hand on the speaker, he told him that what he had said, to use Silvio's words, was but blasphemy. He then went on to explain Protestantism. He told them that Protestantism was a protest against all that was wrong; that though he was not himself a converted man, nor a good sample of Protestantism, yet they saw in him one who was trying to be a good Protestant; that they never saw him dance, drink whisky, play cards or attend their funcions. He thus finally convinced them of the nature and good of Protestantism. The man who had spoken so against Protestantism begged his pardon, and told him that he had never had it explained to him before.

May the richest blessings of God rest upon him and our whole Border Mexican mission work. The missionary treasury is low. But my faith says that if we go forward in the right spirit the work will advance as rapidly as right.

Yours to command,

A. H. SUTHERLAND.

The Churches, North and South.

We make the following extract from the Union and Advertiser, New York. It was contributed, says the editor, by one of the most prominent and esteemed members of the Methodist Church in western New York:

"The beginning of strife is as when one letteth out water; therefore leave off contention before it be meddled with. * * * As a roaring lion, and a ranging bear, so is a wicked ruler over the poor people. The prince that wanteth understanding is also a great oppressor."—Solomon, Proverbs.

The recent overwhelming Mill River disaster was preceded by little leaks and lettings out of water that led to the sudden and unlooked-for catastrophe. In all ages the blundering, folly and wickedness of unwise and reckless rulers have been the occasion of disturbances, wars and social anarchy of States and kingdoms. The Israelites, in their forty years' wanderings under the wise and skillful leadership of Moses and Aaron, were trained and disciplined to become a united and powerful people in the land of promise. Their subsequent history under princes wanting understanding is written for our instruction and admonition. The long struggle of our Revolutionary period, under Washington and the great patriots and statesmen who laid the foundations of our government, consolidated us into a prosperous and united people. Our subsequent brilliant career until our recent disastrous civil war is well known. The war ended in the discomfiture and humiliation of the people of the South. The relation of master and slave was broken up at once and forever, and both were left almost equally poor and helpless. And, what is more, both were almost equally objects of the greatest charity and commiseration. The condition of the South at the close of the war invited and demanded the largest exercise of Christian philanthropy and liberality, and the wisest and most sagacious legislation and statesmanship. But what have we seen? On the part of Congress the lowest and most malignant partisanship in order to secure the ascendency of the blacks and the Republican party in the South. On the part of the church—excepting the Catholics and Episcopalians—a hard-faced, unrelenting proscriptive policy which opposed all efforts for fraternity and reunion, with the satanic demand for "disintegration and absorption" of the churches South. The great Methodist Episcopal Church—built up by the heroic and united labors of the fathers—under a mutual Plan of Separation, divided mainly upon the question of slavery in 1844. The war crushed out the institution, and the churches stood at its close almost one in doctrine and discipline. Why not now, O victorious Northern Church, reach out the hand of amity and Christian fellowship to thy poor, humiliated Southern brother? Why adopt the policy of antagonism to the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church by organizing another Methodist Episcopal Church in the South? Why levy heavy contributions on the people of the Northern Church to sustain and maintain such a violent, unchristian conflict? Why prostitute the honored Missionary Society of the church to the infamous work of "disintegration and absorption?"

Notwithstanding the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1852, maintaining the Plan of Separation and the property rights of the Methodist Episcopal Church South under it, a demand is made by some that the present Supreme Court shall review that decision—a review that will transfer the entire property of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, held at the adoption of the plan in 1844, to the Northern Church. In opposition to the editor of the Methodist, a correspondent of that paper in a recent article strongly urges such a review on the ground of the unconstitutional action of the General Conference of 1844. No wonder that Bishop Bowman complains of ungentle treatment in the South, and that Bishop Haven shuns and shirks his designated residence at Atlanta. No wonder that the excessively loyal and Radical leaders who manned the press and committed the Methodist Episcopal Church to the infernal policy of destroying the Methodist Episcopal Church South, have backed up Congress and Grant in every step they have taken to despoil and crush the whites and the Democracy of the South.

Against this insane policy Conservative and Democratic members of the Methodist Episcopal Church have uttered but feeble protests. If Bishops, preachers' meetings and the whole family of Christian Advocates have formed an unholy alliance with Grant and the Republican party to crush out the Democracy by a repetition of the Louisiana outrage throughout the Southern States, the interests and the peace of the church demand that the compact should be exposed and broken. When the halls of the Boston Theological Seminary are opened to the wicked and lunatic ravings of Ives, the "great dedicator," and when those incendiary ravings are set forth and trumpeted as Northern Methodist opinion of the people South, the madness and malignity of such speeches should be disowned and repudiated by every honest member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Lest the roots of bitterness should be forgotten between Northern and Southern Methodists, the New York Christian Advocate is giving its readers a long serial history of "Methodism and Abolitionism"—a rehash of the quarrels of the past on that delectable question. The following extract is a specimen of its treatment of the Louisiana outrage:

"But both the President and the Lieutenant General have given the best possible evidence of patriotic devotion to the country; and the manner in which they have been abused for the affair in New Orleans is simply disgraceful. Not a few of the patriotic gentlemen who have been conspicuous and blatant at these indignation meetings 'cooed as gently as sucking doves' during all the years when the rebels were clutching at the life of the nation. 'They were never known to denounce Jeff. Davis as they now denounce the President of the United States. The men who starved to death our soldiers at Andersonville, attempted to burn New York, and planned to send clothing 'infected' with the yellow fever from Bermuda into the cities of the North, have all been forgiven; but the hero of Winchester, and of a score of battle-fields besides, can never be forgiven for having expressed an honest and really, though not formally, truthful opinion concerning the members of the White League of New Orleans.

"These astute statesmen and great constitutional lawyers were patient and long-suffering when colored soldiers who had surrendered to the rebels were shot or buried alive; but they are fearfully excited now that half a dozen political adventurers are excluded from a hall in a Southern city, in which they were intruders. So long as this spirit is rife in the North we shall have trouble with the South, and the work of national reconstruction will be slow and difficult."

The Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago, winds up a long editorial as follows:

"Sheridan is a brave, impartial, wise man, and he will not act unsupported by those who know the case as he knows it. His proposition to regard the Southern White League as banditti sounds harsh only to those who do not know the despotism and bloody animus of that league. That body is armed, drilled and organized, and their existence would not be tolerated in any fully civilized State. They are not militia, but are independent, and a standing menace. The existence of an analogous force prior to our civil war accounts for the South's readiness for an instant campaign. Let them be dispersed, and meantime, as Sheridan suggests, let their murders be avenged by the drumhead court martial and a halter at daybreak; and this, even though Bishop Keener, of the Methodist Church South, does condemn Sheridan in a published card. Fred. Douglass put it well the other night when he said: 'John Brown was assailed by national troops, and peace was restored by Federal arms; but now, when troops respond to preserve order at the request of a disturbed Legislature, a clamor against the administration is raised all over the land.' Mr. Grant, let us have peace!"

Hon. George H. Holland.

The funeral of George H. Holland, late State treasurer of Mississippi, took place at Jackson on Wednesday, February 17. It was attended by the Legislature and State officials. Rev. C. B. Galloway delivered the address on the occasion, from which we make the following extract:

The life of our friend, as a public officer, intrusted with the treasury of a great commonwealth, was that of a man of stern integrity and pronounced fidelity. He held high position in a time of great trial. The wild storms of political tumult are sweeping with unchanged fury over our country, and strong in moral purity and public fidelity will be the men who, after the clouds are gone and the blue sky appears, remain unshaken and undefaced. Men of proud and honorable positions have been hurled from their places and forever ruined, as if riven by the thunders of Jehovah. Every breeze is laden with the breath of calumny. Suspicion of public men is uppermost in almost every heart and trembles from many lips. Yet amid all this our brother has lived and served his country with uncorrupted honor. Against these storms of suspicion and accusation he has stood unmoved in the calm serenity of conscious integrity, like the famous rock of Gibraltar, against whose base the angry billows dash their foaming spray, and over whose unscathed summit the cyclone sweeps and the lightnings flap their fiery wings. His incorruptibility in office, at a period of great demoralization, when temptations to wrong-doing are so luxuriant, is an honor to the State for whose weal he labored and in whose service he died. His official character was put to the crucial test, and his integrity most triumphantly vindicated. Let it be inscribed upon his monument and go down to coming generations as an imperishable memorial to unstained honor and official honesty. I do not appear here as the apologist of his peculiar views, nor as the advocate of any political theory or party. That is outside and beyond the sphere of the gospel ministry. But this I feel called upon to say, as illustrative of his moral sincerity, that in the opinions he entertained and advocated he was honest. He believed them the wisest in resuscitating the crushed hopes and rebuilding the fallen fortunes of our once fair and prosperous South. If he erred, it was honest error. This his political antagonists will accord to his peaceful memory, and over his grave will say: Here lies an honest man. His was eminently a conservative mind. There was little of impulse and nothing of rashness in his nature. He was in no sense an extremist. The bitter words and maddened hate, and impetuous deeds of political foes or friends, alike met his unqualified disapproval. The wild, fierce, rushing torrent of political strife never disturbed his rocky fastness of equal justice and moral rectitude. Naturally retiring in disposition, his opinions were never thrust upon unwilling ears. He deprecated rashness and impetuosity as he did their direful results. In private life he was respected by friends and neighbors, and there, where he was best known, was most beloved, and will be most tenderly remembered. A quiet, peaceable and peace-loving citizen, his influence and usefulness will not soon be forgotten. As the head of a large and interesting family, in the endearing relationships of husband and father, his excellencies of character were radiant with beauty. Tender, gentle, patient and affectionate, he was the idol of a happy household. How sad is that home to-day! The light has gone out in their great sorrow. The companion of his bosom, who has walked by his side and leaned upon his strong arm so many happy years, is now so desolate. Her earthly hope and support is gone. His chair is vacant around the family fireside. Children look in vain, with tearful eyes, for father. He has gone, gone forever, to be seen no more on earth. God grant to comfort and bless the crushed and bleeding hearts. But above, because including all, Judge Holland was a Christian, humble and true. In the tender years of boyhood he united with the Methodist Church, and to the close of life was a consistent and exemplary man of God. His professions were not loud, nor his piety ostentatious, but his faith was strong and his hopes were anchored within the vail. Several times during his short sojourn in our midst it has been my pleasure to converse with him on the all-important subject of the soul's salvation. He had a clear, spiritual conception of the grand scheme of human redemption, and felt the regenerating power of the divine Spirit. Appreciating the instability of all sublunary things, he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. He lived with reference to eternity, and when the summons came he was not unprepared. He expressed his readiness to die, and in yielding to death he won the victory of faith. A distinguished soldier, when about to die amid the smoke and roar and carnage of battle, uttered these memorable words: "Let us pass over the river and rest under the shade of the trees." We cherish the fond hope, from the sincerity of his profession, the purity of his life, and his unfaltering trust in the merits of an atoning Savior, that our brother has safely crossed the chilling waters of the dark river and now rests under the fragrant bowers of paradise, rich with golden fruit and glorious with perpetual beauty.

WE WERE favored this week with a call from our old friend and brother, Moses U. Payne, who comes to us on a brief visit from his home in Missouri. We were glad to see him looking stout and well, though suffering somewhat under temporary indisposition. The only perceptible mark of time upon him, since a quarter of a century ago, is the frosted head; but this is only a crown of glory.

BEGINNING.—The Louisiana Avenue and the Felicity Street churches of this city have taken up their collections for foreign missions. The former amounted to $125, the latter to $225. We trust that all our pastors will follow speedily.

THE busiest of living agents are certain dead men's thoughts.—Bovee.

OUR FORMER fellow-townsman, J. L. Dunnica, paid us a flying visit during the past week. His health has somewhat improved during his residence in St. Louis. He reports Dr. Tudor as doing finely, and Methodism in St. Louis as generally prosperous.

IT IS not the critic's eye, but the child's heart, that most truly discerns the countenance that looks out from the pages of the gospel.—Shairp.

Ministers' Wives.

In the columns of one of our Western cotemporaries "A Minister's Wife," says the Christian Intelligencer, discusses with much vivacity the great expectations that are entertained and the exactions that are required of the class to which she belongs by "the rest of mankind." She points out, with a good deal of spirit, the ready ingenuity with which ladies who are not ministers' wives are wont to shift the work that belongs in common to them all to her particular shoulders. She does not understand why so much more is expected of a minister's wife than of other men's wives, since she has no more time to spare from her family and household duties than they, and no more, nay, less, money to spare for charitable and other purposes. Yet she declares that if she shows any backwardness in giving or doing "there is a terrible hubbub in Israel." If there is a sewing society, or a church fair or festival, or a celebration of any kind connected with the church, there is one thing in which all the other ladies are commendably unanimous—by common consent the burden of them all is laid on her shoulders, because, "forsooth," she exclaims in a tone half piteous and half indignant, "she is the minister's wife!" And then, heaping her cup to overflowing, besides all this, she is expected "to make the first call on all strange ladies, to be the first to welcome new members into the church, to lead the woman's prayer meeting; in fact to be the first at everything and in everything."

This good lady touches with gentle and just severity an abuse which is as prevalent as it is absurd, and which too often has its rise in the idleness, the incapacity, the disinclination, the apathy or the selfishness of those who claim to be Christian ladies.

It is time that more correct views and practices should prevail. It should be clearly understood that the minister's wife is the wife of the minister, and not of the congregation; that she is the mother of his and her children, and not of all the children in the parish who have poor or thriftless or ignorant parents; that she has a first and a ceaseless duty to perform to those of her own household, just as others have to theirs, neither more nor less. If other wives and mothers will gauge the inroads that these home and family relationships, honestly and faithfully responded to, make upon their own time and thought, and physical and financial resources, they will be able to estimate the extent of like demands upon the wife of the minister; and a conscientious balancing of these considerations will probably lead, as it certainly ought, to lead, to an equitable apportionment of the care and toil of Christian work among all the members of a congregation. It is an unjust and even a dishonest evasion of individual duty and responsibility to shift them as an additional, unshared burden upon the shoulders of the minister's wife. The true rule is that each must carry his own load, though not forgetting to help one another. If this be done, none need be laden above his strength or ability. But if all throw their burdens upon one, no mortal can be expected to stand the strain. As the minister's wife may not shuffle off the burden of her duties and responsibilities to God, the church, her family, the poor, the sinful and the wretched upon the wife of a layman, so neither may the wife of the layman shift her share of the burden and heat of the day upon the wife of the minister.

Those who demand so much from the minister's wife, who expect her to make up for their own shortcomings or neglect, and who are dissatisfied unless she is the vigorous and inspiriting mainspring of a thousand activities where they themselves are listless or mere dead weights, should also bear in mind that ministers as well as laymen relish the charm and are profited by the enjoyment of home life. The parsonage has its domestic altar as well as the house of the merchant or lawyer, and the ministrations of the wife are as essential to comfort and happiness and a rounded life in the one case as in the other. If the minister's wife is to be absorbed exclusively with outside affairs by being made to bear burdens alone which she should only share with other wives, there will be little time or opportunity left her, and none of the elasticity and freshness which are needed to make the home life of the minister that remnant of paradise on earth that it ought to be.

A suitable pendant to the above is the following, which is related by a friend: A good story is told of the late Dr. Bethune, who, when a committee of a vacant church ventured to ask about the qualifications of Mrs. Bethune as a pastor's wife, instantly replied with his peculiar emphasis: "Do you expect, gentlemen, to pay my wife a salary?" That ended the interview.

From a paragraph in the Baltimore Sun, says the Baltimore Christian Advocate, we learn that Rev. L. D. Nixon, of the Baltimore Annual Conference, died January 29, of paralysis, after an illness of only a few hours. Bro. Nixon was born in Loudoun county, Virginia, and was probably about fifty-five years old at the time of his death. He was received on trial, in the traveling connection, in March, 1854, having already served several years as a local preacher. Bro. Nixon was a man of great modesty and of great worth; and while we may not anticipate the mournful duty which the committee on memoirs must soon perform, neither yet can we forego this brief tribute to the memory of one whose noiseless life was the product not of inaction, but of steady, ceaseless energy.

All the evil that is in the world is owing to our having broken and still breaking God's commandments.

The poorest education that teaches self-control is better than the best that neglects it.

Books and Periodicals.

The Island of Fire, or a Thousand Years of the Old Northmen's Home, 874–1874. By Rev. P. C. Headley. Boston: Lee & Shepard; New York: Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, 1875.

This volume seems to have been inspired and called forth by the recent millennial jubilee, celebrating the one thousandth year of the settlement of Iceland by the Northmen. The author has gathered materials for his work from all available and reliable sources, and tells us all about the history, geography, literature, poetry and religion of this sterile but wonderful island. The style of the author is ornate, graphic and picturesque, and it is altogether a pleasing and instructive book. It is a large illustrated 12mo. For sale by R. J. Harp, Southern Methodist Depository, 110 and 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Lost Forever. By L. T. Townsend, D. D. Boston: Lee & Shepard; New York: Lee, Shepard & Dillingham, 1875.

The author of Credo is certainly a vigorous and polished writer, and is moved by strong and earnest convictions. We confess that we read his books with interest, and that we find them stimulating and suggestive. Dr. Townsend is, however, wildly and boldly speculative, and evidently cares little for the minor orthodoxies, sometimes even running full tilt against some of the more essential and long-settled doctrines. Being a Methodist doctor of divinity, and a professor in the Boston Theological Seminary, he should take heed. In this work, as in "The Arena and the Throne," his peculiar notions about the pre-existent humanity of Christ, and the final condemnation of the devil, appear prominently. The arguments against Universalism are strong and conclusive, and we may hope that some good may come of the publication. The times demand a revival of the doctrine of hell, and a powerful statement and enforcement of the inspired declaration that "the wages of sin is death." The dedication of the volume is to Bishop Gilbert Haven. For sale by R. J. Harp, Southern Methodist Depository, 110 and 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Annette, or the Chronicles of Bellevue. By Charlotte Walsingham. Philadelphia: Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger, 1875.

This may be a story of merit, and with an excellent moral. But we have not read it, and must be content with the simple acknowledgment of its reception. The first words are: "By Jove!" the last ones: "Too late!" Large 12mo, 373 pages. For sale by George Ellis & Bro., Camp street, New Orleans.

Scribner's Monthly for March is handsomely illustrated, and contains a large amount of the freshest thought of the day. We give the contents in part: The Violin of Messire Amireus, The Canons of the Colorado, How the Opera of Dante Was Written, The Latter-Day British Poets, New England and Her Church.

The Popular Science Monthly for March has: The Genesis of Superstition, by Herbert Spencer; Chameleons; The English Observatories; The Atmosphere in Relation to Fog Signals; The Mental Aspects of Ordinary Disease, and other articles. D. Appleton & Co., publishers, New York.

Lippincott's Magazine for March has: An Escape from Liberia, Illustrated; Australian Scenes and Adventures, Illustrated; The Matchless One; Early Traveling Experiences in India; The Scientific Life, and other articles.

St. Nicholas for March is a splendid number, richly illustrated, and abounding in entertaining and instructive articles.

The Pope says that the doctrine of his infallibility has nothing to do with the right of deposing princes. It is only the malice of his enemies which strives to connect the two. True, some of his predecessors exercised the right, but that was when the Pope was (as he ought to be) regarded as the supreme head of Christendom, and was the consequence of the reference of their disputes by all parties to him as the final arbiter. The plain English of which is that, since the power is gone, the Pope does not choose to be made responsible for the pretension. But the logic of the doctrine remains the same. A judge whose functions are suspended by violence may not be able to punish contempt of court. But he does not therefore give up the right. He only waives its exercise for the time being. And the question which is the really important one to be asked is whether the Pope, if he had regained some power to enforce his decrees of deposition, would consent to hold that power unused? If asked now to exert it, his holiness would doubtless reply, with great truth: Non possumus. The question is whether, if restored to the practical authority of Gregory or Innocent, he would (on moral grounds) make the same reply.

As to the matter of appeals to him, every student of history knows perfectly well that their success depended mainly on the power of the appellants to enforce a decision in their own favor. What "the enemies of the Pope" want to know is whether, in case of rebellion against sovereigns, the rebels can count upon the moral support of the papacy if they seek to enlist it in their favor? An interdict may not nowadays amount to much, but will it be used whenever there is a prospect of its having some effect?—The Churchman.

Attention is called to the card of the Greensboro Female College. Rev. Thomas Ward White is the able president, and the institution is in a prosperous condition. Greensboro is one of the pleasantest towns in Alabama, and noted for the intelligence and refinement of its society.

The portrait in oils, representing the Pope in the early days of his pontificate, which formerly hung above the great statue of St. Peter in the mighty basilica of the saint in Rome, has been recently replaced by a mosaic portrait of him as he looks at present. This mosaic has taken three years to finish, and is said to be one of the finest ever executed.

I wish for no other heaven on this side of the last sea I must cross, than this service of Christ, to make my blackness beauty, my deadness life, my guiltiness sanctification. I long much for that day when I will be holy. Oh, what spots are yet unwashed!—Rutherford.

MARRIED.

McGINTY—BARRELL.—By the Rev. Philip Allen, at the residence of the bride's father, in Red River parish, Louisiana, on the ninth of February, 1875, W. L. McGinty to Miss M. A. Barrell.

SIMMONS—BARWICK.—February 11, 1875, at the residence of the bride's father, in Newport, Mississippi, by the Rev. S. D. Terry, Mr. David D. Simmons to Miss Jane A. Barwick, all of Attala county, Mississippi.

SAINT—CARY.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Samuel Cary, of St. Mary parish, Louisiana, on the seventeenth of February, 1875, by the Rev. J. W. Medlock, Mr. J. P. Saint to Miss Angelia Cary.

HILL—HUNT.—February 17, 1875, at the Methodist parsonage, Monroe, Louisiana, by Rev. R. S. Trippett, Mr. James P. Hill to Mrs. D. A. Hunt.

ROUSSEAUX—CUDE.—On Thursday, February 4, 1875, at the residence of the Rev. Linus Parker, Miss Nellie Cude, of New Orleans, to Captain N. J. Rousseaux, of West Pearl River, Louisiana. No cards.

New York city papers please copy.

WOLVERTON—TOLSON.—February 8, 1875, at the Presbyterian church in Enterprise, Clarke county, Mississippi, by the Rev. U. B. Phillips, Mr. James S. Wolverton to Miss Fannie L. Tolson.

Publisher's Department.

Acknowledgments of Letters and Funds

RECEIVED BY MAIL,

For the Week Ending Feb. 20, 1875.

A—T Arthurs, Murphy & Co, William F Alexander, N W Ayer & Son two letters $25 85, T S Arthur & Co, W H Adis, D Appleton & Co, H F Alexander, American Mirror.

B—Oliver A Brown, Boorum & Pease, Alexander Brown, J Lane Borden two letters $8, G W Brown $2 50, C H Briggs, Charles J Bonner $30, J H Bass & Co, A M Barrington $1 25, Bates & Locke, H G Blackwell, Mrs Mary C Baird, Barnes & Wilkinson, Brewer & Tileston, Mrs S M Bell, Bay State Paper Company, Miss Elsie F Blackwell $5.

C—Thomas Cowan, Robert Carter & Bros, J D Calhoun, B Clegg, George W Chatfield, H H Catching, George Prashaw & Co, R G Cravens, S N Clark $9, A E Clay $1, Chase Publishing Company.

D—Donaldson & Co, Dodd & Mead, J N Daniel, Dixon Donley six letters, Mrs M Duncan, Robert A Davis $2, C L Dobbs.

E—Eagle Pencil Company, John A Ellis, John D Emack.

F—W M Francis, Mrs Mary A Fisher $2 50, John L Ferguson, D Fisher, J A Foster $30, J S Frazer, H W Featherstun.

G—Malcolm M Graham, Joseph Gillott & Son, H Gwinner & Bro two letters $42 83, George W Graves, H A Garrett, Ed T Goodwin 60 cents, E Gustavus & Co, W D H Horton $1, Mrs Clara L Gumpf, Charles R Galloway, W W Graham $2 50, Mrs E J Garrett, John T Graham.

H—Alexander Hood, Hitchcock & Walden, T L Haman $4 66, John T Holmes, Hartwell & Co, H G Horton $1 20, Thomas H Holloman, A R Holcombe $100, P W Harper 50 cents, G Hawkins $5, C L Harris.

I—Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. two letters.

J—J M Johnson two letters, William M Jacks $9, Robert B Johnson $20, Sheldon Jackson, A D Jenkins, John A B Jones.

K—C P Kulght, T D Kellogg, C H Kelley $1, Kennesaw Gazette.

L—George W Lawrence, J B Lippincott & Co three letters, Lane & Bodley $25, Lee, Shepard & Dillingham two letters, George M Liverman, Mrs E J Legrand $2, W B Lewis $2, R B Long Jr.

M—Robert Morris, Zephaniah Meek, John Massey, Rev McC F McCook, Mississippi Valley Company $59 66, Albert Mason, W A Montgomery, J P Mussett, R W Millsaps $52, M C Many $1, John Miller, A Morse, J W Martin, William O Mathews, W Monk, J H Mitchell $16, J T Mitchell, W H Mallory 50 cents, C McDonald, Alonza Monk, Thomas R McDonald $1, W H May $5 00, J W Mesllock.

N—Thomas Nelson & Sons, J T Newcumer, A B Nicholson $1 25, W H Nelson $5.

O—William Otis 50 cents, Mrs W A Ober $5.

P—W J Percell $1 60, W R Phips, W W Preuit, J H Packwood, A R Parfitt, S M Petteugill & Co, Postoffice Department for W P Kimball $54 40.

R—S F Ross $5, George P Rowell & Co two letters $5 40, G Robinson $2, J M Reuss $71 25, A R Redford agent two letters, George Routledge & Co, T S Randall, Robert H Read $1, J K Randall.

S—Robert J Smith agent, S S Stafford, Sheldon & Co, Mrs Lou J Shannon $2, J H Seabury $3 70, George W Smith & Co, H R Singleton two letters $19 75, James H Shelton $7 95, N M Skipworth $2 50, St Louis Advertising and Publishing Company.

T—Tower, Gildersleeve & Co, J D Troph C Turremine $14 50, John M Turman $2 50, Alvin Thomas, G F Thompson $2, S H Terry, Mrs C Thompson $2, W C Tait $26.

U—Thomas J Upton.

V—M V Vaughn $6.

W—R Webb $2, John Watts, Wheelwright & Mudge, W Wadsworth $5, G R Wilson, Thos Ward White, Mrs Laura M Wathen, J L Williams $1 50, George H Williamson, D M Womack.

Pay Postage.—Subscribers whose subscriptions have been paid at the old rates—viz.: two dollars per year—and whose subscriptions run into 1875, are required under the new postage law, which goes into effect January 1, to pay postage at the office of mailing. The subscription price hereafter includes the postage. Two cents per month each month that the subscription has to run, will be sufficient to pay for the Advocate.

Risks on Remittances.—Money may be sent to the publisher of the Advocate in payment of subscriptions, in amounts not exceeding ten dollars, by registered letter, at his risk. Any amounts may be sent by express or postoffice money order at his risk, provided that in all the above cases the expense of remitting be borne by the person who remits. Otherwise it will be at their own risk.

Mobile Railroad.—In our repeated trips to the Atlantic cities we have traveled over nearly all the lines of railroad connecting the South with the commercial cities of the East and North, and we are in justice compelled to say that we have never enjoyed more real comfort on any line than that connecting this city with Mobile. In our numerous trips over this road we have observed the character and conduct of the agents and employees of the road with great pleasure, and have been brought under obligations for prompt and courteous attention while passing over the road and transporting freight. Mr. Robinson, the superintendent, certainly has the affairs of the road well in hand. Mr. E. P. Shute, the general ticket agent, is one of the most courteous and pleasant gentlemen to transact business with in all our acquaintance. See advertisement.

Boots and Shoes.—For several years we have noticed, at the corner of Frenchmen and Victory streets, a boot and shoe store at which we could not but observe the evidences of activity and thrift. Whenever we have entered we have been favorably impressed. It is now called the Pontchartrain Cheap Store, Mr. J. A. Lacroix, the proprietor, has the right motto: "Quick sales and small profits." See his advertisement in another column.

General Robert E. Lee—Personal Reminiscences, Anecdotes and Letters of, by J. William Jones, D. D., issued by D. Appleton & Co.—By reference to our advertising columns our readers may find a description of the above work. The Messrs. Appleton have done the public valuable service in issuing a work delineating so truthfully this noble type of Southern character at a time when the South is so maliciously maligned by a class of men who stand in such striking contrast.

We insert with pleasure the following note in connection with this notice:

"At the death of General Lee a memorial volume was announced, and this committee was appointed to superintend the publication. Circumstances, for which neither the committee nor the publishers were responsible, delayed and finally prevented the publication of that work.' In the meantime Rev. John William Jones had prepared this book to aid in the completion of Valentine's beautiful sepulchral monument in General Lee. Mr. Jones was a faithful chaplain in the army of General Lee, and subsequently, while a minister of the Baptist church in Lexington, enjoyed in an unusual degree his favor and regard.

"During this period, and while acting at times as chaplain of Washington College, Mr. Jones had special opportunities to observe the character of General Lee, for whom he entertained an enthusiastic devotion. The committee, knowing the peculiar qualifications which the author brings to this work, have afforded him the fullest access to the materials in their possession, and are happy now to commend to the public the completed volume as a valuable contribution toward a biography of Robert E. Lee.

Committee of the Faculty of Washington and Lee University."

Mr. John M. Colby, at No. 20 St. Charles street, is the general agent of the Appletons for the Southwest, and is known to us as a courteous, attentive and reliable gentleman.

Historical Collections of Louisiana and Florida, by Gen. B. F. French.—Volume I (second series) of the above interesting work is now in press, and will soon be issued by that enterprising publisher, Albert Mason, of New York. By reference to his advertisement in another column it will be seen that several other interesting books have just been issued by the same house.

See Dr. Warrington's advertisement in another column.

Levy Bros.' advertisement will be seen elsewhere.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

R. F. W. Bachman, Fine Boots and Shoes, 18 Camp street, under the City Hotel. The largest and best-selected stock in the South; and in elegance of style, fineness of material, perfection of workmanship and fit our line of

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S CUSTOM-MADE BOOTS AND SIDES

is unsurpassed. Our stock is peculiarly adapted for Family and Plantation Wear, and at prices as moderate as can be found in any market.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,
18 Camp street, under City Hotel,
fe20 19 6mic New Orleans, La.

Get the Genuine Article.—The great popularity of Wells' Compound Cod Liver Oil and Lime has induced some unprincipled persons to attempt to palm off a simple article of their own manufacture; but any person who is suffering from Coughs, Colds or Consumption, should be careful where they purchase this article. It requires no puffing: the results following its use are its best recommendations, and the proprietor has ample evidence on file of its extraordinary success in pulmonary complaints. The Phosphate of Lime possesses a most marvelous healing power, as combined with the pure Cod Liver Oil by Dr. Wilbor. This medicine is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty. For sale by A. B. Wilbor, Chemist, Boston. fe25 6

For derangement of the Liver, for Dyspepsia, Diarrhœa, Piles, etc., Dr Simmons' Liver Regulator certainly has no superior. It acts like a charm, without debilitating the system. I have tried it thoroughly, and speak what I know.
REV. S. GARDNER,
fe25 lt Atapulgus, Ga.

Dr. Tutt's Expectorant.—All who have used this invaluable medicine for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Croup, Inflammation of the Lungs or Chest, Hoarseness, Difficulty of Breathing, Bronchitis and all diseases of the Lungs, attest its usefulness. For Lung affections it has no equal. fe18 3t

Pierson & Hews, fine Clothing, Shirts and Furnishing Goods, 13 and 15 Camp street, opposite City Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana. We invite visitors from the interior to examine our stock and prices. We claim to sell first-class goods as low as can be afforded and live. We sell the celebrated Shoulder-Seam Shirts, warranted to fit, wear and give satisfaction. Liberal deduction made to Clergymen, and their trade solicited. mh5 1y

Headache and Nervousness.—Dr. J. P. Miller, a practising physician at 327 Spruce street, Philadelphia, Pa., has discovered that the Extract of Cranberries and Hemp cures Dyspepsia, Nervous or Sick Headache and Nervousness. Prepared in pills. Fifty cents a box. Sent by mail by the Doctor, or by T. L. Lyons, druggist, New Orleans, La. de10 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Strange But True!

The Toong Qua Cucumbee grows to weigh 70 pounds each, and fine quality. 15 cents per seed; 10 seeds, $1. Snake Cucumber grows from 2 to 8 feet long, and coils like a snake. 20 cents per paper. Persian Watermelon.—Very superior, and keeps perfectly fresh and cool throughout the winter. 20 cents per paper. Strawberry Watermelon.—Finest in cultivation; 20 prizes; 10 cents per paper. Japan Radish.—Pods 2 feet long, and delicious; 15 cents per paper. Mammoth Cabbage.—Heads weigh from 20 to 40 pounds each; tender and sweet; 10 cents per paper. Conqueror Tomato.—Ten days earlier than any other variety; 25 cents per paper.

JAPAN PEAS.

Two hundred bushels per acre on common land; unequaled for stock or table use; grows on an upright stalk. 15 cents per paper, 50 cents per pint, 80 cents per quart.

CHUFAS.

Furnish grazing all summer, and food for yourself all winter; fine for poultry, and fattens more hogs than ten times the area in corn; 150 bushels per acre on poorest land. 10 cents per paper, 40 cents per pint, 70 cents per quart, $10 per bushel.

ROSE SLIPS.

With good roots, of any variety the purchaser may choose, at 4 for 50 cents, 9 for $1, 20 for $2, 100 for $3.

Also Potato, Cabbage and other Plants at low rates.

Seeds and Roses by mail, postpaid. Send for our free catalogue, giving full list, descriptions, and testimonials from those who have grown the above Seeds. Address

SOUTHERN SEED AND PLANT CO.,
GALLATIN, TENN.

Le Moniteur says of us: "Their rare and prodigious vegetables elicit the admiration of all who have the good fortune to visit their celebrated garden at Gallatin." fe25 1m5p

$2,500 A YEAR—AGENTS WANTED. Owing to the wonderful success of our great 50 Book Combination, we have been induced to enlarge it, and now offer a grand Combination Prospectus representing 150 DISTINCT BOOKS!! wanted everywhere. It is the biggest thing ever tried. Sales made from this when all other books fail. Also AGENTS WANTED on our Magnificent Family Bibles. Superior to all others. Full particulars free. Address JOHN E. POTTER & CO., Publishers, Philadelphia. fe25 13t

Cigar and Tobacco Manufactory,
135.....DECATUR STREET.....135
Between St. Louis and Toulouse.

Everything sold at the very lowest manufacturers' prices. Constantly on hand, choice Cigars and Tobacco, and everything in the Tobacco line. Give me a trial before applying elsewhere.
fe18 1m JOHN P. GASPARD.

5,000 AGENTS WANTED.—Samples sent free by mail, with terms to clear from $5 to $10 per day. Two entirely new articles, salable as flour. Address H. B. WHITE & CO., Newark, N. J. fe25 1t

$250 A MONTH.—Agents wanted everywhere. Business honorable and first-class. Particulars sent free. Address J. WORTH & CO., St. Louis, Mo. no26 35t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

J. A. Lacroix,
Proprietor of the Pontchartrain Cheap Store,
Cor. Frenchmen and Victory streets,
Ladies,' Gent.'s, Misses' and Children's
BOOTS AND SHOES
of all descriptions.

Always on hand, a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition.
Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere. My Motto—Quick Sales and Small Profits. fe25 1y

New Orleans and Mobile Railroad.

THE MOBILE LINE is the shortest and most reliable route to New York and all Northeastern cities. Pullman Palace Cars, via this line only, to Louisville, Atlanta and Charlotte. But one change to all principal Northern and Eastern cities.

Express Train leaves Depot, foot of Canal street, daily at 4.15 P. M.

For tickets and information apply at office of Mobile Line, corner of Camp and Common streets, opposite City Hotel.

E. P. SHUTE, General Ticket Agent.
D. B. ROBINSON, Acting Supt. fe25 9m

A great book for agents.
Personal Reminiscences, Anecdotes and Letters of GEN. ROBERT E. LEE.
By Rev. J. WM. JONES, D. D., formerly Chaplain Army of Northern Virginia, and of Washington College, Virginia. (Published by authority of the Lee family, and of the faculty of Washington College and Lee University.)

Sixteen Splendid Portraits and Engravings.

Price, in Cloth, $3 50; Sheep, $4 50; Half Turkey, $5 50; Full Turkey, $7 50. Applications for exclusive Agencies for Counties should be made at once, naming first, second and third choice of territory.
D. APPLETON & CO.,
Publishers, 549 and 551 Broadway, N. Y.

☞ For territory and terms address JOHN M. COLBY General Agent for Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas, No. 20 St. Charles street, New Orleans. fe25 4t

Greensboro Female College,
ALABAMA.
A STRICTLY UNDENOMINATIONAL INSTITUTION.

Board, including washing, fuel and lights	$80 00	Per Collegiate Months.
Tuition, including Ancient Languages	40 00
Music, including use of instrument (Hallet, Davis & Co.) and two Modern Languages, taught by a native professor	40 00

Pupils received at any time during the term. For catalogue or further information address
SECRETARY OF FACULTY,
Greensboro, Ala.
Rev. Thos. Ward White, Prest.
Mrs. M. H. B. Stafford, Associate. fe25 3t

GREAT OFFER
NUMBER TWO.

Ten Steel Reproductions, fac similes of famous pictures, original engravings worth $15: "A Woman in Armor," price, in book form, $1.25: forty brilliant short stories and sketches, a rich variety of miscellaneous reading, and eighty large pages of rare illustrations. All the above sent, postpaid, for FIFTY CENTS. Object—To introduce HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 per year. Single number, six cents. At news stands or by mail. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 30-41 Park Place, New York. fe25 12t6w

"REMARKABLE BOOK."
Arthur's Latest and Greatest.
DANGER! Or Wounded in the House of a Friend.

The crowning work of this veteran of American literature has for its topic a subject affecting the social life of our whole people, and gives a terrible view of the evil it exposes. Extremely fascinating and sensational, it will be read with avidity by all. Illustrated and beautifully bound. We are determined to introduce it into every family in the land, and offer unparalleled inducements to male and female canvassers. We want agents everywhere. Will send free, on application, terms and descriptive circulars. J. M. STODDART & CO., 724 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. fe25 1t

Albert Mason, Publisher,
13 ASTOR PLACE, NEW YORK,
HAS IN PRESS:
THE HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS OF LOUISIANA AND FLORIDA.—Second Series. Collected and translated from original manuscripts by the author, Col. B. F. French. 1 vol., 8vo, $5.
RECENTLY PUBLISHED:
A FREE LANCE IN THE FIELD OF LIFE AND LETTERS.—By Prof. W. C. Wilkinson. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.
THE HISTORY OF SWITZERLAND.—By Heinrich Zschokke. New Edition. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.75.
AN IDIOMATIC KEY TO THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.—By Profs. Alfred Sardou and E. Lambert. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.
ALL THE FRENCH VERBS AT A GLANCE.—By the same authors. 12mo, dex cloth, 50 cents. se24 1y

HOME MUSICAL LIBRARY.

Collections of Instrumental Music.

Musical Treasure. (Also vocal.) 225 pages.
Piano at Home. 4-hand pieces. New! Useful!
Gems of Strauss. Most brilliant collection extant.
Pianist's Album. Popular and easy music.
Piano-Forte Gems. Popular, brilliant, easy pieces.
Home Circle. Vol. I. Easy music.
Home Circle. Vol. II. Popular 2 and 4-hand pieces.
Organ at Home. 200 good pieces for Reed Organ.

Collections of Vocal Music.

Operatic Pearls. The chief songs of 30 operas.
Gems of German Song. Songs that will never die.
Gems of Scottish Song. Sweetest of all ballads.
Shower of Pearls. Nearly all the good vocal duets.
Gems of Sacred Song. Pure, devout and beautiful.
Silver Chord. Wreath of Gems. Large collections of the best popular songs.

☞ Price of each book in Boards, $2.50; Cloth, $3; Gilt, $4.

CHAS. H. DITSON & CO.,
711 Broadway, New York.
OLIVER DITSON & CO.,
Boston.
je18 1y

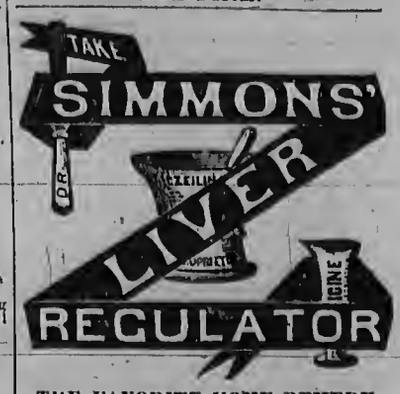
Dr. Henry Smith,
130.....CANAL STREET.....130
Over Eyrich's Book Store.
Consultation hours—10½ to 2 o'clock.
Residence—365 St. Charles street, near Philip. Hours—8 to 9 A. M., 4 and 7 P. M. jal4 1y5p

Thomson's Sale Stables
AND MULE PENS,
DELORD, NEAR DRYADES STREET.

These new and commodious Stables are now in thorough order, and well supplied with the BEST STOCK in the South. Planters, commission merchants and others will consult their own interest by calling before purchasing elsewhere.
M. F. THOMSON,
fe11 2m5p 269, 271 and 273 Delord, near Dryades St.

AGENTS WANTED for the CENTENNIAL
GAZETTEER OF THE UNITED STATES.
Showing the grand results of our first 100 Years. Everybody buys it, and agents make from $100 to $200 a month. Send for circular. ZIEGLER & McCURDY, St. Louis, Mo. my21 1yeow

MEDICAL.



THE FAVORITE HOME REMEDY.

This unrivaled Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury, or any injurious mineral substance, but is

PURELY VEGETABLE,

containing those Southern Roots and Herbs which an all-wise Providence has placed in countries where Liver Diseases most prevail. It will cure all Diseases Caused by Derangement of the Liver and Bowels.

Simmons' Liver Regulator or Medicine

is eminently a Family Medicine; and by being kept ready for immediate resort will save many an hour of suffering, and many a dollar in time and doctor's bills.

After over Forty Years' trial it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Eminent physicians commend it as the most

EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC

for Constipation, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, Despondency, Gloom and Forebodings of Evil, all of which are the offspring of a diseased Liver.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Armed with this Antidote, all climates and changes of water and food may be faced without fear. As a Remedy in Malarious Fevers, Bowel Complaints, Debilitations, Jaundice and Nausea

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

☞ It is the Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the world! Manufactured only by

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
MACON, GA., AND PHILADELPHIA.
Price, $1. Sold by all Druggists. nn19 1y5ptc

A mild aperient and gentle purgative.—Recommended for the cure of all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. By their timely use much sickness is prevented. The test of many years has proven them to be the safest, surest and best of all the pills ever offered to the public. They purify the blood, remove all corruptions and restore the diseased system to perfect health. As an antidote to Chills and Fever they have no equal. For Dyspepsia they are a Specific. For Sick Headache and Bilious Colic they are a sure cure. For Constipation, Rheumatism, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, and Nervousness, a positive remedy. For Female Irregularities, without a rival. When one does not "feel very well" a single dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and imparts vigor to the system. Sold everywhere. Office—18 Murray street New York.

DR. TUTT'S HAIR DYE

is easily applied, imparts a beautiful black or brown, and acts like magic. The best in the world. Sold by all druggists. Price, $1 a box. Office—18 Murray street, New York. oc8 1y5p

Coughs.....Colds.....Asthma.
Remember that for all Affections of the
THROAT AND LUNGS
Lapiner's Indian Turnip Pectoral Balm
IS THE SOLE REMEDY,
Combining efficacy of action with a most palatable flavor. GIVE IT A TRIAL.
Price, $1. Sold at all wholesale and retail drug stores in New Orleans, and by the proprietor,
B. LAPLACE, Chemist,
Nos. 23 and 25 Elysian Fields St., New Orleans.
Depot in Mobile, at J. C. DuBose & Co.'s, No. 28 Water street. fe4 1m5p

MISCELLANEOUS.

Put your houses in order.

M. A. WHEELAHAN,
119.....Common St.....119
IMPORTER AND DEALER,
Has just received an Elegant Stock of
Window Shades and Wall Papers
Of the latest designs and patterns.
Also a full assortment of PAINTS, OILS, Glass, Varnishes, Brushes and Artists' Materials.
Purchasers will find our stock reliable in quality and prices lower than ever. fe4 1m

Colds! Coughs!
USE OUR
COMPOUND PULMONIC PASTE.
A most palatable and soothing remedy.
FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m 139 Canal street.

Cod Liver Oil and
PHOSPHATE LIME.

This prescription we always have on hand fresh, and we guarantee it superior to the article that formerly was imported into this market, but which has been supplanted by ours during the two last seasons. Be sure to ask for the

FRESHLY PREPARED
Cod Liver Oil and Phosphate Lime.
SOLD AT
139.....CANAL STREET.....139
FREDERICKSON & HARTE,
Ja28 1m Druggists.

Special Notice.

We have this day appointed Mr. LOUIS GRUNEWALD, at Grunewald Hall, 18, 20 and 22 Bienville street, New Orleans, Louisiana, our EXCLUSIVE AGENT for the sale of our

PLEYEL PIANOS

for the Southern States of the United States of America. PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO., Piano Manufacturers.
PARIS, FRANCE, Dec. 30, 1874. fe11 1m

Wanted.

A situation as Companion, Housekeeper or Teacher, by a lady who has had several years' experience as teacher of small children. References furnished. Address
MISS W., care Dr. P. Chew,
Ja28 1m St. Joseph, La.

The Child's Corner.

A BIRD'S EXPERIENCE.

BY M. F. BUTTS.

I lived first in a little house,
And lived there very well;
The world to me was small and round,
And made of pale blue shell.

I lived next in a little nest,
Nor needed any other;
I thought the world was made of straw,
And brooded by my mother.

One day I fluttered from my home
To see what I could find;
I said: "The world is made of leaves;
I have been very blind."

At last I flew beyond the leaves,
Quite fit for grown-up labors;
I don't know how the world is made,
And neither do my neighbors.

Christian Union.

From a Little Friend.

LOCHARAE, OUACHITA PARISH, LA.,
February 11, 1875.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: I read in the ADVOCATE of January 7 a letter from one of your little readers. I am another little reader, and would like to write to you. I love the ADVOCATE for many things; one is because my dear father (who is dead) used to write for it; another is, you always give the children a corner. I love to read the good long letters from the preachers away off in Mexico, Oregon and Nebraska. I have a nice scrap-book all filled with pieces from the ADVOCATE. Last year all the spare time I had out of school I tried to make something for the missionaries; but the overflow and then the drouth spoilt all my labor. I was greatly disappointed, but not discouraged. I intend to "try again," and if I succeed you will hear from me. Till then, dear Mr. Editor, good-by.

Your little friend,
ANNIE H. LEWIS.

[That is right. Try again and help the missionaries. God bless the children! We are glad to hear from them.—EDITOR.]

Father Jut-Tooth.

BY OLIVE THORNE.

Father Jut-Tooth is a droll fellow who lives in the land where the goats climb trees. He dresses in a thick suit of ashes, carries his tobacco behind his ears, and, for ornament, wears the tail of a cow.

His wife wears an apron of skin, with a fringe of iron rings and beads and bells; and the largest house in the village is a hospital for cows.

Queer people, did you say? Yes, they are queer, I must admit; and it would be hard to believe what we hear of them, only that travelers have seen them and written books about them.

But let me tell you more. He is called Father Jut-Tooth by the Nublans, because of a singular custom his people have of breaking off, or filing to a point, the two lower front teeth, thus leaving the upper ones to grow out till they are very prominent. Why they should think this an improvement upon nature's way of arranging teeth nobody knows; but their fathers set the fashion, and they dutifully follow it. And let me tell you that the most savage tribes in Africa are as much slaves to fashion as we; and it is even worse with them, because the fashion is not simply the cut of clothes, but mutilation of the body, breaking off teeth, pressing heads out of shape, stretching the lips till they look like a duck's bill, tattooing new patterns in the skin, and boring holes through the flesh.

Father Jut-Tooth dresses in a suit of ashes, as I said, and rubs it well in, so that if he is a poor man, and obliged to use wood ashes, he is changed from his native brouze color to a fine gray; but if he be rich, and can afford the luxury of a more expensive sort of ashes, he will be rusty red. The use of the ashes is to keep off insects, and for the same purpose he sleeps in a bed of the same ashes.

His favorite ornament, I told you, is the tail of a cow; but he does not disdain other tails, such as goat's, and the chief of his tribe has quite an assortment of tails with which to vary his dress.

Then, like all other Africans, he has his ears pierced in several places, and iron rings or bars put in. And, worse than that, his upper lip is pierced, an iron bar fitted in, and, as you'll not be surprised to know, he is tattooed in stripes like the rays of the sun, going from the top of his nose across his forehead and temples.

But this singular gentleman is not yet fully dressed. He has ivory rings on the upper part of his arms, and, if he is rich, iron rings or bracelets from elbow to wrist, besides immense iron chains, sometimes as many as four, around his neck, and fastened on, too, so that they cannot be taken off.

His hair is probably shaved close to his head, though a traveler tells of one dandy who had thin hair about six inches long, which he had trained with great care, till it stood up all over his head in locks, and poluted like tongues of flame. The peculiar material which he used on it had dyed it of a rusty red color, and the observer frankly says he looked like a fiend.

As for clothes, the less said of them the better. He calls a man who wears garments a woman, and the German traveler—who, of course, was fully dressed—received the ironical name of the "Turkish Lady."

This man is a Dinka, and the dress of his wife is about as droll as his. To begin with, she nearly equals him in iron rings and chains. Her ears and lips and nose are as fully decorated as their limited size will allow. Her neck bears chains of iron beads shaped like gas-pipe cut into bits, strings of wooden balls, cords of leather, among the rest probably an amulet to keep her from harm, made of some verses from the Koran, inclosed in an ornamental leather sheath. This amulet, by the way, she shares with the cows and donkeys, who, of course, need protection also.

Her apron of skin is heavily fringed with iron rings, bells, beads, and such things, and her costume is completed by heavy iron rings on her ankles, which are fastened on, and which clank as she walks. A person of wealth sometimes wears as much as fifty pounds weight of iron all the time. So you see riches have their burdens in Africa as well as in America.

Every Dinka man carries a club a yard long, with a knob on the end, which makes it look like an immense nail.

The house of this curious couple is made of bamboo, daubed with clay, and the pointed roof of layers of straw supported by branches of a tree. This mansion—as you may imagine—is not very strong, and will last but a few years.

The great wealth of the Dinkas consists of cows. They collect great numbers of them, and take the best care of them, with the sole desire of possessing great herds. But, strange to say, they never kill one to eat, though they like beef well enough to eat them if they die by accident or disease. It is wonderful how attached a Dinka is to his cattle. He provides a large hospital for the sick ones, and attends them with the greatest care. If one dies he is inconsolable, much more so than if he had lost wife or child. When asked the use of so many cattle, he replies that it is enough to see them do well and look fat.

As a sign of grief, going into mourning in fact, a Dinka wears a cord around his neck, which I should think must be hard to endure, in addition to the stuff already there.

Like most savages, the Dinka thinks all disease is caused by evil spirits, and their doctors are, in fact, a sort of wizard. Their way of proceeding is exceedingly curious. It is at night, to make it more imposing. First the doctor begins with a great noise, something like the cackling of a thousand hens. This he keeps up for an hour or two, for the purpose of frightening the evil spirit supposed to be in the sick person, and compelling it to answer his questions. When it is thought to be sufficiently alarmed, the doctor commences his talk with the spirit, who meekly answers all questions, or at least appears to, for the cunning doctor is a ventriloquist, and can bring an answer out of a post if he likes. He asks the spirit his name, how long he has been in his present quarters, and why he has chosen them. When the doctor has exhausted these important questions he proceeds to pry into the family affairs of the sacred spirit, asking about his friends and family. Having thus "interviewed" the unhappy one as long as he thinks necessary, he goes to the woods for the roots which are to drive out the intruder and cure the patient.

Don't laugh at the pranks of the poor Dinka doctor. Quacks—to become known or famous—must make a great noise in Africa as well as in America, and you must remember he has positively no newspaper or fence corner in which to puff himself into fame.

But I haven't told you about the goats which climb trees. They are really Ethiopian goats, but are so fond of the young shoots of trees that they will stand upon their hind legs to reach them, and even climb into the lower branches, and hang there sprawled out in a very awkward way. A traveler tells of seeing groups of them standing around a tree on their hind legs, and looking like a party of men.—Christian Union.

"IF I ONLY HAD LEISURE."—Before complaining of want of leisure account should be made of the time wasted. Many people squander money on bad habits who never think themselves able to give a cent in charity, or lay one by for honest gain; and it is just so with wasted time. The New England Farmer brings this sort of folly home to complainers in the following fashion:

"If I had leisure I would repair that weak place in my fence," said a farmer. He had none, however, and while drinking cider with a neighbor the cows broke in and injured a prime piece of corn.

"If I had leisure," said a wheelwright last winter, "I would alter my stove-pipe, for I know it is not safe." But he did not find time, and when his shop caught fire and burned down he found time to build another.

"If I had leisure," said a mechanic, "I should have my work done in season." The man thinks his time has been all occupied, but he was not at work till after sunrise; he quit work at five o'clock, smoked a cigar after dinner, and spent two hours on the street talking nonsense with an idler.

"If I had leisure," said a merchant, "I would pay more attention to my accounts, and try and collect my bills more promptly." The chance is, my friend, if you had leisure you would probably pay less attention to the matter than you do now.

SHE PLAYS LIKE A CHRISTIAN. "I heard of two little children," said an American speaker, "a boy and a girl, who used to play a great deal together. They were both converted. One day the boy came to his mother and said:

"'Mother, I know that Emma is a Christian.'

"'What makes you think so, my child?'

"'Because, mother, she plays like a Christian.'

"'Plays like a Christian?' said the mother; the expression sounded a little odd.

"'Yes,' replied the child, 'if you take everything she's got she don't get angry. Before she was selfish, and if she didn't have everything her own way she would say: "I won't play with you! You are an ugly little boy!"'"

TERTULLIAN SAITH: "If thou endurest wrong for Christ's sake, he is a revenger; if sorrow, he is a comforter; if sickness, he is a physician; if loss, he is a restorer; if life, he is a reviver."

WHY is the end of a fish's tail like the prince imperial of France? Because it is the last of the honey-parts.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Care of Poultry in Winter.

So much has been said and written upon the care of fowls during the winter months of the year that it may seem a waste of words to discuss the question further, and yet daily cases are seen where fowls are neglected, being left to suffer for shelter, water and food during the inclement season, where, if the owner's attention were called to the case, it would in many instances be corrected; and what is now a source of dead loss would become at once an item of profit to the breeder.

Poultry will live and thrive during the summer, where an ample range is allowed them, with little or no care, in many cases hatching and raising their young with a less per cent. of loss than where supplied with all the modern conveniences; but the moment cold weather comes on and the ground freezes the case is entirely different. The supply of animal food (without which no fowls can thrive) being cut off, meat chopped fine, well sprinkled with caycune pepper, should be given; the grass and herbage being gone, cabbage and onions should supply their places; so also with lime, gravel and bone-dust. In other words, the nearer nature is followed in the winter care of poultry, the greater and more lasting will be the success and profit. In winter the prices of poultry and eggs are highest, not because it is any more difficult to produce them, but because the fowls are starved and neglected. No one is a true faucier who does not treat his fowls as well as himself.

A warm roosting-place at night is another important essential to poultry-keeping at any season. The building should be tight, free from dampness, and, above all, perfectly ventilated, which is best done by small windows low down on the ground, but in no case under the roosting-poles. The size and finish of the hennery will, of course, depend in a great degree on the means and taste of the faneier; the power of making it comfortable is within the reach of all. When the coop is sectional, and several breeds are raised, the most delicate should be placed furthest from the entrance. By following such a plan I have kept the combs of my Leghorn's perfect for several winters.

Plenty of pure, clean water should always be at hand. By warming it before pouring into the pans or dishes, freezing may be delayed some hours. Snow-water should never be given them, for where supplied in any quantity it speedily reduces the chicken to a skeleton. The reason of this I have never seen given, but the fact can be readily proved. A most excellent tonic for the drinking vessels is known as the "Douglas Mixture," and is made as follows: One-half pound sulphate of iron, one ounce sulphuric acid, dissolved in two gallons of water, and given in the drink in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a pint. By following any such simple treatment which may suggest itself to the faneier, fresh eggs and "spring chickens" may be had the year round.—Poultry Record.

German Millet.

For the benefit of those farmers who have had no experience with the German millet, I propose to give my experience for the last five years with its culture, and its merits as a paying crop and as food for stock. First, this excellent grass will grow on thin and worn fields better than any crop that I have any knowledge of. Say on poor fields, if well pulverized before the seeds are put in, it will make one ton of good hay per acre, and, in proportion to the fertility of the land, will produce up to three tons per acre, and can be seeded in the latitude of Nashville, Tennessee, as early as the fifteenth day of April, and the plants will stand as much frost as will the corn plant, and if seeded down as early as the fifteenth of April you will have good, well-matured hay from it by the first of June, or say in forty-five to fifty days from seeding. You can make two crops from the same plat of land, the same season, of this excellent hay. I should have stated that if seeded in the month of April, be sure to put it on upland, and on bottom land later in the season.

Would it not be well, now that all farmers are scarce of provender to carry their stock through the winter, to sow a small amount of this millet early, to meet the demand for hay? The writer of this, with five years experience, knows of not an objection to it as food for cattle, horses, sheep, hogs and all fowls; all eat it eagerly and thrive well from its nutritious quality. For horses and cattle I cut the hay with a machine, just as other straw is cut. The finer or shorter the cutting the better it is. By this process you can save one-half the hay from waste, and this is quite an item in times like the present, when such a great scarcity exists; and as a paying crop I have no knowledge of its equal, either to market the seed or hay. I have never, with all my experience with this crop, made a failure; sowed last season in the unprecedented drouth, in which a fair crop was the result, upon thin upland, and never have I been forced to sell any, up to this day, at less than $18 per ton; nor have I sold the seed at less than $2 per bushel, and often at a much higher figure, both for the hay and the seed.—Correspondent Rural Sun.

ALSIKE CLOVER IN THE SOUTH.—Having had several years' experience with this species of clover, I trust some of my conclusions may be of value to a portion of your readers.

Alsike produces more honey than white clover, and continues much longer in blossom. The honey is of a good quality, a little higher colored than that of the white clover, and not quite so delicate in flavor. It branches like red clover, and the same stock will often have at the same time many ripe heads, and even to the embryo bud, so that when the crop is cut for seed the straw makes a second quality of hay if well cured. Horses, cattle and sheep are fond of it for hay or grazing.

I sow about five pounds of seed to the acre, with the same quantity of timothy. It makes better hay than the red clover, though not so productive. It does best on moderately moist soil. If grown with timothy for seed, the latter should be cradled before the Alsike is cut.

In my opinion every bee-keeper should try Alsike clover for his bees. I say try, for I am not confident that it will succeed in sandy soil at the South.—E. Need, in American Bee Journal.

FLOW OF SAP.—A Mr. Phelps, of Burlington, has been studying the flow of sap from trees. One of his most interesting experiments is the following: In the time of the flow of sap, take a fresh green sapling or limb of birch, or some wood which flows sap freely, of about the diameter of the auger-hole made in tapping a maple-tree, and clear off the bark for half an inch from one end, and drive or press it into the auger-hole, so that the shoulder of the bark or the green stick will fit against the bark of the tree, as in grafting. Then set a bucket under the other extremity of the limb or sapling, which is also cut off, and sap will be found dropping from the end farthest from the tree, almost instantaneously, no matter what may be the length of the stick; and it continues to run as long as that day's run of sap continues, and as fast as through a common spout. In this way he has brought sap from different trees in the same bucket. In using a birch stick, and, testing the first which was yielded, he found it to have a birch taste, and concludes that the maple sap, when commencing to find its way through the stick, as soon as it is inserted in the tree, instantly moves the whole body of the birch sap till it is exhausted, when the maple sap runs as freely through its new medium as it did in the original tree.

NEW METHOD FOR PRESERVING MEAT.—According to Endemann, meat cut in slices and placed in a room the air of which is heated to 140°, and only allowed to enter and escape through cotton filters, becomes so dry in three hours that it can be ground, and, since the albumen and fibrin are not coagulated, it loses none of its nutritive properties.

MISCELLANEOUS.

N. D. WETMORE.
COTTON, SUGAR AND TOBACCO
FACTOR,
AND
GENERAL GRANGE AGENT,
For the Purchase and Sale of
ALL PRODUCTS OF THE SOIL
And all Articles of Manufacture.
SPECIAL AGENT FOR LOUISIANA.
No. 166 Gravier and 17 Union Street,
de17 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MILLER & DIELMANN,
50, 52 AND 54 SOUTH PETERS ST.,
(Late New Levee,)
CANDY MANUFACTURERS,
AND MANUFACTURERS OF
LEMON SUGAR AND FRUIT SIRUPS.
IMPORTERS OF CIGARS.
fe18 3m

AGENTS WANTED in every town in the South for the celebrated
WEED SEWING MACHINE.
The easiest learned, lightest running, most durable and popular Machine made. Special inducements offered. Address
WEED SEWING MACHINE CO.,
No. 207 Canal street,
fe18 6m New Orleans.

JEAN INGELOW
writes every week for HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 per year. Single copies, six cents. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

CIGAR MANUFACTORY,
311 BURGUNDY, CORNER BARRACKS ST.,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
A large assortment of Cigars on hand at all times.
DOMESTIC, HAVANA FILLED,
PURE HAVANA.
made of the best Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Leaf, imported by myself. Warranted pure.
J. M. JUSTINIANI,
fe18 13m Proprietor.

SOUTHERN METHODIST
HYMN AND TUNE-BOOK.
A collection of our own Hymns, with Notes, adapted to general worship. We have TWO EDITIONS—one in Round Notes and another in Shaped Notes.
PRICE—Single copy to any address, postpaid, 75 cents. Per dozen, $7.50. Fifty or more, to one address, at 50 cents each. Specimen numbers sent on application for 50 cents. For sale by R. J. HARP, New Orleans, or address
J. W. BURKE & CO.,
fe18 4t Macon, Ga.

FATED TO BE FREE.
Jean Ingelow's uniquely beautiful and absorbing serial story is written especially for and now appearing in HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 a year. Single number, six cents. New subscribers now get the entire story. A magnificent Steel Reproduction of some famous picture every week, free, as a supplement. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 4t

WE ARE NOW SELLING
OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF ROSEWOOD,
MAHOGANY,
WALNUT AND COTTAGE FURNITURE
at less than Manufacturers' prices, on account of retiring from business.
D. KELHAM & CO.,
fe18 2m 36 Royal street.

MONEY made rapidly with Stencil and Key-Check Outfits. Catalogues, samples and full particulars FREE. S. M. SPENCER, 117 Hanover street, Boston. au27 1y

MEDICAL.
DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S
MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.
The Perfection of Medical Science.

Dr. Warrington's Cough Melange.
☞ Pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the cure of CONSUMPTION, Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Chronic Coughs, Catarrh, Influenza, Spitting of Blood, Soreness and Tightness of the Breast and Lungs, Night Sweats and Croup. Being prepared from Herbs, Tar and Rock Candy, it is healing, softening and expectorating, and particularly suitable for the cure of all affections of the Throat and Lungs. ☞ Parents will please remember that the Cough Melange is the only sure remedy for Croup.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, per bottle, $1, or six bottles for $5.

Dr. Warrington's Analectic Oil.
THE GREAT PAIN DESTROYER.
It Cures the Worst Pain in from Three to Thirty Minutes.
THE GREATEST REMEDY IN THE WORLD for Cholera, Cramps, Diarrhea, Colic, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Scalds, Bilious Colic, Children's Colic, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Nervous Headache, Summer Complaint of Children, Cuts, Sprains and Bruises. Used internally and externally.
As a remedy for Rheumatism it has no equal.
The Analectic Oil is prepared from the most active vegetable remedies. It acts directly on the nervous system, and by restoring the nervous equilibrium it regulates the excretions and secretions of the body. It is also a powerful diffusive stimulant.
For Infants we challenge the world for its equal. It can be administered to infants one week old for Colic or Cramp. Dose, one-half drop in two drops, under three months old; and between three months and one year, two to five drops, in a teaspoonful of milk or water.

☞ REMEMBER. ☜
No preparation equals the Analectic Oil for Cholera, Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus. Try it and be convinced.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

DR. C. B. WARRINGTON'S
RENOVATING BITTERS!!
Purify the Blood.
STRENGTHEN, INVIGORATE AND RENOVATE SYSTEM.
One of the best remedies known for the speedy cure of
DYSPEPSIA,
Loss of Appetite, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Heartburn, Nausea, Fluttering of the Heart, Fainting Sensations, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Depression of Spirits or Melancholy, Water Brash, and Chronic or Nervous Debility. They are Diuretic, Tonic, Alterative and Stimulant. They perfectly eradicate all Bilious disorders arising from a foul stomach, strengthening the system and regulating the functions of the Liver.
Any one suffering with Weak Nerves, Deranged Liver, Kidney Complaint, Loss of Appetite, Fever and Ague, or any of the diseases or symptoms enumerated above, can be materially benefited and entirely cured by the use of these Bitters.
FOR FEMALES.
It is an established fact that fully one-half of the females are in bad health; or, in other words, never feel well. Many suffer with inward weakness. They feel languid, devoid of energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite. To this class the Renovating Bitters are especially recommended. Such patients should resort to the use of these Bitters, the invariable result of which will be a strong and healthy constitution, a disappearance of all nervousness, a good appetite and a perfect restoration to health.
Thousands have testified to the merits of these Bitters. I would strongly advise all suffering with the above-named complaints to try them and be convinced.
Full directions accompany each bottle. Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.

☞ Ask your druggist for either of the above medicines, and if he does not have it he will send and get it for you; or can be sent by Express to any part of the United States by addressing
C. B. WARRINGTON, M. D.,
SOLE MANUFACTURER,
56 Smithfield Street, or P. O. Box 216, Pittsburg, Pa.
New Orleans Agents—E. J. HART & CO. oc22 1y

KEARNEY'S
EXTRACT BUCHU
is the only pure and unadulterated preparation prepared by a prominent, reliable and scientific physician of thirty years' practice. A single trial will convince the most skeptical of its superiority in speedy and permanent cures of Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and all affections of the Kidneys in both sexes. The greatest Tonic and Diuretic of the age. Be sure and get
KEARNEY'S EXTRACT BUCHU.
Pleasant and agreeable in taste, and efficacious in its curative qualities.
Depot—104 Duane Street, New York.
☞ Price, $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists everywhere. au(3 1y6p

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.
A Consumptive Cured.
When death was hourly expected from CONSUMPTION, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. JAMES cured his only child with a preparation of Cannabis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of Consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels, and Wasting of the Muscles. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., giving name of this paper. oc15 13m1rm

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.
HIWASSEE COLLEGE.—SAID TO BE the best and cheapest school for boys in the Union. Patronage the past year, 137, from ten States. Under care of the Holston Conference, M. E. Church South. Founded in 1849. Seven miles from Sweetwater, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad. Send stamp for twenty-four page catalogue. Address the President,
REV. J. R. BRUNNER, A. M.,
je4 1y Hiwassee College, East Tenn.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
NO. 131 CARONDELET ST., NEW ORLEANS.
This is the only Commercial College in this city where students from the country can board in the family of the principal. Terms reduced twenty per cent. Send for circular. Address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
je18 1y New Orleans, La.

ST. DENIS HOTEL,
BROADWAY AND ELEVENTH ST.,
NEW YORK.
This well-known House, conducted on the European plan, and centrally located opposite Grace Church, and near A. T. Stewart's up-town store, has first-class accommodations at moderate prices for permanent and transient guests.
GEORGE W. HUNT, Manager,
Formerly Proprietor of Irving and Westmoreland Hotels. se3 6m

CHILLS AND FEVER CURED. Worst by using HARTWELL'S SPECIFIC. Contains no quinine. A trial box sent free to all. Address HARTWELL & CO., 1272 Broadway, N. Y. fe18 13t

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.
JOSEPH GILLOTT'S
STEEL PENS.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.
MANUFACTURERS' WAREHOUSE,
No. 91 John Street, New York.
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SON.
HENRY HOE, Sole Agent. se2 1y

THE BEST AND CHEAPEST
SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY.
GRAND CHEAP LIBRARY.
50 Choice Illustrated Volumes, 16mo, Bound in Muslin, and Not in Any Other Select Library.
This Library contains over 12,000 printed pages, illustrated by 212 large, full-page, fine Engravings, and many of the smaller size.
All the volumes in this Library are valuable and instructive. The price of the Library is $26, from which we make a discount of twenty per cent. to Sunday Schools, making the
Net Price for Fifty Large Books Only $20.80.
Sold only in Sets. Send for a complete catalogue. Books of the size of these in this Library are usually sold at from $1 to $1.25 each. Nothing like this Library has been offered for such a small sum.
PUBLISHED BY THE
American Sunday School Union,
1122 Chestnut street, Philadelphia—ALEX. KIRKPATRICK,
7, 8 and 10 Bible House, New York—C. S. SCOFIELD,
207 N. Sixth St., St. Louis—S. PAXSON. oc8 6m

HARDWARE, STOVES, ETC.
ESTABLISHED IN 1832.
A. BALDWIN, C. A. SLOCOMB, } In commendam
C. KUSTIS, A. D. SLOCOMB, }
A. BALDWIN & CO.,
SUCCESSORS TO
SLOCOMB, BALDWIN & CO.,
74 Canal, and 91, 93 and 95 Common St.,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
Foreign and Domestic Hardware
Guns, Locks, Cutlery, Nails, Steel, Iron, Castings, etc., together with COLLARS AND BRIDLES,
AND
A FULL STOCK OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS.
Agents for J. E. Carver's Guns, Coats' Roller Iron, Valentine & Butler's Safes, E. & G. Brooke's Cut Nails and Spikes, etc. fe4 3m

THE UNRIVALED

BUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVE.
Every Brilliant is Fully Guaranteed.
H. HALLER,
NO. 49 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Sole Agent for Louisiana.
Sole Agent for the
CELEBRATED RINGEN WASHER
In the States of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi. no26 1y

NEW PUBLICATIONS.
ALL BOOK AGENTS SHOULD KNOW THAT
LIVINGSTONE'S LIFE AND EXPLORATIONS
outsells any book published. The only entire life and full thirty years' thrilling adventures in the wilds of Africa of the greatest explorer the world ever knew. Profusely illustrated. One agent sold 501 copies in one month! Agents Wanted. Send for extra liberal terms; or, if in haste to begin work, send $1 for complete outfit to LIVINGSTONE PUBLISHERS, St. Louis, Mo. no2 1y

AGENTS WANTED!!
FOR THE GRANDEST BOOK EVER PUBLISHED:
YOUMAN'S DICTIONARY | OF | EVERY-DAY WANTS.
Contains 20,000 Receipts for Everything (bona fide number—beware bogus imitations.) Absolutely indispensable to ALL CLASSES, saving money daily to every buyer. Selling faster than any other three books combined! 16-page circular and extra terms free. Address F. A. HUTCHINSON & CO., St. Louis, Mo no12 1y

BOOK AGENTS WANTED to sell the NEW BOOK TELL IT ALL
By Mrs. Stenhouse, of Salt Lake City, for 25 years the wife of a Mormon High Priest. Introduction by Mrs. Stowe. The story of a woman's experience lays bare the "hidden life," mysterious, secret doings, etc., of the Mormons as a "wide-awake woman sees them." Bright, Pure, and Good, it is the best new book out, actually overflowing with good things for all. It is popular everywhere, with every body, and outsells all other books three to one. Ministers say "God speed it." Eminent women endorse it. Everybody wants it, and agents are selling from 10 to 20 a day! 25th thousand now in press! We want 5,000 more trusty agents NOW—men or women—and we will mail OUTFIT FREE to those who will canvass. Large pamphlets with full particulars, terms, etc., sent free to all. Address, QUEEN CITY PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, O. Or EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. fe11 6y

AGENTS WANTED FOR
THE LIFE OF JESUS,
For Young People.
A WORK presenting Christ to the young in a more interesting and attractive manner than has ever before been done. Agents always succeed with it, because parents will have it for their children. Contains 450 quarto pages, with 50 full-page Engravings. For territory address
H. S. GOODSPEED & CO.,
se24 13m Publishers, 14 Barclay St., New York.

THRILLING STORIES,
brilliant miscellaneous features, and pictorial embellishments unequaled every week in HEARTH AND HOME, the great illustrated weekly magazine. Price reduced to only $2.50 a year. Single copies, six cents. At news stands, or by mail, postage paid. Great inducements to agents and clubs. THE GRAPHIC COMPANY, Publishers, 39-41 Park Place, New York. fe18 2t

SOUTHERN DEPOT
DIEBOLD, NORRIS & CO.'S SAFES,
27 CANAL ST., NEW ORLEANS.
A large assortment of these celebrated Safes on hand at the most reasonable figures. Second-hand Safes of all manufacturers for sale at very low prices. Safes exchanged, removed and repaired at greatly reduced rates.
JOHN W. NORRIS,
fe18 2m 27 Canal street, New Orleans.

A. BOITEL,
WATCHMAKER,
58.....ROYAL STREET.....58
Bet. Bienville and Conti Sts., New Orleans.
Watches and Jewelry neatly repaired. Ja21 13m

WE WANT an Agent in every County in the U. S., at $100 per Month the Year round. Address H. L. SHEPARD & CO., 301 North Sixth street, St. Louis, Mo. ju14 3m

Scientific.

PROF. E. S. MORSE SAYS: "Only the female spiders spin webs. They own all the real estate, and the males have to live a vagabond life under stones and in other obscure hiding-places. If they come about the house so often as to bore the ruling sex, they are mercilessly killed and eaten. The spider's skin is as unyielding as the shells of lobsters and crabs, and is shed from time to time in the same way to accommodate the animal's growth. If you poke over the rubbish in a female spider's back yard, among her cast-off corsets, you will find the jackets of the males, who have paid for their sociality with their lives—trophies of her barbarism as truly as scalps show the savage nature of the red man."

